Occasion when, or whereupon David wrote it, is not particularly described. Some refer it to the time of Absalom's rebellion, and that Achitophel is the person here principally cursed and devoted to misery and destruction. Others rather refer it to the time of Sauls persecution of David, when through the perfidious flatteries, malicious lies, slanders, &c. of Sauls Courtiers, Servants, &c. Doeg the Edomite and others (See 1 Sam. 21. and 22. and 23. &c.) David was brought oft-times into desperate straits, and perils of his life d. Nevertheless David in this Psalme so represents his sad afflicted condition by reason of his enemies, and by the inspiration of the Spirit of God thundereth out many terrible curses against them (like whereunto we scarce read in the whole Scriptures;) As that therein, He (as a Type of Jesus Christ and of his persecuted Body Mystical and Members,) Prophetically foretels and denounceth the woful curses and wrath of God that should fall upon Judas for betraying Christ, and the Jewes for persecuting and destroying him (Compare Psal. 109. 8. with Acts 1. 20.) as also the cursed condition which at last shall befall all the malicious, lying, slandering, reproaching, and persecuting enemies of the Church and Members of Jesus Christ e. And therefore, as David here flies to God, in midst of all the injuries, false-accusations, &c. heaped upon him by his enemies; knowing that God would fully protect him, and avenge him of them at last: So should we in all like cases make God our Refuge, knowing by these Prophetical Imprecations indited by the Spirit of God, that at last all the bitter, malicious, implacable enemies of Christ, his Church, and his Members shall utterly be destroyed.

Augustine also thinks this Psalme is not to be limited to Judas, but to be extended as a Prophecy against all like wicked enemies of Christ, &c.——— Sed si de illo uno homine omnia quæ hic in malo dicta sunt intelligere conemur, Expositionis ratio non omni modo, aut vix valebit occurrere. Sect. IV. The Scope.

Davids Scope intended in this Psalme, is; 1. Immediately, To pray unto the LORD, for his Protection and Defence against his malicious, deceitful, slanderous and wicked enemies, and to imprecate his just revenge upon them; 2. Mediately, To foretell the malicious, falsehearted, and wicked practises of the Jewes and Judas against Christ, and of other ungodly persecutors against the Mystical Body and Members of Christ, for Christs sake; and to foreprophecy the woful and cursed end of all such at last as was the portion of Judas and the Jewes, Act. 1. 16. to 21. 1 Thes. 2. 14, 15, 16. That so the persecuted people of God may not be too much dismayed at the practises of their persecutors, seeing God in due time will take vengeance of all their adversaries.

Sect. V. The Analysis, or Principal Parts.

The Title expresseth, 1. The Denomination of it, A Psalme. 2. The Penman of it: David. 3. The Direction of it, as to the Musick———.

The Psalme it self hath in it chiefly foue Principal Branches, viz.———

1. An Exordium; wherein flying to God for relief he sadly complaineth of his enemies. Herein are, I. His request to God more Generally and Comprehensively expressed. Where note, 1. The Description of God; O God of my praise, i. e. whom I have cause to praise, for taking my part against mine adversaries 2. The Mercie which he begs of this God; That God would not be still, or silent in midst of all his sufferings from his Adversaries, ver. 1. II. The Arguments whereby he urged this his Request, are drawn from the vile Dispositions and Deportments of his Adversaries, 1. Being wicked and deceitful. 2. Calumniating him, Impudently. 3. Belying him falsly, ver. 4. Compassing him about with words of Hatred, maliciously. 5. Fighting against him, causelessly, ver. 3. 6, Recompensing him most ingratefully, with Enmity for his Amity and Piety, ver. 4. with Evil for Good, with hatred for love, ver. 5.

II. A Dreadful Imprecation or cursing of these his enemies, especially of some notorious one amongst them under which, the Spirit of God Prophetically cursed the Jewes and Judas, Christs enemies, and all other enemies of his Church and people, ver. 6. to 21. Herein are,

1. The Imprecations themselves. Wherein by the guidance of Gods Spirit, (which we by our private spirit may not lawfully imitate) he prayes for mischief and evil, 1. Upon his enemies person, viz: (1) That he may be vexed and oppressed, by a wicked man, yea by Satan f, ver. 6. (2) That he may be condemned by man, yea by God also, ver. 7. (3) That his dayes may be few. (4) That another may take his Office, ver. 8. this is peculiarly applyed to Judas whose Office Matthias took, Act. 1. 16. to 21. 2 Upon his Wife and Children after his death, (1) That she may be a Widow. (2) That they may be Orphans, ver. 9. (3) That his Children may be Vagabond Beggars, his outward goods being wholly lost and spoiled, ver. 10, 11. (4) That his Fatherless Children may be unpitied, ver. 12. 3. Upon his whole Family, that it may be totally extirpated, and the memory of it utterly obliterated, ver. 13, 14, 15.

f Hoc utique meruit super se habeat Diabolum, i.e. Diabolo subditus sit, quia Christo subditus esse noluit. Aug. Enar. in Ps. 108. 8. Tom. 8.

2. The Reason of these Dismal Imprecations; viz. 1. His enemies mercilesnesse. 2. His cruel persecution of the poor and needy and broken in heart, to slay him, ver. 16. 3. His not loving blessing; but cursing, and even clothing himself with it: Therefore it is most equal it should be done to him, as he would have done to others, ver. 17, 18, 19.

3. The close of the Imprecations, Sealing up all these Curses upon his Adversaries, ver. 20.

III. An earnest Prayer contrariwise for himself, ver. 21. to 30. Wherein note, The particular blessings begged of God for himself. viz.

1. That God would do well with him, and deliver him. This he urgeth by many Arguments: As 1. For Gods Name's-sake. 2. Because his loving kindness is good, ver. 21. 3. Because his danger and distress is very much and great. This is Elegantly set down in an heap of particular Instances, ver. 22. to 26.

2. That God would help and save him according to his loving-kindnesse, ver. 26. This is urged from the end he had herein, viz. That his enemies might know the LORD had done it, ver. 27.

3. That God would deal with him in a way contrary to the dealings of his Adversaries, viz. Blessing him, when they Curse him. Making him rejoyce, but clothing them with ignominy, shame, and confusion when they rise up against him, verse 28, 29.

IV. A Conclusion, wherein, 1. David promiseth vehemently to Confess unto the LORD, yea, to praise him in the midst of the multitude, ver. 30. 2. He gives the Reason of this his Promise, viz. His assurance of Gods Protection of him, against these wicked Judges of his Soul, ver. 31.

Sect. III. The Kinde, Penman, and Occasion.

This short Psalme, short in number of words, Large in weight of Sentences (as Augustine k hath it) as to the Outward Form of it, is an Entituled Psalme l. As to the Subject-matter of it, it is a Prophetical Psalme, as many others are m. This is an Eminent Prophecy of the Person and Office of Christ, Matth. 22. 43, 44, 45. and so Eminent, that I think it will be very hard to find so clear and compleat a Prophecy thereof, in so few words; in all the Old Testament. The observation of D. Edw. Reynolds (whom for Honours sake I here mention, having ever since I knew him in Oxford had an high esteem of his singular Piety, Integrity, and great Learning) upon this Psalme, hath greatly pleased me, saying; This Psalme is one of the clearest and most Compendious Prophecyes of the Person and Offices of Christ in the whole Old Testament, and so full of Fundamental Truth, that I shall not shun to call it Symbolum Davidicum, The Prophet Davids Creed. And indeed there are very few, if any, of the Articles of that Creed, which we all generally professe, which are not either plainly expressed, or by most evident implication couched in this Model. Ai. 110. at the beginning. p. 3, 4. Nulla autem extat concio ab hris veteris Testamenti, quæ tantâ brevitate, tam luculenter & tanto Orationis splendore eam Promissionem (viz. de Christo) evolvat, & majores res amplectatur. *Hen. 15. Life everlaſting, in ver. 4. Implyed in his everlaſting Prieſthood. Hence the Apoſtle inferreth the perfection, certainty, and perpetuity of our Salvation, from Chriſts living ever, and ſitting at Gods right-hand, Rom. 6, 8, 11. and 8. 17. Eph. 2. 6. Col. 3. 1, 2, 3, 4. 1 Cor. 15. 49. Phil. 3. 20. 21. 1 Theſ. 4. 14. Heb. 7. 25. 1 Joh. 3. 2.

By all this its moſt conſpicuous, that this Pſalme, as to the Subject-Matter of it, is wonderful Precious and Excellent.

Penman of it, was not Eliezar ſervant of Abraham o, but David as the Title expreſſeth, and Chriſt confirms: The Holy Ghoſt Inditing it, Mark, 12. 36.

Occaſion of Davids Penning it, is not evident particularly. Some think, that David (as a Type of Chriſt) being commanded to fight the Lords Battels, and ſubdue his enemies, 2 Sam. 7, 1. &c. wrote this Pſalme, Prophecying of Chriſts Conqueſts p, whether that be ſo, or no, I ſhall not determine. But this I ſay, This Pſalme ſo peculiarly agrees to Chriſt, as Chriſt himſelf hath taught us, Matth. 22. 43, 44, 45. Mark, 12. 36, 37. Luke 20. 41, 42, 43, 44. That it cannot be interpreted of any other. And therefore the later Jewes, or others, who would interpret it of Abraham, or of David, or of King Hezekiah are willfully and ſottiſhly blind: in the judgement of learned Interpreters q.

Sect. IV. The Scope.

The Scope intended in this Prophetical Pſalme, is; To foretell (for the ſingular ſupport of David, of his Family, and of the Church of God in and after his dayes) The Supreme and Univerſal Kingdom of the Meſſiah, that ſhould deſcend of him according to the fleſh: His Eternal and unchangeable Prieſthood after the Order of Melchzedich: The wonderful Effects of both, upon his Subjects, and upon all his enemies: And the States or way wherein Chriſt ſhould act and effect all this, viz. His deep Humiliation and Paſſion, and his glorious Exaltation. As the ſeries of the Pſalme moſt clearly evinceth.

Sect. V. The Analyſis, or Principal Parts.

In the Title are ſet forth, 1. The Denomination of it; A Pſalme. 2. The Penman of it, David.

In the Pſalme it ſelf is laid down a Compendious Prophecy of CHRIST: 1. Kingdom. 2. Prieſthood. 3. The Effects thereof. 4. And his Humiliation and Exaltation, wherein he acted thoſe Offices to the producing of ſuch Effects.

1. Of CHRIST's Kingdom. This is Prophetically foretold, deſcribed, and magnified, 1. By his Divine Ordination, Appointment, Unction or Obſignation to it, The LORD ſaid Heb. ——— ſolemnly ſaid. Denoting the verity and certainty of Gods Saying, of the Fathers Word or Decree 2. By the Eminency of the Perſon of this King: (1) Moſt Great in himſelf; LORD. (2) Moſt nearely allyed in blood and nature to David, and to mankind; My Lord. 3. By the Glory, power, and Heavenly excellency of this his Kingdom. In the Adminiſtration whereof he ſits at Gods right-hand; Sit thou at my Right-hand. 4. By the compleat victoriouſneſs thereof, And 5. By the Continuance of it, till all his enemyes be utterly Conquered, untill I put thine Enemies the footſtoole for thy feet, verſ. 1. compare herewith, 1 Cor. 15. 24, 25 26. 6. By certain Principal Regalities of Chriſt, viz. (1) His Scepter. viz. His Goſpel-word, animated by the Power of his Holy Spirit, and accompanied with the influence of the Fathers Authority and bleſſing, who ſendeth it abroad into the world; The Lord ſhall ſend the Rod of thy ſtrength out of Sion, The Word came out of Sion, Micah. 4. 2. and the Spirit out of Sion and Jeruſalem, Act. 2. 4. and 2. 17. This his Scepter is illuſtrated by the Adjunct Power of it; The Rod of thy ſtrength; and deſervedly. For, The Word and Goſpel is the Power of Chriſt, Rom. 1. 16. 2 Cor. 4. 7. and 10. 4. The Spirit alſo, is the Power of Chriſt, 1 Cor. 2. 4. 2 Tim. 1. 7. hence ſtiled the finger, and Arme of the LORD, Luk. 11. 20. Matth. 12. 28. Iſai. 53. 1. His Scepter then is his Word and Spirit. (2) His Throne, whence this his Scepter is extended, is Sion, The Church of the Jewes; out of Sion. Sion was the Metropolitical-Church, the Mother-Church of all Churches. The Word was ſent thence to all the Gentiles: (3) His Government, is ſafe, ſecure, undiſturbed, victorious Government, notwithſtanding all his enemies round about; Rule thou in the midſt of thine enemies, verſ. 2. 7. By the many Subjects of Chriſts Kingdome, recovered by his Scepter, maugre all his enemies malice. Touching theſe his Subjects here are fore-prophecied, (1) Their Relation to Chriſt, and his proper intereſt in them; Thy People. (2) Their willing, free, and ready Diſpoſition or Inclination unto Chriſt and his Service, they as Voluntiers expreſſing their Univerſal ſubjection, Self-reſignation, and Devotedneſs unto him; ſhall be willing. This their willing-diſpoſition is illuſtrated by the Cauſes thereof, viz. The Power of Chriſts Spirit and Grace upon them in Revealing his Goſpel unto them; In the day of thy Power. (3) Their honourable attire, or beautifull military robes wherein they are Voluntiers, appeare before him and attend upon him; In the Beauties of Holineſs. viz. Either in the comely-honours of the Sanctuary, that is, the comely places of the Sanctuary, The Church, as Pſal. 29. 2. Or rather in the beautifull-Ornaments of Holineſs, the various and manifold Graces of Chriſt as a Garment of divers colours r. As the Prieſts were adorned with Garments for beauty and Glory, Exod. 28. 2, 40. Iſai. 52. 1. Revel. 19. 8. & 14. to him out of the womb of the morning, (as Dew is generated, not on earth, but in the Aire,) by an Heavenly Calling, and by the shining of the Morning-Starre and day-spring from on high upon their Hearts, 1 Thess. 5. 5. verse 3.

II. Of CHRIST's Priesthood, by the merit whereof he purchased that kingdom to himself. This is Prophetically described, 1. By the Foundation of his Priesthood, viz. (1) Partly, Gods sacred Oath; The Lord hath sworn, (2) Partly, Gods Immutability of Counsel herein; and will not repent. Hence, the Apostle infers, That Jesus was made Surety of a better Testament, Heb. 7. 20, 21, 22. 2. By the Nature or Quality of his Priesthood: not a temporall, but an Eternal Priesthood; Thou art a Priest for ever. Hence again the Apostle infers; But this man, because he continueth ever, hath an unchangeable Priesthood, &c. Heb. 7. 24, 25. 3. By the Order of it. Not Aaron's, but Melchizedeck's; after the order of Melchizedeck, ver. 4.

III. Of the Effect of Christs Kingdom and Priesthood powerfully Administred, viz. His Conquest of all his enemies, though never so potent or Numerous. This Conquest of Christ is here prophetically described in such manner as if it were done already, to denote the certainty of it. In this description of his victories note, 1. The Person Conquering, The Lord. 2. The Place where he shall be, when he shall obtain his Conquests; At thy right hand. This is an Apostrophe or elegant turning of the speech: and it may be spoken, either To God the Father, at whose Right hand Christ sits, ver. 1. Or, To the Church and people of God, at whose right hand Christ stands, for their Protection, Defence, &c. as Psl. 109. 31. and 116. 8. Isai. 41. 13. 3. The season or Time when Christ shall execute his judgements upon, and obtain Victories over his enemies. In the day of his wrath, viz. When the full and set time of his wrath shall become, and when his Enemies are fully ripe for his judgements. 4. The Powerful and victorious Acts which he shall exert or put forth against and upon his Enemies, viz. Wounding them, or imbrewing them in blood, or making them gore-bloody, or striking them through, the same Heb. word is here used twice, which notes a compleat Victory, or full confusion of the Enemy. (2) Judgeing them. Not with Government, as Deut. 32. 36. But with Punishment, as Gen. 15. 14. He shall execute Judgment of condemnation upon them. 5. The Objects of this his victorious vengeance, his various Enemies, viz. (1) Kings, viz. His most Potent and mighty Enemies, whether Spiritual, or Carnal. Satan, World, &c. (2) Heathens, viz. The multitude of his contumacious Enemies among the Gentiles, rebelling against his Gospel: as Gog and Magog, Ezek. 39. Rev. 20. 7, 8. 9. (3) The Head over a great land, or Country. That is, Either the Principal of his enemies every where. Or, Satan, the God of this World, The Prince of the power of the air, that ruleth in the Children of disobedience, 2 Cor. 4. 4. Ephes. 2. 2. Or, Antichrist, the Head of Nations, the chief of Christs Enemies, Revel. 13. 7, 8. and 14. 8. and 17. 15. 18. Whom the Lord shall consume with the Spirit of his mouth, 2 Thes. 2. 3. 8. and take him, and cast him alive into the Lake of fire, Revel. 19. 20. &c. 6. The greatness and speedines of these victories of Christ, over all his enemies; He shall fill (viz. all places) with dead bodies. That is, Christs victories shall be so Universal and speedy, That the enemy shall either have none left, or shall not have ability or leisure to bury their dead Corpses, ver. 5, 6.

t The time when Christ will execute wrath upon his and his Churches Enemies, is called the year of Recompenses for controversie of Sion, Isai. 34. 8 The time to have mercy upon Sion, Jer. 30. 18 The set time Psal. 102. 13. Christ hath a day of which a prefixed and continued time which he will be avenged of the greatest and most numerous of his Enemies. Now this time is bounded by these considerations.

1. When the sins of his Enemies are grown ripe, and their hearts most proud and insolent against God and his People, Psl. 119. 126. Gen. 15. 16. Jer. 51. 13. Joel 3. 13. Isa. 33. 8. 11. sins ripeness & fulness is evident, 1. By the Universality of it; when an whole Land is filled with it, that there are none to intercede or stand in the Gap. Jer. 33. 16, 11. Ezek. 1. 17. Jer. 3. 3. and 6. 15. 48. 4. Ezek. 22. 25. to the end. 2. By the Impudence. When sin is most bold and outragious, without fear or restraint, breaking all Bonds, and like a raging Sea overflowing the Banks, Isai. 5. 9. Rom. 1. 24. 26. Isa. 69. 27. 3. By the stiffnacy of it. When sin is stubborn and incorrigible, and obstinately rejected, &c. 2 Chron. 36. 16.

2. When Gods people are throughly humbled and prepared by their Enemies afflictions, Isa. 10. 12. and 27. 7. when God will judge his Enemies and deliver his people, he stirs up powerfully their hearts to pray for it; Psal. 102. 16, 17. Dan. 9. 2. but when he will destroy a people, he suffers not his Saints to pray, Jer. 14. 11.

Sect. III. The Kind, Penman, and Occasion of this Psalm.

Here begins (as some l think) הלל הגדול Halelu-jah Magnum, The Jews GREAT HALELU-JAH, or GREAT HYMNE, Containing these eight Eucharistical Psalms, viz. Ps. 111, 112, 113, 114, 115, 116, 117. and 118. In the Hebrew, three of these begin with Halelu-jah, viz. 111. 112, 113. one both begins and ends with Halelu-jah, viz. 113. Three end with Hulelu-jah, viz. Psal. 115. 116. 117. The other two, viz. Ps. 14. and 118. neither begins nor ends with Halelu-jah. But in the Greek Version of the Lxxii Ἀλληλούϊα, Halelujah, is prefixed to all these eight Psalmes. Some others m. suppose this GREAT Halelu-jah contained only six of these Eucharistical Psalmes, beginning at Ps. 113. &c. But I should rather incline to the former Opinion: 1. Partly, because the Subject matter of all these eight Psalmes is Eucharistical, the Matter of the Psalmes foregoing and following being of different Nature and Matter. 2. Partly, because, as to the outward Form of Penning these six Psalmes, all these except two (whereof there is no doubt but they were part of the GREAT HALELU-JAH, viz. Psal. 114. and 118.) begin, or end, or both begin and end, with Halelu-jah. 3. Partly, because these eight Psalmes were very suitable to the Jews design of giving thanks to God in their three Solemn Feasts, wherein all their Males were obliged to appear before the LORD with their Gifts, viz. The Feast of Unleavened Bread, of Weeks, and of Tabernacles, Deut. 16. 16, 17. Exod. 23. 14. to 18. At the Feast of Unleavened Bread, they were thankfully to remember their Redemption out of Ægypt: At the Feast of Weeks, or Pentecost, The giving of the Law, when a tribute or first-fruits was thankfully to be presented to God, Deut. 16. 10, 11. At the Feast of Tabernacles or In-gathering, they were to bless God for compleating their Harvest, &c. Now in these three principal Feasts and in the New-Moons the Jewes were wont to sing this GREAT HALELU-JAH with greater Solemnity then all the rest of the Psalmes. Moreover in the night of the Passeove. when the Paschal-Lamb was eaten, after the eating thereof sitting down at the Table, they Solemnly did sing this HYMNE. And this is thought to be the Hymn which our blessed Saviour and his Apostles sung after his last Passeover, and after the Institution of the LORDs SUPPER, Matth. 26. 30. As I have formerly touched in my Preface before these Psalmes, Sect. VIII. Thes. 2. And some are of Opinion n, That this Psalm, and these seven that follow, were written by David purposely, that therewith the Jewish people, in their Solemn Assemblies (See Ps. 113. & 116. 18, 19. & 118. 19, 20.) might thankfully praise the LORD, especially in their three Solemn Feasts, for eminent Mercies received from the LORD, as their redemption from Egypt, preservation in the Wilderness, Introduction into Canaan, &c.

n Videtur hic Psalmus & aliquot sequentes in hunc usum conscripti esse à Davide, ut in publicis & sollennibus Festis, quando populus universus Hierosolymam conveniebat, de canterentur: præcipuè verò in Festo Paschalos ad esum Agni Paschalis hic Psalmus accommodatus est. Erant enim tria apud Judæos solennia Festa divinitus instituta, ut memoria beneficiorum Divinorum, quæ populo Judaico exhibita erant, quotannis renovaretur, & Deo pro his publicè gratiæ agerentur, &c. Hen. Molleri in Argum. Psal. 111.

This Psalm 111. As to the outward Form of it, is an Untituled Psalm o, without any Hebrew Title prefixed, besides Halelu-jah. It is also An Alphabetical Psalm, every Sentence beginning with a distinct Letter of the Hebrew-Alphabet: There being two Letters in every verse beginning the Sentence, as א and ב in verse 1. ג and ד in v. 2, &c. except in the two last verses, wherein are three Sentences and three Letters beginning them in each. Which two last verses thinks Calvin might, agreeably enough to the Matter, have been divided into three verses: and so the Alphabet had been expressed exactly p. But Muis his Notion (if not too dilute) is, That the two last verses were purposely thus ordered, with three Sentences and three initial Letters in each, that to there might be but just ten verses, according to the number of the ten Commandements, ten being a perfect number: otherwise there had been eleven verses. The like also is done in the next Psalm q. But another is of opinion that both the Alphabet in this Psalm, and the ordering of the two last verses, import some singular excellency in the Musick in this Psalm, and so in the next, if we could possibly find it out r. The Alphabet is more exactly placed upon this Psalm then upon any of the former Alphabetical Psalmes, viz. 25. 34. 37. (as is obvious to him that will compare this with them:) whence Hieronie counts [Hieronym. in Comment. ad Psal. 110. Tom. 8.] equum this the first Alphabetical Psalm? The Alphabet seems intended rather as an help to the Memory, than to the Matter. The Alphabetical Psalmes being among the rest more Choice and Eminent, as rich Diamonds in a Jewel, &c. As to the Subject-Matter, This Psalme is Exhortatory and Gratulatory; in respect of Gods many Eminent Works toward's man, towards Israel, giving thanks to him and praising him.

Penman of it probably was David.

Occasion whereupon, or time when it was penned, is not particularly evident.

Sect. IV. The Scope.

The Scope intended in this Psalme, is; To celebrate the LORD with due Praises for his most Excellent Glorious and Gracious Works, manifested especially to his own people Israel, in Egypt, the Wilderness, and Canaan.

Sect. V. The Analysis, or Principal Parts.

This Eucharistical Psalme contains

I. An Exhortation of all Gods people to praise the Lord; Halelu-jah, Praise-ye-JAH, ver. 1. begin. This Exhortation is urged by the Psalmists own Example propounded herein for their encouragement and imitation. In which example are set forth 1. The object of his praise; JEHOVAH. 2. The Act of his praise resolved upon; I will confess †———. 3. The Manner of it; with the whole heart. 4. The solemnity of it in respect of place; In Counsel of the righteous and in the Assembly, viz. for the Churches edifying, ver. 1.

† Non semper peccatorum confessio est: Sed & laus Dei devotione confessionis exprimitur. Illa luget: hæc gaudet. Illa medico vulnus ostendit, hæc de sanitate gratias agit. Aug. Enar. in Psal. 110. Tom. 8.

II. A Narration of the Arguments or Causes, why the Lord is thus to be celebrated by himself and others, viz. These are the Matter and Grounds of Gods Praises, u Hen. Molter. in Com. ad Psal. 11. 2. X Sought out] that is, regarded and cared for; So Isa. 62. 12. a City sought-out, that is, cared for, as Deut. 11. 12. Or, Sought-out] that is, found, or manifested unto, as Isai. 65. 1. Compared with Rom. 10, 20. Or, Sought] that is, worthy to be sought. As, Praised, Psal. 18. 4. for praise-worthy. Of all that delight] or, for all their delights, that is, The delights and pleasures of Gods works are such, as they are worthy to be sought into. The Original may bear either sence. H. Ainsworth Annot. on Ps. 111. 2.

1. The Supereminent Excellency of the LORD's Works, in General, viz. His Works of Creation, and Providence u. These are illustrated by sundry Adjuncts. As 1. Their Greatness. 2. Their desireableness, for all their delights, Or, of all that delight therein. The Hebrew may bear both Interpretations. Sought out X, ver. 2. 3. Their Glorious Majesty, and Honourable-dignity. 4. Gods constant and perpetual Justice in them, ver. 3.

2. The singular worthiness of his Works in particular, towards his people Israel, viz. I. In bringing them out of Egypt by his most Memorable Marvels, or Wonders. This is illustrated by the Impulsive Cause thereof, viz. The Lords 1. Graciousness. 2. Pittifulness towards his People there oppressed, ver. 4. II. In providing for them, and sustaining them afterwards with all Necessaries in the Wilderness. He hath given a Prey to his Fearers. The word may be rendered A Prey, A Portion, Meat, &c. and so Interpreters abound in their own sence; Some refer it, To the Paschal-Lamb, Manna, &c. Some to the Spoiles of the Egyptians, and of other Enemies conquered in the Wilderness, which Israel carried away as a Prey. I see no inconvenience in taking the word comprehensively, as implying all the Provisions, Portions, and Supplies which God vouchsafed Israel from Egypt till they come to Canaan. This is Amplified, 1. By the Object of this his Goodness, viz. His Fearers. To them peculiarly; and to others (though wicked) among them, for their sakes. 2. By the reason of it: His Constancy in his Covenant to Abraham's Seed, and Israels Posterity, ver. 5. III. In bringing them into the Land of Canaan, and giving them the Inheritance of the Heathens. This is Amplified, 1, By the mighty power of his Acts therein shewed to Israel, ver. 6. 2. By his Truth and Judgment in these Acts. 3. By the Faithfulness, Firmness, Truth and Righteousness of all his Precepts, especially shining forth in these his Dispensations, ver. 7, 8. IV. In Redeeming his people, even after they came into Canaan, often from their Enemies, and distresses. This is illustrated, 1. By the cause hereof; His constant fidelity in his Covenant: especially, his Covenant of the Commandements, which he had commanded at Mount Sinai. 2. By the Description of him and his Name, who hath done these great things for his People. It is he, whose Name is Holy and Fearful: and therefore most devoutly to be sanctified, Feared, and Reverenced, for all his works and wayes, ver. 9.

III. The Conclusion of the Psalme. Containing three Propositions, viz. 1. The feare of the LORD is the beginning of Wisdome. Thus Gods feare hinted in the ninth verse is magnified. 2. A good prudency or understanding have they that do them, viz. Gods Covenants and Commandements. Thus the Fear of the LORD is expounded: It stands in worshipping God according to his Comandements, and doing them. 3. The Praise of the LORD is perpetual: Thus the intent of this Psalme is attained, in proclaiming Gods magnifical and eternal Praise, Some referre this praise, to him that feareth God and keepeth his Commandements: which hath a Truth in it, but seems not here so fitly applyed, ver. 10.

Psalm CXII.

Sect. I. The Summary Contents.

An Exhortation to Praise the LORD, for his Goodness to the godly man. 1. This godly man is described, ver. 1. 2. His happiness is declared and praised in many particulars, ver. 2. to 10. 3. His felicity is illustrated by the contrary unhappiness of the Wicked, Envying at his prosperity, and his desire perishing, v. 10.

℟. Of wicked-ones the curs'd desire
Shall-perish quite away.

Sect. III. The Kinde, Penman, and Occasion.

This Psalme, as to the Subject-Matter of it, is Eucharistical; Exhorting to the Praises of God, as the first word, Halelu-jah, imports. It is the Second Psalme in the Jewes GREAT HALELU-JAH, or GREAT HYMNE. As in the former Psalme the LORD is praised, for bringing Israel out of Egypt, sustaining them in the Wilderness, bringing them into the Land of Canaan, and often Redeeming them there, &c. So in this Psalm the Lord is praised for his blessings bestowed upon the Godly, whereby he makes them an happy people. In the former Psalme, is set forth Gods Goodness and Faithfulness to Israel according to his Covenant with Abraham, &c. In this, The happinesse of Israel by fearing this God and keeping his Commandements delightfully, as Gods Covenant engaged them. As to the outward Form of it, it is untituled: unless the first word Halelu-jah may be accounted a kind of prefixed Title. It is also an Alphabetical Psalme, ordered in the same manner exactly as the former in all the ten verses n. And it seems (in the judgment of some) to be nothing else but an Exegesis of the last verse of the foregoing Psalme; The fear of the LORD, &c. The beginning of this Psalme so plainly answering to that verse. It being expounded in this Psalme, How happy that man is that feareth the LORD, and keepeth his Commandements.

n See Pf. 111. Sect. 3.

The Penman of this Psalme is not here or elsewhere discovered: but David most probably is thought to be the instrumental Author of it.

The Occasion of David's writing it, is not particularly notified: but in the General it is conjectured, that the former Psalms, with this and those that follow, were penned by David to be sung in the Temple, when the people met there at the three solemn Feasts especially, in memory of Gods delivering Israel from Egypt, &c. as in Psal. 113, 114. and of many other his mercies; as in Psal. 112, 113, 115, 116, 117, 118.

o Hic Psalmum——nihil videtur esse aliud, quàm exegesis postremi versus illius Psalmi, Initium sapientiæ timor Domini, &c. id quod dico propter hujus Psalmi initium, quod ad illum versum plane respondet. Expositus is hoc est Psalmo, quam ille beatus homo, qui Deum reverentur, ejusque mandata summa voluntate colit. Brandis Mole in Arg. Psal. 112. In his porro apparet manifesta quædam connexio inter istum Psalmum & antecedentem. Ibi enim in fine, Reverentia Dei, & Obedientia Christiana: hic autem felicitas prædicatur eorum qui Deum reverentur, & voluntatem ejus observant. Ità ut iste Psalmus sit illius veritatis probatio ac illustratio. G. Amef. LeBlon, in Psal. 112. in Analyf.

p Hen Moller in Arg. Pf. 111.

Sect. IV. The Scope.

The Scope intended in this Psalme, is; To excite men unto the Praises of God, for his manifold goodness unto those that fear God, and delight greatly in the keeping of his Commandements, whereby he makes them exceeding happy in this present life, to the envy, pining-away, and utter disappointment of wicked men beholding their prosperity.

Sect. V. The Analysis, or Principal Parts.

In this Psalme are

I. An Exhortation to Praise the LORD; Halelujah.

II. The Argument or Subject-Matter of this Praising the LORD, which is drawn from the eminent Happiness of the Godly, even in this present life, ver. 1. &c. Now here,

1. The truly godly man (to whom this happiness belong) is Described: viz. 1. By his fearing of the LORD. 2. By his delighting in his Commandements, viz. to do them. Which Delight is amplified by the eminent degree of it; vehemently, v. 1.

2. The Happiness of this godly man, asserted so emphatically, v. 1. O the happiness of the man fearing the LORD, &c. is Declared, by an induction of Gods many Blessings performed or promised to the godly; (godliness having the Promise of the life that now is, and of that which is to come, 1 Tim. 4. 8. 2 Cor. 1. 20. Matth. 6. 33.) These promised blessings are, 1. The mightiness of his Seed on Earth, and of the Generation of the upright; through divine blessing, v. 2. 3. His sufficient-wealth and riches in his house: through the constancy of his righteousness, v. 3. 4. His light of comfort, joy, prosperity, &c. arising to him in darkness of discomfort, grief, adversity, &c. &c. And this through Gods Graciousnesse, Compassionateness, and Justice q, v. 4. 5. His ability and willing inclination to exercise Humanity, in acts of kindnesse and lending: prudently managing all his affaires with judgment, v. 5. 6. His constant and unmoved stability in all perils and temptations: He still remaining to everlasting memory, ver. 6. 7. His unshaken courage and comfort against all inordinate fears, through any Hear-say, evil tidings or rumours. This is illustrated, (1) Partly, by the Cause thereof; viz. His trust or affiance in the LORD fixing his heart, v. 7. (2) Partly, by the event of his hearts establishment against such fears, viz. At last his seeing his desire upon his Distressers, after his faithful waiting on God, ver. 8. 8. His great liberality

q [Gracious] This may be understood of God, thus: From him that is gracious &c. as Pf. 111. 4. Or of the godly man, that he is gracious &c. as the next verse sheweth. Or of the Light, that it is gracious, &c. meaning it of God, who is our Light, as Psal. 27. 1. H. Ainsw. Annot. in Pf. 112. 4.

lity and bounty to the poor. Amplified by the effects thereof, viz. (1) The perpetual memory of his righteousnesse. (2) The high exaltation of his Horn, (that is, of his power, glory, dignity, &c.) with honour thereupon, v. 9.

3. This great and manifold happinesse of the godly man is emphatically illustrated by the opposite unhappinesse or wretchednesse of the wicked man, manifested two ways: viz. 1. In his malignity and malicious envy at the felicity and prosperity of the godly beheld by him. The torture of which envy is expressed by the effects thereof; (1) Gnashing of his Teeth. (2) Melting or Pining away in his heart. 2. In his utter disappointment in his desires, harboured either against the godly, or for himself; The desire of the wicked shall perish, v. 10.

Psalm CXIII.

Sect. I. The Summary Contents.

1. An Exhortation to Gods servants alwaies and every where to praise the Name of the LORD, ver. 1,2,3. 2. The Arguments or Causes why the LORD is so to be praised by them, viz. (1) His own Height and Glory. (2) His Providence in Governing the World. (3) His exalting of the abased. (4) His making of the barren fruitful, ver. 4. to the end.

Sect. II. The first Version out of the Hebrew.

1. Halelu-JAH.

1. O Praise, ye servants of the LORD:
Praise ye JEHOVAH's Name ador'd.
2. Yea blessed be JEHOVAH's Name,
From now and to-eternity.
3. From the Son's rising generally,

6. That doth himself-full-low-debase
To view things that in Heav'ns high-place,
And in the earth below are done.
7. He from the dust doth raise the poor:
He from the dunghil (loathed more)
Up-lifts the abject Needy-one.
8. Aim eminently c for-to-seat
With d Princes, yea with Princes great
Whom his own people do afford.
9. e He-makes the barren dwell in house,
A mother glad of numerous
Dear children. O Praise-ye-the-LORD.

a Heb. the-going-in-of-it

b Heb. lifting-himself high to sit.

c Heb. for-to-cause-to-sit.

d Heb. magnificent or liberal. Princes, the liberal. Princes of his people.

e Heb making sit the barren of House, a joyful mother of sonnes.

A second Version, for an easier Tune.

1. Halelu-JAH

O Praise, ye Servants of the LORD:
Do ye the LORD's Name praise.
2. Blest a be JEHOVAH's Name ador'd,
From a this time, and alwales.
3. From Sun's rising unto b his fall,
JEHOVAH's Name be prais'd.
4. The LORD's high over Nations all:
O're Heav'ns his glory rais'd.

5. Who's like the the LORD our God! On-high-Lifting-himself c to-dwell?
6. Yet himself-humbling things d to spy
In Hea'ns and Earth full well.
7. He from the Dust the poor e up-takes:
Lifts needy from the Dung.
8. With f Princes him-to-sit-he-makes,
His folk's Princes among.

9. g The barren woman maketh he
To dwell in House well stor'd,
A joyful mother of Sons to be.
Therefore, Praise-ye-the-LORD.

Sect. III. The Kinde, Penman, and Occasion.

This Psalme, as to the Nature and Kind of it is meerly Laudatory or Eucharistical, wherein the LORD is praised especially, for his Glory, Providence, Goodnesse, &c. and Gods servants are upon these grounds exhorted to Praise him every where, and at all times. It is one of the choice Psalmes comprized in the Jewes Great-Halelu-jah h: And it both begins and ends with Halelu-JAH, ver. 1. and 9. It is an untituled Psalme, unlesse Halelu-JAH must be accounted the Title of it.

h See on Psal. 111. Sect. 3.

Penman of it, and Occasion of penning it are both unknown. Onely, this conceived i, That this Psalm followes Psalme 111. and 112. both in time and order. For, The Psalmist having praised God, for giving to Israel the Promised Land, Psal. 111. and for promising, Levit. 26. and Deut. 28. to blesse the Israelites if they should fear the Lord and keep his Commandements, Psal. 112. Now in Psal. 113. he Exhorts the Israelites to praise God, for advancing them to this Dignity, who were oppressed formerly with the Egyptian yoke, and were but a small Nation in respect of other Nations, Deut. 7. 7. but now were become a mighty Nation, Deut. 4. 7. and 28. 13.

Sect. IV. The Scope.

The Scope of this Psalme, is; To praise the Lord and to excite all his Servants to praise him in all places continually, For his Glorious Majesty, His eminent Providence, and His singular Goodnes manifesting it self in his Providence, by exalting the abased, and making the barren fruitful.

Sect. V. The Analysis, or Principal Parts.

In this psalme are,
I. An Exhortation to the praises of the LORD.

Where-

Wherein note, 1. The Object to be praiſed, viz. The LORD, and his Name. 2. The Act of praiſe exhorted to, which is to be exerciſed and exerted towards this object. This is thrice urged: noting the excellency of the Duty, and our Dulneſs and Indiſpoſition therennto. 3. The Subjects on whom this Act is peculiarly impoſed, and who are able acceptably to do it: The Servants of the LORD, ver. 1. 4. The Continuation of this Duty, in all times, ver. 2. 5. The Extention of this Duty, to all places ver. 3.

II. A Narration of certain Arguments or Cauſes, why they are thus to praiſe the LORD. And they are drawn, I. From the Lord's Supream and matchleſs Majeſty and Glory. Which is elegantly illuſtrated by compariſon with the leſs, viz. 1. He is above all Nations on the Earth: 2. His Glory is above the Heavens, ver. 4. II. From his moſt accurate all-obſerving Providence, Beholding and ordering all things in Heaven and Earth. This is Pathetically, 1. Amplified, (1.) By the incomparableneſs of the LORD; (2.) By the Height of his Habitation, ver. 5. 2. Deſcribed, by his great Condeſcention and Self-debaſement to ſee and order things not only in Heaven, but alſo in Earth, ver. 6. III. From his ſingular goodneſs towards mankind in working moſt advantagious changes, and alterations for them, wherein his Providence ſhines forth moſt illuſtriouſly: viz. 1. In exalting perſons, moſt deeply debaſed, to higheſt Princely dignity, ver. 7, 8. 2. In making the barren joyfully fruitful, ver. 9. And ſo the Pſalme is cloſed up; as it began, with the Hortatory Halelu-JAH.

Pſalm CXIV.

Sect. I. The Summary Contents,

Here, 1. The coming of Iſrael out from Egypt is declared, verſ. 1. 2. The effects or conſequents thereof are deſcribed, viz. (1) As upon Judah and Iſrael, ver. 2. (2) As upon the dumb and dead Creatures, ver. 3. to the end.

Sect. III. The Kind, Penman and Occaſion,

This Pſalme, as to the outward Forme of penning it, is untituled i; As to the Subject-matter of it, is Hiſtorical, compendiouſly declaring the Hiſtory of Iſrael's wonderful deliverance out of Egypt, with the rare Conſequents enſuing thereupon, not onely upon Iſrael themſelves, but even upon the dumb and dead Creatures. i See Pſal. 1. Sect. 4.

Penman, and particular Occaſion of writing it, are unknown. It is one of the Pſalmes compriſed in the Great-Halelu-jah, as hath been noted k. It well follows the reſt of them in order, Declaring how wonderfully and graciouſly the LORD brought them out of Egypt; which as it was in it ſelf an eminent Mercy, ſo was it a ſingular Type of the Elects Redemption from the bitter bondage of Sin, Death, Satan, &c. by the Death of Jeſus Chriſt our true Paſſeover, 1 Cor. 5. 7. And therefore this Deliverance is frequently remembred in the Scripture, as that which is often, yea alwaies to be admired and extolled. k On Pſal. 111. Sect. 3.

Sect. IV. The Scope.

The Scope intended in this Pſalme, is; Summarily to declare and deſcribe the Lord's wonderfull Power Goodneſs, and Providence in his wonderful deliverance of Iſrael out of Egypt, to Iſraels eminent advancement, and even the dumb Creatures amazement. That hereupon conſequently the LORD might be highly magnified, feared, and truſted in, throughout all Generations.

Sect. V. The Analyſis, or Principal Parts.

In this Pſalme are

I. An Hiſtorical and laudative Declaration of Iſraels Deliverance from Egypt. Where, 1. Iſrael, that was delivered, is deſcribed by their Deſcent; The Houſe of Jacob. 2. Egypt, Whence they were delivered, is ſet forth by the unſociableneſs and uncomfortableneſs of its native inhabitants, being to Iſrael a people of a barbarous-ſpeech, ver. 1.

II. An Hiſtorical and gratulatory Deſcription of the eminent Events or Conſequents of Iſraels deliverance out of Egypt; 1. Upon Iſrael. 2. Upon the dumb and dead Creatures.

1. Upon Iſrael a twofold eminent effect or event enſued, viz. 1. The LORD's ſacred Separation of that people to be above all people peculiarly Holy to himſelf; Judah was his Sanctuary, or Sanctity, or Sanctification: viz. which God had ſeparated and ſanctified to himſelf that he might dwell among them. As Exod. 19. 3, 4, 5, 6. Levit. 19. 2. and 20. 7, 26. and 26. 11, 12. 2 Cor. 6. 16. Judah is by a Synecdoche named for all the reſt, it being the Principal Tribe, Numb. 2. 3. and 7. 12. and 10. 14. They now became his National Church in the Wilderneſs, wherein he dwelt. Act. 7. 38. 2. The LORD's Royal Government and Protection of them: He becoming their Lord and King, and they his Dominion and Kingdome, now no longer under Pharaoh's, or any others tyranny. This is elegantly oppoſed to their former ſervitude in Egypt hinted in the firſt verſe: ver. 2.

2. Upon the dumb and dead Creatures) which by a Proſopopœia are brought in, as deeply affected and moved at this great and glorious work of God, bringing Iſrael out of Egypt) ſundry miraculous effects did enſue, ver. 3, &c. Here, I. Some miraculous effects, in ſtead of all the reſt are inſtanced in. As, 1. The drying-up of the Red-ſea, for the people to paſſe through, Exod. 14. 21. and Pſal. 77. 17. and 78. 13.

and 66. 6. and 136. 13. 2. The dividing of the River Jordan, for them to pass over into Canaan, Josh. 3. 14. to the end, Psal. 66. 6. 3. The quaking and trembling of Mount Sinai, and other little Hills thereon or thereabouts, at the giving of the Law, Exod. 19. 18. Hab. 3. 6. 10. Psal. 68. 9. This is elegantly compared to the leaping of Rams, and of youngings, or sons of the flock, that is, Lambs, ver. 3. 4. II. The Cause or Reason of these miraculous effects is elegantly laid down. 1. By way of interrogation to these dead Creatures, to awaken mens stupidity the more forcibly. What ailed thee, O Sea ——— ? Prosopop. ver. 5 6. 2. By way of Resolution. The true cause of all their commotion was, The glorious and majestical presence of the LORD, the God of Jacob: at which the Earth is bidden to Tremble. Hereby the cause of their trembling being implyed, ver. 7. This God of Jacob (at whose awful presence the Hills trembled) is further magnified, by his mighty and miraculous Act, of turning the Rocks the Rock of Flint, Deut. 8. 15. (naturally yielding fire rather than water) into a standing-lake of waters, into a Spring or Fountain of waters, ver. 8. A singular Type of Christ, 1 Cor. 10. 4.

Psalme CXV.

a This 115*th*. Psalme is annexed to the former, as part thereof, by the Greek Version of the Septuagint by the Vulgar Latin, as also by the Syriack, Arabick, and Æthiopick Versions. And Kimchi notes that som Heb. do not here begin this Psalm. The Book Ialkut makes this part of the 114*th*. Sim. de Mais in Arg. Psal. 115. But, most Hebrew Copies here begin Psalme 115. And Eusebius saith, some Greek Copies here begin it. And the diversity of the Argument seems plainly to make this a distinct Psalme. See on Psal. 10. Sect. 3. and on Ps. 116. Sect. 1,

Sect. I. The Summary Contents.

In this Psalme Gods people are brought in, 1. As Imploring the LORD to take all the glory from them wholly to himself, for his Mercy and Truth (shewed them, viz. in bringing them from Egypt, through the Wilderness, into Canaan,) That the Heathen may have no cause to insult against them and their God, who alone is glorious, but their Idols and themselves vanity, ver. 1. to 9. 2. As hereupon Exhorting and encouraging one another to trust in the LORD alone, and this by many Arguments, ver. 9. to the end.

Sect. II. The first Version out of the Hebrew.

1. NOt unto us, not unto us,
But to thy Name, O LORD, Give Glory: For thy a mercy thus Shew'd, For thy Truth ador'd.
2. Why should the-Heathens proudly say
Where is their God now bid?
3. But in the Heav'ns our God doth sway:
All that he pleas'd he did,

4. Their b Idols gold and silver are:
Work of mens hands they be.
5. A mouth c they have, but do not speak:
They 've eyes but do not see.
6. Eares have they, but hear not a jot:
They 've nose, not smell they do.
7. Hands have they, but they handle not;
They 've feet, but do not go:

d Speech through their throat they utter none.
8. Like unto them be they
That make them: And such every-one e Whose hope on them doth stay.
9. O Israel, trust in the LORD:
He's their help, and their shield.
10. O Aaron's House trust in the LORD:
He's their Help, and their shield.

11. The LORD's fearers, trust in the LORD:
He's their Help, and their Shield.
12. Us will remembred hath the LORD,
f To us he'l-blessing-yield:
He'l bless the House of Israel,
Bless Aaron's House he shall.
13. Bless g them-that-fear the Lord he will,
Ev'n with the great, the small,

14. h To you the Lord shall adde, To you
And to your sonnes by birth.
15. Ye shall be blessed of the Lord,
Which made the Heav'ns and Earth.
16. The Heav'ns, the Heav'ns JEHOVAH's are:
Likewise the Earth below
Upon the sons of Adam here
He freely did bestow.

17. i Those-that-are-in-the-state-of-Death
Shall not the Lord God praise:
Nor any that go-down beneath
To Silence dumb always.
18. But we will bless and magnify

The Second Version, &c. of another Meetre.

1. NOt to us, not to us, O LORD,
But to thy Name the Glory a afford:
For thy Truth, for thy Mercy's sake.
2. O wherefore should the Heathens say:
Where is their God now gone away?
3. But b Heaven's our God his seat doth make:
He hath done all-things that c he would:
4. Their d Idols silver are and gold:
The meere work of mans hands they were.
5. e They have a mouth, yet speechless be.
Eyes have they, but they do not see.
6. Eares have they, but they do not heare:

A nose they have, but smell no-jot.
7. f Hands have they, but they handle not;
Feet have they, but they do not go:
And g through their throat they do not speak.
8. Like them are they-that-do-them-make:
Each-one that trusts in them is so.
9. Trust in the Lord, O Israel.
He is their help h their shield as well.
10. Aarons house, in the Lord trust-ye
He is their help, their shield also.
11. The Lord's fearers, i the Lord trust to:
Their Help, likewise their shield is he.

The Lord's: But earth mens sons gave he.
17. The dead they shall not praise n the Lord
Nor any that to silence o go.
18. But we will bless p the LORD from now
And unto q ay. Praise ye-the-Lord.

Sect. III. The Kind, Penman, and Occasion.

This Psalm, As to the outward Form of it, is without Title in the Hebrew, as many others are r; As to the Subject-matter of it, is of a mixt Kind, made up of Prayer and Exhortation. Herein Gods people are brought in As praying to God, that himself alone would take the whole glory (viz. of their coming from Egypt, through the Wilderness, into Canaan;) for his own loving-kindness and faithfulness, That so the Heathen may have no cause of insulting against their God: As hereupon inciting and provoking one another to trust in this God, for help and defence, &c. And this Psalm is one of those, whereof the Jews GREAT HALELU-JAH was made up: as hath formerly been noted s.

Occasion, whereupon; and Time when; and Penman, by whom; This Psalm was written, are not particularly and certainly known, In the General it seems to have respect to Israels deliverance from Egypt, conduct through the wilderness, and Plantation in Canaan, by the LORD, of his meer loving kindness and faithfulness: whereupon they have cause to prefer him above all the vain, dumb, dead Idols of the Heathens, and to place their trust in him, as their only help and shield.

Sect. IV. The Scope.

The Scope intended in this Psalm, is. 1. To give unto the Lord alone the whole Glory of all his Mercy and Truth manifested to Israel, especially in bringing them out of Egypt through the Wilderness into Canaan: 2. To exalt him incomparably above all the vain Idols of the Heathens. 3. And to provoke all sorts amongst Gods people to confide in him alone, as their help and shield.

This Psalm is 1. Petitory. 2. Hortatory.

I. Petitory, ver. 1. to 9. wherein Israel is brought in, as imploring the Lord, That the whole Glory, (viz. Of his dealing with them in Egypt, The wilderness, and Canaan,) may be given unto his own name, not to them at all. Their utter renouncing all share in this Glory is pathetically set forth in the ingemination of the phrase; not unto us, not unto us. This Petition is urged and illustrated, 1. From the cause and Reason why all the Glory should be given to the Lord's Name alone, viz. because all that the Lord did for his people, was meerly for his own loving-kindness, and faithfulness towards them: nor any their deserts, verse 1. 2. From the end or scope of giving all the Glory to God only, viz. That so all occasion of insulting may be cut off from the Heathen, that they may have no colour to say, where is now their God, that hath made such Promises to his people, &c. v. 2. 3. From the unparallell'd Excellency and Glory of Israel's God, above all the Heathens Idols, v. 3. &c. Here, (1) Israels God is described. 1. Partly by his Heavenly Majesty, enthroned in Heaven. 2. Partly, by his works, limited onely by his Will; He hath done all that he pleased, v. 3. (2) Heathen Idols are described, 1. Partly by their due Denomination, drawn from their effect upon their worshippers; Their Dolours, their Sorrows, in Psal. 16. 4. 2. Partly, By their extream vanity; Their matter being but silver and Gold, or such corruptible. Their Form or shape being such as workmens hands put upon them, ver. 4. Their ability (to do good or harm) being none at all: they having something like Organs or Instruments for Speech, Sence, Action, Motion; given to them, but no use at all thereof, v. 5. 6, 7. 3. Partly, by the like vanity, of those that make them. Of all that trust in them, ver. 8.

II. Hortatory, verse 9. to the end, where Israel is brought in, As exhorting and inciting one another, upon former considerations of Gods excellency, and Idols vanity, To place all their Trust and hope in the LORD. as their help to assist them, and their sheild to protect them. Now here are, 1. An Exhortation unto confidence in the Lord. This Exhortation is 1. Propounded and directed to three sorts, viz. To Israel generally: To the house of Aaron, specially: To the fearers of the LORD, peculiarly. 2. Explicated, How and in what sence or respects they are to place their confidence in the Lord, viz. As their help, for all manner of assistance: As their sheild, for all manner of Protection, ver. 9, 10, 11.

2. The Arguments enforcing this Exhortation, are drawn; 1. From Israels experience of Gods former gracious remembring of them, ver. 12. 2. From the LORD's precious Promises, 1. Of blessing, The house of Israel, The house of Aaron, and all his fearers small and great, ver. 12. 13. 2. Of increasing or adding to them, and to their children more and more, ver. 14. 3. From the LORD's actual blessing of his People, with the Inheritance of the Earth. In this Argument are laid down, 1. Their Denomination upon Gods blessing them; Ye are the blessed of the LORD.

2. The Description of the LORD, the Author of this blessing: Partly by the Creation of Heaven and Earth. Partly, by his appropriation of the Heavens of Heavens to himself. 3. The specification of the mercy wherewith the Lord had blessed them; Had given the Sons of Men the Earth: viz. His people the Land of Canaan, ver. 15, 16. 4. The greateful Resolution of Gods people (though the dead cannot praise the Lord, &c.) to bless the Lord for ever, viz. whilest they live: which is their Ever in this world. Whereupon they incite all to Praise-the-Lord with them, v. 17, 18.

Psalm CXVI a.

a As the Lxxii, the Vulgar Latin, the Arabick, Syriack, and Æthiopick Versions joyn Psal. 11 to 114 as part thereof: So here they divide this Psalm 116. into two; at verse 10. beginning the latter Psalm. But the Hebrew Copies, and Chaldee Paraphrast, and other versions make this but one Psalm. And the Subject-matter of it, evinceth it clearly. See Psal. 10. Sect. 3. and Psal. 115. Sect. 1.

Sect. I. The Summary Contents.

The Psalmist, 1. Professeth his Love and Duty of praying to God whilest he lives for benefits received, v. 1, 2. 2. Declareth how in his extream distress, He prayed to the LORD, was delivered by the LORD, and delivered in the LORD, (though not without some infirmity,) v. 3. to 12. 3. Deliberateth and studieth in what way he may be most thankful to the Lord, and resolves upon all Religious expressions of gratitude, Even in the solemn Assembly, verse 12. to the end.

And

Sect. II. The Version out of the Hebrew.

1. I Love, because JEHOVAH will
   My voice, a my Prayers hear.
2. And b through-my-dayes will call: because
   He bow'd to me his ear.
3. The c cord-like pangs of Death combin'd
   Encompassed-me-round,
   And Hell's distresses did me find:
   I straits and sorrow found.

4. Then on JEHOVAH's Name ador'd
   I called, and did say;
   Deliver thou my Soul, O LORD,

8. Because thou hast my Soul releas'd
   From Death and deadly thrall;
   Mine eye from mournful h tears, now ceas'd:
   My foot from i sliding-fall.

9. And now walk-on delightfully,
   k In presence of the LORD,
   In lands of living-ones will I,
10. I did believe his word,
    Therefore I spake without delay:
    I was afflicted l sore.
11. I in my hastning-fear did say,
    That m all men lyars are.

13. Salvations Cup I shall Take-up: Likewise I will this day
    Upon the LORD's name call,
14. My vowes, now, to the LORD I'le pay,
    Before his people all.

15. Accounted very precious Still in the LORD's eyes is
    The Death of his-Saints-gracious.
16. Sure, LORD, I do confess,
    That I am o servant-unto-thee,

r heb Halelu JAH.

Sect. III. The Kind, Penman, and Occasion.

This Psalm, is 1, A most Eminent and Pathetical Gratulation for some singular Deliverance from extream mortal danger and distresse: as to the Subject-matter of it. Is untituled: As to the Form of Penning it. And it is one of those Psalmes whereof the GREAT HALELU-JAH was made up, as hath been already noted t. In the Greek Version of the Lxxii here is prefixed as a Title, Αλληλουια, both before ver. 1. and vers. 10. taking it for two distinct Psalmes. So also do the Arabick and Æthiopick Versions: Perhaps in prefixing this they had respect to the Jews Great Halelu-jah whereof this Psalm was part u. But in the Original Hebrew there's no Title at all, nor in the Chaldee Paraphrast, nor in the Syriack Version.

Penman of this Psalm, is not particularly hereof elsewhere expressed in the Scripture: but Interpreters do generally think it was David. And indeed the Matter and Expressions are most homogeneal to Davids in his other Psalmes.

The Occasion of Davids Penning this Psalm, is variously apprehended. The Syriack Version thinks it hath reference to the time, when Saul came into the Cave, in the sides whereof David and his men remained, 1 Sam. 24. 3 x, &c. Others to the time when David was betrayed by the Ziphites, and King Saul and his men had almost encompassed round about David and his men to take him: but the Lord diverted them by the Philistines invading the Land, 1 Sam. 23. 19. to 29. y Neither of these seem to have been the Occasion of Davids Penning this Psalme, because here is mention made of The Courts of the House of the LORD, In the midst of Jerusalem, ver. 19. But in Saul's time there were no Courts of the Lord's house in Hierusalem, and Jerusalem was then in the hands of the Jebusites, and long after. See 2 Sam. 5. 6. to 11. Others referre it to the time of Absalom's rebellion against his own Father David, wherein David was greatly endangered. See the History, 2 Sam. 15. to Chap. 19 z. Sim. de Muis, not satisfied with any of these, thinks David wrote this Psalm, presently after he had brought up the Ark into the City of David, and sate in peace in his own house, having rest from all his enemies, 2 Sam. 6. throughout, and 7. 1. &c. because in ver. 19. here's mention of Jerusalem and of the Courts of the Lord's House there a. In midst of all this variety and uncertainty, 'tis hard to determine any thing positively.

To speak my thoughts freely, I am not enough satisfied with any of these Opinions. Not with the two first; for the reason fore-alledged. Not with the third; Because, the third Psalm was plainly penned upon occasion of Absalom's rebellion. See Ps. 3. Title: And its scarce probable he would pen two Psalms upon one and the same Occasion. Nor with the fourth; because, in this Psal. 116. ver. 3. he mentions some particular, notable, extream danger of death, and deep distress and sorrow of soul which he was in thereupon; Gods gracious deliverance from which, upon his earnest prayer, gave him Occasion of Penning this Gratulatory Psalm: and about the time of his bringing up the Ark into the City of David, we read of no such Mortal danger, or deep distress of David, as is here mentioned, v. 3. This is certain and evident; That the Psalmists mortal danger and extream distress and sorrow thereupon, together with Gods gracious delivering of him out of all upon his earnest Prayer, gave the Occasion of his Penning this Psalm, and all this after David had conquered the Jebusites, gained Jerusalem, and brought the Ark of God thither; Psal. 116. ver. 3. 4. 5, 6, 7, 8, 15, 19. But the particular Kind and Circumstances of this his danger of Death and Deliverance, are uncertain and unknown.

Sect. IV. The Scope.

The Scope of the Pſalmiſt here is; 1. To declare his ſingular affection, and reſolved Devotion unto the LORD, for his Eminent Deliverance vouchſafed him, upon his Prayer and Faith, from extream diſtreſſes and pangs of Death encompaſſing him about. 2. As alſo to teſtifie his reſolution to render unto the LORD for all his Benefits all poſſible thankfulneſſe by Confeſſion, Prayer, and performance of his Vowes unto the LORD publickly in Jeruſalem in the Courts of the Houſe of the LORD, before all his people.

O this is a moſt ſweet and heavenly Platforme of thankfulneſſe, for every Chriſtian to make uſe of: eſpecially after Gods Eminent Deliverances of him from extream Sorrows, Diſtreſſes, and dangers of Death. Auguſtine ſaid; Let that Soul ſing this, that ſojourns from the LORD: Let that Sheep ſing this, that went aſtray; Let that Son ſing this, which was dead and is alive again, was loſt and is found b. And I may adde; Let him delight to ſing this Pſalme, whoſe Sorrowes God hath turned into Joy; whoſe feares and dangers are ſwallowed up with confidence & deliverance, whom the LORD hath reſcued from deep and long afflictions, from ſevere Bonds and Impriſonments, from the ſhadow of Death and brink of the Grave.

b Cantet hoc Filius ille qui mortuus fuerat & revixit, perierat & inventus eſt. Cantet hoc anima noſtra, fratres & filii charissimi. Auguſt. in Pſal. 114. Enarrat. ad init. Tom. 8.

Sect. V. The Analyſis, or Principal Parts.

In this Pſalme the Pſalmiſt Pathetically repreſenteth his thankful 1. Profeſſion, 2. Declaration, 3. And Reſolution.

I. His thankful Profeſſion, ver. 1, 2. wherein note, 1. The Matters profeſſed, viz. (1) Dear love and affection to the LORD. (2) Conſtant Prayer or invocation of the LORD, In my dayes, may import, in the dayes of my life, i. e. whileſt I live. Or, In the dayes of my diſtreſſe, &c. both may imply conſtancy. 2. The Grounds of this Profeſſion, becauſe the Lord will hear his ſupplications; becauſe he did bow his ear to him. ver. 1. 2.

II. His thankful Declaration, v. 3. to 12. He thankfully declareth, 1. How he prayed unto the Lord in his diſtreſſe. Where are laid down, 1. The Occaſion of his Prayer, Great Extremities of affliction, repreſented by four Emphatical Expreſſions, Viz. (1) Pang. of Death like Coards encompaſſing him about, (2) Hells Diſtreſſes. (3) Straits. (4) Sorrow, v. 3. 2. The Object of his Prayer whom he then invocated; Then he called on the Name of the Lord. 3. The Subject-Matter of his reqneſt which he preſented, viz. That the Lord would deliver his Soul, i. e. not only his life from Mortal danger and diſtreſs, but alſo his Soul from inward agonies and perplexities. A very ſhort, but a comprehenſive and (through Faith) an Effectual Prayer, v. 4. II. How he was delivered by the Lord out of all theſe his dangers and diſtreſſes, according to his deſire. Here he grateſully and Elegantly delineates Gods deliverance, 1. By the Original Root and Riſe of it, viz. Meerly the Perfections and Properties of Gods own Nature: three Attributes being mentioned as Eminent herein; (1) He is Gracious: therefore helping and delivering moſt freely. (2) He is Righteous: therefore delivering and relieving according to his Promiſe moſt faithfully. (3) He is Commiſerating-with-yearning bowels: therefore layes to heart all his peoples miſeries and diſtreſſes moſt tenderly and compaſſionately, All which are amplified by the Relation and Intereſt which his people have to him and in him; Our-God—ver. 5. 2. By the Exemplification of the Lord's relief and deliverance, (1) Upon the Simple; i. e. the plain-hearted, that know not how to prevent or remove evil and danger. (2) Upon the Pſalmiſt himſelf, in his low condition, v. 6. 3. By the enſuing fruits or effects of this deliverance; viz. (1) His Souls Reſtauration to a quiet comfortable reſt and acquieſcence in the Lord, from both inward and outward trouble. Return my Soul, &c. Apoſtrophe to his Soul. As if he had ſaid; O my Soul, the Storm is over, now enjoy thy deſired calm and comfortable reſt in God. This is Illuſtrated by a Pathetical Deſcription of Gods Mercy in relieving him; More Generally, The Lord hath dealt bountifully with thee, v. 7. More Particularly; He delivered, His Soul from death: His Eyes from teares: His Feet from falling, ver. 8. (2) His reſolution and promiſe by way of gratitude, to walk uprightly before God and Man in the diſcharge of his Office, v. 9. 4. By his Faith in God even in midſt of all his extremities; I believed—. This his Faith is ſet forth here (1) Partly, from the Conſequent Effect of it; Therefore have I ſpoken, i. e. In my diſtreſſes and dangers, I have ſpoken to the Lord in my Prayer, as in v. 4. was noted; And alſo I have profeſſed and teſtified my Faith in God before others that I ſhould be delivered, raiſed up, &c. In this later ſenſe, the Apoſtle, 2 Cor. 4. 13. applyed this place to his preſent purpoſe. (2) Partly, by the extremity of his diſtreſs wherein he exerted this his Faith, v. 10. (3) Partly, from ſome infirmity of his Faith intermixed: In his haſt counting all men, Samuel and others, lyars, who promiſed him the Kingdom, &c. while mean time he was ready to be cut off by death, before it could be obtained. Or, we may take this paſſage, For an Abrenunciation of all humane help as falſe, vain, deceitful, in his extream diſtreſſes, God only being able fully to ſuccour him; I ſaid in mine haſtening (or aſtoniſhing-conſternation c) All men are lyars: i. e. unable to help in time of need, Numb. 23. 19. Rom. 3. 4. Pſal. 33. 17. but the former ſenſe ſeems more appoſite here, v. 11.

c In præcipitatione meâ. Græc. ἐν τῇ ἐκστάσει μου; Lat. in Exceſſu meo; Aquila, ἐν τῷ θαμβεῖσθαι; Symach. ἀδημονῶν; D. Hieronym. In ſtupore meo. Nempè hi exiſtimarunt hoc loco ſignificari ſtuporem ſeu perturbationem mentis, quâ interdum corripiebatur David, ac veluti obſtupeſcebat ad periculorum magnitudinem.——Sim. de Muis in Comment. ad Pſal. 116. 11.

III. His thankful reſolution, after deliberation, v. 12. to the end. Wherein conſider,

1. A deliberating Queſtion, intimating moſt Elegantly, 1. Both his ſingular readineſſe to render any thing to the LORD, for the benefits received from him: 2, And the tranſcendent greatneſſe of his Benefits beyond all poſſible returnes of gratitude, verſe 12.

2. A determining reſolution, wherein he promiſeth ſundry expreſſions of thankfulneſſe, v. 13, &c. This is illuſtrated, 1. From the Adjunct Manner of his expreſſing his gratitude. He promiſeth to do it in ſuch manner as was moſt agreeable to a Solemn Sacrifice of thankſgiving. viz. At their Thank-offerings for Mercies received, they kept a grateful Feaſt, for the Levites, and the poor, Deut. 14. 28, 29. At which, taking the Cup, they commemorated the Benefits received of God, and drank, giving thanks to God. As Chriſt did in his great Banquet of his Supper, 1 Cor. 10. 16, 17. Such a thing is here intended v. 13. 2. From the Impulſive Cauſe moving and inclining the Pſalmiſt to this way of thankfulneſs: viz. His ſeveral vows of ſuch ſolemn and publick gratitude, v. 14. 3. From the Subject-Matter of his thankfulneſs, viz. Gods ſingular love and tender-care, (1) In General, over the lives of all his Saints, v. 15. (2) In Particular, over the life and liberty of his ſervant David: loſing his Bonds, and ſo engaging him him to be his devoted ſervant, v. 16. 4. *From a Pa-*thetical Repetition of his promiſed Sacrifice of thankſgiving, and performance of his vowes unto the Lord, and both of them publickly before all his people, and in the Solemn place of Gods-Worſhip. And ſo he cloſeth up this ſweet Gratulatory Pſalme, with an Hortatory Halelu-jah, ver. 17, 18, 19.

Hoc exigitur, hoc deberur. Inſpecto Numo Domius dicit, Reddite Cæſari quæ Cæſaris ſunt, & Deo quæ Dei ſunt. Imago ſua reddatur Cæſari, Imago ſua reddatur Deo. Auguſt. in Pſal. 115. Expoſit. Tom. 8.

Sect. III. The Kinde, Penman, and Occaſion of this Pſalme.

This Pſalme is the very ſhorteſt Pſalme in this Book of Pſalmes, yet, (like a rich Pearl or wedge of Gold) it comprehends much precious ſtuffe in a little compaſs, Occaſion of it is uncertain.

Penman of it is unknown, becauſe its Pſalmus ἀ πατρόγραφος, without Title or Inſcription; yet Canonical, Authentique, and indited by the Spirit of God as is plain from St. Pauls alledging it, Rom. 15. 11.

Kind of it is mixt, Pſalmus being ἀπὸ συνεσεως & προφητικὸς, Laudatory and Prophetical. Explicitely its an Exhortation of all Gentiles to praiſe God for his ſpecial Mercy and Truth towards them: Implicitely a Prophetical Prediction of the Vocation of the Gentiles, for which great mercy they are here thus moved to praiſe him, Rom. 15. 7. 11.

Sect. IV. The Scope.

Scope of it is to Quicken all the Gentiles, as well as the Jewes, to be wonderous zealous in praiſing God for his mighty Mercy and conſtant Truth to them both, principally in admitting the Gentiles into the ſame common faith with the Jewes. Compare the current of this Pſalme, with the Apoſtles manner of reaſoning in Rom. 15. 8. and 13. Not unfitly we may ſtile it, The Gentiles Pſalme of Praiſe.

Sect. V. The

Sect. V. The Analysis or Principle Parts.

The Principal Parts of the Psalme are two, viz.

1. An Exhortation of all Nations, &c. v. 1. wherein note
   1. Act or Duty it self required, Praise——
   2. Vehemency, whereby this duty is pathetically urged; 1. By ingemination of the phrase. 2. By the emphatical accents in the word שַׁבְּחוּהוּ, shabbachu. Praise ye vehemently.
   3. Object to whom this duty is to be performed; not to Heathenish Idols, but to Jehovah.
   4. Subject upon whom this duty is imposed and charged; Gentiles, or Nations: and Peoples. Both amplified by their generality and extent. all, all.
2. Arguments, or Motives enforcing it, v. 2. which are two.
   1. Gods mercy; amplified by
      1. Greatness of it; is great.
      2. Commonness of it, to both Jews and Gentiles; towards us.
   2. Gods Truth, amplified from the constant inviolableness of it; for ever. And so the Psalme is shut up with a short reflection at the duty first enjoyned; Halelujah.

Or, 1. Greatness. 2. Commonness. 3. Inviolable constancy or durableness, may be three adjuncts whereby both Gods mercy and truth are amplified. Ames. Expos ——.

Sect. VI. Textual Annotations, and Doctrinal Observations.

verse 1. Praise Jehovah all ye Gentiles.] In this verse is the Exhortation, wherein the Gentiles are enjoyned all of them to praise the Lord, yea to praise him vehemently, zealously, therefore this implies the vocation of the Gentiles. Rom. 15. 7-11. For how shall they Praise without mercy received, or how shall they praise Jehovah till they be turned from all their Heathenish Idols, to the only true God; whose Name alone is Jehovah? till then, Heathens, though they have many mercies, yet are they not so sensible of mercie, know not Jehovah nor his Truth; in vain therefore to move them to praise him.

2. Its not enough for Gods People to praise the Lord themselves, they should call upon others to praise him with them here Psalmist quickens up Gentiles to it, Psal. 118. 1, 2, 3, 4. ‖ 134. 1, 2, 3 ‖ 134. 1, &c. 135, 1, 2, 3. 19, 20, 21. ‖ 148. per totum

Object. But Mountains, Rivers, &c. dead and bruit creatures are oft called upon to praise God, as Psal. 148. 3. &c. therefore their praise no good Argument of the Gentiles vocation.

Answ. The whole Creation, and every work of God, praise God, tacendo, by silence, metaphorically Joan. Calvin. in Com. ad Psalmum 117. 1. This praise here required, of intelligent Creatures is another manner of praise, viz. for his mercy and truth, as verse 2. See this Prophecy fulfilled, Act. 13. 47, 48.

Prayse חַלְלוּ Halelu. Imperatively, Praise is not a carnal, Levitical, but a spiritual Sacrifice, Heb. 13. 15. Psal. 50. 13, 14, 23. More spiritually performed in the New Testament, then in Old Testament. We praise God, 1. In heart, by notice taking, esteeming- remembring, &c. his mercies, Psal. 103. 1, 2. 2. In words, so called calves of our lips, Hos. 14. 2. Heb. 13 15. of this praise, Psal. 63. 3. 5. ——— 3. In works, Mat. 5. 16. ——Job. 15. 8. Thankful Praise hath in it, 1. Recognition or notice-taking of the Mercy, Psal. 116. 6. 2. Estimation, Gen. 19. 19. Exr. 9. 13. 1. Tim. 1. 13. 3. Retribution, Psal. 116. 12, &c.

Jehovah] The prime essential Name of God, Tetragrammaton; no one word in any other language can exprepts it fully. The sense of it see elsewhere explicated in my Annot. on Exod. 34. 6, 7. Jehovah ——— D. 1, See Zanch, de Natur. Dei l. 1. cap. 13. ——— Joan Buxtorf. Lexicon ad verbum יהוה.—— Sixtin. Amam. Antibarb, Biblic. dissertation. denomine יהוה p. 473. ad p. 559. Herein implicitly Gentiles are called from worship of their idols, to worship of the true God. He is the God of praise to whom all praise is due, and should principally be directed, Heb 13. 15. Ps. 18. 3. ‖ 48. 1.

3. All are bound to praise the Lord, but singularly the called Gentiles Rom. 15. 7. 11. Eph. 3. 6, 18, 19, 20. 21. Did it. Act. 13. 47, 48. Consequently, The calling and conversion of the Gentiles was fore-prophecied of old, Ps. 117. 1. with Rom. 15. 7, 8, 9, 11.

All ye Gentiles,] כָּל־גּוֹיִם Gojim. The Jewes themselves interpret this word of such under whom they were in captivity. All people besides Jewes, are called Gentiles, or the Nations Before Christ accounted not a people, or no people, Deut. 32. 21, 1 Pet. 2. 10. Hos. 1. 10. But now the people of God. And all of them must praise, because salvation now hath appeared to all men, bond, free, &c. without respect of persons, Tit 2. 10.

Praise him all ye people.] The same Exhortation for matter and substance, but in different words שַׁבְּחוּהוּ Shabbechu signifies not barely, to praise, as the former word; but to praise vehemently, earnestly, mightily, &c. Ames. in l. and the Apostle implies such a thing in his alledging this verse, Ἀινεῖτε τὸν κύριον πάντα τὰ ἔθνη, καὶ ἐπαινεσάτωσαν αὐτόν, &c. Rom 15. 11. q. d. praise him, and better praise him. Be earnest, zealous, constant in his praises, and the doubling also of the Exhortation intimates a doubling of diligence in this so important a Duty. We should by no means put that off carelessly, which is so carefully enjoyned. Yea in the close of this short Psalm, it's touched again, lest it should be neglected and forgotten.

People] הָאֻמִּים. Haummim, theres ה emphaticum prefixed, as if he did point at a special people of his own the Jewes, which in a special manner are called, a people, and his people, Rom. 15. 10.

Whereas Gentiles were counted no people, not his people; Psalmist then seems here to bespeak the praises of all men, both Gentiles and Jewes. And some refer the word אֻמִּים Ummim, peoples, to the Jews alone, as Mollerus. As גּוֹיִם Gojim, Nations, is referred by the Jewes themselves to the Gentiles. And usually, when Gentiles and people are mentioned mentioned together. People imports the Jewes contradiſtinct from Gentiles. As in Pſal. 2. 1.

4. These praises should be performed to the Lord, not coldly and carelessly; but zealously and vehemently, Psal. 103. 1. ‖ 2 Sam. 6. 14. Psal. 48. 1. ‖ 105 3 ‖ 106. 47. ‖ 47. 1.

Verſe 2. For his mercy hath been mighty [or increaſed and ſtrengthned &c.) towards us חסדו] Chaſdo, notes our miſericordiam & beneficentiam, eamque gratuitam. Riv. in Hoſ. 4. 1. is taken, 1. For the Fountain and Cauſe of mercy, Gods free grace and bene placitum, meer good-will, when he expreſſes mercy contrary to our deſerts of his own gracious motion, notes ſingulas paternam in Chriſto. Meller. Miſericordia eſt alienæ miſeriæ in corde noſtro compaſſio, quâ, utique ſi poſſumus ſubvenire compellimur. Auguſt. Moſt fully it agrees to God, who moſt tenderly and compaſſionately layes to heart our miſeries. 2. For the good things, mercies and bleſſings themſelves beſtowed, Rivet. in Gen. 32. 10. Here underſtand both, well tranſlated, merciful-kindneſs, or loving kindneſs, גבר &c.] Invaluit, prevaluit, robuſtus, fuit, corroboravit. Buxt. hath prevailed, hath been ſtrong and mighty towards us, or upon us. Us Jewes, for the Pſalmiſt was a Jew that ſpoke it: Us Gentiles, for they were Gentiles to whom it was ſpoken. To both, theſe mercies of God have been mightily ſtrengthned and increaſed; principally in reſpect.

1. Of Temporals, what poſſeſſions, preſervations, deliverances, victories, varieties of bleſſings, &c. had they?

2. Of Spirituals, What priviledges had the Jews above all peoples? Rom. 3. 1, 2 | 9. 4, 5. What the Gentiles, by their General Vocation, Rom. 11, 12, 15. 17, 21, 3[1]. Eph. 2. throughout.

3. Of Eternals, in hope to both Jewes and Gentiles.

Thus his mercy hath been ſtrong and ſuperabounding to them both, againſt their ſins, their enemies, &c. hath made them one people, under one Head Chriſt, prophetically ſpoken. For this both muſt praiſe him.

The word גבר Gabar, hath prevailed, ſeems to import. That Gods mercy conquers all Oppoſitions and Difficulties within us: or without us, whatſoever, that it might embrace us.

And his Truth for ever.] This the ſecond main motive quickning both Jewes and Gentiles to be mighty in Gods Praiſes, viz. the conſtancy and firm inviolableneſs of his Truth. אמת Truth, is derived from אמן in Niphal, which ſignifies; that which is firm, ſtable, conſtant, &c. So Aaron and Hur did confirm Moſes hands, Exod. 17. 12. There was firmneſs in his hands, &c. Truth in Scripture. 1. Sometimes is oppoſed to lyes, as Heſ. 4. 1, 2. Pſal. 5. 10. Eph. 4. 25. 2. Sometimes to ſhadowes and types, Job. 1. 17. 3. Sometimes to injuſtice and injuries, &c. So Deut. 32. 4. 4. Sometimes to unfaithfulneſs, inconſtancy, &c. in Words, Covenants, Promiſes, noting, out firmneſs, truſtineſs, fidelity, conſtancy, not ſo much faith as fidelity, not ſo much verity as veracity. So Gen. 32. 10. Pſal. 40. 11. God is Truth in all reſpects (as Zanch. obſerves, who alſo diſtinguiſhes Truth in veritatem Phyſicam or Metaphyſicam, and Ethicam, ſhewing notably how God is Truth both wayes, Zanch. de nat. Dei. l. 3, c. 3.) But here I conceive the laſt chiefly intended; God is alwayes like himſelf, ſure and conſtant in his Word and Promiſes, &c. Faithfully performing all in due ſeaſon both to Jewes and Gentiles. He is true in threats, but Truth in Promiſes, rather matter of praiſe. לעולם for ever. From עלם latitavit, ſignifies ſæculum, viz. tempus homini abſconditum, tam infinitum & æternum quam finitum, Box. Hoc nomine עלם ſignificatur æternitas, quod æterniratis principium & finis ſimpliciter lateat: Seu quod nullum in ea principium, aut finis aut ſucceſſio reperiri queat Zanch. de Nat. Dei. l. 2. c. 3. p. 73. So that no time, nor age, can change Gods Truth, but its ſemper eadem, his Promiſes and Word can no more be moved and ſhaken then his Truth, nor his Truth then himſelf; Deus eſt ipſiſſima veritas.

Now Gods Truth is here affirmed to be for ever, not in oppoſition to the mercy of God, as if his mercy after a little flouriſhing proved momentany; for by the ſame Rule his Truth may be ſaid to be but little, in oppoſition to his mercy, which is great; But the ſenſe is, his mercy is ſo great towards us, as it alſo flowes continuo curſu, becauſe joyned with his eternal Truth. And if we reade it thus, His mercy hath been ſtrengthned, &c. Both his mercy and truth are adorned by their firmneſs and ſtability. Calv. Comment. in Pſal. 117. 2.

Mercy and Truth are here coupled together, as in many other Scriptures, Gen. 32. 10. Pſal. 40. 10, 11. | 57. 10.

Sect. II. The first Version out of the Hebrew.

I.

1. CONfess ye to the LORD,
For he is good alway:
a For his-kind-mercy, still adored
By his, endures b for-ay.
2. Let Israel now say,
c His mercy dures for ever.
3. Let Aaron's sacred house now say, d His mercy dures for ever.

4. Let fearers of the LORD
Now say, as heretofore,
That e his kind-mercy, much ador'd,
Endures f for evermore.
5. I out of sore-distress
Upon g the-LORD did call:
h The-LORD in-ample-roomthiness
Did answer me withal.

6. JEHOVAH is mine aid
For me against my foe;
Therefore i I will not be afraid
What man to me can do.
7. JEHOVAH hath for me
With all mine helpers sate:
And therefore I shall vengeance see
On-them-that-do-me-hate.

II.

8. Oh it is better still
Upon the LORD oft tride, k To-hope-for-safety in all ill:
Then in-man to confide.
9. Yea, it much better is,
Upon the LORD must just l To-hope-for-safety in distress:
Than in Princes to trust.

10. All Nations jointly came,
Encompass-me-did-they:
But in the LORD's victorious Name
m I-did-cut-them-away.
11. They me encompass'd-round,
Yea compass me did they:
But in JEHOVAH's Name renown'd
n I-did-cut-them-away.

12. As Bees they compass'd me,
As fire of thorns were they Quenched: o For in JEHOVAH's Name
p I-did-cut-them-away.
13. Thou (enemy) didst me thrust
Thrusting to make me fall:
But then the Lord, mine only trust,
Did help me at my call.

III.

14. q The Lords my strength and song,
And for salvation high
To me hath he been all along.
15. The voice of shouting-joy,
And of Salvation
In just-men's r dwellings is:
The right-hand of the Lord alone
Effecteth valiantness.

16. The right-hand of the Lord
It now exalted-high:
The right-hand of the living Lord
Doth s very valiantly.
17. I shall not dye, but live;
And tell th' Acts of t the Lord.
18. JAH u chastned me, but did not give Me unto death abhorr'd.

19. Open unto me this day
The Gates of Righteousness:
That enter into them I may,
And may x the Lord confess.
20. This Sanctuary Gate
Of the Almighty Lord, y The righteous-ones shall in thereat
Enter with one accord.

IIII.

21. To thee will I confess,
Because thou didst me hear:
And hast to me been in distress
For z Salvation dear.
22. The very Stone, which some
Chief builders have refused,
Is of the Corner now become z The Head, and chiefly used.

23. This of the Lord was laid:
It's wondrous in our eyes.
24. This is the day the Lord hath made,
Let us be glad likewise
Rejoyce in it with mirth.
25. a I-pray-thee, Lord, save now:
Lord I beseech thee, In the earth
Now prosper him do thou.

26. He-that comes in the Name
Of God the Lord be bless't:
Out of the Lord's house full of fame
We bless you with the best.
27. God is the Lord of Lords,
And b us his light adornes:
Bind ye the Feast-offering with cords Unto the Altar's hornes.

28. Thou art my God alone
And c thee confess I will:
My God and sole Salvation,
I will exalt thee still,
29. Confess-ye to the Lord,
For he is good alway:
For his d kind-mercy still ador'd
By his endure e for ay.

Sect. III. The Kind, Penman, and Occasion.

This most-excellent Song (as one f stiles it deservedly) is of a Mixt Kind or Nature, being Eucharistical and Prophetical, as to the Subject-matter of it. Wherein (1) Under the afflictions and enemies of David, the enemies Christ & his sufferings; (2) Under the Temporal Deliverances and Victories of David, the Spiritual Deliverances and Victories of Christ; 3. Under the coming of David into his Earthly Kingdom, the coming of Christ into his Heavenly Kingdom, being advanced after all his Debasements to be the Head stone of the Corner; And (4) Under the gladsome Appreeations of David's Subjects unto him, the like joyful Appreeations of Christ Spiritual Subjects unto him, are most notably shadowed forth and represented.

f Hoc Pulcherrimum carmen ——sim. de Musis in Arg. Ps. 118

That this is an Eminent Prophecy of Christ, is evident; 1. From Christs own Testimony, applying some part of the Psalm to himself. Compare ver. 22. 23. with Matth. 22. 42. Mat. 12. 10, 11. Luk. 20. 17. 2. From the Testimony of the Apostles, interpreting and accommodating the same passages unto Christ, ver. 22. 23 with Act. 4. 11. Ephes. 2. 20, 21. 1 Pet. 2. 4, 5, 6. 3. From the use that the people and Children of the Jews made of this Psalm. The Jews counted it so famous a Prophecy of Christ, that with some of the passages in this Psalm they welcome Christ into Jerusalem, singing Hoshiang-na, or Hosanna (as it's expressed in the Greek) to the Son of David, &c. i. e. Praying God most High to save the King Christ, who then came in the Name of the Lord, at his last Solemn entring into Jerusalem, compare Ps. 118. 25, 26. with Matth. 21. 9, 15. Luk. 19. 37, 38. As to the Form of this Psalm, it is one of those that have no Title prefixed g. And it is the last of those Eucharistical Psalms, concluding the Jews GREAT HALELU-JAH, as hath been heretofore noted h.

Penman of it was probably David. Forasmuch as, 1. It is such an Evident Prophecy of Christ, and his enemies, sufferings, and Kingdom, wherein David was especial Type of him. 2. It most exactly agrees to the condition of David, who was exercised with many enemies and afflictions round about, was opposed and rejected by the chief Rulers in reference to his Kingdom, and yet at last was by the peculiar hand and Providence of the Lord both delivered out of all his troubles, made victorious over all his enemies, & peaceably possessed of his Kingdom. Herein the Subject-matter of this Psalm and the History of David do most harmoniously agree.

Occasion of Davids Penning this Heroick and Triumphant Psalm, seems to be thus; David having been long exercised with varieties of enemies and afflictions, As with Saul's restless malice, and after his death with Ishbosheth Sauls son, who by the assistance of Abner (his, and his Father Sauls General) kept David for a time from his rightful Reign over Israel, 2 Sam. 2. 8, &c. to Chap. 5. 1. And Ishbosheth being dead, and David annointed King over Israel thereupon, while his Kingdom was now distracted and unsetled, David had sundry conflicts with the Philistines, whom he victoriously destroy'd, 2 Sam. 5. throughout. Now when God had delivered David from all his troubles and afflictions, and from all these his enemies, that he was quietly possessed of the Kingdoms both of Judah and Israel, and so became the Head-stone of the Corner: then he is thought by way of grateful return to God to have penned this glorious Psalm with an heart and mouth full and overflowing with Divine Praises i. Some think David penned it after he had subdued sundry other Forreign Nations, mentioned in 2 Sam. 8. considering the expressions here in Psal. 118. 10, 11. 12, 22. yea after David in a Battel with the Philistines had that dangerous conflict with Ishbibenob the Gyant, who being girt with a new Sword thought to have slain David, but Abishai succoured him and killed the Philistine, 2 Sam. 21. 15, 16, 17. k and indeed Psal. 111 ver. 13. seems to import some such deliverance of David from a particular enemy. Only this Battel with the Philistines and Ishbibenob seems to be too long after Davids annointing by Israel: whereas this Psalm seems to be written presently after Davids coming to the Crown of Israel, from ver. 22, 23, 24, 25. And there might be some other deliverance of David from a particular enemy meant in ver. 13. As Saul, or Ishbosheth, &c. or, his adversary spoken of there in the singular number, may be intended collectively of all his enemies.

Sect. IV. The Scope.

The Scope of the Psalmist intended in this Psalme, is; 1. Literally to incite all sorts to confesse and give thanks unto God the LORD for his goodness and eternal loving-kindnesse, as also to enlarge himself in all possible affectionate thankfulnesse to God, for hearing him in trouble, helping him to subdue and destroy all sorts of his enemies, and after all difficulties and oppositions stablishing him upon the Throne of his Kingdom over Israel, as well as Judah, making him (though at first a Stone rejected by the Builders, yet at last) the Head of the Corner, by the LORD's own wonderful dispensation. 2. Prophetically, To praise the LORD triumphantly, and to provoke others also to extoll him, For the true David the LORD Jesus Christ that was to descend of David according to the flesh, That God heard and supported him in all his distresses, enabled him to subdue and destroy all sorts of his Spiritual enemies; and after all his deep Humiliation, Rejection, and Sufferings at last raised him from the dead, advanced him to his Kingdom at his own right-hand, and so made him (once a Stone refused by the Builders) the Head of the Corner, uniting both Jewes and Gentiles into one Spiritual Building, Ephes. 2. 13. to the end.

Sect. V. The Analysis, or Principal Parts.

In this Psalme are chiefly considerable.

I. An Exhortation, To confess unto the LORD: viz. all due praise (As Hierome and Austin do here rightly interpret it to be A Confession, not of Mans sins, but of Gods praises l. Here note. 1. The Act of Gratitude; Confessing. 2. The Object praised and to be confessed unto; the LORD. 3. The matter or cause for which he is to be praised: 1: Partly, His Goodness. 2. Partly, His eternall loving-kindness, or merciful kindness: 4. The parties who are incited to this Duty are, Generally, All sorts. Particularly, Israel, Aarons house, and the Fearers of the LORD, v. 1, 2, 3, 4.

l Confessio hæc non ad peccatorum remissionem sed ad laudem perducit Deitatis, Hilar. in Com. ad Psal. 117. Tom. 8. Hic nicertè manifestum est, vocem confessionis & sonum, non ad merorem pœnitentiæ sed ad lætitiam Festivitatis celeberrimæ pertinere Aug. in Enarrat. Psal. 117. Tom. 8.

II. An Experimental Narration of the many and great Causes which the Psalmist himself had to praise the LORD, and trust in him alone, vers. 5, to 19. Here,

1. His trust and affiance in God in all straits and conditions: is hinted, viz. v. 6, 7.

2. The grounds of such his trust and confidence are declared, viz. Because, 1. The LORD answered him with much inlargement in the day of his distress, v. 5. 2. The LORD was for him against his foes, v. 6. Yea, was chief among his helpers, v. 7. 3. It is better to fly-to-the-LORD-for shelter and safety, then to any Man, v. 8. Yea, then to the chief Potentates among men, Princes, v. 9. 4. In the Name of the LORD, he had cut off and destroyed All Nations encompassing him, yea, encompassing him like Bees, v. 10, 11, 12. 5. The LORD singularly aided him against the dangerous enemy, that thrusting, thrusted at him to make him fall, v. 13. 6. The LORD hath been his strength, song, and salvation, v. 14. 7. The voice of joy and salvation is at last in the dwellings of the righteous, v. 15. 8. The right hand of the LORD doth valiantness, for his people that rest upon him, v. 15, 16. 9. He shall not now dye, though he hath been sore chastized, but live to declare the LORD's Acts, v. 17, 18.

III. An elegant and emphatical Description of Davids high thankfulness to God upon his full coming into his Kingdom over Israel, v. 19. to the end. And this is laid down Dialogue-wise, as if it were a Discourse betwixt divers speakers. Here,

1. David speaks to the Porters and Levites to open

to him the Court gates of the LORD's Tabernacle, Declaring that to be the LORD's Sanctuary-gate into which the righteous shall enter, v. 19, 20.

2. David being entred in, I. David confesseth to the LORD with thankfulness, 1. For hearing his Prayer. 2. For being his Salvation, v. 21. 3. For making him the Head Corner-stone in his Kingdome, though formerly refused by the builders, v. 22. This last is amplified elegantly by a double Epiphonema. 1. That, this work was of the LORD's own contriving, and marvellous in mens Eyes, v. 23. 2. That this was a Day of the LORD's own making, and therefore a Day of Joy and Gladness to his people, v. 24. II. The people appreciate Salvation and prosperity to their King, v. 25. As once the Disciples and Children did to Christ entering into Jerusalem, Matth. 21. 9. 15. Luk. 19. 37, 38. III. The Priests bless King David out of the Sanctuary, Coming in the Name of the Lord, v. 26. IIII. David thus having received the Acclamations of the people, and benediction of the Priest. 1. Offers his Thank-offerings to God, v. 27. 2. Professeth the Lord to be his God, and that he will confess him, and exalt him, v. 28. 3. Concludeth, with an Exhortation to all to confess unto the LORD, for his goodness, and eternal loving kindness (as he began the Psalme) v. 29.

Psalm CXIX.

Sect. I. The Summary Contents of the whole Psalme.

In this Psalme are promiscuously laid down, 1. The great happiness of all such as in Christ rightly observe God's Law, Word or Doctrine. 2. Manifold praises of the Excellencies of the Law or Word of God, and of the sweet effects of the same. 3. Many professions of dear affections and sincere obedience to the Law or Word of God. 4. Some complaints against his afflictions, Persecuting and oppressing Enemies, and wicked-mens breaking the Law of God. 5. And Sundry Sathetical Prayers, Petitions, wishes and desires in order to the Psalmists due observance of the Law and Word of God. Which things are so frequently intermingled, that the Method and order of them cannot so well be noted and pointed out in the whole Psalme, as in the several Othonaries or Parts thereof. And therefore in the explaining of this Psalme, The usual method must be a little altered: General Explications being premised before the whole Psalm; Particular Contents and Analysis being annexed to the several Othonaries.

Sect. II. The Nature or Kind, and Excellency of this Psalme.

I. The Nature or Kind of this Psalme may be considered, 1. As to the Subject-matter of it, which is mixt, and made up of Doctrines, Prayers, Praises, Professions, Holy Resolutions, Complaints, &c. variously interwoven: but all having some eminent tendency, respect, or reference to the Law or Word of God, in one respect or another. In which respect, Hierom seems to say; This Psalme contains in it a great mystery a. 2. As to the Form of penning it; It hath no Title or Inscription prefixed. As hath been formerly noted ou Psal. 1. Sect. 4. And that in regard we are destitute of some certain light touching the Penman and particular Occasion of it. It is one of the Alphabetical Psalmes (as hath been noted) penned after the order of the Hebrew Alphabet, which consists of 22 Letters b. For in this Psalme are 22 parts (which the learned call Othonaries, every part consisting of 8 verses or periods, and every of those verses in the Hebrew, beginning with the same Hebrew letter respectively. As all the 8 periods or verses in the first part or first Othonary begin with the first Letter א. All the 8 periods in the second Othonary begin with the second Letter ב. All the 8 periods of the third Othonary, begin with the third Letter ג. And so they proceed unto the end. The Alphabet therefore observed in this Psalme is singular and differing from the manner of the Alphabet observed in all the other Alphabetical Psalmes. Whereby (as one c hath noted well) is declared unto us; 1. The diligence of the Penner: that with very careful meditation it was framed. 2. The worth of the Psalme. In that the Spirit fretteth and enamelleth it with these Characters. 3. And the desire that the Reader should remember it, being thus in order of Elements set down. Though some think this was onely or chiefly done for the help of memory d. And this course seems to hint unto us the excellency of this and all other Alphabetical Psalmes, being most worthy to be got by heart, and retained in memory by the people of God. Hierome notes this Alphabetical order in this this Psalme; and withall tells us, That Josephus (in libris ἑξαπλοτέροις) reports, that this Psalme, and the Song in Deuteronomie were composed both in one Metre, An Elegial Metre; the first consisting of six feet, the next of five, Hexameters, and Pentameters e. For quantity, This is the longest of all the Psalmes in this whole Book by far, consisting of 22. Othonaries, or 22. Parts, in every of which are eight verses. But the matter being such an Heavenly Meditation, The longer it is (as one said) the better it is f.

II. The Excellency of this Psalme is notably indigitated to us, in the artificial & singular Alphabetical composure thereof; In the pleasant and sweetly ordered prolixity thereof; but especially in the Holy and Heavenly matter thereof. Hierome (as was noted) saith; This Psalme contains in it a great mystery. Augustine thought this Psalme so profound, that it is understood by few. And therefore in his Expounding of the Psalmes, he deferred this till the last: and said; The plainer it seemed to be, the profounder it was to him g. ——— Estey tells us; ——— It is altogether (as a man may term it) a Christal (not a flattering) glass of all true Godliness, or a Touchstone of all sincere-hearted worshippers of God, and lively Anatomy, or laying open of a good soul. Whereto the more one can find himself like the more mercy hath he found of God, and oweth him the more praise. I may truly say of this Psalm; That it is a sweet bundle of holy meditations; A discovery of that blessedness which eminently accompanies true godliness; A clear Map of sincere universal constant obedience to the Law of God; An admirable adumbration of the holy frame, disposition, constitution and affections of a right gracious spirit; And especially an high Elogy and magnifical Commendation of the excellent Law or Word of God, and of its singular usefulness to the People of God in their whole Pilgrimage here on Earth, and peculiarly in their deepest afflictions and persecutions: Insomuch (that as it is well observed ved h by divers) in this long Psalme, there is not one verse wherein there is not one Synonymous word or other denoting this Law or word of God. As Law, Statutes, Precepts, Commandment, Testimonies, Judgements, Justice, wayes of God, Word, Saying, Truth, Deposited-Precepts, &c. (all which are Synonyma's with much elegant variety of notion; setting forth the manifold perfections and excellencies of the Law or Word of God,) except in verse 122. wherein though such a word be not, yet the thing is implyed in the Metaphor of a Suretie, which is wont to be done or given by a word. And therefore it will be useful for us to understand the proper sense and meaning of these severall Synonyma's, by the frequent use whereof the Law or Word of God is here more magnified, then in any other psalme or portion of Scripture beside.

תורה Torah, Law, Doctrines, &c. Psalm. 119. 1. and often. It is derived from ורה Jarah, signifying primarily, To cast forth, viz. stones, arrows, drops, showers, &c. Secondarily, it signifies to Teach, Instruct &c. by a Metaphorical allusion to casting forth of rain or showers. For as the often casting forth of rain makes the Earth abound with fruit: so the often casting forth of Gods Will, Doctrine, &c. makes the soul fruitful in knowledge i. It properly signifies, A prescript, Reason, or Doctrine delivered or revealed by God, touching his Will, whereunto our life and practice is to be conform. It's of more general extent then the word, Law. It comprehends all parts of Divine Doctrine, being a very generall comprehensive word.

2. דרך Derech, way, viz. of the LORD, Psal. 119. 1. 3. and often. It is a Metaphorical allusion to the way or path wherein a man walks from place to place. And it denotes; 1. Sometimes that way, course, or habitual order of life and practise which God hath appointed us to walk in, and the Rule or Guide thereof his Word: 2. Sometimes, The example of God, which in some things we are required to follow; as to be Holy, merciful, perfect, &c. as he is holy, merciful, perfect, 1 Pet. 1. 16. Luke 6. 36. Matth. 5. 48.

3. ארח Orach, Way, Path, Manner, Custome, &c. Psal. 119. 15. &c. It is much of like signification with the former word, but not of so frequent use in the Holy Scripture.

4. דבר Dabar, Word, Speech, Psal. 119. 9. 16. and very often. This word is not applied, no not figuratively to things mute, that cannot speak, as Hebricians observe k. It denotes here Gods Word written whereby in a sort he speaks his mind and will to us. Generally, it imports the whole written Word of God. Specially, it sometimes imports his Word of Promise, as ver. 28. 65.

k Pagnin. Thes. in verb. דבר

5. אמרה Imra. A saying, a pronouncing, a promise, Psal. 119. 11, 38, 58. and often. Learned Hebricians do observe some Grammatical differences betwixt this and דבר l, viz. 1. That this word אמרה signifies the act of speaking, properly: but that word, the disposition of the thing or cause. 2. This word is applied to things dumb figuratively; as well as to things that can speak properly: but that word is only applied to things that can speak. 3. The word is still used with reference to another, to whom any thing is said: but that word is used oft-times without reference to any other. 4. In construction, This word is joyned onely with אל or ל but דבר is joyned with ב and את, and not אמר except when it signifies speaking in the heart.

6. חקים Chukkim, and חקות Chukkoth, Statutes, Decrees, Constitutions, constituted or prescribed Ordinations, &c. Psal. 119. 12. 16. and often. It properly denotes (as Mercerus m hath it out of Kimchi) Statutes, Decrees, Rites, Ceremonies, &c. appointed and ordained of God, about matters of Religion, or the worship of God, as Circumcision, Sacrifices, Festivals, &c. and specially for those institutions, the reason whereof is in great part unknown; As about not eating of Swines flesh, not wearing a garment of Linnen and Woollen, &c. n. But some contrariwise, by חקים understand (saith Calvin) Statutes or Rites divinely perscribed, whereof the certain Reason is evident o.

7. משפטים Mishpatim, Judgements, Psalm 119. 7. 20. and very often. This word is often joyned with Lawes and Statutes in Old Testament, Levit. 26. 46. and they are thus differenced, Lawes import Moral precepts as the Decalogue: Statutes, all Rites and Ceremonial Ordinances about matters of Religion, Divine Worship, &c. Judgements, imply all judicial Lawes touching political Rites, belonging to the protection and wel-fare of humane society. But when this word Judgements is used seperately and alone, without Lawes and Statutes, it may have a larger acceptation, as Mercerus hath noted p; Judgements are often Precepts which concern our neighbour, although often generally by this Name the Decrees of God, and things pronounced or judged by him are understood. Called Judgements, because still appointed by God in Judgement and Justice: as Calvin notes.

8. מצות Mitsuoth, Commandement, Mandates, &c. Psal. 119. 6, 10. 21. and often. It is derived from צוה To Command, Decree, &c. And that with the great Authority of the Law-giver (thinks q Ames,) And it properly notes; An obliging, or binding command. A command that binds to observe any thing: as Mercerus r observes,

9. פקודים Pikkudhim, Precepts Psal. 119. 4. 15. and often. It ariseth from the roote פקד To visite, require, command, constitute, deposit, committ any office, &c. And it properly signifies An inspection, A requiring, An Office, committed to another, &c. Hebrew Doctors say it imports properly, Precepts belonging to the equitie of Natures. Kimchi saith, They are those precepts which the understanding dictates, and are as it were a Deposited thing in the heart of man. Deposited Precepts, committed of trust to us to keep: As Ames, and S. de Muis t. So that this word is very emphatical.

10. עדות Ghueduth, Testimony, witness, Psal. 119. 2. and often. Its derived from עוד which in Hifil signifies To testifie, bear witness, &c. Hence Testimony denotes the Law and Commandements of God, which God gave in a way of Covenant to Israel (as Calvin notes:) To witness and testifie betwixt God and them the Covenanted agreement u. Hence the Ark containing the two Tables of the Law and Covenant, Deut. 5. 2, 3, 6. &c. Is called the Ark of Testimony, Exod. 25. 22. and 26. 33 and the Tabernacle containing the Ark, The Tabernacle of Testimony, Numb. 1. 11. And the Tables are called. The Tables of Testimony Exod, 31. 18. And 32. 15. and 34. 29. And The Testimony, Exod. 40. 20. But also generally this word Testimony, imports to us, the Word of God (saith Mercerus,) whereby God testifies his Will unto us x. And (as Ames further adds) Testimonies, so called; because this Will, as a Testimony or Testament of God, doth testifie, 1. Of Right what we ought to do. 2. Of Fact, when we do well or ill. 3. Of Event, what good or evil we are to expect according to the good or evil we do. And by this means it directs our Consciences in giving testimony, as well of our state, as of our actions past, present, and future y. So he.

11. צדק Tsedeck, Justice, Righteousness, Psal 119. 40. 142. 144. The Law and Word of God is so called; because 1. It is in it self most exquisitely and exactly just, right and equal, Rom. 7. 12. Psal. 19. 9. 2. It is justified by all manner of proofs, trials, and experiments, Psal. 138. 2. And ought still to be justified by all the children of wisedom, Matth. 11. 19. 3. It renders a man just and righteous before God that uprightly observes the Law and Word of God, Luke 1. 6.

12. אמונה Emunah, The Truth, faithfulness, Ps. 119. 30. 90. 142. 151. The Law and whole Word of God is so stiled, The Doctrine, Promises, Prophecies, Threats, Narratives, &c. thereof being most exactly true, true, faithful and ſure, without any the leaſt ſhadow of errour, deceit or falſhood.

By theſe twelve words (which for ſubſtance are Synonyma's, pointing out the Law and Word of God in this Pſalme) the excellency of this Pſalme, and of the Law and Word of God (the ſubject-Matter thereof) is notably illuſtrated, with Elegant variety. All which I thought neceſſary here to explain, becauſe the right ſenſe of them conduceth much to the true underſtanding of this choice Pſalme.

Sect. III. The Penman, Occaſion and ſcope of this Pſalm.

I. The Penman of this Pſalme is not here or elſewhere plainly declared who he was: But it is very probable, David was the Penman of the Holy Ghoſt in writing it. For, 1. The matter of it notably agrees to David's 19. Pſalm, wherein the Synonymous Denominations, and high praiſes of God's Law and Word are laid down, v. 7, 8, 9, &c. as in this Pſalm. 2. The afflicted and perſecuted ſtate of David, eſpecially under Saul, is frequently hinted in this Pſalm, what reproach, fears, dangers, injuries, oppreſſions, &c. he was expoſed unto by his enemies, yea, by Princes and great ones, See v. 19, 21, 22, 23, 25, 28, 39, 42, 46, 50, 51, 61, 67, 69, 70, 71, 75, 78, 84, 85, 86, 87, 92, 95, 98, 107, 109, 110, 115, 122, 134, 139, 141, 144, 150, 153, 154, 157, 161. which paſſages and expreſſions do moſt ſingularly agree to Davids condition, as it is repreſented in his Hiſtory, 3. This Pſalm doth all alone ſavour of the Spirit of David, being a lively Idæa of his Faith, Obedience, zeal, Heavenly affections and integrity in all. 4. This is one of the Alphabetical Pſalmes. There are in all, ſeven Alphabetical Pſalmes (as hath been hinted:) viz. Pſal. 25. 34. 37. 111. 112. 119, 145. Four of theſe, viz. Pſal. 25. 34. 37. 145. were Penned by David, as is evident by their Titles: the other three alſo, though untituled, more then probably were penned alſo by him, as both the matter of them clearly intimates, and this Alphabetical Manner of writing them (uſual with David) ſuggeſts unto us. 5. Interpreters, many conceive that David penned this Pſalm, though ſome are unſatisfied who wrote it z.

II. The Occaſion of the Pſalmiſts Penning this Pſalm ſeems from the Subject matter of it to be this; viz. David in the courſe of his Pilgrimage here on Earth, meeting with many and great viciſſitudes of affaires, conditions and divine diſpenſations, being excerciſed with many Enemies and potent Perſecutors; eſpecially King Saul, with deep diſtreſſes, plunges and difficulties; grievous dangers, afflictions and Perſecutions, and yet in them all being enabled by the rich Grace of his God, to adhere unto the Law and Word of God as his Guide, Counſellour, Comfort, Portion, Delight, &c. Whereby he held up his head in deepeſt waters of troubles, and at laſt happily arrived at a ſafe Shore: Did hereupon take Occaſion in this Pſalm to bundle up all thoſe his ſweet and Heavenly Meditations which in ſuch caſes he had in and about the Word of God, (his General Antidote againſt all Maladies and Calamities,) and his rich advantages reaped thereby in all conditions; That ſo he might out of his own experience magnifically extol the Word of God, and recommend the like uſe and improvement of it in all dangers, difficulties, troubles and afflictions whatſoever, to all the true-hearted people and ſervants of the Lord. Davids Practice and exerciſe in the Law of God, is here propounded for our Inſtruction and Exemplary Imitation.

III. The Scope of this Pſalm is; 1. To ſet forth the ſingular Happineſs of the Godly, that ſincerely love and obſerve the Law and Word of God in Chriſt. 2. To diſplay, praiſe and magnifie the incomparable Excellency, Worth, Preciouſneſs and uſefulneſs of the Word and Law of God unto his faithful people in all varieties of Conditions, Difficulties, Afflictions and Perſecutions, by his own great experience. 3. And to Encourage all the ſervants of the Lord, to make Gods word, their very Refuge and Remedy againſt all Evils, Extremities and Enemies whatſoever: Their Counſellour, Comforter, Portion, Heritage, Joy and Delight tranſcendent in all ſtates and conditions, throughout their Pilgrimage.

Sect. V. The Analyſis, or Principal Parts of the whole Pſalm.

Ambroſe obſerves; That ſeveral ſingular Sentences are explicated in the ſeveral verſes of this Pſalm a, &c. And for the moſt part it is ſo, throughout the Pſalm: It being made up of many conciſe Aphoriſmes or compendious Sentences, as moſt part of the Book of Proverbs is from chap. 10. &c. Like an heap of Gold rings or Precious ſtones, without connexion one to another. And therefore it will be very hard to repreſent any handſome Logical Analyſis of this whole Pſalm at once, which is prolixe and Sententious. The Contents and Parts of every Octonary ſeverally, may be more eaſily and profitably laid down. And as to the whole Pſalm, I ſhall content my ſelf with that diſtribution of it into xxij Parts according to the Number and Order of the Hebrew Alphabet, by the Penman of it.

In this First Octonary, (every verse whereof in the Hebrew begins with the First Letter א Aleph) Are considerable.

I. A Declaration, or Proposition of the wonderful Happiness of those that are truely obedient to God in his Word and Law. O the blessednesses, &c! This their obedience is illustrated, 1. By the Objects thereof, viz. God, himself, The Law of JEHOVAH: His Testimonies: His wayes. 2. By the Acts thereof Seeking, keeping, walking. 3. By the Adjuncts thereof, viz. Sincere Perfection of way or course of life. Entire Cordialness herein. Abnegation of all opposite iniquity. And constancy in all, ver. 1, 2, 3.

II. A Signification of the efficient Cause of keeping and observing Gods Precepts, viz. Gods will declared by his commands. This observing of his Precepts is amplified by the vehement and utmost endeavour that should be manifested therein; to be observed vehemently, ver. 4.

III. A Pathetical Description of the Psalmists singular Affection and zeal to this commanded obedience, wherein true Happiness is to be found, ver. 5. to the end. This his zealous Affection is laid down, and Amplified. 1. By way of serious wish, That his ways, his whole course of life, were so fixedly directed, that he might keep Gods Statutes ver. 5. 2. By the Reason of this wish, viz. A double advantage or effect that would ensue upon his obedience. That is; (1) An avoiding of shame and confusion by having sincere and entire respect to all Gods commandments, ver. 6. (2) An obtaining of sweet cause and Occasion of praising the LORD with righteousness of heart, upon learning the judgements of his justice, ver. 7. 3. By his holy Purpose of observing Gods statutes. Amplified, By a Deprecation of the LORD's utter deserting him: wherein is a tacit Imploration of the Lords assistance of him in his resolved obedience, ver. 8.

In this Second Octonary, (every verse whereof in the Hebrew begins with the Second Letter ב Beth) The true Happiness of the godly in observing and keeping Gods Law or Word, is notably illustrated and Amplified;

I. By the efficacy and singular usefulness of Gods Word to effect Sanctity and purity of life, yea even in a young man, whose life is most apt to be contaminated with all manner of youthful lusts, and who is most indisposed to be cleansed from them. Here note, 1. The

The Matter Propounded, which doth emphatically comprize and represent, 1. A great spiritual malady, viz. Sinful defilement of way, of Conversation, or course of life, implyed in that phrase; cleanse his way. 2. The Patient labouring under this Malady; A young man. Most apt to be corrupted: and most indisposed to be reformed and cured. Consequently, by a Synechd. We may here understand, any man. 3. The Remedy, (1) Inquired after; Wherewith shall he cleanse ——— ? (2) Discovered, Gods Word. (3) Applyed; By taking heed to his way, his life, according to his word. II. The Manner of Propounding, viz. In form of a Dialogue, by way of question and answer, for the more clearness and emphasis, ver. 9.

II. By that holy way or course of life, (wherein no small part of the Saints Happiness in this life consists,) according to the word, which the Psalmist here, and every Godly person answerably, desires and resolves to take, in order to this Sanctity and Purity, of life, v. 10. to 17. viz. Particularly, 1. In seeking the LORD with the whole heart. And specially, that he may not suffer him to wander from his commandements, v. 10. 2. In hiding Gods sayings in his heart, that he might not sin against him, v. 11. 3. In desiring the blessed LORD, to learn him his Statutes, v. 12. 4. In declaring abroad (for Gods honour and others spiritual benefit) all the judgements of Gods mouth, v. 13. 5. In rejoycing in the way of Gods Testimonies more then in all plenteous store of Riches, v. 14. 6. In mediating upon Gods Precepts, and contemplating or having respect to his wayes, v. 15. 7. In delighting himself, or recreating himself in Gods Statutes, and answerably not forgetting his Words, ver. 16.

In this Third Octonary (every verse whereof in the Hebrew begins with the third Letter of the Hebrew Alphabet ג Gimel) which is a devout Prayer, The Psalmist Petitioneth, in order to the inciting of his Heart to the due study of the Word of God.

I. More Generally, for the LORD's bounteous-beneficence towards himself, His servant, That he may live and observe Gods Word, wherein note, 1. The Eminency of the favour desired. Bounty. 2. The Author of it. 3. The Subject recipient; Thy servant. 4. The end for which this favour is desired, Subordinately, Life. Ultimately, Observing Gods word, v. 17.

II. More Particularly,

1. For Gods assistance of him against, and deliverance of him from all inward inherent infirmities and impediments, hindring his due understanding and keeping of Gods Word. As, 1. His darkness of mind, v. 18. 2. His Imperfection, in his absence from the Lord, during his Pilgrim condition on Earth, v. 19. Against both which his request is enforced very pathetically, by the constant vehemency or intensiveness of his Souls desires after Gods Judgements, v. 20.

2. For Gods defence against and deliverance from outward adventitious evils wherewith the world is wont to exercise the Godly that desire to keep Gods Testimonies; As; Reproach and Contempt. This is laid down, v. 22. And urged, 1. From Gods justice, who is wont to rebuke the Proud accursed, Wandring from Gods Commandements, v. 21. 2. From the Psalmists constant care to perform his Duty to Gods Word: 1. Keeping his Testimonies. 2. Meditating in his Statutes. 3. Making Gods Testimonies his Delights, and the men of his Counsel. And all this with undaunted resolution, notwithstanding Princes sate and spake against him, v. 22, 23, 24.

IV. Octonary.

This Fourth Octonary is a Prayer, setting forth the Excellent use of the Word of God in deepest afflictions

ons. Herein the Psalmist afflicted. 1. Prayes for certain benefits by or from the Word, for the better management of his afflictions. ver. 25. to 29. 2. Deprecates sundry other evils, ver. 29. to 33.

I. Version.

25. MY Soul unto-the-dust cleaves-fast:
Me-quicken a by thy word.
26. I shew'd my wayes, b heard me thou hast:
Teach me thy Statutes Lord.
27. Make-me-to understand the way
Of thy dear Precepts all.
And of thy wonders day by day
Much meditate I shall.

28. My Soul for-heavinesse doth drop:
According to thy Word.
Thou mercifully-raise-me-up.
29. c Take falshood's way abhor'd
From me: And give-me-graciously Thy Law clearly disclos'd.
30. The way of Truth chosen-have-I:
Thy judgements I propos'd.

31. I to thy Testimonies clave still:
LORD, d let no shame me charge.
32. Run thy Commandments way I will,
When e thou'lt my heart enlarge.

a Heb. according to thy—— b Heb. and thou answeredst me——.
c Heb. take-away, or, remove—— d Heb. let me not be asham'd with shame.
e Heb thou shalt.

II. Version.

25. MY Soul unto the dust cleaves-fast:
Me quicken according to thy Word.
26. I shew'd my wayes, a heard me thou hast:
Do-thou-teach-me thy Statutes, Lord.

27. Thy Precepts way b make-me-to-know
I'le on thy Marvels meditate.
28. My soul c for grief-doth-dropping-flow:
After thy Word d me elevate.

29. The way of falshood from me e take:
And thy Law give-me-graciously.
30. The way of Truth f my-choice-I-make,
Proposed thy judgements have I.

31. I to thy Testimonies clave still:
LORD, g let not shame me overcharge.
32. Run thy Commandments way I will:
When thou shalt my strait heart enlarge.

a Heb. and thou didst answer me.
b Heb. make me-to-understand.
c Heb. droppeth for heavinesse.
d Heb. raise me up. or; lift thou me up.
e Heb. take-away.
f Heb. I have chosen.
g Heb. let me not be asham'd with shame.

In this Fourth Octonary (every verse whereof in the Hebrew begins with the Fourth Letter of the Hebrew Alphabet ד Daleth) The Psalmist being under deep afflictions Prayeth, and in his Prayer represents the singular benefit and usefulness of Gods word in the heaviest distresses. To this end,

I. He Prayeth for sundry benefits by or from the Word, in order to his better management of his afflictions. As for, 1. Quickening according to his Word. Which is urged, from the Extremity of his distress, v. 25 *. 2. Instruction in his word. Urged, from Gods former Answering of his Prayers, Experimented, v. 26. 3. Information in the way of his Precepts. Urged, from his resolution and promise thereupon to Meditate on Gods wondrous-Works, v. 27. 4. Raising-him-up, according to Gods word. Pressed, From the intensiveness of his distress; His Soul dropping (as it were melted into teares and dissolved) through heaviness, v. 28.

II. He deprecateth divers evils, Especially; 1. The way of falshood. i. e. The false way of Religion, erroneous Doctrine, Opinion, Worship, &c. Or the false way of sinful practises, &c. Both opposed afterwards to the way of Truth. This is illustrated, (1) Partly, By the proper Antidote against this way of falshood, here desired; Gods Law given graciously to him, v. 29. (2) Partly, By his opposite study and endeavour; He having chosen the way of Truth, and Proposed Gods judgements to himself, v. 30. 2. Shame or Confusion. That notwithstanding all his deep distresses he may not be dasht for with shame, or be overwhelmed with shame as disappointed of his hopes of deliverance and Divine support, &c. This he amplifies and urgeth, (1) Partly, From his former Constancy of Faith and obedience, cleaving to Gods Testimonies, v. 31. (2) Partly, From his pious Resolution for future, To mend his pace in the way of Gods commandments, When God shall enlarge his sadned and straitned heart, v. 32.

* Theodosius the Emperour being sharply reproved by Ambrose for his slaughter of about 7000. at Thessalonica innocent and nocent, without distinction, &c. entring into the Temple, not standing nor kneeling, but casting himself down upon the ground, recited that verse of Davids; My Soul cleaveth unto the dust, quicken me according to thy Word; and rearing his hair with his hands, he began to beat his forehead, to water the ground with his tears, and beg pardon, &c. Theod. Eccl. Hist. l. 5. c. 17.

V. Octonary.

This V. Octonary is also A Prayer of like Nature to the former, Touching the use of the Word in the Evil of affliction. And as in the former the Psalmist had prayed for benefit by the Word against the Misery of Afflictions: So here he prays for good by the Word against the Temptations of Afflictions; 1. Petitioning to be Informed in, and inclined to Good, ver. 33. to 36. 2. Deprecating sundry Temptations unto Evil, ver. 36. to 41.

I. Version.

33. O LORD, teach me thy Statutes way,
a To keep it to the end.
34. b Learn me, that keep thy Law I may,
And c with whole heart it tend.
35. In thy Commands path make-me-go:
For d there my pleasure lies.
36. Thy Testimonies bow mine heart to
And not to avarice.

37. From seeing vainness mine eyes e turn;
In thy wayes quicken me,
38. To thy servant f thy Word confirm,
That's fix'd to-fear-of thee.
39. My g fear'd reproach away-turn-thou:
For, good thy judgements be.
40. Lo, I-have-love thy Precepts to:
In h Justice quicken me.

a Heb. And I shall keep it——.
b heb. make me understand.
c heb. with all the heart observe it.
d heb. in it have pleasure.
e heb. turn away.
f heb. thy saying.
g heb. reproach which I fear.
h heb. thy justice.

II. Version.

33. O LORD, teach me thy Statutes way,
And I shall keep it to the end.
34. a Learn me, that keep thy Law I may
And it with all the heart b attend.

35. In thy Commands path make-me-go:
Because in it c my pleasure lies.
36. Thy Testimonies bow mine heart to,
And not to loathsom avarice.

a heb. make me understand.
b heb. observe——.
c heb. I have pleasure.

2. From

37. From seeing vainness mine eyes d turn:
Me virify in thy wayes dear.
38. To thy servant e thy Word confirm,
That it addicted to-thy-fear.

39. f My fear'd reproach away-turn thou:
For very good thy Judgments be.
40. Lo, I have-love thy Precepts to:
Thou in thy Justice quicken me.

In this Fifth Octonary, (every verse whereof in the Hebrew begins with the Fifth Letter of the Hebrew Alphabet ה He) the Psalmist continues his Prayer, in reference to his Afflictions, and the Temptations incident thereupon, for benefit by the Word of God. And herein,

I. He petitioneth for good, viz. 1. To be taught the way of Gods Statutes. This is urged from his scope therein; that he may keep it to the end, ver. 33. 2. To be made to understand, to be made intelligent. This is urged, from his intended practice in keeping Gods Law, and entire observing thereof, ver. 34. 3. To be made to tread in the path of Gods Commandments, urged, from his delight therein, ver. 35. 4. That the LORD would incline his heart unto his Testimonies, v. 36. in the beginning.

II. He deprecateth, or prayeth against sundry Evils, or Temptations and Inducement to evils. As, 1. Against his hearts inclination to evil Concupiscences, Synechdochically noted by one kind thereof, Covetousness, v. 36. latter end. 2. Against all false vanity, all vain and evil external Objects, that by means of the outward senses are apt to make ill Impressions upon the Inward Soul: That his Eyes may be turn'd away from beholding them. This is Illustrated by the fruits or effects that shall be consequent thereupon, viz. (1) His Quickening in Gods wayes, v. 37. (2) The Confirming and Fulfilling of Gods Saying, Gods Promise unto him, addicted to his fear, v. 38. 3. Against all reproach and infamy, which through his failings he was afraid might fall upon him: that it might be averted and prevented. This is urged, From the goodness of Gods Judgments, whereby he should be preserved from this evil, v. 39. 4. Against all spiritual dulness and deadness in his obedience: implied in his Petition for Quickening him. This Quickening is urged; Partly, from Gods Righteousness and Justice. Partly, from his own affectionate love and desire after Gods Precepts, ver. 40.

VI. Octonary.

The VI. Octonary is mixt of Petitions, and holy Resolutions, Purposes, or Promises, upon the obtaining of those Petitions. These are interwoven one with another. Herein the Psalmist 1. Prayeth for Mercy and Salvation out of his Afflictions, ver. 41, 42. 2. Deprecateth, or Prayeth against Gods pulling the Word of Truth out of his mouth, ver, 43. 3. Professeth hereupon his endeared Respects to, and observance of Gods VVord, In VVork, VVord, and Heart, ver. 44. to 49. In the whole here's the right use of Gods VVord after deliverance out of Affliction.

I. Version.

41. ANd let-thy-loving-kindnesses
Come unto me, O LORD;
Ev'n thy Salvation from distress
According-to-thy-* VVord.
42. a Then shall I answer easily
b Him-that-reproacheth-me,
Because c I trusting-did-rely Upon thy VVord and thee.

43. And thou Truth's VVord take not away
From my mouth d utterly:
Because I for thy Judgments ay
Have-waited-hopefully.
44. And I thy Law will keep alwayes,
For ay and evermore.
45. And I shall walk e at large, because I sought thy Precepts lore.

46. And of thy Testimonies deare
I will speak f in the sight
Of Kings, and not be sham'd or feare.
47. And * I'le-my-self-delight
In thy Commands, which I have lov'd.
48. And g will mine hands up-rise
To thy Commands, which I have lov'd:
And on thy Statutes h muse.

f Heb. before or; in the presence of——
* heb. I will delight my self-delightfully. The root is doubled.
g heb. I will lift-up-my-palms—— h Heb. I will meditate.

II. Version.

41. *TO me let come thy a mercies all,
As-thou-saidst, thy Salvation, LORD
42. And b I my Scorner answer shall,
Because I trusted in thy VVord.

43. c Truth's VVord quite from my mouth take (never,
For, for thy Judgements waite did I.
44. And I thy Law will observe d ever,
For ay and perpetuity.

45. And in large-roomth then I shall walk,
For I thy Precepts sought and claim'd.
46. e I'le of thy Testimonies talk,
Before great Kings, and not be sham'd.

47. I also will in thy Commands,
Which I have lov'd f, me recreat.
48. And g lift to thy lov'd Lawes my hands,
And on thy Statutes meditate.

* Heb. And to——.
a Heb. loving kindnesses, according to thy Saying.
b heb. I shall answer my upbraider avoid,
c heb. And pull not the word of trueth utterly unto vehemency.
d Heb. All-waies.
e Heb. And I shall speak.
f Heb. or I delight my self delightfully loved which I have g Heb. I will lift up my palmes to thy commands

In this VIth Octonary, (every verse whereof in the Hebrew begins with the Sixth Letter of the Hebrew Alphabet ו Vau) the Psalmist praying for Gods Loving-kindnesses and Salvation of him from affliction, & that God would not utterly take the Word of Truth out of his mouth, viz. by non-performance of his Promises, &c. for fulfilling whereof he desires his mouth might still magnifie him; Professeth and promiseth upon receipt of these favours by way of gratitude, to respect and observe his Word and Law, in Deed, Word, and Heart. More Particularly,

I. He prayeth, 1. For Gods Loving-kindnesses and Salvation (viz. out of Affliction,) that they might come to him. Where he expresseth, (1) The Ground of this his Petition, viz. Gods Word of Promise &c. v. 41. (2) The good effect which will ensue upon granting of it, viz. Thereby he shall be really furnished with an Answer to every one that reproacheth him for trusting in the Word of God, ver. 42. 2. For constant Cause or Occasion of extolling the Word of Truth in his mouth, viz. Upon Gods performance of his Word of Promise to him. This is implied in his Deprecating the contrary. And it is urged, from the Psalmists hopeful waiting for Gods Judgements of his mouth to be accomplished for him accordingly, v. 43.

II. He Professeth, Resolveth and Promiseth, by way of gratitude upon Gods performance of his Requests, 1. In Deed, (1) His continual observance of Gods Law, ver. 44. (2) His constant walking in much enlargednesse, having sought Gods Precepts. (This Enlargednesse may import, either the enlargednesse of his heart in his duty, as ver. 32. or the enlargednesse and plainnesse of his way wherein he is to walk. As Psal. 18. 36. or the enlargednesse of his condition in way of mercy from God, as Psal. 4. 1.) ver. 45. 2. In word, his speaking of Gods Testimonies, to their praise, &c. even before Kings: and not being ashamed of them, ver. 46. 3. In Heart, (1) His delighting himself in Gods Commandments which he had loved, ver. 47. (2) His meditating in Gods Statutes. Amplified by his Resolution of revolving and lifting his hands to Gods Commandments, which he had loved. ver. 48.

VII. Octonary.

This VII. Octonary is of mixt Nature, being Petitory, and Narratory. Wherein the Psalmist 1. Petitioneth for divine favour in his distress, ver. 49. 2. Declareth what great and manifold comfort he had from Gods Word in his greatest afflictions, ver. 50. to 57.

I. Version.

* Heb. remember.
a Heb. unto vehemency.
b Heb. I remembred thy Judgements of old

49. *THe Word unto thy servant minde,
For which thou mad'st me waite.
50. In mine affliction still I finde
This is my Comfort great:
That thy sweet Saying quickneth me.
51. The proud *a*exceedingly Me scorn'd: But from thy Law or thee Declined have not I.

52 LORD, b I recall'd thy Judgments old:
And my self comforted.
c Heb. burning horrour, or, a stormy terrour.
d Heb. or, from the wicked.
53. c Great-horrour did on me take-hold,
d For wicked ones missed,
Forsakers of thy Law through Sin.
54. Thy Statutes precious
Have unto me been Songs within My Pilgrimages house.

55. Thy Name remembred I by night,
LORD, and thy Law observ'd.
56. This was to me: because aright
Thy Precepts I conserv'd.

II. Version.

a Heb. remember.
b Heb. affliction.
c Heb. unto vehemency
d Heb. of old I remembred, & comforted my self.

49. THe Word unto thy servant a minde,
For which thou-mad'st-me-wait on thee.
50. My comfort in my b woI finde
This; That thy saying quickneth me.

51. The proud have scorn'd me c vehemently:
I have not from thy Law declin'de.
52. O LORD, thy Judgments d old did I,
To my great comfort, call-to-minde.
53. e Great-horrour did on me take hold;
For wicked, that thy Law do leave.
54. Within my Pilgrimages house
Been Songs to me thy Statutes have.

e Heb. burning horrour hath seized on me, because of the wicked, that forsake thy Law.

55. By night remembred I thy Name,
O LORD; And I thy Law observ'd.
56. Unto me therefore was this same,
Because thy Precepts I conserv'd.

In this Seventh Octonary (every verse whereof in the Hebrew begins with the Seventh Letter of the Hebrew Alphabet ז Zain) The Psalmist, in reference to his Afflictions and distresses,

1. Petitioneth to the Lord, That he would Remember his word of Promise to him, wherein he had made him hopefully to wait, verse 49.

II. Declareth, and confesseth thankfully before the Lord, what great benefit and comfort he had from and in his word, in all his afflictions, verse 50. &c. The manner and way of his Comfort in Affliction by the Word, is particularized. viz. 1. By the vital vertue and enlivening efficacy of Gods Saying, especially his word of Promise, in affliction, vers. 50. The vigour of this his Comfort is amplified. By the concomitant and adjuvant Cause thereof, viz. His constancy in Gods Law, notwithstanding all the excessive scornes of his proud persecutors, verse 51. 2. By his remembring and meditating upon the LORD's Judgments of old. viz. Not only the ancient Judgements of his mouth Recorded in his Word: But also the Antient Judgements of his hands mentioned in his Word, both upon the wicked, and upon the godly; and how differently God deals with both f, verse 52. This is Amplified by the effect wrought upon him, by his remembring of Gods Judgements of old, viz. dreadful horrour for the wicked, the forsakers of Gods Law; whilst he considered their condition, verse 53. 3. By making the LORD's Statutes his Songs in the House of his Pilgrimages, wherever he as a Pilgrim sojourned, ver. 54. 4. By remembring Gods Name in the Night. Which is illustrated by the effect Practical, Hereby he was inclined to keep Gods Law, ver. 55. 5. By his keeping of Gods Precepts, which was a singular ground of all this his comfort from the Word. This I had——Heb. This was to me, viz. This manifold and sweet Consolation in all mine Affliction was vouchsafed me from thy Word, because I kept thy Precepts, verse 56.

VIII. Octonary.

This VIII. Octonary is a zealous Prayer. The Psalmist, having in the former Octonary declared his singular comfort from the Word in his afflictions, doth here subjoyn and set forth his great zeale towards the LORD and his VVord, being acted and enlivened thereunto by his former Consolations. This his Zeal, Study, and Profession towards God and his VVord is described, 1. By the Adjuncts thereof, v. 57. 2. By the Effects thereof, ver. 58. to 65.

I. Version.

b Heb. Thy faces I carnestly besought.
c Heb. or shew grace to me

57. MY Portion, LORD, alone thou art;
I said, a I le keep thy words,
58. b Thy face besought I with whole heart,
c Thou-mercy-me-afford.

Accord-

According to thy saying sure.
59. My wayes I thought upon,
And to thy Testimonies pure,
I turn'd my feet anon.

60. I hasted to keep thy commands,
And lingred not a jot
61. Me robbed have the wicked's Bands:
Thy Law forgot I not.
62. From sleep at Midnight will I rise,
To the praise-to-confess;
For judgements (which I dearly prize)
Of thine-own-righteousness.

63. d Mate am I to all that thee fear,
And that thy Precepts keep.
64. LORD, Earth's full of e thy mercy deare:
Learn me thy Statutes deep.

d Heb. Companion am I to all that fear.

II. Version.

57. MY Portion, LORD, alone thou art;
I said, that I will keep thy words.
58. a Thy face besought I with whole heart:
As thou hast said, me-grace-afford.

59. I thought upon my wayes, and to Thy Testimonies turn'd my feet.
60. I hasted, and b slack'd not, to do
All thy commands it was most meet.

61. Bands of the wicked robbed me:
Forgot thy Law yet have not I.
62. I'le raise at Midnight c to praise thee,
For judgements of thine Equity.

63. Companion unto all am I
That fear the, and thy Percepts keep.
64. Earth's full of thy d benignity,
O LORD: Learn me thy Statutes deep.

d Heb. kindness. mark.

In this Eight Octonary, (every verse whereof in the Hebrew begins with the Eighth Letter of the Hebrew Alphabet ח Cheth,) the Psalmist professeth his singular zeal and affection towards God and his Word, and described it in his Prayer,

I. By the Adjuncts thereof, viz. 1. His Intensive estimation of and affection to God, as his Portion. 2. His deliberate and fixed Resolution to keep Gods words; I said——verse 57. This verse may be variously rendred out of the Hebrew: Portion being referred either to the LORD, or to the keeping of his Words. As; My Portion, thou art O LORD, I said——Or; O LORD, my Portion; I said, To keep thy Words. Or; My Portion, O LORD, I said it is, To keep thy words. For Substance both of them are to the same effect: But I rather incline to referre [Portion] to the LORD.

II. By the effects, Fruits, or Consequents thereof, viz. I. His earnest Petition for Gods favour according to his Promissory saying. Wherein note, 1. The Object desired, Gods favour; Thy face. viz. In showing-Grace to him. 2. The fervency of the Prayer; I earnestly-besought——with all the heart. 3. The moving cause, the external impulsive cause, as also the rule and measure thereof, Gods Promise; according to thy saying, verse 58. II. His Repentance. 1. In aversion from evill, upon considering his wayes. 2. In conversion to good, verse 59. III. His singular care of an holy Religions course of life. This is set forth, 1. By his ready zeal thereunto without delay. verse 60. 2. By his constancy therein, even against greatest impediments, distrations and provocations, v. 61. 3. By two principal Acts and discoveries thereof, viz. (1.) His arising at midnight to confess to the LORD for the judgements of his righteousness, verse 62. (2.) His condecending to be a Companion to all that fear God and keep his Precepts, ver. 63. IIII. His further request to the LORD, to Learn him his Statutes, in order to all this. Which request he urgeth from the abundance of Gods loving-kindness throughout the Earth, verse 64.

IX. Octonary.

The IX. Octonary is A Prayer, Wherein the Psalmist, 1. Thankfully acknowledgeth the good which he already received from the Lord, in his afflictions, and according to Gods Word, verse 65. 2. Earnestly Petitioneth for further good, judgement, and knowledge in the Word. Urging this request by many Arguments, verse 66. to 73.

I. Version.

65. O LORD, good with thy servant thou a After thy word hast done.
66. b Good sense and skill learn me: For thy Commands beleiv'd I on.
97. I, ere afflicted, c went astray:
But now d thy word I keep
68. Thou art good, and dost good alway:
Learn me thy Statutes deep.

69. The proud e forg'd lyes of me: I keep Thy Precepts with f whole might.
70. Their heart is-gross as-fat: But I
Me in thy Law delight.
71. O, it is good-for me, that I Have been afflicted thus:
That I may learn more perfectly.
Thy Statutes precious.

72. The Law g which thy mouth did express
To me is better farr, Then all the thousands numberless
Of Gold and Silver are.

b Heb. Goodness of taste (or, a favour, sense judgement, &c.) and knowledge c Heb. erring straying.
d Heb. thy Saving.
e Heb. or composed; against me a lye or falshood.
f Heb. all the heart.
g Heb. of thy mouth.

II. Version.

65. O LORD, good with thy Servant thou
According to thy word hast done.
66. a Good sense and knowledge learn me, how.
For thy commands beleiv'd I on.

67. I, ere afflicted, b went astray:
But now thy saying I observe.
68. Thou art good, and dost good alway:
Learn me thy Statutes, left I swerve.

69. The proud against me c forg'd a lye:
I keep thy Precepts d with whole might.
70. Their heart is gross as fat: But I Did in thy Law my-self-delight.

71. Good for-me that afflict-I-was:
That I may learn thy Statutes sure.

In this Ninth Octonary, (every verse whereof in the Hebrew begins with the Ninth Letter of the Hebrew Alphabet, ט Teth) the Psalmist.

I. Acknowledgeth thankfully that good which the Lord had already done to him and for him, viz. in referreference to his Affliction; As supporting him under them, benefiting him by them, and delivering him out of them. This is amplified by the causes thereof, 1. Gods faithfulness, as the Fountain. 2. Gods Word of promise, as the Channel or Instrumentall cause, ver. 65.

II. Prayeth devoutly, For further goodness of Sense, savour, taste, relish, or judgement, and knowledge. viz. In the Word of God, ver. 66. beginning. This request he Vehemently Urgeth by sundry Arguments. As, 1. From his Faith in the Word, verse 66. to the end. 2. From his Reformation wrought upon him by Affliction, described by (1) His straying before Affliction. (2) His keeping Gods saying afterwards. ver. 67. 3. From the Nature of God. Being good, and doing good, ver. 68. 4. From the integrity of his heart and good Conscience towards this Word of God, wherein he desires more and more to be instructed. This is set forth, (1) Partly, By his constancy, In keeping Gods Precepts with all his heart, notwithstanding all the lyes and falshoods that his proud Adversaries had cunningly forged and contrived against him, ver. 69. In delighting himself also in Gods Law, though his proud Enemies hearts made gross and senseless as fat, were hardned against it, ver. 70. (2) Partly, By his proficiency and reaping much good by his Afflictions and oppositions of his Enemies. Thereby gaining more Experimental and practical insight into Gods Statutes, ver. 71. Thereby also being brought to a more high Estimation of the Law of Gods mouth accounting it better to him then thousands of Gold and Silver, ver. 72.

X. Octonary.

This X. Octonary is A Prayer also, 1. For Divine Instruction in the Word and Law of God, ver. 73. to 76. 2. For Divine Mercy and consolation, v. 76. to 80. 3. For integrity of heart in Gods Statutes, verse 80.

I. Version.

73. ME made and a fashion'd have thine hands:
To-understand-make-me,
That I may learn all thy commands.
74. Thy fearers shall me see,
And joy, b that I hop'd for thy Word.
75. I know, that righteousnes
Thy judgements are, and thou hast, Lord,
Me c scourg'd in faithfulness,

76. Oh, let thy loving-kindness ay
To comfort me be near:

74. They'l see me, and joy, that fear thee:
Because b my hope for thy Word stands.

75. I know Lord, just thy judgements be,
c Thou me afflict'st in faithful-way.
76. Oh, let thy d mercy comfort me,
As to thy servant thou didst say.

77. Thy bowel-Mercies unto me
Do thou let come, that live I may:
Because thy Law, is and shall be
My Soul's endear'd e delights alway,

78. The proud let be asham'd, for they f Perversly-us'd-me causelessly:
But in thy Precepts night and day
Devoutly meditate will I.

79. Thy fearers shall to me convert,
And who thy Testimonies know.
80. g Sound in thy Statutes be my heart,
That shame may not me overflow.

In this Tenth Octonary (every verse whereof in the Hebrew begins with the 10th. Letter of the Hebrew-Alphabet, י Jod) the psalmist prayes for sundry blessings, having in all of them a singular aim and respect to the Word of God, As,

I. For more compleat understanding, that he may learn Gods Commands. This Petition is urged earnestly, 1. From Gods Creating and Fashioning him. Therefore he was able more and more to illuminate him, and as it were to New-create him, ver. 73. 2. From the effect of joy, which they that fear God should manifest, upon sight of him so illuminated, ver. 74. 3. From his own ingenuous acknowledgement of the righteousnes of Gods judgements, and that in very faithfulnes according to his word he had afflicted him, for good: and therefore now he was the better fitted and prepared to receive Gods instructions, ver. 75.

II. For Gods loving-kindness, to comfort him against his dejections, according to Gods promise, ver. 76. and for his bowel-mercies, to quicken him against all deadness. These requests he urgeth, 1. From his singular delights in Gods Law, the instrumental means of comfort and quickning, ver. 77. 2. From the shame and confusion that hereupon shall befal his proud enemies, depraving him falsly, causelessly. Which evil carriage of theirs is aggravated by the Psalmists opposite religiousness, meditating in Gods Precepts, ver. 78. 3. From the gathering together of the godly unto the Psalmist thus honoured with Gods mercies. These godly are described, 1. By their fear of God. 3. By their knowledge in Gods Testimonies, or Word, v. 79.

III. For perfection and integrity of heart in Gods Statutes. Urged, From the great mischief that would ensue upon the Psalmist in case his Prayer should not be granted: He should be ashamed of his hope and trust in God, &c. v. 80.

כ

XI. Octonary.

This XIth Octonary is a continuation of the Psalmists Prayer under his affliction continued. Wherein the Excellent use of Gods Word under Gods delaying of expected help and relief against long afflictions, is notably represented. Here, 1. He complaines of the greatnesse of his misery under his long continued afflictions ver. 81. to midst of 84. 2. He Petitions for Divine Judgement upon his persecuting enemies, and for Gods aid against them, ver. 84. to 88. 3. He prays for quickning, ver. 88.

I. Version.

81. MY Soul for a thine health faints-away,
While for thy Word I wait.
82. Mine eyes b fail for thy Word: I say,
When wilt me consolate?
83. Though I am parched like unto
A Bottle in the smoke,
Yet did I not forget, start fro,
Thy sacred Statutes yoke.

84. How many are thy servants dayes?
c When shall thy judgements be Done on my Persecutors wayes?
85. The proud digg'd pits for me d To thy just Law which do not suit.
86. e Truth are all thy commands:
They f wrongfully me persecute,
Help thou me from their hands.

87. Almost consumed me had they
On Earth, to be forgot,
But thy choice Precepts, my Souls stay,
Forsaken have I not.
88. After g thy Mercy and thy Truth
Do thou me vivify:
The Testimony of thy mouth
Then well observe shall I.

II. Version.

81. MY Soul for thy Salvation a quailes:
Whilst for thy Word I hoping-wait.
82. For thy dear b mine eyes do fail,
Saying, when wilt me consolate?

83. I've not forgot thy Statutes wayes,
Though I as Bottle am c in fume.
84. How many are thy servants dayes?
When d wilt my Persecutors doome?

85. The proud have digged pits for me, e To thy just Law which doth not suit.
86. All thy Commandments f faithful be,
Help me, g whom they mis-persecute.

87. Almost they me consum'd on Earth:
But h from thy Laws I did not swerve.
88. After thy mercy quicken me:
And thy mouth's i Records I'le observe.

a Heb. or; Is consumed.
b Heb saying mine eyes are consumed.
c Heb. In the smoke.
d Heb. wilt thou do upon my persecutors judgment.
e Heb. which is not according to thy Law.
f Heb. faithfulnesse.
g Heb. they persecute me falsly, wrongfully, causelesly.
h Heb. I have not forsaken thy Statutes. i Heb. Testimony.

In this Eleventh Octonary (every verse whereof in the Hebrew begins with the Eleventh Letter of the Hebrew--Alphabet, כ Caph) The Psalmist having been long continued and exercised under afflictions, and, still Divine help and deliverance being delayed, showes what use he made of Gods word in that case, for our instruction and imitation in like condition.

I. He complains of the greatnesse of his misery, through his afflictions continued, and Gods help delayed. So great were his miseries, that 1. His Soul fainted for Gods salvation. Yet he still hopefully-waited on Gods Word, ver. 81. 2. His eyes failed for Gods Word of promise, that it might be fulfilled in Gods comforting of him, which he thought long deferred; When wilt thou comfort me? ver. 82. 3. His body was lean, shrivelled, and wrinkled like a Bottle dryed in the smoak. Which is Amplified, by his not forgetting Gods Statutes in all this extremity, vers. 83. 4. The dayes of his misery, and the time when it should end, was wholly in suspence and uncertain to him, v. 84. at the beginning.

II. He Petitions God to avenge him of his Persecutors, and help him against them: Complaining that God herein so long delayed, v. 84. latter end, &c. Enforcing these his requests, 1. From the fidelity of all Gods commands. 2. From the unlawful, injurious, and wrongful dealing of his proud Persecutors, v. 85. 86. 3. From the extremity of his distresse which they had brought upon him, having almost consumed him. This is illustrated, by his constancy in Gods Precepts notwithstanding, v. 87.

III. He closeth up all, Praying the LORD according to his loving-kindness to quicken him. Urging this request, by his promise observe the Testimony of Gods mouth when he shall so be enlivened, v. 88.

ל

XII. Octonary.

This XIIth Octonary is a devout Prayer. As, in the former he sets forth his distresse and misery while his affliction was continued, and Gods help was deferred; and what respect he had to Gods Word in the mean time: So in this Octonary the Psalmist showes how he comforted himself by Gods Word during the said continued affliction and temptation upon him, viz. By considering well the exquisite perfection of the Word and Will of God, ver. 89. to 94. 2. By Praying for Gods Conservation of him in his afflicted condition, ver. 94, 95, 96.

I. Version.

89. FOr ever a stedfast is thy word,
LORD, in the Heavens high.
90. To generation and generation
Is thy fidelity:
Thou-hast-established b the Land,
And firmly stand-it-shall.
91. This day they to thy judgments stand:
For thy servants are all.

92. c Had not thy Law been my Delights,
In mine affliction
Then had I perished outright.
93. For ever d I'le think on a Heb. or 3 standing, settled.

b Heb. the Earth.
c Heb. unless thy Law had been my delightful-delights, the Root is doubled in the word.
d Heb. I will not forget.

Thy precious Precepts: For by those Thou didst me vivify.
94. I am thine, save thou me; because Thy Precepts sought have I.

95. The wicked-ones for me did waite
Me wholly to destroy:
But I thy testimonies great
Consider in my eye.
96. An end of all perfection I
Have seen in full extent:
But ever all e broad vehemently
Is thy Commandement.

e Heb. or, large-wide. i.e. of infinite extent. &c.

II. Version.

89. O LORD, thy Word in Heavens high a Is settled to perpetual-ay.
90. To b each age thy fidelity:
Thou Earth did'st found, and it shall stay.

91. This day they to thy judgements stand:
For thine-own servants are they all.
92. c Had not thy law been my delights,
Then had I perish'd, in d my thrall.

93. e Forget thy Precepts will I never,
For thou by them f my life hast wrought.
94. I am thine, save thou me for ever,
Because I have thy Preceepts sought.

95. The wicked watch'd me, me to stroy:
But I'le thy g Records understand.
96. Of all perfection end saw I:
But b vehemently large is thy Command.

a Heb. or, is standing for ever.
b Heb. generation and generation.
c Heb. unless thy law had been my delightful delights. the Root is doubled in the word.
d Heb. my affliction.
e Heb. For ever I will not forget.
f Heb. hast quickned me.
g Heb. Testimonies consister.
h Heb. vehemently large, broad, wide, &c. i.e. of boundless extent and comprehensiveness.

In this Twelfth Ogdoary (every verse whereof in the Hebrew begins with the twelfth Letter of the Hebrew Alphabet, ל Lamed,) the Psalmist comforts himself (for our instruction and imitation in like case) under his continued afflictions, especially two wayes: viz.

I. By a serious and exact consideration had of the matchlesse perfection of Gods Will and Word. This Perfection thereof he sets forth, 1. By the immutable and heavenly constancy or perpetuity thereof, v. 89. 2. By the faithfulnesse of God, (viz. in his word) to all Generations. 3. By Gods firme establishment of the Earth, and the course of all things therein to this day, by vertue of his Judgments, viz. his Word, Ordinance, and Appointment. The reason whereof is given from Gods Dominion and Rule over all, as his servants, v. 90, 91. 4. By the Psalmists own Experience, who in his great and long afflictions was sufficiently comforted by the Law and Word of God, when all other succour failed, v. 92. This his noble Experience he illustrates by one excellent effect thereof upon him, viz. That he would never forget Gods Precepts, whereby the LORD did so quicken him, ver. 93.

II. By earnest Prayer to the LORD to save and preserve him in his long and great afflictions. This his request he urgeth, 1. From the Interest and Propriety that God had in him; I am thine, save thou me. 2. From his zeal to, and diligent seeking after Gods Precepts, v. 94. 3. From his constant study and consideration had of Gods Word, notwithstanding all his mortal dangers of being destroyed by his wicked enemies, ver. 95. The reason of which his constant adhering to Gods Word, he tacitly declares to be the infinite fulnesse, comprehensiveneſse, and perfection of Gods Word, surpassing all other perfection in this World as he observed in his own experience, v. 96.

XIII. Ogdonary.

This XIII. Ogdonary contains the Psalmists holy Exclamation, touching 1. His intensive love to the Law and Word of God, ver. 97. to 103. 2. His sweetest Delight in the Word, ver. 103, 104. Both resulting from his experience of the Words exceeding consolatory vertue in time of Affliction, as was expressed in the former Ogdonary.

I. Version.

97. O How love I thy Law! All day
a I meditate thereon.
98. Thou-mak'st-me-wiser than my foes,
By thy commands alone:
For b, it with me-for-ever goes.
99. I am more prudent farre
Than all my Teachers: For c thy Lawes
My meditation are.

100. I more than th' Ancients understand,
For I thy Precepts kept.
101. From each ill way I have restrain'd
My feet, and wary stept.
That I might well observe thy word.
102. Departed have not I
Farr from thy Judgments just, O LORD.
For thou taught'st me thereby.

103. How sweet unto my palate are Thy Sayings, and thy Truth
Yea, to my spirit sweeter farre
Than Honey to my mouth.
104. By thine excelling Precepts I
Do-understanding get:
Therefore d each path of falsity
I utterly do hate.

a Heb. my meditation.
b Heb. to, or, to my commandments.
c Heb. thy Testimonies.
d Heb. every path of falshood.

II. Version.

97. OH, How I love thy Law! It is
My meditation all the day.
98. Thou-mad'st-me-wiser than my foes
By thy a Law: For it's with me b ay.

99. I'm wise my Teachers all before:
For thy Records my pond'ring are.
100. Than Ancients understand I more:
For I thy Precepts kept with care.

101. I have my feet from each ill way
Restrayn'd, that I may keep thy word.
102. I from thy Judgments did not d stray:
Because thou hast me taught, O LORD.

103. Thy words unto e my taste how sweet!
f 'Bove Honey to my mouth are they.
104. I by thy Precepts g knowledg-get:
I therefore hate h each falshood's way.

a Heb. commandements: for it, i. e. every one of thy commands.
b Heb. for ever.
c Heb. Testimonies are my meditation.
d Heb. Depart.
e Heb. my palate.
f Heb. about honey, or more than honey.
g Heb. or understanding.
h Heb. every path of falshood.

In this Thirteenth Ogdonary (every verse whereof in the Hebrew begins with the thirteenth Letter of the Hebrew Alphabet, מ Mem) The Psalmist, having formerly expressed, How sweet and comfortable the Word was to him in his great Afflictions, here he pathetically bursts forth into a rapture of Exclamation and Admiration touching the incomparable dearness of the Word unto his heart and affections. Pathetically declaring before the LORD

I. His vehement and intensive Love to the Law and Word of God: with a kind of Admiration, ver. 97. This he illustrates, 1. By the effect of this love. His constant meditation in the Word, ver. 97, lat. end. 2. By the moving-cause inclining him thus to love Gods Law: viz. That Wisedom, Prudence, and Intelligence (i.e. all manner of perfect direction in spirituals) which he gained by the Word. Which skill and direction is set forth by a triple comparison: being preferred, To the wisedome of his craftiest enemies, To the Prudence of this Teachers, and to the Intelligence of the long-experienced Ancients, ver. 98, 99, 100. 2. By his practical respect unto the Word: Partly eschewing all evil, that he might keep the Word, ver. 101. Partly, Persevering constantly in Gods judgments, the LORD having taught him so to do, ver. 102.

II. His sweet and great delight which he took in the Word and Sayings of God. This is laid down with Admiration, ver. 103. in the begin. This is illustrated, 1. Comparatively The sweetness of the Word to his Soule, being preferred to the delicious sweetness of honey to the mouth, ver. 103. 2. Declaratively. The reason of this his surpassing delight in the Word being signified, viz. His gaining of spiritual and saving understanding thereby. Whereupon on the contrary he hated every path of falshood, ver. 104.

XIV. Octonary.

This XIIII. Octonary is of Mixt Nature, being Promissory, Petitory, and Narratory. As in the former he had set forth his endeared Affections to the Word: So here he makes known his singular care and study to conform his whole Conversation to the Word. Declaring 1. the Word to be the Rule of his life and course, ver. 105. 2. The firmness of his Resolution herein, vers. 106. 3. The invincibleness of his purposes to this end, against all manner of impediments of afflictions and enemies, v. 107. to 111. 4. His constant complacency in the Word, ver. 111. 5. His hearts constant inclination to walk according to Gods Word, ver. 112.

I. Version.

105. THy Word's a Lamp to my foot still,
And to my path a light.
106. I sware, and-it-confirme-I-will,
To keep a thy Judgments right.
107. I am afflicted here below
b Most vehemently; O LORD,
Me favourably quicken thou
According to thy Word.

108. Accept my mouth's Free-offerings c now,
Which, LORD, thou did'st command:
And me thy judgements learn do thou.
109. My Soul's d still in my hand:
But I have not thy Law forgot.
110. The wicked ones have laid
A snare for me: yet have I not
From thy deare Precepts straid.

111. For-heritage-I-have possest
Thy Testimonies rare
For evermore: For of e my breast
The very joy they are.

112. Mine heart and Inwards all have I Inclined, and still bend,
To do thy Statures faithfully
For ever to the end.

a Heb. the judgments of thy righteousnesse.
b Heb. unto vehemency.
c Heb. according to-- d Heb. or, I pray thee.
e Heb. Testimonies.
f Heb. I have inclined my heart to do thy Statutes, for ever to the end.

II. Version.

105. THy Word's a Lamp to my foot still:
And to my path a shining light.
106. I sware, and stablish it I will,
For-to-observe thy Judgments right.

107. Afflicted b sore I am, and low:
LORD, quicken me c after thy Word.
108. Accept my mouth's Free-offrings d now,
And me thy judgements learn, O LORD.

109. My Soul still in my hand I beare:
Yet have I not thy Law forgot.
110. For me the wicked laid a snare:
Yet, from thy Precepts strayd I not.

111. Thy e Laws I took-for-Heritage
For ay; For mine hearts joy are they.
112. f To do thy Statutes, I engage
Mine heart, unto the end for ay.

In this Fourteenth Octonary (every verse whereof in the Hebrew begins with the Fourteenth Letter of the Hebrew Alphabet, נ Nun) The Psalmist earnestly desiring and resolving to conform his heart and life unto the Word, Declares

I. The word of God to be the Rule of his Course and Practice, in every particular step, verse 105.

II. The firmness of his Resolution in making choice of the Word as his Rule of life. This is set forth, 1. By his serious vow or Promissory Oath, to observe Gods judgements, 2. By his faithful resolution to confirm, stablish, or perform this accordingly. 3. By the moving cause of both, viz. the Righteousnesse of Gods judgements, verse 106.

III. The invincibleness of his purposes herein against all impediments and discouragements, is evidenced, by his answerable. 1. Affection to Gods Word. Begging quickning according to the Word, in his extreamest afflictions, verse 107. Praying the Lord to learn him his judgements, &c. verse 108. 2. Practice of Gods Word, notwithstanding he had alwayes his Soul in his hand, the sentence of Death in himself, verse 109. And notwithstanding the snares that wicked ones have laid against him, verse 110.

IIII. His great and constant Complacency in Gods Testimonies, as in his Heritage. Amplified by the Delight his heart took therein, verse 111.

V. His hearts inclination to do Gods Statutes, for ever to the end, verse 112.

XV. Octonary.

This XV. Octonary is mixt of Profession and Petition. Herein David sets forth how careful he was, according to the Word, to eschew evil. To this end, 1. He Professeth his extream enmity to evil, and great opposite love to the Word, ver. 113. 114. 2. He illustrateth his hatred of evil, and love to the Word, (1.) Partly, by the effects and by the Adjunct thereof, ver. 115, 116, 117. (2.) Partly, by the Causes or Motives thereof, verse 118, 119, 120.

I. Version.

I. Version.

113. VAin-cogitations I do hate:
But I do love thy law.
114. I for thy Word do hoping-wait:
My a shroud and shield art thou.
115. That I may keep my Gods commands,
Ill-doers b part from me.
116. c Stay me, as saidst, that I may live; d Nor for my hope sham'd be.

117. Sustain me, and be sav'd shall I:
And in thy Statutes way
I will delight continually.
118. Thou trodst-down all that stray
From thy e Lawes: For their guile's a ly.
119. Like dross f thou dost remove Earth's Wicked all: Therefore do I Thy Testimonies love.

II. Version.

113. VAin-cogitations I do hate:
But I do dearly love thy Law.
114. For I thy Word do hoping-waite:
My Covert, and my Shield art thou.

115. That I may keep my Gods Commands,
Yee doers-ill depart from me.
116. a Stay me, as saidst, that I may live;
b Nor for my hope sham'd let me be.

117. Sustain me, and be sav'd I shall:
And c still in thy Statutes joy.
118. Who from thy Statutes stray, them all
Thou-trodst-down: For d their guile's a ly.

119. Earth's wicked all cease-thou-dost-make
As dross: Thy e words I love therefore.
120. My flesh for dread of thee doth quake:
And for thy judgements fear I sore,

a Heb. uphold me according to thy Saying.
b Heb. And let me not.
c Heb. continually I will delight in d Heb. their deceit is falshood.
e Heb. Testimonies.

In this Fifteenth Octonary (every verse whereof in the Hebrew begins with the Fifteenth Letter of the Hebrew Alphabet ס Samech,) David continues this pious Professions and Petition in reference to God Word. And, as in the former Octonary he had set forth his zeal in Pursuing of that which is good: So in this he manifests his diligence in opposing and eschewing of evil. More Particularly,

I. He professeth his opposition to evil. Which is vehement, (1.) Intensively, as to his Act; hating it. (2.) Extensively, as to the object, not only evil works and words, but even vain thoughts, where evil first discovers it self. This he illustrates on the contrary, by his professed love to Gods, Law, the cause and principal of his haring evil, verse 113. Of this his love to Gods Law he gives the ground or reason, viz. His comfortable hope he had of Gods Protection of him, according to his Word, verse 114.

II. He further illustrateth and Amplyfied, This his hatred of Evil, and his oppoite love to Gods Law.

1. By the effects and an Adjunct thereof. 1. By the effects thereof. Which were, (1) Partly, His declining of evil doers (2) Partly, His desire to keep the Commandments of God, ver. 115. 2. By an Adjunct thereof, especially of his hope of Gods Protection according to his Word. viz. By his Adjunct Prayer, so God firme upholding him, that he might live and not be ashamed of his hope, verse 116. And of Gods sustaining him, that he might be saved from all evils and Enemies. Which he Amplifies by the effect ensuing, viz. His continual delight in Gods Statutes, ver. 117.

2. By some Secondary Causes or Motives thereof, viz. Gods severe judgements upon the ungodly. Here, 1. These ungodly are described, (1) By their deviation from Gods Statutes. (2) By their Wickedness on Earth. 2. Gods judgements upon them are elegantly expressed, By the Metaphors, (1) Of treading them down; (2) And of causing them to cease or removing of them as dross from the pure Mettle. 3. One Reason of Gods judgements upon them is given, viz. Because their Deceit is falshood, or a lye, a lying vanity. To wit, All their deceits for themselves, in retaining Gods blessings, or avoiding his judgements, or in dissembling their wickedness; And all their Deceits against the Righteous to work them mischief, &c. All is but falshood and vanity, abortive, and not like to take effect, v. 118, 119. beginning. 4. The effects of these judgements of God upon the Wicked. The godly reap double advantage by those Motives, viz. Partly, More love Gods Word, according to which they are judged, v. 119. Partly, More awful dread of God and his judgements. ver. 120.

XVI. Octonary.

This XVI. Octonary is A Prayer. Wherein David principally Petitioneth, 2. For Gods Aid and Protection against his proud oppressing Enemies, ver. 121, to 124. 2. For Gods instructing of him in his Word so throughly, that no Enemies or Afflictions may divert him from it, v. 124, 125. 3. For Gods appearing in his judicial Acts against the Wicked, making void Gods Law, ver. 126. to 129.

I. Version.

121. IJudgment and true righteousnesse
Have done: Leave thou not me
To mine oppressours mercilesse,
122. a Pledge for thy servant be,
For good: Let not the proud assail
Or me oppresse down thrust.
123. Mine eyes for thy Salvation fail:
And for b thy sayings just.

124. According to thy c mercy do
With me thy servant here:
Thy Statutes learn thou me also.
125. I am thy servant dear,
d Do-thou-instruct-me, That I may Thy Testimonies know.
126. Time for the LORD to work; for they Have frustated thy Law.

127. Thy choice Commandements therefore Exceedingly I love,
Above Gold and all wealthy store,
Yea fine-gold-farre-above.
128: Therefore as righteous-I-esteem
Thy Precepts all for ay,
Concerning every-thing in them:
I hate each falshood's way.

a Heb. w, Surety.
b Heb. the Sayings of thy justice.
c Heb. loving kindness.
d Heb. make me understand.

II. Version

II. Version.

121. TO mine Oppressors leave not me,
I judgement did and righteousnes.
122. Thy servants surety, for good be:
Let not the proud-ones me oppres.

123. Mine eyes for thy Salvation fail:
And for a words of thine equitie.
124. In b mercy with thy servant deal:
Likewise thy Statutes learn-thou me.

125. I am thy servant, c me instruct:
And I'le thy Testimonies know.
126. 'Tis high time for the Lord to act:
For they-have-frustrate made thy Law.

127. Above gold, yea above-fine-gold,
d Hence, thy commands I estimate,
128. e Hence, all thy Precepts just-I-hold
In f all-things: each false way I hate.

In this Sixteenth Octonary (every verse whereof in the Hebrew begins with the 16th. Letter of the Hebrew-Alphabet, ע Hbbajin) the Psalmist, much afflicted with many proud, oppressing, and wicked enemies, Petitioneth to the LORD.

I. For his aid and Protection against his Adversaries and their oppressions. Here, 1. His enemies are described, (1) By their oppressive-dispostion. (2) By their pride. 3. Gods Protection is set forth, (1) Partly, by not leaving him to his oppressors. (2) partly, by being surety for him for good. 3. His Petition for Gods protection is urged, (1) From the integrity of the Psalmists practice, having done Judgement and Justice, and therefore having given no occasion to his enemies, &c. v. 121. 122. (2) From Gods long delaying to help him, & yet his own constant hoping in the LORD for Salvation, and waiting for the accomplishment of his most righteous sayings or promises, v. 123.

II. For Gods instructing of him in his Word, lest through enemies, perils, afflictions, &c. he should languish in his piety, or depart from God. 1. This request is laid down in divers expressions. 2. It is urged, (1) Partly, from the moving-cause thereof, Gods loving-kindnesse. (2) Partly, from his own special Relation to God, as his servant, *v.*124,125.

III. For Gods vindictive works and judgements upon the wicked, pathetically. Here, this Petition is urged and amplified, 1. From their demeriting Gods judgements, by making frustrate his Law. 2. From the long time that God hath had patience with them, even till their sins were grown to the height, ver. 126. 3. From the Psalmists opposite affection to, and estimation of Gods Commands and Statutes: and contrary hatred of every way of falshood, verse 127, 128.

XVII. Octonary.

This XVII. Octonary is a Prayer, made up of Commendation, Petition, and Lamentation. Herein David, 1. Commends Gods Word and Doctrine highly, ver. 129. to 132. 2. Petitioneth for sundry blessings, capacitating him to keep Gods Law, *ver.*132. to 136. 3. Laments the neglect and breach of the Law of God by others, ver. 136.

I. Version.

129. THy Testimonies a wondrous are;
My Soul keeps them therefore.
130. The opening of thy words, full rare, b Enlightens more and more,
Instructing simple-ignorants.
131. My mouth wide-opened-I,
And panted: For, for thy commands
I longed-earnestly.

132. To me c do-thou-the-face-disclose,
And gracious-be to me:
According d to thy use to those
That love thy Name and thee.
133. My goings in thy Word alone.
Direct-thou-steadily:
And o're me have dominion.
e Let none iniquity.

134. From men's oppression (lest I swerve)
Redeem thou me, as thine:
And I thy Precepts will observe.
135. On thy servant make-shine
Thy face: And me thy Statutes learn.
136. Of waters f streams down-flow.
Mine eyes: Because that I discern
They do not keep thy Law.

a Heb. or ; wonderful. marvellous, &c.
b Heb. giveth light, giving-understanding to the simple ones.
c Heb. do-thou turn-the-face, do-thou-look.
d Heb. to the judgement, custome, manner, &c. e Heb. let not all iniquity--- i.e. any of all——— f Heb. or, rivers-floods. hyperbole.

II. Version.

129. THy Testimonies a wondrous are;
My Soul doth them observe therefore.
530. The b entrance of thy word shines-clear.
Teaching the simple more and more.

131. c I long'd for thy Commandments so,
My mouth I opened, and did pant.
132. d Look-on-me, and to-me-grace-show.
To thy Name's lovers e as-are-wont.

133. Guide my steps in thy Word: o're me
Reign f let not any Iniquity.
134. From mans oppression g rid-me-free:
And thy Commands observe-will-I.

135. Make thy face on thy servant shine:
And me thy Statutes learn to know.
136. Of waters h floods run-down mine eyne:
Because they do not keep thy Law.

a Heb. or, marvellous, wonderful.
b Heb. opening of thy words giveth light, giving-understanding to the simple-ones.
c Heb. because For——— d Heb. or ; turn-the-face to me.
e Heb. according to the judgment to the lovers of thy name f Heb. let not all——— i. e. not any of all.
g Heb. redeem me.
h Heb. Rivers, streams, Divisions, &c.

In this XVII. Octonary (every verse whereof in the Hebrew begins with the 17th. Letter of the Hebrew Alphaber, פ Pe) the Psalmist persists in his zealous estimation of, and affection to the Word of God, in his Devout meditation and Prayer. More particularly herein are,

I. His high estimation and commendation of Gods Word and Doctrine; 1. As most wonderful in themselves. This admirableness thereof, being illustrated by the effect thereof upon his Soul; desiring to keep them, v. 129. 2. As most illuminating, in the Opening thereof, or first entrance thereunto. This illuminating perfection of the Word is Amplified, 1. By the Subjects illuminated thereby; the simple, *ver.*130. 2. By the Psalmists vehement desire, panting, and longing for Gods commands, for this marvellous perfection therein, v. 131.

II. His Petitions for several blessings, in order to his better learning and observing of Gods Word, (according to his manner through this whole Psalm) As, For 1. The Lord's favourable aspect towards him. 2. His shewing-grace to him. Both illustrated, from the purity of Gods dealings with those that love his name ver. 132. 3. Gods directing every step of his life firmly in his Word. 4. Gods removing of Sins Dominion minion from him, ver. 133. 5. His redeeming him from the oppressions of men. Amplified by his promise thereupon to observe Gods Precepts, ver. 134. 6. Gods illustrious manifestation of his favour to him, making his face shine upon him. 7. Gods learning him his Statutes, ver. 135.

III. His lamenting others opposite neglect and violation of Gods Law. This his lamentation being Hyperbolically as described; discovered by Rivers of waters i running down his eyes for others prophanenesse, v. 136. they keep not] i. e. men in general, or, the wicked, or his enemies, as v. 139. How did he lament his own, that thus lamented others sins; what intensive zeal was here to the Word and Law of God!

i Cur autem non custodità lege sic fletur, nisi ut impetretur gratia, quæ præsentis delet iniquitatem, & credentis adjuvet voluntatem? August. Enar. in Psal. 118. Conc. 27. ad fin. Tom. 8.

XVIII. Octonary.

This XVIIIth. Octonary is mixt: being especially Laudatory, Narratory, and Petitory. Wherein, 1. Many perfections and excellencies of Gods Word are laid down, for raising up in all Gods people an high estimation of it, and due affection to it: As, The Righteousness, Faithfulness, Purity, Truth, and Perpetual justice of it, ver. 137. to midst of 144. 2. Hereupon the Psalmist prayes to the LORD according to his word) to instruct him in the way of life, ver. 144.

I. Version.

137. O LORD, thou art most just: likewise
Thy judgments righteous.
138. Thy Testimonies Righteousness
And faithfulness to us,
Thou-hast-commanded vehemently.
139. My zeal doth me a suppress:
Because thy words forgot have b they-
That-do-me-sore-distress,
140. Thy word is c most refin'd; And so
Thy servant loveth it,
141. Small and despis'd am I: But do
Not thy Precepts forget.
142. Thy justice is justice for-ay:
And thy law, Truth still stands.
143. Distress and anguish d on me lay:
My e joyes are thy commands.
144. Thy Testimonies righteousness
For-ever is: O f give--Me-understanding touching this,
And I shall sweetly live.

a Heb. or; cutteth-off, i. e. consumeth.
b heb. my-distressers
c heb. fined vehemently is thy Saying d heb. have found me.
e Heb. delights.
f Heb. or; make-me. understand.

II. Version.

137. O LORD, thou art most just: likewise
Thy judgement righteous on each hand
138. Thy Testimonies Righteousness
And Truth, thou a greatly did'st command.
139. My zeal b consumes me: For-that my Distressers did thy words forget.
140. Thy word is fined vehemently:
Thy servant therefore loveth it.
141. Small and despis'd am I each way:
Thy precepts yet forgot not I.
142. Thy justice is a justice ay:
Thy Law likewise is verity.
143. Distress and anguish c on me lay:
Me thy Commands delights do give.
144. Thy Testimonies justice d ay:
e Instruct-thou-me, And I shall live.

a Heb. vehemently.
b Heb. suppresseth me, curs me-off.
c heb. found me.
d heb. Righteousness.
e Heb. Give-me-understanding.

In this Eighteenth Octonary, (every verse whereof in the Hebrew begins with the Eighteenth Letter of the Hebrew Allphabet, ע Teade) David, for raising esteem and affection towards the Word of God, doth principally two things, viz.

I. He declares and magnifies sundry Perfections and Excellencies of the Word of God. As, 1. The Righteousness thereof. Illustrated by Gods righteousness, the Author of it, ver. 137. 2. The faithfulness of it. This faithfulness and justice being amplified, (1) By Gods vehement commanding of them, and so establishing them, to be such, ver. 138. (2) By the Psalmists zealous indignation against his distressers that forget Gods Words, ver. 139. 3. The most exquisite Purity of the Word, being refined vehemently. Metaphor from Mettles refined in the fining Pot. This is illustrated, by the effects of this purity of the Word upon the Psalmist. (1) He therefore loved it, ver. 140. (2) He therefore (though small and despised, yet was mindful of it to keep it, ver. 141. 4. The Everlasting justice and Truth of the Word, ver. 142. This is Amplified, (1) By his delights in Gods commands, notwithstanding all his distress and anguish that came upon him, v. 143. (2) By the like perpetual righteousness of his Testimonies, ver. 144. in the beginning.

II. He petitioneth the LORD (upon consideration of all these Excellencies and perfections of Gods Word) to-give-him-understanding therein. Urging his request, from the happy effect of life which shall thereupon redound to himself, ver. 144. in the end.

XIX. Octonary.

This Nineteenth Octonary is Petitory. Wherein David, Exercised with many Afflictions and Enemies, Prayes for, 1. Hearing of his Prayers, ver. 145. 2. Salvation out of all his Afflictions and from his Enemies, v. 146. to 149. 3. Hearing and Quickning, verse. 149. to 153.

I. Version.

145. LORD, with whole heart I cry'd, a me hear:
Thy Statures I'le conserve.
146. To thee I cry'd. save me from fear:
And I'le thy b lawes observe.
147. c I cry'd, preventing morning-light:
I for thy Word did wait.
148. Mine eyes prevent watches-by-night:

Farre from thy Law they be.
151. LORD, thou art near: And verity,
All thy commands alway.
152. Thy Teſt'monies of old knew I.
g Thou foundeſt them for-ay.

II. Verſion.

145. I with my whole heart cry'd, a me hear,
LORD: I thy Statutes will conſerve.
146. I cry'd to thee, Save me, draw near:
And I thy b Records ſhall obſerve.

147. I did prevent c the morning-light,
And cry'd: I for thy word did wa't.
148. Mine eyes prevent watches-by-night:
In thy Saying to meditate.

149. My voice, d of thy kind-mercy, hear,
LORD: e In thy judgment quicken me,
150. They that purſue miſchief, draw neat:
But from thy Law farre-off-they-be.

151. O LORD, near unto thine art thou:
And thy commands all, Truth are they.
152. Thy Teſt'monies of old I knew.
That thou haſt founded them for ay.

In this Nineteenth Octonary (every verſe whereof in the Hebrew begins with the Nineteenth Letter of the Hebrew Alphabet, ק Koph) the Pſalmiſt, ſtill under great afflictions, eſpecially by reaſon of his many and potent enemies, returnes to his earneſt Prayers to the LORD, for Hearing, Saving, and Quickening him, according to his Word.

I. He prayes more generally for the LORD's Hearing and Anſwering his Prayers. Which he urgeth, 1. From the Adjuncts of his Prayer, viz. (1) The fervency thereof; I cry'd. 2. The Integrity thereof with whole heart. 2. From the end and fruit of ſuch hearing; keeping Gods Statutes, v. 145.

II. He prayes for Salvation and deliverance from all his afflictions and enemies. Urging this Petition, 1. From the Adjunct fervour of his requeſt. 2. From the end or fruit unto which he promiſeth to improve this bleſſing when received, ver. 146. 3. From the adjunct vigilancy, hope in Gods Word, and meditation thereon, joyned with his fervent Prayers, ver. 147, 148.

III. He prayes for Audience and Quickening; Preſſing theſe requeſts, 1. From the loving-kindneſs of God, the fountain-cauſe thereof. 2. From the Promiſe of God in his Word; According to thy judgement——ver. 149. 3. From a Compariſon, of his miſchievous enemies, drawing near to hurt him, with neglect and contempt of Gods Law; and of Gods being near to help him and his, to the juſtifying of the Truth of his Word, ver. 150, 151. The conſtancy and permanency of Gods Word being declared, and illuſtrated by Davids long knowledge and experience thereof, ver. 152.

XX. Octonary.

This XXth Octonary is an earneſt Prayer, as the former, and for the ſame bleſſing of Deliverance from his deep afflictions which his enemies had brought upon him. Herein, 1. He ſets forth his Requeſts for Deliverance out of Trouble, ver. 153, 154. 2. He urgeth his requeſts by many Arguments, drawn from His own conſtancy, The wicked's impiety, Gods tender-mercies, His own zeal and affection to the Word of God, ver. 153. to 161.

I. Verſion.

153. SEe mine Affliction, and a me free:

In this Twentieth Octonary (every verſe whereof in the Hebrew begins with the twentieth Letter of the Hebrew Alphabet, ר Reſh) David perſiſting in his former requeſt to the LORD for deliverance from his Afflictions and Enemies.

I. Propounds and ingeminates his Petitions for his Deliverance out of all his diſtreſſes, Pathetically: Praying the LORD, 1. To ſee his Affliction. 2. To releaſe him from it. 3. To Plead his plea, his Cauſe, viz. Againſt his Enemies. 4. To Redeem him. 5. To quicken him, ver. 153, 154.

II. Preſſeth and Urgeth theſe his requeſts by many Arguments, or Motives. As, 1. From his conſtant mindfulneſs of Gods Law, verſe 153. 2. From Gods Promiſe, or Promiſſory ſaying, verſe 154. 3. From wicked wicked mens contrary incapacity of Salvation and deliverance out of trouble, in that they seek not Gods Statutes, verse 155. 4. From the multitudes of Gods bowel-Mercies, the prime efficient Cause of all deliverance, &c. 5. From Gods judgments revealed in his Word, v. 156. 6. From the multitude of his Persecutors, and Distressers, necessitating him to fly to the LORD for succour: v. 157. beginning. 7. From his own gracious qualifications and deportments, viz. (1) Not declining from Gods Testimonies notwithstanding all his Enemies, v. 157. (2) Deeply grieving upon sight of unfaithful transgressors contempt and violation of Gods Word, v 158. (3) Dearly loving Gods Precepts, in uprightness in the sight of God, v. 159. This his love to Gods Word is illustrated, from the impulsive cause or Motives thereof, viz. The Excellency, Truth, Righteousness, and perpetuity of Gods Word and Judgments therein. The beginning of thy Word is Truth; or, as the Hebrew may be rendred; The head or top-excellency of thy Word. i.e. Thy most-excellent Word is Truth k. f Heb. Testimonies.

II. Version.

161. ME Princes a causeless persecute:
But b aw'd mine heart is for thy word.
162. As-one-that-doth much spoile find-out;
Glad am I for thy Saying, Lord.

163. I hate and quite abhor falsnesse:
But thy dear Law I love alwayes.
164. For judgements of thy Righteousnesse,
Sev'n-times a day do I thee praise.

165. Much peace have c they thy Law that love:
And stumbling-block to them is none.
166. For thy Salvation hop'd I have,
O LORD: And thy commands have done.

167. My Soul thy Testimonies kept:
And them I d greatly love and fear.
168. I kept thy e Records and Precepts,
For all my wayes before thee are.

In this Twenty one Octonary, (every verse whereof in the Hebrew begins with the Twenty one Letter of the Hebrew Alphabet ש Shin) David, having formerly often implored Gods Direction and deliverance out of his Afflictions according to the Word, Urging this from his sincere affection and pious deportment towards this Word of God, doth now express a bundle or cluster of these his holy Affections to the word, very Pathetically. As,

I, His fear and awe of the Word. Amplified by his opposite Persecutions: Aggravated, 1. By the Authors of them; Princes. 2. By the Malice of them; causelesly, v. 161.

II. His joy in the Word. Illustrated by a Similitude of a mans joy in finding much spoile, v. 162.

III. His love to the Word. Amplified, 1. By his hating and abominating of all falshood: which is oppositethereto, v. 163. 2. By the effects or fruits of this love; (1) Partly, in himself, Praising the LORD seven-times (i. e. often) in a day for the judgement of his justice in the VVord, verse 164. (2) Partly, on others, They that love his Law, have much Peace, and no stumbling (or Scandal, or Offence) is to them. They walk inoffensively as Paul Act. 23. 1. and 24. 16. verse 165.

IV. His hope for Gods saving him out of his Afflictions according to his Word. This is illustrated, 1. By the fruits and effects of this his hope, viz. Doing Gods Commandements: Observing his Testimonies: keeping his Precepts and Testimonies, verse 166, &c. 2. By another Con-cause of these effects, His vehement love to Gods Testimonies, verse 167. 3. By the sincerity of these effects of keeping and observing Gods Precepts, &c. Wherein he approves himself to Gods Omniscience that knows all his wayes, verse 168.

XXII. Octonary.

This XXII. Octonary concludes this Excellent Psalme with a heap of Heavenly and fervent Petitions, as the former with a bundle of Holy affections. Herein the Psalmist Petitioneth, 1. For audience to his Prayers, verse 169. 170. 2. For practical direction and instruction in Gods Word, and deliverance out of

of his Distresses, ver. 169. to 173. 3. For Gods help, ver. 173, 174. 4. For his Souls life. 5. For aid from Gods Judgements, ver. 175. 6. For Gods seeking of him from his wandrings, ver. 176.

I. Version.

169. NOw let my shouting-cry-come-near Before thy a face O LORD,
O give-me-understanding cleere,
According to thy word.
170. To thee come let my prayer now:
b As thou said'st, set-me- free.
171. My lips shall utter praise when thou:
Thy Statutes hast learn'd me.

172. My tongue thy Saying c shall resound:
Because all thy commands
Unspotted righteousnes are found.
173. To help me d lend thy hand's,
For I thy Precepts e made-my-choice:
174. LORD, thy Salvation
I long for: My f delights likewise
Is thy pure Law alone.

175. O let my troubled Soul yet live,
And it g shall honour thee:
And let thy righteous judgements give
Desired help to me.
176. Like to a lost Sheep I have stray'd,
Thy servant seek and find:
For thy Commandments on me laid h I Blot not out of mind.

II. Version.

169. NOw let my shouting-cry come-neer
Before thy pleased face, O LORD:
Give-thou-me-understanding cleere,
According to thy faithful word.

170. Come to thee let my Prayer now:
b As thou hast said, set-thou-me-free.
171. My lips shall utter praise: when thou
Thy Statutes pure hast learned me.

172. My tongue thy Saying c shall resound:
For thy commands all, justice are,
173. To help me, let thine hand be found:
For I have chose thy Precepts deare.

174. I long'd for thy Salvation, LORD:
And my delights thy Law I made.
175. My Soul let live d and thee record:
Me also let thy judgements aid.

176. Like to a lost sheep I-have-stray'd,
Seek thou thy Servant, tarry not:
For thy commandments on me laid
I have not wretchedly forgot.

a Hab. facies.

b Hab. recurring to thy saying shewn me.

c Hab. shall answer.

d Hab. and I shall praise thee.

In this Two and twentieth and last Ogdoary (every verse whereof in the Hebrew begins with the two and twentieth and last Letter of the Hebrew Alphabet, ת Thau) David sweetly closeth up this his Devout prayer and Meditation touching Gods excellent Word and his great affection to it, with sundry accumulated Petitions, pointing out pathetically the intensive zeal and fervour of his Prayer. And he Petitioneth to the LORD,

I. For audience and acceptance of his Prayer. Described by the fervency of it; my shouting-cry, verse 169. 170. beginning.

II. For Instruction in, and according to Gods Word, and deliverance out of all his distresses. This is urged, 1. From Gods Promise or Saying, verse 169. 170. 2. From Gods honour which will hence result. For he promiseth, (1) To praise him, upon learning his Statutes, ver. 171. (2.) To resound Gods Promise, his Saying. Which is amplified by a reason thereof, viz. The righteousness of Gods Commandments, ver. 172.

III. For Gods aid and succour in his Distresses. This is pressed, 1. From his esteem and choice of God's Precepts, ver. 173. 2. From his fervent desire after Gods Salvation of him out of trouble. 3. From his Delights in Gods Law, ver. 174.

IV. For his soul's life, viz. That his life may comfortably be prolonged, notwithstanding all his afflictions and Enemies. This is urged from the effect, or end intended in this mercy, viz. The praising of God in his life, ver. 175. beginning.

V. For help by Gods judgements, viz. By the Doctrinal judgements of his word: which greatly help the afflicted, by Directions, Consolations, &c. verse 175.

VI. For Gods Pastoral seeking of David, Straying, through the Persecution of his Enemies, from his fold (from his Country, Kingdom, and the Church of God therein) as a lost Sheep in the Wilderness. This Petition is enforced, 1. From the present misery of David, exiled from House, Home, Kingdom, Church, &c. represented by the similitude of a Sheep straying from fold, Pasture, &c. 2. From Davids Relation to God; Thy servant. 3. From Davids constant mindefulness of Gods Commandments even in his deepest distresses, exiles, and wandrings from place to place, verse 176. His Straying here, is not through iniquity, but through affliction and misery; not from God, and his commands, but From House, Home, &c. To Caves, Woods, &c. in midst of many dangers: As Interpreters e take it generally. Augustine understands it of Spiritual wandring f. But that's not so suitable to the words following.

Psalm CXX

Sect. I. Of the XV. Songs of Degrees in General.

Next and immediatly after the 119*th. Psalm.* in XXII. Ogdoaryes according to the order and number of the Letters of the Hebrew Alphabet; here are placed fifteen other Psalmes, called every one of them שיר המעלות Shir Hammaghualoth, A Song of degrees, or A Song of Ascensions, or A Song of Dignities These Songs are thought by some to be here ranked together as in one bundle, not for the sameness of their Matter, but rather for the Similitude of their invention and composition a. They are, as it were, Sacred Epigrams containing much variety of Excellent Doctrine, in wonderful brevity, Adorned with much Splendor, Sweetness, and Elegancy of Speech, to the great delight of the pious and intelligent Reader. And therefore we should account these most sweet Songs as the Poems of the Holy-Ghost, and every verse therein as so many Oracles. For they are very eminent in this whole Book of Psalmes, as so many excellent Gems or Jewels. The ordinary Gloß tells us, That the Blessednesse which the former Psalme sung with united voices, &c. These following Psalmes explicates in 15. orderly degrees, &c. To the Mystery of the Old and New Testament. The number seven belonging to the Old Testament because of the Sabbath: the number eight unto the New b, &c. But this, is rather wittily, than solidly excogitated.

b Beatitudinem quam superior Psalmus unicâ varietate meritorum exornavit; isti sequentes Psalmi ordinatis 15. gradibus tam Psalmorum quam meritorum, in Sacramento Veteris & Novi Testamenti explicant. Septenarius ad vetus propter Sabbatum: Octonarius ad Novum. Patenti namque veteris Testamenti Hebdomadi Septenario serviebant. Observabant enim Septimam diem, i. Sabbatum: Septimam Septimanam, Septimum Mensem, Septimum annum, & Septimum annum septimæ Decadis, qui jubilæus dicitur. Patres vero Novi Testamenti Ogdoadi serviunt, i. Octonario, quia servant octavam diem quæ Dominica dicitur; & Octavas Martyrum; & octavas Resurrectiones expectant. Ideoque per Octonarium & Septenarium duo Testamenta designantur. Unde Salomon; Da partes septem, nec non & octo. Quindecim ergo graduum fit distinctio, ut Per hoc significetur duorum Testamentorum Doctrina in his gradibus contineri. Et sunt hic quindecim Gradus, sicut in Templo Salomonis totidem erant gradus quibus ascendebant in Templum, quod est figura cœlestis Templi, ad quod his gradibus ascenditur. Hæc est scala Jacob. Gloss Ordinar. in Psal. 119. p. 275. b. Part. tertia Basil. 1506. die ultim. Junii.

As for the Title, שיר המעלות Shir Hammaghualoth, A Song of degrees, (As Augustine, Hieronme, Montanus, The vulgar Latin. Mollerus, Calvin, S. de Muis, Ainsw. and most Interpreters render it,) or, A Song of Ascensions, of Heights, (as the Greek Version of the 72. ἀναβαθμῶν and as H. Ainsworth notes the word may be rendered,) or A Song of Dignities, or Excellencies, i. e. A most Excellent Song (as Trimell. and Junius;) It containes, 1. The Kind; 2. The Adjunct of these fifteen Psalmes so denominated.

First. The Kind of these Sacred Poems, they are שירים Shirim, Songs. Of the Proper Notation of this Word, & how it differs or agrees with תהלים Tehillim, Hymnes; and with מזמורים Mizmorim, Psalmes; hath been already declared, in the Preface to this Book c.

c Preface Sect. II. & Sect. VI. numb. 3.

Secondly, The Adjunct המעלות Hammaghualoth Of Degrees, &c. This Word is derived from the root עלה ghualah, hath climed-up, ascended, d. &c. Thence מעלה Maghualah, A Clisse, A Degree, An Ascent, An Ascension, An Height, An-high-Dignity, An Excellency, &c. And from this latitude of the signification of the word, It is and may well be rendered, A Song of Degrees: or, A Song of Ascensions: or, A Song of Excellencies.

d Scandit, ascendit, conscendit, &c.

But the true Cause and Reason why these Psalmes were peculiarly among the rest so Denominated, is not so easie to be found out. Both Jewish and Christian Writers have variety of Conjectures hereupon: but most, if not all of them very uncertain, and unsatisfactory. I shall briefly propound some of the principal of them, and leave the learned and ingenious Reader to his own apprehension and judgment therein. Nor is there any danger, if in this obscure matter and of less moment, we differ in opinion one from another.

This Title is expounded two wayes, viz. 1. Figuratively. 2. Literally.

I. Figuratively. And so its interpreted variously. As,

1. Of the Ascension, i. e. The Dignity, Degree, or Excellency of the Matter of these fifteen Psalmes. For, Ascension is nothing else but the excellency of one man, or thing, above another. A Song of Ascensions, Degrees, Excellencies, i. e. A most excellent Song: As Jun. & Tremel. render it, by an elegant Antimeria, or Hebraisme; The substantive plural being put for the Adjective singular of the Superlative degree. Thus המעלות Hammaghualoth, is as if one should allude and say למאה מעלות lemeah ghualoth, to an hundred Sacrifices, A Song &c. And doubtless the Subject-matter of these Psalmes is most excellent, as will appear in the explicating of them particularly. But this seems not to be the Reason of the Title, For, why should not other Psalmes also be entitled Psalmes of Degrees, Ascensions, Excellencies, &c. which for matter are as excellent as these? As Ps. 2. 25. 37. 45. 51. 119, &c.

2. Of the Ascension of the Heart, from the Valley of teares to the Mountain; from the humbled and abased Humanity of Christ, to the high Divinity of Christ. Augustine pleaseth himself exceedingly in this Allegory, wherein he runs out wittily (as his manner is) but not pertinently and substantially to the Psalmes in hand e.

e Aug. & Barr. in Ps. 119. 120. 121. 122. 123. 124. 125. 126.

3. Of the Ascensions and Degrees of vertues unto which these fifteen Psalmes are fitted and accommodated, every Psalme commending some peculiar vertue more sublime and excellent than the former. As, 1. The First Degree, is; to depart from the evils of the World, and to renounce all vanity, taught in Psal. 120. 2. The Second Degree, is; to beg the LORD's defence, which nothing can withstand, as in Psal. 121. 3. The third degree, is; The great joy of being versed in the Church with a pure mind, and to walk worthy of God in this Pilgrimage: whence we sigh after the heavenly Jerusalem, whereunto we are elevated by the two wings of Love: as in Psal. 122. 4. The Fourth degree, is; Constantly to depend on God in all streights, until he have mercy and hear: as in Psal. 123. 5. The Fifth degree, is; That they who are delivered out of perils, attribute it, not to themselves, but to the LORD: as in Ps. 124. 6. The Sixth degree, is; The Confidence of the most faithful Christian, which he hath in the LORD: compared to the most solid Mountains: as in Psal. 125. 7. The Seventh degree, is; A Prophesy of return from Captivity, as it were from Babylon in the figure of the Old Testament, through Christ to come: when now is Consolation and sowing for a greater Harvest: as in Psal. 126. 8. The Eighth degree, is; The figure of the New Testament, signified by the number Eight, where is spoken of the building of the House of God, i. e. The Church, by the true Solomon, Christ; who is the true Peace-maker, who made both one, and in himself the Corner-stone hath builded his Church of the two Walls of Jews and Gentiles; as in Psal. 127. 9. The Ninth degree, is; That the Peace-maker be chastly feared, because he alone doth exalt, keep, build: as in Psal. 128. 10. The Tenth degree, is; That he who chastly fears, may endure all things for him, which is now expedient to the Church among evil men: as in Psal. 129. 11. The Eleventh degree, is; A Penitential Supplication: because nor he that fears, nor he that endures all things, thinks himself worthy of Christ, forasmuch as in the body none is without sin, and the only Security is to lean upon Prayer: as in Psal. 130. 12. The Twelfth degree, is; Humility, which a man shewes himself to have, both inwardly and outwardly. Therefore he incites to Humily, in Psal. 131. 13. The Thirteenth Degree, is; When the humble and meek go about the building of the Spiritual House: as David to the letter did, who would have built an house to God. And congruously after the Degree of Humility he treats of the building of the House, because by humility a man is made the house of God f, Isa. 66. 2. Ps. 132. 14. The Fourteenth degree, is; Charity, which makes brethren dwell together in Unity: wherein is Blessing and Life: as in Psa. 133. 15. The Fifteenth degree, is; The Love of Eternity. The Love of God, as in Psal. 134. And after these Degrees which lead unto Eternity, congruously is placed Hallelujah: that the Church may enjoy the praises of God, for which that Office is prepared: as in Ps. 135——

f Isa. 57. 15 is more full to that purpose.

All these Fifteen degrees of vertues conducting to Eternity, are thus laid down and accommodated to these Fifteen Songs of degrees by the Ordinary Gloss:

Iterum)

whence I have collected them. And (thinks Mollerus) these Degrees of vertue seem to be taken from Greg. Nazianzen, who, in his Oration had after his return, doth Allegorically apply and interpret these Songs of Degrees to them that profit in vertue b. But, 1. These accommodations being sometimes somewhat forced; 2. And the following degrees of vertues not always surpassing the foregoing, as is pretended; 3. And the whole accommodation rather a meer contrivance of humane wit, than any intendment of the Holy Ghost: these degrees of vertues pretended, give little or no satisfaction as to the Reason of this Title; A Song of degrees.

II. Literally, And so this Title, A Song of degrees is explicated very many ways. As

1. Of the Ascension of the Waters of the Sea, at the laying of the Foundation of the Temple: the Chaldee Paraphrast seems to incline somewhat to this conceit, rendering it; A Song which was spoken touching the Degrees of the Abyss i. The Rabbines do fable (they were apt to fancy, feign, and fable any thing,) That when the foundations of the Temple were laid, the Deep did so ascend, that they feared the whole world would have been overflowed. Whereupon Achitophel wrote the Name יהוה JEHOVAH, (which the Jews call שם המפרש Shem-Hammephorash. A Name Separate: say some. A Name Expounded; saith Drus. A Name Pronounced: viz. with its own proper Letters, said S. Amama k, and presently cast it into the Deep, whereupon the Deep descended 16000 Cubits. Then they said it were better for the World, if the Waters of the Sea were not sunk so deep. And the Waters ascended 15000 Cubits, and there stood. Whence these fifteen Psalms were called Psalmes of Ascensions, or of Degrees. This is found in their Massora said Jarki. But this is such a meer dream, and so gross a fable, that to have related it, is to have refuted it.

2. Of the Ascension of the Jews out of the Babylonish Captivity. As, In Expos. Psal. 120. Mr. Jo. Foord of late; and of old, R. David Kimchi would have it. As if these fifteen Songs were Composed and Sung, in so many Stations of the Jews returning and Ascending from Babilon. But this is not at all probable. For, 1. We have no certain ground for the Jews fifteen Stations in their Return from Babylon. And therefore how can we account otherwise of it, than that it is a meer Fiction? 2. That these were not composed upon Occasion of the Jews return from Babylon, and then first Sung, is evident. For some of them were penned by David, as their Titles signifie, as Psal. 122. 124. 131. 133. One by Solomon, or for Solomon, Psal. 127. And (as Calvin m hath noted) we may readily conjecture from the Argument, that what Psalmes David penned, were Sung in the House of God in his Reign, and life time. And Lyra gives sundry Reasons, why the first of these Songs of Degrees could not be referred to the Captivity n.

3. Of the Ascension of the Levites and Singers upon the Degrees of the Court of the men. For it is supposed, That the Levites did sing these fifteen Songs whilest they ascended from the Court of the women to the Court of Israel, or of the men, by fifteen steps or Degrees. On every Step they sung onely one Song, said Kimchi, and R. S. Jarki. But, 1. Where read we in the Scriptures of the Court of the Women distinct from the Court of the Men? 2. Where is there mention in the Word, of fifteen stairs or steps by which they ascended up towards the Courts of the LORD's House? 3. Where have we the least ground in the Scriptures, that the Levites did sing these, or any other Psalmes or Songs on any Stairs of the Temple? But (as Calvin o well notes,) The Jews took great liberty of devising and feigning things at their pleasure in matters obscure.

4. Of the Ascension of the Jews from their dispersion into all Countries. For the Jews generally dreamed of an outwardly glorious, temporal Kingdom which the Messiah shall constitute for them, and being now dispersed into all Countries of the World, they think their Restauration is meant by this word Ascensions, and they hope that at last when their Messiah shall be exhibited, they shall return out of all Countries, and Ascend with him into the Land of Judah, and then joyfully sing these Songs of Degrees, as Mollerus hath noted p. But 1. Christs Kingdom being not of this World, as himself hath told us John 18. 36. 2. Christ the true Messiah being come already and exhibited in humane flesh, John 1. 14. Gal. 4. 4, 5, 6. Rom. 1. 4. The vanity of this interpretation is evident.

5. Of the Gradual Ascension or Rising of the Voice in tuning and singing of these Songs. A Song of Ascensions, or Heights: that is, A Song to be sung with an high Voice, to an high Key, &c. As the Levites are said to praise God with a great voice (למעלה Le-maghuelah) on high, 2 Chron. 20. 19. As Ainsworth q hath noted. These fifteen are called Song of Degrees (saith R. Saebuadiah) because they were sung בזבורה קול מאד Behagbourath Kol Meod, with the greatest strength of Voice vehemently. In every Song the Voice rising higher and stronger by degrees. Lyra r, and many of our later Writers much incline to this Interpretation. It may be there was some peculiar and eminent Ascending or Rising of the Tune in these fifteen Songs, more than in any other Psalmes. Some Jewes, and Ab. Ezra, take this word המעלות Hammaghualoth, to point out the kind or beginning of some special Song, Note, or Tune s as some have observed. S. de Mait.

dicunt, & forte probabiliter, quod hoc designat quandam speciem cantûs, qui elevando vocem gradatim decantabatur. Et inde fuerunt ista cantica appropriata ad ascensum Templi, qui erat per 15. Gradus, &c.

6. Of some singular Degrees of Excellency in these fifteen Psalmes, both in regard of their Matter, Form, and End. So Ames t. And perhaps Tremellius and Junius might intend some such thing, translating it Canticum excellentissimum, Heb. excellentiarum. A most excellent Song. Heb. A Song of Excellencies. The matter of them excels, being very sublime, spiritual, &c. as we shall perceive in the particular opening of them. The Form excels, the Phrase being very concise, compendious, significant, pathetical, and abounding with great variety of Rhetorical Flowers and choice Elegancies. Besides the singular rarity and melody of the Musick, whereunto in the Hebrew it was fitted and accommodated but now is lost. The end also excels, as afterwards we shall see in considering Particulars.

Now in midst of all this variety and uncertainty, how difficult it is to determine! Let every judicious Reader consider all, and choose what likes him best. This is no fundamental point of our Faith or Religion. Herein we may be ignorant, or doubtful, or mistaken, or dissenting from others, without peril. But if upon the whole I may declare my Opinion, I most incline to think; That this Title, A Song of Degrees, Ascensions, Dignities, Excellencies, &c. had principal respect to the Musick of these fifteen Psalmes, either as denoting the high ascent of the Tune by Degrees in singing them, or the beginning and first word of some known Song or Note. Yet I will not exclude the Ascent or high Excellency of the Matter: which perhaps, might give occasion to the high ascending Musick of these Psalmes. And hence, I think it not improbable, But that the Levites and Singers might sing these Psalmes of Ascensions standing upon some place of Ascent above the People to be the the better heard, though I find no ground for fifteen Steps. And hereupon also, the Jewes in their Return and Ascension from Babylons Graves, Ezek. 37. 12, &c. might choose these Psalmes as proper, pertinent and suitable to sing by the way, and praise God withal for their deliverance. He laments his present inevitable condition of dwelling with wicked unpeaceable men, verse 5, 6, 7.

Sect. III. The Version out of the Hebrew.

A Song of Degrees.

1. I To the LORD cry'd in my straits:
   And he did answer me.
2. From b false lip, from tongue of Deceits,
   O LORD my Soul set-free.
3. What shall it give to thee, c false tongue;
   And what to thee d conferre?
4. Sharp arrowes of a mighty-one,
   With coales of Juniper.
5. Ah, wo is me, that I so long
   With Mesec sojourn still,
   That wicked Kedar's Tents among
   I dwell against my will.
6. My Soul with e him that peace doth hate
   Hath dwelt too much by farre.
7. I am for peace; but when of that I speak, they are for warre.

a Heb. distressedness i. e. fore distress. Here in the Hebrew a Letter is added, which increaseth the signification.

b Heb. lip of fallhood, from tongue of deceit. c Heb. tongue of deceit. d Heb. shall it add. e Heb. the hater of peace.

Sect. IV. The Kinde, Penman, and Occasion of this Psalme.

This Psalme, 1. As to the Subject-matter of it, is of a Mixt Nature, being made up of Narration, Petition, Reprehension, and Lamentation of the Psalmist, as will after appear in the Analysis. 2. As to the outward Form of it, its digested into a Song, and peculiarly the first Song of Degrees. The Penman of it is not expressly signified in the Title, but is not obscurely pointed at in the Matter of the Psalme, which most singularly answers to Davids condition and Afflictions. Insomuch that Interpreters do Generally conceive David to be the Instrumental Author of it f.

f H. Moller. in Arg. Ps. 120. F. Jun. in Annot. ad Ps. 120. 1. Sim. de Muis in Arg. Psal. 120. Joan. Foord. in Psal. 120. Author—

Non ascribitur quidem Authoris Nomen. Sed totus verborum contextus Davidem nobis representat. Itaque licet nihil ausim pro certo asserere, huc tamen magis inclino, Psalmum fuisse ab eo Compositum. Neque absurdum (meo judicio) erit perinde interpretari, ac si nomen expressum foret. Joan. Calv. in Com. ad Ps. 123. 1.

Occasion of Davids writing this Psalme, is true to be Davids exile from the Land of Judea, when he fled from King Sauls Persecutions to Mesheo, or a prophane barbarous people, sojourning in the Tents of Kedar among the false, fraudulent, unpeaceable Arabians, to the great grief and affliction of his Soul. Some think it was, when David went into the Land of the Philistines, and dwelt in Ziklag, and among the Arabians Tents, 1 Sam. 27. 1, 6, 7. with Psal. 120. 5, 6, 7.

Sect. V. The Scope.

The Psalmists Scope, is; 1. Immediatly, To set forth, how in straits he prayed and prevailed, How much he desired to be delivered from the mischief of a false slanderous tongue, and how sadly he lamented his unavoidable sojourning among prophane, unpeaceable men. 2. Mediately, by his own example to instruct us how to behave our selves in like states and conditions.

Sect. VI. The Analysis, or Principal Parts.

In this Psalme Consider

I. The Title, which expresseth 1. The Kind of it; A Song. 2. The Adjunct of it; Of Degrees. Of these see before in Sect. 1.

II. The Song it self. Which consists of

1. A Narration, how he cryed to God, and with what success in former distressedness: thereby encouraging himself and others to like course in like cases. Here note, 1. The person invocating, viz. David, 2. The person Invocated; The LORD. The time or season of this Invocation; in distressedness, i. e. in extream distress, or manifold distress, ם Paragogical being added to the end of the Word צרתי Batstsaratha, to augment the Signification. 4. The fruit or effect of this prayer; The LORD answered him, v. 1.

2. A Prayer. Wherein are, 1. A Petition for deliverance from a lip of Falshood and tongue of Deceit, v. 2. 2. A Reprehensory interrogation, by way of Apostrophe, to his false Calumniators and Detractors. Where note, (1) the vehemency of the Interrogation What ——— and what? doubled. (2.) The Detractors indigitated; To thee, to thee, viz. To thee Doeg, Achitophel, Shimei, &c. (3.) The result, issue, or fruit of a false deceitful calumniating tongue. Which is laid down, Partly, by way of Question doubled: What shall ——or what shall ——? Which words may be expounded, Actively, or Passively. 1. Actively, and that two wayes, viz. Either thus; What shall he give to thee, viz. God. Or thus; What shall it give unto thee, or what shall it adde? &c. viz. the false tongue, what benefit or advantage shall it bring unto thee? 2. Passively, as our English Version; What shall be given to thee, or what shall be done (or added) to thee ——? v. 3. Partly, by way of Answer. Wherein the fruit or effect of a false Tongue is set forth by two Similitudes, viz. First of Arrows, sharp Arrows, sharp Arrows of a mighty one, that wounded not onely the Calumniated and the Hearer of it, but the Calumniator also. Secondly, of Juniper coales, which though they smell sweet, burn vehemently, Cant. 8. 6.. Yea more vehemently and secretly than other coales, v. 4.

3. A sad Complaint or Lamentation, in regard of his own miserable condition; Wo is me, &c. In which note, 1. The Person complaining, viz. The Psalmist. 2. The Persons complained of, and they are three, (1) Meshech, (2) Kedar. (3) The hater of peace. 3. The injury complained of, viz. (1) His long exile from his own Country, in Meshec and Kedar, among a prophane, rude, barbarous people:

represented in an Elegant Climax; I sojourn, I dwell, I have much dwelt. (2) His persecution by them, as being of bloody unpeaceable dispositions, quite opposite to his peaceable inclination, v. 5, 6, 7.

Herein, 1. The Psalmists Confidence is represented ver. 1. 2. The Object of this his Confidence, is Partly, Propounded, ver. 2. Partly, Expounded and Illustrated, ver. 3. to the end. In alll which is discovered, The great safety of those that duly trust in Gods Protection.

Sect. II. The Version out of the Hebrew.

A Song of Degrees.

1. I To the Mountains a lift mine eyes:
From whence shall come mine aid.
2. Mine help doth b from the LORD arise:
Which Heav'ns and Earth made.
3. He will not give thy foot c to slide:
Nor slumber that thee keeps.
4. Lo, Isr'el who doth keep, and guide;
Nor slumbereth, nor sleeps.
5. e To Lord d the keeps; The LORD is thy Thy shade, on thy right hand.
6. The Sun shall not thee smite by day;
Nor Moon by night offend.
7. Thee from all ill the LORD will keep:
Thy Soul he e will deliver.
8. Thy going out, f thy coming in,
The LORD g keeps, hence and ever.

Sect. III. The Kind, Penman and Occasion.

This Psalme is supposed by some b to be A Military Speech or Meditation, and that it was had or uttered in the Camp for the Encouragement of the Psalmist and of his Army in Gods sole and All-sufficient Protection against their Enemies. 1. As to the Subject-matter of it, it is of a Narratory, Doctrinal, Promissory, and Consolatory Kind: Declaring wherein the Psalmist. chief confidence was, viz. in the Lord alone. Teaching hence where the Saints confidence and hope should be in all straits and dangers, viz. in the Lord only, Whereunto every faithful Saint is encouraged by many comfortable Promises. 2. As to the Outward Forme of it, it is A Song of Degrees.

Penman of it, probably was David i: as the matter of it seems tacitly to imply.

Occasion of his Penning it seems to be some eminent peril, or sundry perils and dangers that himself and Souldiers were in, either in the Land of Canaan, or rather in Forreign Countries. And it is thought k, that David, in the dayes of Saul having fled from Judea into the Land of the Philistines, where his enemies said he would worship other Gods, 1 Sam. 26. 19. He therefore upon that Occasion wrote this Psalme, rejecting all confidence in the Pagan-Idols worshipped on Hills and Mountains, and professing his affiance only in the true JEHOVAH that made Heaven and Earth. But this is onely conjectural. It's hard to descend punctually to such particulars, without some particular light from Scripture.

Sect. IV. The Scope.

The Psalmists Scope intended in this Song, is; 1. To profess and declare his religious confidence in the Lord alone; 2. And to direct and encourage all the Godly by his Example to do the like. Assuring himself and all that trust and rely upon the LORD, of all desirable safety and security under the LORD's Protection against all possible evils and dangers.

Sect. V. The Analysis, or Principal Parts.

Herein are,

I. The Title or Inscription, Expressing, 1, The Kind of it; A Song. 2. The Adjunct of it; Of Degrees In this Title, there is on Letter in the Hebrew which makes it differ from the Titles of all the other XIV. Songs of Degrees. For whereas all they are stiled, A Song, המעלות hammaghnaloth, of Degrees: Only this 121th. is stiled, למעלות lammaghnaloth To degrees, But, as Kimchi notes, it comes all to one: for ל Lamed is put for ה He emphatical. As elsewhere its used in Holy Scripture: As, 2 King. 7. 2. Then a Lord on whose hand the King המלך lammeleck for המלך Hammeleck ———. So 2 Chron. 28. 9. To the Heavens שמים לרקיע ghnad lashshamajim, for שמים לרקיעי ghnad-hashshamajim.

II. The Substance of the Song it self. Wherein

1. The confidence of the Psalmist is presented, in this metaphorical phrase of lifting up his eyes. Which by an elegant Hebraisme imports an Act of one hoping, expecting, and looking for help, ver. 1.

2, The Object of this his Confidence is described,

(1) More generally In that phraise; To the Hills [or, Mountains] from whence cometh my help. Because the particle אל here, may be variously rendred, and the phrase may be variously read; there fore there are varieties of Interpretations of the sense of these words. 1. Some render the particle, To, Unto: & take the word, Mountains, metaphorically, for Kings, Princes great ones, or for any other thing highly magnified in the world, as an object of confidence in the creature / As if the Psalmist at first were in a Temptation or dispute with himself where to place his confidence. 2. Some render אל Towards: and interpret the word, Mountaines, Metonymically. (1) Either of idols or false gods of the Heathen, which were wont to be worshipped on Mountains and Hills. And take the phrase interrogatively; Shall I lift mine eyes to the Hills? whence should my help come? And thus the words import the Psalmist's renouncing of idols for his confidence, (2) Or, of the LORD the true God, who, from his sacred Temple to be built in the Holy Mountains, Moriah, and Sion, had promised help and aid to his people, Psal, 20. 2. The Psalmist being now in a forreign land, looks towards Gods Mountains for help and succour, as believers used to do. 3. Some, render the word אל above m. Interpreting it, That the Psalmist looked above all highest, strongest creature-helps: placing his confidence farre above them. 4. Some n render this verse interrogatively, thus; Shall I lift up mine eyes to the Hills! whence should my help come? As if the Psalmist being in danger and distress were at first puzled where to place his confidence, and whither to flie for help. But recollecting himself, he rejects all other Objects of Affiance, resting himself on the LORD alone. These several Interpretations are pious. Let the discreet Reader consider which is here most suitable and apposite, ver. 1.

(2) More Particularly. That the object of his confidence

n Thus, Amis in Ps. 121. Our last Engl. Translation in the margin.

confidence for help, is the LORD; Mine help cometh from with the LORD. This de-compound Preposition is very emphatical: no Prepositions can sufficiently set forth Gods help. Now this his confidence of help from the LORD, is singularly illustrated and confirmed divers wayes. As, I. From Gods All-sufficiency for helping, evinced by that great effect of his Omnipotency; The creating of Heaven and Earth, ver: 2. II. From Gods many faithful Promises, touching safe preservation and protection of every one confiding in him, and not only of the Psalmist. In all which Promises therefore, the Psalmist speaks not to himself in the First person, but to another in the Second person, by an elegant Enallage or change of the Person, ver. 3. to the end. Now, here he promiseth, 1. The LORD's Preservation of his foot from being moved, who trusteth in him. 2. The LORD's constant and exact vigilancy over him, and over Israel; nor sleeping, nor slumbring, verse 3. 4. 3. The LORD's sufficient, compleat, and universal Protection of him: As his Keeper, As his shade on his right hand, ver. 5. &c. Which Protection is pathetically illustrated; (1) By distribution of the instrumental causes and seasons of harme, from which his shade shall protect him; from the harmful influences of the Sun and Moon, by day and night; The Sun shall not smite thee, &c. ver. 6. (2) By the extent and universality of evil, whence he shall be preserved; ——— from all evil. (3) By the peculiarity and choise excellency of this Protection, reaching even unto the Soul; He shall preserve thy soul. ver. 7. (4) By the distribution of his Motions or Actions, wherein Gods preservation is promised; He shall preserve thy going out, and thy coming in. 5. By the constancy of this divine Protection; From now, and unto eternity, vers. 8. O the Amplitude of the LORD's providence and protection towards his! What can the Saints desire more for their safety and security? Oh we of little faith, wherefore should we doubt?

* This 122th Psalme I have more fully expounded in my two Latin-Lectures had in the Colledge at Dublin in Ireland, Nov. 29. and Dec. 3 when I took my two Degrees of Batchelor and Dr. in Divinity there An. 1658 which perhaps hereafter may be published.

Sect. III. The Kinde, Penman, and Occasion.

This Song, 1. As to the Matter of it, is mixt: being made up of Gratulation, Exhortation, and Supplication, in reference to Jerusalem and the House of God there. 2. As to the external Forme of it, it is a Song of Degrees, as the Title showes. The Penman (as the Title intimates) was David. The Occasion of Davids penning it as interpreters k consent, was Davids bringing up of the Ark of the Testimonie to Jerusalem into the City of David, and placing it there in the Tent which he had prepared for it, 2 Sam. 6. 13. to the end. As also the Constitution of Gods Worship, and the Thrones of Judgment there in the Holy City for Davids House or Royal Family, eminent types of the Sacerdotal and Regal Offices of JESUS CHRIST the true David. For, as one well observes, God had promised by Moses, That at last there should be a certain fixed place for his Sanctuary. And now since then, the Ark of the LORD had as it were wandred like a Pilgrim hither and thither above a thousand years. Mount Sion was discovered David, as the place where the Lord would have it setled, and his Temple built. And as David received this Oracle with greatest joy: so he declares here in this Song, his singular gladness, in beholding the consent of Gods people, and their zeal to Gods Worship now there Ordained, and afterwards to be performed before the Ark. Hence, he extolls Jerusalem with excellent Encomiums, and vehemently prayes for its Peace and Prosperity.

k Jo. Cald. in Chron. ad Psal. 122. John Robertson in his Observations and Explications of the Old Testament, Large Lond. Annot. on Ps. 122.

Sect. IV. The Scope.

Davids Scope, therefore, in this Song, as the Subject-Matter of it evinceth, was; 1. Joyfully to celebrate the bringing-up of the Sacred Ark of God into his place: 2. To commend with gladness the pious affections and motions of the people towards the House and Worship of the Lord: 3. To extol with many Elogyes both the Sacred and Civil Constitutions at Jerusalem: 4. And to provoke by many Arguments both himself and others, even all the Saints, most diligently to pray for, seek, and endeavour the Peace and Prosperity of Jerusalem. And Probably, David intended that this Song among others should be sung by the People, when they came up to Jerusalem to the Solemn Feasts l.

Sect. V.

Sect. V. The Analysis or Principal Parts.

In this Song are,

I. The Inscription or Title describing, 1. The kind of it; A Song. 2. The Adjunct of it; of Degrees. 3. The Instrumental Authour, or Penman of it; David. See in Psal. 120. Sect. 1.

II. The Song it self contains, 1, A Pathetical Gratulation. 2. A vehement Exhortation.

1. A Pathetical Gratulation of David, at the zeal of Gods people towards Gods House and publick Worship there, and at the then flourishing State of Jerusalem, ver. 1. to 6. This his Gratulation is illustrated there, I. From the Subject of the Gratulation, viz. 1. David himself; I rejoyced; 2. The People of God; with them that said, &c. The Prepositi-on בְּ Beamrim, is variously rendred. As, (1) When they said. So Calvin and Geneva Translation. Referring it to the time of David gladness. (2) In them that said. So Pagnin, Montanus, Hen. Ainsworth. Referring it to the Subject or Object of David joy. (3) For them that said. So the French version; referring it to the cause of his rejoycing. (4) With them that said. So Kimchi, and Sim. de Muis. Intimating the mutual and reciprocal joy of David and the People. If we take it in this last sense, it denotes The Subjects Gratulating or rejoycing with David. II. From the Causes of this Gratulation. Which are chiefly three. viz. 1. The People's Hortatory words inciting and provoking one another to go up to the House of the LORD, for his publick Worship, v. 1. 2. The Peoples answerable Deeds and Practice. They did accordingly go up to the LORD's House, their feet did stand and persevere in Gods Worship within the Gates of Jerusalem. Apostrophe of speech to Jerusalem. v. 2. 3. The then flourishing state of Jerusalem, A type of the Spiritual prosperity of the Spiritual Jerusalem, the Church of God, The Jerusalem which is above. This her flourishing state was threefold (1) Oeconomical. And so Jerusalem is highly commended, Partly, from her goodly buildings, and the Families therein inhabiting partly, from the Unity of the Edifices and Citizens among themselves, v. 3. (2) Ecclesiastical. And so Jerusalem, is greatly praised, Partly, from the practice of the Tribes, the Tribes of JAH, Ascending habitually thrice in the year with one unanimous conflux thither. Partly, from the end of the tribes Ascending thither. Which was twofold, viz. 1. To Learn the word and will of God, from his holy Oracle at the Ark of Testimony; To the Testimony of Israel. Called Testimony, because From it God gave Testimony of his presence by his Oracles, Exod. 25. 22. In it was kept the Testimony, i. e, The two Tables of the Law and Covenant given to Israel in Horeb testifying Gods benefits Israel, the Church of God: and Israels Duryes towards God and their Neighbours, Exod. 25. 21. Hence its called, The Ark of the Testimony, Exod. 25. 22. and 26. 33. 2. To Confess (viz. praise, and thanksgiving,) to the Name of the LORD, ver. 4. (3) Political. Forasmuch as all Juridical Administration was at Jerusalem: viz. 1. Thrones for Judgement. As some Interpret The Senate of LXXII. or Great Council the Sanhedrim, who had cognizance of all great and difficult matters. 2. Thrones for the House, or Family of David: i. e. Civil Judicatories. Jerusalem being the Royal Seat for David and his Seed, ver. 5.

2. A vehement Exhortation of David to all the People of God, to pray for the flourishing State and Prosperity of Jerusalem, and of the Church of God typified thereby, v. 6, 7, 8, 9.

This Exhortation is 1 Propounded, and 2. Urged.

(1) Propounded in these words; שַׁאֲלוּ שְׁלוֹם יְרוּשָׁלִַם Shaalu shelom Jerushalaim, A most elegant Paranomasia. Pray ye the peace of Jerusalem, or; Ask ye the peace of Jerusalem, ver. 6. By peace, understanding, all manner of flourishing Prosperity.

(2) Urged by two Arguments especially; viz. I. From Gods Promise of safe-quietness, tranquility or prosperity to Jerusalem's Lovers; In Jerusalem's peace and prosperity, they shall have peace and prosperity also, ver. 6. II. From Davids own imitable Example herein. He prayes fervently for the same blessing for Jerusalem, which he Exhorted the Godly to pray for. Now this Prayer of David (wherein, in the Hebrew, is observable another elegant Paranomasia, betwixt Peace and Prosperity,) is, 1. Propounded; Let peace be ——. 2. Illustrated, Partly, By a Distribution of the peace and prosperity pray'd for, into two sorts, viz. 1 Publique, and without; Peace be in thy Port, or the Out-stretch encompassing the Walls. 2. Private, and within; and Prosperity, or safe-quietness within thy Palaces, ver. 7. Partly, By the Ends of this his Petition. He prayed for Jerusalem's peace, viz. 1. For his Brethrens sake. The Prophets, Priests, Levites, and Saints, Brethren of the same Confession of Faith with us. That they might share in Jerusalem's peace and prosperity, as well as himself. 2. For his Neighbours sake, viz. his Friends dwelling without Jerusalem: that they might partake of Jerusalems peace; as well as those that dwelt within. Yet some think these Brethren and Neighbours, are but Synonyma's, intending the same persons, ver. 8. 3. But the House of Gods sake, now at Jerusalem. That the pure Worship of God may there be preserved and flourish, and thence also in due time be propagated. Therefore he will seek her Good: Thy Good, that's the benefit desirable. I will seek; Thus the Duty or Act of the Desirer m, v. 9.

Sect. III. The Kind, Penman, Occaſion and Scope.

This Pſalm, 1. As to the Subject-matter of it, is Mixt of Profeſſion and Petition, being Narratory and Petitory. 2. As to the Outward Form of it, It is A Song, and that A Song of Degrees.

Penman of this Pſalm is thought not to be David, becauſe when he mentions any the Calamities of Gods Church and People, he is wont to inſert ſomthing of his own; which is not here done, as Calvin and others note. But rather ſome Holy Prophet, that lived long after David is ſuppoſed to have penned it. And that upon Occaſion of the Jewes Captivity in Babylon, or under Antiochus his cruel Perſecutions, when Gods people were even ſo ſatiated and extreamly glutted with contempt, ſcorn, and reproach from their haughty and inſolent enemies, That all refuge, hope, and comfort failed them on earth, and they had none to look up unto but to the God of Heaven alone f. And this Song was an excellent Form of Prayer for Gods Church and People, under contempt and ſcorn of their foes.

The Song it ſelf contains in it, 1. A Narration. 2. An Oration, or Prayer.

I. A Narration of the Pſalmiſts and Churches confidence in God in deepeſt extremities. Herein are,

1. The Act of Confidence profeſſed, under the phraſe of liſting-up the eyes. Which is the geſture or poſture, 1. Of one Praying, as John 17. 1. 2. Of one expecting and looking up for divine help: as Pſ. 121. 1. 2 Chron. 20. 12. both may have place here.

2. The Object of his Confidence: God; in the word [thee.] God is here elegantly deſcribed for the help of their Confidence, 1. By his Majeſtical Place and and Throne; O thou—in the Heavens. 2. By his effects. In the word, Sitting; O thou-ſitting in the Heavens. This [Sitting] denotes in Scripture, Sometimes Teaching: being aſcribed to Teachers, Matth. 23. 2. Sometimes Judging: being uſed of Judges, Pſ. 2 4, 5. Sometimes Reigning and Ruling, being attributed to Kings, Iſai. 66. 1. Pſal. 122. 5. 3. By his Adjunct, Excellency, or Supremacy in Heaven. Noted in two Paragogical or redundant Letters [י and ה] in the word הי שבי Sitting. All theſe tend to ſtrenghten their affiance. v. 1.

3. The Illuſtration of this Confidence, two wales; I. From a double Similitude or Reſemblance of like Confidence, Of a Servants eye to his Maſters hand, or of a Maids eye to her Miſtreſs hands. They eye them to obey their Commands, to receive good from them, or to find favour from them when corrected by them, having none other beſides them to expect any favour from: So our eyes are to the LORD our God, expecting Favour and Grace from him onely under theſe ſharp Chaſtiſements of his hand. In the former part of this Similitude, note the ſuperius in the latter, the Antiſtrophe or Reflexion of it. II. From the importunate perſeverance, or perſevering importunity of their Confidence; until he ſhew grace unto us, ver. 2.

II. An Oration or Prayer. Wherein note

1. The Bleſſing begged; Divine Grace, or Favour, ſhew-grace-to-us——

2. The Requeſt repeated. Intimating, Their Zeal in Prayer, And Gods haſtening of his favour ſo much needed.

3. The Petition enforced, by an Argument drawn from their great and deep diſtreſſes and ſufferings under their inſolent Enemies. Here are pathetically delineated, 1. The Nature of their ſufferings, viz. all manner of diſgraceful opprobriouſneſs. Whereof two ſorts are mentioned expreſly. (1) Contempt. (2) Scorning. 2. The meaſure of their ſufferings; much, much, They were filled, ſatiated, glutted, much much, with contempt and ſcorn. 3. The Patients enduring this; We, our ſoul. Both ſoul, and the whole man. 4. The Agents that inflicted theſe injuries, viz. (1) Thoſe that were at eaſe. A Periphraſis of the rich and proſperous in this world, who take their eaſe and delight; as Luke 12. 19. (2) The proud and haughty ones, they are wont to demean themſelves inſolently againſt the pious and poor afflicted, v. 3, 4.

Pſalm CXXIV.

Sect. I. The Summary Contents.

In this moſt pathetical Song, are: 1. An Exhortation unto Iſrael to acknowledge and confeſs Gods ſole preſervation and deliverance of them wonderfully and ſeaſonably from danger and utter deſtruction by their enraged, inſolent, cruel, and ſubtile Enemies, v. 1. to 6. 2. A Doxology, wherein the Church bleſſeth God moſt zealouſly for this wonderful Protection and ſeaſonable Deliverance, v. 6, 7, 8.

Sect. II. The Verſion out of the Hebrew.

A Song of Degrees a of David.

a Heb. or, To-David.

1. BUt-for the LORD, who-was for-us;
Let Iſrael now ſay:
2. But-for the LORD ſo gracious,

When b men againſt us up-aroſe;
3. Then us alive, alas,
That had up-ſwallow'd; when c their wrath Againſt-us kindled-was.

b Heb. Adam, earthly man, ſhall. ſinful men.

c Heb. their noſtrill.

4. When waters had us overflow'd:
d Stream had our ſoul paſs'd over.
5. Then had the waters ſwelling-proud
Our very ſoul paſs'd-over.
6. The LORD be bleſs'd, who gave us not Unto their teeth a prey.
7. As Bird from Fowlers ſnare is got,
Our ſoul is ſcap'd away:

d Heb. or, the torrent.

Broke is the ſnare which foes did frame,
And we are ſcaped-forth.
8. Our help is in JEHOVAH's name:

Sect. III.

Sect. III. The Kind, Penman, Occasion, and Scope.

The Kind of this Psalme is, 1. As to the Subject-matter of it, Mixt: being made up of Exhortation and Praise. It is Hortatory ver. 1 to 6. Laudatory, ver. 6. &c. 2. As to the Outward Form of it; A Song, and A Song of Degrees: as the Title shewes. See on Psal. 120. Sect. 1.

Penman of it, was David: as the Title imports.

The Occasion of David penning it, was (as the matter of it indicates) Some one, or divers wonderful deliverances of the Church and People of Israel from their proud, enraged, and subtile enemies, by the LORD's own omnipotent arme alone, in the extremity of distress and danger. Those that referre these deep straits of the Church here hinted, to the carrying of the remnant of the People into Babylon, as here foretold by David, have no ground for so doing, in the judgment of some f. For, 1. The passages in the Psalme may as well agree to their extream distresses under Antiochus that cruel Persecutor. 2. And the Distresses and Deliverances here recorded in this Psalme, are spoken of Historically, as things already done; not Propheticall, as things to be done afterwards. Some referre these things, To Davids victory over the Philistines at Baal Perizim, and at the Mulberry-trees; 2 Sam. 5. 17. to the end. 1 Chron. 14. 8. to the end. Some to his victory over the Ammonites, and Syrians their helpers, by Joab his General, 2 Sam. 10. and 1 Chron. 18. 3. And afterwards over the Edomites also, by Joab and Abishai, (which was probably about the same time, as Josephus b thinks) Joab slaying 12000. Edomites, Psal. 60. 2. and perhaps Abishai 6000 more Whence the whole number of the slain was 18000. 2 Sam. 8. 13. and 1 Chron. 18. 12. Thus—Foord, and Muis i. But others, considering, how Israel dwelt like a flock of Sheep in midst of Wolves, (herein Israel being a lively Type of the Church of God surrounded with enemies in all ages,) The Ammonites, Moabites, Assyrians and Chaldeans being on the East, The Philistines on the West, The Syrians on the North, The Egyptians, Arabians, and Edomites on the South; and how sometimes divers of these did combine together against Israel, and oft-times slew many, and endangered all: do conceive k this Psalme may have respect to many great and glorious deliverances, yet to all the eminent deliverances which the LORD had wrought for Israel against all sorts of Enemies, especially in the dayes of David. And the several expressions in the Psalme do very well agree hereunto.

The Scope here intended, is; 1. To incite all Israel, even the whole Church and People of God, to confess and acknowledge the LORD alone to have been her Defence against, and deliverer from, her many proud, enraged, and subtile enemies, in the seasonable nick of danger and extremity. To bless the LORD triumphantly hereupon, with profession of hope for help in all dangers and difficulties in the Omnipotent Lord alone.

Sect. IV. The Analysis, or Principal Parts.

In the Inscription note, 1. The Kind of this Poem; A Song. 2. The Adjunct of it; Of Degrees. 3. The instrumental Author, or Penman of it; David.

In the Song it self, which is Hortatory, and Laudatory, are;

I. An Exhortation to all Israel, to confess and ascribe unto the LORD alone all her glorious and wonderful deliverances from her many dangerous enemies, v. 1. to 6. Wherein note,

1. The Duty of acknowledging Gods deliverances, required; Let Israel say.

2. The Persons charged with this Duty: even all that shared in the deliverance; Israel.

3. The Time or Season of this acknowledgment, even presently after the deliverances: especially after some eminent deliverance; Now, v. 1.

4. The matter to be confessed and acknowledged, is The LORD's Protection and Deliverance of his Israel from her many enraged and Crafty enemies, v. 1, 2. &c. This is most elegantly and emphatically set forth four wayes: viz. I. From the peculiar Protection and Patrocinie, which the LORD himself vouchsafed Israel. Which is elegantly repeated; But for the LORD who was for us —— But for the Lord who was for us, v. 1, 2. II. From the Nature and Condition of their Enemies: Here described, 1. By their kind. There are three Kinds of them, viz. Observers, Insurrectors, Evil-doers: Psal. 92. 11. Here are mentioned onely Insurrectors. 2. By their Fame; Heb. Adam. Earthly-man. Take the word collectively. The LORD was for them: Earthy man against them, v. 2. 3. By their wrath and fury; When their anger was kindled —— 4. By their power and multitude. Compared, (1) To devouring Fishes or wild-beasts, swallowing up their prey alive. (2) To waters overflowing. (3) To a fierce and strong Torrent, or Flood irresistible. (4) To proud swelling-waters. Gradation. All which imply, The extremity of Israels danger: and the Eminency of the LORD's deliverance vouchsafed them. III. From the utter impotency of Israel to defend and deliver themselves from such enemies. Being ready to be utterly swallowed up alive ready to be overflowed: us, our Soul. IV. From the Opportunnesse and Seasonablenesse of their deliverance. Even when enemies were at highest, they at lowest: when enemies at strongest, they at weakest. This, pathetically hinted in the particle [Then] thrice used. See all these in v. 2, 3, 4, 5.

II. A Laudatory Benediction, wherein the Church Blesseth the LORD for the wonderful deliverance vouchsafed, v. 6. &c. This Benediction is illustrated.

1. By the person Blessed; The LORD, their Deliverer.

2. By the Deliverance vouchsafed. This is laid down, 1. Negatively; He hath not given us as a Prey to their Teeth. 2. Positively; Our Soul is escaped —— The Snare is broken, &c. Metaphor from a Bird's escaping out of a Snare by the breaking of it.

3. By the Antithesis, or Opposition of the enemies power and subtilty to Israels weakness and simplicity. 1. The enemies were as hungry Lyons or Wildebeasts: Israel as a prey. 2. The enemies as cunning Fowlers that had set their Snares: Israel as a silly Bird caught in the Snare, v. 6, 7.

4. By the professed Confidence of the Delivered in the Omnipotent LORD alone for help in all like cases of danger and difficulty; Our help is in —— Former experience of Gods deliverances, are an excellent foundation for his Churches future Confidence in him, v. 8.

Psalme CXXV.

Sect. I. The Summary Contents.

In this Song are, 1. The Doctrine of the constant perseverance and all-sufficient safety of the faithful people of the LORD, ver. 1, 2, 3. 2. A Prayer for the welfare of the Righteous, ver. 4. 3. A Prediction of the ungodly's punishment, but of Israels peace, ver. 5.

Sect. II. The Version out of the Hebrew.

A Song of Degrees.

1. THey-that-trust in the LORD above;
As Sion Mount are they,
Which from its base a shall not remove.
But b doth-remain for-ay.
2. Jerusalem about it round
The Mountains stand together:
c So doth the Lord his folk surround,
From-this-time and for ever.

3. For, rest shall not on just-mens lot
The Rod of wickedness, d Lest that the Just their hands forth-put Unto unrighteousnesse.
4. Do good, LORD, to the good: And to
The upright e in their-heart.
5. But to f their-crooked-courses, lo,
They-that-aside-divert.

With workers of iniquity
The LORD (whose wayes excel)
Will-lead-them-forth: Yet Peace shall be Upon his Israel.

a Heb. shall not be removed b Heb. shall sit.
c Heb. and the LORD round about his people from now, and for ever d Heb. That the just put not forth.... e Heb. in their hearts
f Heb. their crookednesses.

Sect. III. The Kind, Penman, Occasion and Scope.

The Kind of it, 1. As to the Subject-matter thereof is mixt, being made up of Doctrine, Prayer, and Prophecy. 2. As to the Outward Form of it, it is A Song, A Song of Degrees, as the Title intimates. See Psal. 120. Sect. 1.

Penman of this Song is not expressed, as in the Titles of some other Songs of Degrees: But tis probably conjectured, David wrote it g. And from ver. 3. The Rod of the wicked, &c. it is supposed that it was Penned much about the same time, the 124*th Psalme* was written, and upon like Occasion of the afflictions & distresses of God's Church and people by the wicked of the World. Against which they are here comforted, g H. Moll. in Arg. Ps. 125. Jo. Foord. in Explic. Psal. 125. Tempus—.

Scope intended herein, is; 1. For the comfort of Gods Church and faithful people against all encompassing afflictions, dangers, and enemies, to declare their constant stability and impregnable safety through the LORD's surroundinging presence and protection: And that the Rod of wickednesse shall not still rest upon the lot of the Righteous. 2. As also to pray for the welfare of the good and upright; And presage the wicked's punishment, but Israels peace.

Sect. IV. The Analysis, or Principal Parts.

The Title points out, 1. The kind of this sacred Poem; A Song. 1. The Adjunct of it; of Degrees.

The Song it self is, Doctrinal, Petitory, and Prophetical.

I. Doctrinal, v. 1, 2, 3. Herein the Psalmist teacheth especially two things, viz.

1. The Constancy, Stability, or Perseverance of the Faithful. Where, 1. The Faithful persevering, are described; By their affiance. They trust in, Hope in. By the Object of this their affiance, viz. The LORD. 2. Their Stability or Perseverance is illustrated by Similitude drawn from the Mount Sion, A Type of the Church. This Mount Sion is set forth, (1.) By it's immobility. (2.) By it's Perpetuity of Station, ver. 1.

2. The All-sufficient Safety and Security of the Lords people, of his Church. This is Demonstrated two wayes. 1. From the LORD's constant presence with, and Protection of his people. Which Presence and Protection, is Elegantly illustrated by the Natural safety of Jerusalem from her invading enemies by reason of the surrounding Mountains defending it: So the LORD himself is round about his people from now and for ever. Here's the Similitude, and the Reddition of it, v. 2. 2. From the LORD's Promise, against the continuance of the Rod of wicked Tyrants and persecutors upon the lot of the Righteous. Their Rod may fall on them: but shall not rest on them, so as to overflow their safety. This promise is confirmed by a Reason thereof; Lest continued afflictions and persecutions should expose or force them to any iniquity, ver. 3.

II. Petitory. Wherein the Psalmist prayes for the welfare of the godly. Here note, 1. What is prayed, for; Good. All sort of good, which God sees best, 2. From whom it is begged; From the LORD. 3. For whom, viz. for the godly. Set forth, (1.) As good. (2.) As upright in their hearts, ver. 4.

III. Prophetical. Herein the Psalmist foretelleth 1. The punishment of the ungodly. (1.) They are characterized; They turn-aside to their crookednesses: From the way of Piety and integrity. (2.) Their punishment is described, By the Author, Kind of it, and Co-partners in it; The LORD shall lead them forth, &c. 2. The peace of Israel, the Church and people of God, ver. 5.

Psalme CXXVI.

Sect. II. The Summary Contents

Herein are set forth, 1. The Churches thankful Gratulation to the LORD for the wonderful return of their Captivity from Babylon, v. 1, 2, 3. 2. A Prayer for perfecting of that Mercy in respect of them that were not yet returned, v. 4. 3. A Consolation of the afflicted Captives, in hope of an happy issue of all their distresses, v. 5, 6.

Sect. II. The Version out of the Hebrew.

A Song of Degrees.

1. WHen Sion's sad a Captivity
The Lord return'd-again:
Like-unto-them-that-dream were-we.
2. Our mouth was filled then, a Heb. or, the Reversion of Sion i. e. from Babylons captivity.

With

With laughter, and our tongue b did sing;
Then said they thereupon
Among the Heathens: c mighty things
With them the LORD hath done.

3. The LORD d hath done great-things with us:
We joyful are thereby.
4. As streams in South, do thou, O LORD,
Turn e our-Captivity.
5. f Who-sow in tears, shall reap in joy.
6. Who going goes, and g mournes,
Bearing choise Seed, Sure he with joy,
Bearing his sheaves, h returns.

f Shall reap in joyful shouting. g Heb. weeps bearing the drawing of (i.e. purchased (i. e. precium) Seed. h Heb. coming shall come.

Sect. III. The Kind, Penman, Occasion, and Scope.

The Kind of this Psalme. 1. As to the Subject-Matter of it, is Mixt. Consisting of Gratulation, Prayer, and Consolation. 2. As to the Outward-Forme of it, it is A Song, A Song of Degrees, as the Title Denominates it. See Psal. 120. Sect. 1.

Penman of this Song, was, not David by a Spirit of Prophecy foretelling the Jews return from Babylons Captivity, for this (thinks Calvin) is too much to force the words i: But rather some holy man of God, about the time of the Jewes first and wonderful return from Babylon.

Occasion was plainly The Jewes first Returne from Babylonish Captivity, upon the Edict of Cyrus, after he had conquered Babylon. See the History of it, Ezra. 1. and 2. Which Captives returned into their own Land, magnified the LORD in this Song, for that stupendious and almost incredible deliverance: Praying the LORD to perfect this mercy in Returning them that were then left behind: And comforting themselves, and the rest unreturned, with hopes of an happy and joyful issue of all their sorrows, though the perfecting of their Deliverance was for a season delayed.

Scope of the Song, is; 1. To magnifie the LORD alone for the Jewes admirable Return from Babylonish Captivity. 2. To pray the LORD to compleat this great mercy in Returning the rest that yet stayed behind. 3. And to comfort themselves and the Captives un-returned, with hopes of a joyfull Harvest of mercy, after a mournful Seed-time of sorrow and misery.

Sect. IV. The Analysis or Principal Parts.

The Title denotes, 1. The Kind of this Poem; A Song. 2. The Adjunct of it; Of Degrees.

The Song it self contains 1. Gratulation, 2. Prayer, 3. And Consolation.

I. Thankful Gratulation of the Jewes for their first and wonderful Returne from Babylonish Captivity, ver. 1, 2, 3. This their Returne is described pathetically,

1. By the Author of it; The LORD. It was so great, strange, wonderful, &c. that it could not be ascribed to any other efficient than to him alone.

2. By the Subjects recipient, on whom the LORD conferred this Deliverance; Sion. The Church. The Captive Jewes, who were thought to be buried as in Graves in Babylon, Ezek. 37. 11, 12, 13, 14.

3. By the effects or Consequents hereupon ensuing, viz. 1. The Jewes, astonishment, admiration, &c. at their deliverance, as almost incredible: As a dream, rather than a real Truth, ver. 1. 2. Their singular joy thereat. Described, Partly, By the manner of their expressing it; With Laughter, With Singing. Partly, By the measure of it; ——was filled

——3. The Heathens (viz. Babylonians, Medes Persians, &c.) Confession and open testification, that the LORD had magnifi'd to do with them. Had magnifically wrought for them, ver. 2. 4. The Captives thankful acknowledgment, that the LORD had magnifi'd to do with them indeed. Which is amplified By their rejoycing therein, v. 3.

II. A Prayer of the Jewes Returned out of Captivity, for Gods continuing and compleating of their Deliverance upon the remnant yet-unreturned from Babylon. Wherein note, 1. The Object prayed to; The LORD. 2. The Parties Praying; The Jewes returned. Intimated in the Word [Our] 3. The Blessing prayed for: The Returning of their Captivity: i. e. Of the remainder of the Jewish Captives lingering in Babylon, who returned not at first with Zerubbabel, but afterwards with Ezra, in about the seventh year of Artaxerxes Mnemon, See Ezra 7. 1, 7, 8, 11, &c. 4. The Argument whereby they, as it were, move God to grant this request, is drawn from the singular acceptableness and seasonableness of the mercy, represented in an elegant similitude; It will be as seasonable and gratefull as streams of water in the dry parched South-Country, ver. 4.

III. A Consolation to themselves and the rest of the Captives, encouraging them to undergo with hope and patience their present sorrowes and sufferings, in expectation of their future joy in their full deliverance. This is laid down under an elegant Similitude of the Husbandman, who hath a dropping Seed-time, but a joyful Harvest: who patiently endures hardness in plowing, sowing, &c. in winter: and reaps a rich crop in Summer. The Similitude is expressed: The Reddition of it is understood, ver. 5, 6.

Psalm CXXVII.

Sect. I. The Summary Contents.

Herein, are; 1. A Declaration of the vanity of all Humane endeavours and undertakings in Ecclesiastical, Politick, and Domestical affairs, without the concourse of Gods Providence and Blessing, ver. 1, 2. 2. A Confirmation hereof by one eminent instance of Children, whereby all societies are supported, who are the peculiar gifts of the LORD, ver. 3, 4, 5.

Sect. II. The Version out of the Hebrew.

A Song of Degrees a for Solomon.

a Heb. or, of Solomon.

1. b UNless the LORD the house doth build,
It's builders c toyle therein in-vaine:

So he'l give his beloved sleep.

3. Lo, sons are the LORD's Heritage:
The womb's fruit, his reward alone.
4. So are sonnes e of the youthful-age,
As Shafts in hand of mighty-one.

Sect. III. The Kind, Penman, Occasion, and Scope.

The Kind of this Poem, 1. As to the Subject-Matter of it, is Doctrinal. Teaching that all mans acts and endeavours, without the LORD's concurrent Providence and Blessing, are vaine. 2. As to the Outward Forme of it, is A Song. A Song of Degrees. See Psal. 120. Sect. 1.

h Jo. Calv. in Com. ad Ps. 127. 1.

Penman of it. Some think to be K. Solomon h. Partly, Because his Name is inserted in the Title: which may, according as the Hebrew will bear it, be translated; Of-Solomon. Or; For Solomon. Partly, because Solomon had great knowledge in, and experience of building the House and other affairs mentioned in this Song. Others conceive, that it was penned by David, or by some other holy man of God, for Solomon and his Instruction, How to enterprize and mannage all his affairs, with dependance chiefly upon the LORD for all good success therein i. And so they render the Title; For-Solomon. And indeed Solomon had great need of such advice as this Psalme gives, he being to undertake those great works, of building not onely his own House, but Gods House, of stablishing the Politie of the City Jerusalem, and the whole Kingdom of Israel, &c. To this later Opinion I rather incline. And yet I judge it not much material, whether we ascribe the penning of it to David or to Solomon. Seeing the Doctrine of the Psalme will be one and the same to us.

i H. Moller in Tit. Ps. 127. Sim. de Muis in Arg. Psal. 127. Joan. Foord in Exposs. Ps. 227. Tit. H. Ainsw. on Title.

Occasion of penning it, was probably; The great work that lay upon Solomons hands in reference to the Temple, City and Kingdome, and his own Family, which that he might successfully undertake, he was to enterprise them with dependance upon the Lord's benediction alone.

Scope is, 1. Immediately, to teach Solomon in all his Ecclesiastick, Politick, and Domestick affairs, to depend only upon the Providence and concurrent blessing of God, without which all his own wisdom, power, diligence, industry, &c. would be utterly vain. 2. Mediately, To teach us and all Gods people, That without the LORD's concurrent Providence, Assistance and Blessing, all mans Enterprizes and Endeavours about Ecclesiastical, Political, or Domestical affaires are meer lost labour and vanity. And that therefore in all our Actions and Undertakings we should wholly depend upon the LORD, for assistance and success. So true and excellent is that allusion of Nazianzen unto this Psalme; Θεοῦ δόντος, μηδὲν ἰσχύει φθόνος: μὴ δόντος, μηδὲν ἰσχύει πόνος. God giving, Envy nothing prevailes: God not giving, Labour nothing Availes k.

k Greg. Nezianzen apud Hen. Moller. in Arg. Psal. 127.

Sect. IV. The Analysis, or Principal Parts.

The Inscription, or Title, expresseth; 1. The Kind of writing; A Song. 2. The Adjunct, A Song of Degrees, See on Psal. 120. Sect. 1. 3. The Object for whose sake it was specially penned; For-Solomon.

The Song it self contains

I. A Doctrinal Declaration of the vanity of all humane Acts and Enterprizes about all sorts of Affairs here below, without the concurrent influences of Gods Providence and Blessing. But especially, l Thus Jo. Foord in Exp. Psal. 127.

1. In Affairs Ecclesiastical. As, in building the Temple l, which was The House κατ' ἐξοχὴν. In vain did David intend it, unless the LORD had approved his intention. In vain had Solomon attempted it: had not God assisted him in it. Some referre this to Amans dwelling-house, and especially to his Family; and all manner of provisions for it. But the former seems better, ver. 1. in begin.

2. In Affairs Political. As, in keeping, protecting, and well-providing for the City, i. e. Jerusalem, under which, as the Metropolis of the Kingdom, understand metonymically the whole Kingdom, and Common-wealth of Israel. Unless the LORD be the Keeper and Protector thereof, every other Keeper, even Solomon himself, keepeth it, and watcheth in all in vain, v. 1.

3. In Affaires Oeconomical, or Domestical. As, in providing for the Family. All the prudence, diligence toyle and travel that the Housholder can expect, and all the hardnesse and straits that he can undergo; being up early, down late, and eating the bread of sorrows m (i. e. food painfully acquired, Gen. 3. 19. or course diet) will be all in vain and unprosperous, without Gods blessing. This is notably illustrated by Gods contrary blessing of his beloved, depending upon him and his Providence after all his toyle and labour; So he will give his Beloved sleep n. So] i. e. by such early rising, late sitting up, eating the bread of sorrowes; he will give his beloved sleep, i. e. he will give sweet sleep and rest without carking carefulnesse to his beloved, that depends upon him for success, and commits himself and his way unto him. The word שֵׁנָה Shena, sleep, is written otherwise then usual, with ה a quiet dumb Letter, perhaps to denote the greater Quietness, ver. 2.

m See Mercerus Interpretation hereof, in Exp. Psal. 126. ad Mercurium. 1555. n שֵׁנָה beloved for Dearling. The Rabbins referre to Solomon Jedid Jah. 2 Sam. 12. 25. that is, Beloved of JAH. Mercer. in his Annot. on Psal. 127. 2.

II. An eminent Confirmation of this doctrinal declaration, by an elegant instance in children (by whom Ecclesiastical, Political, Domestical, and all other Societies are supplied & upheld) who are not obtained but by the Lords singular Benediction and Donation. Here touching children, we may note, 1. The Lord's peculiar influence and providence in bestowing them upon Parents. Signified in two Denominations. They are called, (1) An Heritage of the LORD. (2) His Reward (viz. not of due debt to any one, as [Reward] is used, Numb. 18. 31. Gen. 30. 28. But of free grace and favour, as [Reward] is used, Rom. 4. 4. Gen. 15. 1. Isai. 62. 11.) ver. 3. 2. The usefulnes of children bestowed by Gods blessing. viz. for defence of Parents, Family, City, and all Societies, against all contrary force and opposition of enemies. Here to this end, (1) They are resembled to Arrowes in the hand of a mighty man, v. 4. (2) He that hath his Quiver, (i. e. his House) filled with these Arrowes (i. e. children of the youth, is counted blessed. (3) The reason of such his happiness is added; Such shall not be ashamed, but shall speak with the Enemies in the Gate. They shall be able to defend themselves, their Parents and Family, their City, their Countrey, against the judicial Enemies in the Gate, and their false judgments, and against Martial Enemies in the Gate, and their hostile weapons of war, ver. 5.

Psalm CXXVIII.

Sect. I. The Summary Contents.

In this Song, 1. The true fearers of the LORD are described, ver. 1. 2. Their Happiness thereupon, through sundry blessings ensuing, is declared, ver. 1. 2, &c. to the end.

Sect. II.

Sect. II. The Versions out of the Hebrew.

A Song of Degrees.

1. a O Happy-happy every-one
That doth JEHOVAH fear:
Still walking in his ways alone.
2. For, thou shalt eat with chear
The labour of thy painful b hands:
c O-happy-happy thou!
To thee also, thy case so stands,
Abundant good shall flow.

3. Thy wife, like fructifying Vine
By thine House sides, shall sprout:
Thy Sons, like Olive plants, confine
Thy Table round-about.
4. Lo, surely thus the man shall be Still blest't, d that fears the LORD.
5. The LORD e from Sion unto thee
His blessing-will-afford;

And thou shalt see, f all thy life's dayes,
6. And shalt see thy sons sons, thy praise:
And peace on Israel.

A Song of Degrees.

1. a O Happy every-one
That doth JEHOVAH fear:
Walks in his wayes alone
2. For, thine b hands labour here
Thou glad shalt eate:
c O happy thou! And good shall flow
To thee compleat.

3. Thy wife, like fruitful Vine
By thine House sides, shall sprout:
Like Olive plant still green
Thy sonnes shall round-about Inclose thy board.
4. Lo, sure thus d bless't that-man shall rest.
That fears the LORD.

5. JEHOVAH will thee bless
From Sion, e thou withal
Jerusalem's goodness
Shalt see, thy life's dayes all.
6. And, through increase,
Thy sons sons thou shalt see: and know
On Isr'el peace.

Sect. III. The Kinde, Penman, Occasion and Scope.

The Kind of this Poem, 1. As to the Subject-Matter of it, is Doctrinal: Teaching, who are the true fearers of the LORD, And how great and manifold blessednes attends upon them. 2. As to the Outward Form of it, is A Song, A Song of Degrees. See Psal. 120. Sect. 1.

Penman of it seems to be the same who penned the former Psalm; viz. Solomon, or David. For this is of like Argument, and (as Calvin saith) neer of kin to Psal. 127. and as it were a certain Appendix to it f. And therefore (saith Mollerus) it is rightly subjoyned to the former, for it doth as it were explain and confirm it g.

Occasion of penning it, probably was the former Psalm, or some passages in it. For, The Psalmist having declared in the former Song, That the happy success and good event of all humane undertakings in Ecclesiasticals, Politicals, and Domesticals, depends not upon man's care, wisdom, prudence, diligence, &c. but meerly upon the good Providence and Blessing of the LORD: In this Song he comes to define and describe the Persons, upon whom the LORD peculiarly pours forth his blessing, viz. on all them that truly fear the LORD, walking in his wayes, ver. 1, &c. And, as in the former Song he had pronounced them happy, that were stored with children, having their Quiver, their house filled with those Arrowes, Psal. 127. 3, 4, 5. So in this Song he explaines himself, shewing unto whom especially plenty of children were such a blessing; viz. To the pious and sincere fearers of the LORD, &c. Psal. 128. 1, 3.

Scope is, To teach and declare the singular and manifold happiness of the true Fearers of the Lord, Privately and Publikely: And especially in the Labours of their Calling, in their Wife, in their Children, &c. Whence this Song is by some b, and not a miss, stiled, Ἐπιθαλάμιον καὶ γαμικὸν, A kind of Marriage-Song, setting forth the Praise, Instruction, and Commendation of such as are in Marriage-State, or entring thereinto. And surely, both this and the former Song (if the Subject matter of both be duly considered) contain most excellent Doctrine, Instruction and Consolation for married persons, and such as are to be married. And therefore they are most proper and suitable to be Read, Sung, and meditated upon, by such persons, and upon such Occasions.

Sect. IV. The Analysis or Principal Parts.

The Title sets forth, 1. The Kind of this Poem, as to the external form of it; A Song. 2. The Adjunct of it; of Degrees. See on Psal. 120. Sect. 1.

The Song it self contains, An Excellent Doctrine of the manifold happiness of all the true Fearers of the LORD. To this purpose herein are,

I. A Description of the Subject to whom this happiness belongs. Described, 1. By their Adjunct; The religious fear of the Lord. 2. By the effect, or concomitant of this Fear of the LORD. viz. Walking in his wayes. Metaphorically, his Laws and Commands. Word and Ordinances, are here stiled his wayes. Ezra and Kimchi understand by them that fear the LORD, such as abstain from his negative Precepts, and by such as walk in his wayes, those that keep his affirmative Precepts i. But this is too dilute: 3. By the general Extent; In the universal particle כל Col, every-one, viz. whether rich or poor, &c. vers. 1.

II. A Declaration of their happiness that thus fear the LORD, &c. Which is laid down.

1. More Generally, The happinesse of every one, &c. Or; O the happinesses——! as it were with a kind of admiration. The Abstract plural here is very emphatical. ver. 1.

2. More particularly, The happiness of the godly Fearers of the LORD, is distributed into two sorts, viz. (1) Private and corporal, ver. 2, 3, 4. (2) Publick and spiritual, v. 5, 6.

First, the private and corporal, or temporal happiness of every one fearing the LORD, is elegantly laid down by way of Enallage or change of the person, or Apostrophe, turning his speech to the man fearing the LORD. And this his happiness is manifold, viz. He shall be happy.

(1) In the honest labours of his Calling: Where note, that 1. To the fear of the LORD, and religious walking in his wayes, Labour in our particular Calling must be added. 2. They that labour in their particular Calling have here the promise of Gods blessing; O happy thou, and good shall be to thee. 3. It's a special blessing to have our labours blessed of a Blessednesses of every one fearing JEHOVAH. Ring in. b And palms of hand. The blessednesse of thee.

c Thou shalt eat the labour of thy hands.

d Lo, the man shall be blessed fearing JEHOVAH. e And Sion thou the good of Jerusalem all dayes of thy lives.

f Psalmus hic Proximo affinis est, & quasi quidam veluti Appendix. Joan. Calv. in Arg. Psal. 128.

h H. Moll. in Arg. Psal. 128.

i Per eos qui timent Dominum, intelligunt Ezra & Kimchi illos qui sibi cavent à præceptis negativis: per eos verò qui ambulant in viis ejus, qui obediunt præceptis affirmativis. Sim. de Muis in Com. ad Ps. 128. 1.

God. 4. It is of Gods great blessing that we eate of our own hands labours, and not of others, ver. 2.

(2) In his Wife. Which in regard of, 1. Her fruitfulness in children; 2. The place of her fruitfulness, in her husbands house, is elegantly compared to a fruitfying Vine by the House sides. The Vine being the only tree planted in the House, and through the Wall the branches shooting forth are fruitful on the house-sides, through the influence of the Sunne.

(3) In his Children. Compared to Olive Plants round about his Table. Thus fonte accommodate the Similitude; 1. The Olive is still fresh, green, and flourishing; So shall thy sonnes be still flourishing in prosperity. 2. The Olive is legitimate, admits no other tree to be ingrafted upon it: so thy children shall be legitimate, not spurious. 3. Their standing round about thy Table, may denote, Their plenty, round-about: Their Sobriety, thy Table; Their serviceableness to their Parents, standing and attending round about thy Table. Perhaps all, besides the first, may be more witty, than solid, ver. 3.

(4) In the certainty of the godly man's former felicity. Confirmed by an Emphatical Repetition of Gods promise and declaration of his happiness, v. 4.

Secondly, The publique and Spiritual, as well as Temporal happinesse of every fearer of the LORD, is superadded, ver. 5. &c. Where note, 1. The Author of this blessedness. viz. The LORD. 2. The Testimony confirming this blessednesse to them, viz. The Covenant which God made with his people, now placed in the Ark in Sion, the token of Gods special presence among them, where God commanded the blessing, &c. Psal. 133. 3. therefore it is added; out of Sion, 3. The matter of this spiritual happiness, in beholding the good of Jerusalem, viz. The spiritual welfare and flourishing prosperity of the Church of God, whereof Jerusalem was a Type. 4. The constancy of this happinesse and great blessing; all the dayes of thy lives. 5. The extension of this happiness also, even to Childrens Children. The third and fourth generation shall even in his sight share in this blessednesse. This promise notably implyes to the fearers of the LORD, Long life, and a numerous succession of Posterity. Thus private blessings are also interwoven with the publique: they use to stand and fall together. 6. Peace and Prosperity upon Israel, upon the whole Kingdom and Nation, ver. 5, 6. These are singular blessings. For a gracious heart prefers the weale Publick of Church and State before all his own private Concernments, as in Psal. 137. 5, 6.

Psalm CXXIX.

Sect. I. The Summary Contents,

Herein are, 1. The Churches complaints against the continued, frequent, and grievous afflictions brought upon her, by her persecuting enemies, ver. 1, 2, 3. 2. An acknowledgement of the LORD's delivering her from them, ver. 4. 3. A dreadful Imprecation of Confusion and ruine upon all the haters of Sion, the enemies of the Church, ver. 5. to the end.

Sect. II. The Version out of the Hebrew.

A Song of Degrees.

1. OFt-from my youth they me distress'd:
   May Israel now say.
2. Oft from my youth they me distress'd:
   Yet thus farre have not they Prevail'd against-me, though full low.
   The Plowers, fierce and strong,
Upon my very back did plow:
   They made their furrow long.

4. The just LORD, a hath asunder-dash'd — a Heb. hath cut-asunder
   The Cords of wicked-men.
5. Let Sion's haters all be-bash'd,
   And turned back again.
6. Like to the rootless fading grass
   Of-Houses-tops be they:
Which e're it groweth-up, doth passe
   And withereth-away.

7. b Whereof enough to fill his hand — b Heb. his bosome. with the Mower filleth not his palme.
   The Mower doth not find:
Or he his bosome, that doth stand
   And scattered Sheaves up-bind.
8. Nor do they say, that-passe-by them,
   The LORD's good blessing be Upon-you: In JEHOVAH's Name
   Bless you this day do we.

Sect. III. The Kind, Penman, Occasion and Scope.

The Kind of this Poem, 1. As to the Outward Form of it, is, A Song, A Song of Degrees. See on Psal. 120. Sect. 1. 2. As to the Subject-Matter of it is Mixt: being Querelatory, Laudatory, and Imprecatory. Complaining of the Churches distresses by her persecutors, Praising the Lord for preserving his Israel from ruine in greatest extremities, and delivering her; And imprecating confusion and ruine to the haters of Sion.

Penman and Occasion of writing this Song cannot particularly be determined upon with any certainty: Neither, being here or elsewhere clearly recorded in Holy Scripture. From the Subject-matter of the Psalme, much resembling that of Psal. 124. some conceive they were both Penned by the same Author and about the same time c. Calvin considering the singular Emphasis of that Adverb of time, Now, ver. 1. Conjectures, that probably this Psalme was composed when the Church of God was cast into extream straits, or oppressed with some great tyranny, and in such deep danger, that it was not farre from utter ruine.——As, when after the Jewes returned from Babylon, and had suffered many bitter injuries from their neighbouring enemies, they at last were almost wholly ruined under the tyranny of Antiochus d.

c Jo. Fred in Exp. Psal. 129.

d Jo. Calv. in Com. ad Psal. 129. 1

Scope of the Psalmist herein, is; 1. To incite Israel, the Church of God, to magnifie the LORD for his wonderful and constant preserving her from ruin against the many and long-continued distresses and straits brought upon her by her persecuting enemies, and cutting asunder the Cords of the wicked: As also 2. To devote the haters of Sion to utter confusion. The whole Psalme is carried on with much Emphatical Elegancy: every Sentence, every Word being very observable. Augustine compares this Psalme, to Zacheus, little of Stature, but great in Works; to the Widows two Mites, little Money, but large Charity: So this

Psalme

...Psalme, if you number the Words, it short; if you weigh ...vrit est. the Sentences, it great &c.

...ficum est in Evangelio de Zachæo, staturâ brevis, sed magnus in opere: sicut scriptum est de illâ viduâ, quæ duo minuta misit in Gazophylacium; Brevis pecunia, sed magna charitas. Et ille Psalmus, si verba numeres, brevis est: Si sententias expendas, magnus est. August. in Psalm. 228. Enarrat. Tom. 8.

Sect. IV. The Analysis, or Principal Parts.

The Title denotes, 1. The kind of writing; A Song. 2. The Adjunct thereof; of Degrees.

The Song it self. Containes

I. A Complaint. Wherein note

1. The parties complaining, or incited by the Psalmist to complain; Israel. The Church of God.

2. The time or season of the complaint; Now. i. e. In her then present great extremities, into which she was plunged, &c.

3. The adversaries against whom she complaines, or may justly complain: hinted in the word [they] in ver. 1, 2. but afterwards branded with the infamous names of Plowers, the wicked, the haters of Sion, in verse 3, 4, 5. these were Israels adversaries.

4. The injuries done to Israel by her adversaries, and here the matter of her complaint, are most elegantly and Pathetically described, 1. By their Adjunctes. 2. By Comparisons.

(1) By their Adjunctes, Aggravating the enemies injuries. As, 1. The frequency of these injuries; Often. Often. 2. The greatness and grievousness of the injuries, hinted in the passionate ingemination; Often have they distressed me. Often have they distressed me. 3. The continuance of them; From my youth. From my youth. viz. From the dayes of Saul and David, when Israel was constituted a Kingdom: yea, from the dayes of Moses, when she was brought out of Egypt and formed into a National Church: yea, from the time of Abraham, when God entred into Covenant with him and his Seed: yea, even from the dayes of Adam when God first promised the Seed of the woman, &c. All this is illustrated, by their enemies disappointments ver. 1, 2.

(2) By Comparisons. These injuries are compared, 1. To the straitning or besieging of a City or Castle: in the word צָרְרוּנִי Tserarunî, they distressed me, they straitned me, ver. 1, 2. its doubled Emphatically. The enemies as it were laid siege against Israel and straitned the Church. 2. To Ploughing up of Grounds. Here, 1. The Plowers, were the enemies persecuting the Church. 2. Their Plowing, was their malicious persecuting the Church of God, rending, tearing, &c. 3. The ground plowed, The back of Israel. 4. The length of the furrow was the continuance and prolonging of their distresses, all very elegantly ver. 3.

II. A thankful acknowledgement of the Churches deliverance, Here note, 1. The Author of this deliverance; The LORD. 2. The Impulsive Cause inclining the Lord thereunto. viz. The LORD's Justice for his people and against their adversaries. 3. The evils and enemies from which they were delivered; the cords of the wicked i. e. The Councels, Contrivances and other Instrumental means whereby they drew the plow upon Israel's back. 4. The way or method of the LORD's delivering them; by cutting asunder the cords of the wicked. He thus persists in the former Metaphor or Allegory of plowing, ver. 4.

III. A dreadful Imprecation upon the Churches Enemies. Wherein consider

1. The Description or Character of the Enemies Imprecated; Haters of Sion.

2. The extent of the Imprecation: to them all; in the universal particle, all.

3. The Judgements wherunto these Enemies are devoted, viz. 1. Publique Shame. 2. Flight, turning back to their ruine and confusion, ver. 5. 3. Unchimely destruction, under the Similitude of Grass on House tops, soon withering, ver. 6. wholly fruitless, ver. 7. and without blessing ver. 8.

Psalm CXXX.

Sect. I. The Summary Contents.

Herein are, 1. A fervent Prayer of the deeply afflicted, for divine Audience and acceptance of his Supplication for Grace, especially in the pardon of sin; urged by many Arguments, ver. 1. to 7. 2. An earnest Exhortation unto Israel, hopefully-to-waite for the LORD, ver. 7, 8.

Sect. II. The Version out of the Hebrew.

Sect. III. The Kind, Penman Occasion, and Scope

The Kind of this Poem, 1. As to the Outward Forme of it, is A Song, A Song of Degrees: as the Title shewes. See on Psal. 120. Sect. 1. And it is the Eleventh Song of Degrees in order. 2. As to the Subject-Matter of it, it is Mixt: being Petitory, and Hortatory; as is hinted in the Summary Contents. And it is reckoned among the Seven Penitential Psalmes: being the Sixth in order. See before, on Psal. 6. Sect. 3. It is therefore (said one) more known and Sung in the Church, than the other Songs of Degrees g. And the matter of it is not obscure to them that have tasted the terrours of Conscience for sin, and have been exercised in the School of sincere Repentance. For herein

g Hic Psalmus inter; pœnitentiales refertur: ideo præ cæteris in Ecclesiâ semper fuit notus & decantatus. Nec obscura est sententia hîc qui aliquando senserunt terrores peccati, & aliqua habuerunt pœnitentiæ exercitia. H. Mollerus in Arg. Ps. 130.

in the Psalmist being as it were sunk down into the deeps of Distresses, Cares, Sorrowes, Anxieties, &c. perhaps both corporal and spiritual, and almost overwhelmed therewith, cryes out in these extremities to the LORD, for audience, and pardon of sin, earnestly waiting upon the LORD to that end according to his Word of Promise: And exhorting all the Israel of God herein to imitate his example. The Prayer is short: but very pithy, fervent, and pathetical. It is Incomparabilis Thesaurus, a Treasure incomparable, said Calvin b. It may most comfortably and fitly be used as a Prayer, or as a Pattern for Prayer, by a poor, penitent, broken-hearted Soul almost overwhelmed and swallowed up with deeps of misery by reason of sin: against which the sufficiency of divine Pardon, and Redemption is here emphatically declared. Upon which, said Augustine well; ——Therefore if Israel be pressed with his sins, the mercy of God is at hand.—— He that did not commit sin, is his Redeemer from sin. He will Redeem Israel. Whence will he Redeem? From this iniquity, or from that? Nay, from all his iniquities. Therefore let not him that is about to come to God, feare any his iniquities: onely let him come with his whole heart, and now cease to do what before he had done, and not say; that iniquity shall not be forgiven me. ——Do not say, I am not worthy, because of my sins. Thou art not worthy: but with him is much Redemption, and he will Redeem Israel from all his iniquities i; i Ergo si premebatur peccatis suis, adest misericordia Dei.——Qui non commisit peccatum, ipse est Redemptor à peccato: ipse Redimet Israel. Unde redimet? Ab illa iniquitate, an ab illa? Ab omnibus iniquitatibus suis. Non ergo timeat accessurus ad Deum aliquas iniquitates suas: tantummodo accedat pleno corde, & desinat jam facere quæ antea faciebat, & non dicat; illa iniquitas non mihi dimittitur.——Noli dicere, Ego non sum dignus propter peccata. Non es dignus: Sed multa apud illum Redemptio, Et ipse Redimet Israel ab omnibus iniquitatibus suis. Aug. in Enarrat. Psal. 129. p. 1511 A. B. C. D. Tom. 8. Basi. 1569.

b Jo. Calv. in Com. ad Ps. 130. 1.

Penman and particular Occasion of penning this Song, are uncertain. Some k think David penned it, Either when himself was in the Depths of anguish and distress for his great sins of murder of Uriah, and Adultery with Bathshebah, See Psal. 51. Title. and 2 Sam. 11. and 12. And that in this Song and Prayer he earnestly beggs pardon of those sins. Or, when himself and Israel were pressed extreamly with some deep calamity, as when the Pestilence came upon them for Davids numbering the People, 2 Sam. 24. or some such great distress. Or when David, in the dayes of Saul, was in deep perplexities through his Persecutions. But others think this Psalme was Penned by some Prophet upon occasion of the peoples deep distresses in Babylonish Captivity, the Prophet sustaining the person of the people: because of the beginning and close of the Psalme, ver. 1. and 7, 8. As the Ord. Glss. l The Song indeed maybe applyed thereto, as to divers other conditions of Gods people But none of these particulars have any certain foundation.

k See H. Moller. in Arg. Psal. 130. Joan. Foord in Expos. Ps. 130. Glss. Ordinar. in Addit. Ps. 129.

l De materiâ vero hujus Psalmi, dicunt aliqui quod est Oratio ipsius David pro sua liberatione à peccatis Adulterij cum Bethsabea, & homicidij Uriæ. Sed finis Psalmi videtur magis prætendere, quod sit Oratio pro liberatione populi Israelis à Babylonicâ Captivitate, facta ab aliquo spem Dei habente, qui loquens in personâ populi, dicit; De profundis. i. de terrâ Babilonicâ, quæ est demissa respectu Judææ: Et etiam quia in Babylone aliqui de Judæis erant positi in carceribus subterraneis, &c. Glss. Ordinar. in Addition. ad Psal. 129.

Scope of the Psalmist herein, is; 1. Partly, to obtain of the LORD, audience to his Prayer fervently presented in his deep and almost desperate extremities: and acceptance of his Supplication for grace, especially in the free forgiveness of his iniquities; For accomplishment of which his desires, he waits earnestly upon the LORD, according to his Word of Promise, v. 1. to 7. 2. Partly, To excite Israel, even the whole Church of God, and consequently every member thereof, after the Psalmists example, To wait-hopefully upon the LORD for his loving-kindness and much Redemption of them from all iniquities, ver. 7, 8. And this may be used by Gods penitent people in their deeps of distress, As an excellent Prayer for Audience, Acceptance, and forgiveness of Sins of all sorts: raising up their Faith and Hope earnestly to expect the same according to the faithful Word and Gracious Nature of the Lord.

This Precious Song, therefore, contrary to the true use, intent, and Scope of it, is most grossly, ignorantly, and superstitiously abused and prophaned by the Papists, who recite it for obtaining mercy to the dead Saints detained in the pains of Purgatory.——It is received (said Sim. de Muis m, a learned Papist) by the custome of the Church, That this Psalm should be recited for the piously deceased, because in it there is often mention of Divine Mercy, which they much need, if as yet perhaps they be detained in the paines of Purgatory. And hence probably arose that ignorant, sottish, and Superstitious Custom, even in our memories in use in some dark parts of England, Of poor peoples and Childrens begging of Eggs, &c. the week before Easter, &c. with recital of this Psalm, or at least some part of it, in Latin; De profundis clamavi, &c.

m Porrò Ecclesiæ consuetudine receptum, ut propè defunctis recitetur hic Psalmus, quoniam in eo creberrima fit divinæ misericordiæ mentio, qua ij maximum indigent si adhuc fortè in pœnis Purgatorij detineantur, Sim. de Muis in Arg. Psal. 130.

Refut. 1. There's no such place as Purgatory, wherein the Souls of Saints deceased, and not thoroughly purged from their sins in this life, are more thoroughly purged, that they may enter into Heaven. Its only a Papal fiction, and avaritious devise for increasing of the Popes Revenew and maintaining the fire in his Kitchen. See our Arguments against Purgatory, with our Answers to Bellarmines Arguments for it; In, G. Amesii. Bellarm. Enervat. Tom. 2. lib. 3. c. 1. & 2. p. 180. &c. Polemick, Part. 4. Controvers. 1. de Eccles, laborante in Purgatorio, p. 433. &c. Hanov. 1627.

2. There being no such place as Purgatory, nor any Soules there, There needs no suffrage or prayers for them, either in the words of this Psalm, or any other Form. Calvin said well; ——The barbarous ignorance of the Papists is detestable, whilest drawing this Psalm to other use, thy filthily prosane it. For to what end do they murmer it over for the dead, but that Satan hath bewitched them to extinguish a singularly profitable Doctrine by their Sacriledge. For since this Psalm was apply'd to dead shadows, it is vulgarly almost believed to be of no use among the living: and so the World hath lost this incomparable Treasure n.

n——Quo magis detestabilis est barbara Papistarum insciticia, dum Psalmum hunc in usum alienum trahentes, sœdè profanat. Quorsum enim demurmurant eum pro mortuis, nisi quod eos fascinavit Satan ut doctrinam apprimè utilem suo Sacrilegio extinguerent? Nam ex quo ad mortuas umbras raptus fuit Psalmus, vulgo ferè creditum est nullum esse ejus usum inter vivos: atque ita mundo periit incomparabilis thesaurus. *Joan. Sect. IV. The Analysis, or Principal Parts.

The Title declares, 1. The Kind or Sort of this Poem; A Song. 2. The Adjunct of it; of Degrees.

The Song it self contains

I. A Prayer, ver. 1. to 7. Wherein note

1. The calamitous condition of the Psalmist when he thus prayed; Out of the deeps. i. e. Out of great and extream Calamities, from the Gates of despair, &c. A Metaphor from deep waters as Ps. 69. 2, 14. The Saints may be in deep Extremities: And yet even thence may pray unto the Lord.

2. The Object to whom he presented his Prayer out of the deeps; To thee, O LORD.

3. The

3. The Adjunct fervency of his Prayer, have I call'd ——have I cry'd, ver. 1.

4. The Petitions, or Requests presented to the Lord. Which are, 1. For audience. 2. For attention to his Supplication-for-grace: especially pardoning-grace, ver. 2, &c.

5. His Arguments whereby he urgeth and enforceth his Request. And they are drawn, 1. From the incommodity of Gods denying this request, by marking and not pardoning Iniquities, Then who shall stand up before him, ver. 3. 2. From the Gracious Nature of God, inclining to pardon sin; But with thee is forgiveness. Amplified by the consequent fruit and effect which that divine property will work in man, viz. The fear of the LORD for this his goodness, ver. 4. 3. From his own earnest-expectation of the Lord in this way of pardoning Mercy, which expectation is repeated for the more Emphasis, and declared to be his Souls expectation: Anxesit. This his expectation is illustrated, (1) By the ground of it; His hope in his Word of Promise, v. 5. (2) By the fervency and intensiveness of it; More than Watchmen wait for the morning. Which Comparison is doubled for the more Emphasis and Elegancy, verse 6.

II. An Exhortation, ver. 7, 8. He exhorts and incites Israel, the whole Church of God, and so every member thereof, after his example, To wait-hopefully for the LORD, in deepest extremities, for mercy and pardon. This Exhortation he presseth, 1. From the Nature of God; For with him is mercy, or loving-kindness. 2. From Gods abundant Redemption; much Redemption, ver. 7. 3. From the promise of the Lord's universal Redemption of Israel from (not only few, or many, but) all his iniquities, verse 8.

Larga Dei Bonitas veniam non dimidiabit:
Aut nihil, aut totum, te lachrymante, dabit.

a Heb. to David.

1. O LORD, mine heart's not haughty, see,
Nor lofty are mine eyes:
b In great-things, and too high for me,
I do not exercise.

b Heb. neither have I walked in great things and in too wonderful matters for me.

2. c Sure, I my Soul compos'd and still'd,
As weanling with his-mother:
With me, ev'n-as a weaned-child,
My Soul is such another.

c Heb. I have set or composed ——

3. Let Israel wait-hopefully For God the Lord alway, d From this-time forth uncessantly
And to perpetual-ay.

d Heb. From now and.

Sect. III. The Kind, Penman, Occasion and Scope.

Kind of this Poem, 1. As to the Outward Form and frame of it, is, A Song, A Song of Degrees: as the title Denominates it. See on Ps. 120. Sect. 1. and it is the Twelfth Song of Degrees in order. 2. As to the Subject matter of it, it is Mixt: being a holy Meditation, Partly Narratory, touching the Psalmist, humble Hope; Partly Hortatory, inciting Israel to like hope in the LORD for ever.

Penman of it, was David: as the Title indicates.

Occasion of Davids penning it, some e conceive to be this; viz. That David was maliciously accused by Sauls Courtiers, for proud aspiring to the Kingdom, and endeavouring after great matters too high for him, &c. Therefore here in this Psalm David purgeth himself, and as it were appeals to God, taking him to witness, how humbly and modestly he had behaved himself, attempting nothing at any time above his strength or state of life: yea how he composed himself quietly, depending onely upon the LORD, even as a newly-weaned child submits himself to, and depends upon, his mother. And hereupon he exhorts Israel to imitate him their King in an humble and hopeful waiting upon the LORD, for a blessing under his Government. The Series of the Song fitly agrees hereunto.

e Sim. de Muis in Argum. Ps. 131.

Scope of David herein, is; 1. Partly, To profess and avouch before the LORD his humble and self-denying deportment in heart, looks, and actions, not reaching or aspiring beyond his sphear, to things too great or too wonderful for him; but hopefully quieting himself in the LORD, as a weaned child with his Mother. 2. Partly, To incite Israel, after his example, to wait-hopefully upon the LORD for ever, walking humbly with him. Subjects being apt to imitate their Kings: Inferiours, their Superiours f.

f As Isocrates told his Nicocles;

——ἀλλὰ τὴν σαυτοῦ σωφροσύνην ὑπόδειγμα τοῖς ἄλλοις ἡγοῦ εἶναι, χαλεπὸν ὑπὸ πόλεως ἄλλης ἄρχεσθαι τοῖς ἀρχομένοις. Isocrates Orat. ad Nicocl.

And as the Poet hath noted,

——Non sic inflectere sensus
Humanos edicta valent, ut vita regentûm. Claudian.
Scilicet in vulgus manant exempla regentûm.
Regis ad exemplum totus componitur orbis:
Utque ducum ritus, sic mores castra sequuntur.

Sect. V. The Analysis or Principal Parts.

The Title declares, 1. The Kind, 2 The Adjunct, and 3 Penman of this Psalm, David.

The Song it self contains.

I. Davids Profession of his humble Hope, and quiet self-denying deportment, before the LORD. Wherein note, 1. The Person before whom he makes this Profession; The LORD. 2. The manner of his Profession: Which is by the removal of all presumptuousness, pride, haughtiness, and arrogancy from himself and his deportment: viz. From (1) His Heart; that's not haughty. (2) Eyes; they not lofty. (3) Actions; he walks not in great matters too wonderful for him. ver. 1. 3. The Illustration of this his professed Humility, &c. by the Similitude of a weaned child; humbly and quietly submitting to the disposal of his mother. This Similitude is emphatically amplified, Partly by an Oath; Hebr. If I have not composed, &c. its the form of an Oath in Hebrew phrase, with a tacit curse implyed. Partly by the Repetition of the Similitude pathetically cally, ver. 2. This humble, self-denying, and as it were weaned Composure and Deportment of David, singularly intimated his hope and acquiescence in the LORD alone ordering all things for him.

II. Davids Exhortation to Israel his Subjects, from his example, To Hope in the LORD, waiting hopefully for him in all humility, and that for evermore, ver. 3.

Psalm CXXXII.

Sect. I. The Summary Contents.

The Psalmist presents his and the Church's Prayer to the Lord, I. In reference to the State Ecclesiastical, the perpetual duration and prosperity thereof, 1 That the LORD would remember all Davids afflicting care and zeal, about finding out an Habitation for the LORD, ver. 1. to 8. 2. That the LORD, with his Ark, would arise unto his Rest, ver. 8. 3. That his Priests may be cloathed with righteousness. 4. That his Saints may shout for joy, ver. 9. II. In reference to the State Political or Civil, That for his promise sake to David, he would make the Kingdom perpetually prosper and flourish in the hand of Davids Posterity, &c. ver. 10. to the end.

First, they pray for the Church: Then, for the Common-wealth or Kingdome g. And though both Levitical worship, and Civil Policie were dissolved and ceased after Christs Incarnation: yet, in the General, we have in this Psalme, a Form of Prayer, which the godly even in these dayes of the New Testament may use, In reference to the Church of God his Habitation, Ephes. 2. 22. and Spiritual Sion, 1. That himself and the true Ark of his strength Jesus Christ would arise and come into his resting place, vouchsafeing his Church his Spiritual Presence Protection and Grace; 2. That his Ministers may be clothed with Righteousness and Salvation, to the saving of themselves and them that hear them. 1 Tim. 4. 16. 3. And that all his Saints may have abundant cause to shout for joy. In reference also to Christian Kingdomes and Common-wealths, the Inns and Harbours of the Church, that they may flourish in all peace and prosperity, in order to the welfare of the Church.

Sect. II. The Version out of the Hebrew.

A Song of Degrees.

I.

1. TO David, LORD, remember thou
   All his Affliction.
2. How he sware to the LORD, did vow
   To Jacob's mighty one.
3. If a I come in mine House's Tent:
   If b I ascend my beds.
4. If I give sleep unto mine eyes;
   Slumber to mine eye-lids.

5. Until I find a place, whose fate
   Is for the LORD alone,
   Ev'n Habitations of delight
   For Jacob's mighty-one.

6. Lo, touching it at Ephratah
   We heard and understood:
   We found it, in a joyful day,
   Within Fields of the Wood.

7. Into his dwelling-places now
   We will go, at it meet:
   We humbly will our selves-down-bow
   At foot-stool of his feet.
8. Arise, O LORD, unto thy Rest:
   Thou, and th' Ark of thy strength.
9. With justice let thy Priests c be dress:
   And thy Saints shout at length.

a Heb. I enter into.
b Heb. I ascend upon the pallet of my beds.
c Heb. be cloathed.

II.

10. For thy dear servant David's sake,
    Turn not away the face
    Of thine Annointed, Him glad make.
11. The LORD of his rich grace
    Sware unto David verity,
    He will not turn from it:
    Of the fruit of d thy body I
    Will e on thy Throne make-sit.

12. My Cov'nant if thy sonnes conserve,
    My Testimony too
    That I shall teach them to observe,
    Their children shall also f For ever sit upon thy Throne.
13. For, lo the LORD, though great,
    Hath Sion chose, hath it alone
    Desired for his seat.

14. This shall be my peculiar Rest
    To perpetuity:
    Here will I dwell, I like it best,
    For it desir'd have I.
15. Her victuals I will blessing bless:
    Her poor with bread g I'le fill.
16. h Her Priests I'le with Salvation dress:
    Her Saints for joy shall shrill.

17. Yea, I will make-to-bud with might
    The Horne of David there.
    I have ordain'd a Lamp of light
    For mine Anoinred dear.
18. His enemies with robes of shame
    I will cloath, till they perish:
    But on himself so endless fame
    His Diadem shall flourish.

d Heb. thy womb. e Heb. to sit thereon.
f Heb. even upon thee.
g Heb. I will satisfy. h Heb. And her Priests I will cloath with Salvation, and her Saints shall shouting shout for joy.

Sect. III. The Kind, Penman, Occasion, and Scope.

The Kind of this Poem, 1. As to the Outward Form of it; Is A Song, A Song of Degrees: as the Title denominates it. See on Psal. 120. Sect. 1. And it is the Thirteenth Song of Degrees in order. 2. As to the Subject-Matter of it, It is A Prayer: A Prayer for the prosperity and perpetuity of Church and State.

Penman of it is not expressed in the Title, or clearly signified elsewhere. It is somewhat questioned among Interpreters, whether David or Solomon penned it, Calvin saith, It is no doubt it was David or Solomon i. H. Mollerus k thinks, It may be easily gathered from the History, That either David framed it and prescribed it to his son, when God had now declared a certain place for the Temple, and promised the duration of his Kingdom, 2 Sam. 7. 1 Chron. 17. Or, at least that Solomon Penned it, that it might be sung of the godly whilest he was building the Temple. Foord l thinks this Psalme was Penned by Solomon at the time of his Dedication of the Temple, when he brought the Ark of the Testimony into it: Partly, i Minime dubium est vel Davidem, vel Salomonem esse. Jo. Calvin in Com. ad Ps. 132.

k H. Moll. in Arg. Ps. 132.
l Jo. Foord. in Expos. Ps. 132. Author & Tempus.

Partly, Because when David brought the Ark of God from the House of Abinadab to Jerusalem, the place where the Temple should be built was not revealed to David, nor till after he had numbred the People, which was more than twenty years after, See 2 Sam. 24. 16. 18. &c. 1 Chron. 21. 15. 18. 26. 28. and 22. 1. 2. &c. Partly; Because Solomon in his Prayer at the Dedication of the Temple used with little variation some of the words of this Psalme. Compare Psal. 132. 8, 9, 10. with 2 Chron. 6. 41. 42. Answ. But in my judgement these two Reasons are not cogent. For, 1. What though the place where the Temple should be built, was not as yet discovered to David when he brought up the Ark into the City of David? Did David therefore not Pen this Psalme? David might pen this Psalm notwithstanding. For, There's no passage in the Psalme that necessarily and infallibly is to be interpreted of the place of the Temple, rather than of the place for the Ark in Jerusalem, as ver. 5. 6. &c. may be (and are by divers) interpreted. Again, if in this Psalm the place of the Temples Situation were hinted, David might pen this Psalme after the LORD had discovered to him where the Temple should be built, as divers m think he did. 2. And what though Solomon in his Prayer at the Dedication of the Temple, did use some words of this Psalme, was he therefore Penman of it? It follows not. Nay rather it implyes the Psalme was penned long before that time, and famously known among the People, seeing then he made use of some part of it. I should rather think it more probably with others n, That David wrote this Song.

Occasion of penning this Song, some think to be the Dedication of the Temple built by King Solomon o. Kimchi thinks David then published it, when at the command of God the Prophet he had erected an Altar in the Threshing-floor of Araunah the Jebusite, and thereon had offered Burnt-offerings and Peace-offerings: and had called on the Lord, and the LORD had answered him by Fire from Heaven upon the Altar of Burnt-offering: And David had said; This is the House of the LORD God, and this the Altar of the Burnt-offering for Israel, 1 Chron. 21. 15, 18, 25, 26, 28. and 22. 1. For untill that day, David knew not the place where the Temple was to be built. This is confirmed by that passage; Then Solomon began to build the House of the LORD at Jerusalem in Mount Moriah, where the LORD appeared unto David his father, in the place that David had prepared in the Threshing-floor of Ornan the Jebusite. 2 Chron. 3. 1. I think (saith one p) that then this Song was set forth by David: But that then it should be sung, when the Ark should be brought into the Temple builded in the place revealed to him. The series of the Psalme perswades this, and especially, ver. 7, 8, 9, 10. And also, That Solomon having brought the Ark into the Temple built by him, made use of ver. 8, 9, 10. of this Psalm in his Prayer, a few things only altered, See 2 Chron. 6. 41, 42. and with these he then closed up his Prayer.

Scope of this choise Song and Prayer: is; I. To intreat the LORD, in reference to Ecclesiasticals according to his gracious promises to David, 1. To remember David for good all his Affliction, and his zeal to find out an Habitation for the LORD the mighty one of Jacob; 2. To bless and sanctify his Resting-place with his special presence, cloathing his Priests, ministring there unto him, with righteousness; and filling his Saints with shouting joy. II. And in reference to Politicals, according to his Promises and Oath to David, 1. To accept his Anointed, 2. And to bless and perpetuate the Kingdom unto his Seed for ever, for the good of his Church and true Religion. Which Prayer, and Promises have their fullest accomplishment in Jesus Christ the Principal Seed of David, The LORD God giving unto him the Throne of of his father David, that he may reign over the house of Jacob for ever, of whose Kingdom there shall be no end, Luke 1. 31, 32, 33.

Sect. IV. The Analysis, or Principal Parts.

The Title declares, 1. The Kind of this Poem; A Song. 2. The Ordinal; Of Degrees.

The Song it self is A Prayer, wherein the Psalmist in his own Name and the Name of the Church and People of God, Prayes for, 1. The spiritual prosperity of the Church of God and Religion in Israel; 2. And in order thereunto for the perpetuity and flourishing Glory of the Kingdom to the House and Seed of David. Urging both from the promises of the LORD to David.

I. In reference to the spiritual prosperity of the Church of God and Religion, ver. 1, to 10. There are sundry Petitions. As

1. That the LORD would remember, viz. for good all Davids afflictions, and zeal in finding out an Habitation for the LORD ver. 1. &c. Here consider, I. The Person invocated; The Lord. Not the Virgin Mary, as the Papists have miserably corrupted this Psalme, that they may abuse it in the praying of Soules out of Purgatory, in the Lady's Psalter reading, Lady, q for Lord. II. The person invocating. The Psalmist in the Name of the Church. III. The matter of the Request: viz. 1. That the LORD would remember to David, or for David: i. e. for his good, all his Affliction: i. e. Either his manifold outward corporal afflictions, as King Sauls persecutions of him about six years, His conflicts with the LORD's enemies about the ninth or tenth years of his Reign, besides many other distresses from the sword not departing from his House, and from his own Family: as some r interpret it. Or, his Humiliation, perplexing solicitude, afflicting care, &c. for to have the Ark brought home to him, 1 Chron. 13. 1, 2, 3, 12. and 15. 1, 2, &c. Or, to build God an House, 2 Sam. 7. 1, 2, &c. As others s rather expound it, because of the next words, How he sware, &c. which they take to be exegetical, ver. 1. 2. That the LORD would remember Davids zeal in finding out an Habitation for the LORD; i. e. Either a Place for the Ark to be brought up unto. Or a place for the fixed Temple to be built in. This his zeal is signified in his Oath and Vow to that effect, ver. 2. to 8. His Oath and Vow is described (1) By the matter of it, viz. If I go, &c. i. e. I will not go into the Tabernacle of my House, to eate or refresh my self, &c. 2. I will not ascend the pallet of my Bed, to take pleasant rest: 3 I will not allow my self pleasant sleep, give sleep to mine eyes, or slumber to mine ey-lids: (All this seems to be spoken hyperbolically t, to set forth Davids intensive zeal for God and his House to have been such, that comparatively his deareſt natural comfortswere as nothing to him.) Till I finde out a place, an Habitation for the LORD; where his Temple should be built; Or, His Ark be seated, ver. 2, 3, 4, 5. (2) By the Acts and endeavours of David in order to the performance and accomplishment of his Vow. 1 We heard of it at Ephrathah: i. e. At Shilo in the Country of Ephraim, where Gods House and Ark had long continued, Judg. 18. 31. and 21. 19. 1 Sam. 1. 3. (An Ephraimite is called an Ephrathite, Judg. 12. 5.) 2 We found it in the fields of the Wood, i. e. In the City of Kiriah-jearim (which signifies, The City of the Woods) where the Ark was twenty years, after it came home from the Philistines, 2 Sam. 6. 21. and 7. 1, 2. 3 We will go into his dwelling places. Or, We went into them: having found them out. So some u. We will worship, (or, we worshipped) at his foot-stool, ver, 6. 7.

2. That the LORD with his Ark would arise from the place where it was, to his resting-place: by his Ark vouchsafing them his blessed Presence, ver. 8.

3. That the Lord would cloath his Priests with righteousness, who were to minister before him.

4. That his Saints might shout for joy, ver. 9.

The bleſſing, Life for evermore.

a Heb. that. b Heb. deſcending upon the mouth of his Garments. c Heb. defending. d Heb. did command the bleſſing, Life to eternity.

Sect. III. The Kind, Penman, Occaſion, and Scope.

The Kind of this Poem, 1. As to the external Forme of it, is; A Song, A Song of Degrees; and the Fourteenth of thoſe Songs in order, See on Pſal. 120. Sect. 1. 2. As to the Subject-Matter of it, it is Doctrinal, and in a ſort Hortatory: Teaching and highly commending, The ſingular goodneſs and pleaſantneſs of the Concord of Brethren, or Communion of Saints. It is ſhort, and ſweet. Auguſtine e ſaid rightly; This Pſalme is very ſhort, but of great note and name. Behold how good and how pleaſant, brethren to dwell together, &c. This ſound is ſo ſweet, that they who know not the Pſalter can ſing this verſe. It is ſo ſweet, as Charity is ſweet, which makes Brethren dwell in one. —— Theſe words of the Pſalter, this ſweet ſound, this pleaſant melody, both in ſinging and underſtanding, hath even brought forth Monaſteries. At this ſound the Brethren were excited, who deſired to dwell together: This verſe was their Trumpet ——.

e Pſalmus brevis, ſed valde ... Ecce quam bonum & quam jucundum, habitare fratres in unum!

Ita ſonus iſte dulcis eſt: ut & qui Pſalterium neſciunt, ipſum verſum canrent. Tam dulcis eſt, quam dulcis eſt charitas, quæ facit fratres habitare in unum. —— Iſta enim verba Pſalterii, iſte dulcis ſonus, iſta ſuavis Melodia, tam in Cantico quam in lectu, etiam Monaſteria peperit. Ad hunc ſonum excitati ſunt fratres, qui habitare in unum concupierunt: iſte verſus fuit tuba ipſorum. Aug. Enarrat. in Pſal. 132. tom. 8.

Penman of it, was David: as the Title intimates.

Occaſion of Davids penning this Song is probably thought to have been, The ſweet Union of all Iſrael and Judah in one Kingdom under Davids Royal Government, after the ſad waſting and tedious diſtractions which they had, almoſt unto their ruine undergon. See the Hiſtory of it in 2 Sam. 5. 1, 2, 3. with 1 Chron. 10 13, 14. and 11. 1, 2, 3. For, after the death of Saul, there was long warre betwixt the Houſe of Saul & the Houſe of David, 2 Sam. 3. 1. Iſhboſheth-Sauls ſon, reigned two years through Abners help, 2 Sam. 2. 10. which occaſioned a ſore battel betwixt David's and Iſhboſheth's Armies, 2 Sam. 2. 17. And David reigned in Hebron over the Houſe Judah ſeven years and ſix months, before all Iſrael would acknowledge him their King, 2 Sam. 2. 11. and 5. 5. during which time many diſcords, ſtrifes, &c. fell out. But at laſt all Iſrael conſented to accept and crown David King in Hebron, 2 Sam. 5. 1, 2, 3. Whereupon divers f do conceive David wrote this Pſalme, Highly extolling therein the Unity and Concord of Brethren: of Brethren in the ſame Kingdom, yea in the ſame Church worſhiping the ſame God. And that the firſt word, Behold: doth not onely incite attention, but alſo tacitly and elegantly point out the remarkable difference betwixt the diſcord wherein Iſrael

f Jo. Calv. in Com. ad Pſ. 133. 1. Jo. Foord in Exp. Pſ. 133. Temp. Hen. Moll. in Arg. Pſ. 133. Sim. de Muis in Arg. Pſal. 133. Nic. de Lyra in Pſal. 132.

Israel and Judah had been miserably involved, and the Concord whereunto under one King they were now so happily restored.

Scope of the Psalmist herein, is; Highly to extoll and magnifie the Concord of Brethren, and sweet Communion of Saints. Immediately, in his own united Kingdome, among Gods People the Jewes: Mediately, in any place or Nation, wherein such brotherly concord obtains.

Sect. IV. The Analysis, or Principal Parts.

The Title declares, 1. The Kind of Poem; A Song. 2. The Adjunct; Of Degrees. 3. The Penman; David.

The Song it self, magnifying emphatically the Concord of Brethren,

I. Describes this Concord, by Dwelling of brethren even together, v. 1. in the end. Where, 1. The foundation or fountain of this Concord or Communion is hinted; Their Brother-hood: they are joint-brethren of the same Father. 2. The Act or exercise of this Concord, &c. is noted; dwelling together: viz. cohabiting with all Concord, Unity, Unanimity, Sameness of Heart, &c. under one Head, under the same Lawes, and guidance of the same Spirit. 3. The degree of measure of this Unity and Concord is pointed at in the word; even together.

II. Commends this Concord of Brethren and Communion of Saints thus described, Where note, 1. The excellencies for which its commended, viz. Especially these two effects, (1) Goodness, or Utility. (2) Pleasantness, or Amenity. 2. The Manner of this Commendation; which is emphatically expressed and laid down, (1) By way of Admiration, and that doubled; How good! How pleasant! (2) By way of Invitation to consider it: Behold v. 1.

III. Illustrates this Concord and Communion thus commended, by two Similitudes, elegantly: viz. 1. Of the good annointing oyle, most precious, redolent, and fragrant, wherewith Aaron the High-Priest was Annointed: which being poured on his head, ran down upon his beard, and upon the mouth g (i.e. the edge, collar, border, &c.) of his Garments. This sets forth the Pleasantness of this Concord, ver. 2. 2. Of the fruitful Dew, descending upon the Mountains of Hermon and Sion h, rendering them fruitful Pastures for Cattel and Sheep. This Illustrates the goodness or profitableness of this Concord, v. 3. begin.

g —— super os vestimenti —— & super-humeralis. —— Ora dicitur os vestimenti. —— Non intelligitur ora inferior vestimenti, sed superior. Nic. de Lyra in Psal. 132.

h Non est intelligendum, quod idem eos numero de Monte Hermon descendat super Montem Sion. Tum quod unus Mons multum distat ab alio: Tum quod Mons Hermon est demissior quam sit Mons Sion: propter hoc dicitur Mons modicus, Psal. 41. 6. Sed idem eos specie & in Qualitate suavitatis & fœcunditatis descendit super utrumque Montem. Et sic est sensus: sicut eos descendens in Monte Hermon, & eos descendens in Monte Sion sunt valde boni: Sic etiam habitatio fratrum modo supradicto est valde bona. Nic. de Lyra in Psal. 132

IV. Confirmes this goodness and pleasantness of Concord and Communion thus illustrated; From the rich blessing of God there vouchsafed, where this Concord prevails, For there, &c. Where note, 1. The Cause of this blessing; Gods free and effectual Command. If he do but command the blessing, it shall come. 2. The Kind or sort of the blessing commanded, Life. Heb. Lives. All sorts of life, especially spiritual and celestial. 3. The Adjunct of this blessing, this life; perpetuity: For evermore, ver. 3.

Psalm CXXXIV.

Sect. I. The Summary Contents.

The Psalmist exhorteth the Priests and Levites, and analogically the Ministers of the New Testament 1. To bless the LORD in his Sanctuary, even by Night, ver. 1, 2. 2. To bless and pray for the LORD's People, ver. 3.

Sect. II. The Version out of the Hebrew.

A Song of Degrees.

1. a LO, all ye servants of the LORD Bless ye the LORD of might,
   b That stand within House of the LORD
   To minister by night.
2. c Lift your hands to the Holiness;
   And bless JEHOVAH's Name.
3. The LORD thee out of Sion bless:
   d That Heav'ns and Earth did frame.

a Heb. or! Behold. b Heb. standing in the house of the LORD in the nights. c Heb. or, Lift up your hands towards the Holiness. or, in Holiness. or, in the Sanctuary. d Heb. making the Heavens and Earth.

Sect. III. The Kind, Penman Occasion, and Scope

The Kind of this Poem, 1. As to the Outward Form of it, is: A Song, yea A Song of degrees. And it is the Fifteenth and last of those Songs in order. 2. As to the Subject-Matter of it, it is a brief but pithy Exhortation to the Priests and Levites, (whose Office it was to Minister in Gods Sanctuary by night e, as well as by day,) To bless the LORD even in the nights even towards the most Holy place, viz. not resting in the formalities of carnal Service and Sacrifices, but chiefly intending this Spiritual Worship of Gods Praises. As also to pray for and bless the LORD's people. These were two great Acts and Duties of their Function.

e See Levit. 8. 35. 1 Chron. 9. 33

Penman of it, is not expressed. Writers are touching him and the Occasion very silent. One f thinks, this Song was penned by David, and that upon Occasion of his bringing up the Ark of God unto Jerusalem, when he appointed Priests and Levites there to Minister before the Ark continually, and to record and thank and praise the Lord God of Israel, 1 Chron. 16. 4, 5, 6, 37, 38, &c.

f Jo. Foord. in Expos. Ps. 134. Author & Tempus.

Scope of the Psalmist in this Hortatory Song, is; To exhort and incite the Priests and Levites to the upright discharge of their Office, towards the LORD and his people. 1. Towards the LORD. To bless him (viz. with the Benediction of Confession of Praise, not with the benediction of Consecration, &c. as one hath well noted g,) lifting up their hands towards the Holy Ark, a Type of Christ: and this by night, as well as by day, Levit. 8. 35. 1 Chron. 9. 33. All their constant attendance there, and all their Levitical Sacrifices being of small consequence, without this Spiritual Sacrifice and Peace-offering of Praise.

g Et benedicite Domino] Benedictione Confessionis divinæ laudis, quæ impenditur majori à subditis: & non benedictione consecrationis, quæ contrario modo impenditur scilicet inferioribus à superiori. De qua dicitur Hebr. 7, Nic. de Lyra in Psal. 133.

2. Towards the LORD's people, to Pray for them and bless them, beseeching the Omnipotent All-sufficient God dwelling in Sion, to pour his blessings out of Sion upon them.

Sect. IV. The Analysis, or Principal Parts.

The Title denotes, 1. The Kind of Poem; A Song
2. The Adjunct; Of Degrees.

The Song itself is Hortatory, To the Priests and Levites (and analogically to all Christs New-Testament-Ministers in their places,) duly to perform their Duties towards God, and his people.

I. Towards the LORD God, ver. 1, 2. Here,

1. The Priests and Levites are described, 1. By their Adjunct Office; Servants of the LORD, viz. they were his Servants by Special and Singular Vocation, to Minister to him in managing the Ordinances of Gods Worship. 2. By their execution and discharge of their Office: hinted in the word; Standing i. e. standing to Minister: as the word often, and here imports, Deut. 10. 8. and 17. 12. Neh. 12. 44. Ezek. 44. 11, 15. Which is Amplified, (1) Partly, by the Subject-place, wherein they officiated; In the House of the Lord. (2) Partly, by the Adjunct time, wherein they were to persist and persevere in their Ministry; even by night, Levit. 8. 35. 1 Chron. 9. 33. as well as by day. Constantly. So the New-Testament-Ministers are to be constant in their Office: in Season: out of Season, &c. See 1 Tim. 4. 13, 15 16. 2 Tim. 4. 1, 2.

2. Their Duty principally and especially to be performed to the LORD, is pointed out, and exhorted unto, viz. Blessing the Lord: by celebrating his Praises, &c. Which is illustrated 1. By the note of Attention; Behold. Declaring the connexion of this Duty of Blessing God, with the other Duties of the Priestly Office. 2. By the universal particle; all. It concerned all the Priests and Levites. 3. By the Adjunct gesture or posture to be used by them in blessing the LORD; lifting up their hands towards the Holiness: i. e. Devoutly and believingly lifting up their hands towards the most Holy place, towards the Ark, A special Type of Christ, &c. v. 1, 2.

II. Towards the LORD's people, praying for them and blessing them. Where note, 1. The Mercy prayed for; blessing: i. e. A confluence of all good, temporal, spiritual, and eternal. 2. The Object upon whom this blessing is desired, the people; Thee See the Forme of the Priests blessing the people, Numb. 6. 23, 24, 25, 26, 27. 3. Author of this Blessing for whom it is begged; The LORD. Who is described, (1) Partly, by the special place of his presence and residence among them, whence he imparted his blessing to them according to his promise, Exod. 20. 24. Out of Sion: as Psal. 128. 5. (2) Partly, by the Omnipotency or All-sufficiency of the LORD, to bestow all necessary blessings upon his people prayed for: yea to do abundantly above all that we can ask or think, Ephes. 3. 20. which made Heavens and Earth, ver. 3.

The Songs of Degrees are ended. Next followes Halelu-JAH.

h Post Gradus, qui ducunt ad æternitatem, congruè ponitur Halelu-JAH. Ut Ecclesia fruatur laudibus Dei: cui tale manus paratum est. Glos. Ord. in Psal. 134.

Psalm CXXXV.

Sect. I. The Summary Contents.

The Psalmist, 1. Earnestly exhorteth in general, all the LORD's Servants by Office, standing in his House to Minister to him; To Praise the LORD, ver. 1, 2. 2. Annexeth sundry Reasons or Causes why they should so praise him, many of which contain the very Matter of his Praise. ver. 3. to 19. And they are chiefly drawn (1) From the verity and perfection of the LORD, ver. 3. to 15. (2) From the vanity and imperfection of all the false gods of the Heathen, ver. 15. to 19. 3. Exhorteth in particular, all sorts of his people to bless the LORD, and praise him, ver. 19, 20, 21.

Sect. II. The Version out of the Hebrew.

1. a PRaise-ye-JAH. Praise JEHOVAH's Name:
Ye the Lords Servants praise proclaim.
2. That in the Lord's house b fix-your-feet:
In c House-Courts of our holy God.
3. d Praise-ye-JAH, for the LORD is good:
Sing to his Name, for it is sweet.
4. For JAH chose Jacob e for his own:
Isr'el for his f peculiar-one.
5. For, that the LORD is great, I know:
And our Lord 'bove Gods every-one,
6. All that the Lord pleased, hath he done
In Heav'ns, g Earth, Seas, all deeps also.

7. He causeth vapours to ascend;
Ev'n from the Earth's remotest-end;
He maketh lightnings with the rain:
He bringeth forth the wind likewise
Out of his secret treasuries.
8. Who hath all Egypts first-born h slain:
From man unto the very beast.
9. He i signs and wonders-strange increast,
O Egypt, in the midst of thee;
On Pharaoh and on his servants all.
10. Who many Nations k made-to-fall:
Likewise slay mighty Kings did he.

11. As Sihon, King of Amorites,
And Ogh, the King of Bashanites:
And Canan's wicked Kingdoms all.
12. And gave their land for Heritage:
To his folk Isr'el Heritage.
13. Thy Name, LORD, dure for ever shall:
Lord, thy memorial shall be known
To l every Generation down.
14. m The Lord will judge his people then,
And for his Servants turn will he.
15. The Heathens, n Idols silver be
And Gold; o The handy-work of men.

16. A mouth they have, yet speak they not:
Eyes have they, but see not a jot.
17. Ears have they fix'd, yet hear not they;
And in their mouth no breath is there.
18. Like unto them their-makers are:
And p all whose trust on them doth stay.
19. O Isr'ls House, the LORD bless ye:
O Aaron's House, the Lord bless ye.
20. O Levi's House, bless ye the Lord:
Bless ye the Lord, the Lord who fear.
21. Bless't be the Lord from Sion dear,
Who dwells in q Salem. Praise-the-Lord.

Sect. III.

Sect. III. The Kind, Penman, Occasion, and Scope.

The Kind of this Psalm, is; As to the Form, untituled: as to the Matter of it, Hortatory. Exhorting all sorts, especially the Priests and Levites standing in the LORD's House to minister about sacred things, to Praise and Bless the LORD. For substance it is of the same Argument with the last foregoing Song of Degrees: But differing, Partly, in regard of the Generality of Persons Exhorted to praise and bless the Lord; for in that onely the Priests and Levites are exhorted, in this besides them all Israel and all the fearers of the LORD are incited. Partly, in regard of the Matter of the Duty whereunto they are exhorted; In that they are onely exhorted to bless the LORD with hands lift up towards the Holyness; In this many singular causes are laid down why they are thus to bless the LORD, which contain much and large matter of his Praise for their better direction and instruction in their thankful Devotions and Meditations.

The Penman, Occasion, and Scope may in effect be conceived of, as in the former Song, Psal. 134.

Sect. IV. The Analysis, or Principal Parts.

This Untituled Psalm contains

I. An Exhortation more generally directed to all the Lord's Servants by Office, ministring in his House, To praise the Lord. Where note, 1. The Duty whereunto they are exhorted; Praising of the Lord. 2. The vehemency and urgency of the Exhortation, in the often Repetition and ingemination thereof. 3. The Description of the persons exhorted to this duty, (1) More generallly, by their Office-Relation to God Servants of the LORD. (2) More particularly, by a limitation of that their service to him in his House, ver. 1, 2, & 3. in begin.

II. A Declaration or Signification of sundry important Grounds or Reasons, why they (and others also after-mentioned, ver. 19, 20.) should thus fervently praise the LORD. Which are principally drawn, From the verity and exeellent Perfections of the LORD, ver. 3. to 15. And from the opposite vanity and imperfections of all the false gods of the Heathens, ver. 15. to 19.

1. From the verity and excellent Perfections of the LORD. As,

(1) The Goodness of the Lord. Indeed he only is good. Mat. 19. 17. Good of himself a. &c.

(2) The Sweetness of his Name. Some refer this Sweetness to the Duty it self of prasing his Name. As, Calvin, Hen. Mollerus, Ames, &c. But others to his Name, which is to be praised. Gloss. Ord. Nic. de Lyra, &c. Both are good Reasons. This later suits bettter to the Reason foregoing and following. His Name is Sweet, To bear of, To think of, To speak of. ——Honey in the Mouth, Melody in the Ear, and a Jubilee in the heart b, ver. 3.

(3) The singular Grace and peculiar favour of the LORD, in choosing Israel to himself, as his Segullah, his peculiar treasure, v. 14.

(4) The Greatness and transcendent Majesty of the Lord, ver. 5, &c. His Greatness and Majesty are described and illustrated, I. By the Testimony of the Psalmist, having certain knowledge thereof; I know——II. By his Supereminency above all gods, v. 5. III. By the effects and demonstrations of his Power and Greatness. 1. More Generally, in ordering and governing all things in Heavens, Earth, Sea, and deep Places, according to his own good pleasure, v. 6. As, Vapours, Lightnings, Rain, Wind, v. 7.

2. More Specially, (1) In taking vengeance upon his Churches Enemies. As on 1 The Egyptians, Pharoah, and all his servants, by sending signes and wonders among them, and slaying the first-born of man and beast, ver. 8, 9. On many Nations and mighty Kings. Sihon; Og; and all the Kingdomes of Canaan: viz. Thirty one, as they are enumerated, Josh. 12. 9. to 24. ver. 10, 11. 2. In blessing his own Church and people with the heritage of their enemies, v. 12. All these demonstrations of his Power and Greatness are amplified and illustrated by the spiritual use that his people make therof, viz. (1) A grateful memorial of them in reference to the time past, ver. 13. (2) An hopeful dependance upon the LORD for like favours to his Church and people for the time to come, v. 14.

2. From the opposite vanity, imperfections and and nothingness of all the Idols of the Heathens, the Verity and Perfections of the Lord are elegantly illustrated, exciting all, the more unto his Praises. Their vanity and vileness is set forth, 1. By their Denomination, Idols. Heb. Dolours, or Sorrowes, from the Sorrowes they bring to their Worshippers, Psal. 16. 4. 2. By their matter; but silver and gold; thick clay. 3. By their Authours or efficient causes; The work of mens hands, ——ver. 15. 4. By their utter impotency, as liveless, senseless things; Having a mouth, yet speak not: eyes, but see not, &c. ver. 16, 17. 5. By the vanity and wretchedness of all that make them, worship, or trust in them, ver. 19.

III. An Exhortation more particularly and partitively laid down and directed to several sorts, to bless the Lord. As, 1. To the House of Israel: even all Israel Posterity. 2. To the House of Aaron, to whom the Priesthood was committed. Exod. 28. 1. and appropriated, ver. 19. 3. To the House of Levi, which were taken from among the Isralites, and given as assistants to the Priests to Minister to them, Numb. 18. 2, 6. 4. To all Convert-Proselytes and Strangers, Act. 2. 5. and 10. 35. fearing the LORD, ver. 20. This Exhortation is further urged, (1) By the exemplary practice of the Psalmist blessing the Lord, propounded for their imitation. (2) By a Repetition of the Exhortation, wherewith he concludes the Psalm as he began it; Halelu-JAH, verse 21.

Psalme CXXXVI.

Sect. I. The Summary Contents.

An Emphatical Exhortation to confess Praise unto the LORD, containing; I. The Solemn Form wherein they used in Davids dayes and afterwards, to praise the Lord, (2 Chron. 7. 3, 6. and 20. 21.) viz. For his mercy endureth for ever. Which is repeated in the close of every verse, in all twenty six times,* & is as the burden of the Psalm, v. 1, 2, &c. II. The Arguments urging this Confession of praise to the Lord. Drawn, 1. From the excellent perfections of his Nature, ver. 1, 2, 3. 2. From his admirable works, v. 4. &c viz. (1) His works of Creations, v. 5. to 10. (2) His works of Providence, 1 Special and peculiar over his Church and people Israel, from the time of their bondage in Egypt, till almost Davids reign, v. 10. to 25. 2. General, over all flesh, ver. 25. III. The Conclusion Hortatory, from consideration of Gods Celestial Majesty, ver. 26.

Sect. III. The Kinde, Penman, Occaſion and Scope.

The Kind of this Pſalme, 1. As to the Outward Forme of it, is; Partly, without Title prefixed in the Hebrew, See on Pſal. 1, Sect. 4. Though in the Greek Verſion of the LXXII, and in divers other Verſions, Halelu-jah is prefixed in forme of a Title: but groundleſly. Partly, with a burden annexed to every period, to every verſe: repeated twenty ſix time, ; כי לעולם חסדו For his kind-mercy (or, loving-kindneſs, gracious benignity, &c.) endureth for ever. Which is given in here as an univerſal or general Reaſon why we ſhould praiſe the LORD, and as a common foundation of all the praiſe-worthy Acts of the Lord, common or ſpecial, of Creation or Providence. And herein this Pſalme is Singular among all the Pſalmes, none being penned exactly in this forme: though ſome have a ſmall reſemblance thereunto, with ſome Amœbean Verſes [t] interwoven, viz. Pſal. 80. and 107. See on Pſal. 80. Sect. 4. and on Pſal. 107. Sect. 3. And it is very obſerveable that all theſe three Pſalmes, that have burdens inſerted, are penned very pathetically. 2. As to the Subject-matter of it, it is Hortatory or Laudatory, Exhorting Gods people to confeſs-praiſe unto the Lord: and urging the ſame by many cogent Arguments drawn, From Gods Nature, and Gods Works. And it ſeems to be a very Solemn Celebration of the Name of the Lord, from the dayes of David, frequently, yea daily uſed and ſung in the publique Worſhip of God, 2 Chron. 7. 3, 6. and 20, 21.

Penman, is not here or elſewhere certainly expreſſed to us. Interpreters are herein very ſilent: Yet (as ſome [u] think) it is not improbable but that David might penne this Pſalme, for the uſe of the Sanctuary, as a conſtant Memorial of the LORD's gratuitous mercies to Iſrael.

Occaſion whereupon particularly he was induced to write it, is uncertain.

Scope, is; To incite all Gods people Iſrael thankfully to confeſs-praiſe unto God for his excellent perfections, wonderful works of Creation, and peculiar Providences to them from the time of their Egyptian Bondage even till the dayes of David, all which bleſſings of his Providence were the meer fruits of his rich mercy and gratuitous favour or loving-kindneſs towards them, and every particular guiſt a token and ſeal of Gods love and good will.

Sect. III. The Kind, Penman, Occasion, and Scope.

The Kind of this Psalme, 1. As to the Outward Forme of it, is Vnmixed. See on Psal. 1. Sect. 4. 2. As to the Subject-Matter of it, is Mixt: being made up, of a Lamenting Narration of the Jewes woes in their Captive-state in Babylon, and of a Prophetical Imprecation against her cruel enemies, the Edomites and Babylonians; These destroying Jerusalem: and those applauding them therein, yea irritating them thereunto. And, as the Nature of Complaints and Lamentations is, This Psalme abounds with many passionate pathetical Expressions, full of force and Rhetorical elegancy.

Penman of it, is not certainly known. We can hardly conclude that David penned it with a prophetical Spirit: For these miseries of the Captives are not spoken of in a prophetical way, but rather in an Historical sort, as experimentally felt and endured already by the Captive Jewes, as Calvin l notes. It is more probable, That some pious Prophet, Priest or Levite wrote it, whose name is concealed: And that not after the Captivity (as some m think,)

m Sim. de Muis in Arg. Ps. 137.

For the Imprecation in the close of the Psalme will hardly admit of that, ver. 7, 8, 9. But rather during the Captivity, and their mournful state in Babylon, as the Series of the Psalme seems to import.

Occasion of penning this Psalme, was their woful and mournful condition of the Jewes carried Captives to Babylon, and there deprived of Gods publique Worship, and daily exposed to the heart-cutting taunts and scornes of the Babylonians. Jerusalem and the Temple of the LORD in Sion being burnt with fire, and laid on ruinous heaps. See the doleful History, 2 King. 24. and 25. 2 Chron. 36.

Scope, to set forth; The deep griefs and sorrowes of the Captive-Jewes in Babylon. The cruel mockings and scornes of the Babylonians towards them: The zeal and constant good affection of the Jewes, especially of the godly Priests and Levites, towards Jerusalem, the Temple, and Worship of God, for a dear memorial whereof they had carried their Harps and other Musical Instruments, as sacred reliques, into Captivity with them: As also what heavy Curses and Judgments from the LORD, according to his Word by his Prophets, should be the recompense of their cruel Enemies the Edomites applauding, and the Babylonians effecting the utter ruine of the Temple and Jerusalem. In all which we have a lively Example, Of the sorrowes of Gods people, in the ruine of the Publique Worship of God and prevalency of the ungodly over them, on the one hand: And of the prophane spirit of pride, insolency, and scorn in the wicked against Gods people and Religion, when under affliction and publique discountenance, on the other hand. In which Cases, it may be proper and pertinent to the Churches of Christ under the New Testament, to Lament and Sing this mournful Psalme: as heretofore the Jewes did in their Captivity.

Sect. IV. The Analysis, Or, Principal Parts.

In this Pathetical Psalme, are; 1. A Narration. 2. An Imprecation.

I. A Narration of the Captive-Jewes deep miseries and sorrowes in Babylon, ver. 1. to 7. most pathetically represented; 1. By their own mournful state. 2. By their enemies scornful deportment towards them.

1. By their own mournful condition. Here the greatness of their grief is passionately aggravated divers wayes. As, 1. From the place wherein they were Captives; in Babylon. A dissolute paganish place, and farre remote from their own Country. 2. From their site or posture in Babylon; by the Rivers of Babel: viz. Tygris and Euphrates, in and about the City, Probably they abode without Houses by the Rivers banks, under Tents, Booths, &c. 3. From their long continuance there, intimated by their sitting. As if they were affixed or chained to the Banks. 4. From their mournful disposition and deportment during this their long enthralment there; They wept. As it were watering the Rivers banks with their tears. 5. From the proper procuring Cause of this their grief; their remembrance of Sion, i. e. Of the Temple and all the Worship of God once there: but now utterly ruined and laid wast, v. 1. 6. From the sign or effect of their extream grief and sadness; hanging their Harps upon the Willowes. They were so overwhelmed with sorrow, that they could take no pleasure in Musick, no not by the pleasant Rivers sides. Their Harps, those Sacred Reliques and Memorials of Temple-Musick in the Worship of God, which they for their Solace brought with them into Captivity, nor Priests, Levites, nor people could take any delight in at all: but laid them aside, hung them up as useless, ver. 2.

2. By their Enemies, the Babylonians scornful deportment towards them in this their deep distress. Here, 1. The Babylonians are described, (1) By their Hostility; leading them Captives. (2) By their cruelty; they threw the Jewes on Heaps. 2. Their bitter scornful deportment against the Jewes in this their mournful condition is aggravated, (1) Partly, By asking of the sadned Captives in way of mockery, the words of a Song: and of those Mourners, mirth: which was a scornful and insolent rejoycing in the calamities of Gods people: arising from an Enthymema, A rejoycing in others evil. (2) Partly, By requiring them to sing of the Song of Sion: Some of the Temple-Songs. Thus they most scornfully derided, and insulted over the Temple-Worship and discovered their extream contempt and hatred of the LORDs true Religion and Worship. These things were very bitter to the truly Godly Priests, Levites, and Jewes, v. 3. 3. The Captives rejection of their Enemies scornful provocations to musick and merriment, is laid down; How shall we sing ———. Being Illustrated, (1) By the utter inconsistency of the LORDs Song, with the Captives present sad condition; in the Land of a stranger: i. e. of a strange people, or of a strange god, v. 4. (2) By the Captives, especially the godly Levites, constant zeal, and sincere affection to Jerusalem, and the true worship of God there, both which in due time they hoped should be restored. This zeal and affection is most pathetically professed, yea and vowed under a curse, a double curse; That their right hand may forget, viz. her cunning in playing, Retinentia eleganti; That their tongue cleave to their palate, and be for ever disabled from singing; If Jerusalem be forgotten, If Jerusalem be not remembred, If Jerusalem be not made to ascend above the head of their joy. An Elegant Climax, or Gradation, ver. 5, 6.

II. An Imprecation against the bitter enemies of the Jewes: that God would take just revenge upon them for promoting and bringing these woful calamities upon his people: viz. 1. Upon the Edomites, by Standers, Spectators, and Abettors of their ruine. Where note, (1) The judgment imprecated from the LORD upon Edoms sonnes; That he would remember their wicked deportment against Jerusalem, in the day of her ruine: viz. to requite it righteously. (2) The sin of the Edomites specified, deserving Gods imprecated vengeance; Their cruel exasperating and provoking the Babylonians, to Raze Jerusalem to the very foundations, their words being expressed by a Meiosis, v. 7. 2. Upon the Babylonians, chief Authors of their Calamities. Here, (1) The enemies cursed, are signified, viz. The Daughter of Babel, The Common-wealth, Kingdome, or Monarchy of Babel. (2) The certain ruine of these enemies is hinted; ——— wasted: or, to be laid waste, according to Gods VVord by his Prophets. Or, if it be rendred; The wester: it denotes the cause of Babels ruine, as being, The waster of Gods people. (3) The blessedness of that Instrument is fore-prophecied, that shall recompense to Babel and that Kingdome their cruel deeds done to Jerusalem and the Jewes. VVhich proved to be Cyrus the Persian with Darius the Mede, ver. 8. This blessedness of such Instrument is repeated, and exemplyfied in one instance of vengeance to be taken upon Babel, viz. The taking and dashing in pieces their Babes against the Rock, v. 9.

Psalme CXXXVIII.

Sect. I. The Summary Contents.

David, 1. Professeth entire and hearty thankfulness to God: For his 1 Mercy, 2 Truth, and 3 The effects thereof, ver. 1. to 4. 2. Prophesieth, That that the Kings of the Earth, hearing of the LORD's dealings with David, shall also praise the LORD, ver. 4. to 7. 3. Sect. II. The Version out of the Hebrew.

A Psalm of David.

1. WIth all mine heart I'le thee confess:
a Praise thee the Gods before.
2. b At Palace of thine Holyness
I-humbly-will-adore,
And for thy mercy & praise thy Name
And for thy truth of it ly'ds:
For, lo thou over all thy Name
Thy Word hast magnify'd.

3. Thou didst then sweetly answer-me,
In day when I did cry:
And in my Soul with strength from thee
d Thou-didst-me-fortifie.
4. Thee, LORD, all Kings of th' Earth e shall praise:
When thy mouth's words they hear.
5. And shall sin in JEHOVAH's wayes:
For, Great's f his Glory there.

6. For, though the Lord be high, yet to
The lowly look doth he:
But doth farre-off the haughty know.
7. Thou, Lord, wilt quicken me,
If I shall walk g in midst of woe;
Thou wilt-send-forth thy hand
Against mine enemies h wrath: Also Me save shall thy right-hand.

8. The Lord for me i will perfect-make;
O Lord, thy mercy stands
For ever: k Do not thou forsake
The works of thine-own-hands.

a Heb. I will sing to thee. b Heb. to-ward the palace: or, Temple. c Heb. confessions. d Heb. thou didst make me courageous. e Heb. shall confess. f Heb. JEHOVAH's ways. g Heb. in the midst of trouble. h Heb. nostrils. i Heb. or, will perfect. k Heb. leave not off, or, forsake not.

Sect. III. The Kind, Penman, Occasion, and Scope.

The Kind of this Psalm, 1. As to the Outward Form of it, is, An Entituled Psalm, viz.——Of David, being prefixed: As in fourteen other Psalms, but somwhat differently l. 2. As to the Subject-matter of it, it is Eucharistical, Gratulatory, or Laudatory. Wherein, David praiseth God for bringing him at last (according to his Promise) to the Throne and Kingdom, after all the afflictions and distresses which he did first wade thorough: and signifies, That this his Dispensation of the Lord was so noted and eminent towards him, that the Kings of the Earth round about him hearing of Gods promise, and the accomplishment thereof, should also magnifie the LORD. Some m considering, That David was a Type of Christ, and his Kingdome of Christs Kingdome, do hereto conceive there is a like Prophecy, Of Christs sufferings first, and then of his entring into his Kingdom of Glory, as Luk. 17. and 24. After which the Kings of the Earth and Gentiles hearing his Gospel preached by the Apostles, &c. should be converted to him and praise his Name. And thus this Psalm is Mixt: being Eucharistical and Prophetical.

Penman of this Psalm was David, as the Title intimates.

Occasion of Davids penning it; 1 Think some n, was his deliverance from those two dangerous rebellions of Absalom, 2 Sam. 15. and of Sheba the son of Bichri, 2 Sam. 20. 2 Think others o, was Davids sparing of Saul in the Cave, 1 Sam. 24. 3, &c. and in the Hill Haciah, 1 Sam. 26. 3. &c. When Saul had twice justified and cleared David from all guilt of Treason or Sedition: From which imputations David had often prayed to the Lord to vindicate him, as in Psal. 17. and 26. and 139. 24. 3 Think others p, was Davids advancement to the Throne and Kingdome of Israel, according to Gods faithful promises to him, after he had long waited and endured many afflictions and persecutions from Saul and others. And this last seems most probable, and suitable.

Scope of the Psalmist in this Psalm, is; 1. To render unto the Lord singular and extraordinary thanks and praise for his extraordinary favours, in bringing him at last after all his afflictions according to his word of promise unto the Throne of Israel: A Providence so observable that even forreign Kings hearing thereof, should praise the Lord also. 2. And for future to assure himself, of reviving in distress, of deliverance from his Enemies, and of the Lord's perfect accomplishment of mercies begun, for him.

Sect. IV. The Analysis or Principal Parts.

The Title points out the Author or Penman of the Psalm; David.

The Psalm it self contains.

I. David's Profession of extraordinary Gratitude to the LORD, for his extraordinary favours to him. Wherein note,

1. His Vow or Promise of expressing his gratitude by way of Confession; I will confess thee——&c. This his promised Confession is notably illustrated, 1. By the adjunct manner of inward integrity and abundant affection; with my whole heart. Heb. with all mine heart. 2. By the Adjunct witnesses of this Confession, &c. before the Gods, i. e. Heavenly Angels, shadowed out by the Cherubims: and earthly Princes. 3. By the Adjunct manner of outward Performance: 1. For Action; Singing Psalmes to him, ver. 1. Worshipping, or bowing-himself-down. 2. For Place; At, or towards the Pallace, or Temple of his Holiness, ver. 2 begin.

2. The Causes or Reasons of such his expression of Gratitude. These are, I. More General, viz. 1. The Lord's Mercy, or loving-kindness, or merciful-kindness. 2. His Truth, viz. The Truth of his word and promises. Which Truth is illustrated, by Gods singular and eminent degree of Manifestation thereof: Magnifying his word above all his Name, ver. 2. II. More special and particular: viz. 1. The Lords Answering his prayers seasonably, speedily; in the day wherein he cryed. 2. His encouraging him with strength in his Soul, against faintings under his distresses, ver. 3.

II. Davids Prophecying, How all the Kings of the Earth

l See the Preface, Sect. VI. numb. IV.

Earth round about him, hearing of the LORD's dealings with him, should also praise the LORD, ver. 4. &c. This their praising the LORD, is set forth and described, 1. By the Occasion of it; when they hear the Words of thy mouth: i. e. The words of Gods promise to set David on the Throne: especially when they hear how faithfully and wonderfully God hath accomplished them. 2. By the Act of their praise; Confessing the LORD: acknowledging his Truth, Goodness, Power, &c. ver. 4. 3. By the outward manner of their praise; with singing in the wayes of the LORD, i. e. of his works of Providence, &c. 4. By the Grounds or Motives inciting them thus to praise the LORD, viz. (1) Partly, The Greatness of the LORD's Glory, manifested, vers. 5. (2) Partly, This high LORD's different deportment towards different persons, Respecting the lowly, as David was. Knowing the proud, as Saul, afarre off, ver. 6.

III. Davids Hope and Confidence for future, upon these former experiences; viz. 1. That the LORD will revive him, though he walk in midst of straits or distress. 2. That by his hand, by his right-hand he will protect and save him from the wrath of his enemies, ver. 7. 3. That the LORD will perfectly accomplish what he had graciously begun for his good, against his Enemies, or otherwise. This he Illustrates (1) Partly, by Petitioning the LORD not to leave off the work which his hands had begun. (2) Partly, by urging this his Petition, and strengthening his hope, from consideration of the eternity of Gods mercy, ver. 8.

Psalme CXXXIX.

Sect. I. The Summary Contents

David, against all humane Calumnies, solemnly protesting his innocency, uprightness, and integrity, 1. Religiously appeals to God, as the most competent and un-exceptionable witness of his sincerity: The Lord being, (1) His Omniscient God: (2) Omnipresent: and (3) His wonderful Creator, ver. 1. to 19. 2. Prayes against wicked and bloody persons, giving Testimony of his utter detestation of such crimes, ver. 19. to 23. 3. Seals up his Protestation and Appeal by a pious request to the Lord to search him thoroughly, that no wicked way may be in him, and to lead him in the way of Eternity, verse 23, 24.

Sect. II. The Version out of the Hebrew.

To the Master-Musician, David's Psalme

I.

1. O LORD, thou hast me search'd and known.
2. Thou dost exactly know
My rising and my sitting-down:
Yea, unsterstand dost thou
Afarre-of a my-familiar-thoughe.
3. Thou b fann'st my path I Tread
And my down-lying: And to all
My wayes art c customed.

4. d For, in my tongue there's not a word:
But, Lord, thou know'st it all.
5. Behind, Before also, thou hard
Hast me beset thine hand laid:
And thou hast put thine hand on me.
6. A knowledge every whit
Too marvellous for me: 'Tis high,
I cannot reach to it,

7. From thine All-searching Spirit's eye
O whither shall I go?
And whither shall I fully fly
Thy boundless Presence fro?
8. If I ascend the Heav'ns out-spread
There thou dost still abide:
And if in Hell I make my-bed,
Lo here thou dost reside.

9. Take I the mornings wings: And dwell
In e Sea's remotest fold.
10. Ev'n there thine hand conduct me will:
And thy right-hand me hold.
11. And if I say, f yet-certainly
The darkness shall me shroud,
Then doth the night about me ly
As light without a cloud.

12. Yea, darkness darkneth not from thee;
But as the day, The night
To thee doth shine: Alike both be;
As darkness, so the light.
13. For, lo mine hidden Reins thou hast Possess'd and fashioned;
Yea in my mother's Wombe at last
Thou-hast-me-covered.

II.

14. I'le praise thee g, for that fearfully
Made-marvellous-I-am,
By thy works marvellous: And my Soul knowes right-well the same.
15. From thee my h Substance was not hid,
When I in secret-place
Was made: When thou embroidered
In Earth's low-parts I was.

16. Thine eyes did se i my-mass-unform'd,
And in thy Book were writ
All my parts, In dayes they were form'd:
k When none of them was yet.
17. And O how precious unto me,
O God, l thy thoughts do-seem!
How mightily-increased-be
The very m sums of them!

18. would I n of them the number-take,
Mo then the sand they be:
o When out of sleep I shall awake,
I shall be still with thee.
19. p O that thou wouldst, thou righteous God,
The wicked-person slay:
q Then, from me, O ye men of blood,
Do-ye-depart-away.

20. Which speak of thee r mischievously;
Thy foes s lift up in vaine.
21. O LORD, thine haters hate not I?
And am I not amaine
Griev'd at-those-that-against-thee-rise?
22. I hate them for their ill
With t perfect Hate: For enemyes
They are unto me still.

23. O God, do thou me ſearch; and know
Mine hearts intentions:
Prove me throughout, and know do thou
My cogitations.
24. And ſee if that in me there be,
The way a of wickedneſs:
And in way of eternity
Do thou me lead and bleſs.

Sect. III. The Kinde, Penman, Occaſion and Scope.

The Kind of this Pſalm, 1. As to the Outward Form or manner of it, is; A Pſalm with Title prefixed, as many others are, See the Preface Sect. VI. numb. IV. 2. As to the Nature and Subject-matter of it, is; Euchariſtical, Petitory. It is a Prayer of David to the Lord: wherein he invocates the Omniſcient God that knew him throughout moſt accurately, The Omnipreſent God with him in every place, The Omnipotent God that had moſt wonderfully and curiouſly created him; to ſearch and try him thoroughly if their be any way of grieving-wickedneſs in him allowed by him, and as it were to bear witneſs to his ſincerity, integrity, and innocency, againſt all calumnies and falſe imputations of man. And here, the LORD's Omniſcience Omni-preſence, and Omnipotency in creating him wonderfully, are ſo ſingularly diſplayed, with ſuch ſtately pomp and magnificence of words; and Davids integrity is here (as it were by way of appeal) ſo approved unto this all-ſearching God: That this Pſalm deſerves highly to be eſteemed, as a moſt excellent Teſtimony of the Lord's glorious Eminences, and of his Saints ſingular Integrity. Ab. Ezra x notes, That this is a moſt excellent Pſalm, and that there's not any in all theſe five Books of Pſalmes to be equalized to it. The Gloſſ. from S. de Caſt. ſaith Its a Pſalm moſt full of profundity of myſteries, and thence moſt obſcure y. And ſurely, The more myſterious and obſcure it is, the more it ſhould exerciſe us: The more excellent it is, the more it ſhould delight us.

Occaſion whereupon, and Time when David penned it, cannot certainly be determined. Some z refer it to the time when King Saul began his perſecution of David as a ſeditious and rebellious perſon, ſeeking his Crown, &c. whereupon David, in this Pſalm profeſſing his innocency and integrity, appeals to God the only all knowing and juſt Judge of the World to clear him. This the whole Series of the Pſalm is ſuppoſed to favour, but eſpecially ver. 19. &c. And that it is of the ſame Time and Argument with Pſ. 7. and 17. and 26. Others a rather refer it to the time of Davids exile out of his Kingdome, through Abſalons unnatural rebellion. When David was vilely calumnated by Shemei and others (impatient of Davids good Government in repreſſing wickedneſs, Idolatry, &c.) for a man of bloods, a man of Belial, &c. 2 Sam. 16. ſuch reproaches wounded David more then his other afflictions. Therefore he endeavours in many Pſalms to wipe off ſuch falſe aſperſions and malicious calumnies: and here appeals to God as the onely competent Judge of his innocency and integrity. But if the Series of the Pſalmes be well obſerved (which runs more generally without reſtriction to any calumnies caſt upon David in days of Sauls Perſecution, Abſalom's rebellion) we may better conceive David intended in this Pſalm, by appeal to the Omniſcient Omnipreſent Creator, to vindicate himſelf from all manner of falſe, malicious, and ſlanderous calumnies of the ſonnes of men from time to time caſt upon him, ſincerely in the ſight of God proteſting his innocency and integrity.

Scope here intended by David, is; To make a Solemn Profeſſion or Proteſtation of his ſincerity, uprightneſs, and unfeigned integrity, even in the ſight and preſence of the All-ſeeing and All-preſent God, his wonderful Creator: againſt all unworthy ſlanders, calumnies and imputations of Impiety, hypocriſie, &c. which the malice of man could poſſibly caſt upon him; comforting himſelf againſt them all by the LORD's ſole atteſtation to, and approbation of his integrity of heart and life, ſee ver. 23, 24. And, in order to the more exquiſite diſcovery of the unfeignedneſs of his uprightneſs, to diſplay moſt lively and pathetically, The LORD's Omniſcience and exact knowledge of him, His Omni-preſence from which there could be no poſſible eſcape for him, and His wonderful Creation of him, whence all the Secrets of his ſoul and body muſt needs be naked and bare before him, vi. 1. to 19. Whereupon he prays that God would ſlay thoſe atheiſtical wicked bloody men, that Blaſpheme and take up Gods Name in vain, haring him, riſing up and rebelling againſt him, under falſe apprehenſions that they are herein hidden from Gods Eye and Judgement, ver. 19. &c. And this is an excellent and comfortable Pſalm wherewith an upright-hearted Chriſtian may ſtay and bear up his ſpirit in the Preſence of his All-ſeeing heart-ſearching God, againſt all the infamy, reproach, falſe ſlanders or calumnies that the Devil or man can caſt upon him.

Sect. IV. The Analyſis, or Principal Parts.

The Inſcription or Title prefixed to this Prayer contains; 1. The Denomination of it; A Pſalm. 2. The Inſtrumental Author or Penman of it; David. 3. The Direction of it, as to the Muſick; To the Maſter-Muſician.

The Pſalm it ſelf is digeſted into the Form of a Prayer. Wherein, David.

I. Profeſſeth his unfeigned ſincerity, integrity and innocencecy, by way of Appeal to God, againſt all malicious ſurmiſes, ſlanders or calumnies which might be caſt upon him, ver. 1. to 19. And this he doth divers wayes, viz.

1. By acknowledging, That the All-ſeeing Omniſcient God knew him and all his ways moſt exactly. As, More Generally, That God had ſearched and known him, ver. 1. More Particularly, 1. That the LORD knew all his outward Actions, moſt perfectly: winnowing them, and being acquainted to them. As, His Sitting and Riſing: His Path by day; His lying-down by night; and all his wayes, ver. 2, 3. 2. That he underſtood his thought afarre off, even before they were actually fixed in his heart, ver. 2. 3. That he perfectly knew all his words, ver. 4. This exactneſs and exquiſiteneſs of Gods knowledge is illuſtrated and confirmed, (1) Partly, From Gods beſetting and as it were beſieging him round about, behind and before, by his Omniſcience. (2) Partly, From Gods putting his hand upon him, by his all-reaching and all-ordering Providence, ver. 5. (3) Partly, From the infinite unſearchableneſs of Gods knowledge and underſtanding, beyond his and humane reach; emphatically laid down by way of admiration, ver. 6.

2. By confeſſing and declaring, That he could by no means eſcape or hide himſelf from the Omnipreſence of God. This is ſet forth, 1. By pathetical Interrogation, ver. 7. 2. By Induction of particulars, or enumeration of all probable means of eſcape with intimation of their utter inſufficiency to hide or ſhroud him from Gods Preſence. Nothing can do it. (1) Not Heaven. (2) Not Hell, ver. 8. (3) Not the uttermoſt parts of the Sea, ver. 9, 10. (4) Not darkneſs it ſelf, ver. 11. 12.

3. By Acknowledging (as a Reaſon both of Gods exact knowledge of him, and of the impoſſibility of his eſcaping his Preſence) Gods wonderful and curious workmanſhip, in creating and faſhioning him in his Mothers Womb, ver. 13. to 19. Here, 1. God's forming of him in the womb is described, (1) As to his inwards; Gods possessing his reins. (2) As to his more outward parts of his body; Gods covering him ——, viz. with skin, flesh, &c. ver. 13. 2. This fashioning of him is illustrated, (1) By the excellency and wonderfulness of it, for which the LORD is most worthy to be confessed and praised, v. 14. (2) By the parts of it. As, The forming of his bones and stronger parts, and that in a secret place. The embroidering of his bones and body, with Nerves, Veins, Arteries, Membranes, &c. ver. 15. The bringing of his unform'd embryo to perfect shape and proportion, ver. 16. (3) By the transcendency of it, surpassing all his expressions and conceptions, and transporting him even into an holy Admiration of the LORD's wonderful contrivances therof, ver. 17, 18. Which is emphatically amplified, By the fresh and new matter of meditation which this Subject still ministreth to his thoughts every morning that he awakes; I Awake, and am still with thee, ver. 18.

II. Prayer Against the wicked and men of bloods, whom he desires to depart from him, that the Lord would slay them, ver. 19. Of this Request he gives his Reasons, viz. 1. Drawn from the vileness of these wicked; who (not considering the Omniscience and Omnipresence of God their wonderful Creator,) (1) Speak of him to a mischievous end. (2) Lift-up his name in vain, v. 20. 2. Drawn from Davids intensive Zeal for God, laid down pathetically by way of Interrogation and Answer. As, (1) That he hates the haters of God. Yea with perfect hatred, accounting them as his own enemies. (2) That he is greived at those who rise up against God, ver. 21, 22.

III. Concludes his Prayer, sealing up the profession of his integrity, by petitioning for himself, viz. 1. To search him, his heart, and his thoughts, exactly: therefore he useth such an heap of words, v. 23. 2. To see if any way of sorrow (i. e. of any wickedness or hypocrisie allowed, causing sorrow) be in him. 3. To lead him in the way of Eternity, i. e. in the good old way of sincere faith and obedience, v. 24.

Psalm CXL.

Sect. I. The Summary Contents.

David dangerously exercised with malicious, calumniating, and subtile Enemies, 1. Prayes for Preservation and Deliverance from them, ver. 1. to 9. 2. Imprecates Gods just vengeance upon his Enemies, that their own mischiefs may upon them, ver. 9. 10. 3. Declares his hope and confidence accordingly, 1. Of the ill event to the wicked, ver. 11. 2. Of the happy issue to the afflicted Righteous, v. 12, 13.

Sect. II. The Version out of the Hebrew.

To the Master-Musician, A Psalm of David.

I.

1. LORD, from the ill man me deliver;
Preserve-thou-me apart
From man a of violence for ever.
2. Which think ill-things in heart:
To Wars they gather every day.
3. Like Serpent sharp-they-whet
Their tongues: b Below their lips do they.
The Aspes hot-poyson get. Selah.

4. Lord, keep me from the wicked's hands,
Preserve-thou-me for ay
From man c of Violences: Who think
To thrust my feet away,
5. For me the proud a snare have hid,
And coards, A tangling Net
They by the path's d side forth-have-spread:
For me they grins have set. Selah.

6. Then I unto JEHOVAH said,
Thou art my God ador'd:
My Supplications voice for aid
Do thou now hear, O Lord.
7. JEHOVAH Lord, the fortitude
Of my Salvation:
Mine head in day e of Battel rude,
Thou-covered-hast alone.

II.

8. The wicked-man's desires do not,
O LORD, unto him grant:
f His-vile-device do not promote,
g Lest they-themselves-do-vaunt. Selah.
9. As for the Head of those-that-me-
-Surround-on-every-side:
h Their lips mischievous-injury
Let it them covering-hide.

10. Let burning-coales upon them i fall,
Into the fire them cast:
Yea into deep pits fling them all,
Lest they rise-up at last.
11. ℣ On Earth shall not be stablished
The man of wicked tongue:
Ill shall hunt unto overthrow
The man of violent-wrong.

12. I know well, that the LORD alone
The judgement just will do
To of the-poor-afflicted-one,
The needy's doom also.
13. Assuredly the righteous
Shall to thy Name I give praise:
Before thy face most gracious
Th' upright m shall-dwell always.

Sect. III. The Kind, Penman, Occasion and Scope.

The Kind of this Psalm, 1. As to the outward Form of it is, An Entituled Psalm, according to the Hebrew. See the Preface Sect. VI. Numb. IV. 2. As to the Nature and Subject-Matter of it, is, A Prayer. A Prayer of David, for preservation and deliverance from Saul and his instigating Parasites, who implacably by force and fraud sought Davids life most violently and unjustly: As also against his Enemies, that their own mischievous molestations and machinations may fall upon themselves. Whereupon he concludes his Prayer with hopes of Gods just judgement upon the ill-tongued man, and man of violence but of his vindication of the poor and needy, and comfortable remuneration of the afflicted righteous. Herein David was as it were, A type of Christ n, yea a type of the Church o and People of God, maliciously, implacably, yet causlesly persecuted by the graceless wicked ones and great ones of the world.

Penman of it, was David. As the Title imports.

o Hen. Moller. in Arg. Psal. 140.

Occasion of David's penning it, Some referre to Doeg's wicked accusation of David to Saul, 1. Sam. 22. 9, &c. and to the Ziphites treacherous information to Saul against David, and the instigation of Saul against him, 1 Sam. 23. 19. &c. p. But Calvin and others q. disliking their opinion, think rather it is to be referred to Saul's malicious, subtile, and implacable persecutions of David, without cause, seeking to take away his life. See 1 Sam. ch. 18. and 19. Which persecutions continuing long, ministred many occasions to David of penning sundry Psalmes: He thereby making an holy, spiritual, and heavenly improvement of all his outward afflictions, for our exemplary instruction how to walk in like Cases.

q Jo. Calv. in Com. ad Ps. 140. 1. Jo. Ford. in Exposit. Ps. 140. Tempus, &c. de Tyr in publ. ad Psal. 139.

Scope of David herein, is; 1. To beg of the LORD his own preservation and deliverance from his wicked, violent and implacable Enemies, by force and subtilty seeking his ruine: As also his Enemies just punishment by their own mischievous devices. 2. And to testifie his hope in the LORD for both these respectively.

Sect. IV. The Analysis, or Principal Parts.

The Title expresseth, 1. The Denomination of it; A Psalme. 2. The Penman of it; David. 3. The Direction of it, as to the Musick; To the Master-Musician.

The Psalme it self, being Davids Prayer, contains

I. Davids Petitions for himself: for deliverance from imminent and deadly dangers, by reason of his crafty, cruel and implacable enemies, Saul and his servants. More particularly,

1. For his Preservation and deliverance from his Enemies, ver. 1. &c. Here 1. His Enemies are described; The evill man. The man of violences. 2. His Petition of Preservation from them is urged; From his Enemies, 1. Wicked thoughts. 2. Constant cruel Acts, ver. 2. 3. Malicious and venomous words. Illustrated by two Similitudes of A Serpents sharpening his tongue and of the Asps hot poyson under his lips, ver. 3.

2. For preservation of him from his enemies hands Here again, 1. His enemies are characterized, to be A wicked one. A man of violences. The Proud. 2. His Request is urged 1. From his enemies malicious thoughts and contrivances to overthrow his going, v. 4. 2. From their crafty and subtile practises against his life; Hiding a Snare, Coards, Spreading a net by the paths side, yea setting grins for him, ver. 5.

II. Davids Imprecation against his enemies unto the LORD, v. 6. &c. Here

1. He prayes for Audience. Encouraging himself therein, 1. From Gods sweet Covenant-Relation to him; Thou art my God, ver. 6. 2. From the LORD's sufficiency to save him. 3. From his former experience of Gods protection of him in the day of battel, ver. 7.

2. He Imprecates, or prayes against his Enemies. As, 1. That, God would not grant the desires of the wicked. 2. That, God would not further his wicked device, or promote his crafty project. Both which are urged from the incommodity which otherwise would ensue; Lest they exalt themselves, ver. 8. 3. That, his encompassing Enemies may be covered and overwhelmed with the molestation or mischief of their own lips, ver. 9. 4. That, irrecoverable ruine (signified by making coales fall on them, casting them into the fire, yea into deep pits that they rise not up again) may swallow them up, v. 10.

III. Davids profession of hope and confidence, that according to these his former Requests, 1. An ill event shall be to the wicked, and so to his Enemies. Inasmuch as he did prophetically foresee, (1) That, A man of tongue, An ill-tongued man, shall not be established on Earth. (2) That, A man of violence, shall be violently hunted to his utter overthrow, or thrusting down, ver 11. 2. A good like shall be to the afflicted righteous, and so to afflicted David. Inasmuch as he did prophetically fore-know, (1) That the LORD would do the judgment of the poor-afflicted, and doom of the needy: vindicating them from all their Enemies injuries and oppressions, ver. 12. (2) That, the righteous shall hereupon have matter of confessing-praise to Gods Name. (3) That, (when the wicked are ruined, yet) the upright shall still sit before the LORD's face, and dwell in his presence, as highly favoured by him and most acceptable unto him, ver. 13.

Psalme CXLI.

Sect. I. The Summary Contents.

David surrounded, through Saul's persecutions, with extream dangers of ruine, I. Earnestly prayes; 1. For the LORD's audience and acceptance of his Requests, ver. 1, 2. 2. For the LORD's guidance of his Tongue, Heart and Hands, that he might not think, speak, or act any thing un-becoming him, though in these Extremities of danger and distress, ver. 3. to 7. 3. For preservation from death, and from his Enemies Snares, ver. 7, 8, 9. II. Imprecates his Enemies falling into their own Nets, while himself escapes, v. 10.

Sect. II. The Version out of the Hebrew.

A Psalme of David.

1. TO-thee-I-cry, O glorious LORD,
Do-thou-make-haste to me:
Unto my voice a an-ear-afford,
When-I-cry unto thee.
2. O let my prayer b be-set-forth
Before thee Incense-wise;
Be mine hands lifting up of worth,
As c Evening Sacrifice.

3. O LORD set thou a watch before
My mouth, it to confine:
And of my lips keep-thou d the door.
4. Do not mine heart incline
To an ill e thing; In wickedness f To do works small or great,
With men working unrighteousness;
g Nor their Cates let me eat.

5. Me let the righteous h smite the while,
As kindness I'le it take:
And let him check me, i This Head oyl
Mine head shall never break:
For yet k ev'n in their ev'ls I'le pray.
6. l Fall'n-down their Judges were
By Rock sides: And my words heard they,
For they-were-pleasant there.

a Heb. give are or, hearken.
b Heb. be-firmely-directed before-thy-faces as incense.
c Heb. the evening meat-offering.
d Heb. upon the doore. or. before the doore e Heb. or, word.
f heb. to practise practises.
g Heb. and let me not eate of their delicates. or, dainties.
h Heb. hammer. or, smite with the hammer. i Heb. the oile of the head shall not break mine head or, let it not breake mine head. k Heb. also in their evils shall be my prayer. l Heb, or, their judges threw themselves down by the hands of the Rock.

7. As

m Heb. upon the Earth

7. As when a man m upon-the-ground
The wood doth cut and cleave:
Eu'n so our bones are scattered round
At mouth of gaping a Grave.

n Heb. or, Hell.

8. But unto thee, JEHOVIH Lord,
Intentive are mine eyes:
Pour not my Soul out as abhor'd,
On thee o mine-hope-relies.

o Heb. I-hope-for-safety.

9. O keep me from hands of the Snare,
Which they have laid for me,
And grins of them that-workers are
Of vain-iniquity,

p Heb. or, untill I together (or, all-together) pass over.

10. But let the wicked every one
Into his own nets fall:
p Whiles that in safety I alone
Pass-over them withall.

Sect. III. The Kind, Penman, Occasion, and Scope.

The Kind of this Poem, 1. As to the Outward Form of penning it, is an Entituled Psalme according to the Hebrew. See in the Preface Sect. VI. numb. 4. And in reference to the manner of the Musick intended for it, it is A Psalme. Of which Denomination, See in the Preface Sect. II. 2. As to the Subject-Matter and Nature of it, it is A Prayer of David, For himself, and Against his Enemies. For himself, That his Suit may be heard and accepted; That his thoughts, words, and actions may be rightly Guided; And that his life may be preserved from death, and from his Enemies Snares, by the LORD Against his Enemies, That they may fall into their own Ensnarements, whilest withal he escapes.

Penman of it was David: As the Title intimates.

Occasion whereupon David penned it, was some of Sauls Persecutions of him, as Interpretets do generally conceive. But which of them, is not so unanimously agreed upon. May I freely declare my own Judgment, having seriously weighed the whole current of the Psalme; and especially examined the sense of ver. 6. and how it may best agree with the rest of the Psalme, I am much inclined to think with q Sim. de Muis in Arg. Psal. 141. & in Com. ad vir. 6. Jo. Diodat. in Annot. on Psal. 141. especially on verse 6. Jo. Foord in Expos. Ps. 141. Tempus. & Analys.

some q, That David wrote this Psalme, after Saul returned from pursuing the Philistines that had invaded the Land, (whereby Sauls surprizing of David was most providentially prevented) 1 Sam. 23. 19. to the end. and 24. 1. and took 3000 chosen men out of all Israel, and went to seek David and his men upon the Rocks of the wilde Goats. When Saul went into a Cave to cover his feet, David and his men remaining in the sides of the Cave, and David privily cut off the skirt of Sauls Garment (being able as easily to have cut of his head,) whereupon David clears and demonstrates his innocency and integrity towards Saul by many words at large, to Saul's great Conviction and Satisfaction, 1 Sam. 24. 2, 3. to the end of the Chap. Which History being duely compared with this Psalme, especially with ver. 6. Their Judges r, i.e. Saul and his chief Officers)

I do not onely love just corrections but do also patiently suffer unjust persecutions; As I made it manifest in Sauls person, who was the chief of mine enemies, when he was left alone in the Cave, 1 Sam. 24. 9. to whom I offered no violence, but onely plainly related unto him the wrongs which he did me with all respect and modesty. Jo. Diodat. Annot. on Psal. 141. 6.

threw-themselves-down (or, demisted-themselves; or, let-themselves-down; or, were-let-down, viz. to pursue and surprize me) by the sides (or hands) of the Rock; (i. e. the Rocks of the wilde-Goats, ——and the Cave, wherein David cut off the skirt of Sauls Garment privily:) And they heard my words, for they were pleasant: i. e. King Saul and his followers heard the words of Davids Apology for himself, which were so pleasant and acceptable to Saul, that Saul went home from David. In this sixth verse, wherein all the Verbs are in the Preter-tense in the Hebrew, David seems plainly to hint at this famous and remarkable History. Nor do I find any Interpretations comparably so fit and genuine as this; but too remote, forced, and farre-fetched. And according to this Interpretation the sense of the whole Psalme runs most plain and clear: as will after appear in the Analysis. The word נשמטו nishmetu, in niphal is of reciprocal signification, as some other passive words are, said one s. They demisted-themselves (let-down-themselves) by the hands of the Rock, &c.

s Jun. Fourd in Exp. Ps. 141 Analyt. ad vers.

Scope of David in this Prayer, is; To obtain of the LORD, Acceptance in his Requests, Guidance of his tongue, heart, and hands in his great danger and tryal, Preservation from death and his Enemies Ensnarements: And that his Enemies might be entangled in their own Snares.

Sect. IV. The Analysis or Principal Parts.

The Title Delares, 1. The Denomination of this Poem; A Psalme. 2. The Penman of it David.

The Psalme it self contains,

I. Davids earnest Prayer for himself, now in extream danger of death and ruine through King Sauls Persecution of him, among the Rocks, &c. 1 Sam. 24. 2, 3. &c. Wherein he Petitioneth,

1. For Audience in his Prayer. Amplyfied by the Adjunct hast of the manifestation of this hearing, desired, v. 1. And for the LORD's singular acceptance of his Prayer. Illustrated by alluson to the Levitical Types of Prayer; Incense, and The Evening Minchah or Oblation, ver. 2.

2. For the LORD's Guidance in these his great straits and plunges, that therein he might behave himself in every respect aright, ver. 3. &c. As, 1. For Guidance of his mouth and lips, that he might not offend in his words, notwithstanding all Saul's provocation ver. 3. 2. For Guidance of his Heart and Hands, lest he, in this plunge of great danger, should with his 600 men attempt any thing by way of revenge against Saul, as wicked men use to do in like cases, ver. 4. This his request he Illustrates, (1) Partly, By desiring rather a Remedy or Antidote against his wrath and revenge whereunto he might be tempted viz. The smiting and check of the righteous to allay his passion and distempers. 1. Accounting such Rebukes, A Kindness, and an Head oil, a choice oyle that should not hurt him, but help him. Meiosis. 2. And promising, as an effect of such Reproofes, his prayer for them in their Calamities: viz. For the just, reproving him: or for the wicked, persecuting him, ver. 5. (2) Partly, By declaring his patient and self-denying bearing of Sauls unjust persecutions among the Rocks and Caves, vindicating his innocency by pleasant words in Sauls hearing before his Servants, v. 6.

3. For the LORD's Protection, Preservation, and Deliverance of his Life from Death, and the Snares of his Enemies. This request he presseth, 1. From the extremity of his and his Servants dangers, They being dispersed up and down in Woods, Rocks, Caves, &c. and in imminent danger of Death, even as Wood cut and cloven is scattered upon the Earth, ver. 7. 2. From his own intentive affiance and hope-for-safety in the LORD alone: therefore pour not out my Soul: i. e. to Death, ver. 8. 3. From the malice and mischief of his Enemies; Like Fowlers or Hunters, Laying Snares. And being workers of iniquity, ver. 9.

II. Davids Imprecation against the wicked his Enemies

mies; viz. That the wicked, every one of them may fall into his own nets and devised mischief. Whilest withal he may pass over all their Snares and escape in safety, ver. 10.

Psalm CXLII.

Sect. I. The Summary Contents.

David being hid in a Cave for fear of his Persecutors, and in great distresse and peril of life, flyes to the LORD by Prayer. In which Prayer, 1. He declares, That he earnestly cryed to the LORD, in the extremity of his dangers and distresses, when his own spirit was overwhelmed, and all humane help failed him, ver. 1. to 5. 2. He prayes for deliverance from his Persecutors, and from his close-prison: urging his Request by sundry pathetical Arguments, ver. 5, 6, 7. And all this to instruct Gods People, how to walk in like case. Tit.

Sect. II. The Version out of the Hebrew.

a An Instructing Psalme of David: A Prayer when he was in the Cave.

1. I with my voice unto the LORD
In straits aloud-did-cry:
Yea with my voice unto the LORD
b Request-for-grace-did-I.
2. I poured-out c before-his-face.
My Meditation:
I did-declare d before-his-face
e My-sore-affliction.

3. Within-me when my spirit f fail'd,
Then thou didst-know g my way:
They in way that I walk'd, for me
A Snare h did-closely-lay.
4. On right-hand i I-did-look and see,
And no man did me know:
All refuge perish'd-is from me,
k None seeks my Soul so low.

5. I cry'd to thee, LORD, I said then:
Thou art l mine-hope alone:
Thou in the land of living-men
Art all my Portion.
6. m Sith I am vehemently brought-low,
Attend to my-shrill-cry:
From-my-n-Pursuers me-rid-thou,
For o stronger they than I.

7. From prison-close my soul bring- our,
Thy Name's praise to confess:
The just shall compass-me-about,
p When thus thou shalt me bless.

Sect. III. The Kind, Penman, Occasion, and Scope.

The Kind of this Psalme, 1. As to the Form or Manner of penning it, with a Title or Inscription prefixed, is; An Entituled Psalme, in the Hebrew. See the Preface Sect. VI. numb. IV. 2. As to the Matter of it, (1) More Generally, it is in the Hebrew stiled, משכיל Maschil, i. e. An Instruction, or Instructing-Psalm of David. It is one of those six Maschils ascribed to David. It seems to be so called, because it contains an Instructive practice of David in his straits: He fled to the LORD by Faith and Prayer for Deliverance. And this course of his, this Prayer is recorded, for Instruction to all Gods people to take the like course in like cases of extream straits and difficulties. (2) More Specially, It is A Prayer of David, An earnest prayer for deliverance from his Persecutors, and from all the extream dangers and distresses which they had brought upon him: that he might confess-praise to the LORD's Name, with others also.

Penman of it, was David: As the Title signifies.

Occasion of David's penning it, and making of this Prayer, was (as the Title also shewes) David's being in the Cave. He fled into a Cave to hide and shelter himself from his Persecutors: and whilest he was in the Cave, and upon that Occasion, he made this Prayer. And probably, Then, or a little after, he wrote it. But forasmuch as David is said to have been in two Caves, viz. In the Cave Adullam, whither he fled from King Saul, when he escaped from the hands of Achish King of Gath, 1 Sam. 22. 1. And in the Cave, by the Sheep-coates in the Wilderness of Engedi, whither he and his men fled for fear of King Saul, 1 Sam. 24. 1, 2, 3. It is doubtful which of these two Caves is here intended. Bellarmine [q] understands it of the Cave Adullam: because (saith he) in the Cave in the Wilderness of Engedi, Saul was more in danger than David, there David cutting off the skirt of his Garment. But this Reason is of no force: for David might have penned this Psalm before Saul came accidentally into the Cave where David and his men were: or after Saul was departed, 1 Sam. 24. 22. Lyra tells us that Hierome understands this of the Cave Adullam [r]: but I find no such thing in Hierome. Others, as Rasi, Kimchi, and other Hebrews [s], understand it of the Cave in the Wilderness of Engedi: So also some of our later Writers [t]. If this 142 Psalm do in Matter and Time (as in order) succeed Psal. 141. Then its not unprobable but that David penned this Psalm after he had convinced Saul, by sparing his life when he cut off the skirt of his Garment, that he intended no evil unto him, upon which Saul departed, but David and his men got them up into the Hold, 1 Sam. 24. 22. i. e. To the Cave of Engedi again, not daring to trust Saul. And at this his return into the Cave he might pen this Psalm.

s Sim. de Muis in Argum. Psal. 142.

t Jo. Foord in Psal. 142. Tit.

Scope of David herein is, 1. Partly to intreat the LORD to Deliver and set him once free from his persecutors, extream distresses and dangers, with which he was daily exercised, that he might thereupon confess praise to the LORD, and other righteous persons might rejoyce with him, ver. 6. 7. 2. Partly to Direct and Instruct all Gods people in their extreamest straits, when all humane succours fail, and when even their spirits are overwhelmed, to fly to the LORD alone as their only Relief by faith and Prayer. Hence its called Maschil, An Instructing Psalm. Tit.

Sect. IV. The Analysis, or Principal Parts.

The Title declares, 1. The General Nature, Argument, and intent of this Psalme, to give Instruction. Maschil, An Instructing-Psalme. 2. The special Na- of it; A Prayer u. 3. The Penman of it; David. 4. The Season when, and Occasion whereupon he penned it, viz. when he was in the Cave, i. e. Not in the Cave Adullam, but in the Cave of Engedi. As formerly.

u The heb. תְּפִלָּה Tephillah properly signifies; A Prayer wherein we set forth our cause before God for obtaining of Just judgment from him. The root פָּלַל phalal, signifies, to judge, and to pray, &c. Pagn. Thesaur. ad verb.

The Psalme it self contains,

I. Davids Narration, How earnestly and fervently he cryed to the LORD in his extremities of dangers and distresses, ver. 1. to 5. Wherein note,

1. The Object to whom he directed his Prayer; The LORD, Five times hinted, ver. 1, 2.

2. The intensive fervency of his Prayer. Set down in an heap of words, as is usual with them that are in extream distresses. 1. Crying with voice; Notes fervency, importunity. 2. Making supplication for grace; imports his earnest desire of the LORD's favour. 3. Pouring out before his face a Meditation; Intimates the abundant vehemency of his premeditated Requests. 4. Shewing his distress: implyes, An orderly laying open or describing of his distress before the LORD, ver. 1, 2.

3. The Causes or Motives of such his fervent Prayer: viz. 1. His own utter fainting, His spirit was involved upon him, or overwhelmed in him. 2. The LORD's sufficiency for him thus overwhelmed. He then knew his path: i.e. Either his path of escape, though David himself knew it not. Or, The integrity of his course. 3. The malice and mischief of his enemies; privily-laying a Snare for him in his way, ver. 3. 4. The Insufficiency of all humane help and succour. Set forth by the total and utter failing of all secondary means of protection or deliverance, verse 4.

II. Davids Prayer it self, ver. 5, &c. Where consider

1. The Season of his Prayer to the LORD. viz. Then, when his spirit was overwhelmed, when his enemies malice and mischief had brought him into extream straits and dangers, and when all secondary succours failed him; I cryed unto thee, O LORD.

2. The Faith and Affiance he had in the LORD alone, 1. For protection and safety; Thou my Refuge: or, my-hope-for-safety. 2. For provision of all necessaries; My Portion——ver. 5.

3. For Petitions presented: viz. 1. For the Lords attendance to his cry, or audience of his fervent Prayer. Which is urged, From his present low condition. 2. For the LORD's deliverance of him from his Persecutors. Which is pressed, from his enemies power and his own Impotency, ver. 6. 3. For bringing forth of his Soul out of close-prison. He was as it were imprisoned on every side with fears, dangers, distresses. This Petition is also Amplified, (1) Partly, From his own end and aim in desiring it; To confess-praise to his Name. (2) Partly, From the good event that will hereupon ensue to the righteous; They shall compass David about, to rejoyce and praise the LORD with him, when he shall thus bountifully-reward unto him, ver. 7.

Psalme CXLIII.

Sect. I. The Summary Contents

* See on Ps. 6. Sect. 3

In this pathetical Prayer (which some * account the Seventh and last Penitential Psalm) David, under deep distresses, I. Craves audience in his just case: by way of Exordium, or Preface, ver. 1. II. Deprecates the LORD's entering into judgment with him, upon any his personal deserts, v. 2. III. Declares, 1. His misery, through his Enemies violence, and his own Hearts-trouble, v. 3, 4. 2. His Remedy used against it, Meditation and Prayer, v. 5, 6. IV. Prayes, 1. For himself: viz. (1) For the LORD's speedy and gracious Answer, v. 7, 8. (2) For Direction in his way, v. 8. (3) For Deliverance, ver. 9. (4) For Guidance in his Obedience, and Rescuing of his Soul out of distress, ver. 10, 11. 2. Against his Enemies, v. 12.

Sect. II. The Version out of the Hebrew.

A Psalm of David.

I.

1. LORD, hear my Prayer, lend-an-ear
To-my-a-requests-for-grace:
Thou in thy faithfulness me hear,
And in thy righteousness,
2. And b come not into-judgment try'd
With thy Servant at all:
For c in-thy-sight be justifi'd
Not d any living shall.

a Heb. supplications for grace.
b Heb. enter not.
c Heb. before thy face.
d Heb. all——

3. For, th' enemy doth my Soul e pursue,
To th' Earth my life smites-down:
f Makes-me-dwell-darkling far from view,
As men long dead, unknown,
4. In me likewise my spirit g is-
O'rewhelm'd-perplexedly:
In midst of me mine heart for this Amaz'd-is-wondrously.

e Heb. persecute.
f Heb. makes me to sit in darkness, as dead men ever.
g Heb. my spirit veils it self.

5. Then I remember dayes of old,
h I meditation-use
On all thy work so manifold:
On thine hands Act I muse.
6. In Prayer unto thee do I
Spread-out my restless hands:
My Soul for thee thirsts vehemently,
For rain as weary lands. Selah.

h Heb. I meditate.

II.

7. Haste, hear me LORD, my spirit failes, Hide not i thy face-me fro:
k Lest I be like them death assailes
That down the pit do go.
8. In-Morn of thy mercy-me-hear,
For in thee do I trust;
O cause-thou-me to know most clear
The way I that walk I must:

For up to thee my Soul lift I.

9. O LORD, deliver me
From all my foes; I wholly fly-
-For-Covert unto thee.
10. To do m thy-will thou-me-instruct,
For lo thou art my God:
In land n of Righteness me conduct,
Thy Spirit's ever good.

i Heb. thy face.
k Heb. And I shall be compared with men descending the pit.
l Heb. that I should walk

m Heb. thine acceptable will-good-pleasure.
n Heb. or, of uprightness, or, of righteousness.

11. LORD quicken me for thy Name's sake:
And in thy righteousness
Do thou my troubled Soul o forth-take Quite out of all distress.
12. And of thine-own-benignity
Cut-off my foes with shame,
And all my Soul's distressers stroy:
For I thy Servant am.

o Heb. bring forth.

Sect. III. The Analysis or Principal Parts.

The Kind of this Psalm, 1. As to the Denomination of it, is; A Psalm. As to the Outward Form or manner of penning it in the Hebrew, is an Entituled ruled Pſalme. 2. As to the Argument or Matter of it, it is A Prayer, a pathetical Prayer of David in deepeſt dangers and diſtreſſes. The particulars are before hinted, and will afterward more fully appear. Some do reckon this among The Seven Penitential Pſalmes, this being the ſeventh and laſt of them. They are Pſal. 6. 32. 38. 51. 102. 130. 143. See on Pſ. 6. Sect. 3.

Penman of it was David: as the Title ſhewes.

Occaſion of Davids penning it, Some think was his Son Abſalom's Rebellion againſt his Father David, when he ſo perſecuted him and ſought after his life p. Hereupon perhaps grounding their conjecture, Partly becauſe the matter of the Pſalme may well be accommodated thereunto. Partly becauſe ſundry ancient Verſions have hinted ſome ſuch thing in ſome words added to the Title of this Pſalme. For the Greek Verſion of the LXXII hath it thus; A Pſalme to David, when his ſon perſecuted him. The Æthiopick Verſion hath the ſame. The Vulgar Latin thus; A Pſalme of David when Abſalom his ſon perſecuted him. The Arabick thus; Of David, when his ſon Abſalom perſecuted him q. But neither of theſe grounds are cogent. Not the former, becauſe the Subject-matter of this prayer, is as applicable to Davids perſecutions by Saul. Not the later, becauſe ſuch Additions to the Hebrew Text are not warrantable, nor ſafe. Others ſeem better to referre the Occaſion of Davids writing this Prayer to Sauls violent perſecutions of him, whereby he was brought nigh unto death and utter ruine ſundry times, and in deep perplexities of Soul r. So that it was the ſame, or near the ſame Occaſion of his writing the former Pſalme, viz. Pſal. 142. And the Argument or Subject-Matter of the Pſalme intentively conſidered, much better agrees to King Sauls perſecution of David, then to Abſalom's rebellious Inſurrection.

r Ja. Ford in Expoſ. Pſ. 143. Tempus. M. Mollin Arg. Pſal. 143. G. Ames. in Analyſ. Pſal. 143.

Scope of David in this prayer, is; To intreat the LORD, upon conſideration of his enemies extream cruelty againſt him, and his own perplexity of ſpirit and imbecility, to deliver him from his Enemies (not entring into judgment with him for any his Iniquities) and by his good Spirit to direct, conduct, quicken, and comfort him over all his diſtreſſes, to walk in all obedience to God and righteouſneſs. As alſo to imprecate ruine to his Enemies.

Sect. IV. The Analyſis, or Principal Parts.

The Title declares two things, 1. The Denomination of this Scripture; A Pſalme. 2. The Penman; David.

The Pſalme it ſelf is a moſt pathetical Prayer of David, wherein

I. David, by way of Preface or Entrance into his Prayer, begs Audience of the LORD to his Requeſts. Where note, 1. His importunity herein, ſet forth in an heap of words. (1) Hear my prayer, viz. wherein I ſet forth my cauſe before, for obtaining of juſt judgment. (2) Give ear to my ſupplications for grace. (3) Hear me. 2. His Arguments whereby he thus urgeth his Requeſt. Drawn, 1. From the LORD's faithfulneſs or Truth, viz. in his word and promiſes. 2. From his juſtice, protecting the innocent and upright, committing themſelves to him, ver. 1.

II. David (though well aſſured of the juſtice of his cauſe, yet) Deprecates, or prayes-againſt the LORD's entring into judgment with his perſon. And hereof he renders a Reaſon, drawn from the utter inability of himſelf, or of any perſon alive to be juſtified before the LORD, ſhould he proceed in ſtrictneſs and exactneſs of judgment. Herein he tacitly begs pardon of his iniquities, ver. 2.

III. David declares, 1. His extream malady and miſery, viz. (1) His enemies extream cruelty againſt him Perſecuting his Soul: Smiting down his life to the Earth: Making him dwell in darkneſſes (i. e. in dark Caves and holes for ſafety, or in darkſome ſtate and condition,) like men dead long ſince and for ever, ver. 3. (2) His Soul's extream perplexity hereupon. His ſpirit being with grief and trouble quite ſwolled and overwhelmed within him. His heart alſo wonderfully amazed or aſtoniſhed in the midſt of him, v. 4. 2. His Remedy which he uſed and applyed againſt this his Malady. Which was twofold, viz. (1) Meditation upon the whole work and acting of Gods Providence towards his people in the dayes of old, v. 5. (2) Prayer to the LORD. Deſcribed, Partly, by the outward geſture uſed therein; ſpreading out his hands towards God. Partly, by the moving cauſe thereunto, viz. His Soul's vehement thirſting after God, for comfort, pardon, peace, deliverance, &c. which is illuſtrated by a Similitude drawn from A weary land's thirſting and gaping after moyſtening ſhowers, v. 6.

IV. David prayes, For himſelf, and againſt his enemies, v. 7. &c.

1. For himſelf. And here he petitions for ſundry bleſſings. As, 1. For the LORD's ſpeedy hearing and anſwering him, with favour: His caſe not admitting of delayes. For, (1) His ſpirit failed. (2) He otherwiſe ſhould be like them that deſcend the pit: i. e. The Grave, that pit of Corruption. (3) He relyed by affiance upon God, ver. 7. and 8. in the beginning. 2. For Divine direction in the way wherein he ſhould walk in theſe his extream perils and perplexities. Which he preſſeth, From his Souls whole deſire to, and dependance upon the LORD herein, ver. 8. 3. For deliverance from his Enemies, Urged, From his flying-for-covert to the LORD alone by Faith, ver. 9. 4. For Guidance by Gods good Spirit in obedience to Gods acceptable Will, in the land of Righteneſs, or Righteouſneſſe, or uprightneſſe: i. e. in a juſt, right, and upright courſe. This is urged, From the Relation betwixt God and him; Thou art my God, ver, 10. 5. For quickning or reviving him, viz. From mortal dangers: From all his deep diſcomforts and perplexities This is urged, From the end aimed at herein; viz. The Glory of Gods Name. 6. For bringing of his Soul out of its extream diſtreſs, by reaſon of theſe afflictions: Urged from the LORD's righteouſneſs, ver. 11.

2. Againſt his Enemies, all of them. That they may be ſuppreſſed or cut off, and deſtroyed by the LORD. This Imprecation he preſſeth, 1. From Gods loving-kindneſs, viz. towards him. 2. From the cruelty of his enemies; Diſtreſſers of his Soule. 3. From his own Relation to God; For I am thy Servant, ver. 12.

Pſalm CXLIV.

Sect. I. The Summary Contents.

In this Pſalme, David (now King, and Conquerour of his enemies in part, but not compleatly,) I. Bleſſeth the LORD for the protection, victories, and Kingdom vouchſafed him, ver. 1. to 5. II. Prayeth to the LORD, 1. For his powerful ſubduing of the reſidue of his rebelling enemies, Heathens and Forreigners, ver. 5. to 7. 2. For his effectual delivering of David from all theſe his Enemies, ver. 7. &c. (1) Partly, That ſo David may Sing-pſalmes of Praiſe to the LORD, for ſuch ſalvation and deliverance rance, ver. 9, 10. (2) Partly, That thus his people Israel being in peace and safety, may every way prosper in temporals, ver. 11 to 15. III. Concludeth the Psalme, with admiration of the happiness of Gods people, ver. 15.

Sect. II. The Version out of the Hebrew.

A Psalm of David.

I.

1. THE LORD my Rock be bless'd, which to
The battel learns mine hands,
My fingers to the warre also.
2. My Mercy in all lands, a My-fortress, mine-high-tower, and b my Deliverer, shield, and he
In whom I trust: that subjecteth
My-people under me.

3. LORD, what is earthly-man, that thou
Of-him-dost-knowledge-take?
The son of wretched-man, that thou
Of-him-account-dost make?
4. c Man's like to vanity, His dayes
As shade passing-away.
5. LORD bow thy Heav'ns, and thence come down:
Touch d Hills, and smoak shall they-

6. e Cast-forth the lightning all about,
And scatter-them-asunder:
Send thou thy dreadful arrowes out,
And them disturb with thunder.
7. Thine hands thou from the high place send Free me, and me deliver
From many waters: from the hand
Of f strangers sons for ever.

8. g Whose mouth full of unrighteousnesse
Doth speak false-vanity:
And their right-hand a right hand is
Of utter falsity.
9. A new Song I to thee will sing,
O God: with Psaltery
And ten-string'd-instrument, O King,
To thee sing-Psalmes-will-I.

II.

10. 'Tis be that unto Kings from ill
Salvation b doth afford:
That doth his servant David still
Release from i hurtful sword.
11. Me rid, k and free from alien's hand,
l Whose mouth speaks vanity:
And their right-hand is a right-hand
Of utter falsity.

12. That then as Plants, may be our sonnes,
All o their youth grown-great:
Our daughters as fair Corner-stones
m Carv'd like a Palace neat.
13. Our Garners full, n affording store
Of every sort of meats:
Our flocks forth-bringing thousands more,
o Ten-thousands in our streets.

14. Our Oxen loaden plenteously,
No breaking-in, Likewise
None going-out; And no out-cry
May in our streets arise.
15. p That-people we shall happy call,
Whose case is such as this:
Yea happy is that people all
Whose God JEHOVAH is.

Sect. III. The Kind, Penman, Occasion, and Scope.

The Kind of this Scripture, 1. As to the Outward Form or Manner of penning it, is, with a Title prefixed in the Hebrew. So it is one of the Entituled Psalmes of David. 2. As to the Matter of it, it is Mixt: being made up of Praise and Prayer. So it is Eucharistical, and Ethical: Laudatory, and Petitory. And it is observed, That this Psalme, and all the rest that follow to the end of this Book, are Eucharistical, in whole or in part: containing matter of praise to the LORD, for several mercies, &c q. And this is one of Davids Triumphal-Psalmes for the success which the LORD of Hoasts had given him in his Warres, Battels, and Military undertakings.

q Hen. Moller. in Arg. Psal. 144.

Penman of it, was David, as the Title hints unto us.

Occasion of Davids penning it, was the Consideration of the LORD's mercy, in helping him in his warres and warre-like exploits, and in subjecting his people Israel to him, as their King. Compare ver. 1. and 2. For it is evident, That David penned this Psalme after his coming to the Kingdome, and after he had obtained some notable victories over his forreign Adversaries. But not over them all: for some still were un-subdued, and were vexatious to David; whereupon he also in this Psalme prayes for their total overthrow and ruine, which was in Part so mercifully begun See verse 5. to 9. and ver. 11. And therefore, whereas some r think this Psalme was penned upon Occasion of Davids victory over Goliah; and the Greek, Vulgar Latin, and Æthiopick Versions have the Title of this Psalme thus; To David unto Goliah: or; A Psalme of David against Goliah s: That is a great mistake, this Psalme being penned after David was come to the Crown, ver. 2. as some have rightly observed t. Notwithstanding this is not such a Triumphant-Psalme, as Psalme 18. For, that Psalme was written when now all the affaires of his Kingdome were stablished in peace, and all his enemies subdued; as in Title, of Psalme 18. But in this Psalme (as Calvin notes) he intimates certain notes of sollicitude and fear, all his enemies being not yet brought under u. To me therefore it seems most probable, That David penned this Psalme upon Occasion of his obtaining the Kingdome over Israel as well as over Judah, and of some of his renowned Victories after that accomplished; as over the Philistines, Moabites, Hadadezer, and the Syrians, with the Edomites, as in 2 Sam. 8. after which nevertheless David had some other enemies remaining, against whom in this Psalme he directs his Prayer.

u Differt a Psalmo 18 quia illic pacato regno, rebusque prospere fluentibus, tantum-mosop triumphat: hic vero aliquas sollicitudinis & metû notas aspergit: quia adhuc eum exercebant hostium reliquiæ. Joan. Calv. in Arg. Ps. 144.

Scope of David in this Psalme, is; 1. Partly, To bless the LORD for his singular mercies in helping him in all his warres and battels, and establishing him upon his Throne over Israel, ver. 1, 2. 2. Partly, To intreat the LORD to perfect these mercies thus begun, subduing the remainder of his enemies, to the compleating of Israels peace and prosperity, ver. 7. to 9. 11. 12. 13. 14,

Sect. IV.

Sect. IV. The Analysis, or Principal Parts.

The Title onely hints unto us the Penman of this Psalme, viz. David.

The Psalme it self, being of Mixt Nature, contains

I. Davids Blessing and praising of the LORD for sundry eminent mercies vouchsafed him. As,

1. For his singular assistance and success in his Wars. Blessed be the LORD, &c. Where note, 1. The Act of divine kindness vouchsafed; learning his hands to warre &c. 2. The Causes of this kindness, viz. The LORD's mercy, power, and providence; elegantly illustrated by choise similitudes, of Rock, Fortresse, High-Tower, &c. ver. 1. and 2. in the begin.

2. For advancing him to the Throne, and subjecting his people under him, ver. 2. Both which mercies are elegantly illustrated, By the utter disparity and unworthiness of not onely himself, but of any earthly man to receive such favours from the LORD: which for the greater Emphasis is laid down by way of interrogation and admiration, ver. 3. Of which extream imparity and unworthiness he gives a Reason, drawn from the vanity and transitoriness of humane condition, ver. 4.

II. Davids Prayer for the perfecting and compleating of these mercies so graciously begun. Here

1. He prayes for the LORDs powerful subduing of all the remainder of his Enemies. Which Petition is elegantly represented in many particular Acts and Expressions of Divine Power, which manner of working the Lord sometimes makes use of for the discomfiture of his peoples enemies, verse 5, 6.

2. He Prayes for his own full and final deliverance from all his enemies. Here he sets forth, I. The Cause of his desired deliverance; The LORD's mighty power and providence manifested from Heaven. II. The deliverance it self prayed for; Release me and deliver me. III. The enemies from whom he desires this deliverance. Described, 1. By their sort; sonnes of a strangers i. e. of a forreign and strange people, or of a strange God. 2. By their multitude and impetuous violence: Metaphorically compared to many waters. 3. By their power; from the hand, verse 7. 4. By their falseness and perfidiousness, in (1) Words, and (2) Deeds, vers. 8. Which Description of his Enemies, and the Deliverance from them thus prayed for, are again repeated for the greater emphasis and importunity, verbatim, in verse 11. IV. The Arguments whereby he presseth this his Petition for full deliverance from his Enemies, are drawn from a twofold good event, aimed at therein, and which would thence ensue: viz. 1. Davids thankful celebration of the LORD's praises hereupon. Of which his thankful celebration he sets forth, (1) The excellency; Singing a new Song: A Song of Triumph, &c. (2) The manner of it; Singing-Psalmes with Musical Instruments, ver. 9. (3) The Subject-Matter of it: Expressed, More Generally; The LORD's giving Salvation unto Kings. More particularly, His delivering David his Servant from the evil Sword, verse 10. 2. Israels flourishing prosperity in all Temporals under Davids peaceable Government, verse 12, &c. This prosperity is distributed into two Sorts: viz. (1) Plenty and presence of all Good. As, Corporal health, growth, strength, and comelineſs of their sonnes and daughters, ver, 12. Plenty of all manner of fruits, and store for food. Numerous multiplication and increase of their flocks fructifying abundantly, ver. 13. well-loaden Oxen: loaden with bulk and flesh, fitting them for all use and service, ver. 14. at the beginning. (2) Penury and Absence of all evil: especially evils of warre, As; No breaking in, by enemies Invasion. None going out, by Captivity in the enemies hands. No out-cry in the Streets, by cruelty, spoil, and other calamities of warre: In all which elegantly is incompared Israels publique peace and immunity from warre, which brings in all these Calamities with it, ver. 14.

III. Davids Conclusion of his Prayer and the Psalme. By a pathetical illustration of all this prosperity of Israel, from the Relation which it hath, 1. To the people, which in some sort are thereby rendred happy. 2. To God, declaring his true beatifical grace and favour by these outward Tokens, verse 15. Or, Israels prosperity is in this verse illustrated, 1. By the seeming outward happiness of people under such worldly enjoyments. 2. By the surpassing real happiness of that people which hath JEHOVAH for their God. Added as it were by way of Correction [z] to the former clause. This Sentence being opposed to all the other worldly wealth. H. Ainsworth in his Annot. on Psal. 144. 15. The former is but Felicitas sinistra: The latter Felicitas dextera. Glos. Ord. in loc.

[z] Concludit Epiphonemate, In quo prædicat populum felicem & beatum, cui hæc bona a Deo Contigerint. Sed addit mox correctionem, nequis in his rebus terrenis subsistat, & summam beatitudinem ponat, &c. Hen. Moller. in Prælect. ad Psal. 144. 15.

Dixerunt ergo vaniloqui filli alieni, Beatum populum cui hæc sunt: vos dicite nobiscum, Beatus populus cujus Dominus Deus ipsius. Aug. Enarrat. in Psal. 143. p. 1654. D. Tom. 8. Basil. 1569.

Sect. III. The Kind, Penman Occasion and Scope

The Kind of this Psalme, is; 1. As to the Outward Forme of penning it, An Entituled Psalme, or Hymne of David. And it is an Alphabetical Psalme: The last of the Seven Alphabetical Psalmes t, which are Psal. 25. 34. 37. 111. 112. 119. 145. Every verse of this 145*th Psalme* in the Hebrew, begins with a Letter of the Hebrew-Alphabet in order: verse 1. with א, verse 2. with ב, verse 3. with ג, &c. Only this is observable as to this Psalme, that the fourteenth Letter, viz. (נ) which should have immediatly followed the thirteenth verse, which begins with מ, נ is wanting in the Alphabetical order. And it is hard to conjecture how it came to pass that this Letter (נ) should be here left out, and omitted. Hen. Mollerus thinks it was through the negligence of the Transcribers u. R. Kimchi confesseth he is ignorant of the Reason of it, As one hath noted x. Only I find that between ver. 13. beginning with ם, and ver. 14. beginning with נ; In sundry ancient Versions, As the Greek Version of the LXXII, The Vulgar Latin, The Syriack, The Æthiopick, and Arabick Versions, this verse is inserted, viz. Faithful is the LORD in his Words, and holy in all his Works y. Now the Hebrew-word for [faithful] begins with [נ] [נאמן] Neeman z, mede. Pidelis, ——&c: And according to those Versions the Letter נ is supplied. But the inserting of this verse for the supply of that Letter, being done only by humane Authority, temerity or curiosity, contrary to the Original Hebrew Verity, cannot be justified or approved by them that hold and maintain the incorrupt Purity of the Fountain-Hebrew-Text, 2. As to the Subject-Matter of this Psalme, it is, especially; Divine Praise. For herein David sets himself most zealously to extol and magnifie the LORD, for his many excellent Perfections or Attributes, as his Greatness, Goodness, Justice, Graciousness, Compassionateness, Long-suffering, Loving-kindness, &c. For his Kingdom, For his Providential dispensations, &c. which he doth most elegantly and emphatically, Hence this is Entituled; An Hymne of David; or, Davids Hymne; or, Davids Praise, by way of eminency: denoting David's eminent Psalme of Praise.

y Vid. in Bibl. Polyglot. ad Ps. 145. 13.

z Sim. de Muis in Argum. Psal. 145.

An Hymne (said a one,) properly is Divine Praise with Song or Exultation. Therefore if it be not the praise of God, but of some other person, it is not an Hymne, though it be with Exultation. And in like sort if it be a divine praise, and not with Song or Exultation, but rather with weeping, as Jeremiah's Lamentation, it is not properly an Hymne, &c. The singular excellency of this Hymne, or Psalme of Praise is such, That Kimchi observes, That he who diligently shall weigh this Psalme, he shall see the admirable things of the Creator, and his Judgements towards the Creatures. And therefore the Rabbines have said; Whosoever shall daily recite this Psalme thrice, he ought to be secure of the life to come. Which (saith he) is not to be understood of him that recites it with his mouth only a Hymnus proprie est laus Divina, cum Cantico seu exultatione. Et ideo, si non sit laus Dei, sed alterius persona, non est Hymnus: etiam si fiat cum exultatione. Et similiter si sit laus divina, & non fiat cum Cantico seu exultatione: sed magis cum fletu, sicut Planctus Hieremiæ, non est proprie Hymnus. Et ideo per hoc quod dicitur in Titulo, Hymnus David, designatur quod David fecit hunc Psalmum ad Dei laudem cum Cantico seu exultatione. Nic. de Lyra in postil. ad Psal. 144.

ly,

ly, but of him who doth it with mouth, heart, and conduct. He conjoynes these three, saith Musculus b. Thus this Psalme, as to the kind of it, is Laudatory or Eucharistical: and so are all the five following, every of which begins and ends with Halelu-JAH. And they are as the Epilogue of this whole Book of Psalmes.

b Observat. Musculi, ad hunc Psalmum finem totius Psalterii perspecturum res admirandas Creatoris, ejusque erga Creaturas justicia. Ideoque Rabbinos dixisse; Quicunque hunc psalmum recitaret Quotidie recitaret, securum esse debere de futura vita. Quod, inquit ille, non est intelligendum de eo, qui ore duntaxat recitaret; Sed de eo, qui ore corde & lingua. Hæc tria conjungit. Sim. de Muis in Arg. Psal. 145.

Penman of this Hymn, was David: as the Title prefixed intimates.

Occasion of Davids penning this Hymne, is not certainly evident here or elsewhere in Holy Scripture; But it is conjectured c, that David composed this Psalm, and therein extolled the LORD so exceedingly with praises, when he heard his request in Psal. 144. And subdued the residue of his Heathen-enemies to his Royal Government, as 2 Sam. 8. Hereupon (as is supposed) David in this Psalm, and the five following to the end of the Book, praiseth the LORD with all his might. David was filled with so much joy, at Gods subjugating forreign Nations to him, making him Head of the Heathen, and restoring peace to Israel as he had promised, 2 Sam. 7, 8, 9, 10. that he could not contain himself, but must needs praise the LORD in six distinct Psalmes. And if this be so, then we may hither referre the chief Occasion and Argument of all the five ensuing Psalmes.

c Ja. Ford in Expos. Psal. 145.

Scope of David in this sweet Alphabetical Hymn, is; Intensively, with all his might to celebrate the Lords praises, for his immmense Perfections or Attributes, as his Greatness, Justice, Goodness, &c. For his Kingdom, and his Providential dispensations towards good and bad: and to incite all others to the like divine Praises.

Sect. IV. The Analysis, or Principal Parts.

The Hebrew Title prefixed. expresseth. 1 The Denomination of this Scripture. An Hymne. The meaning of which word, See partly in Sect. 3. foregoing: but more fully in the Preface Sect. II. 2. The Penman of it, David. This is the only Psalm in this whole Book of Psalmes, that hath this Inscription, An Hymne of David.

The Hymne it self is wholly Eucharistical and Laudatory, made up of the Praises of the LORD. And therein are 1. An Exordium. 2. A Narration. 3. A Conclusion.

d Et benedicam nomini tuo] Non benedictione Consecrationis, quæ a majore dependit minori, Heb. 7. Sed benedictione Gratiarum Actionis & Laudis, quæ a minori exhiberur majori. Nic. de Lyra in Postil. ad Ps. 144. ad initium.

I. An Exordium or Preface, wherein David professeth his holy Resolution of praising and blessing God continually. Here note, 1. The formal Object of his Praise; The Lord, described by (1) His Covenant-Relation to David; my God. (2) His Administration of his Regal Rule for David; O King. 2. The Acts of his Praise, which as Parts thereof he professeth and promiseth to perform to this Object: viz. (1) Extolling him. Lifting-him-up-on-high, Advancing-him. (2) Blessing him: twice mentioned. Understand, not the Blessing of Consecration, by which the Lesser is blessed of the Greater, Heb. 7. 7. But the Blessing of Praise and Thanksgiving, by which the Greater is blessed of the Lesser d. (3) Praising him. 3. The Adjunct Constancy or Assiduity of these Acts, ver. 1, 2.

II. A Narration; wherein David declares the Causes and Reasons of such his Extolling, Blessing and Praising God, ver. 3. &c. viz.

1. For Gods Immense Majesty and Greatnesse, gloriously shining forth in his mighty Acts. Here, The Majestick Greatnesse of the LORD, is, 1. Asserted and exalted as vehemently praised and unsearchable, ver. 3. 2. Illustrated by the successive Testimony and praises of all Generations, and Experience of his Works, ver. 4. And especially by the Psalmists high praises thereof, among others, verse 5, 6.

2. For the LORD's infinite Goodness. As Truth is a Divine perfection more peculiarly belonging to Gods understanding: so Goodness is a comprehensive perfection more properly appertaining to Gods Will. Here touching Gods Goodness, for which he is praised, note; 1. The Amplitude of his Goodness, to be praised; the multitude of thy Goodness. 2. The Act of Praise to be performed in reference to Gods Goodness, (1) They shall abundantly utter: Heb. they shall-well-out. A Metaphor from fountains that send forth their waters abundantly and constantly. Thus it notes abundant and constant praises of his Goodness. (2) They shall shout; which imports fervency. 3. The choise excellencies and perfections, wherein this Goodness of God discovers it self; viz. in his (1) Justice, or righteousness, ver. 7. (2) Graciousness. (3.) Compassionateness; or, commiserating-pitifulness. (4) Long-suffering; forbearance, or patience. (5) Loving-kindness. Amplified by the Greatness of it, ver. 8. 4. The extensiveness of this Goodness of God, to, (1) All mankind. (2) All his works whatsoever, below mankind, verse 9.

3. For the Lord's eminent Works, or Acts ver. 10. &c. Where note,

(1) The Instruments that shall for these things celebrate God. 1. Generally; All his works: viz. in their kind. 2. Specially; His gracious Saints.

(2) The Acts which they shall respectively perform; Praising, Blessing.

(3) The Object to whom these Acts shall be performed; To the Lord: thee,——thee, v. 10.

(4) The Acts or works of God for which they shall thus praise and bless the Lord, viz. These two sorts, 1. The LORDs Kingdome and his excellent Administration thereof. Which Kingdome is described by the eminent properties thereof, viz. 1. Glory. 2. Power. 3. Majesty. 4. Eternity, ver. 11, 12, 13. II. The LORD's Providencial Dispensations. First, Towards the Good, viz. 1. Under-propping all that are falling. 2. Uprightning all that are bowed together, ver. 14. 3. Feeding and even satisfying the hungring and thirsting desiring of all his Creatures, ver. 15, 16. 4. Being just in all his wayes. 5. Being Holy, Merciful, Clement, or bountiful in all his works, ver. 17. 6. Being nigh to all that call upon him, in truth, ver. 18. 7. Fulfilling the desire, Hearing the cry, and working the Salvation of them that fear him, ver 19. 8. Preserving all those that love him, v. 20. at the beginning. Secondly, Towards the bad viz. Abolishing all the wicked, ver. 20. at the end.

II. The Conclusion, wherein David, 1. Professeth and promiseth in his own Person to Praise the Lord. 2. Inciteth all flesh to bless the Name of his Holiness for evermore, ver. 21.

10. JEHOVAH reign for ever ſhall:
Thy God with power ſtor'd,
O Sion, n to Gen'rations all:
For which o Praiſe-ye-the-Lord.

Sect. III. The Kind, Penman, Occaſion and Scope.

The Kind of this Pſalme, 1. As to the Outward Form or Manner of penning it in the Hebrew without any Title prefixed, is an Untituled Pſalme, as many others are. Unleſs we ſhall ſay, That the word [Halelu-JAH] is prefixed as a Title. Which yet is not ſo conveniently ſaid: that word both beginning and ending the Pſalme, with provocation to all to praiſe the LORD, with the Pſalmiſt. 2. As to the Subject-Matter of it, it is Mixt of Praiſe and Exhortation, and ſo is Laudatory and Hortatory. But it is chiefly Euchariſtical or Laudatory: foraſmuch as even the Hortatory part is full of Matter of Divine Praiſe. And, as this, ſo all the reſt of the Pſalmes following to the end of the Book, are wholly ſpent in Divine praiſes, and every of them begin and end with, Halelu-JAH. Hence Lyra ſtiles them, Halelujatical Pſalmes. The Pſalmiſt ſetting himſelf to praiſe the LORD with all his might therein: never ſatisfying himſelf with this ſweet Angelical and Celeſtial Exerciſe. So true is that of Auguſtine's; Divine Songs, are our ſpirits delights p.

p Delitiæ Spiritus noſtri ſunt Cantiones iſtæ. Aug. in Enarr. 144. ad init. Tom. 5.

Penman, probably was David: And perhaps upon the ſame or like Occaſion he penned this Pſalme whereupon he wrote Pſal. 145. As there was intimated. See on Pſal. 145. Sect. 3.

Scope of the Pſalmiſt here, Is; To excite himſelf and others to praiſe the LORD, and to truſt in him alone in all ſtraits, wants, difficulties, and conditions whatſoever, and not in any, no not the greateſt of the ſons of Adam.

Sect. IV. The Analyſis, or Principal Parts.

In this Laudatory and Hortatory Pſalme, are

I. An Incitation, or pathetical provocation to the praiſing of the LORD. Which Duty is here laid down two wayes, 1. By diſtribution of the Subjects, who are to perform it, viz. (1) Others; Praiſe-ye the LORD. (2) The Pſalmiſt himſelf; Praiſe the LORD, O my Soul. Whereby is noted his Cordialneſs and ſincerity unto this Duty, ver. 1. 2. By profeſſion of the Pſalmiſts Reſolution to praiſe the LORD and to ſing Pſalmes to his God. Which is Amplified by the Adjunct Conſtancy hereof; In my life, whileſt I am: i.e. ſaith one q, In this preſent life, ſo long as it laſts: and in the life to come, v. 2.

q Nic de Lyra in proſtil. ad Pſ. 145.

II. A Diſſwaſive or Dehortation from truſting in Princes, in munificent-bounteous-Princes, or in any Son of Adam. The foundation of divine praiſe being truſt in God, the fruit whereof is his help to be celebrated with all praiſe: Therefore this provocation to praiſe God is illuſtrated by a diſſwaſive from the oppoſite truſting in and praiſing of men, though moſt bounteous-Princes. The reaſon of which diſſwaſive is drawn, 1. From their inſufficiency and impotency to help or ſave us from miſery, ver. 3. 2. From their frailty and mortality (one cauſe of their inſufficiency,) whence, all their thoughts and purpoſes are moſt vaniſhing, v. 4.

III. An Exhortation to hope and truſt for help in the God of Jacob, as in the LORD our God. Which is,

1. Illuſtrated, by the happineſſes of that man that hath his truſt and help in God, verſe 5.

2. Confirmed and urged by many choiſe Arguments: drawn

(1) From the Allſufficiency and Omnipotency of God, diſcovered in the Creation of Heaven, Earth, Sea, and all in them,

2. From the conſtant fidelity of God; keeping Truth for ever, in his Word and Promiſes, v. 6.

3. From his efficacious Providence, I. Towards all ſorts of good men depending upon him in all varieties of diſtreſſes and difficulties, viz. 1. Executing Judgement for the Oppreſſed. 2. Giving food to the hungry. 3. Looſing them that are bound, verſe 7. 4. Opening the eyes of the blind. 5. Uprightening them that are Crooked, bowed down, or bowed together. 6. Loving the righteous, verſe 8. 7. Preſerving the Strangers, 8. Setting-upright, or making to continue ſure, the fatherleſs and widdow, verſe 9. at the beginning. II. Towards the wicked that depend not upon him, Overthrowing their way, verſe 9. at the end.

IV. A Concluſion of the Pſalme. Wherein note, 1. The Declaration of another Reaſon why God is to be Praiſed and alone truſted in: drawn from the Eternity of his Kingdome, whereby he Rules and Orders all things as he will. Which is Amplified by the peculiar relation that the King of this Kingdome hath to Sion, to his Church. 2. An Exhortation to all hereupon to praiſe the LORD, v. 10.

Psalm CXLVII.

Sect. I. The Summary Contents.

The Psalmist in this Psalme, which also begins and ends with Halelu-JAH, 1. Exhorts all more Generally to praise the LORD, ver. 1. &c. Urging this from sundry Reasons: As, The Excellency of Divine Praise. Gods singular care of his Church. Gods Eminent Attributes; Wisdome, Power, Greatness. And his discriminating Providence towards good and bad, v. 1. to 7. 2. Exhorts to a special manner or mode of Praising God, with Confession, Singing-Psalmes, and Harp, v. 7. Annexing Reasons drawn from Gods Providence, towards Creatures senseless, Towards creatures sensitive but irrational. But especially towards his fearers, &c. v. 8. to 12. 3. Exhorts Jerusalem and Sion, The Church, the peculiar Subjects of this Duty) to Laud and Praise the LORD their God, ver. 12. For his blessings upon City and Kingdom. For his providence in ordering Natural things seasonably for their good. But especially for his peculiar favour to Israel in giving them his Ten-words, Statutes and Judgments, Laws Moral, Ceremonial, and Judicial, so as he dealt not with any other Nation, v. 13. to the end.

Sect. III. The Kind, Penman, Occasion, and Scope.

The Kind of this Psalme, 1. As to the Outward Form or Mode of Penning it, is Untruled in the Hebrew, And one of the Halelu-jatical Psalmes (as some call them) beginning and ending with Halelu-JAH, i. e. Praise-ye-JAH. Or, Praise-ye-the-LORD. 2. As to the Subject-Matter of it, it is Mixt, Hortatory and Laudatory, Exhorting much to the Praising of LORD, upon manifold grounds and reasons. It is chiefly Eucharistical or Laudatory.

This Psalme, though in the Hebrew it be but one entire undivided Psalme, and be so accounted by the Chaldee Paraphrast, and Generally by most sound Interpreters, yet it is divided into two by the Greek Version of the LXXII, by the Arabick and Æthiopick Versions, and by the vulgar Latin, which Division also Augustine, Lyra, &c. follow. From ver. 1. to 12. they account it Psalme CXLVI. And from ver 12. to the end, Psalme CXLVII[s]. And so they fall again into the Ordinary Enumeration of the Psalmes, from which they had departed all along from Psalme X, (as thereon was noted,) making the Xth Psalme onely a part of the IXth Psalme, unduely joyning both together in one. And therefore with them the Enumeration of the Psalmes, from Psalme X. to CXLVII, is wholly altered from the common Enumeration: and accordingly we are forced to alledge them. Which is to be noted by the Reader, lest he misapprehend the Allegations or Quotations of them.

s Vid. Bib. Polyglot ad Psal. X. & CXLVII.

Penman of this Psalme, some [t] think to have been David: and that upon the Occasion formerly hinted on Psal. 145. Sect. 3. Others [u] are of Opinion; That, because mention is made of Building Jerusalem, and gathering together the outcasts of Israel, ver. 2, of strengthening the barrs of her Gates, putting peace in her Borders, ver. 13. 14. This Psalme was penned by some Prophet (as by Haggai or Zechary, their names being prefixed to this Psalme in the Greek, Arabick, Æthiopick, and Syriack Versions; Halelu-JAH of Haggai and Zechary, [x]) after the Jewes return from their Babylonish Captivity, when they had rebuilt Jerusalem, had set up the Walls and Gates thereof, when Israels dispersed out-casts were gathered together thither out of other Countryes, and they flourished in peace and prosperity. But Lyra y utterly dislikes this Opinion; For that, no such Title with the Name of Haggai and Zechary is In the Hebrew, but is onely put by some Translator or Expositor. As also because in Jerusalem rebuilt after the return from Babylons Captivity, there was not such peace and plenty as this Psalme describes. Yea it was frequently invaded by the Gentiles about them, and was subject to the servitude of Medes and Persians, after of the Grecians, and then of the Romans. And there was such Penury of Temporals in the dayes of Nehemiah who re-edified the City, that they brought their sons and daughters into servitude for necessary food, Neh. 5. And therefore he understands this of the building of the Spiritual Jerusalem, &c. Wherefore, if we referre the Occasion of this Psalme to the occurrents that fell out, after David was brought to the Crown, and had subdued his Enemies round about; I see no unsuitableness with the matter of this Psalme, but good correspondency. For, then Jerusalem began to be eminently built, and to be strengthened, flourishing with peace and all prosperity: Then David and his friends, which were as out-casts dispersed from place to place, were gathered together in Jerusalem and the Kingdom, enjoying the Words, Statutes, and Judgments of the LORD in lustre and beauty, &c. according to the sundry expressions contained in this Psalme.

y Nicolaus Lyra in Postil. ad Ps. 147. ad initium

Scope of the Psalmist herein, is; To exite all, but especially Jerusalem and Sion, with the people of God therein, to praise the LORD, for his care of his Church and people, for his glorious Attributes, for his singular providences, in the course of Nature, but chiefly in his Spiritual Dispensation of his Ordinances (viz. His Words, Statutes, and Judgments i. e. His ten words the Moral Law, the Ceremonial and Judicial Lawes) to Israel, above all the Nations of the World.

Sect. IV. The Analysis or Principal Parts.

This Hortatory and Laudatory Psalme contains three Exhortations to the praising of the LORD, with Reasons or Motives thereunto severally annexed. As,

I. An Exhortation more general to all to praise the LORD; in the word, Halelu-JAH, v. 1. &c. This is enforced and urged,

1. From the excellency of this work it self, the praising of the LORD z. It being here commended, As, 1 Good. 2 Pleasant. 3 Comely, ver. 1.

z In laude Dei, ipse actus est Merces. Sim. de Cassia. apud Gloss. in Ps. 146.

2. From Gods singular care of his Church and people, typed out by Jerusalem. This his care is described, and illustrated, I. Described by sundry choice Acts thereof: viz. 1, Building Jerusalem. 2 Gathering together the out-casts of Israel, dispersed into other Countries, ver. 2. 3. Healing the broken in heart, binding up their dolours or griefs, v. 3. II. Illustrated, by Gods exact numbring, and Naming of all the starres: How much more exactly doth he number and know all his people by name, ver. 4.

3. From Gods eminent Attributes or perfections. As, 1. His Greatness. 2. Power. 3. Understanding, beyond number, ver. 5. 4. Providence, 1 Towards the good; setting upright the meek, 2. Towards the bad; debasing the wicked to the earth, ver. 6.

II. An Exhortation to a more Special Mode or Manner of praising the LORD, ver. 7. &c. Here,

1. This Special manner of praising the LORD is described: viz. It must be, 1. By singing in way of Answering one another: as the Hebrew word properly signifies, 2. With Confession, viz. of praise and praise-worthy things to God. 3. With Singing-Psalmes. 4. With melodious Musical Instruments, as with Harp, ver. 7.

2. This praise is urged, From consideration of Gods providential dispensations, 1. Towards Creatures insensitive. As in his, (1) Covering Heaven with Clouds, (2) Preparing rain for the Earth. And (3) Making barren Mountains to bud-forth Grasse, v. 8. 2. Towards Creatures irrational, (1) Feeding the beasts. (2) Feeding the fowles, i. young Ravens that cry: i. e. even the basest of fowles, young Ravens Synechdochically are mentiond in stead of all the rest. They say, when they are hatcheid, the old Ravens desert them by reason of their deformity and whitishness: whereupon through extremity of hunger they cry. And Gods providence yet strangely preserves and feeds them, as Writers a observe, ver. 9. 3. Toward s Creatures Rational, especially such as are truly religious: He takes pleasure in them, not according to any acquired or natural parts: but according to their fearing of him, and their patient-waiting for his mercy, ver. 10, 11.

a Et pullis Corvorum invocantibus eum] Dicit enim Isidorus; Quod corvi non ministrant cibum pullis suis, donec videant eos nigrescere plumis; quia tunc agnoscunt eos tanquam suos: sed antequam habeant plumas nigras nutriuntur rore cœlesti. Per hoc autem quod dicitur; Invocantibus eum,] non est intelligendum, quod ista invocatio sit per aliquam recognitionem in pullis existentem: sed quod unaquæque res per appetitum naturalem tendit ad suam perfectionem. Et sic dicuntur invocare Deum, a quo recipitur omnis perfectio & omne bonum. Nic. de Lyra in postil. ad Psal. 146. 9.

Tradunt qui Naturalem Historiam scripserunt, tantam esse ἀστοργίαν in Corvo, ut propter deformitatem, aut quod recens nati albescant per aliquot dies deserat pullos implumes, quos interea Deus alat mirabiliter vermiculis natis ex stercoribus & ex cadaverum carnibus in nidos congestis, donec nigrescant. Id verum sit, an non, in medio relinquo. Certè huc alludere videtur Psalmus & Job, c. 39. &c. Hen. Moller. Praelect. in Psal. 147. 9.

Quærunt Hebræi, cur pullorum corvorum mentio fiat potissimum? Hanc adferre soleæ rationem, Quod ij, statim ut nati sunt, à parentibus deserantur, qui illos, quippe albos, pro suis non agnoscant. Omitto quod fusè è veteribus Rabbinis addit, tunc è stercoribus natas muscas aut vermes (nam ושלוחי Jaltuschin, quid significet, ambigitur,) in eorum os, divinâ regente providentiâ, sese ingetere. Illa vera sint, necne in medio relinquo. Certè aliquid oportet esse, quod sententiæ ex libro Job allatæ locum dederit.

Plinius non longe abit ab Hebræis qui in Natural. Historiâ obliviosos esse Corvos scribit, & plerunque minimè ad nidos suos reverti: sed quadam ratione Instinctaque Naturæ hæc congerere ad suos nidos, quæ vermes possint creare, ex quibus relicti eorum pulli aluntur interdum. Alij censent, id quod fortasse magis est in promptu, Synechdochicos ex corvis universum volucrum genus est intelligendum. Sim. de Muis in Comment. ad Psal. 147. 9.

III. An Exhortion, directed to a special sort of persons whose duty it is more peculiarly to praise the LORD, viz. To Gods own Church and people, in Jerusalem and Sion, singular Types of Gods Church and people, ver. 12, &c. Where note,

1. The Object so praised: Described, 1. By his supream essence; The LORD. 2. By his Covenant-Relation to them; Thy God.

2. The Acts to be performed to this Object, 1. Praise. 2. Laud. Which in the Hebrew seems to be more emphatical: as was noted on Ps. 117. 1.

3. The parties who are to perform these Acts of Duty; Jerusalem: Sion: ver. 12.

4. The Arguments or Motives inducing to this performance of praise to God. Drawn.

(1) From Gods singular blessings upon Jerusalem and the Kingdome; viz. 1. Strengthening the Bars of Jerusalem's Gates: protecting her. 2. Blessing her Citizens or Inhabitants; called her sons within her, ver. 13. 3. Stablishing Peace in her borders in her Land and Kingdome. 4. Abundantly storing her with plenty of food: fat of wheat Synechdochically being being put for all food, or necessary provision, v. 14.

(2) From Gods Providence seasonably ordering the course of Nature, in the vicissitudes of natural things, for their good. Here are laid down, I. The Cause of all natural revolutions and vicissitudes; His will, and word runing swiftly on Earth; i. e. the efficacious and speedy force of his command, of his All-ruling providence whereby he effectually and speedily, even as by a word of command, orders and alters all things. ver. 15. II. The vicissitudes and alterations of natural things themselves. 1. He brings Winter at his pleasure; (1) Giving Snow, like Wool. (2) Scattering-abroad the Hoare-frost like ashes, ver. 16. (3) Casting-forth his ice, like morsels. Which is illustrated by the extremity of his cold. Thus he turns Summer into Winter, v. 17. 2. He contrariwise, at a word, brings the Spring, dissolving the winters cold and frost by his soft-winds making a kindly thaw, and turning them again into waters, v. 18.

(3) But especially, From Gods peculiar favour to Israel, his Church and People, in conferring upon them Spirituals, viz. His Ordinances, 1. His Words: i. e. His ten Words, (as his ten Commandements the Moral-Law is stiled, Deut. 4. 13.) 2. His Statutes: i. e. His Ceremonial-Lawes. 3. His Judgment: i. e. his judicial Law, ver. 19. All which he Amplifies, by an Antithesis between his dealing, in regard of his Lawes and spiritual Ordinances farre otherwise with Israel, then with any other Nation in the World, to all which his Ordinances and Judgements were not vouchsafed nor known. And so he concludes the Psalm, as he began it, with an Exhortation to divine praises; Hallelu-JAH, ver. 20.

Sect. III. The Kind, Penman, Occasion, and Scope.

The Kind of this Psalm, 1. As the Outward Form or Manner of penning it, is Untituled; having no Title prefixed to it in the Hebrew. The Greek Version prefixeth this Title; Halelu-JAH of Haggai and Zachary. So also the Æthiopick Version. The Syriack hath it; Of Haggai and Zachary ſ. But as Lyra notes, this seems done by some Translator or Expositor. And in this Psalm there seems no colour at all for referring it to Haggai or Zechary t. 2. As to the Subject-Matter of it, it is Mixt, Laudatory, and Hortatory: and is wholly spent in Exhortations and Invitations of all sorts of creatures, Superior and inferior, to the Divine praises of the LORD, for his power, wisdom, goodness, &c. shining-forth in his works, but especially in his Collection, Protection, and Affection towards his Church and People Israel. Not only Angels and Men, but even all mute Creatures, made with wonderful wisdom, and continuing in their ranks and orders wherein they were created, do in their kind praise the LORD: The Rational Creatures, by Speech; The irrational, by Silence representing the wonderful work-manship of their Creator. So that as one saith u; They are tacit Praisers of his great Workmanship and loud Preachers.

Penman of this Psalm, is not certainly known.

Occasion of Writing it, is as uncertain. David is supposed to be the Penman of it, and upon that General occasion forementioned on Psalm 145. Sect. 3.

Scope is evident; viz. To invite and incite all sorts of Creatures Superior and Inferiour to praise the LORD in their kind, and set forth his wonderful perfections and Excellencies: The LORD having made all Creatures for the manifestation of his matchless Glory.

Sect. IV. The Analysis, or Principal Parts.

The Invitation or Exhortation to the Creatures to Praise the LORD, is laid down in this Psalme, More Generally, and More Specially.

I. More Generally, to all sorts; Praise-yee-JAH. With which the Psalme begins and ends.

II. More Specially, to the special sorts of Creatures, Which are here distributed into Superiour, and Inferiour.

1. The Superiour Creatures, i. e. The Celestial Creatures, are exhorted to praise God, in and from the Heavens, ver. 1. &c. Here we are to note,

(1) The Distribution of the Superiour and Celestial Creatures, which are to praise the LORD. And they are, 1. In the third Heaven; Angels. And his Angelical Hosts, verse 2. 2. In the second Heaven; Sun, Moon, and Stars of light, verse 3. 3. The first Heavens, called; the Heavens of Heavens, i. e. The loweſt and meaneſt of Heavens, think some x, As the Servant of Servants imports the meaneſt and most inferiour Servant. To take this for the highest Heavens, as some do y, I cannot so well approve: both because those Heavens were mentioned before, in verse 1. 2. and also because that which here follows; the Waters above the Heavens, leads us rather to the former Interpretation. The Creatures in these Heavens, are; The Waters contained in the Clouds of Heaven, verse 4.

x As in Jo. Pond in Exodus. Pſ. 148. 4.

y Mo. de Lyra in Pſ. 148. 4.

(2) The Causes or Reasons why these superior Creatures must praise the LORD, are; 1. Because, he created them; by his Word of Command, verse 5. 2. Because, he hath permanently established them in their State. 3. Because, he hath appointed to every of them A Statute or Rule, which shall not be passed, ver. 6.

2. The Inferiour, or Terrestrial Creatures. are exhorted &c. v. 7. Here also you have

(1) The Distribution of the Inferiour Creatures. Exhorted to praise the LORD. And they are either, I. Aquatile. As, 1. Dragons. i. e. Huge Sea-fishes, Whales, &c. 2. And all Deeps, wherein they live, verse 7. II. Aerial; as the Meteors, 1. Fire. viz. in thundring and lightning, &c. 2. Hailе. 3. Snow. 4. Vapour. 5. Stormy Winde, or Whirlewind. All which are Amplified, by their subjection to Gods all ruling Word, verse 8, III. Terrestrial. And these are, 1. Creatures In-sensitive, without sense; As (1) Mountains. (2) Hills. (3) Fruit-Trees. (4) Timber-Trees, as Cedars, verse 9. 2. Creatures Sensitive but Irrational. As, (1) The Wild-Beast. (2) All Cattel. (3) The Creeping-thing. (4) The feathered fowl, verse 10. 3. The Rational Creature, Mankind. And these of whatsoever (1) Order; Kings, Subjects, Princes, Judges, verse. 11. (2) Sex; Men, or Maids. (3) Age; Old men with children, ver. 12.

(2) The Reasons why all these are Exhorted to Praise the LORD. viz. 1. Because The Name of the LORD alone is most highly advanced, and his Glorious Majesty is farre above both Earth and Heaven, verse 13. 2. Because, He Exalts the Horne of his people. He Exalts their Power, Glory, &c. Amplified by the fruit, effect or Consequent thereof; The praise of all his Saints. i. e. Which Glory or Horne so Exalted is their Praise: Or, Which is and should be an Argument, and Matter of praise to them. 3. Because, He hath brought his people Israel near unto himself in Covenant, Holy Relations, and sweet Communion. And so he concludes the Psalme as he began with an Hortatory Halelu-JAH. ver. 14.

Sect. I. The Summary Contents.

Herein are, 1. A vehement Exhortation unto Israel, the Church and People of God, to celebrate the LORD with singular and Extraordinary praises, ver. 1. to 4. 2. The Arguments or Reasons why Israel should so praise him. Which are drawn, (1) From the Extraordinary favours of God unto them, verse 4. 5. 2. From the singular and Eminent Power which they shall have over their Enemies, verse 7, 8, 9.

Sect. II. The Version out of the Hebrew.

1. a PRaise-yee-the-LORD Sing to the LORD
A New triumphant Song:
His Worthy praise to him afford
In b his Saints Holy-throng.
2. Let Israel rejoyce and sing,
c In-them that-him-have-made:
Let Sons of Sion in their King
Be now exulting-glad.

3. Let them * with Flute melodiously
Praise his renowned Name:
With Harp and Timbrel pleasantly
To him let-them- sing psalme.
4. For in his people every one
The LORD doth-pleasure-take:
The meek-ones with Salvation
He-beautiful-will-make.

5. The Saints, in glory shall-be-glad:
Shout on their Beds shall they.
6. The Exaltations of God
d Within their mouth shall stay:
And in their hand a two-edg'd Sword.
7. On Heathens for-to-do
Just vengeance: on the folk abhorr'd
Correction also.

8. To bind their Kings magnifical
In strongest Chains at last:
And their-renowned-Nobles all
In Iron fetters fast.
9. To do on them (upon complaints)
The judgement on record:
This honour is to all his Saints
Then still g Praise-ye-the-LORD.

Sect. III. The Kind, Penman, Occasion and Scope.

The Kind of this Psalme, 1. As to the Mode and Outward Forme of writing it, is Untituled: Having no Title perfixed in the Hebrew Original: 2. As to the Matter of it, It is Mixt: Hortatory and Laudatory Yea Exhorting Israel to an Extraordinary lauding of the LORD, for his eminent blessings upon his People, and the great power they shall have over their Conquered Enemies. Under which Corporal power some h conceive the Psalmist shadows out that excellent Spiritual power which the Church shall exert and inflict upon the ungodly by the Doctrine and other Ordinances of Christ after his incarnation, Matth. 16. 19. Joh. 20. 23. 1 Cor. 5. throughout. And so they account this Psalme in part Prophetical. This Power of the Saints over their Enemies, some i referre to their judging of the World with Christ at his second coming, According to that of the Apostle; Do yee not know that the Saints shall judge the World? ——Know yee not that we shall judge Angels? 1 Cor. 6. 2, 3. And some k interpret this their power, of their Corporal, Spiritual, and last Glorious power over their Enemies at the Judgement-day. Our English Translators understand it of the Churches Spiritual power onely, as appears by the Contents which they have prefixed; 1. The Prophet Exhorteth to praise God for his love to the Church. And for that Power which he hath given to the Church to Rule the Consciences of men.] And yet here they have unadvisedly and dangerously described that power: Seeing it is Gods sole Prerogative to Rule the Consciences of men.

Penman of this Psalme, is not certainly to be determined upon.

Occasion of it is also as Uncertain. They l who think this Psalme was written upon occasion of Davids victorious subduing of his Heathen-Enemies round about him, and of his taking care for the Ark, solemn Assemblyes, publick worship of God, and the House of God, that they all might be set in order, 2 Sam. 5. and 6. and 7. and 8. are of Opinion that David was Penman of it, As I formerly noted on Psal. 145. Sect 3. Others m suppose that this Psalme was penned by some other Prophet, a little before or not long after the Jews deliverance from the Babylonish Captivity. And that then they were to sing New Songs, and to frequent solemne Assemblyes of Saints, as verse 1. Which they could not do in a Strangers Land. And that their victories over their Babylonian Enemies, that had long oppressed them, were but Præludium's and Pledges to them of their greater Victories for the future, especially under the Messiah, that should subdue all Nations to him and his Church by the Gospel, &c. ver. 6, 7, 8, 9. I leave all in medio for the judicious to ponder upon.

Scope of this Psalme, is; to exhort and incite the Church of God his Israel, to celebrate the LORD with eminent and extraordinary Praises, both for his singular favours vouchsafed unto them, and for the victorious Power which they shall obtain and exercise over even the greatest of their Enemies, according to his written Word: And this not onely Corporally, but also and especially Spiritually.

Sect. IV. The Analysis, or Principal Parts.

As in the former Psalme All sorts of Creatures are invited and exhorted to praise God ordinarily: So in this Psalme The Israel of God and sons of Sion, even the whole Church and People of God, are exhorted to Praise the LORD, and that Extraordinarily. As that, so this Psalme begins and ends with Halelu-JAH: and is wholly bestowed in Divine praises, and forceible inducements to those praises. In this Plasme therefore are especially two Parts.

I. An Exhortation of the Church and people of God solemnly to Praise the LORD, ver. 1. &c. This praise whereto they are Exhorted, is Described.

1. By the Object of it, to whom it is due and to be performed, viz. God, who is here set forth by, 1. His essential Name; JEHOVAH. 2. His Name of efficiency; His Maker n. Whether it be understood, Absolute, absolutely in respect of Creation: Or Secundum quid, Respectively in some respect onely as he was the Author of their Redemption, Deliverance, Prosperity, &c. The sense amounts much to one. In the Hebrew the word is plural; His Makers o. Which some think is so put for Honours sake: Others, to insinuate the Mystery of the Trinity, Father, Son, and Holy-Ghost. 3. His name of Government; their King, viz. To Reign over them, Rule and Govern them as his People, by his peculiar providence, and Spiritual influence of his Word and Spirit. In all these are couched tacit Arguments and Motives to the praising of God.

And finally of the last Victory over all the Enemies power, which the Church united to its head shall obtain at his last coming, Revel. 2. 26. Jo. Diodat. in his Annot. in Psal. 141. 6.

4. His Makers] The Father, the Word and the Holy-Ghost; which three are one, 1 Joh. 5. 7. The myſtery of the Trinity is in the Hebrew phraſe; So in many others, As; Let us make man in our Image, Gen. 1. 26. Where is God my Makers? Job. 35. 10. Thy Makers is thine Husbands, Iſai. 54. 5. Remember thy Creators, Eccl. 12. 1. and ſundry the like, God alſo is our Maker both in Nature, and Grace. See Pſ. 100. 3. H. Alſtead in his Annot. on Pſ. 149. 2.

2. By the General Quality of this praiſe. Which muſt be exquiſite, ſingular, and extraordinary; A New Song.

3. By the ſolemnity of it. It muſt be performed publickly; in the Church or Congregation of Saints. Which imports a promiſe or prophecy of Reſtauration of Gods publick Worſhip and Ordinances, and of the ſolemn Church-aſſemblies, And may ſuit to Davids dayes: or to the Captives return from Babylon.

4. By the Acts of praiſe, or Adjuncts thereunto Annexed, viz. 1. Inwardly, Rejoycing. Gladſomneſs. 2. Outwardly, Singing. Praiſing. Uſing of Muſical Inſtruments to ſtir up their affections as Flute Timbrel, Harp.

5. By the Subjects of this Duty, The parties Exhorted thereunto, viz. Iſrael, The Sons of Sion. Even the whole Church of God among the Jewes. Analogically, All the Churches of Chriſt alſo among the Nations according to the New-Teſtment-way of praiſing the LORD, for theſe and like mercies, hinted in this Pſalme. All theſe particulars are interwoven. and evidently contained in v. 1, 2, 3.

II. The Arguments or Reaſons why the Church ſhould thus praiſe the LORD, v. 4. &c. And they are drawn,

1. From conſideration of the LORD's ſingular and extraordinary favours towards his people. As, 1. His great love unto his People, taking pleaſure in them. This the fountain of all his bleſſings. 2. His Salvation, and deliverance from evils and Enemies, Promiſed and performed to the meek. This is Amplified, by the Adjunct Beauty or Glory attending ſuch their Salvation, ver. 4. 3. The ſingular and eminent matter of joy which he will vouchſafe unto his Saints. Amplified, by (1) The Acts thereof; Being gladſome. and ſhouting-joyfully. (2.) The Adjunct of it; in Glory. Or with Glory. Denoting the high degree and eminency of their joy. (3) The ſubject-place, where; upon their Beds, in their private retirements, ver. 5.

2. From Conſideration of the Victories and extraordinary Power which his Church and Saints ſhall have over their Enemies. Here I. The eminency of their Praiſes of the LORD are deſcribed by, 1. Their Nature, The Exaltations of God. 2. Their vehemency; in their throat. i. e. aloud ſpoken of, vehemently commemorated, ver. 6. beginning. II. Their Victories and Power over their Enemies, the Arguments of ſuch praiſe, are ſet forth and illuſtrated, 1 By the Inſtrumental means thereof; A two-edged ſword in their hand. Heb. A Sword of two mouths. The Root being Emphatically doubled in the Hebrew Word, ver. 6. 2. By the Objects of their victories and power, their Enemies deſcribed by, (1) Their Multitude and Quality; Heathens; People (2) Their Magnitude and Dignity; Kings: Nobles. 3. By the Acts of their Victory and Power; (1.) Doing vengeance on Heathens. (2.) Doing Corrections or Rebukes upon the People. Real rebukes, not verbal. (3) Binding Captiv'd Kings in chaines, and Nobles in fetters of Iron, ver. 7, 8. 4. By the Limitation or Regulation of all this Power. It muſt be, (1) Judgment, (2) Judgment written. Judgment according to the rule of Gods written Word: not of private paſſion or revenge. 5. By the Honour and high-Dignity which is thus devolved by the LORD upon all his Saints. Now an intentive and judicious eye may eaſily diſcern, That all theſe Particulars may be accommodated to Iſrael in Davids dayes, or to the Jews about the time of their return from the Babyloniſh Captivity, when the Glorious Lord ſo wonderfully daſhed in pieces the power of all their Enemies, delivered them from them, and gave them power over them. And, that all theſe paſſages from ver. 6. &c. may be expounded, not onely Literally touching Iſraels Corporal Victories over their Corporal Enemies, Heathens, &c. but alſo Spiritually and Myſtically touching the Spiritual victories and power which the Church and Saints of God, in all after ages ſince Chriſt, and to and at the end of the World, ſhall have and exerciſe over their Spiritual Enemies according to his Word, by Jeſus Chriſt aſſiſting them. After all this the Pſalmiſt cloſeth up this Pſalme, as he began, with his Hortatory Halelu-JAH, ver. 9.

Sect. III. The Kind, Penman Occaſion, and Scope

The Kind of this Pſalme, is; 1. As to the Outward Mode or Forme of penning it, Untituled; No Title being prefixed hereunto in the Hebrew. 2. As to the Order of it, Laſt. Concluding this precious Book of Hymnes or Praiſes, with the praiſes of the LORD emphatically. And beginning, as alſo ending with that Laudatory Halelu-JAH. 3. As to the Subject-Matter of it, Mixt, Laudatory and Hortatory. Exhorting unto the Holy praiſes of the LORD, moſt pathetically. It ſpeaks nothing almoſt but Praiſe. The word [Praiſe] is uſed in this ſhort Pſalme thirteen Times, as Kimchi i obſerves: He ſaith it is in reſpect of Gods thirteen Attributes, whereby he Governs i Sim. de Mak in Art. Pſal. 150. Illa attributa non recenſet.

verus the world. And nine Musical Instruments are here mentioned to praise the LORD withal, viz. such as were in use under the Old Testament, during the Churches Minority, God appointing them an outwardly pompous and glorious way of Worship, thereby to detain them in his own Service, and preserve them from the Idolatrous-worships of the Heathens. This Psalme is probably thought, saith one k, to be peculiarly directed and intended to the Levites, whose office it was peculiarly to celebrate the LORD'S praises with musicall Instruments in the house of God. Whence it was, that the Levites were wont mutually to incite one another thereunto by this Psalme. Unto these nine Musical Instruments, Voices, or Breath, is added, as transcending them all, ver. 6. Under these Musical Instruments Figuratively or Typically (as some I conceive) are set forth the perfections and excellencies that should be in Divine Praises, which we ought to perform with all possible zeal, care, joy, alacrity, and variety. And, whereas after the Exhortation to praise God with all sorts of Musical Instruments, which was more peculiar to the Jewes and Old Testament-worship, he adds; Let every Breath praise JAH: This is supposed by Calvin m, to contain a tacit Prophecy in it, of Gods adding the Gentiles and joyning them at last in one Symphony with the Jewes, to worship God with the daily Sacrifice of Praises, till at last being gathered into the Kingdome of Heaven, they shall with the Elect Angels sing unto the LORD a perpetual Halelu-JAH. And thus this Psalme may in part be accounted Prophetical.

Penman of it, is supposed by some to be David.

Occasion, is thought to be his extraordinary joy and enlargement of heart, for Gods wonderful and manifold goodness to him, in bringing him at last to the Throne, subjecting his people under him, subduing his enemies to him, and adding many spiritual favours to him, &c. As was noted on Ps. 145. Sect. 3.

Scope, is; To exhort Gods people, but especially the Levites, to praise God for his singular perfections and actions, with all sorts of Musical-Instruments, and with all Breath: without the cordial concurrence whereof, no Musical-Instruments are of any account at all with God.

Sect. IV. The Analysis, or Principal Parts.

In this Laudatory Epilogue or Conclusion of this whole Book of Psalmes, are

I. An Earnest and most Vehemet Exhortation to praise the LORD, thirteen several times repeated in these few words, especially for his excellent perfections and actions. As, 1. In, or For his Sanctity, or Holiness. Some render it; Holy place, i. e. Heaven: His glorious Sanctuary. The former Interpretation seems better: For his Holiness. 2. In or For his wonderful Power or Strength, singularly manifested in the Out-spread-Firmament. Thence called, The Firmament of his Strength, Wherein his power still shines to the perpetual wonder of the world, ver. 1. 3 In, or For his Power, or powerful Acts: viz. In sustentation and administration of all things, ever since the Creation, especially the affairs of his Church. 4 According to his mighty Majesty, or multitude of his Greatnesse: discovered for his peoples benefit against all evils and enemies, v. 2.

II. A Direction and Invitation to his people, how and in what manner they should externally praise him: viz.

1. With all sorts of musical Instruments, 1. The Trumpet. 2. The Psaltery. 3. The Harp, v. 3, 4. The Timbrell or Drum. 5. The Flute. 6. Stringed-Instruments. This is comprehensive. Some render it; Virginals, Scarce so well. The word so rendred being too much restrained in its sense. 7. The Organ. Heb. A lovely-Instrument, the delightful Instrument. Fitly so stiled, for it is one of the most pleasant and joyful. Job 21. 12. and 30. 31. This, and the Harp, are of all other the most ancient Musical-Instruments mentioned in any Author, or in the Bible it self, which is most Ancient, Gen. 4. 21. ver. 4. 8. Well-sounding Cymbals, 9. Loud-sounding Cymbals, ver. 5. Now all these more specially had reference to the Levites, and the manner of the Worship under the Old Testament, while the Church was in her Minority. Whether now under the New Testament it be lawful or convenient to worship the LORD in our publique Church Assemblies with such Instrumental-Musick; Consult the Authors alledged here in the Margin, for brevity sake.

2. With all breath, or voices. Let every breath praise JAH: i. e. Either, Every Creature that hath breath, compare Rev. 5. 13. Or Rather, every breath of mankind in all Nations of the Gentiles as well as Jews: Let them all joyn harmoniously, as it were in one Consort, to praise the the LORD. And so it tacitly propheceyeth of the Calling of the Gentiles, and their Incorporation into one body with the Jews to sing Halelu-JAH to the LORD. And so he closeth up this Psalm, and therewith this whole Book of Psalmes. And therewith I desire (with all thankfulness to the LORD that performeth all things for me) to shut up this my Exposition and Elucidation of this whole Book, with that triumphant and heavenly word, Halelu-JAH, v. 6. Halelu-JAH: and again I say; Halelu-JAH.

These sweetest Psalmes begin with The happinesses of the godly, Psal. 1. 1. 2, 3. They end with the Halelu-JAH's of the Saints, Psal. 146. 147. 148, 149, 150. True Godliness leads to blessedness: both godliness and blessedness terminate in Halelu-JAH's. We do but stammer-out, Halelu-JAH, on Earth: We shall perfectly speak out, triumphantly shrill-out, Halelu-JAH in Heaven. O when shall we once ascend up thither, where Halelu-JAH shall both begin and end our praises: yea where our Halelu-JAH shall once begin, but never end. Where all the Angels shall sing, Halelu-JAH and all the glorified Saints shall Answer them: Amen: Halelu-JAH. Where the whole Heavens shall victoriously ring with Halelu-JAH. Where the Beatifick Vision of our God in Christ immediately face to face shall even intrance and ravish us into an eternal Halelu-JAH to him that sits upon the Throne, and to the Lamb for ever and for ever. O how my Soul longs to hear, yea to bear a part in that Celestial Melody: Tune up mine heart still more and more to all intensiveness in these desires. Make haste, my beloved, and be thou like to a Roe, or to a young Hart upon the Mountains of Spices. Cant. 8. 14. Lord Christ thou hast said; Surely I come quickly. And mine heart returnes the Eccho; Amen, Even so, Come LORD JESUS, Rev. 22. 20.

Amen, Halelu-JAH.

PROVERBS.

Sect. I. Order.

THus of the DOCTRINAL Book compiled especially by King David, viz. The Book of PSALMES. Next consider we of those Doctrinal Books which were penned by King Solomon, a the wisest of Kings, and a special b Type of Jesus Christ, the Lord of Lord of Lords, and King of Kings. King Solomon's Books (according to the several Doctrine, and Subiect-matters contained in them) are either, 1. Proverbial, as PROVERBS. 2. Penitential, as ECCLESIASTES. 3. Nuptial, touching the Espousals of Solomon and Pharaoh's daughter, the Type; of Christ and his Church, the Truth; as SONG OF SONGS, OR CANTICLES. Of all the Books which Solomon wrote, these three onely are received (said c Augustine) as Canonical.

a 1 King. 3. 12. and 4. 29.
b See Ps. 45 throughout, and Cant. 3. 6. to 11.
c Post hunc regnavit eidem populo universo Solomon ejus filius, qui ut supra dictum est, patre suo vivente cœpit regnare. Hic bonis initiis malos exitus habuit: Quippe secundæ res, quæ sapientium animos fatigant, magis huic obfuerunt, quàm profuit ipsa sapientia, etiam nunc & deinceps memorabilis, & tunc longè latéque laudata. Propheràsse etiam ipse reperitur in suis libris, qui tres recepti sunt in authoritatem Canonicam: Proverbia, Ecclesiastes, & Canticum Canticorum. Alii verò duo, quorum unus Sapientia, alter Ecclesiasticus dicitur, propter eloquii quorundam similitudinem, ut Salomonis dicantur, obtinuit consuetudo. Non autem esse ipsius non dubitant doctiores, &c. Aug. de Civ. Dei. l. 17. c. 20. Tom. 3. Videatur etiam ibid. Lud. Vives.

Sect. II. Time.

It is hard to say certainly at what time these several Books were penn'd by Solomon. Some are of opinion, that Ecclesiastes and Canticles were written in Solomon's old age after his Repentance. Probably it may be thought, (as the matter of the Books intimate) Canticles was penned in his younger d years when his affections were more warme, active, lively in Spirituals, in sweet experimental communion with Christ: Proverbs, in his ripe, manly age, when his prudence and parts were at highest, most clear, grave, solid, setled: And Ecclesiastes in his old-age, after all the vain courses wherein he had so miserably lost himself, whereupon he penned these his Penitential Retractations.

d Mercerus thinks Solomon penned Canticles in his old age. J. Mercer. præfat. in Job ad init

Sect. III. Name.

I. Solomon's Proverbial Book is called the PROVERBS OF SOLOMON; because though it contain other's Proverbs, yet most are Solomon's. In Hebrew, משלי שלמה Mishle Shelomoh, viv. either Similitudes. or excelling sentences, that for their wisdome, weight, excellency, overcome and bear rule over the rest; from mashal, which notes dominion.

Sect. IV. Penman.

This Book was penned, probably, not by one, but by divers: and that not at one, but at several times. Solomon penned the e nine first Chapters, in that Order as they are, as also c. 10. to c. 25. Solomon was Author of the Proverbs also, from c. 25. to c. 30. But f the men of Hezekiah King of Judah copied them out, Probably, they collected them out of g other writings of Solomon, and ranked them in this Order wherein we now have them. h Junius thinks they extracted these Proverbs out of the Records of the Acts of Solomon, and digested them into a Body; most of these Proverbs appertaining to Ethical and Civil Administration.

g H. Alt. pra. Theol. l. 2. c. 11. T. Cartw. com. in Prov. 25. 1.
h Jun. Annot. in Prov. 25. 1.

The thirtieth chapter was penned by i Agur sonne of Jakeh. Of him we reade elsewhere no further mention in Scripture. He was k a Prophet; His Proverbial Prophecy is annexed to Solomon's Proverbs, perhaps because of mutual resemblance between them.

i Prov. 30. 1.
k Prov. 30. 1.

The 31. chapter contains the Proverbial Instructions, with which Bathsheba trained up Solomon (here called Lemuel,) in his tender years, which Instructions K. Solomon committed afterwards to writing; as l learned men judge.

Sect. V. Scope.

The Scope of this Book of PROVERBS is, To instruct men in deepest mysteries of all true wisdome and understanding, the height and perfection whereof is, The true knowledge of Gods will, and the fixed fear of the LORD,

To this end this Book is filled with choice succinct Sententious Aphorismes, Adages or Proverbs, compendiously comprizing in themselves distinct Doctrines, Duties, &c. of piety to God, Equity and Charity to man, and of Sobriety towards our selves, Hence m Augustine ——The Book of Proverbs rightly understood, is almost all of force to informe pious manners.

m Ac primum de proverbiis qui liber si bene intelligatur ad mores pios informandos pene totus valebit Arg. Ser. p. 928. B. Tom. 3. Basil. 1569.

Other Books of Scripture, like a curious web of silk or gold, have a Methodical contexture in them one thing being so enterwoven with, and depending upon another, that they cannot be opened, or understood, without one another. But this Book, for the greatest part of it, like an Heap of pearls, a costly Box of Gold-rings, or rich Cabinet of Jewels and precious-stones, is without all such contexture or dependance, every Proverb making an entire sense of it self, without others.

Sect. VI. Principal Parts.

In the Book of PROVERBS consider, 1. The General-Preface to the whole Book. 2. The Substance of the Book it self.

The GENERAL PREFACE to the whole Book of Proverbs in the nine first chapters, which hath a methodical texture and coherence in it self; wherein note, 1. The Inscription. 2. The Proposition. I.

I. The Inscription, containing, 1. The title denoting the name and principal Penman of this Book, Chap. I. ver. 1. 2. The Scope or intent of the Book, ver. 2. to 7. Chap. 1.

II. The maine Proposition contained in this whole Preface laid down, 1. More Generally. 2. More particularly

1. More

1. More Generally, and Summarily, viz. 1. In the fear of the LORD as the head and root of all; 2. In wisdome and Instruction, as the Members or Branches thereof, ver. 7.

2. More Particularly, these things are opened and urged in all that followes, viz. 1. Doctrines of true wisdome in c. 1, 2, 3, 4. 2. Doctrines of Prudence for obtaining and retaining true wisedom, in chap. 5. and 6. 3. Confirmation of all these Doctrines both of Wisdome and Prudence in Chap. 7, 8, and 9.

I. Doctrines of true wisdome, are divers, viz. I. That wisdome and instruction is to be hearkened to, and held fast, chap. 1. ver. 8. This is urged upon divers grounds, as, 1. The commodity of wisdom, ver. 9. 2. The Discommodity and mischief of foolish sinful wayes, ver. 10. to 20. 3. Wisdom's loud and earnest invitation of all to accept it, ver. 20. to the end of the chap. 4. Manifold alluring promises, to such as duly incline to and search after wisdome, Chap. 2. Chap. II. throughout. II. That true wisdome consists in our true fear, faith, and obedience to the LORD, denying our own understanding, sense, and carnal studies, Chap. III. 1. to 13. Which therefore are Chap. 3. urged. 1. By promises to, and praises of this wisdom, ver. 13. to 27. 2. By threatnings and dispraises of the contrary, ver. 27. to the end of the chap. 3. By Chap. 4. Solomons own inviting example, Chap. IV. 1. to 5. 4. By many sweet benefits promised to this wisdome, ver. 5. to 14. 5. By the great disparity betwixt the the condition of the godly wise, that fear God, &c. and wicked fools that fear him not, &c. ver. 14. to the end of the chap.

II. Doctrines of Prudence, for gaining and retaining true wisdom. Herein Solomon, I. Dissuades from divers evils opposite to true wisdom; as 1. From Chap. 5. pursuing carnal lusts after strange women, Chap. V. throughout. 2. From imprudent and inconsiderate Chap. 6. Acts or Offices, Chap. VI. 1. to 6. 3. From sloth, and sluggish negligence in Duties, ver. 6. to 12. 4. From wickedness in departing from well-doing, ver. 12. to 20. II. Perswades to the contrary studies and endeavours, ver. 20. to the end of the chap.

III. Confirmation of all these Doctrines both of Wisdome and Prudence, 1. From an example or instance of a foolish young man, whom Solomon himself had observed to be brought to misery by whorish
Chap. 7. enticements, Chap. VII. throughout. 2. From the Testimony of God, and his Eternal wisdome, viz. the Son of God, admirably described himself as most desirous to be accepted, and if accepted able to make all sufficiently happy, Chap. VIII. throughout, and Ch. IX. ver. 1. to 13. illustrated by the opposite folly of being ensnared with strange women, ver. 13. to the end of the chap. Chap. 8. Chap. 9.

THE SUBSTANCE of the Book it self contain certain compendious Adages, select Proverbs, full of wisdome and knowledge, wholly independent on one another; and therefore it's a vain thing to think to find any Order and method among them. Only we might easily reduce and refer them to several Heads or Ranks, and so bring some method to them. [n] Some thus Methodize the Proverbs. II.

[n] Thus J. Diodat. in Anal. of the Prov.

The PROVERBS contain either,

I. Ethicks, or Morals, viz. Matters appertaining to Moral vertues, especially to the 4 cheif cardinal vertues. 1. Prudence. 2. Justice. 3. Temperance 4. Fortitude.

II. Politicks, viz. Matters belonging to Civil Policies, the Governours and Government thereof. Here are many things concerning, 1. Kings. 2. Counsellers of State. 3 Subjects.

III. Oeconomicks, viz. Matters appertaining to Domestical or Family-Relations, as 1. Husbands and Wives. 2. Parents and Children. 3. Masters and Servants.

Some [o] refer the Proverbs to the Decalogue, shewing the mutual Relation betwixt the Proverbs and the Decalogue, in distinct Tables, partly referring the several Proverbs to the several Commandements, partly applying the several Commandements to the several Proverbs. Both which wayes are very useful.

[o] Thus T. Cartw. in Tab. post. Com. in. Proverb.

Now these Proverbs were either

1. Solomons own Proverbs, 1. Written and digested by himself. As all those Proverbs from Chap. X. ver. 1. to Chap. XXV. ver. 1. 2. Written by himself (probably scattered in other his writings) but collected and copyed out by the men of Hezekiah King of Judah; likely at Hezekiah's command. As those Proverbs from Chap. XXV. 1. to Chap. XXX. ver. 1. Ch. 10. to Ch 25. to Chap. 30.

2. Other's Proverbs of like nature by way of Appendix annexed to Solomons, viz. 1. Agur's Proverbs (called his Prophecy) Chap. XXX. throughout. 2. Solomons Mothers Proverbs (viz. Bathsheba's) which she taught Solomon. Which Solomon by guidance of Gods spirit wrote. Chap. XXXI. throughout. Chap. 31.

ECCLESIASTES.

Sect. I. Order, and Name.

II. SOLOMON's Penitential Book is Ecclesiastes. Touching the Order of it, see before the Proverbs. As for the Name of it, The Hebrews call it דברי קהלת Dibre Kobeleth, viz. THE WORDS OF THE PREACHER, as it is translated in our Bibles: or of the CONGREGATOR, or Gatherer-together, as the Hebrew imports from קהל Kahal, to Congregate, Gather together, or Assemble. And (as a Mercerus notes) this Root properly intends the Congregating of men, not of other things. The Hebrews commonly conceive, Solomon is here called the Assembler, Congregator, or Gatherer together; because he so gathered wisdom together. But rather, because Solomon uttered his words openly in an Ecclesiastical Assembly gathered together, Preached to an Assembly, &c. as Buxtorfius, [b] Mercerus after Midras, think. Hence that of Solomon's [c] assembling the Elders together at the bringing up of the Ark, is alledged. And upon like grounds our Translators seem to have translated it, Preacher; because Solomon assembled the people together, that he might speak or preach heavenly wisdome unto them. In the the Heb. this word is not in the Masculine, but in the Feminine Gender; and so may be translated exactly; The Congregatrix, or the Preachereſſe. But why ſhould this word be thus given to Solomon in the Feminine Gender? Anſw. 1. Not (as d ſome think) becauſe Solomon penned this Book, being now very old when his ſtrength was languiſhing and weak like a womans, (though he wrote this Book in his old age.) 2. Nor as any peculiar Dialect of this tongue, uſing this word ſometimes femininely, as סוֹפֶרֶת e Sophereth, a Feminine word aſcribed to a man. 3. But either in reference to that wiſdome which was in Solomon; as if not ſo much Solomon, as Wiſdome it ſelf, ſpake here, which in the Proverbs is brought in as ſpeaking; or in reference to Solomon's ſoul which was his better part. Both which come much to one, thinks that learned f Mercerus, and g Buxtorfius. In Greek, ἐκκλησιάστης. As in Latine, Eccleſiaſtes; in Engliſh, the Preacher: becauſe Solomon being furniſhed with extraordinary Wiſdome, upon his own manifold ſad experience touching the vanity of all things in this World, beſides the Religion and the ſincere fear of God, preacheth the ſame to the Church for the inſtruction and warning of all Gods people by his own example.

Sect. II. Penman and Time of writing.

That K. Solomon was Penman of this Book, is evident by the Hebrew Title prefixed, The words of Eccleſiaſtes, [or, the Preacher] ſon of David, King in Jeruſalem, Now David had no ſon King in Jeruſalem, but Solomon. The ſtile alſo, & manner of expreſſion throughout the Book confirms the ſame, becauſe the Author of this Book reciting his experiments with the Creatures, ſpeaks of them in the firſt perſon, as his own ſad experiments: which were peculiar to Solomon, as the things themſelves evidence.

Solomon ſeems to have written this Book in his extream old-age, as one of his laſt acts, 2 Chron. 9. 29. For, the Subject-matter of the Book plainly intimateth, it was penned both after Solomons fall, and after or upon his riſing again by Repentance which was towards his latter end. Sect. III. Scope.

Scope of this Book, is plainly to demonſtrate wherein Mans true happineſs conſiſts. viz. 1. Negatively, i not in enjoyment of any natural ſublunary created excellency whatſoever: all wordly things, honours, pleaſures, riches, accidents, ſucceſſions, &c. all humane affaires, ſtudies, counſels, affections, &c. being (through ſin) not permanent, but tranſient; not ſatisfying, but altogether vanity in themſelves, and vexation unto us: And therefore we ſhould not ſet our hearts inordinately upon thoſe falſe imaginary felicities, but rather content our ſelves with a comfortable tranſitory enjoyment of tranſitories, without crakings, covetouſneſs, or other ſelf-diſquietings; providently managing our affaires, and regulating our actions and affections in wiſdome, in midſt of all the changes and revolutions of the World. 2. Affirmatively, In the enjoyment of God, in his true fear and obedience; Meditating ſeriouſly of Death, and the future Judgment, as the onely Antidotes againſt worldly enſnarements.

i Compare Eccl. 1. 2. with Eccl. 12. 13. 14.

So that this Book is, though moſt obſcure and difficult in it ſelf, (for k ſome think it the obſcureſt among all Solomons Books, yea among all the Books of Scripture) yet moſt neceſſary and uſeful to the Church of God. How much may we gain by Solomon's Fall, and by his Riſing again, both intimated in this Book? I. By his Fall, we may learn 1. That higheſt wiſdom cannot ſecure us from lapſing, if the LORD a little leave us to our ſelves. 2. That worldly Proſperity is a far more dangerous temptation and ſnare than Adverſity. Solomon more miſcarrying in that, than Job in this. How hard is it to be Great and Good at once! II. By his Riſing, and Repenting, we may ſee, 1 That though the Saints fall, they fall not away, they riſe again. 2. That upon Penitential Returns to God, grievous offenders ſhall find favour with God. 3. That God is faithful and will not ſuffer one of his elect to periſh. III. By both his Fall and Riſe, The Church hath gained this excellent Book of ECCLESIASTES, which ſhe knows not how to ſpare, and which (had not Solomon ſo fallen and riſen again) ſhe never had enjoyed.

Chap. 5. III. Not in 1 Highest Honours, greatness or Authority. Worldly greatness without Spiritual goodness making both superiors and inferiours miserable, This appeares, 1. More Generally, 2. More specially and particularly.

1. More Generally, In that such greatness is usually attended with oppression and injustice. This is by Salomon, 1, Experimentally observed, ver. 16. 2. Censured, Partly, after the judgement of Gods spirit, that God will punish it, ver. 17. Partly, after the judgment of carnal Reason which hence makes vile inferences, 1 To the over throw of government and order among men; that seeing the oppressours & oppressed are in Condition like brute beasts, they should be like them without Government, v. 18, 19, 20, 21. 2 To Sensuality, ver. 22. 3. Reviewed more particularly. Where note, The grievous and helpless oppressions of the poor under great ones, Chap. IV. ver. 1. The evil consequents hereof in inferiours, viz. 1 Wearisomeness of life, ver. 2. 3. 2 Idleness and discouragements from diligence in their callings, v. 4, 5, 6. 3 Private self-seeking and immoderate scraping and shifting for the world, to the Ruine of Humane Society, ver. 7. to 13. Vses of the vanities of godlesse greatness in General.

Chap. 4

2. More Particularly, In the state of Kings who are in the height of greatness. Here note the vanity, 1. Of Foolish Kings, below their meanest subjects, ver. 13, 14. 2. Of all Kings wise or foolish, their peoples affections to them being so inconstant and oft thirsting after changes of Government, verse 15, 16.

By way of Antidote against all these four imaginary felicities and corruptions about them, here are in a digression, 1. The Right manner of Religious exercises, viz. Sacrifices, Chap. V. 1. Prayer, ver. 2, 3. Vowes, ver. 4, 5, 6, 7. 2. The ground of well-ordered duties, fear of God, ver. 7. 3. The effect of Religion, it works Patience in the oppressed. ver. 8.

Chap. 5.

14 Riches. IV. Not in 0 Riches and earthly Possessions; whether more immediatly necessary for life, as food and rayment, fruits of the earth; or more mediately necessary for procuring of these, Money, &c. Here.

1. Food and Rayment are preferred before Money, &c. In their general usefulness, and singular efficacy relieving our wants, ver. 9. 10.

2. Both are proved vain. From, 1. The enjoyment that others, even servants, have of them, and perhaps more sweetly than the owners themselves, ver. 11, 12. 2. The dangers that Riches bring to their owners, ver. 13, 3. Their uncertainty of abode with us while we live, verse 14. 4. Their certainty of leaving us when we dye, ver. 15, 16. This vanity of Riches is amplified, Partly from the happiness of a free and contented use of Riches, ver. 18, 19, 20. Partly from the misery of having Riches without the right use of Riches. For 1. This is a common evil, Chap. VI. ver. 1. 2. This is a woful vanity, a sore disease, ver. 2. 3. This makes such a man in a worse condition than an untimely birth, ver. 3, 4, 5, 6. 4. Such see no good of what they possess, live they never so long, ver. 6. 5. Riches satisfie only the body, are wholly unsatisfactory to the desires of the soul, ver. 7, 8, 9. 6. Riches are unable to protect against sin and sorrow, ver. 10, 7. Increase of Riches, Increaseth vanity, cares, thoughtfulness, &c. Seeing mans life is short; and future events are unknown, v. 11, 12.

Chap. 6.

Thus far mans happiness hath been considered Negatively, wherein it consists not.

) Wherin mans true happiness consists. II. AFFIRMATIVELY, and positively, Solomon shewes p wherein mans true happiness is indeed to be found in this life. 1. Particularly. 2. Summarily.

1. Particularly, in divers means or branches of true happiness. viz. 1. A good name. 2. Death. 3. Sadness of heart, 4. Moderation, and 5. Wisdome.

1. A good Name, beyond wealth or pleasures, Ch. VII. ver. 1.

2. Death, better than life ver. 1. Chap. 7.

3. Grief and sadness of heart, better than pleasures, as may appear, 1. In sorrow occasioned by Funeral Solemnities, ver. 2, 3, 4. 2. In grief occasioned by Reproofes, ver. 5, 6.

4. Moderation and Patience, better than proud oppressing greatness. Here note, 1. The faults of Greatness, Oppression, Bribery, ver. 7. 2. The Antidote against this, Patience of spirit, ver. 8. Urged 1 From the hope of the end better than the beginning, ver. 8. 2 From the opposite vices, rash Anger, and impatient murmurings, ver. 9, 10.

5. Wisdome, viz. True godliness, as the Mistresse; and Civil Prudence as the handmaid, of true happiness. This wisdome is described, 1. Comparatively, as better than Riches, ver. 11, 12. 2. Positively, by its parts, properties, or fruits; which are either 1 General, or 2 Particular.

GENERAL, viz. I. Contentment in prosperity or adversity, urged, 1 From the unalterableness of Gods work, 2. From the inevitableness of Gods Counsels, ver. 13, 14. II. Constancy in goodness, notwithstanding all hard measure incident to us or others for goodness. Here are, 1. A temptation propounded, viz. Unlike accidents to righteous and wicked, ver. 15. 2. Inferences thence, 1 Carnal and corrupt, that therefore we should be indifferent and politickly moderate both in righteousness and wickedness, ver. 16. 2 Gracious, that notwithstanding we be resolutely and zealously constant in goodness, ver. 17, 18, 19. III. Charity towards others in covering their infirmities and injuries to us: opposed to jealousies, implacableness, &c. Urged, 1. From mans common frailty, ver. 20, 21. 2. From our own infirmities, ver. 22. IV. The great difficultie of obtaining this wisdome. For. 1. Salomon found it hard in his experience, ver. 23. 2. The things necessary to be known to make one wise, are profound, ver. 24. by reason of the great wickedness and subtilty of heart 1 In one Sex, viz. Women, ver. 25. to ver. 29. 2 In both Sexes, nor man nor woman being perfect as God made them, ver. 29. V. True judgment and discretion in wise ordering of a mans self and affairs, Described summarily by the 1 Nature, and 2 Effects of it, viz. Estimation and confident security, Chap. VIII. ver. 1. Amplified by divers particular Acts or fruits wherein wisdome frees from many temptations and inconveniences, which folly intangles in; As 1. Indiscreet Obedience to Kings, which is urged, ver. 2. And the contrary disobedience is dissuaded by divers Arguments, ver. 3, 4, 5. 2. Heedful prevention from future evils. This is Amplified, Partly, by mans misery and ignorance of future events, ver. 6, 7. Partly, by mans impotency to help himself in extremities, as death, Partly by mans sinful betaking himself to vain, unlawful means for safety in danger, ver. 8. 3. In having a right notion of the long prosperity and impunity of the wicked: Who though they seem never so happy, yet in comparison of the godly they are most miserable, 9. to 14. 4. In passing due censure of the confusion that seems to be in the unequal administration of humane affairs. Where note, 1 The unequal dispensation it self, which is as a temptation, ver. 14 2 The judgment passed thereon, Partly by the Flesh, hence condemning Gods administrations for vanity, and commending sensuality, ver. 14, 15. Partly. by the Spirit, concluding three things viz. That Gods Government of the World is so profound none can search it out, therefore none can justly censure it, ver. 16, 17. That all men, all actions, are guided by Providence though never so secret, Chap. IX. ver. 1. Chap. 8. Chap. 9.

That Gods love or hatred is not discernable by our-ward events, ver. 1, 2. After this, the judgment of the flesh is again insisted upon more distinctly, where both the evil practices and opinions of carnal men in this regard, as also the occasions of both, are set down, ver. 3. to 13. 5. In having a right apprehension of the contempt cast upon goodnesse in a low condition, apt to deterre many from vertue and godlinesse; where note, 1 The contempt of goodnesse and wisdome, in a mean state, parabolically, & historically, described, ver. 13, 14, 15. 2 The true censure and resolution Passed hereupon; viz. That wisdome though in meanesse is to be preferred before strength, ver. 16. before proud commands of imperious Rulers, ver. 17. before all other means of secrecy, ver. 18.

Thus of properties or effects of wisdome more General.

PARTICULAR Properties or Effects of true wisdome, viz. 1. Towards our selves. Partly, in due carriage of our selves, that we blemish not our Reputation, Chap. X. ver. 1. Partly, by dextrous dispatch of all affairs; a fool dealing sinisterly, ver. 2, 3. 2. Towards Superiours in the Common-wealth; wisdome keeps from unjust desires or enterprizes against them (though they be offensive to our selves or others, ver. 4, 5, 6, 7.) by teaching us submission, and bridling all undutifulnesse, and rebelliousnesse, In Deed, ver. 8, 9, 10. In words, ver. 11. to 16. (Here by way of digression, Governours are admonished against Injustice and Tyranny; the misery and happinesse of Common-wealths being described in respect of the Rulers thereof, ver, 17, 18, 19.) In Thoughts and secret speeches, ver. 20. 2. Toward Inferiours, viz. The poor, towards whom wisdome teacheth us Liberality. Liberality is proposed, pressed, and objections to the contrary answered, as, Unseasonablenesse, No visible means of recompence, Chap. XI. 1. to 7. 4. Towards God, in having due care of Gods true Religion and Worship; one singular means and pare whereof is a right meditation of, and preparation for Death and Judgement. This is especially urged upon two sorts of men, viz. 1. Voluptuous worldlings whose malady and remedy are laid down, ver. 7, 8. 2. Young men, who presuming of their age, put death, and consequently godlinesse, far from them. Of them note, Their malady; uncontrouled voluptuousnesse, ver. 9. The remedy against this, viz. meditation of the certainty of judgment, ver. 9. Reformation hereupon, Partly in eschewing of evil, ver. 10. Partly in doing good, Chap. XII. 1. This is pressed on young men, by the great inconveniencies of Old-age, and Death which otherwise will come upon them. ver. 1. to 8.

Hitherto of the Particular means of the happinesse attainable in this life.

2. Summarily, Solomon gives the summe of his judgment about true happinesse. 1. That all sublunaries are vanity, and no happiness in them, as himself had best ability to judge upon greatest experience, in this Book diversly commended, ver. 8. to 12. 2. That The true fear of God, and keeping his Commandements is the whole of man. The performance of which is urged by the strictnesse of Gods future judgment, ver. 12, 13, 14.

This Book is an undeniable Argument of Solomons Repentance after his Relapse, and consequently of his f Salvation.

CANTICLES.

OR,

SONG of SONGS.

Sect. I. Order, and Name.

III. Solomon's NUPTIAL BOOK (treating of the spiritual espousals of Christ and his Church) is the SONG OF SONGS. Some of the Hebrews think a Solomon first wrote the Canticles; then the Proverbs; last of all Ecclesiastes; from that conjecture, That youth is most delighted with verses and songs, Ripe-age, in Proverbs, Old-age in publishing the vanities of things. But the Hebrew Doctors in a Tractate entituled Bava-bathra among the Talmud writings, (shewing the Series of all the Books of Scripture,) deliver; That Proverbs should be first, Ecclesiastes next, and Song of Songs last. And in this order we have them placed in our Bibles. Origen fetches the order of these Books from the Order and Series of Discipline, Ethicks (which are first) being taught in the Proverbes; Physicks, in Ecclesiastes; Theoricks, or Divine things, in Song of Songs.

a J. Merc. Praef. Com. in Cant. pag. 142.

Sect. II. Penman, and Authority of the Book.

That Solomon was Penman of this Book, is consented to on all hands, and is evident in the inscription of this Book, b The Song of Songs, which is Solomons: viz. This Song is Solomons as the instrumental Author of it. The c Hebrews think that according to his three names, Solomon penned three Books answerable, viz. Proverbs, Ecclesiastes, and Song of Songs. The Chaldean Paraphrast thus expresses it; Songs and Praises, which Solomon, Prophet, King of Israel spake.

Among the Hebrews (as d some observe) there never was doubt of the Canonical authority of this Book.

b Cant. 1. c Gloss. Ordinar. Hieronym. Prolog. in Prov. d D. Pareus in Admonit. in Cant.

Book. Others have seemed to detract from the authority of it.

1. Because It seems not to be written by inspiration of the true Spirit of God, but rather from an amorous spirit betwixt Solomon and his wife Pharaoh's daughter. Answ. 1. The dearest and sweetest Communion betwixt Jesus Christ and his Church or Members, is wont in other Scriptures to be set forth under that dearest, neerest, and sweetest relation and affection on earth, viz. Betwixt a Bridegroom and his Bride espoused to him; as in e Isaiah, f Ezekiel, g Hosea, h Epistles to the Corinthians, and to the i Ephesians. Shall we therefore say that this detracts from the Authority of these Books? No; Why then should this self-same Allegory detract from the Authority of this Song? 2. Solomon being the wisest King, how uncomely were it for him, and inconsistent with his wisdom to expresse openly, in a publique Song, his private conjugal love unto his wife, which is an unusual thing. 3. Many passages in the Song cannot properly be applyed to King Pharaoh's daughter, as Cant. 1. 6, 8. and 5. 6. and 8. 1. And many things are ascribed here to the Spouse, that would rather be a womans deformity than Ornament. As, An head like Carmel; Nose like the Tower of Lebanon; Neck like the Tower of David; Eyes like Fish-poles; Teeth like flocks of shorn sheep: and she her self black as the Tents of Kedar. &c. Pharaohs daughter, King Solomons wife may in some particulars be intended as a shadow of the Church, as Solomon a Type of Christ: But the k principal thing intended, is that sublime heavenly mystery of dearest love and Communion with Christ and his Church.

The Hebrews propose four things in Scripture not to be read, but by such as are come to l maturity, viz. 30. years of age, which is the age of the Priestly Ministry. The beginning of Genesis, wherein the Creation of the world is described; The beginning of Ezekiel, wherein the Majesty of the Lord, and the Cherubims are set forth; The End of Ezekiel from c. 40, &c. Where the Fabrick of the New Temple is delineated; but especially this Book of Canticles, lest those that peruse this Book, before their affections be allayed and mortified, pervert the spirituals therein, to a carnal corrupt sence and end. Yet the use of Holy Scripture, in any part thereof is not to be prohibited to any, (God m requiring them to be studied by all;) but the right use to be manifested to all, that all abuse may be prevented.

2. Because neither the name יהוה Jehovah, nor אלהים Elohim are found in this Book, the Authority of it seems to be lessened. Answ. 1. Neither these Names, nor any thing equivalent to them are found in the Book of Esther, and yet that's counted by such Canonical. 2. Though the names of GOD, LORD, &c. are not here expressed, yet they are implyed in the title, BELOVED. The Churches n beloved being God, as Jewes think; or Christ, as the Christians do better expound it. 3. There was lesse occasion of expressing plainly the Name of God or LORD in this Book, wherein it was the aime of the Holy Ghost, under an external earthly marriage or contract, to describe the Spiritual Union, and Communion of Christ and his Church, as o Mercerus noteth.

Sect. III. Nature, Excellency, and Scope of this Book.

1. Nature of this Book. For the General, It is stiled A Song. Songs were usually tuned with voice, Psalmes with Instruments musical. Both Songs and Psalmes imply the p choiceneſſe of the Subject handled, and therefore worthy to be remembred: and are usually arguments of joy and gladnesse in such as sing them, and of praises to them whom they concern; So this Book, (saith q Ainsworth) treating of mans reconciliation to God, and peace by Jesus Christ, with joy in the Holy Ghost, is called a Song; which therefore the faithful should learn to sing with understanding, making melody in their hearts to the Lord, when they feel themselves made partakers of his joy. But for the particular kind of this Song, whether it be 1 Historical, 2 Prophetical, 3 Didactical or Doctrinal, or 4 Mixt, is not so easily determinable. Partly, because of the mysteriousnesse and difficulty of the Book. Partly, because of the dissenting Opinions of learned Writers hereabouts. Some r think herein is described the State of the Church of the Old-Testament, from Abel to Jesus Christ. Some of the New-Testament. Some of both, from the first promise, Gen. 3, 15. till the end of the world. Brightman and Alstedius are of opinion, that in this Book is described the State of the Church from David to the end of the world. According to this opinion, this Book is thus distributed by Alstedius.

I. The Old Church is described, according to its condition.

1. Under Kings, from David to the Babylonish captivity, chap. 1. and 2. to v. 3.

2. In captivity, chap. 2. ver. 3. to 14.

3. After captivity, before Christ, ch. 2. v. 14. to ch. 3. v. 6. After Christs birth, chap. 3. v. 6. to chap. 4. ver. 7.

II. The New Church is described, either as,

1. A first-born sister, from Christs Resurrection to the Jewes Conversion, chap. 4. ver. 7. to chap. 6. ver. 9.

2. A younger sister; comprehending the church of Jewes and Gentiles to be converted, ch. 6. v. 9. to ch. 8. v. 11.

3. Compleat of both Jewes and Gentiles, ch. 8. 11. to the end.

Most Writers, and those of ponderous judgment, rank this Book, not amongst the Historical or Prophetical, but amongst the Didactical or Doctrinal Books. And, all things deliberately considered, I cannot but incline to their judgment. For. 1 Though there seem to be in this Book some Historical intimations of things formerly done, as in Cant. 1. 5, 5. 9. and 3. 7, 8, 9, 10, 11. yet they are very few; and those short and obscure Allusions or Allegories, rather than direct Historical Narrations. And therefore they cannot rationally be thought sufficient to denominate this Song Historical. 2. Though some passages herein are prophetical, as that touching the Church of the Gentiles to be founded and builded, Cant. 8. 8, 9. yet they are so few in comparison of the whole Book, that hence it cannot be justly entituled Prophetical, any more than Genesis is Prophetical, because divers Prophecies are dispersed therein. 3. If the several parts of this Book, which are counted Historical or Prophetical in reference to such and such times, as is mentioned in this former distribution, be exactly considered, we may easily perceive what obscure, difficult, impertinent, groundlesse, harsh and forced applications they are. 4. The main bulk and body of the Song doth most naturally and genuinely describe, Est autem ille liber Salomonis cujus inscriptio est, Canticum Canticorum. Sed de illo in hoc opus quid transferre possumus, cum totus amores sancti Christi & Ecclesiæ figurata locutione commendet, & Prophetica pronunciet altitudine: nisi quod in eo, quamvis sit ad intelligendum difficillimus, possumus tamen facile advertere, quantum sit divina illa, & divinitus inspirata charitas appetenda, quantique pendenda, &c. D. Aug. Spec. Tom. 3. p. 939. Basil. 1569.

(as Augustine saith) the mutual love of Christ and his Church under the Allegory of a Bridegroom and Bride, in a Doctrinal way. And therefore most properly this Book is to be counted Doctrinal, rather than Prophetical or Historical.

2. Excellency of this Book is very great, in respect of Author, Matter, Form, and End thereof. I. Author of this Book, (not to speak of the principal efficient Author, the Holy Ghost from whom it hath its authority and chief excellency, but of the instrumental,) was t Solomon. Solomon was not only the richest and most peaceable of all the Kings, but also the u wisest of all the Kings of the Earth, none before or after him like unto him, And x all the earth sought the face of Solomon to hear his wisdome. So that herein this book excels, being penned by Solomon the wisest of all the Prophets. II. Subject-Matter of this Book, is not any vulgar common or points of Religion, but the most choice, sublime, spiritual, heavenly mysteries of Holy Communion betwixt Jesus Christ himself and his Church; Jesus Christ being y King of Kings, and the brightness of his Father's Glory: The Church being the choicest society on earth, z The Lambs wife, the a Holy Nation, b Gods peculiar treasure above all people in the earth. And Spiritual Communion betwixt them, with the choice delights of that Communion, being the very Height and glory of all Practical Divinity. How excellent is this Book that treats of this transcendent Theame! III. The forme or Manner how these Mysteries are here represented to us, is in way of a Song; and that c the Song of Songs. It is a Song; therefore excellent: Songs being choice succinct pieces, grateful to the ear, helpful to the memory, and delightfull to the heart, working much upon the affections. It is the Song of Songs which was Solomons; viz. both the choicest and excellentest of all the Songs which Solomon penned, (which were d one hundred and five in all,) as Christ, whom it concerns, is King of Kings. and also the rarest and most admirable Song in all the Scriptures, (as e Mercerus noteth,) this Song more fully and excellently setting forth the great mystery of Communion betwixt Christ and his Church than any other. This Song also is digested in form of a Dialogue between Christ and his Church, as speakers; or of a Tetralogue betwixt the 1 Bridegroom, Christ; 2 The Bridegrooms friends, viz. Angels, Saints, Prophets, Apostles, and all the faithful Preachers of the Word of Christ. 3 The Bride her self, viz. the Church and faithful Members of Christ; And 4 The Churches Companions called the Daughters of Jerusalem, viz. All that follow the Church, These four being brought in as speaking to one another, throughout this Song; the accurate discovery of whose several and respective speeches is none of the smallest difficulties in this Song, IV. The End and Scope of this Song is also singularly excellent, as after it will appear.

Upon consideration of the Excellency of this Book, it is, that f some have called other Books of Scripture Holy, but this Book the Holy of Holies, or the Sanctity of Sanctities, as the perfection of the rest. Others & compare these three Books of Solomons writting to the three parts of the Temple of Solomons building. viz. Proverbs to the Porch, Ecclesiastes to the Sanctuary, or Holy place, but this Song of Songs to the Holy of Holies. Herein we have a lively Representation of the Spiritual State of Christs Spouse in this world, sometimes inclining to carnal security, sometimes lamenting under spiritual desertions, and sometimes conflicting with sharp temptations. Her own Blackishness and infirmities are not concealed, her beauty and Glory derived from Christ are displayed, and her Carnal blemishes are improved as foyls with greater lustre to set off her Spiritual beauty. Herein we have a lively protraicture of Christs incomparable amiableness and sweetness, as the most compleat, lovely, attractive piece in the whole world, able to ravish into an extasie of Love the hearts of both Saints and Angels. Herein we have a wonderful discovery of that great mystery, that Spiritual Paradise, that Heaven on earth. viz. Sweet Communion betwixt Christ and his Church, in their heavenly Espousals, longing after each other with restless love-sick desires, embracing each other in clasping arms of ardent love, solacing and contenting themselves in mutual enjoyments with ravished delight, most jealously impatient of all disturbance, or interruption of their Communion, and most fervently panting after compleat fruition of each other in the spicy mountains of Heaven it self. O blessed Book! O pleasant Eden! How full of sweetnesses art thou to experienced Souls, that have, and love, and live upon the Lord Jesus, and know what it is to lodge in his dearest Bosome? What pleasure take they in reading, understanding and meditating of thee; but especially in feeling in their own Souls these glorious things spoken by thee!

Sect. III. Scope.

Scope of this Song, is under the Metaphor or Allegory of Lovers upon Contract, and intending marriage, to shadow out to us, that sublime, Spiritual, happy Union and Communion betwixt Christ and his Church, which is inchoate on this Life, more imperfectly with the Jews, more perfectly with the Gentiles: and shall be consummate in the Life to come.

This is carried on Dialogue-wise, betwixt Christ and his Church; His Friends and her Damosels, being the four Speakers: especially the two first: as is the Custome of a Bridegroom and a Bride; as was formerly noted.

Sect. IV. Principal Parts.

Principal Parts of this Song of Songs are 1 The Inscription, 2 Substance of the Song, 3 Conclusion.

The Inscription, denoting the 1 Kind of writing, 2. Excellency, 3 and Penman of it, c. 1. 1. — I.

The Substance of this Song, Streaming out a Torrent of Spiritual Love betwixt Christ and the Church, laid down Dialogue-wise, in a familiar Colloquy betwixt, 1. Christ as the Bride-groom. 2. The Church as the Bride, and 3. The Friends of them both rejoycing in the marriage; All in a continued Allegory. Herein are particularly, — II.

I. The ardent Desires of the Church after Christ, as impatient of his absence; with Christs acceptance thereof. Ch I. ver. 2. to 9, — Chap. 1.

II. The reciprocal invitatory Commendations of one another; and the mutual gratulations and contentment of Christ and the Church in one another: ver. 9. to the end of Ch. II. — Chap. 2.

III. The Churches renewed Desires night and day, at Home and Abroad, in the City, in the Fields, (as it were) to bring Christ nearer to her self; Ch. III. 1. to 6. yea, rather to have her self brought immediately to the full enjoyment of Christ in Heaven, v. 6. to the end. — Chap. 3.

IV. Christ

IV. Christ most affectionately praiseth his Church in her Members, professing himself ravished with her Faith, Graces, and Spiritual Beauty, Ch. IV. 1. to 15. Which is amplified, 1. By the Churches self-denying, acknowledging all her Graces to come from Christ as the Fountain, v. 15. 2. By her Prayer for his influence to make her (as a Garden of Spices) more and more fruitful; and for his presence to accept her Fruit, v. 16. 3. By Christs satisfying her desires, coming into his Garden, accepting the Fruits thereof, and welcoming his Friends, Ch. V. v. 1.

Chap. 4.

Chap. 5.

V. The Churches Spiritual Desertion, in Christs withdrawing himself from her. Where are, I. The Occasion of it, Her carnal Security, ver. 2. 3. II. The Manners of it; withdrawing, yet leaving som quickning Grace behind him, v. 4. 5. III. The Consequents of it, in respect of, 1. The Church her self. v. 4, 5, 6. 2. The Watchmen abusing her, v. 7. 3. The Daughters of Jerusalem, whom she charged to signifie her distress to her beloved, v. 8. This charge is amplified. 1. Partly by the enquiry of the Daughters of Jerusalem, what Christ is? v. 9. 2. Partly by the Churches pathetical description of Christs transcendent excellencies, v. 10. to the end. 3. Partly by the enquiry of the daughters of Jerusalem after Christ, Ch. VI. v. 1. 4. Partly by the Churches declaring to them where Christ, was, viz. He was now returned and gone down into his Garden, v. 2. 5. Partly by her affectionate complacency in Christ returned, v. 3.

Chap. 6.

VI. Christs sweet and consolatory deportment towards his Church after her Desertion, and his return to her. Wherein. 1. He assures her she is as precious in his eyes, and as dear to his heart as ever, v. 4. to 11. 2. He declares his desire of the spiritual Spring of the Churches Graces, after the Winter of her affliction. v. 11. 3. He discovers the Rapture of his ravished affections to her, most sweetly Inviting her to himself, v. 12, 13. most highly commending her throughout, Ch. VII. v. 1, to 8. and Promising his presence, and what he will do for her, that she may become most delightful to him, ver. 8, 9.

Chap. 7.

VII. Finally, the Church reciprocates her utmost affection to Christ, for his love. And this, I. More Generally, v. 10. II. More Particularly, Her desire, 1. That Christ and she may go together to view their Husbandry, whether their plants did flourish and fructifie, viz. Whether the Gospel and fruits thereof did thrive, v. 11, 12, 13. 2. That she may enjoy Christ most intimatly and familiarly, Ch. VIII. v. 1. 2, 3. 3. That the Daughters of Jerusalem may not disturb him, v. 4. 4. That it may be considered, what she hath forgone, and undergone for Christ's love, v. 5. 5. That Christ would give her a fuller 1. Confirmation of his love, setting her as a Seal upon his heart; and a fuller 2. Manifestation or evident assurance thereof, Setting her as a Seal upon his Arm, strengthening, sustaining, helping her, &c. and this because she bears to Christ an invincible and unquenchable love, v. 6, 7. 6. That the Gentiles called A little sister, may be called and incorporated into the Church with the Jews, v. 8, 9, 10. This is amplified by Christs common care of both, as one Vineyard kept by himself, not by others, as Solomons was, ver. 11. 12. Christ teaching his Spouse her duty; Partly, To her neighbours, in publishing and bearing witness to his Truth; Partly, To himself, in Prayer and Thanksgiving.

Chap. 8.

The Conclusion of the Song, containing the Churches most ardent desire after Christs Second coming, that the Marriage betwixt Christ and her self may be compleatly consummated in Heaven, those Mountains of Spices, ver. 14.

III. The Prophetical Books.

THus far of Books Historical and Doctrinal; Now to the Books Prophetical. For distinction sake they are called PROPHETICAL, because the matter of them is principally Prophetical, though many Historical and Doctrinal passages are also inserted in them all along; as there are many Prophecies of things to come, dispersed up and down the other Books, which yet are principal, Historical, and Doctrinal.

Rules or Directions for the better understanding the Prophetical Books.

1. Consider well the several Times wherein the several Prophets flourished and prophecied, and compare their Prophecies with the state of those Times respectively, as they are formerly described in the Historical Books; this will lend much light to the clearing of those Prophecies. The several Times of their Prophecying, see in the following Chronological Table.

2. The Prophets are wont to speak of things to come as if they were already past or present. 22, Isa. 53. throughout. Because they are certainly determined upon in Gods decree, and are as sure to come to pass, as if they were already actually fulfilled.

3. Most commonly they are wont in their threatnings against the wicked, to intermingle Promises and comforts to the godly: I. Partly, that the godly may not be terrified with Gods severity, who will put a difference betwixt the godly and the wicked; 2. Partly, to have a door of hope open even for the wicked if they will repent. And contrariwise usually with their promises to the Godly, they interweave threatnings against the wicked. 1. Partly, as a flaming Sword to keep off ungodly ones from false applying of the comforts to themselves, which belong not to them; 2 Partly, to caution the godly against security, and that they rejoyce with trembling, Psal. 2. 11.

4. In foretelling or promising temporal mercies or deliverances, they are wont commonly to raise up their promises unto spiritual blessings and deliverances of the soul, and in threatning temporal punishments to the wicked, they are wont to proceed to threaten spiritual and eternal. 1. Partly, because temporal blessings and deliverances to the Jews were types of spiritual and eternal, by Christ. 2. Partly, because temporal judgements in this world upon the wicked, are but earnests and handsels of eternal vengeance in the world to come. 3. Partly, because neither without spiritual blessings and deliverances Gods people can have sufficient and solid consolation: nor without eternal vengeance, can the wicked receive their proportionable compensation.

Therefore these temporals, spirituals and eternal, oft spoken of joyntly and more confusedly, must be prudently distinguished, that the sence obscured thereby may be the more cleared.

5. When they speak of the Kingdom, and benefits of Christ to be performed under the New Testament, they are wont to vail those Evangelical mysteries under Mo-

Mosaical and Typical things in use in the Church under the Old Testament. And therefore the meer letter of the Prophets expressions must not be terminated or rested in, but the spiritual meaning, primarily intended, must be inquired into.

These Prophetical Books are in all 16. (Lamentations being counted an Appendix to Jeremiah.) They may be considered two wayes. 1. According to the times of their prophecy, and writing. 2. According to their Order, as set in our Bibles. They are not placed in our Bibles, in that Method and Order as they were at the first spoken and written by the Prophets.

1. According to the times wherein they were first prophesied and written. These times are for the most part discovered in the beginning of the several Prophecies, and of such we may determine certainly; or they may be collected from other Scriptures, or the matter of the Prophesies, of which we cannot conclude altogether so clearly.

These Times may be referred (as the Historical Books) to three principal periods, viz. 1. Before. 2. Neer or under. 3. After the Babylonish Captivity. And if in these three Periods, we parallel these Prophets with those Historical Books, they will notably help to clear and explain one another.

A Chronological Table of the Order of Times wherein the Prophets Prophecied:

Somewhat differing from the Order wherein they are placed in our Bibles.

1. BEfore the transportation of the Jewes into Babylon's Captivity; and in the dayes of Jeroboam son of Joash King of Israel, and of Uzziah, Jotham, Ahaz, Hezekiah, and Josiah, Kings of Judah; these Prophets Prophesied, Viz.

1. JONAH, (called Jonas, Mat. 12. 39, 40.) He propheſied before or about the beginning of the Reign of Jeroboam son of Joash King of Israel, who restored the coast of Israel from the entring of Hamath to the sea of the Plain, according to the word of the Lord God of Israel, which he spake by the hand of his servant Jonah the son of Amittai, the Prophet, which was of Gath-hepher, 2 King. 14. 25. Which was before or about the beginning of Jeroboams reign, as Jun. Annot. in Jon. 1. 1. and Pareus in Adverſ. ibid. conceive: about the close of his reign, thinks Druſius in Quæſit. Epiſt. 9.

2. HOSEA propheſied in the dayes of Jeroboam the son of Joas King of Israel, and in the dayes of Uzziah, Jotham, Ahaz, and Hezekiah Kings of Judah, Hoſ. 1. 1. Which muſt needs be a very long time, viz. for the ſpace of 79. years at leaſt, as that learned And. Riv. in Comment. in Hoſ. 1. 1. computes by thoſe Kings reigns.

3. JOEL; when he prophecied is not ſo expreſly laid down in Scripture, and therefore his time cannot ſo certainly be defined as of others. Among learned Writers, Jewes and others there's great variety and uncertainty about it.

1. Some of the Hebrews think this Joel was the ſon of Samuel the Prophet, one of Samuels ſons being named Joel, 1 Sam. 8. 1, 2. But the context there ver. 3. confutes this opinion; And his ſons walked not in his wayes, but turned aſide after lucre, and took bribes, and perverted judgment; which corruptions we cannot juſtly believe to have been in this holy Prophet Joel; He (as other Prophets) being an holy man of God, 2 Pet. 1. 21.

2. Some think Joel was contemporary to Jehoſhaphat King of Judah, and Jehoram King of Israel, becauſe of the ſeven years famine then foretold by Eliſha the Prophet, 2 King. 8. 1. &c. And that as Eliſha foretold the famine, ſo Joel foretold the manner how it ſhould come to paſſe; by locuſts, canker-wormes and caterpillers, Joel 1. 4. This opinion is aſcribed to R. Schelomo; And Lyra approves it. See Mercer. & al. Comment. in Joelap. 192. But Tarnovius in Prolegom. in Joel, diſlikes this opinion, becauſe the famine of which Joel ſpeaks, ſeems to have been onely four years, Joel 1. 3. and becauſe here is no mention in this prophecy of the ten Tribes he thinks it probably fell out after their carrying away.

3. The Hebrew Chronicle called סדר עולם Seder-Olam, i. e. The order of time, writes, that Joel lived under Manaſſeh, of the ſame time with Nahum and Habbakuk the prophets; but becauſe Manaſſeh was not right, his name is not mentioned; (as ſome obſerve, Mercer. & al. Comment. in Joel. p. 177. D. Pareus in Adverſ. in Joel.) This opinion is likewiſe ſubſcribed unto by Funccius, Genebrard, and others; learned Druſius alſo thinks it may be proved from Joel, 3. 5. that Joel propheſied at that time, the ten Tribes being now carried Captive into Aſſyria.

4. Some are of opinion that the famine threatned by Joel, fell out under Joſiah King of Judah, which famine Jeremiah deſcribes almoſt as Joel here. See Jer. 14. 1, 2. compared with 2 Kings 23. 26. This opinion Tarnovius aſcribes to Danæus, and counts it moſt probable Tarnov. Prolegom. in Joel.

5. Finally, Many (and thoſe of no ſmall learning and judgment; as Hierome, Auguſtine, Broughton. Junius, Helvicus, &c.) do conceive that Joel propheſied in the ſame time with Hoſea forementioned; as here I have ranked them. The time in which he propheſied is the ſame with that of Hoſea, in dayes of Uzziah, &c. Hieronym. Joel propheſied when now Jotham reigned, who ſucceeded Uzziah, D. Aug. de Civ. lib. 18. cap. 27. Tom. 5. Hoſea and Joel prophecy about the beginning of Uzziahs reign, before Amos Joel ſpeaks of the companies of Locuſts. H. Brought. Concent. p. 92. 94. Hanov. 1602. In the dayes of Uzziah and Jeroboam, &c, thinks Junius, Annot. in Joel. 1. 1. Joel the Prophet ſeems to have preceded Amos, for he foretels the drought, chap. 1. 15. which Amos complaines to have fallen out without the due fruit of repentance, Amos 4. 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, &c. Amos propheſied under Jeroboam and Uzziah, Amos 1. 1. Helvic. Chronol. p. 1. Gieſſæ Heſſorum M. DC. XXII. Divers Arguments are urged for ſtrengthning of this opinion. As, 1. That Joel is placed next to Hoſea, without noting any difference of time, and it is an old Canon of the Hebrews, mentioned by Hierome, that, That Prophet who mentions not his time of Prophecy, is to be counted contemporary with him that next and and immediately precedes him, ——therefore Joel is contemporary to Hoſea. 2. The Subject-matters contained in this Book ſeem altogether to have fallen out in dayes of Uzziah and Jeroboam, ſaith Junius. As, 1. Partly, That grievous famine which God ſent upon Judea; we read of a famine in Judea in the times of Jehoram, 2 Kings 8. and of Joſiah afterwards, as it taught, Jer. 14. but I like not (ſaith he) to refer this famine to either of theſe times. Rather this famine was ſent of God by his certain counſel in time of Uzziah, as may be confirmed from Am. 5. 13. eſpecially ſeeing it is evident that the Argument of the following Prophecy of Amos, belongs to the ſame times. 2. Partly, That diſtreſs of Judah and Jeruſalem there mentioned, Joel 3. 1, 5, 6, ſeems plainly to relate to thoſe diſtreſſes that fell on Judah in dayes of Ahaz, by the Aſſyrians and Philiſtines, 2 Chron. 28. 17, 18, 19, 20 3. That in this Prophet Joel, we have not onely mention of the name of Judah and Jeruſalem, as Joel 3. 1, 6. but alſo of Iſrael, as Joel 2. 27. and 3. 2. and therefore it is likely he prophecied before the final captivity of Iſrael by the Aſſyrians, for (according to that rule that ſome give,) Where the time of the Prophecy is not mentioned, nor any diſtinct mention of Iſrael and Judah, which were two diſtinct Kingdomes, taken notice of, that Prophecy was probably after that diſtinction of the Kingdomes was taken away, by Iſrael's being carried captive into Aſſyria.

4. AMOS. He prophecied againſt Iſrael in the dayes of Uzziah King of Judah and in the dayes of Jeroboam ſon of Joaſh King of Iſrael, two years before the earth-quake, Amos 1. 1. he comes in order after Joel; for Joel foretels the drought and famine, Joel 1. 15. &c. and Amos complains of their unfruitfulneſs under that judgment, Amos 4. 6, 7, 8, 9. Helvic. Chronol. p. 14. Gieſſa Heſſor. M. DC. XXII. Before Amos, ſpeaks Joel of the companies of locuſts, which having the ſimilitude of Horſes, and teeth of fierce Lyons bring in a famine. H. Broughton. Conc. p. 94. Hanov. 1602,

5. ISAIAH prophecied in dayes of Uzziah, Jotham, Ahaz, and Hezekiah, Kings of Judah, Iſ. 1. 1. and 38. 1. &c. and 39. 3. He Prophecied about eighty or ninety years, thinks Helvicus in Chronol. ubi Supr. & D. Pareus in Proem. in Iſa. Here is no mention of Jeroboam ſon of Joaſh King of Iſrael; probably 1. Becauſe Iſaiah began not to prophecy till after Jeroboams death, which was in the fifteenth year of Uzziah, who reigned fifty two years, beginning to reign in Jeroboams twenty ſeventh year, 2 Kings 15. 1, 2. Jereboam reigning in all fourty one years, 2 Kings 14. 23. So that Iſaiah ſeems not to have begun to prophecy ill towards the middle, or latter end of Uzziahs reign. 2. Becauſe computations in Scripture are more uſually made by the reigns of the Kings of Judah, whereof many were good, then of the Kings of Iſrael, whereof all were nought.

6. MICAH. He prophecied in dayes of Jotham, Ahaz, and Hezekiah, Kings of Judah, Mic. 1. 1. His hearers were ſome of them alive in the time of Jehoiakim, Jer. 26. 18, therefore he taught very long; thinks Helvic, in Chronol. quo ſupr.

7. NAHUM. Prophecied the deſtruction of Nineveh, the Metropolis of Aſſyria; But when he did prophecy, the time is not particularly expreſſed, yet we may probably conjecture. 1. It ſeems very clear by the current of his Prophecy, that he prophecied a good while after Jonah. Jonah was ſent to preach againſt Nineveh, at which Nineveh repented, Jon. 3. but not many years after relapſed to their old wickedneſs. For, Pul King of Aſſyria bends all his ſtrength to blot out the Jewiſh Religion, 2 Kings 15. Then Tiglath-pileſer took many Cities of Judea captive, and waſted Jonas his Country, 2 Kings 16. at length Shalmaneſer carried captive all the ten Tribes into Aſſyria, and afterwards deale Tyrannically, 2 Kings 17. and 18. God therefore raiſes up another Prophet againſt Nineveh, viz. Nahum, who not ſo much invites them to repentance, (as Jonah did,) as threatens their deſtruction. 2. Nahum could not prophecy in dayes of Jotham, (as Calv. in Praelect in Nah. hath obſerved) for he threatens deſtruction to the Aſſyrians for their cruelty to Iſrael now Iſrael in Jotham's time was not captivitated by the Aſſyrians. 3. Forasmuch as the intent of Nahum is to threaten ruine to Nineveh and the Aſſyrians, for their cruel tyranny over Iſrael: and inaſmuch as the captivity of the ten Tribes came to paſſe in the ninth year of Hoſhea King of Iſrael, and the ſixth year of Hezekiah King of Judah, 2 Kings 17. 6. &c. compared with 2 Kings 18. 9, 10, 11: therefore it is moſt likely that Nahum prophecied for the comfort of Gods People againſt the Aſſyrians, in the latter end of Hezekiahs reign, or thereabouts Tarnov. Com. in Nah. in Proleg. Helvic. Chronol. p. 15. Gieſſa Heſſor. M. DC. XXII. Though ſome refer this Prophecy rather to the time of Manaſſes, Others to the time of Joſiah; and Hierome, according to the Hebrews opinion, times it a little before the Aſſyrian captivity. See Pareus in Adverſ. in Nah. & Jun. Annot. in Nah. 1, 1.

8. HABBAKKUK ſeems to have prophecied in the dayes of Manaſſeh or Joſiah, and before the times of Zedekiah. 1. Partly, becauſe he laments ſo notably the deſperate and incurable wickedneſs of the people, which was in thoſe times. 2. Partly, becauſe he premoniſheth them of their approaching deſtruction by the Chaldeans. As Calv. Praelect. in Hab. & Jun. Annot. in Hab. 1. 1. and the Hebrews are of opinion, Par. in Adverſ. in Hab. Therefore Hieroms opinion of his prophecy after the Babylonian captivity, is very improbable.

9. ZEPHANIAH, He prophecied in the dayes of Joſiah the ſon of Amon King of Judah, Zeph. 1. 1. Nor read we that he prophecied at all after King Joſiahs death.

II. Hereupon, under, and after the Babyloniſh Captivity, Theſe Prophets flouriſhed and Prophecied, viz.

1. JEREMIAH prophecied in the dayes of Joſiah, in the thirteenth year of his Reign, and in the dales of Jehoiakim his ſon, till the end of the eleventh year of Zedekiah ſon of Joſiah King of Judah, unto the carrying away of Jeruſalem Captive in the fifth moneth, Jer. 1. 1, 2, 3. being compared with Jer. 51. 64. Thus far are the words of Jeremiah. So that the 52. chapter following ſeems to be written by ſome other than Jeremiah (as Junius there notes) and continues the Hiſtory till Evilmerodac King of Babylon. So that Jeremiah prophecying till King Zedekiah's eleventh year, he prophecyed till the deſtruction of Jeruſalem and the Temple, which in that year fell out Jer. 52. 5, 6, 7. &c. 12. 13. &c. Further, Jeremiah being in priſon when Jeruſalem was taken, he was ſafely lookt to at the command of the King of Babylon, and ſet at liberty to dwell with Gedaliah made Governour of the Land. Jer. 39. 11. to 15. and 40. 5, 6. After that, was carried into Ægypt, where he prophecied againſt Judah, Ægypt, and all the Countries almoſt round about, Jer. 43. 5, 6, 7, 8. &c. to ch. 51. 64. He prophecied a long time, viz. Under King Joſiah 19 years, Jer. 1. 1, 2, 3. with 2 Kings 22. 1. Under King Jehoiakim eleven years. 2 Kings 22. 36. Under Zedekiah eleven years, 2 Kings 23. 18. In Ægypt at leaſt two years, becauſe thoſe things deſcribed in Jer. 43. & 44 could ſcarce be done in one year; thinks Pareus in Proem. in Jerem. That is in all about 43. years.

LAMENTATIONS, of Jeremiah, I. Some, think they were written by the Prophet Jeremiah upon occaſion of that moſt religious King Joſiah's death, wherein he laments not only one, but the manifold calamicalamities of that people which began from the death of King Josiah, and encreased till at last Jerusalem and the Temple were destroyed. Josiahs death being as it were the beginning of these calamities, and all the future miseries, especially the destruction of Jerusalem being Prophetically foretold, and pathetically described aforehand, as if they had been things already actually come to pass, the Lord having revealed these things to Jeremiah. Hierome and others are of this opinion. See Jun. Annot. in Lam. 1. 1. D. Par. Adverſ. in Thren. And this opinion seems the more probable, 1. Partly because it is the manner of the Prophets sometimes to describe future things so pathetically as if they were already come to passe. See, Isa. 53. throughout, Psal. 22. throughout. &c. As here Jeremiah doth Jerusalems ruine, 2. Partly because it is elsewhere said, Jeremiah lamented for Josiah and all the singing-men and singing-women spake of Josiah in their Lamentations to this day, and made them an Ordinance in Israel; and behold they are written in the Lamentations, 2 Chron. 35. 25. II. But others conceive that the manner of expressions are such in this Book of Lamentations, and they so lively and pathetically point out Jerusalems calamities, that it was not written before, but after the sad destruction of Jerusalem. Thus thinks Calvin in Prælect. in Lamentat. Ierem. & Pareus in Adverſ in thren. Let the sober Reader consider and judge.

2. DANIEL flourished from the third year of the Reign of Jehoiakim King of Judah, Dan. 1. 1. to the third year of the Monarchy of Cyrus the Persian, Dan. 10. 1. for about 79 years, as Helvic. in Chronol. p. 16. and 17.

3. EZEKIEL, Began to prophecy in the fifth year of King Jehoiachins captivity, in the fifth day of the Moneth, Ezek. 1. 1, 2, 3. and continued till the twenty fifth year of that their Captivity, Ezek. 40. 1. Jun. Annot. in loc. He prophecied about nineteen years and some nine dayes, as Hierom computes from Ezek. 40. See Pareus Adverſar. in Ezek. in Proem. So that Ezekiel continued not so long as Daniel by many years.

4. OBADIAH. When he wrote, is not so clearly demonstrable from Scripture, 1. Some think that this was that Obadiah mentioned in 2 Kings 18. who was over Ahabs house, and hid one hundred Prophets by fifty in a Cave, from Jezebels cruelty, finding them there, He fearing the Lord greatly. The Hebrews and others after them are of this opinion, as Mercer. Com. in Obad. noteth. 2. Some think, that (if Hieroms Rule delivered from the Hebrews may be followed. viz. where the time of the Prophet is not expressed, that Prophecy is to be timed according to the Prophecy next preceding.) Obadiah must be contemporary to Amos, who prophecied in the dayes of Uzziah and Jeroboam sonne of Joash, Amos 1. 1. which as Mercerus noteth, was about one hundred years after Ahab; and therefore it is not likely that this is that Obadiah in Ahabs dayes. 3. Others judge most probably that this Obadiah was contemporary to Jeremiah, they both of them prophecying against the Idumeans, in almost the same words and phrases. Compare with Obad. Jer. 49. 7. to 23. and Ezek. 25. throughout. Now Jeremiah prophecied against Edom after he was carried into Egypt, viz. after Jerusalems destruction, Jer. 43. 5, 6, 7. Thus think Jun. in Annot. in Obad. 1. 1. & Calv. in Prælect. in Obad. in Proem.

III. After the Jews Return from the Babylonish Captivity, prophecied these Prophets, viz.

1. HAGGAI. He began to prophecie in the second year of Darius the King in the sixth moneth, in the first day of the moneth, Hag. 1. 1. and prophesied till the ninth moneth of that year, the twenty fourth day of the moneth, Hag. 2. 10, 20.

2. ZECHARIAH. He began to prophecie, in the second year of Darius, in the eighth moneth, Zech. 1. 1. and continued till the fourth year of King Darius, the fourth day of the ninth moneth, Zech. 7. 1.

3. MALACHI was the last Prophet of the Old Testament, after whom Prophecy ceased, till Jesus Christ the great Prophet was revealed in our flesh. As Haggai and Zechary strengthened the Peoples hands and encouraged them in the building of the Temple, Ezr. 5. 1. and 6. 14. So Malachi reproves their ingratitude in corrupting the true Worship of God, not long after the Temple was builded, as the tenour of his Prophecy shewes. See Junius Annotat. in Mal. 1. 1.

II. According to their Order as they are placed in our Bibles. And so they are resolved into two ranks, viz. 1. The Greater Prophets, Isaiah, Jeremiah, Ezekiel, and Daniel, (the Lamentations being annexed as an Appendix to Jeremiah.) So called, not because these had Greater Authority than the others, but (as h Augustine noteth) from the Greatnesse of their Books; The Prophecie of Isaiah being neer as big or bigger than all the Lesser Prophets, together. 2. The Lesser Prophets viz. The twelve latter, Hosea, &c. which were digested into one volume of old by the Jewes (called the Book of the Prophets, Act. 7. 42.) lest any of them should be lost, some of them being very small. All these Books are denominated from their Penman, except the Lamentations.

h Quia prophetæ duorum amplius, quam sermones eorum sunt breves, in eorum comparatione qui Majores ideo vocantur; quia prolixa volumina ediderunt. Aug. de Civ. D. l. 18. c. 29.

I. The Greater Prophets, are the Books of Isaiah, Jeremiah, Ezekiel, Daniel.

Isaiah

ISAIAH

Sect. I. Order, Penman, and Excellency of the Book.

THis Book is ranked first in Order, (though in Time both a Jonah, Hosea, Joel, and Amos appear to have been before him) perhaps because of the largeneſſe and ſingular excellencie of this Prophecie. It is a note of b Hierom's, That Isaiah is equal to, or greater than all the 12 leſſer Prophets, in the number of verſes.

a See the Chronolog. Table, &c. Cum Esaias duodecim prophetis, imo numerum versuum aut æqualis, ut major sit. Hieron. Proem. in Isa. Tom. 5.

This Prophecy is Excellent, in many reſpects.

1. The Author or Penman of it was that eminent Prophet Isaiah, Isa. 1. 1. His name [יְשַׁעְיָהוּ] imports c The-Salvation-of-God. How appoſitely accommodated to him, that ſo wonderfully reveales Chriſt who is Gods ſalvation! This Isaiah (d Calvin thinks) was of the Royal ſtock, being the ſon of Amos, Isa. 1. 1. brother of K. Uzziah. As e Vives notes out of Hierome, was of noble deſcent, wiſe, eloquent, and without ruſticity in his ſtile; Prophecied in Hieruſalem and Iudea. Is ſuppoſed to be ſawen in ſunder by Manaſſes King of Iudah, with a wooden ſaw: hence that in Heb. 11. 1. (were ſawn in ſunder) is referred to Iſaiah. f Ambroſe alſo intimates he was ſawed in the midſt. ——And elſewhere ſpeaking of the parable in Mat. 21. g Who was he that was wounded in the head? verily Iſaiah; the frame of whoſe body the ſaw did ſooner divide, than bend his faith, rend his conſtancy, or cut the vigour of his mind aſunder.

b Nullusque poterit me voluminis istius argumentum brevi cupete sermone comprehendere, cum universa Domini sacramenta præsens Scriptura concineat; & tam natus de virgine Emmanuel, quam illustrium patrator operum atque signorum mortuus ac sepultus, & resurgens ab Inferis, & salvator universarum Gentium prædicetur. Quid loquar de Physicâ, Ethicâ & Logicâ? Quicquid sanctarum est Scripturarum; Quicquid potest humana lingua proferre, & mortalium sensus accipere, isto volumine concinetur. B. Hieron. Proem. in Esaiam. Tom. 5.

2. The Manner of it, His Propheſie is laid down eloquently, certainly, pathetically and lively, 1 Eloquently, he is not rough and cragged, but ſmooth and poliſhed, curiouſly garniſhed with all kind of Rhetorick; nor are his elegancies of a low vulgar ſtrain, but ſublime, heroick, majeſtical: The Princely ſtarelineſſe of his ſtile hath inclined ſome to believe that he was of the blood-Royal. 2. Certainly, therefore his Prophecy is denominated a Viſion, as it were a thing evidently ſeen with his eyes. And what is more certain than what we ſee with our eyes? 3. Pathetically and lively. Doth he reprove ſin? how cuttingly and peircingly doth he deſcribe it? Iſa. 1. & 5. Doth he comfort the people of God? how ſweetly, cloſely, intimately doth he ſpeak to their heart? as in Iſa. 43. and 49. 13. and c. 54. Doth he promiſe Chriſt? how clearly doth he reveal him to the very life, deſcribing him and his ſufferings for his people, as already paſt or preſent, rather than to come; as actually exhibited, rather than to be exhibited for the future? as in Iſa. 11. and 42. and 53. and 55. and 61. Hence among the ancients, as h Hierome, i Auguſtine, &c. he is ſtiled The Evangelical Prophet, and the Prophetical Evangeliſt, or the Evangeliſt and Apoſtle of the Old Teſtament.

i Genus ſcripti demonſtratur viſionis nomine: eſt enim viſio omnis Doctrina divinitus revelata; quia Deus quibuſcumque viſum eſt revelare, res ipſas quodammodo videndas & ſpectandas oculis ſervorum ſuorum exhibet, ad obſignandam earum certitudinem, ut idem Propheta periphraſticè exponit infra, 2. 1. & exponit cap. 6. *Jun. 2. The ſubject-matter of his Prophecy is excellent, much of it being ſpent in ſweeteſt cordials and comforts to the Church of God, promiſed in reference to the times of the New Teſtament; and in many Evangelical predictions of Chriſt the true Meſſiah, the kernel of the Covenant of all the Promiſes, and l Esaias inter illa quæ iniqua arguit, & justa præcepit, & peccatori populo mala futura prædixit, etiam de Christi Ecclesia, hoc est, de Rege, & ea quam condidit civitate, multò plura quam cæteri prophetavit. Ita ut à quibusdam Evangelista, quam Propheta potius diceretur. Augustin. de Civ. Dei, lib. 18. c. 29. Tom. 5.

4. This prophecie of Isaiah hath alwaies been of highest account with all sorts. Christ and his Apostles highly esteemed this book. He who preached all Texts, yet sometimes in his preaching m takes his text out of Isaiah the Prophet; and this Prophet is oftner alleadged in the New Testament than any one book of Old Testament besides, except the Psalmes. n Some note that Isaiah is quoted sixty times, the Psalmes sixty four times. Alsted. Among the very Ethiopians this book was in such repute, that the Ethiopian Eunuch made it his [Vade mecum] his companion in his journey, and read the Prophet Isaiah in his chariot, though he understood him not, Act. 8. 27, 28. And Ambrose so highly esteemed and valued this Prophetie, that when Augustine o wrote to him for his advice what part of Scripture he should especially reade, he advised him to reade the Prophet Isaiah. I suppose (saith Augustine) because he is a more clear foreteller of the Gospel, and of the calling of the Gentiles, than the rest. But Augustine not understanding his first reading, and supposing all the rest to be like, deferred it till he had gained more skill in the Word of the LORD.

o Insinuavi per literas Antistiti tuo, vito S. Ambrosio, priscinos errores meos, & præsens votum meum, ut moneret quid potissimum mihi de libris tuis legendum esset quo præ plendæ tantæ gratiæ paratior aptiorque fierem. At ille justit Esaiam propheram, credo quia præ cæteris Evangelii vocationisque Gentium sit præbunciator apertior. Verumtamen ego primam hujus lectionem non intelligens, totumque talem arbitrans, distuli repetendum exercitatior in Dominico eloquio. D. Aug. in Confess. lib. 9. c. 5. Tom. 1.

Sect. II. Time.

When, and How long Isaiah prophecied, is more obscurely intimated, viz. In the dayes of Uzziah, Jotham, Ahaz, and Hezekiah Kings of Judah, Isa. 1. 1. But in what year of Uzziah he began, and in what year of Hezekiah he ceased to prophesie, is not here particularly declared. p Junius thinks it's clear, he prophesied 45 years, and probably above. q Alsted, about 60. years. r Pareus saith, Some think he Prophesied 70 years; others, 90 years. s Calvin saith, he prophesied at least 64 years although there be a probable conjecture, yea almost a certain reason that he prophesied 10 years more, viz. 74 in all. These two things are certain, 1. That Isaiah prophecied in the dayes of all those 4 Kings forenamed, Isa. 1. 1. and therefore that sometime in Uzziahs dayes must needs be allowed to him as well as in the rest. Nor doth that Vision hinder in Isa. 6. as t Calvin hath cleared it. 2. That Uzziah (alias Azariah, 2. Kings 15. 32.) reigned 52 years, 2 Kings 15. 1. 2. Jotham 16 years, 2 King. 15. 33. Ahaz 16 years, 2 King. 16. 1. 2. and Hezekiah 29 years, 2 Kings 18. 1, 2. The total of all their reigns together about 113. Now it's evident that Isaiah prophesied in the year that Uzziah dyed, Isa. 6. 1. and by the prophecies foregoing, that chap. it's likely he Prophesied before that a good while; u Calvin thinks, from the time that King Uzziah was smitten with Leprosie in the Temple. But suppose onely 2 years in all under Uzziah, 16 years under Jotham, 16 under Ahaz. 14 years under Hezekiah; for Hezekiah Reigning 29 years in all, in his 15 year Isaiah was sent to him in his sickness to tell him God would adde to his dayes 15 years, 2 King. 20. 4, 5, 6. and after that Isaiah threatens the Babylonish Captivity upon Hezekiah's shewing all his Treasures to the Babylonish Ambassadors, ver 14. &c. Here's in all 48. years clear. Now supposing that Isaiah was sawen asunder by Manasseh, there's 15. years more under Hezekiah, and one year at least under Manasseh; and so you have sixty four years in all, the time of Isaiah's Prophecy. O what a long time for him to preach to a rebellious and gainsaying People! Isaiah 65. 2. Rom. 10. 21. How patient and diligent then should Gods Ministers be in their functions, though their Peoples profitings for a long time answer not their labours among them.

Sect. III. Scope.

The chief aims of this Prophecy are 1 To detect, reprove, aggravate and condemn the sins of x Judah and Jerusalem especially, and after that, the iniquities of the Ten Tribes of Israel, and the abominations of many other Countries and People of the Gentiles, threatning against all sorts and degrees of Persons, Jews and Gentiles most severe judgements, 2 To invite Jews and Gentiles of all sorts, (except the Babylonians, who by reason of their Pride and Persecution of the Church of God, did bear the Image of the Kingdome of the World, and of the spiritual Babylon devoted to endless destruction with the Devil himself, no promise of Mercy at all being mingled with the threatnings of Babylon, as is usual in threatnings of all other People, which is very observable,) unto repentance and reformation, with many sweet alluring, Evangelical promises of pardon and mercy. 3. To comfort and support all the truely godly and faithful ones, (in midst of all the judgements and calamities threatned to wicked men and hypocrites,) with clear Promises of the true MESSIAH, as the onely sufficient remedy against all sin and misery, setting forth his Godhead, Manhood, Incarnation and Nativity of a Virgin, State of Humiliation and Exaltation, and the Execution of the office of a Saviour in both; As a Prophet by his wonderful Wisdome, heavenly Doctrine, &c. As a Priest by his manifold sufferings and death pathetically described; and as a King by his powerful and peaceable Government of his Church, enriching her with many blessings, and especially with the gift of the Holy-Ghost, and promising to enlarge her glory wonderfully by the plentiful access and conversion of the Gentiles unto her; which in this Prophet is more fully, and to the life described, than in any other.

Sect. IV. Principal Parts.

In this admirable Book are considerable, 1, The Inscription. 2. The Substance of the Prophecy it self.

I. The Inscription of the whole Prophecy, where are the 1. Penman, Isaiah. 2. Kind of it, Vision. 3. Object concerned herein, to whom it was especially intended, Judah and Jerusalem. 4. Time when, in dayes of 4. Kings, &c. Chap. I. ver. 1. Chap. 1.

II. The Substance of the whole Prophecy it self, in all that follows, is chiefly 1. Reprehensory, Chap. 1. to 13. 2. Minatory, Chap. 13. to 36. 3. Narratory, Chap. 36. to 40. 4. Promissory, Chap. 40. to the end of the Book.

REPREHENSORY, Sharp Reproofs and threatnings of the Jews for their sins, with promises to the Penitent intermingled, are laid down, Chap. 1. ver. 2, to Chap. 3. 11. More Particularly, they are blamed, for, 1.

1. Ingratitude under Mercies, ver. 2, 3, 4.

2. Incorrigibleness under universal judgements, much lamented, ver. 5. to 10.

3. Blood and other abominations abounding among them, For which all their Religious services were abominated of God, ver. 10. to 16. From which they are dehorted by promises to the Penitent, ver. 16. to 20. And threatnings to the Impenitent, ver. 20.

4. injustice

4. Injuſtice and cruel oppreſſion, eſpecially in the City Jeruſalem, 1. Deſcribed, ver. 21, 22, 23. 2. Aggravated, ver. 24. 3. Reſtauration of oppoſite judgement and righteouſneſs Promiſed, ver. 25, 26, 27. 4. Threatned, ver. 28. to the end of the Chap.

5. Multitude of their other ſins. Where, 1. Seeing former Reproofs prevailed not to reform the Jewes, the calling of the Gentiles and exalting of Chriſts Kingdome among them is promiſed, to provoke them to jealouſie, Chap. II. ver. 1. to 6. 2. Their various ſins like thoſe of other Countries are mentioned, ver. 6. to 10. 3. Theſe ſins ſharply threatned, ver. 10. to the end of the chap. and Chap. III. verſ. 1. to 9.

6. Impudency and boldneſs in ſinning, Deſcribed and threatned to the Wicked, with contrary Promiſes to the righteous, ver. 9. 10, 11.

7. Oppreſſion in their Rulers, ver. 11. to 16.

8. Pride in their Women, Deſcribed and ſeverely threatned with woful deſolation, ver. 16. to the end of the Chap. and Chap. IV. 1. Theſe threatnings being illuſtrated by oppoſite Promiſes of the Kingdome of Chriſt, the Branch, whereby the remnant of Iſrael eſcaped, ſhall be purified and protected, ver. 2. to the end of the chap.

9. Unthankfulrequitals of Chriſt for all his ſpiritual husbandry beſtowed upon the Church of the Jewes. Theſe requitals are deſcribed; 1. More Generally under the Parable of a Vineyard yielding wild-Grapes Chap. V. 1. to 8. 2. More Particularly, in many notorious inſtances of their wickedneſſe, wofully threatned, ver. 8. to the end of the chap.

10. Obſtinacy, Stupidity, and Obduratenes of the peoples hearts, which was not onely their ſin, but Gods judgement on them for reproving their ſin. 1. The Prophet is previouſly confirmed and encouraged by a Viſion of the LORD in his Glory, Chap. VI, 1. to 9. 2. Their obſtinacy, their ſin and Gods judgement upon them to their deſolation, deſcribed, ver. 9. to 13. 3. Promiſes of mercy (notwithſtanding) to the holy ſeed, ver. 13.

11. Diffidence and unbelief of King Ahaz and his people in times of Danger; where note 1. The Particular cauſe of their diffidence and fear, viz. the Conſpiracy of Rezin King of Syria, and Pekah King of Iſrael againſt Judah and Jeruſalem, Chap. VII. 2. 2. The Aggravation of their unbelief, 1. Partly, in that they took not courage at the comfortable meſſage of Iſaiah Gods Prophet, promiſing their preſervation, ver. 3. to 10. 2. Partly in that Ahaz diſtruſting the Prophet, refuſeth to ask a Signe, as God gave him liberty for his further eſtabliſhment, ver. 10. to 14. 3 Partly, by Gods promiſing to give them a Sign, viz.) Immanuel to be born of a Virgin. Chriſt being promiſed of old to the Church (in ꝛ whom all the Promiſes are yea and amen) that the faithful might by the promiſe of Chriſt be encouraged to believe all other promiſes generall and particular: therefore their unbelief of theſe promiſes of preſent deliverance was the worſe, ver. 14, 15, 16. 3. The ſad effects or conſequences of this unbelief, viz. 1. To King Ahaz; and his family and people, grievous deſolation by the Aſſyrians is threatned, ver. 17. to the end of the chap. 2. To Judah, (after Aſſyria ſhall have waſted Syria and Iſrael, Chap. 8. 1, 2, 3, 4.) whoſe judgements by the Aſſyrian are threatned irreſiſtably, ver. 5. to 11. and Amplified, Partly, by three ſorts of ſins (like a King Sauls ſins) the procurer of theſe judgements, viz. Carnal Confidence in outward means of ſafety, while God is diſtruſted, ver. 11. to 16. Pertinacious obſtinacy, the people not regarding, but ſlighting Gods prophecy, it was only to be imparted to his Diſciples, ver 16, 17, 18. Conſultation with Devils, ver. 19, 20. Partly by the extremity of the judgements themſelves, ver. 21, 22. 4. The Conſolations annexed, for the ſupport of the godly in Judah and Iſrael againſt theſe wofull future judgements; and this upon divers grounds, viz. 1. That theſe judgements ſhould not be ſo extream as former calamities, nor perpetual, becauſe of Gods kindneſs to his people in Chriſt to come into the World, who ſhould deliver his Church fully from all her miſeries by his Dominion, and his deliverance ſhould begin, where her diſtreſs began, in Galilee. Chap. IX. 1. to 8. This conſolation is amplified by a Deſcription of thoſe times wherein theſe evils were to be endured till Chriſts coming, for their 1 Pride, ver. 8. to 13. 2 Impenitency under judgements, ver. 13. to 18. 3 Obſtinate wickedneſs, ver. 18. to the end of the chap. And 4 Tyranny of their Governours, Ch. X. 1. to 5. 2. That the Aſſyrian, his peoples oppreſſing enemies, ſhall utterly be deſtroyed; here 1 The Aſſyrians deſtruction is propounded, ver. 5, 6. 2 Their counſels and actions whereby they procure to themſelves this deſtruction, is declared, ver. 7. to 16. 3 The courſe which the Lord will take for his peoples deliverance, ver. 16. to 28. with his whole expedition againſt the Aſſyrian for them. ver. 28. to the end of the chap. 3. That the Kingdome of Chriſt deſcending of the Royal ſtock, ſhall be erected among them, which is the Fountain of all deliverances General and Special, Temporal and Spiritual, Chap. XI. where the Perſon and Office of Chriſt are deſcribed, ver. 1. to 6. The effects of his Office declared, ver. 6. to the end of the chap. All theſe comforts finally are ſhut up with the Churches Song of Praiſe for theſe comforts againſt, and deliverances from all former calamities, Chap. XII. throughout.

Thus farre of that part of the Prophecy which is chiefly Reprehenſory.

MINATORY. Chap. XIII. to ch. 30. In this part of his Prophecy are threatnings, 1. Againſt the enemies of the Jewiſh Church. 2. Againſt the Jewes themſelves.

I. Againſt the enemies of the Jewiſh Church, many threatnings are denounced for the Churches ſake, chap. 13. to 28. As

1. Againſt BABYLON and the Chaldeans. Here 1. God muſtereth up his Armies from farre, Chap. XIII. 1. to 6. 2. Babylons deſtruction is threatned by the Medes and Perſians, ver. 6. to 19. 3. The woful ruine of Babylon is pathetically deſcribed, ver. 19. to the end of the chap. 4. The reſtauration of the Jewes hereupon from Babylons bondage is promiſed, Chap. XIV. 1, 2, 3. 5. The triumph of Gods People over Babylons ruines is lively delineated, ver. 4. to 24. 6. The Peremptorineſſe of Gods purpoſe to ruine Babylon, ver. 24. to 28. 7. The time of this burden in the year that King Ahaz died, ver. 29.

II. Againſt PALESTINA. Here the Philiſtines are threatned to be plagued by King Hezekiah, now beginning to reign, though they rejoyced at the death of his Predeceſſours, their enemies, ver. 29, 30, 31, 32.

III. Againſt MOAB. Where 1. Moabs lamentable condition, in her cities and towns, by reaſon of judgments threatned, is deſcribed, Ch. XV. throughout. 2. The procuring cauſes of thoſe judgments mentioned, viz. Moab's Perfidiouſneſs with Iſrael, in not paying e tribute of Lambs, as was agreed with David and Solomon, Chap. XVI. 1, 2. 2 Cruelty and inhumanity to neighbouring Iſrael, ver. 3, 4, 5. 3 Pride, ver. 6. to 22. 3. The confirmation of this Prophecy againſt Moab, and defining of the time, ver. 22, 23.

IV. Againſt DAMASCUS, the Metropolis of Syria and againſt Iſrael, confederate with Syria againſt Iudah. Where 1. The ruine of Syria and Iſrael is threatned, Chap. XVII. 1. to 6. 2. Mercy is promiſed to a ſmall remnant reforming, ver. 6, 7, 8. 3. The ſins, for which this ruine is threatned, ver. 9, 10, 11.

V. Againſt the ASSYRIANS, for waſting Iſrael, ver. 12, 13, 14.

VI. Againſt the ÆTHIOPIANS, 1. Their deſtruction is threatned for the good of Gods people, Chap. XVIII. 1. to 7. 2. Thereby the Church ſhall be increaſed, ver. 7.

VII. Againſt EGYPT. Where 1. Egypts deſtruction

Chap. 2. Chap. 3. Chap. 4. Chap. 5. Chap. 6. Chap. 7. Immanuel promiſed. (2 Cor. 1. 20. Chap. 8. 2 Chron. 10. 13. Chriſt firſt began his publick preaching of the Goſpel in Galilee, Mar. 4. 12. to 19. d Compare chap. 21. 2. and v. 9. XX. Against EGYPT called the Desert of the Sea. Where note 1. The threatning it self, setting forth the grievousnesse of her judgments, the causes thereof, and the instruments fulfilling them, Chap. XXI. 1. to 5. 2. A Prophetical vision declaring the manner of Babylons being taken, ver. 6. to 10. 3. An Apostrophe to the Church, confirming to her the certainty of this Prophecy, ver. 10.

Chap. 21. X. Against IDUMEA, called Dumah, wherein are 1. A Question of the scornful Idumean to the watchman, what he [illegible] of the night, ver. 11. 2. The watchmans answer inviting him to repentance, ver. 12.

XI. Against ARABIA. Where 1. The destruction of the Arabians is threatned, ver. 13, 14, 15. 2. The time of this destruction is defined, ver. 16, 17.

XII. Against JUDEA and JERUSALEM under the name of e The valley of Vision. (The burden is inserted among the rest, to evidence Gods impartiality to his Justice, and the Peoples impunity if they sin, judgment beginning at the house of God.) Here are 1. General threatnings against Judah and Jerusalem; containing 1. A Description of their lamentable calamities coming upon them, Chap. XXII. 1. to 8. 2. The procuring causes of these calamities, viz. their security in munitions and fenced cities, neglect of God, impenitency, luxury in time of publique miseries, and contempt of the Prophets, Let us eat and drink, &c. ver. 8. to 14. 3. The Conclusion, wherein is Gods resolute sentence of plaguing them, ver. 14. II. Particular threatnings against Shebna, an old Comjet, set over the Kings house (as is supposed) in King Ahaz his time, whom King Hezekiah could not easily remove, he is thought to countenance evil doers, and hinder Reformation. Here, 1. The removal of Shebna is denounced, ver. 15. to 20. 2. The substitution of Eliakim into his place and office, ver. 20. to the end of the chap.

e Compare c 22. 1. with v. 8. 10.

XIII. Finally against TYRE. Where note 1. Tyres miserable destruction is described, Ch. XXIII. 1. to 15. 2. How long her miseries shall last, 70. years ver. 15, 16, 17. 3. Tyres conversion to the Church at last, is promised, ver. 18.

Chap. 23.

As a Close or Conclusion to all these former COMMINATIONS, here is annexed another Sermon of the Prophets, contained in ch. 24, 25, 26, 27. wherein note chiefly these three parts, viz.

1. A Prophetical Narration of the judgments which God would for his Churches sake effect. Here consider 1. Gods judgments upon the earth, and his favour to his Church, Chap. XXIV. 1. to 16 2. The confirmation of these threatned judgments, that they shall come to passe; Partly, from their present sins which God cannot but be avenged of, v. 16, 17, 18. Partly, from the faithfulnesse of all creatures in heaven and earth to execute them, v. 19. to the end of the chap. 3. The use which the Church shall make hereof, viz. She shall celebrate his praise for it, Chap.

Chap. 24.

Chap. 25. XXV. 1. to 6.

2. A Declaration of the form and manner both in which God will execute these judgments, and in which the Church shall praise the Lord for so doing. I. The form how God will execute his judgments, 1. Partly, by inviting the Nations his enemies, by his word, to partake of Christs banquet, viz. Communion with him in his Spiritual provisions, v. 6. to 10. 2. Partly, by destroying the contumacious, that proudly exalt themselves against him, v. 10, 11, 12. II. The form how the Church shall praise the LORD for these precedents foretold. Chap. XXVI. throughout. Wherein [illegible] are, 1. The Churches Gratulation for her [illegible] deliverance from captivity, promised, and her [illegible] diligence, v. 1, 2, 3. 2. An exhortation hereupon to [illegible] trust in God, v. 4, 5, 6. 3. A Profession of her [illegible] in God for her perpetual defence & her [illegible] overturned, annulled by the exasperation of her [illegible] the manner of her dwelling [illegible] and the certainty of Gods Promise, [illegible] to [illegible]

3. An instruction of the people of God, 1. [illegible] their Office, viz. to trust in God in times of [illegible] publique judgments, v. [illegible] 2. Touching Gods [illegible] which are partly from bringing down her [illegible] and strongest enemies, v. [illegible] and Chap. XXVII. 1. Chap. 27. Partly for advancing the Churches happinesse by the singular care and watchfulnesse of the Lord over her, v. 2. to the end of the chap.

Thus farre of Gods threatnings chiefly against the enemies of Gods Church the Jewes.

II. Against the Jewes themselves, many [illegible] also are pronounced, ch. 28. to 36. Both in respect of Israels captivity by the Assyrians, and Judahs by the Babylonians.

1. Israels Captivity is threatned by the Assyrians for their pride and drunkennesse; and this for a warning to Judah, Chap. XXVIII. 1. to 5. This is Chap. 28. amplified by a Prophecy touching Judah, wherein are, 1. A promise of defending the godly, and preserving the Kingdome of Judah, notwithstanding the captivity of the ten tribes, v. 5, 6. 2. A complaint and accusation against Judah for their sins, v. 7. to 14. 3. A denouncing of punishments for them, mingled with some consolations of the godly in the Messiah to come, v. 14. to 22. 4. An exhortation to make a right use of all by repentance, v. 22. to the end.

II. Judahs and Jerusalems Captivity (under the name of f Ariel,) is threatned by the Babylonians. f Ariel. Herein consider Heb. The Lyon of the strong God. 1. Jerusalem is so called because it was [illegible] a most strong place; saith Hierome on this v. 2. Some think the Temple is so called, because it was built in figure somewhat like a Lyon, the fore part broad, the hinder part narrow. 3. Some think hereby is especially meant the Altar; the Altar of the New Jerusalem, being called Ariel, in Ezek. 43. 16. this is further confirmed by that speech, Isa. 29. 2. And it shall be to me as Ariel. The Altar is called Ariel, either because of the strength of Gods Promise, or because like a Lyon it devoured the Sacrifices; or because the Altar was a token of Gods Presence, and consequently of the cities safety. Synechdochically the Temple and City are called Ariel, and threatned under that name, because the Jewes placed more safety in the Altar, a pledge of Gods Presence, than in any thing else. Vid. Calv. in loc. Pareus in loc. Jun. Annot. in loc.

1. The deep calamities of Jerusalem by the Babylonians, and rejection of the Jewes threatned, Chap. Chap. 29. XXIX. 1. to 9. For, 1. Their senseless stupidity, v. 9. to 13. 2. Their hypocrisie, v. 13, 14. 3. Their Atheistical security, notwithstanding Gods all-seeing eye, v. 15, 16, 17. 2. This threatning is amplified by the care that God will take in midst of these judgments, to preserve and sanctifie his Church against all Concussions, ver. 18. to the end of the chap.

2. The woe threatned to the Jewes for departing from God, and relying on Egypt for help against her enemies, wherein are, 1 the summe of the judgments threatned, Chap. XXX 1. to 8. 2. The Lords Chap. 30. command to the Prophet to make a record of their perverseness and rebellion in a Book, whereby they pull down vengeance on their heads, v. 8. to 15. 3. The contest betwixt God and the People, comparing their rebellion with his command, v. 15. declaring their great calamities, v. 16, 17, Promising restauration and great mercies to the faithful in his Church that wait for him, v. 18. to 27. 4. The confirmation of this Prophecy, by the destruction of

Sennacherib

Sennacherib King of Assyria threatned, ver. 27. to the end of the chap. 3. The folly and vanity of trusting in Egypt for help, especially God himself being resolved to protect Mt. Sion, if they would repent
Chap. 31. and turn to him, Chap. XXXI. 1. to 8. and to destroy the Assyrian, v. 8, 9.

3. Divers consolations propounded to the Elect against those foretold calamities, drawn from the Kingdome of Christ, which afterwards shall be erected among them, Chap. XXXII. Where are, 1. An Chap. 32. excellent Representation of the constitution and condition of Christs Kingdome, v. 1. to 9. 2. An Exhortation of the Jewes to prevent by Repentance the calamities threatned before the constitution of this Kingdome of Christ, ver. 9. to 15. 3. A Narration of the blessings of Christs kingdome, ver. 15. to the end of the chap. 4. Gods Destruction of the Churches enemies when they are at the highest, she at lowest, is Chap. 33. 1. Threatned, Chap. XXXIII. 1. to 13. 2. Illustrated by the terror of Sions sinners and hypocrites hereat, ver. 13, 14. And by the opposite safety, and glorious blessings of the upright, elegantly described ver. 15. to the end of the chap. 3. Described most Chap. 34. lively and pathetically. Ch. XXXIV. 1. to 16. 4. Confirmed as inevitable, ver. 16, 17. 5. Hereupon the joyes and consolations of the Church of God shall be wonderfull, through the Gospel and flourishing Kingdome of Christ, most Rhetorically deli-

Thus far of that branch of this Prophecy which is chiefly Minatory.

III. NARRATORY, or Historical. viz. An Historical Narration of the state of King Hezekiahs Kingdome, of his great dangers, and wonderfull deliverances. This history seems to be here inserted, 1. Partly, for faiths confirmation and illustration of the former Prophecies and Promises touching the Churches safety, and her enemies destruction; described especially in ch. 33. 34, 35. preceeding. 2. Partly, as an occasion of the Prophets speaking such glorious things of the most happy, safe and flourishing Kingdome of Christ in the following part of the Prophecy. This is laid down in chap. 36. to 40.

This History is twofold, 1. More General. 2. More Particular.

1. More Generall and Publique, in reference to the whole Kingdome of Judah and Jerusalem, where,
1. Senacherib King of Assyria's invading of Judah, and Chap. 36. taking all the fenced cities. Ch. XXXVI. 1.

2. His Summoning of Jerusalem twice, By Rabshekah. 1. By word of mouth; Rabshekah with a great Army, being come up to Jerusalem, solliciteth the people to revolt to him, with many insolent brags, revilings and blasphemies, v. 2. to 22 Amplified 1. By the report hereof to King Hezekiah, ver. 22. 2. By Hezekiah's great perplexity at the report, send-Chap. 37. to the Prophet Isaiah to pray for them, Ch. XXXVII. 1. to 6. 3. By Isaiah's Message back to the King from the Lord, encouraging him with their deliverance, and Senacheribs destruction in his own land, v. 6, 7. II. By a blasphemous Letter to King Hezekiah, ver. 8. to 14. Touching which, note, 1. Hezekiahs Acts about the Letter, he spreads it before the Lord in the Temple, and by Prayer indites Senacherib at Gods Bar, by Evidence of his own Letter, ver. 14. to 21. 3. Isaiahs Prophecy against proud insolent Senacherib, promising diversion of the enemy, and the safe preservation of Jerusalem, v. 21. to 35. 4 The events upon this Prophecy, viz. The whole Army destroyed by an Angel in one night, v. 35. Senacheribs return to Nineveh, ver. 37. His untimely death, as he was in the Act of his Idolatry, ver. 38.

II. More Particular in reference to King Hezekiah himself, wherein note
Chap. 38. 1. Hezekiah's mortal sickness, Chap. XXXVIII. Amplified 1. By the message of death sent him from the Lord by Isaiah the Prophet, v. 9. 2. By Hezekiahs, prayers and tears upon that message, verse 2, 3.

2. Hezekiah's Recovery, 1. Promised by the Prophet Isaiah, and the Promise confirmed by a sign, § The Sun going back ten degrees, ver. 4. to 20. 2. Celebrated by Hezekiah in his Thankful writing, v. 9. to 21. 3. Described, Partly by the means applyed for his recovery, v. 21. Partly by the occasion of Gods giving him a sign, viz. Hezekiah's sickness, v. 22.

§ The Sun goeth back ten degrees

3 Merodach-Baladan King of Babylon, Congratulation of Hezekiah's Recovery, by Letters and a Present sent to him, Ch. XXXIX. 1. Amplified 1. By Hezekiah's entertainment of them with gladness, imprudently shewing them all his treasures, v. 2. 2. By Isaiahs threatning hereupon the Babylonish captivity, occasioned by this act of Hezekiah, which threatning, Hezekiah submissively receives, ver. 3. to the end of the chap. Chap. 39.

Thus far of that part of this Prophecy which is chiefly Narratory.

IV. PROMISSORY, consisting principally of sweetest Evangelical Promises. 1. For Restauration of the Church of the Jews from the misery that should befall them then in the Babylonish captivity ch. 39. to 49. 2. For compleating and consummation of the Churches deliverance and glory in the Gospel times by Christ himself, adding the Gentiles unto his Church, ch. 49. to the end.

I. CONSOLATORY PROMISES of delivering the Jews by Cyrus (the first Persian Monarch) from the Babylonian captivity; under which is mystically shadowed out the Elects spiritual deliverance by the Messiah (the fountain of all freedome,) from sin, death, hell; (which is the height and glory of all deliverances.) Now these consolatory promises are 1. Generall. 2. Speciall.

1. General Promises, for the comforting of the church of God in all ages against greatest extremities miseries and straits, by Evangelical promises of spiritual deliverance in Christ the true Messiah, ch. 40. to 43. v. 14. Here observe,

1. The Gospel Doctrine and consolation is propounded, the Church hath paid double in Christ for Chap. 40. all her sins, Chapt. XL. 1, 2. hereupon her deliverance against all difficulties, is 1. Published, 1. By the preaching of h John Baptist Christs fore-runner, vers. 3. to 9. 2. By the preaching of the Apostles and other Ministers of the Gospel, ver. 9. 10, 11. II. Confirmed by divers Arguments drawn, 1. Partly, from Gods ability to deliver them, being incomparably excelling all creatures in Power, ver. 12. Wisdome, ver. 13, 14. Infinite Majesty, v. 15, 16, 17. Whereupon the folly and vanity of idolmakers, &c. is reproved, ver. 8. to 27. and his peoples diffidence in God in straits is blamed, ver. 27. to the end of the chapt. 2. Partly, from Gods singular Chap. 41. benefits shewed to Abraham of old, and to his Church, chap. XLI. to 10. III. Repeated; here are many encouraging promises touching Gods all-sufficient protection and deliverance of his people, but the destruction of their enemies, ver. 10. to 21. Now all these consolations are concluded with an elegant confutation of all vain confidence in idols, or any thing else: God alone in Christ being the deliverer of his people, verse 21. to the end of the chap.

2. Christ the true Messiah (Author of all deliverance and happinesse to his Church) is Evangelically described, ch. 42. 1. to ch. 43. 18. where 1 Christs
Chap. 42. Office to the Church, according to Gods vocation of him, Chap. XLII. 1. to 10. amplified by the Churches duty of thankfulnesse to Christ, ver. 10, 11, 12. 2. The Acts which God will do by Christ lively represented, ver. 13 to 18, 3. His people are. 1 Partly taxed for their great stupidity and incredulity, ver. 18. to the end. 2. Partly encouraged and comforted with sweet promises of Gods compassions, deliver-Chap. 43 rances, and salvations of his Church in Christ, Chap. XLIII. 1. to 14.

II. Special or Particular Promises for the comfort of the Jewes against their future Babylonish Captivity, assuring them of deliverance thence, by Cyrus the Per-

Gen. ch. &c. &c. as opened this 3. Summarily, 2. Largely.

1. Summarily and more obscurely: wherein 1. Babylon is threatned, vers. 14. 15. 16. 17. 2. The Jews are promised a deliverance from it, not for their sakes, but for his own grace, pardoning their sin, vers. 1. to the end of the chap. and beholding his people as righteous even then in Christ, Chap. XLIV. 1. to 5.

Chap. 44.

2. Largely and more clearly, wherein I. By way of Exordium, as it were, God asserts his faithfulness, encouraging his people in the certainty of his Promises; 1. From his own eternal omnipotent & most constant nature, not like the vain and foolish Idols of Babylon, vers. 6. to 21. 2. From his faithful Covenant with Israel, ver. 1, 22, 23. and the excellent effect of that Covenant that should come to passe on Israel by Cyrus, ver. 24. to the end of the chap. II. God makes a Narration of his wonderfull Acts that he will do by Cyrus in destroying Babylon, and reforming Israel out of it. Where 1. The Nomination, divine call and assistance of Cyrus to this great work, Chap. XLV. 1, 2, 3, 4. 2. The Causes as it were inducing God hereunto, viz. Partly, that God and his faithfulness to his people may be acknowledged by Cyrus, by the Nations, and by all creatures, ver. 5, 6, 7, 8. Partly, that Babylons blasphemy and wickedness may be plagued, ver. 9. to 14. Partly, That hereby the Nations farre and near may be brought to serve and worship God with his Church, ver. 14. to 28. whom God invites to himself with promises of confirming and increasing them in the knowledge and faith of Christ, ver. 18. to the end. 3. The impossibility of preventing this work of God; For, all Babylons idols cannot prevent it, being unable to help themselves, and no way comparable to God, Chap. XLVI. throughout. All Babylons wisdome, power, witchcrafts shall not be able to prevent it: Babylon being devoted to destruction for her unmercifulness to the Jewes and her intolerable pride, Ch. XLVII. throughout. 4. Gods consultation with his people about this their deliverance, as being not at all for their sakes, they being hypocritical and obstinate in wickedness, Chap. XLVIII. 1. to 9. but meerly for his own glory and righteousness sake, ver. 9, 10, 11. 5. The Confirmation of this Prophecy, by the greatness of God, and his works, ver. 12. to 16. III. The Conclusion of these Premises for their deliverance; Wherein God 1. Intimateth to them the cause of their suffering in Babylon, viz. their own disobedience to God, ver. 16. to 20. 2. II. CONSOLATORY PROMISES of compleating the Spiritual deliverance and glory of the Church, especially in the accession of the Gentiles under the Gospel, by the true Messiah, chap. 49. to the end of the book. Herein consider,

Chap. 49.

1. The Preface to all these Evangelical Promises. Wherein is the summe of what is afterwards more largely explained. As, 1. Christs call to his Mediatory Office, Chap. XLIX. 1, 2, 3. 2. Christs complaint of the frustration of his endeavours in gathering the Jews, ver. 4. 3. Christs comfort from the LORD (though Israel be not gathered) in the calling of the Gentiles by him, to the great joy of the Church, ver. 5. to 14. Amplified, Partly by Gods perpetual love to his Church, though the Jewes thought themselves forsaken, ver. 14. to 18. Partly, by the great enlargement and prosperity of the Church, Kings and Queens being their nursing fathers and mothers, ver. 18. to 24. Partly, by her great deliverance and protection against all her enemies, ver. 24, 25, 26.

II. Comforts and Reproofs to the Jewes, especially touching Gods forsaking of them. Herein consider,

1. Christs expostulation with the Jewes about their dereliction, demonstrating that it was from themselves and their own sins, not from any that they were forsaken. 1. From his ability to save them, Chap. L. 1. to 5. 2. From his readiness to do, or endure any thing, through divine assistance to that end, ver. 5. to 10.

Chap. 50.

2. Christs invitation of them to faith and repentance, whether they were godly or impenitent, ver. 10, 11. The godly reassured being encouraged to believe in the LORD: 1. From their former deliverance, example, Chap. LI. 1, 2. 2. From Gods promises to Sion, ver. 3. 3. From his everlasting righteousness and salvation, ver. 4. to 9. This Exhortation is amplified. 1. By the Remnants fruitful prayer to God for this salvation promised, ver. 9, 10, 11. II. Gods Answer returned to that prayer, wherein the faithful Remnant of the Jews are comforted against their Adversaries. 1. By the vast disparity between their enemies imbecility on the one hand, the Churches dignity, and Gods omnipotency on the other hand, ver. 12, 13. 2. By Promises of their Restauration, whereupon they are encouraged to wait on God for their deliverance, and their enemies destruction, ver. 14. to the end of the chap.

Chap. 51.

3. Christs exhortation of the remnant of the Jewes, 1. To embrace him and his free Redemption of them out of bondage and misery, Chap. LII. 1. to 7. 2. To accept joyfully the Ministers and Ministry of the Gospel, which publisheth the glorious constitution of Christs Kingdom in his Person, after his deep humiliation ver. 7. to the end of the chap.

Chap. 52.

4. The reprehension of the Jewish Church for not believing the Gospel of Christ, but being scandalized thereat; Partly, from his infirmity and meanness, Partly from his Cross, Chap. LIII. 1, 2, 3. Amplified by the remedy applied against this scandal, viz. A Declaration, 1. Of the true causes of his low meanness and sufferings; not his own, but our sins laid upon him as our Surety, ver. 4. to 8. 2. Of the glorious events of all his visible meanness and sufferings, viz. his own glorious deliverance from them, and his Churches saving benefits by them, ver. 8. to the end of the chap.

Chap. 53.

5. Christs death being described (at which the Jewes were scandalized) in former chap. Next, the happy fruits and effects of his Death upon his Church, especially in respect of the Gentiles, are promised and declared: 1. More Generally, 2. More Particularly. 1. More Generally, in reference to the whole Church, Chap. LV. wherein note, 1. The Propagation of the Church among the Gentiles throughout all the world, promised, ver. 1, 2, 3. 2. Her constant reconciliation to, or marriage with God in Christ, confirmed, ver. 4. to 11. 3. Her beautiful and glorious Restauration, and Protection against all her enemies, ver. 11. to the end of the chap. II. More particularly, in reference to those that were to be regenerated and called: wherein 1. They are kindly invited to faith in Christ, Ch. LV. 1. to 6. 2. They are called to repentance and reformation, ver. 6, 7. 3. These duties are enforced by several Arguments and Evangelical Promises, ver. 8. to the end of the chap. 4. They are invited to holiness of life, with promises of blessedness, Ch. LVI. 1, 2. 5. Discouraging Objections are answered, that might deterre any from coming in to Christ; the Stranger and Eunuch shall be accepted, if they will repent and believe, ver. 3. to 9.

Chap. 54.

Chap. 55.

Chap. 56.

6. The grievous judgments by many sorts of adversaries, as Assyrians, Babylonians, Grecians, &c. are threatned to the Jewes for their sins. Here are, 1. The judgments themselves threatned, ver. 9. II. The Sinnes procuring these judgments, viz. 1. The blindness, sluggishness, covetousnesse, and sensuality of their watchmen, ver. 10, 11, 12. 2. The stupid security of the people, not considering how the righteous are taken away from wrath to come, Chap. LVII. 1, 2. 3. Their whorish idolatry, ver. 4 to 13. Amplified, Partly by promises of favour and pardon to them that will trust in the LORD and repent, ver. 13. to 20.

Chap. 57.

18. to 20. Partly by threatnings of disquiet to the wicked impenitent, ver. 20, 21. 4. Their hypocrisie, and that particularly in external Fasting and Sabbath-keeping; directing them how to fast, and how to sanctifie the Sabbath truly, with several promises
Chap. 58. thereto, Chap. LVIII. throughout. 5. Their manifold corruptions and iniquities particularized, procurers Chap. 59. of all their calamities, Chap. LIX. 1. to 9. Amplified 1 Partly by the Prophets bewailing these sins in the Churches name, ver. 9. to 16. 2 Partly by the Lords Promises to deliver and save the penitent among them, whilst his enemies shall be destroyed, ver. 20. to the end of the chap.

III. Sweetest Evangelical Promises and Comforts to the Church, especially in reference to the Calling of the GENTILES. Herein are considerable,

1. The surpassing glory of the Church in the conversion of the Gentiles thereto. Here, 1. The Church is incited by the LORD to shine forth in the Chap. 60. light of the Gospel, Chap. LX. 1, 2, 3. 2. The great multitude of Gentiles from all Nations flowing into the Church, ver. 4. to 15. 3. The singular benefits accrewing to the Church by accesse of the Gentiles, ver. 15. to the end.

2. The office and influence of Christ for procuring his Churches glory and happinesse. Here note 1.
Chap. 61. The Office, and Qualifications of Christ thereunto, Chap. LXI. 1, 2, 3. 2. The excellent effects of that Office upon the Church, ver. 4. to the end of the chap.
3. Christs fervent desire to crown his Church with Chap. 62. perfect glory, Chap. LXII. 1. to 6. 4. His appointment of Watchmen in his Church incessantly to promote her happiness, by prayer and preaching the Gospel, ver. 6. to the end. 5. His victory over his Churches enemies, having stained his raiment with Chap. 63. their blood, Chap. LXIII. 1. to 7.

3. The Churches addresse to God for relief in her great afflictions. 1. Acknowledging Gods ancient loving-kindnesses to his people Israel, ver. 7. to 15. 2. Praying earnestly for the favour of the LORD to them in the restauration of their Cities and Sanctuary laid waste for their sins, which they lament, ver. 15. Chap. 64.
to the end, and Chap. LXIV. throughout. To this prayer, the LORD returns Answer, wherein he declares, 1. The calling of the Gentiles (able to make a Church, though Jews be cast off) Chap. LXV. 1. Chap. 65.
2. The Rejection of the Jews for their unbelief, idolatry and hypocrisie, ver. 2. to 8. Yet the Reservation of a Remnant repenting, ver. 8. to 11. to whom blessings are promised contrary to the judgments of the wicked, ver. 11. to 17. 3. The blessed and joyful state of the New Jerusalem, made up of the Gentiles and remnant of the faithful Jews, is admirably described, ver. 17. to the end.

4. The Rejection of the Jewish Synagogue, Temple &c. and the Constitution of the Christian Church under the New Testament is described, Chap. LXVI. Chap. 66.
Wherein, 1. He declareth against hypocrites and ungodly ones, that no outward Sanctuary nor external Sacrifices can please him, without inward poverty of spirit, contrition and trembling at his word; and therefore wicked hypocrites should be destroyed ver. 1. to 5. 2. He encourageth the gracious Remnant that tremble at his Word, by the confusion of hypocrites, &c. and the conversion of children to the Church, ver. 5. to 10. 3. exhorteth the Churches friends to rejoyce with her, that they may share in her happinesse, ver. 10. to 15. 4. He promiseth excellent blessings and glory to his Church, increased by the calling of the Gentiles. New Heavens, New Earth, while their wicked enemies shall be destroyed, ver. 15. to the end of the Book.

TO

ISAIAH

VIZ.

A Song, touching Gods degenerated Vineyard, the Church of the Jewes.

Isaiah 5. 1. to 8.

Sect. I.

l Isa. 16, 10. and 27. 2. m Carmen lamentabile populo Israel. Carmen lugubre vineæ suæ Hier. com. in Isa. 5. Tom. 5. n A Vineyard resembles a church, five wayes

IN time of Vintage, l Songs of joy and mirth in their Vineyards were usual among friends when they had a pleasful Vintage: But here contrariwise is a Mournful Song touching Gods vineyard. S. Hierome stiles it m a Lamentable Song, and a sorrowful Song. And indeed, if the Occasion, Subject-matter, and Scope of it be well considered, it justly deserves that title: For, as the Church may fitly be resembled by a Vineyard, A Vineyard n 1. Excelling other fields. 2. Being mean and feeble in fruit-trees. 3. Needing constant dressing and watching. 4. Her fruit being of great value. Judg. 9. 13. Psal. 104, 15. 5. And her stemme, if fruitless, of small or no consequence at all, Ezek. 15. throughout: So under the Parable of a degenerate Vineyard, the degenerate Church of God among the Jewes is reproved, & threatned with desolation for their sowre Grapes of all manner of unrighteousnes. This Reproof is digested into the form of a Song, probably 1. To procure the more heedfull attention to it. 2. To move and affect their hearts more throughly with the matter of it. 3. To imprint it more indelibly in their memories, that (if possibly) this extraordinary way of Admonition might do them good, the ordinary way proving so fruitless to them. Penman of it was this Prophet Isaiah, as cannot be reasonably doubted by any; it being here inserted in the body of his Prophecy, and no where ascribed to any other Author.

Sect. II.

Occasion of this Song was the extream degenerate condition of Gods Vineyard, after all his heavenly husbandry bestowed thereon: viz. The hainous impieties and iniquities of the Church of the Jewes, after all the means of Grace which God had bestow'd upon them above all people then in the world. Scope, 1. To convince them of Gods great kindnesse to them, affording them all good husbandry and means of fruitfulnesse: But of their deep unkindness to him in the ingrateful returns of no better fruit than the wild Grapes of grievous sins. 2. To forewarne them of the utter ruine and desolation that God would bring upon that degenerate Vineyard, without timely Repentance. 3. To evidence, even to their own consciences, their own inexcuseableness, and Gods inculpableness herein. 4. Finally, to warne all the Churches of Christ (by Gods dealing with his Vineyard) that they bring not forth wild-grapes after all Christs Gospel-husbandry, lest they be unchurched and destroyed.

Sect. III.

Principal Parts to this end, are

1. The Preface to the Song setting forth 1. The Singer of this Song, viz. [I.] The Prophet Isaiah. 2. The Object to whom this Song is sung, [To my Beloved, A Song of my Beloved.] viz. o To God; this is Gods Song, God is here brought in as speaking against his Vineyard. Isaiah calls him [Beloved,] from the love and zeal he bears to God, thus unthankfully requited by his Church. 3. The Subject-matter, or Theme of the Song, [Touching his Vineyard] viz. The Jewish Church, Isa. c. V. 1. 7.

o Thus Hierom. Calvin. Pareus in Ile. Some interpret it of Christ, and so the words may be taken as the Song of the Prophet in the Name of God the Father to his Son intrusted with his Vineyard. Vid. Jun. Annot. in loc.

II. The Substance of the Song it self, containing 1. A Parable. 2. The Interpretation of it.

I. The Parable is of a degenerate Vineyard; Where note, I. A Commendation, 1. Partly of the Vineyards most fruitful situation, ver. 1. 2. Partly of the Lords singular care in fencing, stoning, planting, and defending of his Vineyard, ver. 2. II. An Exprobration or upbraiding of the Vineyard for its degenerating.

ing. Herein the Lord. Declares how his hopes of fruit were fruſtrated by wilde-grapes, v. 2. 2. Appeals even to the men of Judah and Jeruſalem themſelves, to judge betwixt him and his Vineyard, that in their own conſciences they might condemn themſelves, and juſtifie Gods proceedings againſt them, ver. 3, 4. 3. Expoſtulates with his Vineyard about this cauſleſſe degenerating, ver. 4. III. A Manifeſtation of the Lords determinate purpoſe utterly to lay this Vineyard waſte, fenceleſs, fruitleſs, v. 5, 6.

II. The Interpretation, or Accommodation of this Parable to the Church of the Jews, wherein is declared, 1. What this Vineyard is, viz. The houſe of Iſrael and men of Judah. 2. What the Grapes which God expected were, viz. Judgment and Righteouſneſs. 3. What the wild-Grapes which in ſtead thereof they returned, were, viz. Oppreſſion like a Leproſie-ſcab, and a cry of their ſins for vengeance from Heaven, ver. 7. In which oppoſite termes in the Hebrew, there is, as p Hierome notes, a moſt elegant Paronomaſia, or alluſion in both the letters and ſounds of the words.

p Voluntas Latinis inſinuare auribus, quod ab Hebræis didicimus. Judicium apud eos appellatur משפט Iniquitas, ſive diſſipatio, ut interpretatus eſt Aquila; משפח Rurſum, Juſtitia dicitur צדקה Clamor autem appellatur צעקה Unâ itaque vel additâ literâ, vel mutatâ, ſic verborum ſimilitudinem temperavit, ut pro משפט diceret משפח, & pro צדקה poneret צעקה & elegantem ſtructuram ſonumque verborum juxta Hebraam linguam redderet, &c. B. Hieronym. Comment. in Iſai. 5. Tom. 5.

(Sing this as Pſal. 1. or 23.)

Iſa. V.

1. Now will I ſing to my well-beloved, a Song of my beloved touching his Vineyard.

q Ver. 1 A vineyard was to my beloved in an horn of the ſon oyl

A q Vineyard my Beloved had

But it ſtrangely degenerating
Corrupt wild-grapes u brought-forth,
3. And now, conſider ye I ſay,
That x Salem's dwellers be,
And y men of Judah, judge I-pray;
'Twixt my Vineyard and z me.

4. What to my Vineyard could be done
More than therein I wrought?
Why a look't I it ſhould bring-forth-Grapes,
And it wild-grapes forth-brought?
5. And b now I'le tell you what c I'le do
To my Vineyard, and crop:
It's hedge d I will remove, and ſo
e It ſhall be eaten-up:

Thereof I-will-break down the wall,
And it f trod-down ſhall be.
6. And g I will lay it waſte, it ſhall
Not once be prun'd by me
Nor dig'd, but Bri'r and Thorne alone,
Shall there come-up, and ſtand:
i The clouds from raining rain thereon
Likewiſe I will command.

The Churches Song of Praiſe; For her great Deliverance from Babylon's Captivity. and Glorious Benefits by Chriſt her Saviour:

Iſa. XII. throughout.

Sect. I.

Occaſion upon which the Prophet Iſaiah Penned this Song of Praiſe; ſeems by the context to be this: The Lord having threatned to chaſtiſe his People the Jewes, with the Babyloniſh Captivity, for their ſins, Chap. 10. ver. 5. to 12. promiſeth to a remnant a glorious deliverance thence, and withal the Aſſyrians deſtruction for their pride and cruelty againſt his People ver. 12. to the end. And hereupon takes Occaſion to promiſe the bleſſed and peaceable Kingdome of Chriſt. ſ (that branch of the ſtemme of Jeſſe,) and the ſweet effects thereof, viz. the ſpiritual Reſtauration of the Jewes, and vocation of the Gentiles which are the higheſt deliverances and benefits of all whereof that of Babylon was but a dim ſhadow, Chap. II. throughout. In which Promiſes he makes an elegant parallel betwixt Egypt and Babylon for his peoples comfort, viz. 1. The Aſſyrian ſhall afflict the Jews after the manner of Egypt, Iſa. 10. 24. 2. The Assyrian for this shall be scourged and destroyed after the manner of Egypt, Isa. 10.25, 26. &c. 3. The Jews thereupon shall be delivered from Assyria chiefly, passing through the Red-sea, &c. like as it was in Israels case that he came up out of the land of Egypt, Isa. 11. 15, 16. 4. Hereupon Israel delivered from the Egyptians in the Red-Sea, sung a Song of praise, Exod. 15. 1. &c. So the Jews delivered from Babylon, shall sing this thankful Song in that day, Isa. 12. 1. as Hierome hath well observed.

a Et dices in die illa.] Quicquid in solitudine dixeratis, quando ascendistis de terrâ Ægypti, & mare siccatum est rubrum: Cantemus domino, gloriosè enim magnificatus est, &c. Nunc percussa lingua maris Ægypti, & flumine illius arefacto atque conciso & humiliato, glorificate dominum & dicite: Confitebor tibi domine, quoniam qui iram mihi & furorem tuum, misericordiam conversus fecisti, tu es enim salvator meus, &c. B. Hieron. Comment. in Isa. 12.

Sect. II.

Scope; To incite the Church of God by this forme of Thanksgiving, put into her hands aforehand by the Prophet 1. To expect these deliverances promised more confidently, as a thing already Past, and celebrated in thankful Praises. 2. Thankfully to magnifie the Lord, for removing his displeasure, discovered in her deep distresses, for saving her from her miseries, and crowning her with many benefits and mercies in Christ Jesus.

b Vid. Calv. Com. in loc. Comment.

Sect. III.

Principal parts: In this Song, consider

The Proem or Preface to it, viz. The Prophets exhortation of the Church, thus to praise the Lord in the day of her deliverance, Chap. XII. 1.

The Song of praise it self. Containing

1. The Churches Resolution to praise the LORD, ver. 1. Amplified by the grounds hereof, viz. 1. Gods turning from his displeasure in afflicting her. 2. His consolation to her, ver. 1. 3. His becoming her salvation and strength in redeeming and delivering her, therefore he deserves to be her confidence and Song, ver. 2. and an ever-springing Well of all comfortable supplies in necessities, ver. 3.

2. The Churches Invitation of her Members and others, to magnifie God with her throughout the world: 1. For his glorious Name. 2. For his excellent Acts, famous throughout all the earth, ver. 4, 5. 3. For the greatnesse of the Holy One of Israel in the Church, ver. 6.

(This Song may be Tuned as Ps. 1. or 23.)
Isa. XII.

1. And in that day thou shalt say; ——

O LORD, p I will thy Praise-display;
Though wroth with me thou wast,
Thine Anger now is turn'd away,
q Me comforted-thou-hast.
2. Lo, God is my Salvation:
I'le trust and will not fear;
For Jah JEHOVAH is alone
My strength and Song full dear
r Hee's my Salvation, and none else
3. And ye with joy shall ay
Draw waters from Salvation's Wells
4. And in that day shall say;

p Heb. I will confesse thee. q Heb. And.

r Heb. And he was to me for salvation.

s Laud ye the LORD, call on his Name;
Among Folk his Acts make known!
Make mention that his glorious name
Is highned in renown.

(Heb. Confessions ye to Jehova. Vatab.

5. Sing Psalme unto the LORD our God;
For he t high things hath done,
This thing in all the earth abroad
Is known from Sun to Sun.
6. u O thou that dost in Sion dwell,
Shout, and shrill-out most free:
For th' Holy-one of Israel
Is great in midst of thee.

t Heb. Highnesses of doctrine, or Excellencies.

u Heb. O inhabitress of Sion.

A Propheticall Song of Thanksgiving taught the Church aforehand, touching her deliverance from Babylons Captivity, which should certainly come to pass.

Sect. I.

THis Song is (for substance) much like that in Ch. XII. yet more full and large. Occasion of the Prophet Isaiahs Penning it seems to be this; A great part of this Prophecy is spent in a Minatory way, threatning many judgements and destructions to many Enemies of the Church, (among the rest in a special manner to Babylon, upon whose ruine the Jews shall thence be delivered,) and all these in order to Gods glory and the Churches good, many of the Nations hereby being to be subdued to God, and added to the Church for her enlargement; upon these occasions, as the Prophet himself praised God for the Enemies destruction, and the Churches Restauration, (as things already done, they are so emphatically described, in Chap. XXV. throughout:) So the whole Church is taught aforehand to sing praises to God for that her deliverance and her establishment thereupon, in Peace, Safety and Prosperity, in Ch. XXVI. That so by this publick Song, both their hearts might be more affected with the Mercy; and their minds retain more firmely the memory thereof.

Sect. II.

Scope Of the Church herein is 1. To Praise the LORD for her great deliverance from distresse, especially from Babylon; and his strong salvation thereupon vouchsafed to her. 2. To incite her self and all the People of God to depend on the Lord with assured confidence for his favours to them, and his judgments on their proudest enemies. 3. To professe her patience in God for his constant Protection of her against all her enemies and afflictions for the future. For (as x Calvin well notes) This Song was not only intended for a form of Praise to the Church after deliverance, but also as a ground of confidence under captivity, both to them and to their children, that they should doubtlesse be delivered, though they were as hopelesse as dead men in their very graves.

x Ut ergo confiderent sudasse liberatum Israel, atque vitam in ipsâ morte retinerent, hoc ipsis Canticum composuit Propheta, priusquam etiam calamitas accideret, ut jam instructi ad eam perferendam, & meliora speranda essent. Nec enim arbitror ideo solum fuisse compositum ut liberati gratias agerent, sed ut in exilio ipso, tametsi similes essent mortuis; animos suos hac fiduciâ obfirmarent, filios etiam instituerent in hac spe, atque hæc promissa quasi per manum traderent posteris. Joan. Calvin. Comment. in Isa. 26. 1.

Sect. III.

Sect. III.

Principal Parts in order to theſe ends, are

I. The Inſcription or Title, deſcribing, 1. The Kind of it, A Song. 2. The Place where it ſhall be ſung, in the land of Judah, that is, The land of Confeſſion, ſaith y Aforesaid, viz. the Church, whereof Judah was a Type, ſaith z Junius. 3. The time when it ſhall be ſung, In that Day, viz. of the Churches reſtauration, &c. Iſa. XXVI. ver. 1.

y Judæa, quod interpretatur utrumque, Confeſſio, &c. Hieron. Comment. in Iſa. 26. Tom. 5.

z Jun. Annot. in loc.

II. The Song it ſelf, wherein conſider.

1. A gratulation of the Church (by way of Exordium) for God's admirable deliverance, conſtant conſervation & proſperity of her. Wherein note 1. The ſtrong, ſecure ſtate of Jeruſalem, the church reſtored, v. 1. 2. The parties that ſhall enioy this happineſſe of the city of God, The righteous Nation keeping his truths, ver. 2. 3. The inſtrumental mean whereby they are kept in conſtant peace, viz. By truſting in God, ver. 3.

II. An Exhortation hereupon to all, conſtantly to truſt in the LORD. This is urged by Arguments drawn 1. From Gods everlaſting power, v. 4. 2. From his judgments upon the proud and lofty, ver. 5, 6. 3. From his equal diſpenſation of the affairs of the juſt in all conditions, v. 7. Amplified by the Churches diſpoſition towards God in his courſe of judgments with her, therein waiting for him, deſiring him and his righteouſneſſe, ver. 8, 9. Whereas the wicked contrariwiſe will deal unjuſtly, notwithſtanding Gods hand lifted up, his favour evidently manifeſted to them, whereby they procure their own deſtruction, ver. 10, 11.

III. A Profeſſion of the Churches confidence in God, for her own deliverance and protection, but her enemies deſtruction, ver. 12. to 20. and this upon divers grounds, viz. 1. Her former experience of Gods dealings with her, ver. 12. enabling her to keep cloſe to himſelf even under the oppreſſion and tyranny of her enemies, ver. 13. 2. Gods deſtruction of her enemies, ver. 14. 3. Gods gracious enlargement of the Church by adding thereto the Gentiles to his own glory, (the a Calling of the Gentiles being here promiſed,) ver. 15. 4. Gods drawing his people nearer to himſelf by afflictions, ver. 16. Which afflictions are further deſcribed by their extremity, and continuance, notwithſtanding all their travels and wreſtlings for deliverance, ver. 17, 18. 5. King Hezekiah's Thankful Song for his Recovery.

Isa. 38. ver. 9. to 21.

Sect. I.

a Isa. 38. 9. THis Thankful Song was Penned by K. Hezekiah, a after his Recovery out of his mortal sickness; and being of excellent use to the Church of God in after ages, is by the Prophet Isaiah inserted and digested into the body of his Prophecy that it might stand upon perpetual Record for the Churches Instruction and Consolation.

Occasion. King Hezekiah and Jerusalem being delivered miraculously from the Army of Sennacherib King of Assyria, who had invaded Judah, b taken all the fenced Cities, and besieged Jerusalem it self. He presently upon that glorious deliverance fell mortally sick (probably sick of the Pestilence, mention being made of the c Boyle, to which a lump of Figgs was applyed as a Plaister.) By which Sickness, (as d Hierome notes) Hezekiah was chastised, lest his heart should be lifted up after his incredible Triumphs and Victory from the midst of Captivity. And to aggravate his distress, whereby his devotion and graces might be the more incited, and his following Recovery, intended by the Lord, the more thankfully received, the Lord sends the Prophet Isaiah to him with this sad message, e Set thy house in order for thou shalt die and not live. Whereupon Hezekiah turns his face to the Wall (thinks f Hierom, either because he could not go to the Temple, towards the Temple-wall, by which Solomon had built the Kings Palace; or because he would conceal his tears from them that sate by; Or, to his heart; the word [קיר Kir] here translated Wall, being sometimes by Jeremiah used for the heart; Hezekiah stirring up his whole heart to call upon the Lord: Or as g Calvin thinks, that by turning his face to the wall, he might the better keep in his thoughts and senses from wandring distractions, and more intensively cry to the Lord.) He prayes earnestly, weeps exceedingly. The Lord heard his prayers, saw his tears, and promised by the same Prophet Isaiah to adde to his dayes 15 years, confirming his Promise by a miracle of the Sun going back ten degrees. And there was need of a miracle in this case, as h Augustine hath observed; That the Prophet, having delivered in one houres space two such contrary messages to the King, [viz. First of Death, then of Life]; might confirm the latter which God intended to make good by extraordinary example. Now according to this message, Hezekiah wonderfully recovering, was so affected with the mercy, that he leaves in writing this Song, as a monument of thankfulness to the Lord, for the good of posterity; Singular mercies call for singular Praises.

Sect. II.

Scope of King Hezekiah in this Song is, 1. Thankfully to celebrate the LORD's miraculous mercy to him, in his wonderful Recovery from his mortal sickness, and that after the Lords message, seeming peremptorily to inform him that he should die and not live. 2. To instruct all Gods servants, and particularly Godly Magistrates and princes, by the example of this godly King Hezekiah, to render unto the Lord great praises, for great mercies and deliverances.

JEREMIAH.

Sect. I. Name and Penman.

THis Prophecie is called by the Hebrews, The Book of JEREMIAH; and by the Text it self, a Jer. 1. 1. דברי ירמיהו Dibre Jermejahu, viz. a The words of Jeremiah; because Jeremiah the Prophet was Penman of the whole Book, except the last chapter, viz. Chap. 52. which is the same with 2 King. c. 24, 18, 19, 20. and c. 25. throughout, continuing the History of the Jewes Captivity till the b 37. year of b Jer. 52. 31. Jehoiachin's Captivity, being the first yeare of Evil-Merodach King of Babylon. Which chap. is c thought to be added to Jeremiah by some man of God, or by the counsel of the Church, or by some of the Priests; as Deut. XXXIV. is thought to be added to Moses his writings, by some other. c Fran. Jun. in Annot. in Jer. 51. 64.

ירמיהו JEREMIAH, viz. * The-highnesse-of-the-LORD, or The-Exaltation-of-The-LORD; as the 2 Hebrew words, whereof it is compounded, signifie. This well agrees to this Prophet, by whose ministry the LORD was so Exalted, both in his sharp Reproofs of Sin, severe threatnings of Judgement, and Divine promises of Mercy. He was for his Descent, d Son of Hilkiah, of the Priests that were in Anathoth in the land of Benjamin; e Anathoth being one of the Cities appointed to the Priests. For his office, He was f a Prophet, sanctified and ordained thereunto of God, even in his Mothers Wombe before he was born. He was called to prophecy in his younger years, when he was but a child: and therefore at first he g was afraid of undertaking so great a function, till God had encouraged him. He excused himself (saith h Ambrose) from preaching through his modesty, which yet he was able to do by Grace, Moses declined the office for his slow speech (saith i Hierome) but Jeremiah for his tender age: Moses being of strong age, is blamed; Jeremiah his youth, is indulged; bashfulness and modesty being youths ornaments. He was bold as a Lyon in Gods cause against wickedness, yet a most melting pathetick tender-hearted Prophet in laying to heart most deeply Gods dishonour, or sinners misery: witness his sighs, tears, and Lamentations. After he had long prophecied against the sins of his times. k Some observe that Jehoiakim commanded him to be burnt alive for speaking against their golden image Baal. l Ambrose seems to be of opinion, that he was cast into a lake and drowned. Calvin inclines to their opinion, that think, m he was stoned to death by the enraged multitude in Egypt after Jerusalem was destroyed.

Sect. II. Time of his Prophecying.

As Jeremiah began to prophesie very young, so he prophesied very long, viz. about 43. years, This see cleared formerly in the Chronologic al Table, &c. beginning at p. 611. n S. Hierome computes the time of his Prophesie to be 41. years, beside, the time that he prophesied in Egypt. And o Calvin thinks Jeremy prophecying after Jerusalems destruction, might possibly prophesie above 50. years. However, this is very remarkable, that he began to prophesie in the g 13 year of Josiah, at which time Religion was in a sad and deplored state, the Book of the Law being lost which was to be the Rule both of Faith and life towards God and Man) and it was not found till the 18 year of K. Josiah. So that Jeremiah must needs have an hard task to deal with such a people, among whom in a sort not only the purity, but the very memory of Religion was buried and laid waste. Note, God is neither wanting to his Church, to teach and enlighten her in her greatest obscurity; nor to his Prophets, to assist and encourage them against their greatest difficulties.

Sect. III. Occasion and Scope.

Occasion God having warned his people against their many horrid provoking sins, by divers foregoing Prophets, inviting them to repentance and reformation, lest they involved themselves under his heavy judgments, but in a manner all in vain, the peoples hearts being hardened: at last he raises up this Prophet, not so much to invite those hopeless ones to repent, as to denounce peremptorily and punctually that fatal blow, the destruction of Jerusalem and the Temple, and the peoples 70 years Captivity in Babylon, for their incurable sins.

Scope therefore of this Prophecy is, 1. Seeing the warnings of the former Prophets were despised, The former tenders of Gods grace rejected, The great patience of the long-suffering God abused, and his judgments themselves (especially the Captivity of the ten Tribes into Assyria unfruitfully managed, by an obstinate impenitent incorrigible people; To denounce resolutely and peremptorily that final and fatal doom against them, viz. The destruction of both the Temple and Jerusalem, and so of both their Ecclesiastique and Politique State, by the Chaldeans; together with the miserable Captivity of the Jewes themselves in Babylon for 70 years together. 2. To support notwithstanding, the hearts of Gods Elect among them under these dreadfull Judgments, with some sweet Promises intermingled touching their Deliverance from this Bondage after seventy yeares, the Restauration of their Temple and Civil State, &c. but especially touching Christ the Messiah, his Kingdome, Priesthood, Benefits, New Covenant (more cleared by him then any before,) and their eternal deliverance by him. (Whereupon we may well well with Hierom stile this Prophet q An Evangelical man.) But still, as r Calvin well observes, these Promises take place only after God had taken vengeance of their sins by the Chaldeans. 3. And finally, to denounce heavy Calamities to other Nations, that had occasioned any way the sins of the Jewes, Acted in, or aggravated upon them their miseries; especially against Babylon the proudest and cruellest of all their enemies, devoted therefore to utter ruine, wherein she is a notable Embleme of the mystical Babylon under the New Testament.

r Peculiari simplicitate Jeremias fuit Deo usus, ut populo alienam eludem Prædiceret: Deinde ut concionaretur de futura redemptione. Sic tamen, ut interponeret semper exilium septuaginta annorum, Calv. Praef. ante Praelect. in Jer.

Now in unfolding these things, in this Prophecy are intermingled many Histories, to evidence the accomplishments of the Prophecies. The many Oppositions and great Difficulties also wherewith the Prophet wrastled in the discharge of his Duty herein: together with Gods wonderful supporting him under and delivering him from them all, are recorded; To teach Gods Ministers to be faithful to God in their places against all oppositions, seeing God is so All-sufficient a Protector and Deliverer for them.

III. Gods Resolution to punish them, and that for their sins, v. 36, 37. and Ch. III. 1. to 6.

2. SERMON, ch. 3. 6. to ch. 7. 1. wherein chiefly the Babylonian bondage is threatned to the Jewes for their contumacious sins. More particularly here note, I. The Aggravation of the Apostacy of Israel and Judah, Judah's being worse, ver. 6. to 12. II. An exhortation of them to repentance, ver. 12, 13. urged. 1. From the Covenant betwixt God and them, and from Evangelical promises if they will Repent, ver. 14. to 20. 2. From their treacherous Apostacy from God, ver. 20. Amplified by the form or manner of their returning again unto God, directed by God, ver. 21. to Ch. IV. ver. 3. 3. From the judgments that otherwise would come upon them, if they continued impenitent, which judgements are threatned for their sins, ver. 3. to 14. may be prevented by Repentance, ver. 14. to 19. are pathetically described, ver. 19. to the end of the chap. III. A particular Demonstration both of their several grievous sinnes, and of the judgments threatned for them, Ch. V. throughout. and Ch. VI. 1. to 10. IV. A Confutation of their presumption and vain Confidence, who thought not their Case so desperate, as indeed it was, nor the judgements so deservedly threatned, 1. By Expostulation with the Jews themselves, for their 1 Contempt of the Word of the Lord by the Prophet, ver. 10, 11, 12. 2 Covetousness, v. 13. 3 False-dealing of both Prophets & Priests, ver. 13, 14 4 Impudency, ver. 15. And 5 Wilfull obstinacy, ver. 16, 17. 2. By appeal to the Nations and to the Earth, touching their Hypocrisie, and the equity of his Judgements for their sins, v. 18. to 27. V. The Conclusion containing, 1. The Prophets encouragement in his Office against them, v. 27. 2. The incurable rejection as reprobate silver, v. 28, 29, 30.

3. SERMON, ch. 7, 8, 9, wherein consider I. The Preface containing 1. An invitation to attention. 2. Place where, viz. in the Gate of the Temple, Ch. VII. 1, 2. II. Gods calling them to Repentance and Reformation. 1. By promises, ver. 3. to 8. 2. By threats of heavy judgements for their many sins, viz. Hypocrisie, ver. 8. to 17, Idolatry, ver. 17. to 21. Disobedience, ver. 21. to 29. Abominations in Tophet, ver. 29. to the end. and Chap. VIII. 1. 2, 3. Sottish and shameless impenitency, ver. 4. to 13. These threatnings are amplified, Partly, by a Description of the judgments threatned for their sins, ver. 13. to 18.. Partly, by the Prophets Lamentation both for their judgments and sins, ver. 18. to the end. and Ch. IX. 1. to 12. III. A Refutation of their vain confidence in that they had Prophets and the Law. For 1. Their Prophets declare not why the land perisheth, ver. 12. 2. Themselves obey not the Law which they have, v. 13, 14. therefore such judgements should befall them, ver. 15, 16. They had need to hire cunning women to mourn for them, ver. 17. to 23. IV. The Conclusion, wherein 1. The godly are incited to decline all Carnal confidence and glorying, and to glory only in the knowledge of the Lord, ver. 23, 24. 2. The ungodly Jewes are threatned to be punished, as well as uncircumcised Heathens, ver. 25, 26.

III. A Commination. 1. Generally againſt Judah for their ſins and idolatries, ver. 11. to 18. 2. Particularly againſt Anathoth, for their conſpiracies againſt Jeremiah for his faithfulneſs in his offices ver. 18. to the end of the chap. This twofold Commination is amplified 1. By the Prophets doubt and temptation about the Proſperity of the wicked, notwithſtanding his threats againſt them. Ch. XII. 1. 2. 2. By the Anſwer to this doubt for the Prophets and Churches conſolation. As for the godly, they are afflicted for their good, and the Prophet himſelf was to contend with greater difficulties than at Anathoth, viz. when he ſhould come to deal with them of Jeruſalem, ver. 3. to 7. As for the wicked, they ſhall not ſtill proſper, but ſhall at laſt be plagued, ver. 7. to 14. Under the Reign of Jehoiakim and Zedekiah Kings of Judah were the following Prophecies, Chap. 21. to 43. (Both theſe Kings are named together, becauſe the Prophecies in their ſeverall dayes, are not diſtinctly obſerved in order.)

1. Sermon. touching the event of Nebuchadnezzars warre againſt Judah, where note, 1. Occaſion of the Prophecy, viz. King Zedekiahs ſending to Jeremiah about it, Chap. XXI. 1, 2. 2. The Prophecy it ſelf, 1. Foretelling their hard ſiege and captivity by Nebuchadnezzar, ver. 3. to 8. 2. Perſwading the People to ſubmit to him, ver. 8. to 11. 3. Upbraiding the Kings houſe for their carnal confidence, ver. 11. to the end. Chap. 21.

II. Sermon. (probably this was in z Jehoiakim's time, when he reigned through help of the King of Egypt) wherein note I. An Exordium, Chap. XXII. 1, 2. II. The Doctrine of obedience to the Law, urged ſynechdochically by promiſes and threats, ver. 3, 4, 5. III. The former doctrine particularly accommodated to all States and degrees among them, viz. 1. To Kings ver. 6. to 10. King Shallum, ver. 10. to 13. King Jehoiakim, ver. 13. to 20. King Coniah, ver. 20. to the end. 2. To Princes and Magiſtrates that had oppreſſed them; Chap. XXIII. 1, 2. whoſe ruine becauſe it could not be without deſtruction of the People, therefore the Reſtauration of the elect is promiſed by Chriſt THE LORD OUR RIGHTEOUSNESSE. ver. 3. to 9. 3. To the falſe Prophets, ver. 9. to 33. 4. To the Prophets, Prieſts or people, that ſhall mock the true Prophets, ver. 33. to the end. z Jer. Antec. in loc. Chap. 22. Chap. 23.

III. Sermon, after Jeconiah, &c. was carried captive to Babylon by Nebuchadnezzar, wherein under the type of good and bad figs, good is promiſed to the captives in Babylon, and evil is threatned to Zedekiah and the reſt in Judea and Egypt, Ch. XXIV. throughout. Chap. 24.

IV. Sermon, in the fourth year of Jehoiakim (therefore before the former,) wherein 1. The continued obſtinacy of the People againſt all the Prophets Sermons is reproved, Chap. XXV. 1. to 8. 2. Puniſhments, yea ſeventy years captivity is threatned, ver. 8. to 12. 3. Babylon's ruine after that; yea and the ruine of all Nations (the cup of Gods wrath going round) is denounced, ver. 12. to the end. Chap. 25.

V. Sermon, in beginning of Jehoiakims reign, wherein I. The Preface, Chap. XXVI. 1, 2. II. An Invitation to Repentance by promiſes and threats. ver. 3. to 8. 3. The events of the Sermon, viz. 1. The accuſation of Jeremiah by the Prieſts and People, verſe 8. to 12. 2. Jeremiah's Apology for himſelf, ver. 12. to 16. 3. Contention of the Princes againſt the Prieſts, and their ſetting Jeremiah free, v. 16. to the end. Chap. 26.

VI. Sermon, in beginning of Jehoiakim's reign, wherein they are diſſwaded from defection from the King of Babylon, and from hearkening to their falſe Prophets perſwading them to revolt; and this by many Arguments, Chap. XXVII. throughout. Chap. 27.

VII. Sermon, in King Zedekiah's fourth year, wherein are 1. Hananiah's falſe prophecy of Jeconiah's return from Babylon, within two years, Chap. XXVIII. 1. to 5. II. Jeremiah's conteſt with him, and Propheey both of the peoples captivity and Hananiah's death, ver. 5. to the end 3. Hereunto may be annexed Jeremiahs letter to the Captives in Babylon, inſtructing them not to expect returne thence within two years, as their falſe Prophets told them, Chap. XXIX. where note 1. the Preface, containing the occaſion of his letter, ver. 1, 2, 3. 2. The Letter it ſelf, More generally concerning the Jews themſelves, v. 4. to 20. More Particularly againſt the falſe Prophets, ver. 20. to the end. Chap. 28. Chap. 29.

VIII. Sermon, wherein note I. An Exordium ſignifying

nifying to us, 1. The Author of the Sermon, 2. The Record thereof commanded to be made. 3. The Summary Argument thereof, viz. the Jews return from Babylon Chap. XXX. 1, 2, 3. II. A Proposition, both of the Jews present miseries, as also of their future deliverances, Typicall by Cyrus; and Typified by Christ their true David, ver. 4. to 12. III. A more particular Narration and Amplification of these miseries and deliverances, 1. By their causes, their sins procuring their sorrows, ver. 12. to 16. Gods meer mercy effecting their deliverances, ver. 16. to 23. 2. By the opposite wrath threatned to the wicked, ver. 23. 24. 3. By the sweet blessings and Communion which they shall have with God in Christs kingdome after their deliverance, Chap. XXXI. 1. to 15. 4. By removall of such inconveniences as might seem inconsistent with the kingdome of Christ, viz. Some sufferings to be endured at Christs nativity, Answered, ver. 15, 16, 17. Conscience of their own infirmities, remaining even in the godly, Answered, ver. 17. to 22. 5. By description of the Blessings promised, viz. Christs Restauration, Preservation, Just Administration of affaires, and y The New Covenant, ver. 22. to 35. IV. A Confirmation of all these former Promises to Israel, from the stability of the creatures, v. 25, 36, 37. V. A conclusion with a typical repetition of things promised, ver. 38, 39, 40.

Chap. 30. III. The third Part of the Book, containing chiefly Comforts and Promises touching the Peoples deliverance by Cyrus, and the Churches Restauration by CHRIST. Chap. 31.

IX. Sermon, in the tenth year of Zedekiah. Here consider, 1. The time when the word of the Lord came to him, Chap. XXXII. 1, to 6. II. The Return from captivity confirmed by a type of the buying of Hanameels field, ver. 6, to 16. III. The Prophets complaint to the Lord about the Type, ver. 16. to 26. IV. The Lords explanation of the Type, in Ratifying both the Captivity, and the Deliverance from it, ver. 26. to the end. Chap. 32.

X. Sermon; a little after the former. Wherein, I. The Preface, Chap. XXXIII. 1, 2, 3. II. Promises of deliverance, Typicall from Babylon, and Spirituall, &c. ver. 4. to 13. III. An Excellent Promise of the Messiah, 1. To be born of the seed of David. 2. King of Israel, doing righeousnesse, ver. 15. 3. Justifier and defender of his Church, ver. 16, 17. 4. Priest, ver. 18. 5. His Kingdome and Priesthood to be perpetuall, ver. 19. to the end. y The New Covenant. Chap. 33.

XI. Sermon. Wherein note, 1. The time of the Prophecy, in the wars against Judea and Jerusalem, Chap. XXXIV. 1. 2. The Prophecy it self, touching Zedekiah's captivity in Babylon, though he should die in peace, Spoke to him at Gods command, ver. 2. to 8. Chap. 34.

XII. Sermon; after Zedekiah had covenanted with his people in Jerusalem, to proclaim (according to the law) liberty to their servants, in their siege; but broke this covenant after, ℣ (the siege being raised by the King of Egypt,) here 1. Occasion of the Prophecy, as above, ver. 8. to 12. 2. The Prophecy of Jerusalem's and Zedekiah's captivity for this Covenant-breaking, ver. 8. to the end. ℣ Jun. Annot. in loc.

XIII. Sermon, in dayes of King Jehoiakim, wherein 1. The Preface, Chap. XXXV. 1. 2. The Reprehension of the Jews disobedience by the Rechabites obedience. The Rechabites obeyed their father, though dead, and that in difficult duties: The Jews disobeyed their God, though living, and that in easie duties, ver. 2. to 16. 3. A Commination against the Jews for their disobedience, ver. 16, 17. 4. Promises to the Rechabites for their obedience, ver. 18, 19. Chap. 35.

IV. The fourth Part of the Book Historical.

Unto all these Sermons are annexed divers Historical Narrations, declaring the accomplishment of the former Prophecies in part, viz.

I. The writing of all Jeremiahs Prophecies in a Book. Where. 1. Gods command thus to write them, that they might publickly be read in the Temple and King's Palace, and the execution thereof, Chap. XXXVI. 1. to 20. 2. The Kings burning the Roll read, and evil intentions against Baruch and Jeremiah, but the Lord hid them, ver. 20. to 27. 3. The Reparation of the Roll at Gods command with additions, Jehoiakim being threatned severely for his contempt, ver. 27. to the end. Chap. 36.

II. Jeremiahs entertainment and usage at Jerusalem under King Zedekiah. where 1. Zedekiah's succession, wicked Reign, and Message to Jeremiah to pray for them, when the King of Egypt had raised the Chaldeans siege about Jerusalem, Ch. XXXVII. 1. to 6. 2. Jeremiah's Prophecy of the Chiefs siege again, and destruction by the Chaldeans, notwithstanding the Egyptians relief, ver. 6. to 11. 3. Jeremiah's imprisonment by the Princes, upon pretence of his falling away to the Chaldeans, ver. 11. to 16. 4. King Zedekiah's private transactions with Jeremiah in prison, granting him some relaxation and relief, ver. 16. to the end. 5. Jeremiah by the Princes Conspiracy is cast into the Dungeon, and sunk in the mire, Chap. XXXVIII. 1. to 7. 6. His deliverance out of the Dungeon at Ebed-melechs request to the King, ver. 7. to 14. 7. Jeremiah in conference with the King, counselleth him to save his life by submitting to the Chaldeans, ver. 14. to 24. This conference is amplified by the Kings device to conceal it from the Princes, ver. 24. to 28. 8. Jeremiah's continuance in the Court of the prison till Jerusalem was taken, ver. 28. Chap. 37. Chap. 38.

III. The taking of Jerusalem by the Chaldeans, described, 1. By the time when, viz. in the eleventh year of Zedekiah after two years siege, Ch. XXXIX. 1, 2, 3. 2. By the taking of Zedekiah flying, killing his sons before his eyes, slaying all the Nobles, putting out Zedekiah's eyes, and putting him in Chains to carry him to Babylon ver. 4. to 8. 3. By the Ruin of Jerusalem, burning down the houses, breaking down the walls, and carrying the people captive to Babylon, except the poorer sort, ver. 8. to 11. 4. By Jeremiah's kind usage, according to King Nebuchadnezzar's appointment, ver. 11, to 15. 5. By Gods Promise to Ebed-melech, to preserve him though Jerusalem were destroyed, ver. 15. to the end. Chap. 39.

IV. Consequences after Jerusalems destruction; 1. Jeremiah's liberty from his chains, and return to dwell with Gedaliah whom the King of Babylon had left as Governour over the Land, Chap. XL. 1. to 7. II. The scattering Jewes gathering together to Gedaliah to dwell in the Land, ver. 7. to 13. III. Johanan's discovery of Ishmael's Conspiracy from the King of the Ammonites against Gedaliah's life; but not credited, ver. 13. to the end. IV. Ishmaels treacherous killing of Gedaliah the Governour and others, and carrying captive the People of Mizpeh, Chap. XLI. 1. to 11. V. Johanan's and the Captains Recovery of the Captives from Ishmael, with whom they intended to dwell in Egypt, (fearing the Chaldeans because of Gedaliah's death, made Governour by the King of the Chaldees,) ver. 11. to the end. This is further amplified, 1. By their joynt Consultation of Jeremiah about going into Egypt, Chap. XLII. 1. 2, 3. 2 By Jeremiah's Answer, promising to deal faithfully with them, ver. 4, to 7. Assuring them from the Lord of safety in Judea, ver. 7. to 13. but of destruction in Egypt, ver. 13. to 19. reproving them for Hypocrisie in coming to enquire, but not obeying Gods Will as they promised, ver. 19. to the end. 3. By Johanan's going with the People into Egypt, contrary to the Word of the Lord and carrying Jeremiah with them thither, Chap. XLIII. 1. to 8. 4. By Jeremiah's Prophecy of Egypts destruction by the King of Babylon, under the Type of great Stones hid in clay in a Brick-kilne, ver. 8. to the end. Chap. 40. Chap. 41. Chap. 42. Chap. 43.

Hitherto of Jeremiah's Prophecies touching the Jewes, while in the Land of Judea. Now follow his Prophecies concerning them, when in Egypt.

II. When the Jewes were in Egypt, Jeremiah I. Reproves the Jewes for their idolatry in Egypt. 1. Partly convincing them of the danger of their sin, by the late Destruction of Jerusalem for idolatry, Chap. XLIV. 1. to 11. 2. Partly threatning their Destruction in Egypt, ver. 11. to 15. II. Foretells the ruine of Chap. 44.

the Jewes in Egypt for their obstinacy in idolatry, as he had destroyed them in Judea, ver. 15. to 28. Amplified, 1. By Promise of a Remnants return out of Egypt, to see Gods Word fulfilled, ver. 28. 2. By a Sign of this their Ruine, viz. The delivering of the King of Egypt into his hands, as Zedekiah was, ver. 29, 30.

[To this part of the Book is annexed Jeremiah's instruction and Consolations of Baruch, being troubled, when in the Fourth year of King Jehoiakim he had written Jeremiah's Prophecies in a Roll, Chap. Chap. 45. XLV. throughout. This properly belongs as an Appendix to ch. 36.]

Tous of Jeremiah's Prophecies touching the Jewes

Next follow his Prophecies against the Gentiles, ch. 46. 1. to ch. 52. 1.

II. Touching the Gentiles, Jeremiah being in Egypt, hath many Prophecies for the comfort and good of his Church. Here note, Chap. 46. 1. The Preface to these Prophecies, Ch. XLVI. 1.

2. The particular Prophecies.

I. Against Egypt, 1. That Pharaoh Necho's Army shall be overthrown at Euphrates by the King of Babylon, ver. 2. to 13. 2. That Egypt shall be conquered by the King of Babylon, ver. 13. to 27. This is illustrated by the opposite comforts of Jacob, that shall not be wholly destroyed as others, but chastised in measure, v. 27, 28.

II. Against the Philistines, their fearful de-Chap. 47. struction is threatned, Chap. XLVII. throughout.

III. Touching Moab. I. That Moab shall be de-
Chap. 48. stroyed, Ch. XLVIII. 1. to 7. For 1. His Carnal confidence, ver. 7. to 11. 2. His security, ver. 11. to 14. 3 His pride in the Arm of flesh, ver. 14. to 26. 4. His insolency against God and his People, ver. 26 to 27. II. That in the latter dayes, Moab's captivi- shall be returned. v. 47.

IV. Concerning Ammonites. 1. Their destruction
Chap. 49. and captivity is threatned, ch. XLIX. 1. to 6. 2. Their Restauration is promised. ver. 6.

LAMENTATIONS.

Sect. I. Order and Name.

TO the Prophecy of Jeremiah, as an Appendix may well be annexed. The LAMENTATIONS OF JEREMIAH. Jerusalem's destruction being foretold, and fulfilled according to the tenour of that; and sadly bewailed according to the tenour of this Book.

From the first word in the Hebrew text, it is called אֵיכָה Echah, viz. How. As the five Books of Moses are denominated from the first Hebrew words wherewith they begin. From the Subject-Matter of the Book, it is called קִינוֹת a Kinoth, that is, Lamentations; and so by the Greek Θρηνοι Threni, or Θρηνωδίαι Threnodiai, inasmuch as it is compiled of most doleful, pathetical, heart-affecting Lamentations of Jerusalems ruine and the Jewes misery. The words and expressions are such and so penetrating, as might dissolve an heart as hard as Adamant into waters, and eyes as dry as Pumex into floods of tears: Who can advisedly read Jeremiah lamenting, and not lament with him? Greg. Nazianzen saith, b As oft as I take this Book into my hands, and read the Lamentations, I perceive my speech to be stopped, and I am overwhelmed with tears, and methinks I see that calamity, as it were, set before mine eyes; And I joyn Lamentations with Jeremiah.

a See 2 Chron. 35. 25.

b Greg. Naz. Orat. 12. p. 202. Par. 1630.

Sect. II. Penman, Time, Occasion, and Manner of penning it.

1. That Jeremiah was Penman of these Lamentations, I find generally acknowledged, and the sad pathetical strains, most peculiarly agree to him. The LXX. are herein so confident, that by way of Proem to this Book, they prefix the summe of it in these words; c And it came to passe after Israel was brought into Captivity, and Jerusalem deserted, The Prophet Jeremiah sate weeping, and bewailed Jerusalem with this c Bibl. Gr. LXX. interp. ante Lament.

this Lamentation; and with a bitter ſpirit, ſighing and crying out, be ſaid,——&c.

2. But when he penned theſe Lamentations is not ſo unanimouſly agreed upon by all. 1. Some think, they were written upon occaſion of that precious King Joſiah's death, when the Jews fell to their ſinful confidence in Egypt; which doleful beginnings of ſorrowes gave Jeremiah, (who by the ſpirit of Prophecy knew what would befal the Jews, and often foretold them,) Occaſion to lament not one, but all the miſeries that befel the Jewes from King Joſiah's death, till the deſtruction of Jeruſalem and the Temple, and therein of both their ſtate Politick and Eccleſiaſtick; when their Princes and Nobles were ſlain, their King and People carried captive into Babylon. Learned d Hierome among the Ancients: and acute e Junius among the modern writers, are of this opinion; from that paſſage in the Chronicles, f And Jeremiah lamented for Joſiah, and all the ſinging-men and ſinging-women ſpake of Joſiah in their Lamentations, to this day, and made them an Ordinance in Iſrael and behold they are written in the LAMENTATIONS. 2. Others reject this opinion and think this Book was not penned at all upon occaſion of Joſiah's death, but upon Jeruſalem's deſtruction, and that not as it was foretold. but as it was actually fulfilled and come to paſſe, 1 Partly becauſe here's nothing in it, that agrees to King Joſiah, who was not carried into captivity, but buried with his fathers at Jeruſalem, 2. Partly becauſe the whole current of the Lamentations, is ſo evidently applicable to Jeruſalem's deſtruction, of which they ſpeak Hiſtorically, as of a thing done already, not prophetically as a thing to be done afterwards. Thus g Calvin, and h Parem. Let the prudent Reader judge.

3. The Manner or form of Penning it is Alphabetical. As ſome ſelect Pſalms (peculiarly to be noted and remembred,) are perhaps for help of memory penn'd Alphabetically, the ſeveral verſes beginning with the ſeveral letters of the Hebrew Alphabet in order: ſo here the four firſt chapters of Lamentations are Alphabetical, only with this difference, that every verſe in Chap. I. II. and IV. begins with a diſtinct letter of the Hebrew Alphabet; but only every third verſe ſo begins in Ch. III. And this Alphabetical order wants not its peculiar myſtery, in the judgement of that learned i Hierom, who by the connection of ſeveral letters and their ſignifications doth very wittily extract divers pious meditations; Who elſewhere is of opinion that k Jeremiah in his Lamentations, under the type of Jeruſalem bewayles the four corners of the world in a fourfold Alphabet. However theſe his notions may ſeem more witty then ſolid to judicious men; yet this Alphabetical form commends this Book of Lamentations to us as a moſt memorable and excellent piece.

Sect. III. Scope.

Scope. I. More Immediate; Lively to point out, and moſt deeply to bewail the ſeverity and impartiality of Gods judgments, even againſt his own deareſt People the Jewes for their iniquities; inviting them to Repentance, Faith and Prayer, for obtaining of Gods favour in pardoning of ſin, and removal of judgment, notwithſtanding their extream low and forlorn condition into which they were implunged. II. More Mediate; To diſcover 1. What is the true matter of Lamentations; not the loſſe of wealth, health, favours, &c. but the overthrow of the Church of God, of Kingdoms and Cities for mens ſins and unthankfulneſs. 2. What are the true cauſes of publick calamities in the world, ruines of Churches, Common-wealths, &c. viz. their ingratitude, idolatry, incorrigibleneſs, and other abominations that dwell therein. 3. What duty is incumbent to the godly in publique evils; not to fret and murmur againſt Gods Proceedings, but patiently to ſubmit, penitently to bewail their ſins, and faithfully to implore Gods favour in ſanctifying and removing preſent miſeries.

Sect. IV. Principal Parts.

Though in paſſionate Lamentations it be hard to find accurateneſſe of method and order, (Lamentations being made up of heaps of Exclamations, Complaints, ſad Narrations, Prayers, Sobs, Tears, and interchangeable Paſſions confuſedly poured out,) grief ſeldom obſerving order: yet in theſe divine Lamentations we may obſerve this method.

This Book is 1 Narratory, 2 Minatory, 3 Promiſſory, 4 Petitory.

Chap. 2. II. The second Alphabet of Lamentation, Chap. II. throughout. Wherein are I. A sad description of Jerusalem's miseries. 1. By the particulars of them, viz. the destruction of the Kingdome, and all its Princes; of the City and all its strong Holds and Palaces; of the Temple, Altar, Sabbaths, and all the Solemne Feasts; of the walls and all the gates, ver. 1. to 9. The miseries upon her King, Princes, Prophets, Elders, Virgins, People, Children and Sucklings, ver. 9. to 13. 2. By the Incomparable greatnesse of her distress beyond example, ver. 13. 3. By one procuring cause of her calamity, the Prophets false visions, and indulgence to their sins, ver. 14. 4. By the enemies proud insultings over Jerusalem's ruines, ver. 15. 16, 17. 5. By the Lords thus fulfilling his word upon Jerusalem, ver. 18. II. An invitation of the people to bitter sorrowes and earnest Prayers to God in respect of these miseries; a forme of words being put into her hand, ver. 19. to the end.

III. Chap. 3. III. The third Alphabet of Lamentation, Chap. III. throughout. Wherein are I. A sad complaint of Jeremiah in the Person of the People, for the grievous evils upon the Church from an angry God, ver. 1. to 21. II. A consolation against all these evils; drawn from 1. Gods moderation in afflicting, that all are not utterly consumed, ver. 21, 22, 23. 2. From Gods peculiar love and goodnesse to the Elect, even under their afflictions, ver. 24. to 31. 3. From the Period of afflictions; though they be long, they will have an end, ver. 31. to 37. III. An acknowledgment of Gods justice in all their sufferings, for their sins, which are to be repented of, and not Gods Judgments repined at, ver. 37. 55. IV. A Prayer of the People, 1. For themselves and their deliverance, ver. 55. to 59. 2. Against their enemies, ver. 59. to the end.

IV. Chap. 4. The fourth Alphabet of Lamentation, Chap. IV. throughout. Wherein are 1. A lamentable bewailing of the miseries of Kingdom, Church and People overthrown, ver. 1. to 11. 2. A Confession of their sins both past and present, for which they are thus punished, ver. 11. to 21. 3. An ironical Comination against their enemies, under the name of Edom, ver. 21, 22. 4. A Consolation of Sion, with promised mercy, ver. 22.

II. Chap. 5. A mournful Supplication for return of divine favour, conversion of them to God, and renewing their prosperity, Chap. V. throughout. This is urged 1. From the greatnesse of their evils, summarily particularized and aggravated, ver. 1. to 16. 2. From the ingenuous acknowledgment of their sins, procuring all, ver. 16, 17, 18. 3. From Gods eternity, who therefore must have everlasting subjects, ver. 19. 4. From the incongruity of Gods perpetual forgetting them, contrary to his promises, vers. 20, 21, 22.

EZEKIEL.

Sect. I. Name and Penman of the Book.

THis Book by the Hebrews is called יחזקאל ספר Sepher Jechezkel, viz. The Book of Ezekiel; from Ezekiel, the Preacher and Penman of these Prophecies contained in this Book. The name Ezekiel, (as a Hierom noteth) signifies The-Fortitude-of-God; This name (thinks b Lavater) was not given to him without a special Providence of God. For God enabled him with a stout and undaunted mind to reprove both People and Princes; and to denounce those evils unto them, which the mighty God the Lord of Hosts was bringing upon them for their impieties, He was c both Priest and Prophet. d Nazianzen saith, Ezekiel is to be admired among the Prophets, and is most subtile.

the fifth day of the moneth; till the twenty fifth year of the Captivity, the beginning of the year, the tenth day of the month: in the fourteenth year, after that the City was smitten. ‖ In all about nineteen years and some odde dayes. He was in part contemporary with Jeremiah, Jeremiah beginning before him; They prophecied in two several places, Jeremiah in Judea, Ezekiel in Chaldea; and yet their Prophecies, for the matter of them, notably agree: (which is a singular Argument of the divine Authority of these two Prophecies, and that they were Endited by the same Spirit of God, though penned in places far distant;) Only Ezekiel is more terrible and vehement in taxing and reproving sinne than Jeremiah; and more abounding in Visions, which renders the Book, especially in some places, very intricate and hard to be understood. The difficulty of this Volume, (saith Hierome) the tradition of the Hebrews proves; for with them unlesse a man have fulfilled the Age of the Priestly Ministry, that is, the thirtieth year, he is neither permitted to read The Beginning of Genesis, nor the Song of Songs, nor the Beginning and End of this Book,

Sect. III. Occasion of this Prophecy.

The right considering of the Occasion whereupon God was pleased to raise up this Prophet, conduceth not a little to the understanding of his Prophecy. The Prophet Jeremiah warning the People of their sins, and denouncing Gods judgements for them, especially the destruction of Jerusalem, and Babylonish captivity, had now prophecied a long time, but without fruit (as m Calvin well notes,) to the Jews, viz. eighteen n years under King Josiah, who reigned thirty one years in all, in whose thirteen years Jeremiah began to Prophecy, three o moneths under Jehoahaz called Shallum, 11 p years under King Jehoiakim three q moneths under Jehoiachin before he was carried Captive to Babylon: here are in all twenty nine years and an half; to which adde five years of Jehoiachin's Captivity, (for in his fifth r year Ezekiel began to prophecy,) so here are in all about thirty four or thirty five years, in which Jeremiah had prophesied, before Ezekiel began. Jeremiah had an hard task to deal with so many deaf and phrenetick people, Therefore to encourage the Spirit, and strengthen the hands of Jeremiah, as also to confirm the Truth of divine Prophecies by the mouth of two Witnesses, God raises up Ezekiel in Chaldea, to prophecie the same things, (but more vehemently) that Jeremiah did in Judea. For, They both sharply taxed the sins of the Jews; They both threatned heavy judgements for them, especially the fatal Babylonish Captivity, with the ruine of the Temple and City by the Babylonians; They both intermingled Promises of their Restauration, especially of their spiritual Restauration by Christ; They both prophecie against the forreign Nations or Gentiles: (so that they wonderfully help to clear and confirm one another.)

Now Jeremiah had need to be thus confirmed, by Gods raising up Ezekiel a fellow-Prophet. 1. Partly in respect of himself, to uphold him from sinking and fainting under his many difficulties and discouragements. 2. Partly in respect of the Captives in Babylon, who were abused by the lying Prophecies of false Prophets in Babylon, viz. s Ahab and Zedekiah, as also t Shemaiah the Nehelemite, who wrote Letters to the Priest in Jerusalem, to restrain Jeremiah, and put him in the Prison and the Stocks. How useful therefore was Ezekiel to suppress the insolency of those false Prophets? 3. Partly in respect of the remnant of the People that should still be in Jerusalem, who could not chuse but hear how Ezekiel in Chaldea prophesied the same things that Jeremiah did in Jerusalem, and by their Prophetical harmony be much wrought upon, at least unto conviction.

Sect. IV. Scope.

Scope and chief intent of this Book is, 1. Partly to convince and reprove the Jewes for their horrid and unparallel'd violation of all God's Laws, by all manner of impiety against God, and iniquity against man, which sins are evidenced to be the causes of all their sorrows. 2. Partly to assure them that for their grievous hypocrisie, idolatry, impenitency, and other their corruptions, heightned by false Prophets, flatteries, and the evil Government both in Church and Commonwealth, whereby they had long forsaken God, God at length was resolved, (after his long patience and invitation of them to repentance by his Prophets, despised) to forsake the Temple and Jerusalem, and to give up City and Temple, Church and State, to be destroyed, and the People themselves to be captived by the Babylonians for a long time. Amongst which Captives notwithstanding God would reserve an Elect seed, and precious remnant that should at last be restored. 3. Partly to denounce heavy judgments also to divers forreign Cities or Nations, who had either been occasions of enduring the Jewes by their sins, or Instruments of their sufferings, or any way rejoyced or insulted over them in their calamities, as Ammon, Moab, Edom, Palestine, Tyrus, Zidon, Egypt. especially Gog and Magog, those last and most desperate enemies of the Church devoted to utter ruine. 4. Finally, to comfort the Captives, not only with Promises of their temporal Restauration by Cyrus from Babylon, but especially with Promises of the Churches spiritual Restauration by Christ from death and hell, under the elegant type of the New Temple to be erected; the New Worship of God to be restored; together with the New Jerusalem, and New Land, that should be discovered and distributed among the 12 Tribes: all these are represented in a Vision, whereby the compleat and spiritual glory of the Church of Christ under the New Testament is notably adumbrated, till she be taken home to dwell with Christ face to face in the mountains of Spices.

By the Lawes or Rules of Prophecy wherein the Lord instructed him under the Metaphor of a Watchman, ver. 16. to 22. 5. By another vision of the glory of the Lord in the Plain astonishing him, upon which the Lord directs him to sit dumb in his house, till He open his mouth to speak, ver. 22. to the end.

II. THE PROPHECY it self, or the Substance of the Book, containing principally three Ranks of Sermons, preached at several times to several Persons, &c. I. To the Jewes, whom he sharply rebukes and threatens for their impieties, c. 4. to c. 25. II. To the enemies of Gods people, whose ruine and destruction he foretells, c. 25. to c. 33. III. To the Jewes exhorting them to repentance, and incouraging them to hope, nor only for an Inchoate deliverance from Babylons slavery, c. 33 to c. 40. But also for a Consummate spiritual deliverance from spiritual misery, by Christ the Messiah, and this is set out in vision, 1 Of the new Temple to be erected, c. 40, 41, 42. 2 Of the new worship of God to be restored, c. 43, 44. 3 Of the new Land that should be distributed, ch. 45, 46, 47, 48. And 4 Of the new City that should be inhabited, ch. 48.

I. The Prophets Sermons to the Jewes, in many visions foretelling their heavy judgments, for their sins, ch. 4. to 45. More particularly,

1. Under the type of Jerusalems siege pourtraied on a Tile, and the Prophets lying on his left side 390. dayes, and after on his right side 40 dayes, are set forth the three hundred and ninety years of Israels, and fourty years of Judah's sins, for which Jerusalem should be besieged Chap. IV. 1. to 9. This is amplified; Chap. 4. By the concomitant of that siege, grievous famine, ver. 9. to the end. 2 By the consequent of that siege, their judgments by famine, sword, and dispersion is shewed under the type of the Prophets haire of his head and beard, a third part burnt, a third part smitten about with a knife, and a third part scattered with the wind Ch. V. throughout.

Chap. 5. 2. The wasting of Judea for her idolatry, is threatned, Chap. VI. 1. to 8. Amplified, 1. By promises to a remnant repenting of their sins, and justifying Gods truth, ver. 8. to 11. 2. By the Lamentations prescribed in reference to the approaching calamities, ver. 11. to the end.

Chap. 6. 3. Final desolation of all the four corners of Israel is threatned, Ch. VII. 1. to 16. This is Amplified, 1. By the mournful repentance of the remnant escaping, ver. 16. to 20. 2. By the pollution of the Sanctuary by their enemies, threatned for their sins, ver. 20, 21, 22. 3. By their bondage under the worst of Heathens, represented by a Chain, ver. 23. to the end.

Chap. 7. 4. The Causes of Jerusalem's and Judea's destruction represented to Ezekiel, carried in a vision to Jerusalem, ch. 8, 9, 10, 11. wherein note

1. The Preface to the Vision, describing 1 Time, Place, and witnesses of his vision or extasie, Ch. VIII. 1.

Chap. 8. 2. The manner of his visional removing to Jerusalem, ver. 1, 2, 3, 4.

2. The four chief parts of the Vision, viz. I. The first Part contains, A visional Narration of the Jews abominable idolatry, whereby the Temple was polluted, and God provoked to delert it, in four notorious instances, viz. a Image of jealousie, vers. 5, 6. a Statuam ejus insignem Idoli Baal in Templo Dei positum narrat Historia. Pulchreque appellatur idolum Zeli, quia ad æmulationem & Zelum dominum provocat &c. D. Hieron. Com. in loc. Others doubt what this Image of jealousie was, but think it was some very abominable one, as Baals was whereto the People bare great devotion. Jo. Drus. Ar. And that this was a very impudent Idolatry, the Idol being so publickly placed near the Altar, &c. Lavat. in Ezech. 8.

Chambers of Imagery, ver. 7. to 13. Weeping for Tammuz ver. 13, 14. worshiping the Sun towards the East, ver. 15, 16. 2. A sharp Comination hereupon, ver. 17, 18. II. The second Part of the vision contains the judgement for these sins, more particularly, 1. Gods Command to slay all the Jewes, but first to Seale, and so to spare all the Elect Mourners with the execution of this Command, Chap. IX. 1. to 8. 2. The Prophets intercession for them, being amazed at the slaughter, ver. 8. 3. The Lords answer to the Prophet, shewing the equity of his judgements for their sins, ver. 9, 10, 11. III. The third Part of the vision, containing, 1. The visional Command to scatter the coals of fire between the Cherubims over the City, denoting the horrible wrath of God against the City, Chap. X. 1. to 8. 2. The vision of the Cherubims and four wheeles, repesenting the doleful departure of the GLORY of the LORD, from the Threshould of the house, even to the door of the East Gate, ver. 8, to the end. IV. The fourth Part of the vision, wherein 1. A sharp threatning of the presumptuous Princes, as the Authors of the publick impiety in the City, Chap. XI. 1. to 13. 2. The Prophet being dismayed at the execution of vengeance according to his Prophecy is comforted by the Lord, ver. 13. to 22.

Lavat. Homil. in loc. Some expound it of Osiris the Egyptian-idol; Osiris, brother (or, as Lactantius and Arnobius, son) of Isis, was naught with her, which when Typhon her husband knew, he tare him in pieces and cast his members up and down all Nilus his banks. Isis sought out his dilacerate members, gathered them, buried them, and commanded that yearly Osiris should be sought with Tears and Lamentation, and afterwards, as it were found, should be celebrated with joy. D. August. De Civ. Dei. lib. 6. Ch. 10. Tom. 5.

Whether it were Adonis or Osiris, or some other that is here intended; it is certain the Israelites here did imitate some (such) paganish Rites and Idolatries, Lavat. Homil. in Ezech. 8.

3. The Close or Conclusion of the vision, relating 1. The removal of Gods glory from the midst of the City to the mountain, ver. 22, 23. 2. The Prophets return from Jerusalem to Babylon in vision, where he reports his vision, ver. 24, 25.

5. The Captivity of King Zedekiah, and of the People of Jerusalem is fore-prophesied, under the Type of Ezekiels Removing his stuff, Chap. XII. 1. to 17. Chap. 12. This is Amplified, 1. Partly by the evils antecedent to this destruction and Captivity, set forth under the Type of the Prophets Eating and drinking with quaking trembling and carefulnesse. v. 17. to 21. 2. Partly by confutation of the taunt of the Jews (The dayes were long, afar off,) whereby they would elude the Prophecy of their Captivity, ver. 21. to the end.

6. A sharp reprehension 1. Of the false Prophets dawbing with lies and flatteries, to lull the people asleep in security, Ch. XIII. 1. to 17. 2. Of their Chap. 13. small Prophetesses, &c. ver. 17. to the end.

7. Upon occasion of certain Elders of Israel coming to inquire of the Prophet, here are declared, 1. How God abhor to be enquired of by them, because of their idolatry, and how he will plague idolaters and their false Prophets unless they repent, Chap. Chap. 14. XIV. 1. to 12. 2. How irrevocably God had decreed to plague them with Famine, Noysome beasts, Sword, Pestilence, and Captivity of a remnant, ver. 12. to the end.

8. The rejection of the Jewes is set forth under the type of A barren vine branch, altogether useless for any imployment, Ch. XV. throughout. Chap. 15.

9. A convincing discovery of Jerusalem's abominations to her, Ch. XVI. 1, 2, &c. wherein 1. A Narration 1. Of the Jewes miserable condition at first, Chap. 16. under under the type of a New born child in its blood, ver 2. to 6. 2. Of Gods compassions and loving kindness to them in that wretched State, ver. 6. to 15. 3. Of the Jews ingrateful Apostacy from God, notwithstanding all his kindnesses, set out under the type of an Whore and whoredome, ver. 15. to 35. II. A Commination of heavy judgements for those sins, ver. 35. to 60. III. A promise of renewing Covenant and holy wedlock with an elect remnant afterwards, ver. 60. to the end.

Chap. 3. Chap. 10. Chap. 11. Tammuz] Some interpret it of Adonis, fabled to be the Paramour of Venus, who quickned again after he was slain with Mars, in forme of a wild Boar, and so was celebrated of the Women. Hieron. Comment. in loc.

10. A denunciation of judgements upon Jerusalem and her King, for perfidious revolting from the King of Babylon, under the Parable of two Eagles and a Vine. 1. The Parable is propounded, Chap. XVII. 1. to 11. 2. The parable is expounded, and applyed in a minatory way, ver. 11. to 23. 3. Contrary blessings to the Church and Kingdome of Christ, are promised under the Type of the highest Branch of the high Cedar, planted on an high and eminent mountain of Israel, ver. 22, 23, 24.

11. A refutation of the Jews impious Proverb against God, The fathers have eaten sower grapes, and the Childrens teeth are set on edge; Meaning that God did punish them unjustly for their fathers sins. Here 1. their taunting Proverb against God is propounded. Ch. XVIII. 1. 2. The confutation of the Proverb, by shewing that whomsoever God punisheth, he punisheth justly; and that as anothers righteousness cannot profit a man, so anothers sin cannot hurt a man, (unless he make them his own) ver. 3. to 30. 3. The close of the Confutation, inviting the Jewes to repentance, for preventing of punishments, verse 30, 31, 32.

12. A Lamentation for the Princes of Israel, bringing destruction upon the land by their cruelty and inhumanity. Here, 1. Under the Type of a Lioness and her two whelps, (viz. Israel and her two Kings carried captive, the one into Egypt, the other into Babylon for their sins,) is threatned the like condition of their present King and State, Chap. XIX. 1. to 10. 3. Under the Type of a Vine transplanted into a Wilderness and wasted, is set forth Jerusalems transplanting and destruction, ver. 10. to the end.

13. A terrible denunciation of Judgements against the people for their abominations, upon occasion of certain of the Elders, coming to enquire of the Lord by the Prophet. Here note, I. The occasion and time of his Sermon, Chap. XX. 1, 2. II. The Sermon it self, wherein 1. The kindness of God to the Jewes, and their wofull ingratitude towards God, from their first admission into Covenant with God to that day, is described, ver. 3. to 30. 2. Temporal and external judgements by their Enemies, but especially spiritual and eternal judgements by himself, are threatned for their abominations, ver. 30. to 40. 3. Promises of preserving his Church, and his true worship therein notwithstanding, ver. 40. to 45. 4. Jerusalem's destruction is foretold, under the type of a Forrest burnt with fire, v. 45. to the end.

14. The grievous Babylonian war is foretold, whereby not onely Judea, but the neighbouring Nations, especially the Ammonites should be wasted and destroyed. Here 1. The destruction of Jerusalem and Judea is threatned by the Chaldeans, under the Type of Ezekiels Sighing, Chap. XXI. 1. to 25. 2. The destruction of King and Kingdome, ver. 25, 26, 27. 3. The destruction of the Ammonites also by the sword, ver. 28. to the end.

15. The destruction of the Jewes for their sins is threatned, under the type of Burning dross in a Furnace. Here note 1. A Catalogue of Jerusalems sins, Chap. XXII. 1. to 13. 2. The destruction threatned for these sins, ver. 13. to 23. 3. The aggravations of their sins, 1. Partly by their universal extent over all degrees of men, ver. 23. to 30. 2. Partly by their generall security, few or none standing in the gap for the land, ver. 30, 31.

16. The idolatrous defection of both Israel and Judah from God is branded, under the type of two Women fornicating for whoredome, viz. Aholah and Aholibah. Here note 1. The whoredome of Aholah, that is, the Idolatry of Israel, Chap. XXIII. 1. to 5. and her overthrow by her Lovers the Assyrians, ver. 9, 10. 2. The whoredome of Aholibah, viz. the Idolatry of Judah, worse than that of Israel, ver. 11. to 22. who is therefore threatned with ruine by her Lovers the Chaldeans, ver. 22. to 36. 3. The joyns Repetition and Accusation of the notorious whoredoms, viz. Idolaries, of both Israel and Judah, ver. 36. to 45. 4. A Condemnation of the judgement of them both, ver. 45. to the end.

17. The destruction of Jerusalem by the Chaldeans for her sins persevered in, is described in this Concluding Sermon, Heresie 1. The very first day, wherein the King of Babylon set himself against Jerusalem is denoted, Chap. XXIV. 1, 2. 2. Under the Type of A boyling pot, whose scumme is in it, is described the uncurableness of their sins, and irrevocableness of their judgements by the Chaldees, ver. 3. to 14. 3. Under the Parable of Ezekiels not mourning for his wife now dead, is described their woful destruction beyond Lamentation, ver. 15. to 25. 4. The Confirmation of the Prophecy, by a particular prediction of opening the Prophets mouth from his dumbness, when these Judgements should come upon Jerusalem, &c. ver. 25, 26, 27.

Thus of his Prophecies against the Jewes.

II. His Prophecies against Gentiles, especially against neighbouring Nations, (who had vexed or oppressed the Church,) follow, from Chap. 25. to 33. viz.

1. Against the Ammonites, Chap. XXV. 1. to 8. Chap. 25.
2. Against Moab and Seir, ver. 8. to 12.
3. Against Edom, ver. 12. to 15.
4. Against the Philistines, ver. 15, 16, 17.
5. Against Tyre, where, 1. Tyre insulting over Jerusalem, Chap. XXVI. 1, 2. 2. Her judgments Chap. 26 threatned for her insolencies, ver. 3. to 7. 3. The ability of Nebuchadnezzar to destroy her, ver. 7. to 15. 4. The astonishment and lamentation of the Isles and Princes of the Sea at her terrible overthrow, v. 15. to the end. 5. The Prophets Lamentation taken up for Tyrus, Partly describing and upbraiding her pride, vain glory and luxury, Chap. XXVII. 1. to 26. Chap. 27. Partly declaring her great and irrecoverable fall, to the amazement of all round about her, ver. 26. to the end. 6. The destruction of the Prince of Tyre is threatned for his intollerable pride, and a Lamentation taken up for him, Ch. XXVIII. 1. to 20. Chap. 28.
6. Against Zidon, who is threatned with sword and pestilence, ver. 20. to 24. Amplified by contrary promises of safety and tranquillity to the Church of God, v, 24, 25, 26.
7. Against Pharaoh and Egypt, where consider 1. Their desolation and dispersion is threatned, for their pride against God, and perfidiousness to Israel trusting in them, Chap. XXIX. 1. to 13. This threatning Chap. 29. is a little corrected with promises of restoring them after forty years to be a Kingdome, but the basest of Kingdomes, which shall rule over others no more, nor be trusted by Israel any more, ver. 13. to 17. 2. Egypt and the spoyl thereof is appointed to Nebuchadnezzar, as his wages for his service against Tyre ver. 17. to 21. This is amplified. (1) Partly by the opposite advancement of Israel promised, ver. 21. (2) Partly by the pathetical description of the destruction of Egypt and her Cities, &c. by the Babylonians, Chap. XXX. 1. to 20. (3) Partly by the Chap. 30. Lords threatning to strengthen the arms of the King of Babylon, to break Pharaoh's arme, ver. 20. to the end. 3. Egypts destruction is threatned under the example of Assyria's ruine for their pride, though far greater than Egypt in glory, Ch. XXXI. throughout. 4. Ezekiel is commanded to take up a Lamentation Chap. 31. for Pharaohs and Egypts ruine, Ch. XXXII. Pharaoh Chap. 32. for his cruelty and tyranny being compared to a Lion and a Dragon in the Sea, ver. 1. 2. His judgement set forth forth accomplished, by his being raised in a New, or the heavens and earth shall be renewed, ver. 22. 23. Finally, how he shall be brought to deal with all the rest of the uncircumcised Nations, ver. 25. to the end.

Thus of his Prophecies against foreign Nations.

III. His Warning and Consolations to the Jews selves, wherein they are considered in remoteness and encouraged in hope, not only for an Incheate typical deliverance by Cyrus, but also for a Consummate and true deliverance, judged by Christ, ch. 33. to the end of the Book. Wherein, 1. The Preparatives. 2. The Prophecies themselves.

1. The Preparatives that Prophecy foretells to the Jews, inciting him vigorously and faithfully to warn them, (after his long silence commanded in chap. 24.) Wherein 1. The Prophets duty is described under the type of a Watchman, how he should warn them, Chap. 33. and invite them to Repentance, Chap. XXXIII. 1, to 21. 2. Upon tidings of Jerusalems being smitten, the remnant of Jews remaining in Judea, are threatned to be dispossessed for their sins, ver. 21. to 30. 3. The captive Jews in Babylon are threatned for their hypocrisie, ver. 30. to the end.

II. The Prophecies themselves, wherein

1. The Shepherds of Israel both Civil and Ecclesiastical are threatned for their unfaithfulnesse to his Chap. 34. flock, Chap. XXXIV. 1. to 11. Amplified 1. By the tender care that the Lord himself will have of his flock, ver. 11. to 23. 2. By the Promises of setting up Christ to be the true and happy Shepherd to his Church, ver. 23. to the end.

2. Mount Seir is threatned with ruine for her hatred Chap. 35. and cruelty against Israel, Chap. XXXV. throughout.

3. Consolatory Promises are propounded to the Jewes, I. Touching the Lords avenging them of their spightful enemies by destroying them round about, Chap. XXXVI. 1. to 8. II. Touching their Chap. 36. Restauration to, and Prosperity in their own Land, notwithstanding their sins, and this of his own meer grace, crowning them with spiritual and temporal Blessings, ver. 8. to the end. III. Touching their recovery out of Babylon, though their condition therein was as hopeless as dead men in their graves, under Chap. 37. the type of Dry Bones, Chap. XXXVII. 1. to 15. IV. Touching the happy union of Israel and Judah into one Nation, especially of Jewes and Gentiles under Chap. 38. one King, Christ, represented under the type of Two Chap. 39. sticks becoming one in the Prophets hand, ver. 15. to the Chap. 40. end. V. Touching the glorious victory they shall have over a Gog and Magog, that shall distress them after their return from Captivity, Promises whereof are again renewed, Chap. XXXVIII. and XXXIX. throughout. VI. Touching their compleat, spiritual Restauration by the Messiah, Jesus Christ, under the types of a New Temple, New worship, New Land, and New City, (which as here described, surpass the glory of Zerubbabels Temple, &c. and therefore are to be referred to the times of the New Testament,) ch. 40. to the end of the Book, More particularly herein note

I. The Preface to the Vision, describing the Time, Place, and Manner of this Vision, Chapt. XL. 1, 2, 3, 4.

a Gog and Magog] About them are very discrepant opinions who they are. 1, The Jewes, (whom Mahomed in his Alcoran follows) understand by Gog and Magog, the ten tribes of Israel shut up in the Caspian mountains by Alexander the Great, which towards the end of the world should break forth, take Antichrist for their Messiah, infest the Holy Land and people of God, and in the siege of Jerusalem should be conquered by the King Messias. See this reported by Pet. Galat. de Arcan. veritat. Cathol. l. 5. c. 12. Et D. Hier. Com. in Ezek. 38. 2. Some understand a certain Nation namely Scythians, i. e. Turks and Saracens, who anciently carried about their houses in wains, that they might more easily possess other places, they coming forth of the Rocks of Caucasus, wandred abroad in Asia, and by degrees possest the Coast of Pontus and Galatia, and laid waste the most flourishing Eastern Churches, &c. 3. Some understand other Scythians, viz. Huns, Gothes, Goths, and think that the [illegible] of Antichrist, Rabanus de fide l. 2. c. 2. Ambrosius, and they understand by [illegible] by Title of the Spanish [illegible] of Toulouse, [illegible] of Jerusalem, 4. Some [illegible] these are described the wars of that devil in the heavenly Host, viz. Michael, against the Dragon, &c. Others, of the Most Barbarous Nations, under Gog and Magog, generally Heretics and Tyrants, and all the Churches enemies through the world. Gog signifies the Roofe, Magog, Of the Roofe, therefore all pride and false science, which exalts it self against the knowledge of the Truth, is set forth in these names. The chief Heretricks are Gog; they that have received their Errours from Magog. Du Hier. Com. in Ezech. 38. and Aug. de Civit. lib. [illegible] Tom. 3. Galatinus also from the Hebrew, gathers, that Gog and Magog denote any impious ones professing the Church, but are the devils House and Habitacle. Bibliander in his Chronol. and Bullinger in Com. in Apocalyps incline to this, but so as according to the Letter and History, they interpret it of Alexander and his Successors, the Ptolomey's in Egypt, The Seleucians and Antiochians in Syria and Asia; especially of Antiochus Epiphanes King of Syria, who having taken Jerusalem, more afflicted the Israelites than any former enemies; and was therein a notable type of Antichrist. D. Pareus in Advers. in Ezech. 38. & Lorin. in Daniel. in Ezech. 38. incline to this opinion.

Gog and Magog] Names of Scythian people, this day called Tartars, Gen. 10. 2. this Prophecy may be referred partly to the desolations that befell Jews returned from Babylon by the Kings of Asia and Syria, Dan. 8. 23. and 11. 3. and because that the Scythians had anciently over-runne and possessed Armenia and Syria, whereof in Asia there was a City called Magog, and another in Syria called Scythopolis, the Provinces have taken their names from this cruell and barbarous conquering nation to signifie the inhumanenesse of those Syrian Kings, Alexanders Successors, towards the Jews: but it is likely that besides this the Spirit of God did purpose to signifie a great oppression which the Church is like to suffer, and especially the Jews, who shall be converted to Christ towards the latter end of the World by the said Scythians or Tartars, as Saint John seems to point out, Rev. 7. 2. Zech. 14. 2. Tom Jun. Tirin. in Amos. 10. Lyr. in [illegible] verse 2.

II. The vision it self, containing

1. A description of the b New Temple, (measured by the Angel, the Son of God,) 1. By the compass of the whole structure, ver. 5. to 17. 2. By the outward Court, ver. 17. to 28. 3. By the inner or middle Court, wherein were the Levites Utensils, and and where sacrifices were prepared, ver. 28. to 47. 4. By the inmost Court, or Court of the Priests, wherein was the Altar of Burnt-offering, ver. 44. to 48. 5. By the proportions of the Temple, (wherein was the Holy of Holyes,) ver. 48, 49. and Chap. XLI. throughout. and Chap. XLII. 1. to 15. 6. By the whole compass of it round about towards the East, North, South and West circumscribed, ver. 13. to the end. b The New Temple. Chap. 41. Chap. 42.

2. The c New Worship and Ministry instituted in this new Temple, (adumbrating the true spiritual Christian worship under the New Testament, as 1. Pet. 2. 5. Heb. 13. 15. Rev. 1. 6.) is described 1. By the return of the Lords glory into his Temple, (God and his People being now reconciled in Christ,) by the same way that it departed form the Temple, Chap. XLIII. 1. to 7. 2. By the Lords Promise of restoring and purging this his Temple perfectly, and dwelling therein perpetually, ver. 7. to 13. 3. By the measures and ordinances of the Altar of Burnt-offering, to be of continual use, viz. Jesus Christ, ver. 13. to the end. 4. By the three orders of the Priests, viz. of the High-Priest, Chap. XLIV. 1. to 4. Of the sons of Ithamar, who for their idolatry are rejected from the Priests office, and only admitted to the meanest employments of the Levites, ver. 4. to 15. Of the sons of Zadok, who are confirmed in their Priestly Office for their faithfulnesse, vers. 15, 16. 5. By several Laws and Ordinances for the Priests, ver. 17. to the end. c The New Worship, and Ministry. Chap. 43. Chap. 44.

3. The d distribution of the new Land by lot for inheritance, d The New Land distributed heritance, (one part being reserved undivided as an holy portion, Chap. XLV. 1.) and in this distribution, the first portion was for the Sanctuary and Priests v. 2, 3, 4. The second for the Levites, v. 5. The third for the People, v. 6. The fourth to the Prince v. 7, 8. This distribution here summarily propounded, is afterwards more fully expounded, (but in an inverted order, per ὕστερον πρότερον) As, I. Touching the Prince or Magistrate, Lawes and Ordinances about his office and Worship, being laid down, ver. 9. to the end, and Chap. XLVI. 1. to 9. and about his inheritance, ver. 16, 17, 18. II. Touching the People, Ordinances for their worship, v. 9. to 16. III. Touching the Priests how they shall prepare their offering, ver, 19. to the end. IV. Touching the Sanctuary, out of which issued Waters at first very shallow, afterwards very deep and unpasseable, healing the Rivers and Fish, and all places but the miry places and Marishes; Typifying either the Spirit of God which was given sparingly under the Old Testament, but plentifully under the New Testament, or, The Gospel, which at first had but small beginnings, afterwards spread wonderfully throughout the World to the spiritual healing of all that truely entertained it, Chap. XLVII. 1. to 13. After this he returns to the perfecting of the distribution of the Land, assigning to the Twelve Tribes their Portions, and the Sanctuary its Portion, ver. 13. to the end, and Chap. XLVIII. 1. to 29. [Now in this distribution 'tis observable, 1 The situation of Places, differs from that of Joshuah's of old. 2. *Strangers are to inherit with Israelites which they did not of old. DANIEL.

Sect. I. Order.

DANIEL is (according to the usual order of the Books in our Bibles) the last of the greater Prophets. But according to the Order of the Books in the Hebrew Bibles, (as hath been formerly noted out of a Mercerius,) it is ranked among the Hagiographa or Holy-writings, peculiarly so called; and that learned b Hierome himself advertiseth us, That Daniel is not to be found among the Prophets, but among them that wrote the Hagiographa. The Hebrews dividing the whole Scripture into three parts, viz, The Law, the Prophets and Hagiographa, that is into five, and eight, and eleven Books. And c elsewhere he shows particularly, the Hebrew order and names of all the Books of the Old Testament, which are received as Canonical, which the learned may view at large.

Sect. II. Name and Penman.

This Book hath is denomination from DANIEL, the instrumental Author or Penman of it. That this is Daniels Prophecy, our Saviour himself testifies; d When you therefore shall see the abomination of desolation spoken of by Daniel the Prophet, stand in the Holy Place—alledging that passage out of Daniel; e And for the overspreading of abomination, he shall make it desolate.—— e Dan. 9. 27.

דניאל viz. Daniel, signifies The-judgement-of-the-strong-God. This name not without singular Providence seems to be given him, who afterwards was to pronounce the sentence of f judgement of the mighty God upon all the four great Monarchies of the world, viz. the Babylonian, Persian, Grecian and Romane, that they should all be destroyed and broken before the fifth Monarchy of Christ, which shall continue for evermore; And particular Gods judgement upon the Babylonian Monarchy the chief of them all, compared to the Head of gold in Nebuchadnezzars image. This Daniel (if we may beleive g Epiphanius) was sonne of one Sabea, but herein Scripture is silent. Certainly he was b one of the select Jews carried by Nebuchadnezzar into Babylon, in the third year of Jehoiakim King of Judah, to teach them the learning and tongue of the Chaldeans, that they might stand before the King. He is singularly commended in Scripture, and that in many respects, but especially for 1 His faith, 2 His righteousness, 3 His wisedome, And 4 The eminent favour he had with God and Man.

b Nam ut ego arbitror, non facilè cuiquam Scripturæ Dei tam magnum justitiæ perhibet testimonium, quam tribus famulis ejus, Noe, Daniel & Job, quos Ezechiel Propheta dicit ab imminente quadam iracundia Dei solos posse liberari. In tribus utique illis viris tria quædam hominum liberanda genera præfigurans; In Noe, quantum arbitror, justos plebeiosum præpositos, propter Arcæ tanquam Ecclesiæ gubernationem; in Daniele, justos continentes; in Job, justos conjugatos; & si quis est forte alius intellectus de quo nunc non est necesse disquirere; veruntamen quantum isti justitiâ præminuerint, & hoc Prophetico, & aliis testimoniis divinis, satis apparet. D. August. Com. Pelagian. lib. 2. c. 10. Tom. 7. & Enarrat. in Psal. 132. Tom. 8.

Whence Calvin Dan. 1. 1. saith, Daniel was as it were of the first-fruits of the Captivity; and here we may see how incomprehensible of us the judgements of God are; if then there was any integrity among the People, surely Daniel was the primary exemplar; For Ezekiel reckons him among the three just, by whom it was likely God would be pacified [Fuit igitur tanta virtutum præstantia in Daniele, ut esset quasi cœlestis angelus inter mortales,] Such excellency of vertues therefore was in Daniel, that he was as an heavenly Angel among mortal men. As for Daniel he was so righteous p that he would eat pulse rather than defile himself with the Kings Portion; q That his enemies could find no matter of accusation against him, but for his Religion; r That he would rather adventure to be thrown into the Den of hungry Lyons, than cease to pray unto his God, and present idolatrous petitions; And s that the Lyons themselves had no power to hurt him.

3. For his wisdom; it is said t An excellent spirit, and knowledge, and understanding interpreting of dreams and shewing of hard sentences, and dissolving of doubts, was found in this same Daniel, whom the King named (for honour sake) Belteshazzar, after the name of his God, and whom therefore King Nebuchadnezzar made Master of the Magicians; so that in this regard he was singularly renowned among the very heathens. And when God would sharply reprove the pride and insolency of the Prince of Tyre, by reason of his wisdome, he ironically tells him, u behold thou art wiser than Daniel, there is no secret that they can hide from thee. This his penetrating wisdom Daniel manifested in expounding x Nebuchadnezzars dreams and Belshazzar's vision, when all the wise men in Chaldea were non-plus'd with them.

u Ezek. 28. 3.
x Dan. 2. & 4 and 5.

4. Finally, Daniel is commended for the singular favour he was in, both with God and man, y in which respect the Angel Gabriel stiled him z greatly beloved, or as the Hebrew words import, a man of desires. That is, (Faith z Gerhard) most desireable, viz. most dear to God. Augustine thinks, That a Daniel, skilful in things future, a Knower of the Lords coming, and most manifest Preacher of Jerusalems overthrow, is therefore called a man of desires because in Exegesi he did not eat the bread of desire, nor drink the drink of desire, because he desired Christ more than Feasts.

Sect. III. Time, or Chronology.

Daniel being carried captive to Babylon by Nebuchadnezzar l in the third year of Jehojakim King of Judah, (which seems to be the first year of King Nebuchadnezzar, because Nebuchadnezzars eighth year is made parellel to the close of Jehoiakim's reign, who m reigned eleven years, and the n beginning of Jehoiakim's reign, his Successor) Daniel I say, began to be prepared for, and called to the Prophetick Function, in the next year after he came into Babylon, viz. in the o second year of Nebuchadnezzar, God then extraordinarily revealing Nebuchadnezzars dream unto him with the interpretation therof, touching the four Monarchies of the World, and the fifth Monarchy of Christ that should destroy them all; and he prophecied till the p third year of Cyrus the Persian, which was q a year or two after Cyrus had released the Jews out of their captivity, and they were now come to Jerusalem, &c. which r Helvicus computes to be in all about seventy nine years; Jeremiah ceasing to prophecy (according to him) in Daniels 18 year: Ezekiel beginning in Daniels thirteenth year, and ceasing to prophecy in Daniels thirty sixth year. So that Daniel prophecied in the dayes of both Jeremiah and Ezekiel, and also many years after them both.

Sect. IV. Scope

Scope of this Book is

I. More generally to display unto Gods Church and People, Gods wise and faithful dealings with them in all Ages, from the dayes of Nebuchadnezzar till the coming of Christ, for the comfort of the Jews; and from Christ to the end of the world, his peculiar Providence over his own in all their distresses, and deliverances, for the comfort of the Saints under the New Testament.

II. More Particularly,

1. In reference to the Jews, 1. To discover how careful God was over them under their afflictions, by special Providence sending Daniel afore into Babylon, and raising him up to great dignity and power there, (as of old, Joseph in Egypt,) that so the extremity of the Jews bondage in Babylon might be somewhat abated. 2. To encourage the captive Jews to hope for deliverance out of Babylon, because the Babylonian Monarchy should be broken and destroyed after seventy years by the Medes and Persians. 3. Least the Jews, after that their deliverance, should dream of a golden age, Halcyonian dayes, and fancy to themselves nothing but outward Prosperity, to forewarn them, (and that in divers visions) of many sore troubles that should befall the Church, not onely for seventy years of dayes, as in Babylon, but for seventy years of weeks, that is for seven times so long space under Alexander and the Seleucides Kings of Syria, his Successours, &c. but especially under Antiochus Epiphanes, that cruellest Tyger and Persecutor of the Church, and enemy of all Religion, (notably prefiguring the Romane Persecutors of the Primitive Church, and Antichrists rage against the Church at last.) But withal to comfort the Church against all these Persecutors, by the coming of Christ
f Dan.9.24 the Messiah in the flesh, f To make an end of sinne, and to make reconciliation for iniquity, and to bring in everlasting righteousnes, &c. whereby his Church shall be redeemed and delivered spiritually; and by g Dan.12. 1,2,3. his second coming to judgement g whereby his enemies shall be destroyed, and his Church saved and glorified eternally.

a Vid. D. Par. Advers. in Dan. Prom 2. In reference to u m Gentiles also 1. To confirm our faith in the Messiah exhibited, that he is the only true Messiah indeed, in whom the Prophecy of Daniel is so accurately and punctually fulfilled. And this one thing may stop the mouths of the incredulous Jewes for ever, touching the incarnation of the Messiah already. 2. To let us see what the state and condition of the Church shall be under the New Testament, viz. full of troubles and Persecutions; that therfore we promise not our selves any long secular tranquility. 3. To comfort us with assured hope of deliverance at last from all these miseries by Christ, which according to Daniels predictions shall as certainly be performed, as the miseries foretold by him are come to passe.

Sect. IV. Nature and Excellency of this Book.

The nature and excellency of this Prophecy may appear, if we consider 1 The Efficient, 2 The matter, 3 The Form, and 4 The End of the Book.

1. The Efficient or Author of it, is either 1. Principal, viz. God himself; for who could have revealed such secrets, and such future events, not onely touching the Jews, but also Gentiles, and that in reference both to all the four Monarchies of the world, and to the Church of God, not for a short time, but from Daniels dayes to the incarnation of Christ, yea to the end of the world? Which Predictions have hitherto exactly been fulfilled, and therefore this Book is of singular divine Authority, whatsoever that Atheistical x Porphyry babbles out to the contrary. 2. Instrumental, viz. Daniel. A most excellent Prophet, and a great Prince in his dayes, So faithful, righteous, wise, respected of God and men (as hath been shewed.) When God is pleased to use so choice an instrument, the work must needs be transcendent.

x Contra Prophetam Danielem duodecimum librum scribit Porphyrius, nolens eum ab ipso cujus inscriptus est nomine esse compositum, sed à quodam qui temporibus Antiochi, qui appellatus est Epiphanes, fuerit in Judea, & non tam Danielem ventura dixisse, quàm illum narrasse præterita. Denique quicquid usque ad Antiochum dixerit, veram Historiam contiuere: si quid autem ultra opinatus sit, quia futura nescierit, esse mendum. Cui solertissime respondierunt Eusebius Cæsariensis Episcopus, tribus voluminibus, id est octavodecimo, & nonodecimo, & vicesimo; Apollinarius quoque uno grandi libro, hoc est vicesimo sexto: & ante hos ex parte Methodius, D. Hieron. Proem. in Daniel ad Pammachium & Marcell. Tom. 3.

2. The matter of it is admirable, whether Historical or Prophetical. I. Here are not vulgar, but extraordinary Histories, viz. 1. Of Nebuchadnezzars mysterious y dreams, and their notable interpretations in reference to all the grand Monarchies of the world. 2. Of strange apparitions of an z hand-writing upon a wall, and the Contents of the writing against Belshazzar strangely expounded by Daniel, and fulfilled presently according to that Exposition. 3. Of Gods wonderful judgments upon his proudest Adversaries, depriving a Nebuchadnezzar of his Reason and Kingdome, for a time banishing him from the society of Men to live among beasts, that he did eat grass as Oxen, and his Body was wet with the Dew of heaven, that his Hairs were grown like Eagles Feathers, and his Nails like Birds claws, and after all this his Reason and Kingdome returning to him again, of a Man as it were transformed into a Beast, and again of a Beast retransformed into a Man, and casting proud profane b Belshazzar out of his Kingdom for ever. 4. Of c Pagans rare acknowledgments of the Majesty and Dominion of the true God, and their Decrees against all blaspheмers of him. 5. Finally, of peculiar providences of God over his own servants, Prospering them with d pulse, procuring them e favour among Heathens: keeping them pure and sincere against all f temptations, preserving them g un-torn in the Lyons Den, and h un-burnt in the midst of the hot fiery furnace: and raising them up to high-power and dignity, for the comfort of his Church in her captivity. II. Here are also not vulgar but extraordinary Prophecies, viz. 1. Of the destiny of all the i four grand Kingdomes or Monarchies of the world, (whence happily Hierome calls him k The manifold Historian of the whole world.) How they should persecute the Saints from time to time, but at last be utterly destroyed by the Kingdome of the Messiah. 2. Of the afflicted and persecured condition of the Church in this world, out of which afflictions notwithstanding, it shall at last be absolutely delivered. 3. Especially of the l Kingdome of the Messiah paramount over all, describing m his expiation of sins: His introduction of the Gospels n Everlasting Righteousnes, His Unction as of the most-Holy, to be an everlasting King: His abolition of the Jewish Temple and worship, causing the daily sacrifices to cease: that the spiritual Worship of the Gospel may succeed: and his being cut off not for himself, but for his Elect, after seventy weeks, (viz. seventy weeks of years, not of dayes:) Thus he particularly foretells the very time when the Messiah should be revealed and put to death, (which none of all the Prophets did before or after him) in which respect Daniel more clearly propheсies of the Messiah, than all the Prophets of the old Testament, as o Augustine and p Hierome, have well observed.

p Illud in Prophetâ commemoro, nullum Prophetarum tam apertè dixisse de Christo: non enim solum scribit eum esse venturum, quod est commune cum cæteris; sed etiam quo tempore venturus sit docet, & Reges per ordinem digerit, & annos enumerat, ac manifestissima signa pronunciat. Quæquia vidit Porphyrius universa complecti & translata negare non poterat, superatus historiæ veritate, in hanc prorupit calumniam, ut ea quæ in consummatione mundi de Antichristo futura dicuntur, propter Gestorum in quibusdam similitudinem, sub Antiocho Epiphane impleta contendat. Cujus impugnatio sufficientem veritatis est. Tanta enim dictorum fides fuit, ut Propheta incredulis hominibus non videatur futura dixisse, sed narrasse Præterita. D. Hieron. in Com. in Daniel. Prolog. ad Pammach. & Marcell. Tom. 5.

3. The Forme of it: viz. The external Forme, in which the Prophecy is laid down, is great part of it visional, and enigmatical under Types, and therefore intricate, obscure: and yet in some part punctually Chronological, defining the very times of future events particularly, and therefore narrowly to be observed. In the former respect it is (as q Hierome hath noted) one of the Books, hard to be understood, and requiring much study, and accurate comparing of it with r Histories of following events; In the latter respect, being clearly understood, it will abundantly satisfie both Knowledge and Faith, and richly compensate the most industrious studies about it.

D. Hieron. in Com. Daniel. Proem. ad Pammach, &c. Tom. 5.

4. Finally, The End or Scope of this Book is of great and manifold Consequence, as hath been evidenced, Sect. IV. And therefore by all this, how notably is this Book commended to such as are studious of the Scriptures, for the exercising and perfecting of their understanding therein.

Sect. VI. Principal Parts.

I. In this Book consider 1. A Preface to the whole Prophecy, wherein is set forth A Description of Daniels singular Call to the Prophetick Office 2. The Visions and Prophesies themselves. The former Part is usually counted Historical, This latter Prophetical.

THE PREFACE to the Prophecy, containing an Historical Narration of Daniels extraordinary Call unto the Prophetick Office, ch. 1. to ch. 7. where note his 1 Preparation, 2 Qualification, and 3 Confirmation therein.

I. His Preparation for the Prophetick Function is set forth. 1. By the time when Daniel began to come into request, viz. in King Jehoiakims third Year, when King Nebuchadnezzar subdued him, and carried divers Captives to Babylon, Chap. 1. ver. 1, 2. Chap. 1.

By the occasion of Daniels noted fame, viz. King Nebuchadnezzars Command to the Master of the Eunuches to bring to Babylon certain of the King and Princes and Heathen seed, Youths [wherein was Daniel] skilful in all Wisdome, &c. whom they might teach the Learning and Tongue of the Chaldeans, that after three years they might stand before the King: among whom was Daniel, and three other his companions; named also with Chaldeans names, v. 3. to 8. 3. By Daniels favour and tender love with the Prince of the Eunuches, whereby he obtained for himself and his three companions liberty to be fed with pulse, (they prospering therewith) that they might not be [Daniel feared Defiled] with the Kings Provision, v. 8. to 17.

by the Kings portion. 1 Either because there might be some [illegible] amongst it prohibited to the Jewes as Ceremonially unclean. Or because the Kings meat was blessed with invocation of [illegible] or was consecrated to idols. 3. Or because those Princely delicates should not become a snare to him, to withdraw his heart from the Jewish to the Paganish Religion. 4. Or least being fed with Court-like Delicates, he should forget the affliction of the Church. Parens in Adverss. in Daniel 1. 8. And Dion. Areop. ibid. But Calvin in loc. gives only those two last Reasons of Daniels Abstinence.

II. His Qualification for his Office is set down Comparatively, like his Companions; Superlatively, above them, ver. 17. Amplified by their joyne tenfold excellency beyond all Chaldeans, vers. 18. to the end.

III. His Confirmation in the Prophetick Office, to the admiration of the Heathens, much more to the conviction of the Jews) divers wayes, viz.

1. By his Revelation of King Nebuchadnezzars Dream, (which he had forgotten) touching the Image, and his interpretation of it; Described 1. By the Antecedent, viz. 1. The time of Nebuchadnezzars dreams, Chap. II. 1. 2. His trouble of spirit about them, ver. 1. 3. The inability of all the Chaldeans wise-men to tell the King his Dreams, whereupon the King sent out a Decree to slay all the Wise-men; Daniel and his fellows being sought to be slain, ver. 2. to 14. 4. Upon Daniels obtaining respite of the Execution a little, after his and his fellows Prayer to God, in night vision God reveals both dream and interpretation of it, for which Daniel blessed God, ver. 14. to 24. II. By the matter of the dream and interpretation thereof revealed particularly by Daniel to the King, ver. 24. to 46. III. By the Consequents thereof, viz. the Kings 1. Adoring of Daniel, ver. 46. 2. Magnifying of Daniels God, ver. 47. 3. Preferring of Daniel, who obtained preferment also for all his three companions, ver. 48, 49. 4. Hereunto is annexed Gods miraculous Preservation of these three Companion, of Daniel, (refusing idolatrously to worship Nebuchadnezzars Image,) so that they were not burnt in the hot fiery Furnace, the Angel of God accompanying them there; whereupon their God is magnified by the Kings Decree, and they promoted, Ch. III. throughout. Chap. 2. Chap. 3.

Chap. 6 II. THE PROPHECY it self chap. 6. to the end of the Book, containing divers Visions and Predictions of things to come, till the incarnation of Christ, and afterwards (as some think) to the end of the World.

I. The first visional Prediction, is of the four Beasts, viz. the four grand Kingdomes or Monarchies of the World, the Babylonian, Persian, Grecian and Roman. This vision is the same Substance with that first Dream of Nebuchadnezzars, ch. 2. Onely with this difference, 1. In this, the foure Kingdomes are described more punctually and particularly than in that. 2. In that, they are represented under the resemblance of a man made up of four sorts of materials; Gold, Silver, Brass, Iron and Clay: In this, under the similitude of four Beasts, because of the beastly cruelty in obtaining and administring of these Kingdomes. In this vision consider I. The Preface, describing the Time, Manner, Record and Report of the vision, Chap. VII. 1.

Chap. 7. II. The vision it self, declaring 1. The successive Rise Resemblance, Disposition and Acts of the four Kingdomes, ver. 2. to 9. 2. The fall and ruine of all these Kingdoms, by the everlasting Kingdome of Christ the Mediator, given to him of God, ver. 9. to 15. III. The interpretation of the vision, 1 Desired by Daniel, ver. 15, 16. 2. Performed particularly unto Daniel, both touching the several beasts, the four Kingdoms; and touching their destruction, v. 17. to 28. IV. The Conclusion, ver. 28.

II. The second visional Prediction, the same for Substance with the former, chap. 7. and with Nebuchadnezzars Dream, chap. 2. But with, this difference that here's only mention of the three last Kingdomes, the Babylonians being omitted, because within three years it was to be destroyed. Here are 1. The Preface, declaring the Time and Place of the vision, Chap. VIII. 1, 2. Chap. 8. II. The vision it self. 1. Of a Ram that had two horns very high, &c. signifying the Kingdome of two People, the Medes and Persians united, ver. 3, 4. 2. Of an Hee-Goat from the West, (that is the Grecian Monarchy,) with a notable horne in his forehead, prevailing over the Ram, (that is, the first King of Greece, Alexander the Great,) which horn being broken, there arose up four horns instead thereof, and out of one of them a little horn came forth, which prevailed to take away the daily sacrifice, and cast down the truth to the ground. (that is, Alexander being dead, the Kingdome was divided into four lesser Kingdomes, viz. Macedonia, Asia, Syria, (called by Historians from Seleucus Nicanor the first King, of the Seleucidan's Kingdome) and Egypt; Seleucus being dead, Antiochus Epiphanes, a notable type of Antichrist, rose up; who by subtilty of their Governours, drew many Jewes from Gods pure Worship and Truth,) ver. 5. to 13. This is amplified by the time how long the daily sacrifice and sanctuary shall thus be trodden under foot by Antiochus, viz. two thousand three hundred dayes; that is, six years, three moneths, and about eighteen dayes till the [u] Altar was purified ver. 13, 14. III. The interpretation of the Vision described, 1. By the Preparatories to it, ver. 15. to 20 2. By the particulars of it, ver. 20. to 27. IV. The Conclusion, denoting the effects of the vision in Daniel, ver. 27. [u] 1 Mac. 4. 25.

III. The third Prediction or particular Prophecy, touching the Punctual time of the Messiahs coming in the Flesh, and suffering for sinners, after seventy weeks, by which the Lord would raise Daniels thoughts from the temporal deliverance out of Babylon by Cyrus, to the spirituall Restauration of the Church by Christ. Herein note I. The time when this was revealed to Daniel, viz. In the first year of Darius son of Ahasuerus, Chap. IX. 1, 2. II. The occasion whereupon this was revealed to Daniel, viz. Chap. 9. 1. Partly upon Daniels understanding by Jeremiahs Prophecy the terme of the 70 years captivity in Babylon, ver. 2. 2. Partly upon Daniels zealous Prayer, after confession of their sins, for the Jewes Restauration from Babylon, ver. 3. to 20. III. The narration of the time when the Messiah should come into the world, and be cut off to bring in everlasting righteousness, &c. after 70 weeks (viz. 70 weeks of years) ver. 20. to the end.

IV. The fourth and last visional Prediction, containing future events from that time to the Messiahs coming, or (as some think) to the last judgement in ch. 10, 11. and 12. Here are considerable.

1. The Preface to the Prophecy, containing 1. The time and occasion of the vision in Cyrus his third year, and in Daniels three weeks mourning and fasting, (thought to be occasioned by reason of the obstructing of the Temple-building,) Chap. X. 1, 2, Chap. 10. 3. 2. The glorious vision of Christ, ver. 4, 5, 6. 3. The great Consternation of Daniel and his companions at the vision, ver. 7, 8, 9. 4. An Angels speech to Daniel, Partly erecting and comforting him, ver. 10, 11, 12. Partly shewing him the Reason why the answering of his Prayers was thus long delay'd, because he was thus long (viz. 21 dayes) hindred by the Prince of Persia, ver. 13. to the end.

2. The Prophetical Prediction, I. Touching the four Kings of Persia, whereof the last shall provoke the Realme of Græcia to his destruction, Chap. XI, Chap. 11. 1, 2. II. Touching the King of Græcia, viz. Alexander, that shall translate the Monarchy from Persia to Græcia, ver. 3. III. Touching the dissipation of Alexanders Kingdome, ver. 4. IV. Touching the wars betwixt the King of the South, [viz. the King of Egypt that lay South from Judea;] and the King of the North, [viz. the Kings of Syria, the Seleucides, these were two of the four Kingdomes, that rose up out of Alexanders Kingdome, Jo. 2. to 22. V. Touching the Invasion and Tyranny of the Romans, and the mischiefs thereby to the Church, permitted for the Churches good, to 30. to the end. VI. Touching the State of the Church after Christ to the end of the World, that it shall be most afflicted, yet she shall have compleat deliverance by Christs second coming to judgment. Chap. XII. throughout.

Hitherto of the four greater Prophets Isaiah, Jeremiah, Ezekiel, Daniel.

II. The twelve lesser Prophets follow, viz. The Books of Hoshea, Joel, Amos, Obadiah, Jonah, Micah, Nahum, Habakkuk, Zephaniah, Haggai, Zechariah and Malachi: Called Lesser Prophets, Not for their lesser merit, but from the lesser number of verses as a Ruffinus. Not because they or their Prophets had lesser Authority from God, but because their Prophecies and sermons were written in far lesser volumes than the former, (as hath been noted out of b Augustine,) Yea these are so small, that the c men of the great Synagogue, or Ezra under Artaxerxes Longimanus, or some godly Jews digested them all into one volume, (called the d Book of the Prophets) perhaps least any of them should be lost e Hierome observes, That the twelve lesser Prophets were digested all into one volume, called therefore by the Jews Thare Asar, i. e. Twelve: for תרי There signifies two: and עשר Asar ten. And this connection of them is not new, as may appear in Ecclesiast. 49. 10.

Nec est idem ordo in Prophetarum apud Hebræos, et apud nos. Unde secundum id quod in legitur, hic quoque ordo servetur. Osee commatum est, & quasi per sententias loquens, Joel plenus in principiis, in fine obscurus: & usque ad postremum habens similia cæteris proprietatem suam, quem Ezdram scribam, legisse Doctores Hebræi asserunt, &c. quis longum est omnia de omnibus dicere, hoc tantum vos O Paula & Eustochium admonuisse volo: Unum librum esse duodecim Prophetarum, & O sex dystichorum similes: Malachiam vero Aggæi & Zechariæ fuisse comparem. In quibus autem temporibus non præfertur in Titulo, sub illis eos regibus Prophetasse, sub quibus & his qui ante eos habentur claruisse, prophetaverunt. Hieron. in 12. Propher. in præfat. Tom. 5.

Octavus liber duodecim Prophetarum, qui apud illos vocatur Thare-Asar. Hieron in III. Regum Præfat. Tom. 3.

These twelve Prophets, according to that which principally predominates in their Prophecies, are f counted either Minatory, Consolatory, or Hortatory.

1. Minatory, threatning the captivity or other punishments, as Hosea, Joel, Amos, Micah; They threaten either both the Kingdoms of Israel and Judah, or Judah alone, or Israel as the cause of Judahs error, and sometimes all the neighbouring Kingdoms.

2. Consolatory to the Jews, as Obadiah, Jonah, Nahum, Habakkuk, who also threaten either the Idumeans, enemies to Israel; or Nineveh and the Assyrians that captived the ten Tribes; or Babylon and the Chaldeans that captived the two Tribes.

3. Hortatory, inciting and calling back the People out of Babylons captivity, as Zephaniah, Haggai, Zechariah, Malachi. Zephaniah preaching of it as future: Haggai and Zechariah, as present; therefore insist that People to come forth of Babylon to rebuild Jerusalem: Malachi as past and actually fulfilled, whereupon he exhorts them to Piety and Holyness.

HOSHEAH.

Sect. I. Order and Time.

IN what Order, and at what Time, or how long Hoshea Prophesied, See in the Chronological Table before Isaiah.

Sect. II. Name and Penman.

This Book is by the Hebrews called סִפְרֵ הוֹשֵׁעַ Sepher Hoshea, i. e. The Book of Hoshea, from the Prophet Hoshea, Penman of it. Therefore in the inscription it is called f The word of the Lord that came unto Hoshea ——— And g The beginning of the word of the Lord by Hoshea.

f Hos. 1. 1.
g Hos. 1. 2.

הוֹשֵׁעַ Hoshea is for substance the same name with Joshua or Jesus, and signifies a Saviour. Now though Parents in the imposing of this name upon their Children, perhaps knew not, nor intended any future events to them, or by them, (as that learned h Rivet observes,) yet by God's disposition of things, (who foreknows all things,) they have become convenient, as Joshua was a Saviour to Israel against the Canaanites, having before that happy Omen in his name. So here Hoshea is of their number, i That (as Paul saith,) save themselves and them that hear them; for he preacheth salvation in Christ to the Jews, if they will not be obstinate. And they all were subservient, instrumental Saviours, and types of that onely true Saviour Jesus Christ, k that m saves his People from their sins. Hoshea was the n son of Beeri; who this Beeri was, and what his office or condition was, is not discovered in Scripture. The Rabbines have a Rule (saith o Gerhard,) When in the beginning of any Prophet, his Fathers name is expressed, he is understood to have been a Prophet also; but the certain demonstration of that rule is still desired. Some p think he was of the Town of Belemoth in the Tribe of Issachar. Others q that he was born in Bethshemesh, reckoned among the Cities of that Tribe, Josh. 19. 22. Hebrews think Beeri was was a Prince of the Tribe of the Reubenites mentioned, 1 Chron. 5. 5. But (as D. Rivet. [r] observes) that is scarce probable, and the termination of the two names plainly differs. that being Beera, this Beeri. Touching the life or death of this Prophet, Scripture is silent.

Sect. III. The Nature of this Prophecy.

This Prophecy principaly deals against the ten Tribes, under the names of Israel, Samaria or Ephraim; because Samaria was the Royal City, and Jeroboam, the first King of the ten Tribes, was an Ephramite: now and then against Judah. He principally inveighs against Israel for their Idolatry. His stile is sharp and succinct, he speaks (saith [s] Hierome) as it were by sentences. His compendious conciseness and brevity, occasioneth his darkness & obscurity. In Augustines judgement [t] he speaks profoundly, and the more profoundly he speaks, the more laboriously or difficultly he is penetrated or understood: we had need to pray to the Lord in the Explanation of Hosheah (saith [u] Hier.) and to say with Peter, Open unto us this Parable; especially when he himself that wrote it, testifies in the end of it, the obscurity of the Volume; [x] who is wise, and he shall understand these things? prudent, and he shall know them? which we are to interpret of the difficulty, not of the impossibility of understanding them.

[t] Osee igitur Propheta, quanto profundius quidem loquitur, tanto operosius penetratur. D. Aug. de Civ. Dei l. 18. c. 28.

[u] Quanto magis in explanatione Osee Prophetæ orandus est dominus, & cum Petro dicendum, Edisseere nobis parabolam istam: Præsertim, cum obscuritatem voluminis in fine testetur ipse qui scripsit, Quis sapiens & intelligit ista? intelligens, & cognoscet ea? Quod non pro impossibili, sed pro difficili debemus accipere. Hier. Com. in Osee Proem ad Pammach. Tom. 6. x. Hos. 14. 9.

Sect. IV. Occasion and Scope.

Occasion of Hosheah's Prophecy seems to be this: The ten tribes (usually called in this Prophet, Israel, or Ephraim,) revolting from Rehoboam to Jeroboam son of Nebat, (who set up the two idolatrous Calves in Bethel,) they thereby also deprived themselves of the pure Worship of God at Jerusalem, and went a whoring after Jeroboams idols. From [y] whose sins Jeroboam sonne of Joash departed not; and Israel was still too prone to follow the lewd examples of their wicked Kings, especially if they prospered, as this [z] Jeroboam son of Joash did. In his days therefore God raises up this Prophet in Israel, to convince them of their Apostacy, and to recover at least the Elect among them by repentance.

[y] 2 Kings 14. 24.

[z] 2 Kings 14. 25, 26, 27. comp. with Hos. 2. 5. 7. and 12. 7, 8.

Scope, of this Prophecy therefore is

1. Immediately, in respect of Israel or the ten Tribes; 1. Partly, to detect, reprove and convince them of their many great iniquities, especially of their foul idolatries, with Jeroboams Calves and Baalim, (now and then, but more sparingly and gently, taxing Judah for their corruptions.) 2. Partly, to denounce (if they persisted still impenitent in these sinful and Idolatrous courses,) their imminent and utter rejection, dispersion, final captivity and destruction by the Assyrians, notwithstanding all their vain carnal confidence they had in the broken reed of secular means or assistance. 3. Partly, to invite them to repentance, with hopes and Evangelical Promises of mercy to an elect remnant repenting, of the Jews future Conversion and Restauration by Christ, and of the blessed spiritual Priviledges they shall have by union to him, and communion with him.

2. Mediately, in respect of us, not only to warn us against all idolatry, and all idolatrous fellowship with idolaters, but also (as [a] Talmudists hath well observed) 1. Partly, to teach sound doctrine, as is evident by Matt. 2. 15. from Hos. 11. 1. ——— by Heb. 13. 15. from Hos. 14. 2. ——— by Rom. 9. 26. 1 Pet. 2. 10. from Hos. 1. 10. ——— by Rom. 9. 25. from Hos. 2. 23, 2. Partly, To convince of errour, as may appear by Matth. 3. 13. and 12. 7. from Hos. 6. 6. 3. Partly, to admonish and warne of sin and judgement, by Luke 23. 30. Rev. 6. 16. from Hos. 10. 8. 4. And partly to comfort; by 1 Cor. 15. 55. from Hos. 13. 14 there alledged. And how notably the divine Authority of this Book shines forth, in these frequent allegations of it in the New Testament, is no hard thing to judge.

Sect. V. Principal Parts.

In this Book consider 1. The Preface. 2. The Prophecy it self. And 3. The Conclusion.

The PREFACE, describing, 1. The Principall Author of this Prophecy, viz. The LORD. 2. The Instrumental, Hosheah, &c. 3. The time of his Prophecy, under four Kings of Judah, and one of Israel Ch. I. 1, 2.

The PROPHECY it self, which is laid down from ver. 2. to ch. 14. ver. 9. as it were under the [a] Person, 1. Of a Prophet. 2. Of a Judge. 3. Of an Herauld. 4. Of a Father. 5. Of a Friend. The whole being propounded Parabolically and Plainly.

I. Chap. 1. II.

[a] And. Riv. præfat. in Hos.

1. Parabolically, and that in the person of a Prophet, he signifies in himself, the future events and evils that should befal the Kingdom of Israel, and the Kingly house under two types, viz.

1. Under the type of the Prophets taking a wife of whoredomes, and having three children of whoredomes by her, is foretold the extraordinary punishment and destruction of Israel in three several ages for their spiritual whoredoms. This Type is Propounded, Corrected and Accommodated. I. Propounded as prescribed of God to this end, ver. 2. As performed by the Prophet in a type, 1. Taking a wife of whoredomes, ver 3. 2. Having by her [b] three children of whoredomes, viz. A son called Jezreel, i. e. The dispersion of God, denoting the destruction of Israel in the valley of Jezreel, ver. 4, 5. 2. A daughter called Lo-ruhamah, i. e. Not-having-obtained-mercy: because Israel shall not have any more mercy, as Judah shall, ver. 6, 7. 3. A son called Lo-ammi, i. e. Not-my-People: because they should not be Gods people, nor he their God, ver. 8, 9. II. Corrected, the sharpness of the former type is qualified by promises to an Elect remnant of Judah and Israel, that shall be united under one Head Jesus Christ, ver. 10, 11. III. Accommodated, ch. 2. throughout. 1. By an exhortation of the godly to incite their brethren and mother, Israel to repentance, Ch. II. 1. to 5. 2. By a Narration of the causes why they should thus move them to repent, Partly their own sins past and present, Partly Gods judgements that would befall them that remained obstinate, ver. 4. to 14. 3. By Publication of sweet Promises of grace and reconcilement in Christ, with the fruits thereof, to the Elect of Israel, ver. 14. to the end of the chap.

Chap. 2.

2. Under another type of the Prophets loving an Adultheresse bought for money, and abiding many dayes without playing the harlot with another man, that so the Prophet might be for her: is set forth Gods love to Israel the spiritual adultheresse, who for her Idolatries shall be punished many dayes, but shall be converted to God in the latter dayes. Here I. The type is com-

II. Plainly and without Parable the rest of the prophecy is laid down. And in it is 1. Comminatory, chap. 4. to 11. 2. Consolatory, chap. 11, 12, 13, 14.

I. Comminatory, or chiefly consisting in threatnings, In three Sermons or speciall Prophecies, whereof the two first are set forth as under the Person of Judge, the last as under the person of an Herauld.

1. Sermon, against all Israel, which is partly Reprehensory, Partly monitory. I. Reprehensory, Wherein Israel is 1. Cited or summoned, Ch. IV. 1. 2. Accused and indicted for offences against God and man, deserving grievous punishments, viz. Partly, the impieties and iniquities of the People, enumerated, aggravated and threatned, v. 1. to 6. Partly, the corruptions of the Priests, mentioned, aggravated and threatned, ver. 6. to 12. Partly, the idolatry of Israel, ver. 12. to 15. II. Monitory, wherein Judah is dissuaded from Israels sins, both from the notoriousness of their offences, and grievousness of their punishment, ver. 15. to the end.

Chap. 4

2. Sermon against the Priests, House of Israel, and Kings House, and somewhat against Judah for following their sins, Ch. 5, 6, 7. wherein note The Summons, The Charge, The Confirmation of the Charge, and the Conclusion of the Sermon. I. The Summons, Chap. V. 1, 2. II. The charge or accusation laid against them, wherein 1. Their sins are propounded, ver. 3, 4, 5. 2. Their judgements for them are denounced, (Judah also being taken in,) ver. 5. to 11. 3. The Confirmation of the charge against both Israel and Judah, touching their sins and judgements. This is done by a gradual Narration of certain hainous offences of theirs, with their particular judgements. As 1. Preferring mans Command before Gods will, ver. 11, 12. 2. Relying on forreign aid of the Assyrians, when God would have reclaimed them by his corrections, ver. 13, 14. 3. Not renouncing of forreign aid that they might sincerely repent and return to the Lord, notwithstanding the warnings of his word and rod, v. 15. and Ch. VI. 1. to 5. 4. Most perfidious violation of Gods Covenant, by their not knowing of God, unmercifulness, blood and whoredoms, ver. 5. to the end of the Chapter. 5. Notorious provoking one another unto varieties of wickednesses, even against Gods remedies, Chap. VII 1. to 8. IV. The Conclusion of the Sermon summarily comprising what had been spoken, viz. 1. A Narration of Israels obstinacy in sin, turning from God, and madness in relying upon forreign aid of Egypt & Assyria, ver 8, 9, 10, 11. 2. A Denunciation of Judgments thereupon, v. 12, 13. especially for their Hypocrisie described, ver. 14, 15, 16.

Chap. 5.

Chap. 6.

Chap. 7.

3. Sermon, under the Person of an Herauld with a Trumpet proclaiming Gods judgements, principally against Israel, partly also against Judah, ch. 8, 9, 10. Herein consider I. A denunciation of speedy and imminent judgement, with intimation of the procuring Causes thereof, viz. 1. Breach of Covenant and Law. 2. Hypocrisie. 3. Casting off what is good 4. II. Consolatory, or chiefly spent in Comforts, and this in two Sermons.

1. Sermon, under the Person of a Father; God promising in Christ that (though neither Prophet, Law, mercies nor judgements had brought them to Repentance, yet) his Elect should be converted, embrace Christ and the Promises. Here are 1. The Cause of Gods favour and promises to them, viz. his love in his Son Christ, Chap. XI. ver. 1. 2. A Narration of Israels most ingrateful dealing with God, ver. 2. to 8. 3. Chap. 11

2. Sermon, wherein God dissuading Israel from perfidiousness, idolatry and inhumanity, declares and aggravates their avarice, idolatry and pride, and promiseth, (the wicked being destroyed,) to preserve an elect Remnant, and spiritually to heale the truely penitent. More particularly note here I. A summary proposal 1. Of the peoples sins, ver. 12. and Chap. XII. 1. to 6. 2. Of the Lords invitation of them to Repentance, ver. 6. 2. A more particular Explication of both these viz. 1. Of the peoples sins, viz. their wicked and deceitfull covetousness, ver. 7. to 11. Their odious idolatry, ver. 11. to the end, and Chap. XIII. 1. to 6. Their intolerable confidence and pride in their wealth and largeness of their Kingdome, ver. 6, 7, 8. 2. Of the Lords invitation of them to Repentance, Partly, by a Narration both of the evils that had befallen them for their sins, ver. 9. to 14. And of the good that would befall them upon Repentance, ver. 14. to the end. Partly, by a pathetical exhortation to Repentance (under the person of a Friend) Chap. XIV. 1. Which Repentance is amplified, 1. By the forme or manner of it described, v. 2, 3. 2. By most sweet alluring Evangelical promises made unto it, ver. 4. to 9.

JOEL.

JOEL.

Sect. I. Name and Penman.

AMong the Hebrews this Book is called סֵפֶר יוֹאֵל Sepher Joel, i. e. The Book of Joel: and this from Joel the Penman of it: a The Word of the LORD that came to Joel the son of Pethuel.

יוֹאֵל Joel) which seems to come from יָאַל Jaal (which in Hiphil signifies either To will, or To swear, or To begin,) signifies willing; or swearing; or (as b Hierome thinks,) Beginning; or c The-LORD God, as he elsewhere interprets it. d Some rather derives this name from יְהוֹוָה אָלָה Jehovah Alah, i. e. The Lord hath cursed; Conjecturing he is called Joel, i. e. The curse of the Lord; because he grievously aggravates the Lords curse and punishment inflicted on the Land. This Joel was 1. For his descent e the son of Pethuel; Pethuel signifies A-Perswader-of-God; who this Pethuel was is uncertain, because here or elsewhere Scripture speaks no more of him. Some f think he was Samuel, who obtained of God what he asked in Prayer; but that conjecture hath formerly been refelled in the Chronology of the Prophets, &c. Some g say he was a Reubenite, but give us no ground for it. Hebrews have a tradition that when the Father of any Prophet is named, he also was a Prophet; but (in h Calvins judgement,) that is a frivolous Rule. Probably his Father named, was a man of some eminency and authority. 2. For his Office, Joel was a Prophet, as the i Scripture stiles him, therefore his Prophecy is of Divine Authority, and by the current of this his Prophecy he seems peculiarly to have directed his Prophecy to Judah and Jerusalem, as Hosheah had peculiar respect in his Office to Israel, as k Hierome also hath noted. 3. For his life, acts or death, we have little certainty. l Gerhard saith, he was born and buried in the Land of Canaan in Bethoron; but he onely saith it.

Sect. II. Order and Time.

In what Order this Book is to be ranked, and at what Time this Joel prophecied, hath m before been considered; there see the variety of opinions, and what seems most probable. That judicious a Calvin is of opinion that in the midst of so much uncertainty it is best to leave the matter undetermined; especially seeing this Prophet may be well understood without the punctual knowledge of the time of his Prophecy, though many passages in Hosheah could not be rightly interpreted without the Precognition of his time. But that which is especially considerable, is that Joel prophecied to Judah and Jerusalem, and not to Israel.

Sect. III. Occasion and Scope.

Upon Occasion of divers sorts of insects, as the Palmer-worme, Locust, Canker-worme, Caterpillar, &c. sent upon Judea, and extreamly devouring the fruits of the Land, therefore evident fore-runners and harbingers of a grievous Famine: He incites them of Judah to be sensible of the judgement and truly to repent under it, promising thereupon both divers Temporal and Spiritual blessings.

Scope therefore is, I. In reference to them of Judah and Jerusalem. 1. To awake them out of their security under a present grievous Famine, that being truely sensible of Gods heavy judgement, all Degrees among them might with Fastings, Prayers, and true Repentance, mourn, weep, and humble themselves under his mighty hand. 2. To encourage them hereunto, by many sweet and precious promises, not only of removing the present judgement, and restoring their former losses by subsequent plenty: but also of many spiritual blessings in Christ, whereof all temporalls were but dim shadows and pledges, and these Partly inchoate in this Life, viz. The o Plentiful gifts of the Holy Ghost to young and old; and seasonable deliverance, by the utter destruction of all Gods enemies, from all the evils that might fall out, before or at the coming of Christ to judgement, Partly consummate in compleat holiness and happiness in the world to come. II. In reference to us. To teach us in all like publike afflictions humbly and penitentially to behave our selves towards the Lord; and upon unfeigned returning unto God, to expect (so far as shall be good for us,) like blessings both Temporal, Spiritual and Eternal.

Sect. IV. General Parts.

In this Prophecy are, 1. An Inscription. 2. The Substance of the Prophecy. 3. The Conclusion.

The Inscription, denoting the principal and instrumental Author of it, Ch. I. 1. — I.

The Substance of the Prophecy, which is 1. Reprehensory. 2. Minatory. 3. Hortatory. — Chap. 1. II.

I. Reprehensory, emphatically checking and upbraiding them of Judah and Jerusalem, for their great stupidity and security under that heavy judgement of the Famine, where, I. An Exordium, 1. Attesting all the inhabitants, how unparallel'd the Famine was. 2. Charging them and their children to tell it to after Generations, ver. 2, 3. II. The Narratory description of the Famine in brief, ver. 4. Aggravated also in many following passages throughout the Chapt. as motives to the Lessons following. III. The use which they should make of this Judgement. 1. They should be exceeding sensible of it, ver. 5. to 13. 2. They should be sincerely penitent under it with mourning, fasting, &c. verse 13. to the end of the chap.

II. Minatory, sharply threatning the people, (now secure under the judgement of the Famine) with an heavier judgement of the sword, viz. the Sword of the Chaldeans, here 1. Sion is all arm'd by the Lord, Ch. II. 1. 2. nesse, grievousnesse and suddainnesse of it, ver. 1, 2. More Particularly, by the terrible Character of the Chaldeans, that shall execute this judgement, ver. 2. to 12.

III. Hortatory, earnestly exhorting them hereupon. 1 To sincere Repentance, and 2 To solemne Humiliations, ver. 12. to 18.

This Exhortation is urged by divers Arguments, viz. 1. By Promises. 1 Of temporal Blessings, namely, plentiful fruits of the earth, even in the Reparation of all their former losses by the Famine, and removal of the Northern Army from them, ver. 18. to 28. 2 Of Spiritual and Evangelical Privileges, (whereof those Temporals were but an imperfect Pledge) viz. Plentiful powring out of his Spirit and his gifts upon all flesh, Gentiles as well as Jewes, ver. 28, 29. Salvation and deliverance of an Elect Remnant in his Church, after the Lord hath manifested by dreadful signes the terrour of his coming, ver. 30, 31, 32.

II. By Threatnings of destruction against all the oppressing enemies of the Church, where 1. Their judgement in the valley of Jehoshaphat in the view of Jerusalem [i. e. in the open view of Gods Church and People,] is generally propounded, Ch. III. 1, 2. Chap. 3. 2. God contests with his Churches enemies for all their wrongs to his People, ver. 4. to 9. 3. God ironically incites all Nations to come to fight in the valley of Jehoshaphat, declaring their destruction there, ver. 9. to 17. 4. The end of all these Judgements is declared, ver. 17.

The Conclusion of the whole Prophecy, 1. Metaphorically declaring the Lords blessings upon the Church, ver. 18. 2. Plainly declaring Partly the judgements threatned to Egypt and Edom, viz. The Churches Enemies for their cruelty against her, ver. 19. Partly the mercies promised to the Church under the name of Judah and Jerusalem, ver. 20, 21.

HAMOS.

Sect. I. Order and Time.

HIerome [a] tells us that the twelve lesser Prophets are ranked by the Hebrews in the self-same Order as we have them, though the LXX. somewhat invert that order; so that Hamos is the third of the lesser Prophets. He prophecied [b] concerning Israel in the dayes of Uzziah King of Judah, and in the dayes of Jeroboam sonne of Joash King of Israel, two years before the earthquake. (So that he was [c] contemporaneous to Isaiah and Hosheah.) But when this Earthquake was, (which more punctually denotes the time) is hard to determine. This Prophet, and [d] Zechariah mention this Earthquake as an eminently known thing in Uzziahs time, but define not the particular year. Josephus (as [e] Calvin and Pareus observe) thinks this earthquake fell out at the same time that Uzziah was smitten with Leprosie, for presuming to offer incense in the Temple, but thats uncertain. And [f] Junius conceives that most unlikely, 1. Partly because then the time of this Prophet might rather have been described by the Leprosie of the King, which was more notable. 2. Partly because that place, Isa. 7. 8. whereon alone this opinion is grounded, is not a sufficient proof, And he rather thinks (if it may be lawfull to conjecture) it was at the death of Jeroboam, which was about the thirty seventh year of Uzziah, when such horrid conspiracies and bloodsheds began in the Kingdom of Israel, that the very earth quaked with the horrour thereof. However the dayes of Jeroboam were times wherein outwardly there was much Prosperity to Israel, and by this circumstance of time mentioned (saith [g] Calvin,) the Prophet would intimate, That he denounced this sharp and burdensome Prophecy to them at that season wherein they were most prosperous, and as it were drowned in their delights.

Sect. II. Name and Penman.

This Book is stiled by the Hebrews ספר עמוס Sepher Hamos, i. e. The Book of Hamos: and in the text it self דברי עמוס Dibre Hamos, i. e. The words of Hamos, because Hamos was the Preacher and Penman of them.

עמוס Hamos (as [i] Hierome thinks) signifies [k] Bearing, or Carrying, & interpreting his name [l] Actively. Others interpret it passively; viz. Burdened; Either [m] because he was loaded with spiritual Latitude grace; (but thats an unusual expression, and probably he had this name long before he was furnished with this Prophetick grace;) or because he had a burdened or stammering tongue; as Moses had; as Procopius the Hebrews, especially R. Phineas thinks; but this (saith [n] Tarnovius) is a vain tradition of the Jewes. [o] Some think this name is in compounded of two Hebrew words, which signifie The People hath removed, or a People removed, or pulled away, because the ten Tribes, against whom he chiefly prophecies, should remove into Captivity for their idolatry. Most usually this name is interpreted A Burden, or An heavy load, and in this sence its opposite, this Prophet being vehement and burdensom in his threatnings; he spake so burdensom, heavy words, as the very men could not bear; As said his Adversary Amaziah, Hamos 7. 10.

n Populus avulsus. Hieron. Proem. in Amos. Tom. 6.

But who this Hamos was is more considerable. Some [o] from the [o] likeness of names, have thought he was the Father of the Prophet Isaiah. But that's a plain mistake, (as [p] Hierome hath noted) for these two names, viz. Amos the father of Isaiah, and Hamos the Prophet, as they are written in Hebrew, differ quite, both in their first and last letters; and in their significations; That signifies strong or valiant; This A People-pull'd-away. Therefore they were two distinct Persons. This Hamos was of the tribe of Judah at first. [q] No Prophet nor Prophets son but an Herdsman of Tekoa, and a gatherer of Sycomore fruit: but the Lord took him as he was following the flock, and said unto him, go prophecy to my People Israel. Tekoa (thinks t Hierome) was six miles Southward from Bethlehem, where the Saviour of the World was born, beyond which there's no village, no nor cottages: it is such a waste wilderness which is extended to the Red Sea, and the Persian, Ethiopian and Indian Coasts. And because that dry sandy ground yields no fruits, all is full of Herdmen that they may compensate the barrenness of the ground with the multitude of Cattel. Of this number of Herdmen was Amos the Prophet; rude in speech but not in knowledge: for the same spirit spoke in him, that spoke by all the Prophets. And as Calvin observes, God purposely raised up Amos of Judah, and a poor rustical Herdman of Tekoa, 1 Partly the more to cross and correct the pride of those times, glorying in their prosperity; when a rude Herdman must be their Reprover. 2. Partly to deal the more proportionably with the brutishness of Persons in those dayes, that would not hearken to other Prophets, now an Herdman shall deal more roughly with them as with Kine of Bashan, Amos 4. 1, 3. Partly to evidence that any instruments shall serve Gods turn, who is wont r to choose the foolish things of the world to confound the wise; and the weak things of the world, to confound the things which are mighty; And base things of the world, and things which are despised hath God chosen, and things which are not to bring to nought things that are; that no flesh should glory in his presence. He prophecied purposely and principally against the ten Tribes, more sparingly against Judah. He is thought to be slain by Amaziah the Priest of Bethel whom he opposed stoutly, prophecying against him severely, Amos 7. 10. to the end.

s Amos Pastor & rusticus, & ruborum mori destringens, paucis verbis explicari non potest. Quis enim dignè exprimat tria aut quatuor scelera Damasci, Gazæ, Tyri, & Idumeæ, & filiorum Ammon & Moab, & in septimo, octavoque gradu Judeæ & Israel? &c. Hier. Paulino Tom. 3.

Sect. III. Occasion and Scope.

This Prophet seems to be called to prophecy upon the same Occasion for substance that Hosheah was, viz. Israels carnal security and confidence in their great outward Prosperity at that time, out of which God would awaken them with predictions of their final dispersion and captivity for their many great sins and insquities.

Scope. I. More generally, to hold forth the severity of Gods judgements against his Churches enemies, and his Church it self for their sins: annexing some Evangelical Promises to a remnant. II. More particularly, 1. To denounce Gods judgements against the Heathen enmies of Gods Church, viz. Damascus, Gaza, Tyre, Edom, Ammon and Moab, for their sins, especially their insolencies against Gods People. 2. To warn Judah and Jerusalem of their destruction for their sins; especially Israel, of their total and final captivity and desolation for their idolatry, violence, injustice, oppression and general corruption; and this is done both Plainly and Visionally; which u Hierome thinks cannot be expressed in few words. 3. To comfort an elect remnant, with Promises both of their Salvation when others shall be destroyed, and of the glorious Restauration of the Church at last by Jesus Christ, and the erecting of his spiritual Kingdome.

Sect. IV. Principal Parts.

In this Book consider 1. The Inscription. 2 The Prophecy it self.

1. THE INSCRIPTION of the Prophecy, describing 1. The Penman Hamos. 2. The Object to whom this Prophecy was chiefly directed, viz. Israel. 3. The time when, Ch. I. 1. Chap. 1.

2. THE PROPHECY it self, chiefly consisting of 1 Comminations, And 2 Consolations.

COMMINATIONS or Threatnings, and they are laid down, 1 More plainly, 2 More obscurely and in visions.

I. Threatnings more plainly laid down, are comprized chiefly in four distinct Sermons, chap. 1 to 7.

I. The first Sermon, wherein note. I. A General Proposition, of the threatnings against all worldly height and glory; Metaphorically, v. 2. II. A special Prediction of judgements.

1. Against the Gentiles enemies of the Church, especially for their cruelty, oppression and cruelty against Gods People. As against 1. Damascus of the Assyrians, v. 3, 4, 5. 2. Gaza, and other places of the Philistines, ver. 6, 7, 8. 3. Tyre, ver. 9, 10. 4. Edom, ver 11, 12. 5. Ammon, ver. 13, 14, 15. 6. Moab, Ch. II. 1, 2, 3. Chap. 2.

2. Against the Jews for their sins also. Partly against Judah, ver. 4, 5. Partly and principally against Israel, viz. the ten Tribes, whose sins are 1 Mentioned, ver. 6, 7, 8. 2. Aggravated as contrary to Gods great Mercies to them, v. 9. to 14. 3. Threatned, ver. 14, 15, &c.

II. The second Sermon, wherein I. The Exordium, 1. Partly declaring who speaks, and against whom, 2 Partly calling for attention, Ch. III. 1. II. A summary Proposition of Gods peculiar fatherly kindness to them, and their ingratitude to him, for which he resolves to punish them, v. 2. This Prophecy is illustrated 1 By divers elegant similitudes, v. 3. to 7. 2. By an Apology for himself and other Prophets: shewing why they cannot chuse but prophecy, ver. 7. 8. Chap. 3.

III. The Amplification of the Proposition, 1. By Attestation even of the Gentiles themselves, to judge of the grossness of Israels sins, deserving heavy judgements, v. 9, 10. 2. By explication of the judgements that shall come upon them for these sins, ver. 11. to the end.

III. The third Sermon, wherein are I. An Exordium, inviting attention, describing the vileness of Israel spoken to Ch. IV. 1. II. A brief Denunciation of their captivity and dispersion under a double Metaphor, ver. 2, 3. III. A Confirmation of this threatning by the procuring causes of judgements, viz. 1. Their delight in idolatry, in hypocritical and carnal pollutions of Gods Worship, (whereunto they are sarcastically invited,) ver. 4, 5. 2. Their incorrigibleness and impenitency under variety of former judgements, viz. Famine, ver. 6. Drought, ver. 7. 8. Blasting, Mildew, and Palmer-worme, ver. 9. Pestilence like that of Egypt and Sword, ver. 10. Subversion of some of them like Sodom, ver. 11. IV. The Conclusion inviting to repent, and meet God, 1. From the unexpressible greatness of their judgement threatned, ver. 12. 2. From the Majesty and Power of God, ver. 13. Chap. 4.

IV. The fourth Sermon, wherein consider I. The Exordium, inviting to attention, and declaring both the object against whom the Sermon was intended, and the nature of it, a Lamentation, Ch. V. 1. II. The Proposition of Gods judgements laid down 1. More sum- Chap. 5.

summarily, ver. 1, 2. 2. More particularly, Edom by an invasion as vengeance, whereby their judgement may be portended, ver. 4. to 10. Edom by a Commination against impenitent refractory Persons, for their many sins, ver. 10. to 15. III. The Confirmation of this Proposition from Gods hatred of their sins, viz. 1. Sins of impiety against God, ver. 11. to the end of the chap. 2. Sins of iniquity against man, especially their sensual wantonness, Chap. VI. 1. to 7. IV. The Conclusion. 1. Denouncing speedy Captivity for their sins, ver. 7. 2. Declaring, and that under Gods Oath, both Gods abhorring of them, ver. 8. and the severity of his judgements upon them, v. 9, 10, 11. 3. Intimating, that notwithstanding their secure perverseness and vain confidence, they shall wholly be destroyed by their enemies, ver. 12, 13, 14. &c.

Chap. 6.

[a] Vid. Calv. Com. in Amos 6. 12. &c.

Thus of the threatnings more plainly denounced.

II. Threatnings more obscurely laid down follow, and these under several Types and Figures, viz. under the Type.

1. Of Grashoppers or Locusts, shadowing out Famine, Ch. VII. 1. to 4.

Chap. 7.

2. Of Fire devouring the great deep, adumbrating War, v. 4, 5, 6.

3. Of a Plumb-line, signifying the overthrow of the Kingdom, and of the Kings house, ver. 7, 8, 9. This is Amplified by Amaziah the Priest of Bethel's opposition against Amos, thus prophecying; wherein note 1. Amaziah instigation of King Jeroboam against Amos, ver. 10, 11. 2. Amaziahs monition of Amos to prophecy in Judah, but not at Bethel, ver. 12, 13. 3. Amos his asserting of his Call and Commission from God to prophecy against Israel, v. 14, 15. 4. Amos his sharp Prophecy against Amaziah, foretelling withal the certainty of Israels Captivity, ver. 16, 17.

4. Of a Basket of Summer fruit, representing the total overthrow, Ch. VIII. 1, 2, 3. Amplified 1. By a vehement exprobration of them for their sins, especially their oppression and impiety, deserving the threatned destruction, ver. 4, 5, 6. 2. By a severe denunciation of most lamentable judgements upon the land, without all light of consolation, especially of a famine of hearing the word of God, ver. 7. to the end of the chap.

Chap. 8.

5. Of Smiting the lintel of the Temple door, denoting the certainty and inevitableness of their destruction by the sword, without all possibility of escape, Ch. IX. 1. 2. 3. 4. This is confirmed 1. HOBADIAH.

Sect. I. Name and Penman.

[a] Hobad. ver. 1.

THis Prophecy is called by the Hebrews ספר עובדיה Sepher Hobadiah, i. e. a The Book of Hobadiah; and in the text it self חזון עבדיה Chazon Hobadiah i. e. The vision of Hobadiah; from Hobadiah the Preacher and Penman of this Prophecy.

[b] Abdias Σὰλ☉ κυρίου. id est, Servus domini. Hier. Proœm in Joel Tom. 6.

עובדיה Hobad-iah, signifies either The-work-of-the-Lord; or The Servant-of-the-Lord, as [b] Hierome hath well interpreted it. Who he was, is not evident by other Scripture, but onely by this Book that he was a Prophet. He propheceyed against the Edomites or Idumeans, who came of Edom, [c] which is Esau; and hated Israelites, Jacobs race, as Esau hated Jacob himself. Learned [d] Hierome tells us, that the Hebrews think that he was that Obadiah in dayes of Ahab and Jezebel, who fed an hundred of the Lords Prophets by fifty in a Cave: and of the seven thousand that had not bowed a knee to Baal; ——— and himself inclines to their opinion; saying, He therefore, because he nourished an hundred Prophets, received the Prophetical grace: and of a Captain of the Host, became a Captain of the Church. But that this is a mistake, hath partly been evidenced in the Chronological Table before Isaiah: and may further appear by this Prophecy it self, which seems plainly to have been after the captivity of Judah, and destruction of Jerusalem by the Chaldeans; by that passage, [e] In the day that thou stoodst on the other side, in the day that the Strangers carried away captive his forces, and forreigners entred into his gates, and cast Lots upon Jerusalem, even thou wast as one of them, But thou shouldst not have looked on the day of thy brother, in the day that he became a Stranger: neither shouldst thou have rejoyced over the children of Judah in the day of their destruction.

[c] Gen. 36. 1 8, 19.

[d] Hunc aiunt esse Hebræi, qui sub rege Samariæ Achab & impiissimâ Jezabel pavit centum Prophetas in specubus, qui non curvaverunt genua Baal, & de septem millibus erant quos Helias arguitu ignorasset: Sepulchrumque ejus usque hodie cum Mausoleo Helizæi Prophetæ, & Baptistæ Joannis in Sebaste veneratione habetur, quæ olim Samaria dicebatur. Hanc Herodes Rex Judeæ Antipatri filius, in Honorem Augusti Cæsaris Græco Sermone vocavit Augustam. Hic igitur qui centum Prophetas aluerat, accepit gratiam Prophetalem: & de duce exercitûs, fit dux Ecclesiæ. Hieronym Comment. in Abdiam. 1.

[e] Obad. ver. 11. 13.

Obadiah (saith [f] Augustine) in respect of his writing the shortest of all the Prophets speaks against the Idumean Nation, &c. And Hierome stiles him, [g] A little Prophet in number of verses, not of sences: and saith, This Prophet as a Servant of the LORD, saw those things heard those things, which are worthy of a Prophetick service.

Sect. 2.

Sect. II, Time.

At what Time Obadiah prophecied hath been partly intimated. Sect. I. Partly and principally in the Chronological Table before Isaiah.

Sect. III. Occasion and Scope.

Thus conceive of the Occasion of this Prophecy. [b] Israel and his Posterity were the Elect People of God; to whom it was by divine Oracle promised, that i the elder shall serve the younger, i. e. Esau shall serve Jacob; yet divine dispensation so ordered affairs, that Jacob, i. e. Israel and his posterity were in much affliction, whilest Esau, i. e. Edom and his posterity were in most prosperous condition; and very apt to bear a grudge, and express their malice against Israel upon divers occasions, by reason of the blessing and promise of God: but especially they discovered the height of malice against Israel, at Jerusalems destruction by the Babylonians, 1 Partly by instigating the Babylonians against them, [k] Remember O LORD the children of Edom in the day of Jerusalem, who said, Raze it, raze it, even to the foundation thereof. 2 Partly by joyning with the Chaldeans, in [l] many Acts of cruelty upon the Jewes, when Jerusalem was destroyed. Hereupon this Prophet thus prophecied against Edom.

Scope, 1. To threaten utter and inevitable ruine to Edom, for their many sins, but especially for their enmity against Israel, and their cruel insolencies over Jerusalem in the day of her destruction by the Chaldeans. Notably to this purpose, Hierome saith; [m] Obadiah, (which is by Interpretation the servant of God) thunders against Edom, a bloody and earthly man, and he smites him with his spiritual Spear, that was alwaies envious against his brother Jacob. 2. To comfort the Church with Promises of Salvation and Restauration by Jesus Christ, whose Kingdom shall be exalted, especially by preaching the Gospel to the conversion of the Gentiles, as [n] August. hath observed.

Sect. V. Principal Parts.

In this Book are considerable

The Inscription. The vision of Obadiah, ver. 1. I.

The Prophecy it self, which is 1. Minatory against Edom. 2. Consolatory, to Israel and the Church of God. II.

I. MINATORY, against Edom, threatning his destruction, where note a Description both of his destruction threatned, and of the procuring causes thereof. 1. The destruction of Edom threatned, is described emphatically, 1. By the chief Author thereof, the LORD, rumouring it, and inciting instruments against Edom, ver. 1. 2. By the instruments thereof, the Heathen, viz. Chaldeans, ver. 1, 2. 3. By the inevitableness of it, ver. 3, 4. 4. By the extremity of it, shall be an utter destruction, Edom shall be wholly spoyled, more then an house by Night-robbers, or a Vine by Grape-gatherers, ver. 5, 6. 5. By Gods removal of all impediments to Edoms destruction, and so preparing him for total ruine; His confederates and friends proving unfaithful, ver. 7. His Counsellors wisdome being destroyed, ver. 8. His Soldiers courage failing, ver. 9. II. The procuring causes of this destruction are described, More generally, his violence against his brother Jacob, ver. 10. More particularly, for his many insolent and cruel carriages against Israel, when the Chaldeans destroyed Jerusalem, viz. 1. His consenting with the Chaldeans therein, ver. 11. 2. His looking on. 3. His rejoycing at. 4. His speaking proudly in the day of his brothers distress, ver. 12. 5. His entring into Jerusalem with the Chaldeans, looking on their affliction; 6. His plundring of his substance, ver. 13. 7. His standing in the cross way to cut off those that escaped the Chaldeans. 8. His delivering up those that did remain in the day of his distress, ver. 14. All this minatory part is confirmed by the approach of the day of the Heathen, wherein Edom shall be brought to nought, ver. 15, 16.

II. CONSOLATORY, to Israel and the Church of God in divers precious Promises, viz. 1. Of Sions deliverance. 2. Of restored holiness, viz. Of Temple and worship. 3. Of Repossession of their possessions, ver. 17. 4. Of Israels victory over Edom, ver. 18. 5. Of the enlargement of the Jewes possessions, (most truly fulfilled in Christs calling the Gentiles,) ver. 19, 20. 6. Of Saviours on M. Sion, to judge the M. of Esau. 7. Finally of the Lords dominion over all, ver. 21.

JONAH.

Sect. I. Order and Time.

HAd this Book been ranked in our Bibles in that Order wherein is was prophecied, it should have been placed before all the Prophets both greater and lesser; The Time of Jonahs Prophecying being before them all, as hath been [a] formerly evidenced.

Sect. II. Name and Penman.

This Book is called by the Hebrews ספר יונה Sepher Jonah, i. e. The Book of Jonah; from Jonah the Penman of it.

יונה Jonah in Hebrew (called Jonas in the New Testament,) signifies a Dove, (as [b] Hierome hath noted; noted;) but why this Prophet is so called, is not so easie to define. Some deriving the word from יוֹנָה Jonah, i. e. He hath afflicted or oppressed) think it signifies one afflicted or oppressed. And notably this Etymology agrees to Jonah, who was in a Tempest cast over-board into the Sea, swallowed up of a Whale, and buried three dayes in his belly, before he was cast upon dry ground, &c.

Tarnov. Prolegom. in Jonah. Hier. Com. in Jon. 1. 1. Tom. 6.

Who this Jonas was is disputed.

I. The Hebrews, (saith d Hierome) and after them others take him to be the son of the Sarepten widow raised up from death to life by Elijah, whereupon she said to Elijah, e Now by this I know that thou art a man of God, and that the Word of the Lord in thy mouth is Truth, and thus they seem to confirme that Jonah is called f the sonne of Amittai; Amittai signifying Truth. But this seems to be a mistake, 1. Partly, because this widow was a Gentile, g Sarepta being a City of Sidon, wherein she dwelt; but Jonah was of h Gath-hepher, which belonged to the i Tribe of Zebulun in Israel. 2. Partly because the times do not agree; for the widows son was raised up by Elijah, in the dayes of Ahab, about the k beginning of his Reign; but l Jonah the son of Amittai prophecied in the dayes of Jeroboam the son of Joash. Now from the beginning of Ahabs reign, to Jeroboam the second, are above ninety years, if the Chronology of the I. and II. Kings be compared together.

II. They more clearly follow the Scripture, who say, this Jonah 1. For Descent was m son of Amittai; who this Amittai was, is not certain. 2. For Country, of n Gath-hepher, belonging to the Tribe of Zebulun in Israel. 3. For Office, he was a Prophet of note in the time of Jeroboam son of Joash; he prophecied of Jeroboam's restoring and enlarging the Coast of Israel, which was then fulfilled, and this against Nineveh. And probably he prophecied other Prophecies, (though now not extant,) because this Prophecy of his against Nineveh begins with a copulative. p And [or Now] the Word of the Lord came unto Jonah.—— As q Pareus hath observed. 4. For the discharge or execution of his Office, His Commission was strange, that he should be sent to Preach to Nineveh a City of the Gentiles, the Metropolis of Assyria, whence r some call him The Prophet and Apostle of the Gentiles. His Infirmities great; he was first unwilling to be a publisher of Gods Justice, and therefore fled from God; and after as unwilling to be a Spectator of Gods mercy, and therefore he fretted against God. His success wonderfull, Nineveh repented at his Preaching, and was saved from Destruction, whereupon one saith, s Many Nobles and Monarchs, with the Perill of many seek themselves a name, honour and wealth; but Jonas is above them all, who by his Sermon saved so many thousands of men. His Typicalness herein remarkable; for Jonas was a singular type of Jesus Christ; For as Jonas was three dayes and three nights in the Whales belly; so (saith Christ) shall the Son of Man be three dayes and three nights in the heart of the earth.

And he herein typified, 1. Christs Death, in that he was thrown into the Sea, and swallowed up of the Whale. 2. The effect of Christs death; as Jonas being cast into the Sea, the tempestuous Sea was calmed: so Christ dying, the wrath of God against sinners was appeased. 3. Christs burial, Christ being three dayes in the Grave: as Jonah was three dayes in the Whales belly. 4. Christs Resurrection the third day, as the Whale cast up Jonah alive on the shore after three dayes. And 5. Christs preaching to the Gentiles not till after his Resurrection by his Apostles: as Jonas preached not to Nineveh till after he was vomited up out of the Whales belly alive.

Hereupon said Augustine, u The Prophet Jonas prophecied of Christ, not so much by his speech, as by his own passion; and that more clearly, that if by voice he had proclaimed his death and resurrection, for why was he received into the Whales belly, after three dayes refused, but that he might figure Christ should return the third day out of the depth of the Grave? And learned Hierome; x Jonas that fairest Dove, by his flight as it were prefiguring the Lords passion, he calls the worlds unto Repentance: and under the name of Nineveh preacheth Salvation to the Gentiles. And excellently said Tertullian, long before them both; y For a prophane City not yet Partaker of God, and sinning of ignorance, the Prophet almost perished; but that hereby he suffered an example of the Lords Passion, whereby even the Gentiles repenting, were to be redeemed. z Ambrose also speaks much to like purpose.

u Jonas autem Propheta, non tam sermone Christum, quam sua quadam passione Prophetavit: profectò apertius quam si ejus mortem & resurrectionem voce clamaret; ut quid enim exceptus est ventre belluino, & die tertio redditus, nisi ut significaret Christum de profundo Inferni, die tertio redditurum? August de Civit. De i. l. 18. c. 30. Tom. 5.

y Non ergo & Jonas idcirco Ethnicis Ninivitis non putabat pœnitentiam necessariam cum cavillaretur in prædicationis officio, An potius misericordiam Dei providens etiam in extraneos profusam, quasi destructarum præconium verebatur. Atque adeo propter Civitatem prophanam nondum Dei compotem adhuc ignorantia delinquentem, penè periit Propheta; nisi quod exemplum passus est Dominicæ passionis, Ethnicos quoque pœnitentes redempturæ. Tertull. de Pudicitia lib. c. 10. z Ambr. in XLIII. Ps. Enarrat. pag. 569. Tom. 4. Basil. 1567.

Sect. III. Occasion and Scope.

It is very probable, that when Jonah * promised the restoring & enlarging of Israels Coasts in dayes of Jeroboam son of Joash, (when both King and People were very wicked,) he also invited them to Repentance and Reformation. But Israel remaining still impenitent and obdurate. God takes Occasion to send him to Nineveh the Metropolis of Assyria, a City of the Gentiles, who declining the service, was cast into the Sea, and swallowed of a Whale, not that he might be swallowed up and totally perish, (as saith a Irenæus,) but that by his miraculous deliverance out of the Whales belly, (preparing Jonah to preach more dutifully, and Nineveh to hear more effectually;) Israel might be provoked to repent by the Repentance of Nineveh; or at least the impenitency of Israel might be the more aggravated and rendered inexcusable.

* 2 King. 14. 4, 25.

a Patiebatur fortitudo absorberi Jonam à cete, non ut absorberetur, & in totum periret, sed ut evomitus magis subigeretur Deo: & plus glorificaret Deum, qui insperabilem salutem ei donasset: & firmam pœnitentiam faceret Ninevitis, ut converterentur ad dominum, qui eos liberaret à morte, conterritos ab eo signo, quod factum erat circa Jonam. Irenæus Adverf. Hæref. lib. 3. cap. 22.

Scope therefore of this Book is, I. Immediately, to shew. 1. How Jonah, being sent by God to preach to Nineveh, fled to Tarshish by Sea, whom God followed with such a Storme, that the Marriners cast Jonah into the Sea, whom a Whale swallowed up, and after three dayes (upon his Prayer) vomited him out upon the dry land. 2. How Jonah being sent the second time, preached to Nineveh, so that Nineveh repented, and was saved from destruction threatned; whereat Jonah repining, is (under the type of a Gourd, which he was unwilling to have smitten) reproved by the Lord. II. Mediately, to let us see, 1. How dangerous it is for Gods Messengers to disobey the Lords Call and Command in their preaching. For (as b Ambrose saith) Jonas was compelled to preach to the Ninevites. 2. How impossible it is for any offender to flee from God. Though Jonah (as Tertullian saith) would fail away non-dico in mari & in terra, verum in utero etiam bestiæ inveni, in quo nec mori per triduum poterat, nec vel sic Deum evadere. Tertull de Fugâ in Persecut. lib. cap. 10.

from God, yet he could not escape him by Land nor Sea, nor by the Whale's belly, wherein he could not die, nor rest. 3. How wonderfully Gods Power and Providence is in saving his People in distresses, even by unlikely and contrary means; Jonah had been swallowed up: if he had not been swallowed up: The belly of the Whale saves him from the belly of the Sea. 4. How mysterious Gods dispensation is, in preaching Christs Death, Burial and Resurrection in Jonah's being swallowed up, continuing in, and being vomited out of the Whales belly. 5 How useful Prayer is, even in the deepest afflictions, as in the belly of a Whale. 6. How merciful and long-suffering is God to Sinners, yea to sinners of the Gentiles: In that he warned Nineveh sinning, spared Nineveh repenting. 7. How notably the repenting of Nineveh a Gentilish City, aggravated the impenitency of the Jewes, notwithstanding the preaching of their own Prophets, yea of Christ Jesus himself; thus our Saviour intimates, saying, d The men of Nineveh shall rise in judgement with this Generation, and shall condemn it; because they repented at the preaching of Jonas, and behold a greater than Jonas is here: whereupon saith Hierome elegantly, e The Generation of the Jews is condemned by the world believing; and unbelieving Israel perisheth, Nineveh repenting. They had the Books, we the Lord of the Books: they had the Prophets, we the understanding of the Prophets: The Letter kills them, the Spirit quickens us. With them Barabbas the robber is let go, with us Christ the son of God is loosed. And notably f Ambrose, To reprove the Jews perfidiousness, the example of Jonas is brought, because the Ninevites believed the sign, and thought the preaching of Jonas, who was in the Whales belly, to be followed: but the Jewes believed not, even after the Resurrection of the Lord Jesus, who after three dayes arose out of the heart of the earth. and lives and reigns for evermore. Amen.

Sect. IV. Principal Parts.

This Prophecy, (so it may be called, though it be chiefly Historicall: Partly because its an History about a Prophecy; Partly because it was penned by a Prophet; Partly because in the type of this Prophet Jonas, Christs Death, Buriall and Resurrection are prophetically foretold;) Describes Jonah's first and second mission to preach to Niniveh.

Jonahs first Mission to preach to Nineveh, wherein note I. Gods call and Command to Jonah to preach against Nineveh for its great wickedness, Chap. I. 1, 2. II. Jonah's disobeying Gods Command, thinking by Sea to fly to Tarshish, from the presence of the Lord, vers. 3. III. The consequents hereupon, viz. I. Chap. 1.

2. Jonah is cast into the Sea, 1. Himself advising it, verse 12, 13. 2. The Mariners endeavouring as long as they could to prevent it, verse 13, 14. 3. The Sea being calmed upon it, verse 15. 4. The Sea-men thereat fearing the Lord, sacrificing to him, and making vows, ver. 16.

3. Jonah cast into the Sea, is swallowed up by a great Fish that so he might be saved. Hereof consider I. The efficient cause, Gods providing the Fish, ver. 17. II. Jonah's second mission to preach to Nineveh, after he came out of the fishes belly. Described I. By Gods Call and Command thereto, Chap. III. 1, 2. II. By Jonah's obedience thereto, where note 1. The greatness of Nineveh, to which he preached. 2. The Subject matter of his preaching, verse 3, 4. III. By the effects or consequents of Jonah's preaching, viz. 1. Ninevehs faith, humiliation and repentance, verse 5. to 10. 2. The Lords sparing of Nineveh from the threatned destruction, verse 10. 3. Jonah's great discontent, that the City was spared, Chap. IV. 1, 2, 3. whom the Lord reproves, convincing him under the Type of a vanishing t Gourd, which Jonah so pitied that he would not have had it destroyed, that much more the great people of Nineveh repenting were to be pitied and spared by God, verse 4. to the end. II. AN APPENDIX TO JONAH. VIZ.

JONAH's Prayer to the LORD out of the Fishes belly Jonah. 2. 1. to 10.

OCcasion Jonah the Prophet refusing to Preach to Ninive, as God commanded him, and thinking to fall away from God, is overtaken with a Tempest, cast into the Sea, swallowed up by a great fish (viz. a Whale, as is by Christ himself interpreted,) prepared of the Lord; (once saith h Hierome, where Destruction is imagined, Preservation is provided) in whose belly Jonah perceiving himself safe, falls to pray. No affliction is so extream, wherein Prayer is not a seasonable remedy: When Jonah's body could not breath naturally, yet his soul could breath out cries and groans to God spiritually.

This Prayer of Jonah was Mental in heart onely, not Vocal in voice. God can hear thoughts, as well as words. Hence Tertullian; Do Gods ears expect a sound. How then could the prayer of Jonah out of the Whales belly, through the bowels of so great a Beast, from the deeps through the huge weight of Sea, come up into Heaven? Jonah made it in the Whales belly, Penned it after he was vomited up, and digested it into this Book.

Scope. To shew the greatness of Gods mercy to him, in his extream misery (which by his sin he had brought upon himself) and his firm Resolutions of thankfulness to the LORD, for his Salvation.

Principal Parts. In this Prayer Consider to this End. I. A summary Proposition. 1. Of Jonah's misery Praying. 2. Of Gods mercy, Hearing his Prayer, v. 2. II. A larger Exposition or Narration, Partly of his Affliction. 1. By the Author of it, viz. God. v. 3. 2. By Jonah's fluctuation in it betwixt Fear and Hope, ver. 4. 3. By the instruments and the hopeless extremity of his trouble, v. 5, 6. partly of Gods mercy to him in his distress. 1. Saving him from Death, ver. 6. 2. Hearing his Prayer in his soul fainting, ver. 7. III. A Gratulatory Conclusion, wherein 1. He Reproves them of their ingratitude, that forsaking God, regard Idols, v. 8. 2. He declares his Resolution, To sacrifice with voyce of Thanksgiving, and to pay his vowes. 3. He pronounceth Salvation to be from the LORD, ver. 9.

MICAH.

I. Order and Time.

a See the Chronological Table before Isa. b Mic. 1. 1. with Isa. 1. 1. 2. c Jo. Calv. Prælect. in in Mich. in Præfat.

THis Prophecied (as hath formerly been shewed,) b In days of Jotham, Ahaz, and Hezekiah, Kings of Judah. He therefore was contemporary with Isaiah, but a little after him. Calvin (that learned and judicious Writer) thinks, c He was joyned to Isaiah, the more to strengthen and confirm their Doctrine, against the hard-hearted and stiff-necked People of their times; they speak as with one mouth and stile almost the same matters and words, for convincing the rebellious, and comforting the Elect by their mutual consent.

He is among the twelve lesser Prophets, the third in Order, according to the LXX. version, but the sixth, according to the Hebrew verity, (saith d Hierome) Therefore as it were put in the heart of the volume, he ought to contain profound mysteries. Our English Translation follows this Order of the Hebrew.

d Micheas ——in ordine 12 Prophetarum secundum septuaginta interpretes tertius est, secundum Hebraicam veritatem sextus. ——Ergo quasi in corde voluminis positus debet profunda continere mysteria. Hier. Prolog. in Mich. Tom. 6.

Sect. II. Name and Penman.

This Prophecy is called by the Hebrews סֵפֶר מִיכָה Sepher-Micah, i. e. The Book of Micah, from Micah the Preacher and Penman thereof.

This name מִיכָה Micah either may signifie Who-as? or Who-so? denoting his excellency, was like him: As e Hierome sometimes interprets it, cutting the word into two. Or it may signifie Small, Poor, Humble, (from מוך Mooc, to be small, to be impoverished,) either denoting the Poverty and low condition of him and his Parents, (Poverty being usually the companion of Piety,) or the poverty and meanness of Christ, of whom he prophecied; which interpretation notwithstanding seems somewhat forced. Hierome also elsewhere saith it signifies Humility; f The Word of God which alwaies descends to the Prophet; descends to Micah also, who is interpreted Humility: To Micah of Morasthi, which to this day is a little Village, neer Eleutheropolis a City of Palestine: now Morasthi in our tongue sounds, An Heire; Excellently thereof Humility, which is chief among the Vertues, ariseth in hope of the Lords Heritage. And the same Hierome hereunto alluding in another place saith, g Micah of Morasthi co-heir of Christ, declares in the devastation of the daughter of a Thief, and layes siege against her, because she smote the cheek of Israels &.

e Micheas ὀνομᾶν ex duabus orationis patribus nomen compositum, quod apud nos sonat, Quis quasi? aut, Quis velut? Hieron. Prolog. Tom. 6.

f Sermo Dei qui semper descendit ad Propheras, descendit ad Micheam quoque, qui interpretatur Humilitas; Ad Micheam de Morasthi, qui usque hodie juxta Eleutheropolim urbem Palestinæ haud grandis est viculus: Morasthi autem in lingua nostra Hæredem sonat. Pulchrè igitur Humilitas, quæ inter virtutes vel præcipua est, spe hæreditatis Dominicæ nascitur. Hieron. Prologue in Mic. Tom. 6.

g Micheas de Morasthi cohæres Christi vastationem annunciat filiæ latronis, & obsidionem ponit contra eam: quia maxillam percusserit judicis Israel. Hier. Paulin. Tom. 3.

judge. But leaving these curious Criticismes about his name, come we to his Person.

Who this Micah was, we finde not expressed in other Scriptures, and not much in this his Prophecy. He is called from his Country מִכָּה הַמֹּרַשְׁתִּי Micah Hammorashti, that is, h Micah the Morasthite, (for so ought it to be read.) Some think he is thus denominated from i Mareshah, a city of Judah. At Mareshah was fought that famous Battel betwixt King Asa and Zerah the Ethiopian. But the form of these two names Mareshah and Morasthite are so different, that it would be harsh and forced to borrow the Prophets denomination thence. Though Hierome (as here was noted) takes this Morasthi to be a village near Eleutheropolis, (i. e. Hebron) in Palestine. But others more probably conceive that Micah is called the Morasthite, from Morasthite of Gath, m mentioned in this Prophet afterwards, which seems to be a City of Benjamin; the sonnes of Benjamin n driving away the inhabitants of Gath. This Micah was not that Micaiah o who lived in dayes of Ahab: For, 1. Their names quite differ, this Micah, that Micaiah, according to the Hebrew. 2. Their times much differ, this Micah being divers Kings Reigns after the other. Now though we find little of this Micah in Scripture, yet by this Prophecy it is certain he was an p Holy-man of God, and a Propher, by whom the Holy-Ghost was pleased to speak.

Sect. III. Occasion and Scope.

The People of Israel and Judah being very prophane and impenitent in the dayes of the Prophet Isaiah, for which the Assyrian captivity was even then hastening upon Israel, and the Chaldean not long after to fall upon Judah, upon this Occasion the Lord raiseth up Micah to second Isaiah, and to confirm his Prophecies against both Israel and Judah, inviting them to repentance, both by threatned judgments and promised mercies.

Scope, I. In Reference to the Jews, was 1. Partly to convince and reprove them for their ignorance, ingratitude, oppression and injustice, and other their grievous sins, fomented among them by their Rulers and Prophets, but especially for their idolatry 2. Partly to invite them to Repentance and Reformation, lest the wrath and heavy judgements of God, break forth upon them, both by the Assyrian and Chaldean captivity. 3. Partly to support and comfort an Elect remnant of the godly among them gracious Promises, not only of their temporal deliverance out of Babylon, but also of spiritual Priviledges by Jesus Christ, who shall crown his Church with Honour, Unity, Peace, Comfort, and a restored Government; whose q Nativity in Bethlehem, Kingly office, and effects of his Mediatorship are clearly and sweetly foretold, to the singular establishment of the hope and comfort of the Church against all her enemies and afflictions. II. In reference to all Churches of Christ in after times, and so to us, 1. Both to warn them and us by the Jewes sad examples, what sad measure we are to expect from the righteous God, if we persist impenitent in like abominations q Vide August. de Civ. Dei l. 18. c. 30.

2. And also to instruct the Elect of God, whence to derive comfort and hope in times of publick sinnes and miseries, viz. onely from Jesus Christ and his blessed office, the onely Cordial, and Antidote against all temporal, spiritual and eternal evils.

Sect. IV. General Parts.

In this Book consider 1. The Inscription. 2. The Prophecy it self.

I. The Inscription, denoting 1. The Authors of the Prophecy, Principal and Instrumental. 2. The Time when, &c. 3. The Object against whom, viz. both Israel and Judah intimated, in their two Royal Cities named, Ch. I. 1.

The Prophecy it self, comprised chiefly in two Sermons, (as it evidently from the Exordium twice set down, viz. Ch. I. ver. 2 &c. 1, 2.)

1. The First Sermon is contained in the five first chapters, and is partly Minatory, Partly Consolatory. I. Minatory, wherein note, 1. The Exordium, inciting to attention, ver. 2. 2. The Summary Proposition of Gods judgements both upon Israel and Judah for their sins, ver. 3, 4, 5. 3. The more Plenary and particular Explication, Partly of their grievous destruction described pathetically, vers. 5. to the end of the chapt. Partly of the procuring causes of those judgments, their sins. viz. (1) The Peoples sins, Covetousnesse, Oppression, Injustice, and affecting of false Prophets, Ch. II. throughout. (2) The Princes cruelty, Ch. III. 1, 2, 3, 4 (3) The Prophets treachery and falshood, ver. 5, 6, 7. The Cruelty, Mercinarinesse, Hypocrisie and Security of Princes, Priests and Prophets, ver. 8. to the end. II. Consolatory, wherein divers excellent Gospel-Promises are made, both for conferring of Good, and Removing of Evil in after-times. These Promises are laid down. 1. More briefly and Summarily, Chap. IV. 1. to 6. 2. More largely, Partly Touching the Removal of all evil, viz. Their distresses and dispersion. ver. 6, 7. The Chaldean captivity, ver. 8, 9, 10. The Hostility of the Nations about them, which shall be subdued by them, ver. 11, 12, 13. Partly touching the communicating of all good in Jesus Christ, whose Person and Birth in Bethlehem is prophecied, Chap. V. 1, 2. whose blessed Kingdome and Conquest over his enemies is promised, ver. 3. to the end of the chap. Chap. 2. Chap. 3. Chap. 4. Chap. 5.

II. The Second Sermon is expressed in chap. 6. and 7. wherein consider

1. The Exordium, calling to attention, Ch. VI. 1.

2. A Commination, wherein I. Gods benefits conferred on them are enumerated, ver. 3, 4, 5. II. Their duties, which for all his goodnesse they should have performed to God, are described, 1. Negatively, ver. 6, 7. 2. Affirmatively, ver 8, 9. III. Gods severe judgements are denounced for their injustice and idolatry, ver. 10. to the end of the chapt. IV. The Churches sad complaint hereupon, 1. For the fewnesse of her number, Chap. VII. 1. 2. For the generall corruption of all sorts and degrees of men, ver. 2. to 7. This complaint is amplified by her eying of God, and waiting upon him notwithstanding, who can cure all these evils, ver. 7. Chap. 6. Chap. 7.

3. The Consolation of the Church, and Gods Elect remnant against all their enemies and afflictions, wherein 1. The Church checks her enemies insolent rejoycing at her calamity, resolving patiently to bear the Lords deserved indignation, from the hope she hath in the Lord, that he will raise her up out of darknesse into light to her enemies shame, ver. 8. to 14. 2. The Churches Restauration is promised, to the terrour and confusion of her enemies, ver. 14. to 18. 3. These Promises are sweetly confirmed to the Church from the Nature of God, incomparably merciful in pardoning and subduing of sin, ver. 18. 19. And immutably faithful in performing his Promises, which he hath ratified by his Oath from the dayes of old, ver. 20.

NACHUM.

Sect. I. Order, and Time of his Prophecying.

According to the Greek Translation by the LXX. Nahum is placed next in Order after Jonah, (saith a Hierome) because they prophecied both of them of the same city, viz. Nineveh now called Ninus, the Metropolis of Assyria: But according to the Hebrew it is placed next after Micah.

a Hieron. Proem. in Nahum Tom. 6.

Of the Time when Nachum flourished and prophecied, hath b formerly been spoken: most likely it was in or after the dayes of Hezekiah, after the ten Tribes were captived, and cruelly used by the Assyrians.

b See Chronol. Table before Isa.

Sect. II. Name and Penman.

This Prophecy is by the Hebrew stiled סֵפֶר נחום Sepher Nachum, that is, The Book of Nachum; and in the inscription it self. c The Book of the vision of Nachum; from Nachum the Preacher and Penman thereof.

c Nahum. I, 1.

נחום Nachum signifies, Consolation, or Comforter; (saith Hierome,) d for now the ten Tribes were carried captive by the Assyrians, in the time of Hezekiah King of Judah, under whom also this vision is seen against Nineveh for the comfort of the captived People. Nor was it a small consolation, both to them that served in Assyria, and to the remnant under Hezekiah, of the Tribe of Judah and Benjamin, (who were beset with the same enemies,) to hear that the Assyrians themselves should be captived by the Chaldeans.

d Nahum מנחמם id est, Consolatio Hier. Præm. in Joel. Tom. 6.

Sequitur Nahum, qui interpretatur Consolator. Jam enim decem tribus ab Assyriis deductæ fuerant in captivitatem, sub Ezechia rege Judæ, sub quo etiam nunc in consolationem populi transmigrati, adversum Ninivem visio cernitur. Nec erat parva consolatio, tam his qui jam Assyriis serviebant, quam reliquis qui sub Ezechia de tribu Juda & Benjamin ab iisdem hostibus obsidebatur, ut audirent Assyrios quoque à Chaldæis esse capiendos. Hier. Prooem. in Nahum. Tom. 6.

Who

Who he was Scripture ſpeaks little; Here he is called e Nachum the Helkoſhean (ſo it may be written.) Some (ſaith Hierom) think Helkoſheus was Nachum's father; and that according to the Hebrewes tradition, he was a Prophet, ſeeing to this day there is in Galilee a village of Helkoſheus, a little one indeed, and ſcarce ſhewing the prints of the ancient buildings in the ruines; but yet known to the Jewes, and ſhewed alſo to me by my Guide. This Nahum was an holy Prophet, as appears by this his Prophecy. Further we read not of him.

e Forrò quod additur, Nahum Helkeſai, quidam putant Helkeſaum patrem eſſe Nahum: & ſecundum Hebræam traditionem etiam ipſum Prophetam fuiſſe, cum Helkeſai uſque hodie in Galilæa viculus, parvus quidem & vix ruinis veterum ædificiorum indicans veſtigia, ſed tamen notus Judæis, & mihi quoque à circumducente monſtratus. Hieron. Proœm. in Nahum. Tom. 6.

Sect. III. Occaſion and Scope.

The LORD having formerly warned Nineveh by the preaching of Jonah, after he was miraculouſly ſaved in, and delivered from the Whales belly, of its imminent deſtruction for its grievous ſins, within three dayes; whereupon Nineveh believed, repented, and was at that time ſpared: Afterwards Nineveh returned with the Dog to the vomit, and with the Swine that was waſhed, to the wallowing in the mire; eſpecially the Aſſyrians afterwards perſecuting the people of God, captivating and cruelly uſing the ten Tribes, and endeavouring to extirpate the Jewiſh Religion, as hath been f ſhewed. And probably all this, their former King, (who cauſed Nineveh to humble her ſelf,) being dead. Upon this Occaſion the Lord being greatly incenſ'd at Ninevehs ingratitude, and very jealous for his People, raiſes up Nahum, to denounce the final and inevitable ruine of Nineveh and the Aſſyrian Kingdom by the Chaldeans, comforting his People in the certainty of their deſtruction.

f See the Chronol. Table before Iſa.

Scope, 1. To denounce againſt Nineveh (the Metropolis of Aſſyria, g An exceeding great city of three dayes journey, whoſe walls were an hundred foot high, ſo broad that Chariots might meet, and paſſe by one another on the top of them, and wherein there were one thouſand five hundred Towers, as b Calvin noteth) her final, terrible and irrevocable overthrow, to the ruine of that ancient, potent and flouriſhing Monarchy of Aſſyria; by that fierce and bitter Nation of the Chaldeans, for their many horrid ſins, and eſpecially for relapſing after their repentance at Jonahs preaching, and cruel dealings againſt Gods People the Jews, at laſt carrying the ten Tribes captive, and greatly endangering Judah and Jeruſalem, in, i and before the dayes of Hezekiah. 2. To comfort both Iſrael and Judah endangered, by denouncing fatal judgments to their deadly enemies the Aſſyrians, who under Pul, Tiglath-pileſer, Shalmaneſer, Sennacherib, and Eſarhaddon, had ſo wofully oppreſſed and waſted them. Hereupon ſaith k Hierome, Nahum, the comforter of the world, rebukes the city of bloods, and after the overthrow of it, ſaith; Behold upon the Mountains the feet of him that preacheth the Goſpel, publiſhing Peace. 3. To teach all afterages by Aſſyria's example, that no State, Kingdome or Monarchy on earth, can be ſo potent and flouriſhing, but it ſhall be utterly broken by the Omnipotent LORD, when once they grow inſolent againſt God, and cruel againſt his Church and People.

In all which respects her pride shall be punished, yea all shall insult over her destruction because of wickedness upon them continually, v. 19.

HABAKKUK.

Sect. I. Order and Time.

THE Hebrews rank this Book in the same Order in this Volume of the Lesser Prophets, as we have it in our Bibles.

As what Time this Prophet flourished and prophecied, is not here or elsewhere expressly declared, but from the current of the prophecy he seems to have lived before the Babylonish Captivity, in times of extream and universal corruption of all things, viz. about the dayes of Manasseh and Josiah, as hath formerly been intimated.

a In Chronol. Table before Isa.

Sect. II. Name and Penman.

This Book is stiled by the Hebrews, ספר חבקוק Sepher Habakkuk, i. e. The Book of Habakkuk. And in the text it self, b The burden which Habakkuk the Prophet did see; because it is the burdensome Prophecy first against the Jewes, then against the Chaldeans; whereof Habakkuk was Preacher and and Penman. There are four Prophets in the Volume of Lesser Prophets, whose Prophecies are in whole or in part called burdens as c (Hieron. hath noted,) viz. Nahum, Habbakkuk, Malachy and Zechariah, about both the middle and latter end of his Prophecy.

b Hab. 1. 1.

c Hieron. Proleg. in Habac. Tom. 6.

This name חבקוק Habbakkuk, signifies An embracing. (as d Hierome thinks,) either because he was beloved of the Lord, and so embraced by him; or because as it were embracing God, he wrastled with him, contended with him in this Prophecy. Or (as e Tarnovius notes out of Luther,) It signifies, The best-embracer; from חבק Habak, i. e. To embrace the last letter being doubled for emphasis sake. This name had its Omen. for his afflicted People be in this Prophecy embraceth, loveth and clasps in his arms, comforts, and sustains even as a child sadly weeping, is embraced by his mother, that he may hold his Peace.

d Habac. vel ex eo quod amabilis Domini est, vocatur amplexatio: vel quod in certamen & luctam, & ut ita dicam, amplexum cum Deo congreditur, amplexantis, id est, luctantis fortitus est nomen, &c. Hier. Proleg. in Habac. Tom. 6.

e Tarnov. Prologom. in Habac.

Habakkuk is not the same that is reported in the Apocryphal additions to Daniel, (viz. The book of Bell and the Dragon) to have brought Daniel food into the Lyons Den; (though f Hierom seem to incline to this opinion.) For 1. The truth of that Apocryphal story may be justly doubted; because in relating the occasion of Daniels being cast into the Lyons Den, it quite differs from Dan. 6. Suppose the Story true, yet the times much differ. For Daniel was cast into the Den of Lyons by Darius the Mede in the dayes of Cyrus, Dan. 6. But this Prophet prophecies in or before Nebuchadnezzars dayes, threatning Judah's captivity by him, as g Pareus hath noted. Therefore he could not be the same Habakkuk, whoever he was; he for his office is here called by the Holy Ghost a h Prophet, and his Prophecy is not only found in the Hebrew text, but also divers times i alledged in the New Testament, whence the divine Authority of it is notably evinced. Of him said Hierom, k The strong and rigid wrastler stands upon his watch, and sets himself upon his Tower, that he may contemplate Christ upon the Cross. As Nahum prophecied against Nineveh and Assyria: so Habakkuk prophecied against Judah and Jerusalem.

Sect. III. Occasion and Scope.

The Kingdom of Judah in the dayes of Habakkuk being extreamly corrupt, the godly were miserably compassed about with, and oppressed by the wicked; in so much that the righteous on the one hand, wondred at Gods patience that could endure such wickedness; on the other hand were ready to challenge God, for not delivering them according to his Promises: upon which Occasion the Lord raiseth up Habakkuk to threaten the wicked with imminent & approaching captivity by the Babylonians, and also to instruct the godly in deepest and longest troubles to live by faith, expecting Gods seasonable deliverance.

Scope 1. To denounce against Judah, the Chaldean captivity approaching, (a thing to them incredible,) for their many and great corruption abounding: that so it might appear the wicked should not still go unpunished. 2. To instruct his own People how to walk upon God, and live by faith in deepest and longest afflictions, till God rescue them, and destroy the instruments of his wrath upon them, viz. the Chaldeans, that extream fierce, greedy, dissolute and ambitious Nation. Whereupon the Prophet phet himself, (as a patterne to the faithful,) recounting in his Song, the experience of his people in their deliverances of old apprehendeth by faith like deliverances from present calamities, in greatest wants and extremities, sweetly resting and rejoycing in Gods Salvation alone. All which are propounded in forme of a Dialogue betwixt God and the Prophet.

Chap. 1.
II.

The Prophecy it self, laid down Dialogue-wise, betwixt the Prophet and God himself, wherein note

I. The Prophets first complaint to the Lord against the extream wickedness of the Jews, wherein he expostulates with God, 1. For delaying to hear his Prayer against abounding sins, ver. 2. 2 For forbearing so long to punish their offences, viz. 1 Violence, ver. 2, 3. 2 Strife and contention, ver. 3. 3 Slacking of the Law. 4 Suppression of judgement. 5 Oppression of the righteous by the wicked. 6 Corruption of Judicatures, ver. 4.

The Lord answers to this first complant. I. Prefacing, touching the wonderfulnesse and incredibleness of his work he will do in their dayes, vers. 5. II. Declaring what his work shall be, viz. The raising up of the Chaldeans to lead Judah captive; which Chaldeans are described pathetically (as utterly irresistible by the Jewes,) By their 1 Bitternesse, 2 Hastiness, 3 Terribleness, 4 Tyrannicalness, 5 Horsemanship, their horses swift and fierce, 6 Power to bear down all before them, as the East winde, 7. And by their pride through their successe, wickedly ascribing their power to idols, ver. 6. to 12.

II. The Prophets second complaint hereupon to the Lord against the Chaldeans, cruelly oppressing the Jewes, more righteous then themselves, wherein note I. An Exordium, expressing his hope that the Jewes should not perish by these threatned miseries; grounded on Gods 1. Eternity. 2. Covenant and Communion with them. 3. Power. 4. Providence, ordaining Chaldeans for corrections ver. 12. 5. Purity, so that he cannot at all approve their enemies iniquity, ver. 13. II. An Expostulation with God for his silent permitting of the Chaldeans, 1. To deale treacherously, vers. 13. 2. To devoure like fishes or creeping-things the Jewes not so wicked as themselves, ver. 13, 14, 15. 3. To rejoyce in this their rapine, ver. 15. 4. To attribute all their successe to themselves. &c. ver. 16. III. A Conclusion, wherein he expresseth 1. His indignation by reason of all these particulars against the Chaldeans, ver. 17. 2. His resolution vigilantly and intentively to wait for the Lords Answer, Ch. II. 1.

Chap. 2. The Lords answer to this second complaint of the Prophet, wherin note I. The Preface, 1. Requiring the Prophet, plainly to write the vision to the view of all, ver. 2. 2. Declaring the determinate time, the certainty and seasonableness of the vision at last, though it be delayed for a time, ver. 3. 3. Intimating, partly the miscarriage of the proud and impatient heart that cannot wait for the Promise; Partly the duty of the godly to live by faith during the worst of troubles, till the vision be fulfilled, ver. 4. II. The Narration of the Substance of the vision, in reference both to the unjust Chaldeans, and to his own just people, In reference to the unjust Chaldean, that he shall for his many grievous sinners have suitable judgements, and be wofully destroyed, 1. For his intemperance, pride and insatiableness, ver. 5. to 9. 2. For his covetousness, haughtiness and cruelty, ver. 9, 10, 11. 3. For his bloodshed and iniquity, ver. 12, 13, 14. 4. For his drunkenness, ver. 15. to 18. 5. For his notorious grose idolatry, ver. 18, 19. In reference to the just People of God are declared 1. Their privilege of life and a safe state in midst of trouble; The Lord being in his Holy Temple. 2. Their duty. All the earth should quietly adore his Majesty, but his people should silently acquiesce in him, and in his dispensations, ver. 20.

III. The Prophet Habakkuks Prayer penned by him in his own and the Churches name, upon Occasion of the Babylonish captivity long before threatned, and now coming upon Judah. The Scope thereof is to instruct himself and the people when they should come into Babylon, By Prayer to implore the Lords mercy in midst of their miseries, both from his former experienced Favours to his people, and his Promises; and triumphantly to glory over all distresses by confident acquiescence in their God alone.

ZEPHANIAH.

Sect. II. Order and Time.

THis Book is the a ninth in Order, of the twelve lesser Prophets. (saith Hierome,) and thus also he is ranked in our Bibles.

The Time wherein he flourished and prophecied, is not precisely defined, but only more generally. viz. b In the dayes of Josiah son of Amon King of Judah c Augustine saith, Zephaniah prophecied with Jeremiah. And its likely they were partly coetaneous, Zephaniah prophecying the same things for substance and in like phrase that Jeremiah, but farre more briefly and succinctly; and therefore he may profitably be compared with Jeremiah, till Ch. XXI. &c. where his prophecies during Josiahs reign seem to cease. But at what time of Josiahs reigne Zephaniah prophecied is not so evident, only this is observable; that whereas d Josiah reigned thirty one years, (in the e thirteenth of which Jeremiah began to prophecy,) and made his solemne Reformation in his f eighteenth year, restoring Gods worship, and abolishing idolatry, g putting down the Chemarims (or idolatrous Priests,) and them that burnt incense to Baal, to the Sun, and to the Moon, and to the Planets, and to all the Host of Heaven. And this Prophet Zephaniah prophecieth against such, saying, h I will cut off the remnant of the House of Baal from this place, and the name of the Chemarims with the Priests; and them that worship the Host of Heaven upon the House-tops. Therefore hence its more than probable that this Prophet prophecied not after, but before Josiah's Reformation, which was in his eighteenth year: before these superstitions were removed; as Drusius, Tarnovius, and others have observed; unlesse we say that after this Reformation, some of the Princes and people hankered after their superstitions, and secretly served their idols.

Sect. I. Name and Penman.

This Book is called ספר צפניה Sepher Tzephanjah, i. e. The Book of Tzephaniah, from Tzephanjah the instrumentall Author and Penman of it.

Tzephanjah צפניה is (saith i Hierom) as it were a Propheticall name, it signifies (as some think) The North-wind-of-the-Lord, from צפון Tzaphon, i. e. The North-wind; and this because of the force of his sharp Prophecy, threatning Judahs captivity by the Chaldeans out of the North-Country. As (others, The-watch-tower-of-the-LORD; or, The-watchman-of-the-LORD, from צפה Tzapha, to watch; the Prophets being watchmen by office, Ezech. 3. 2. and 33, 7. but by reason of different pointings of these words, some dislike this Etymon. Or rather it signifies, as l Hierome interprets it, The-hidden-one-of-the-LORD; from צפן Tzaphan, To hide: and so it notes one whom the Lord hides, and protects, (as Psal. 27. 5.) revealing also his hidden secrets and com-comforts to him, which he should make known to others, as THE LORDS SECRETARY. Thus is apposite to this Propher, who foretels the captivity, though latent to the secure, and who promises great happinesse to the godly under Christs Kingdome in times of the Gospel, though the Jews oppressed with deep bondage, could hardly perceive it by the eye of faith.

This Tzephaniah, 1. For his Progeny, is described to be the m son of Chushi, the son of Gedaliah, the son of Amariah, the son of Hizkiah. Hereupon saith Hierome, n He was begotten of a glorious stock of Ancestors, —— And there he adds; This Prophet which was set on his watch-tower, and on his heights, and knew the Mysteries of the Lord, was the son of Cushi, which is interpreted Humility, or my-Ethiopian; His Grandfather was Gedaliah, who is called The greatnes of the LORD; His great Grandfather Amariah which may be rendred The-Speech of the LORD: And his great great Grandfather Hizkiah, which sounds The fortitude of the LORD. Therefore of the fortitude of the LORD, is born The Word of the LORD; and of the Word of the LORD, The greatnes of the LORD; and of the greatnes of the LORD, Humility. So he. The Hebrewes have a Tradition, that when the Parents names of any Prophet are mentioned, those Parents were Prophets also. But that all these four Ancestors of Tzephaniah were Prophets, its scarce credible (saith o Calvin;) and the Scripture hath not a word of any such thing. It may be all these four excelled in Piety; but that's uncertain also. 2. For his Office, doubtless he was a Prophet of the Lord, because he preached not his own will, but p The Word of the LORD which came unto him. More concerning him I find not in Scripture.

Sect. III. Occasion and Scope.

Upon Occasion of the manifold and great wickednes of the Kingdome of Judah, (not Israel, for the ten Tribes were long before carried captive to Assyria,) from which they would not be reclaimed by the Ministry of the Prophets, promising mercies or threatning judgements, especially the Chaldean Captivity; This Prophet as well as Jeremiah is raised up in the dayes of King Josiah, who might mutually confirm one anothers Doctrines and Prophecies, and the more effectually reclaim Judah, or more clearly leave them without all excuse.

Scope, 1. To invite Judah and Jerusalem to repentance, by threatning the approaching captivity and ruine by the Chaldeans for their idolatrous Apostacy, Pride, Oppression, Security, and other sins of all degrees among them, that so if possible the judgements might be prevented. 2. To denounce judgements and destruction against the deadly enemies of the Church, viz. Philistines, Moabites, Ammonites, Ethiopians, and Assyrians for their sins, and particularly their proud and cruel usage of Gods People. That so the Church might be warned by their woes, and comforted in Gods vengeance upon her adversaries. 3. To support and comfort a faithful remnant of the Jewes, after their enemies destruction, and their deep afflictions, with promises of calling the Gentiles, returning their captivity, restoring their Prosperity, and bestowing Evangelical blessings upon them in Jesus Christ.

Sect. IV. Principal Parts.

In this Book consider, 1. The Inscription. 2. The Prophecy it self. I.

The Inscription declaring 1. The Authors of the Prophesie, Principal, The LORD: Instrumentall, Tzephaniah, described by his Progeny. 2. The time of it, In dayes of King Josiah, Ch. I. v. 1. Chap. I.

The Prophecy it self, wherein are principally 1. A severe Denunciation of Judgments against Judah and Jerusalem. 2. An earnest invitation of Judah to repentance. 3. A sweet Consolation of the faithful with gracious Promises. II.

I. A severe denunciation of judgments against Judah and Jerusalem. 1. More Summarily propounded, God will consume all, ver. 2, 3, 4. 2. More fully expounded; I. Partly by the impulsive or procuring causes thereof, their sins, viz. 1 The Peoples idolatry and apostacy from God, ver. 4. 5, 6. 2 The Princes pride in strange apparel, ver. 7, 8. 3 The Merchants violence, deceit, and covetousnesse, ver. 9, 10, 11. 4 The security of all, Atheistically putting off Gods judgments, ver. 12, 13. II. Partly by the grievousnesse of the judgments, being 1 Hastening apace, ver. 14. 2 Woful and terrible by the sword, ver. 14, 15, 16, 17. And 3 Irresistible, v. 18.

II. An earnest invitation of Judah and Jerusalem to repentance, before the Decree bring forth, that they might be hid in the day of the Lords anger; Ch. II. 1, 2, 3. This is urged I. Partly from the formidable exemplary judgments, which God would execute upon forreign nations, in sight of the Jews, for their warning, viz. upon 1 Philistines, v. 4. to 8. 2 Moab and Ammon, ver. 8. to 12. 3 Ethiopians, ver. 12. 4 Assyrians, and Nineveh the Metropolis thereof, v. 13, 14, 15. II. Partly from threatned Judgments against Judah and Jerusalem themselves, for their sins, viz. 1 Oppression, Chap. III. v. 1. 2 Disobedience, 3 Incorrigiblenes, 4 Unbelief, 5 Impenitency, v. 2. 6 Cruelty and Oppression of her Princes and Judges, ver. 3. 7 Corruption of her Prophets and Priests, ver. 4. 8 And her Incurableneſſe by all the exemplary judgements of God upon the Heathens, ver. 5, 6, 7. Chap. II. Chap. III.

III. A sweet Consolation of the faithful with gracious promises, which is as the Conclusion of the Prophecy. Here are promised I. The Conversion of the Gentiles (after he shall have destroyed his enemies,) and their union to, and Communion with the Church in Gods worship, ver. 8, 9, 10. II. The happy state and condition of the Church in her 1 Purity, 2 Faith 3 Secure safety, ver. 11, 12, 13. 4. Enjoyment of the Lords Presence, the King of Israel in the midst of her, who will Save her, Love her, Joy over her, Gather her for the solemn Assembly, Destroy her afflicting adversaries, Restore her captivity, and Make her glorious before all People, at all which he is incited to all enlarged joy and exultation, v. 14. to the end of the Book.

HAGGAI.

Sect. I. Order and Time.

THis Book is in Order the tenth among the Lesser Prophets.

The Time of this Prophecy was after the Jewes were brought back from the Babylonish Captivity, viz. a in the second year of Darius the King, in the sixth month, in the first day of the month; understand here not Darius Hystaspis (as some do,) but rather Darius Nothus, as hath formerly been more particularly cleared in the b Chronology of the Persian Monarchs; and seems most consonant to the Scripture there alledged, if they be judiciously considered and compared together.

a Hag. 1. 1.

b See the Chronology of the Persian Monarchs, before Ezra.

Sect. II. Name and Penman.

By the Hebrewes this called חגי ספר Sepher Chaggai, i. e. The Book of Haggai; from Haggai the Prophet, Penman thereof.

c Aggeus ἑορταζων, quem nos festivum, sive Solennem possumus dicere. Hier. Præm. in Joel. Tom. 6.

Haggai חגי signifies (as c Hieron noteth,) A Feast-observer; or A solemne festival-keeper. And this signification well agreeth to this Prophet, who exhorted the people vigorously to rebuild the Temple of the Lord, wherein festival solemnities were to be observed.

d Hag. 1. 1.
e Hag. 2. 6.
f Heb. 12. 26.

Of this Haggai's Descent Scripture is silent. He was by Office, d A Prophet of the Lord. That promise of the Lord in his Prophecy, e yet once it is a little while and I will shake the heavens and the earth, &c. is alledged in the New Testament as the Lords, and intimates the Authority of him f whose voice then shook the earth, but now he hath promised, saying, yet once more I shake not the earth only, but also heaven.

g Ezra 5. 1, 2,

When the Temple-building was hindred by King Artaxerxes Decree, procured by the Nations planted in Samaria and beyond the River, and ceased till the second year of Darius; g Then the Prophets, Haggai the Prophet, and Zechariah the sonne of Iddo prophecied unto the Jewes that were in Judah and Jerusalem in the name of the God of Israel, unto them. Then rose up Zerubbabel the son of Shealtiel, and Jeshuah the son of Jehozadak, and began to build the house of God which is at Jerusalem: and with them were the Prophets of God helping them. Of these Prophets, hereupon saith Hierom, h Haggai and Zechariah were Prophets of great spirit, who against the Edict of King Artaxerxes, and the Samaritanes, and all the nations round about, hindring the building of the Temple, commanded the Temple to be built. Zerubbabel also and Jeshuah son of Jehozadak, and the People that was of no lesse faith; who rather hearkened to the Prophets commanding, then to the Mandate of the King prohibiting.

Sect. III. Occasion and Scope.

Occasion. The Jews in the i first year of Cyrus, released from the Babylonish captivity, returned to Hierusalem to build the House of the Lord, according to his Proclamation. In the seventh moneth they built the k Altar, and sacrificed therein, and kept the Feast of Tabernacles. In the second year of their coming to Hierusalem, the l foundation of the Temple was laid; But the perfecting of the building was m interrupted by the adversaries of Judah and Benjamin, and by the Edicts of the Persian King succeeding Cyrus, till the second year of Darius the King: by reason of which impediments the people were discouraged from making further progresse in the building of Gods House, and regardless thereof, as if the time were not yet come,) they only minded their own houses and affaires; Hereupon the Lord inclined King Darius to renew Cyrus his Decrees, and raised up n first the Prophet Haggai, who sharply reproved them for seeking their own, and not the things of the Lord for which the Lord had sent divers afflictions upon them; and exhorted them to build the House of the Lord, and prevailed; and about two moneths after the Prophet Zechariah, who much encouraged and strengthened them.

n Ezra 5. 1, 2. compared with Hag. 1. 1. and Zech. 1. 1. and Ezr. 5. and 6. throughout.

Scope. I. Immediately in respect of the Jews returned from Babylons captivity, 1. To reprove them for their self-seeking and minding only their own houses, whilest they sluggishly neglected the perfecting of the House of the Lord upon carnal pretences, whose foundation was long since laid, by reason of which sins many heavy judgments (since their return from Babylon) fell upon them. 2. To quicken them speedily to build and perfect the Temple, by promises of Gods presence and assistance. 3. To comfort the Godly, who were exceedingly troubled in spirit, that this second Temple was likely to come so farre short of the first in magnificence and glory. Assuring them that the glory of this latter House should excel the glory of the first, by reason of the Messiahs incomparably presence in it, in our flesh, who as Head and King over all the world for the good of his Church, (typified by the Temple) should destroy all opposite power in the world, and make his Church perfect in Holinesse and Glory. II. Mediately in respect of Gods People in after ages, 1. To convince them how great a fault it is to neglect the repair of Gods House, and Reformation of Religion once begun, more minding their own houses and temporal affairs, for which Gods People may be afflicted with great judgements, after they have had wonderful deliverance. 2. To shew, that true zeal and deligence in repairing and reforming Gods house, shall be crowned with Gods special presence and assistance; and is the right way to bring all temporal blessings upon us and our Houses. 3. To comfort the Church under the New Testament, by the coming of Christ already in the flesh, by whom her glory farre surpasseth the glory of the Jewish Church, and shall be more and more perfected, all contrary power being overthrown.

1, Gods sharp Reprehension of the ingrateful and sluggish Jews for their great sin, in not perfecting the building of the Temple, wherein 1. Their vain excuse for not building is detected, ver. 2. 2. Their neglect is taxed and aggravated, Partly by their inequal dealing with God, minding their own houses while his house lies waste, ver. 3, 4. Partly by the judgements of God inflicted on them, wherein they might read as it were there sin, ver. 5, 6.

2. Gods invitation and Command to them, so to consider their wayes. as to build his house, ver. 7, 8. This is urged 1. By propounding divers Promises to them for building of it, v. 8. 2. By mentioning divers judgements inflicted on them, for not building it, ver. 9, 10, 11.

3, The Obedience of the Governours and the People to the Lords command, ver. 12.

4. Gods singular encouragement of the Jews now obeying, and setling to the building the house of the Lord, by manifold Promises, viz. I. Of the Lords Presence and Assistance, ver. 13. which was performed, ver. 14, 15. II. Of the surpassing glory that he would communicate to this latter Temple, beyond that of the former Temple; where 1 Their doubt and discouragment is anticipated, who were troubled that the present foundation and structure was not so stately as of the former Temple, Ch. II. 1, 2, 3. 2. The Lords Presence by his Spirit, according to his Covenant when they came out of Ægypt, is assured them, for their encouragement in the work, ver. 4, 5, 3. Gods shaking of heaven and earth, sea and dry land, and all Nations is promised in order to this Temple glory, viz. As God appeared in great Majesty and Power in giving the Law on Sinai, so he will manifest greater power to all the world in publishing the Gospel, whereat all nations shall be stirred and moved, ver. 6, 7. 4. The filling of the present Temple with more glory then the former, is promised, by the coming of the desire of all Nations, (which some interpret of the calling of the Gentiles to the Church; Others of Christs coming personally in the flesh, into the Temple, Why may not both be understood?) This is further confirmed, by Gods al-sufficiency to effect this Promise, ver. 7, 8, 9. 5. Divine Peace with this glory is promised, v. 9. III. Of Gods singular blessing to them, from the day they began to build the Temple, where 1. Under the type of a Question propounded to the Priest, touching legal cleanness or uncleanness, he convinceth the people that all their works in building the Altar, Temple, &c. hitherto were defiled with their sinful hearts and lives, ver. 10. to 15. 2. From this their sinfulness of heart and life, and impenitency, he declares it was, that hitherto Gods judgements came upon them, ver. 15, 16, 17. 3. He now promiseth to blesse the corn, and all the fruits of the earth to their use, from the day they began to build v. 18, 19. IV. Of the glorious excellency of Christs Kingdome, where are promised 1. Gods wonderful power and Providence, in the destruction of all power opposite to Christs, ver. 20, 21, 22. 2. Gods making Zerubbabel a Signet, that is, making Christ, (who came of Zerubbabel.) his King in his Church, inviolably sealed up, as continually honoured, eyed, loved and cared for by God, as a Signet upon his own hand, ver. 23.

o Hæc Prophetia partim jam completa cernitur; partim spectatur in fine complendi. Movit enim cœlum, Angelorum & fiderum testimonio, quando incarnatus est Christus. Movit terram ingenti miraculo de ipso virginis partu. Movit mare & aridam, quum & in insulis, & in orbe toto Christus annunciatur. Ita moveri omnes gentes videmus ad fidem; jam vero quod sequitur, Et veniet desideratus cunctis gentibus, de novissimo ejus expectatur adventu. ZECHARIAH.

Sect. I. Order and Time.

a Obscurissimus liber Zachariæ Prophetæ & inter 12 longissimus. Hieron. Prolog. in Zac. Tom. 6

THis Book which is the obscurest and longest of all the twelve lesser Prophets (as a Hierome noteth) is deservedly placed is Order next unto Haggai. For as Haggai b began to Prophecy in the second year of King Darius, in the sixth moneth, on the first day of the moneth; So Zechariah c began for Time in the same year, but about two months after him, viz. in the eighth moneth; Therefore (saith d Heirome,) according to the order of the Prophets; Haggai is rightly placed tenth, Zechariah the eleventh. Now Zechariah is added to Haggai, as his colleague and coadjutor in the Prophetick office, (as e Calvin well observes,) Partly the more to confirme the Authority of one anothers Doctrine; Partly the more effectually to comfort and encourage the People against all present and future difficulties, which they were to wrastle withal, lest they should be discouraged and faint under them.

Sect. II. Name and Penman.

This Book is amongst the Hebrews called סֵפֶר זְכַרְיָה Sepher Zechar-jah, i. e. The Book of Zechar-jah; from Zechar-jah the Preacher of the several Sermons, and Penman of the Book.

Zechar-jah זְכַרְיָה being interpreted, signifies (as f Hierome hath noted) either The-memory-of-the LORD, or Mind full-of-the-LORD; which name and interpretation agree well to him, who was not only himself mindful of the Lords words and works, but also careful that the People brought out of Captivity should be mindful of them and remember them.

This Zechar-jah had a famous stock of which he natu-

He lodged in a stated place wherein 2. the Lord employed him; He was a Prophet, flou- and Zech. rishing after the Jews return from Babylon Captivi- 1. 1. ty, and (as Hieron. and 5 many else with him) he was 4 Zechari- a man full in Prophecy, and (I may adde) in Pro- ah the son phetick stile. But who this Zechariah, whom of Barachi- Matthew mentions, was, and in what time of Divine ah, Mat. Writ he lived, is not known. Some think of Zechariah 23. 35. but this is not likely, for that Zechariah was slain before the Babylonish captivity, and this Zechariah lived after the Captivity, as is manifest in the Book. Others think he was the same with Zechariah the son of Jeberechiah, mentioned Isa. 8. 2. but that Zechariah lived in the time of Uzziah King of Judah, 200 years before this Zechariah. Others think he was the same with Zechariah the son of Berechiah, slain between the Temple and the Altar, Mat. 23. 35. but that Zechariah was slain in the time of Joash King of Judah, 2 Chron. 24. 20, 21. above 200 years before the Babylonish captivity. Others think he was the same with Zechariah the son of Jeberechiah, mentioned Isa. 8. 2. but that Zechariah lived in the time of Uzziah King of Judah, 200 years before this Zechariah. Others think he was the same with Zechariah the son of Berechiah, slain between the Temple and the Altar, Mat. 23. 35. but that Zechariah was slain in the time of Joash King of Judah, 2 Chron. 24. 20, 21. above 200 years before the Babylonish captivity. But this Zechariah lived after the Jews return from Babylon, yea in the time of Darius, viz. of Darius Nothus, which was above 100 years after their return. Therefore (if he were the same,) he should have lived 200 or 300 years after his own death, (as b Calvin argues) which were intolerably absurd. II. Of c Zechariah father of John Baptist. But this Prophet could not be father of John Baptist, because he lived in the time of the Persian Monarchs, in the dayes of Darius; but the father of John Baptist lived in the time of the Roman Monarchy, in the days of Augustus Cæsar, as the Evangelical History shews; now betwixt the Persian and Roman Monarchy, the Grecian intervened, which continued q above 200 years, no man in these days living so long. Therefore all things considered, this Prophet Zechariah seems to be distinct from those other mentioned in Scripture, though we cannot determine further of him, then that he was son of Barachiah, son of Iddo. Whoever he was, this Prophecy is of unquestionable Authority, and is often r alledged and approved in the New Testament.

Sect. III. Occasion and Scope.

This Prophet was raised up to prophecy to the Jews, returned from Babylon, upon the same Occasion that s Haggai was. What Haggai speaks more plainly and briefly, he speaks more mysteriously and fully, with many additions, especially of Evangelical Prophecies touching Jesus Christ.

s See on Haggai Sect. III.

Scope, I. As to the Jews, 1. To invite them to repentance, whereby they might avoid judgements and obtain mercies. 2. To encourage and incite the People returned from captivity, especially their Governours Zerubbabel and Jehoshuah, to the building of the Temple, and settling of the Commonwealth, wherein the Church might have a seat till Christs coming; and this by many excellent Promises, whereof the truely pious should be partakers. 3. To raise them up from terminating their thoughts in Zerubbabel and Jehoshuah, and their repair of the Temple and the City, which were but Types of Christ and his Church, he passeth on to many Evangelical Promises touching Jesus Christ and his Church particularly, as his Kingdome, Priesthood, Price for which he should be betrayed, Death, Effusion of his spirit, efficacy of his Gospel, Vocation of the Gentiles, and many Spiritual Priviledges of the Church in Grace and Glory. And also he leads them from earthly to heavenly, from corporal to spiritual, from present to future things. 4. To forewarne the cursed Jews, enemies to Christs Kingdome, how far short their City and Kingdom should be raised by the Romans, till the dead of their hell conquered, when God with welcome, entrance and triumph for Christ, that all shall be Holy to the Lord, and the Canaanite no more in the House of the Lord. II. Arrive, who first us: 1. How much repentance is before us for upon publick Reformation. 2. How zealously and hopefully we should act in the Repair and Restauration of the Church of God, (where the Temple and Jerusalem were but shadows,) knowing how wonderfully the Lord can effect the same, by weakest and unlikeliest means against greatest difficulties. 3. How great cause we have to accept Jesus Christ by faith, in whom these particular Prophecies were so punctually fulfilled. 4. How confidently we should expect the promised purity, victory and happiness of the Church of Christ in the latter dayes.

Sect. IV. Principal Parts.

In this Book consider 1. The Inscription. 2. The Prophecy it self.

The INSCRIPTION, describing 1. The Time. 2. The Authors of this Prophecy, Principal, The LORD; Instrumental, Zechariah; described by his Descent and office, Chap. I. ver. 1. Chap. I. II.

The PROPHECY it self comprizing the sum of 5 Sermons severally preached by the Prophet, viz. his 1 Penitential. 2 Visional. 3 Consistorial. 4 Prophetical, and 5 Evangelical Sermon.

I. His Penitential Sermon calling the Jewes to repentance. 1. Partly from Gods displeasure at their impenitent forefathers. 2. Partly from his judgments on them for impenitency. This is prefixed as a Preface, before the following Sermon of mercy and judgment, to prepare for the receiving of that, the avoiding of this, ver. 2. to 7.

II. His visional Sermon, viz. His Prophetical visions, which are in all eight, and some of them very abstruse; some light may be brought to them by comparing them with Daniels Prophecy. These Visions seem to be delivered at once; and are 1 Visions of Mercy, 2. Visions of Judgment, 3. Visions of Comfort

I. Visions of Mercy, as

1. The Vision of a man on horseback among the myrtle trees in the bottome; pointing out Christs singular presence with, and providence over his Church in in lowest state, ver. 7. to 18. Here consider I. The Vision it self, described by the Time and Manner of it, ver. 7, 8. II. The Interpretation and application of it, for comfort of thier present state; Dialogue-wise, 1. The Prophet desiring information about it, ver. 9. 2. An inferiour Angel instructing him, ver. 9. 3. Christ the chief Angel informing him that these were Angels sent as Spies and Intelligencers up and down the world, ver. 10. 4. These Angels report to Christ of the secure, and quiet state of the world, ver. 11. 5. The chief Angel (Christ) hereupon prayes to his Father for his long afflicted Church, and receives a comfortable answer touching her Restauration, but her secure enemies destruction, v. 12. to 18.

2. The Vision of four horns, and four Carpenters, &c. intimating how God would break and scatter the horns of his Churches enemies, verse 18. to the end.

3. The Vision of the man with the measuring line in his the band to measure Jerusalem promising the Restauration and re-peopling of Jerusalem, wherein note I. The Vision it self, Chap. II. ver. 1, 2. II. The interpretation of it by two Angels and Zechary, promising 1. Re-peopling, 2. Safety, 3. Glory to Jerusalem, ver. 4. to 6. III. The Accommodation of it, 1. By inviting the remnant of the Jews that still lingered in Babylon to hasten out, and this by divers Arguments, ver. 6. to 10. 2. By comforting the Jews already returned home, with Promises; 1. Of his Presence, 2. Of her enlargement by forreigners added to her; and 3. Of his gracious Covenant with her, v. 10, 11, 12. 3. By charging all the earth to be silent before the Lord, thus working for his Church, ver. 13.

4. The Vision of Jehoshua the high-Priest in filthy garments and Satan at his right hand accusing him; shewing, though sins of people and Priest might be objected against them and their Intercessors, yet they had another High-Priest, who would plead their cause, pardon their sin, build the Temple, and quiet his Church, viz, Christ the Branch. Here are described, I. The Type, wherein consider 1. The Party accused, Jehoshuah. 2. The Party before whom he was accused, viz. The Angel of the Lord, Christ. Chap. 3. 3. The Accuser, Satan, Chapt. III. vers. 1. 4. The Apology for Jehoshuah, Satan being rebuked, ver. 2. Jehoshuah being absolved, and his filthy raiments changed, ver. 3, 4. yea established in his office, ver. 5, 6, 7. II. The Anti-type by whom Temple, Priesthood and People should be restored and preserved, viz. Jesus Christ, promised to Jehoshuah and his fellows, wondred at as monsters for their faith and obedience to God in these desperate times. Christ is described 1. By his double name, Branch and Stone, vers. 8, 9. 2. By his double Property as a Stone, viz. Perfect Providence, and Compleatness of grace, v. 9. 3. By the two fruits of his Priesthood, Pardon of sin and Peace of conscience, ver. 9, 10.

5. The Vision of the golden Candlestick, and the two Olive trees standing by it: declaring that Gods grace alone is sufficient for the Reparation and Preservation of his Church, without all other created means, against greatest mountains of opposition. Where are 1. The Prophets Preparation to attend the vision Ch. IV. ver. 1. 2. The Interpretation of the vision, Chap. 4. which is either General, or Particular; I. The General interpretation of the whole vision, and of Zecharyes request, viz. That as the Candlestick was supplyed with oyle naturally dropping from the two olive trees standing thereby, without mans help or Art: so the Spirit of the Lord was sufficient, without all humane means, to rebuild and maintain both his Temple and Church, ver. 4, 5, 6. God promising to that end, 1 Partly the removal of greatest impediments, ver. 7. 2. Partly the perfecting of the Temple-building, though then very small, to the joy of the People, by the vigilant seven-eyed Providence of the Lord, v. 7. to 11. II. The particular interpretation of part of the vision, viz. the two olive-trees, ver. 11, 12, 13, 14.

II. Visions of Judgment, viz. The Vision of the flying Book, and the vision of the Ephah; In generall evidencing to the Jews, that though their state should be restored, his Temple and Church reestablished among them, according to the former visions: yet he would notwithstanding severely punish them for their sins and corruptions at present, according to the vision of the flying book; and would utterly destroy them if their sins grew riper and riper, when they had fulfilled the measure of their iniquity, for the future, according to the vision of the Ephah. More particularly.

1. The vision of the flying book, is I. Described 1. By the speedinesse of it, flying, Chap. V. 1. 2. By the Chap. 5. largenesse of it, containing curses enough for all sorts of sins, ver. 2. II. Expounded 1. By the sins threatned with the curse in this Book, viz. The sacrilegious Thievery against the second Table, And falsewearing or Perjury against the first Table. By which synecdochically understand all other their grosse sins, whereof at present they were guilty. 2. By the Author of the curse, The Lord of Hoste. 3. By the manner of the curses execution, Entring, Remaining in midst of, and consuming their houses, ver. 3, 4.

2. The Vision of the Ephah, &c. described and expounded by parts, viz. I. An Ephah, whereby the Jews were resembled, in respect of the filling up of the measure of their sins, ver. 5, 6. II. A Talent of lead lift up over the Ephah, ver. 7. III. A woman sitting in the midst of the Ephah, ver. 7. This woman signifying the sinful nation of the Jews, whose wickednesse grew to a full measure; The Talent of lead lift up, Gods heavy judgments hanging over them. The casting the woman into the midst of the Ephah, and the Talent of lead upon her, the sinful Jewes total overwhelming by Gods Judgments, ver. 8. III. Of two women carrying away the Ephah, with the woman in it, and talent upon it, into the land of Shinah, [that is x Chaldea, Babylon or Mesopetamia, for there the Jewes chiefly reside, though generally dispersed throughout the world,] denoting the Jewes speedy and final dispersion throughout the world, ver. 9, 10, 11.

III. Visions of Comfort, viz.

1. The vision of foure chariots, &c. where note I. The Description of the vision, viz. four chariots, coming out from between two mountains of Brasse, drawn by four sorts of horses, Ch. VI. 1, 2, 3. II. The interpretation of the vision given by the Angel in a threefold description, 1. Of the nature of the chariots and horses, ver. 4, 5. 2. Of their employment whither they ran, ver. 6, 7. 3, The effect of this their employment, viz. they quieted Gods Spirit in the North-country, ver. 8. This vision comfortably pointing out the provident Decrees and Counsels of God, Immoveable as mountains of Brasse; and directing (for his Povidence begins and steers all actions) the course and motion of the four chariots and horses, (viz. either the four Empires of the earth or, as some think, the Angels of heaven, those ministring spirits,) for the fulfilling of his will for his Churches good; so that whatsoever his Church had or should further suffer under them, was fore-seen and fore-appointed by God himself; a great comfort to them that were come out of captivity already, and to them that as yet remained in captivity.

2. The Vision, or rather the Historical Prediction of what was really to be done for his Churches comfort, viz. under the Type of the oblation of some Jewes, which came from Babylon as Ambassadors from the rest, and the Coronation of Jehoshuah the High-Priest, is declared the Kingdom and Priest-hood of Christ, together with the re-establishment and enlargment of the Church under him; Here note I. The external or visible type, described by several circumstances, ver. 9, 10, 11. II. The explication of this type, and the application of it to the Antitype. Partly in respect of Persons, Jehoshuahs Person representing the Person of Christ the BRANCH, ver. 12. Partly in respect of several properties in the Antitype, viz. 1. He shall grow up out of his Place. 2. He shall build the Temple of the Lord. 3. He shall bear the glory. 4. He shall sit and rule upon his Throne, and he shall be a Priest upon his Throne. 5. The counsel of Peace shall be between them both, ver. 12, 13. III. The publick memorial of this Solemnity, by consecration of these Crowns to the Temple as a Monument, ver. 14. IV. A Promise of Forreigners accesse from far to the Jewes in Judea, to help forward the Temple-building, vers. 15.

III. His casuistical Sermon, wherein the Prophet at large resolves the Jews in a case of conscience touching Fasting, proposed to him and the Priests, with many other Lessons excellently inserted, wherein consider I. The time of this Sermon, Chap. VII. 1. Chap. 7. II. The Occasion of it, viz. The captives Ambassage to the Temple, sending Ambassadours to pray in the Temple, and there to be resolved in a case of conscience, t An Ephah is among the Jews their largest of dry measures containing ten Homers, Exod. 16. last.

science, touching the Fifth month's Fast, observed for many years, whether they should continue it, verſ. 2, 3. III. The Sermon it ſelf, wherein are, 1. The Preface, 1. Partly reproving their hypocriſie and prepoſterouſneſs, in minding ſo much upon their own inventions, and outward obſervations of faſting, mean while neglecting Gods Commands, and refuſing to obey them, for which all their calamities came upon them, ver. 4. to the end of the chap. 2. Partly comforting them againſt their unbelief and diſtruſt of the good ſucceſs of things by divers promiſes, viz. Of Gods reconcilement with Zion for preſent, Chap. VIII. 1, 2, 3. Of her peaceable and ample ſtate, ver. 4, 5, 6. Of his recollecting her diſperſed ones, and bringing them to their own homes, ver. 7, 8. from all which Promiſes they are exhorted to take courage againſt all difficulties to go on with the building of the Temple; and this is further preſſed by many Arguments, ver. 9. to 18. 2. The Anſwer it ſelf to the caſe propounded, Partly by Gods abrogation of their Faſts, ver. 18, 19. Partly by his injunction of the more neceſſary and ſubſtantial duties of religion, ver. 19. which is urged from the approach of ſuch times, wherein Ceremonies ſhould ceaſe, and Truth ſucceed them; and wherein Gentiles ſhould be converted to make up a glorious Church with the Jews, ver. 20. to the end of the chap.

Chap. 8.

IV. His Prophetical Sermon, foretelling future events, wherein are principally conſiderable, 1. Threatnings of deſtruction to the Churches enemies; Land of Hadrach, Damaſcus, Hamath, Tyre and Zidon, and the Philiſtines Ch. IX. 1. to 7. 2. Promiſes of aſſiſtance and Protection to his Church againſt all their enemies, v. 7, 8. 3. MALACHI.

Sect. I. Order and Time.

a Hier. Proœm. in Mal. Tom. 6.

MAlachi is in Order the laſt of all the twelve Prophets, (as a Hierome intimateth,) yea deſervedly he is ranked the laſt of all the Prophets of the old Teſtament, 1 Partly becauſe in the cloſe of his Prophecy, he ſo cautions the Jews to be mindful of the written b Law of Moſes, till the Meſſiahs coming in the fleſh, and to cleave to the pure Doctrine thereof; which he therefore doth, (ſaith c Calvin) becauſe now the Series and continued Succeſſion of Prophets was to ceaſe, till Chriſt the great Prophet himſelf ſhould come, that by this intermiſſion and want of Prophecy, the Jews might be ſtirred up, and preſſed more intentively and earneſtly to deſire the Meſſiahs coming. 2. Partly becauſe he concludeth his Prophecy with ſuch an eminent Promiſe of d Elijah the Prophet, (i. e. John Baptiſt in the ſpirit and power of Elijah,) to be Chriſts Harbinger to prepare his way before him. Now what Prophet ſo fit as he who is the laſt Prophet of the Old Teſtament, to indigitate and point out as with the finger, John Baptiſt the firſt Prophet of the New Teſtament?

b Mal. 4. 4.

c Jo. Calv. Præfat. in Mal.

d Compare Mal. 4. 5, 6. with Luke 1. 16, 17.

Time of his Prophecy is not particularly expreſſed, but the current of his Prophecy intimates it was not only after the Jews return from the Babyloniſh Captivity, but after their building of the Temple alſo, inaſmuch as herein is no mention at all of the Temples lying waſte, and unbuilt, nor is there any exhortation to the People, (as in Haggai and Zechariah,) to perfect the building but rather the Temple being now finiſh'd, and the Temple-worſhip erected; the Sacriledge of the People and the corruption of Gods worſhip by the Prieſts is here taxed. How long time Malachi prophecied after the perfecting of the Temple is hard to define; e Helvicus thinks he began to prophecy about the 10 or laſt year of Darius Nothus, which was about four hundred and four years before Chriſt. The Temple was finiſhed in Darius Nothus his f ſixth year. So that after Malachi, according to this account Prophecy ceaſed for about 400 years.

k Calv. Præfat. in Mal.

This Book is called among the Hebrewes סֵפֶר מַלְאָכִי Sepher Malachi, that is The Book of Malachi, and in the text; g The Burden of the Word of the LORD to Iſrael, by the hand of Malachi; from Malachi the Preacher and Penman thereof,

Malachi מַלְאָכִי ſignifies properly, My-Angel, or My-Meſſenger, (as h Hierome interprets it, who elſewhere i blames the LXX. for rendring it His Angel, viz. in thoſe words, The Aſſumption of the Word of the LORD againſt Iſrael by the hand of his Angel.) And this interpretation well agrees to any Prophet, or Miniſter of God, being the Lords Angel or Meſſenger to his Church and People. Though perhaps (as k Calvin intimates) this name might for honour ſake be be given to this Prophet in respect of some special service, unknown to us. The Hebrews and Origen (because Malachi signifies, my Angel,) have an Opinion, That Malachi was an Angel that came down from heaven, and assuming an humane body preached to Israel. But l Hierome rejects this, and m Calvin counts it an absurd fiction, and deservedly; 1. Partly because in these times God did not use to speak by Angels, yea, scarce by Prophets, because of the Peoples obduration, and because of the approach of Christs incarnation; but by ordinary ministry. 2. Partly because the last letter [י] as here, is usually annexed to proper names of men: therefore he was a man, not an Angel. n Some think he was Zechariah or Haggai, he being thus termed o an Angel or Messenger, but without any convincing ground for that opinion. Hierom and Calvin (in the places fore-alledged) incline to think he was Ezra, but give us no cogent Arguments to perswade thereunto. Their Opinion seems most probable, who take him to be a Prophet distinct from them all. Whoever he was his Prophecy is Authentique, and the Authority of it notably confirmed by the New Testament p Allegation of it.

Sect. III. Occasion and Scope.

Occasion, The Jews being newly returned from captivity, did a little while more heartily serve God, and build the Altar, and lay the foundation of the Temple, and so for a long time the work ceast, Partly through opposition, Partly through their own sluggishnesse, till that in the days of Darius, Haggai and Zechariah encouraged them, and Darius countenanced them, they finished it, and erected the worship of God therein aright; But after relapsing to hypocrisie in Gods service, corruption and sacriledge in his worship, and looseneſſe in their lives by mixt Marriages, Polygamies, Divorces, abuse of Gods Providences, &c. Hereupon God raises up this Prophet to endeavour to reform these corruptions by his ministry.

Scope. 1. To convince and reprove the Jews for their great unkindness, walking so unworthy of Gods electing love and Covenant with them, and this by their irreligiousneſſe, prophaneneſs, idolatry, adultery, challenging of Providence, Rebellion, Sacriledge, Infidelity, and other corruptions, abounding not only among the People, but among the Priests also: for which he sharply threatens them with Gods judgments, 2. To invite them to Repentance and Reformation of all these grosse evils, by promises of grace and manifold blessings which should especially be performed by the Messiah, the great Reformer and Refiner of his Church, at his coming in the flesh, which hastned; who would save the penitent, but destroy the obstinate sinners; who would abolish the typical ceremonies and worship, and set up a pure spiritual service throughout the world; before whom the New Testament Elijah, John the Baptist should be sent to prepare his way, and to fit a People for him.

Sect. IV. Principal Parts.

In this Book are, 1. The Inscription. 2. The Prophecy it self.

The Inscription or Title denoting 1. The nature of the Prophecy; A Burden. 2. The Authors of it, Principal, the LORD. Instrumental, Malachi. 3. The Persons against whom this Burden was especially intended, viz. Israel, Chap. I. 1. — I.

The Prophecy it self wherein are wrapped up in one continued Sermon, these Particulars principally. — Chap. I. II.

I. A Preface, (aggravating the ingrateful wickedness of the Jews) drawn from Gods singular love in election of them in Jacob, when he rejected the Edomites in Esau, ver. 2. to 6.

II. A sharp Contestation against the people, especially the Priests, the Keepers of the Law for their corruptions, viz. 1. Against their contempt and pollution of the worship of God, which Priests should have vindicated by office, ver. 6. to the end. and Chap. II. to 10. — Chap. 2. 2. Against their corrupt marriages, both marriages with Infidels, and Polygamies, ver. 10. to 17. — Chap. 3. 3. Against the wickedness and perverseneſſe of many, that made a mock at Gods Justice and Judgements, v. 17. to the end, and Chap. III. v. 1. to 7. — Chap. 4. 4. Against their Sacriledge, in robbing God of Tithes and Offerings, &c. ver. 7. to 13. 5. Against their Atheistical contempt of Gods fear, worship and true repentance, vers. 15. to the end, and Chap. IV. vers. 1. to 5.

III. An earnest invitation of all to Repentance, that so they might be prepared duly to entertain the Messiah, who (with his forerunner John the Baptist, in the spirit and power of Elias,) was now immediately to appear in humane flesh, ver. 4, 5, 6.

Thus farre of the Old Testament, wherein (as t Augustine saith,) the New Testament is Veiled. Come we next to consider of the New Testament, wherein the Old Testament is Revealed.

II. THE New Testament.
AND
The Order of the Books therein,

THE NEW TESTAMENT, revealing fully and clearly the NEW COVENANT in Christ, and the spiritual Administrations thereof; is contained in the Books written since Christs manifestation in the flesh, [a] In reading of the Old Testament, the veile is untaken away: But (in the NEW TESTAMENT,) the veile is done away in Christ. —— And we all with open face, beholding as in a glass the glory of the Lord, are changed into the same image from glory to glory, even as by the Spirit of the Lord. In the Books of the Old Testament, God describes to us, The Old Covenant of Grace in Christ, veiled under Promises, Prophesies and Types: In the Books of the New Testament, The Lord delineats to us the New Covenant of Grace in Christ, un-veiled, actually exhibited and performed; [b] Christ being the truth, the body and substance of all those ancient Types and Shadows, the Center and meeting place of all the [c] Prophecies and Promises.

The Books of the New Testament are either 1 Historical, 2 Epistolical or 3 Prophetical, as further appears in the annexed Table.

I. Histo-

I. HISTORICAL BOOKS.

THE HISTORICAL BOOKS of the New-Testament, are such as contain principally matters of Fact, though matters of Faith and Doctrine are also interwoven. The Histories of the Testament, are I. Of Christ the Head of the Church. II. Of the Church of Christ, his body.

I. The HISTORY OF JESUS CHRIST himself is set forth by the four Evangelists, wherein Christs Genealogy, Nativity, Life, Doctrine, Miracles, Death, Resurrection and Ascension, are described. Matthew, Mark, Luke and John, are usually called (by way of emphasis) The four Evangelists, because they alone wrote the Evangelicall History of Jesus Christ. d Matthew and John were Apostles, Mark and Luke were, (though not Apostles, yet) holy Apostolical men, the Apostles disciples, Companions and Assistants in the work of the Ministry, as after will appear.

d Mat. 10. 2. Mark 3. 17, 18.

e Joh. 20. 31.

The General and common End of these four Histories, and of the writing of them is that which John expresseth in particular, viz. e That we might believe that Jesus is the Christ, the Son of God, and that believing we might have life through his name; Particular ends and occasions may be noted in the particular consideration of the Histories.

f Inter omnes Divinas Authoritates quæ sanctis literis continentur Evangelium merito excellit. Quod enim Lex & Prophetæ futuri prænunciaverunt: hoc redditum atque completum Evangelio demonstratur, &c. Aug. de Consens. Evan. l. 1. c. 1. Tom. 4.

This History of Jesus Christ not onely incomparably surpasses all humane, but also (as f Augustine hath noted,) deservedly excelleth even all Divine Authorities and Histories in Sacred Scripture. As the Canticles are stiled the Song of Songs; So may this, the History of Histories. For 1. The Subject-matter of this History is most sublime and singular, viz. The lineal Descent, Birth, Life, Death, Resurrection and Ascension of Jesus Christ, God-man, the onely Saviour of sinners, and Mediatour betwixt God and man. Whose Natures, Offices, Doctrines, Acts and Sufferings, are here on purpose fully described, which in other Books are but briefly touched upon and hinted. And what Histories can treat of a nobler Theam? 2. This History contains the accomplishment of both the Law and Prophets, Jesus Christ being the Truth of all the Types, the Center or meeting place of all the Promises, and the chief Performance of all the Prophecies of the Old Testament, as is here testified by them that were eye and ear witnesses thereof. 3. This one History of Christ, is the onely History in the sacred Bible, which is written by four several Penmen, which eminently points out the unparallel'd excellency of the Story, whatever other mystery be implyed therein.

But why is Christs History written by four several Penmen? Answ. Antient writers (who much please themselves with their fancies, about the mysteriousness of numbers,) have excogitated divers Reasons thereof.

g Irenæus adverſ. Hæreſ. l. 3. c. 1. p. 259. Col. 1596.

Irenæus saith g Because there are four Regions of the world wherein we are; and four principal winds or spirits, and the Church is sown throughout all the earth, and the Gospel is the pillar and ground of the Church, and the spirit of life: consequently she must have four pillars standing on every side incorruptibly, and enlivening men.

Hierome saith, h The Church which by the Lords word is founded on a Rock, whom the King brought into his Chambers; to whom he put his hand through the hole of his secret defention,—issuing forth four Rivers like Paradise, (this is also Origens Argument,) hath four corners and rings by which as it were the Ark of the Covenant, and Keeper of the Law of the Lord, is carried by immoveable staves. The first of them all is Matthew the Publican, &c.

h Ecclesia autem quæ supra Petram, domini voce fundata est, quam introduxit rex in cubiculum suum: ad quam per foramen descensionis occultæ misit manum suam, similis dilectæ hinnuloque cervorum: quatuor flumina instar Paradisi eructans: quatuor angulos & annulos habet, per quos quasi Arca Testamenti & custos legis domini, lignis immobilibus vehitur. Primum omnium Matthæus est Publicanus. ——— Hieron. Proem. in Mat. Tom. 9.

Augustine saith: i These foure Evangelists, well knowing the whole World, even for this perhaps four, because there are four parts of the Earth, throughout all which they in a sort have declared, by the mystery of their number, that the Church of Christ shall be enlarged, are said to have written in this Order. First Matthew. Then Mark. Thirdly Luke. Lastly John.

i Illi igitur 4 Evangelistæ universo terrarum orbe notissimi, & ob hoc fortasse 4. quoniam quatuor sunt partes orbis terræ per cujus universitatem Christi Ecclesiam dilatari, ipso sui numeri Sacramento quodammodo declararunt, hoc ordine scripsisse perhibentur. Primò Matthæus, deinde Marcus, tertiò Lucas, ultimò Joannes. Aug. de Consens. Evangelist. l. 1 c. 2. Tom. 4.

Thus the number of the four Evangelists is fetched from the four Cardinal winds: from the four Regions or Corners of the Earth: from the four Rivers of Paradice; and from the four Corners and four Rings of the Ark of the Covenant. But most of them accommodate that of the k four living creatures (which four had the face of a man, and the face of a Lyon on the right side: and they four had the face of an Oxe on the left side: they four also had the face of an Eagle:) to the number of the four Evangelists, though severally fitting them and interpreting them. Irenæus saith, l The first living Creature like a Lyon, signifies Christs Efficacy, Principality, Regality: viz. John: The second like a Calf, signifies his Priestly sacrificing Order, viz. Luke: The third having as it were a mans face describes his comming in the flesh as man, viz. Matthew: and the fourth like a flying Eagle, manifesting the grace of the Spirit, flying into the Church, viz. Mark, Hierome saith m The first face of a man signifies Matthew, who began to write of Christ as of a man. The Book of the Generation of Jesus Christ son of David, son of Abraham. The second Mark, in which is heard the voice of a Lyon roaring in the wilderness, The Voice of one crying in the Wilderness, Prepare ye the way of the Lord, make his Paths straight: The third of a Calf, which prefigures Luke the Evangelist, taking his beginning from Zechary the Priest: The fourth John the Evangelist, who having taken the wings of an Eagle, and hastening to higher matters, disputes of the WORD of God. And the same Hierom upon

m B. Hier. Proœm. in Mat. Tom. 9.

u Matthæus Marcus, Lucas & Joannes, Quadriga domini: & verum Cherubim, quod interpretatur scientiæ multitudo, per totum corpus oculati sunt, scintillæ emicant, discurrunt fulgura pedes habent rectos, & in sublime tendentes, terga pennata & ubique volitanti. Tenent se mutuo sibique perplexi sunt, & quasi rota in rota volvuntur, & pergunt quocunque eos flatus sancti spiritus perduxerit. Hieron. Paulino. Tom. 3.

'upon this consideration saith elsewhere, u Matthew, 'Mark, Luke and John, the Lords chariot drawn of 'four, and the true Cherubims, which is interpre-'ted the multitude of Science, are full of eyes through-'out, sparkles shine forth, lightnings run about, 'they have straight feet and tending upwards, wing-'ed backs and flying everywhere: They hold one 'another, and are infolded in one another, and are 'rowled about as a wheele in a wheele, and they go 'whithersoever the inspiration of the holy Spirit 'leads them.

o Plerique putant ipsum Dominum nostrum in 4 Evangelii libris 4 formis animalium figurari, quod idem homo, idem leo, idem vitulus, idem aquila. Homo quia natus ex Maria est: Leo, quia fortior: viculus, quia hostia: aquila, quia resurrectio est, &c. Ambr. Præfat. in Lucan. Tom. 5.

Ambrose also tells us, o That many think our Lord 'in the four Books of the Gospel is figured by the four 'formes of the living Creatures: because he is a 'Man, a Lyon, a Calf, an Eagle. A man because 'he was born of Mary: A Lyon, because strong: A 'Calf, because a Sacrifice, An Eagle, because he is the 'Resurrection. And to mention no more, Augustine 'saith, p Among them that out of the Revelation 'have interpreted those four living Creatures, or 'the understanding of the four Evangelists, those 'seem to me to have considered something more pro-'bable, who understand the Lyon in Matthew, the 'Man in Mark, the Calfe in Luke, the Eagle in John: 'then those who give the Man to Matthew, the Eagle 'to Mark, the Oxe to Luke, and the Lyon to John: 'for they would take a kinde of conjecture, from the 'beginnings of the Books, not from the whole inten-'tion of the Evangelists, &c.——Whereupon he af-'terward, calls the foure Evanghlists, The Lords holy 'chariots drawn of four, wherein being carried 'throughout the world he subdues People to his easie 'yoake, and light burden.

p Mihi videntur, qui ex Apocalypsi illa 4 Animalia, ad intelligendos 4 Evangelistas interpretati sunt, probabilius aliquid attendisse illi qui Leonem in Matthæo, hominem in Marco, Vitulum in Luca, Aquilam in Joanne intellexerunt: quam illi qui Hominem Matthæo, Aquilam Marco, Bovem Lucæ, Leonem Joanni tribuerunt. De Principali enim librorum quandam conjecturam capere voluerunt, non de tota intentione Evangelistarum, &c.——Has domini sanctas Quadrigas, quibus per orbem vectus subigit populos leni suo jugo & sarcinæ levi.—— Aug. de Consens. Evangelist. l. 1. c. 6. Tom. 4. & Tract. 36. in Joan. ad init. Tom. 6.

Sedulius the Presbyter elegantly describes this resemblance of the four Evangelists in his verses: wherein he thus speaks to Christ.

Hoc Matthæus agens hominem generaliter implet,
Marcus ut alta fremit vox per deserta Leonis,
Jura Sacerdotii Lucas tenet ore juvenci,
More volans Aquilæ verbo petit astra Joannes.
Quatuor hi proceres una te voce canentes,
Tempora ceu totidem latum sparguntur in orbem.
Iren. adverss. Hæres. l. 3. c. 11. in Annot.

But leave we these subtilties and notions of wit, which seem to be Similetudes, Allusions or Allegories, used for illustration, rather then Arguments for demonstration, why these four should write our blessed Saviours History;

We may rather conceive Christs History was written by these four.

1. Because God, who appointed many q witnesses of Christs doctrine and works, &c. not onely to Jerusalem, all Judea and Samaria, but to the utmost parts of the earth, did peculiarly stirre up these four persons by his spirit to this work: for r holy men of God writ who were moved, and as moved, by the Holy Ghost.

q Act. 1. 8. & 10. 39. 41. 42.

r 2 Pet. 1. 21.

2. This History of Christ is the choicest of all Histories: of greatest worth in it self, of most concernment to us, and likely to be most opposed by the Devil, and the wicked world, &c. therefore God (that requires three or three witnesses for confirmation of things) makes use of four witnesses to write Christs story, that be the writings of four every thing might be established beyond suspition.

s Deut. 19. 6. Heb. 10. 28. Num. 35. 30. Mat. 18. 16. John 8. 17. 2 Cor. 13. 1.

3. That we may see the Authority of the Gospel depends not upon the Penman thereof, but upon the Holy Ghost that indites it, and therefore this History is written not onely by Matthew and John, Apostles, who were eye and eare-witnesses of what Christ did and spake; but also, as t Augustine well noteth, by Mark and Luke, the Apostles followers, who u most surely and stedfastly believed the Apostles report, though not eye-witnesses themselves, yet were incited thereto by the spirit.

t Quorum quidam, hoc est Matthæus & Joannes etiam scripta de illo quæ scribenda visa sunt, libris singulis ediderunt. Ac ne putaretur, quod attinet ad præcipiendum & prædicandum Evangelium, interesse aliquid utrum illi annuncient, qui eundem Dominum hic in carne apparentem discipulatu famulante secuti sunt, aut ii qui ex illis fideliter comperta crediderunt, divina Providentia procuratum est per spiritum sanctum, ut quibusdam etiam ex illis qui primos Apostolos sequebantur, non solum annunciandi, verum etiam scribendi Evangelium tribueretur auctoritas. Hi sunt Marcus & Lucas. Aug. de Consens. Evan. lib. 1. c. 1. Tom. 4. u Luke 1. 1, 2.

4. That this Gospel-History might be compleated, one explaining what another left obscure, for matter or order, one supplying what another had omitted. For, (as that acute a Chemnitius hath learnedly observed: Matthew who wrote first, viz. in the ninth year after Christs ascention, as is commonly thought, y for the most part relates the things done, but seldom insists upon the order of doing them. Mark who wrote next, viz. in the tenth or eleventh year after Christs ascention, briefly relates what Matthew did more largely, (Mark being an Abstract or Epitome of Matthew) but withal he insists more upon the ordering and timing of things done. Luke who wrote in the fifteenth year after Christs ascention, having seen others writings, propounds to himself to write of things from the very first, and that methodically. z It seemed good to me also, having had perfect understanding of things from the very first to write unto thee in order: in many things he shews the order of things by circumstances, and in most agrees with Mark: (whence Tertullian calls Lukes Gospel a An orderly digesting of the Evangelical story:) but sometimes things manifest in Matthew and Mark, he puts not in their own place. John who wrote his Gospel in the two and thirtieth year after Christ ascension, professedly addes the Acts of Christ in the first year of his ministry, ommitted by the rest as b Eusebius testifies. And in the rest of his History he not onely insists much upon Christs Doctrine, formerly not spoken to, but also expressely notes the Feasts of certain distinct years, incident in the times of Christs ministry, intimating that the Evangelical History, penned by others, should be distributed into certain years, according to those Feasts, which being duly considered and compared together, may be of great use for the right timing of the Evangelical Story.

y Vid. D. Pareum Præm. in Matthæum Sect. II. Yet Nicephorus saith, Matthew wrote in the 15th year after Christs ascention, Marke and Luke along time after, John 36 years after Christs ascention, Niceph. Hist. l. 2 c. 45.

5. Finally though the Holy Ghost could by one and the same contexture of words, have given us

the

the History of Christs words and deeds, (as Chemnitius noteth out of Gerson,) yet not without some great mystery therein, he pleased under a certain Harmonie and connexing of things, (if we may so speak,) to excite the minds of the faithful, to the more humble and vigilant consideration of the truth, that it might appear, the four Evangelists, did not speak by mutual Conspiration, but by divine Inspiration. Whence S. Augustine hath well observed, They are not so much four Gospels, as one Gospel in four Books.

The Summe and principal Scope of all these four Evangelists is to demonstrate, That Jesus Christ the sonne of the Virgin Mary, is that very Messiah the son of David and Abraham, that seed of the woman, from the beginning of the world promised, typified and fore-prophecied of in the whole Old Testament. This demonstration may be comprized in such a Syllogisme as this.

Whosoever he be, in whom all the Promises, Types and Prophecies of the Old Testament concerning the Messiah are actually fulfilled: he, and he alone, is the true Messiah. This Proposition is undeniable; for in those Promises, Types and Prophecies onely the true Messiah is described, and revealed under the Old Testament in many particulars. Here all the particulars of those Promises, &c. may be enumerated out of the Old Testament.

But in Jesus Christ, the Son of the Virgin Mary, all the Promises, Types and Prophecies, of the Old Testament, concerning the Messiah are actually fulfilled. This Assumption is proved by the History of the four Evangelists, purposely declaring how they were accomplished in him particularly. Here the Scriptures of the Old Testament, mentioned by the foure Evangelists as fulfilled in Christ, may be enumerated out of all the Gospels clearly.

Therefore Jesus Christ, Son of the Virgin Mary, and he alone, is the true Messiah.

Seeing therefore this is the primary Scope of these foure Evangelists, to bring Christ the onely true Messiah to their owne and to us, that we might know him certainly, believe in him onely, and be saved by him eternally; with what desire and delight should we exercise our selves in these Histories night and day, that therein we might spiritually kisse, embrace, adore and admire the blessed Babe JESUS! Chemnitius professeth * That he loved, even from his tender age, the saving History of the life and acts of our sweetest Saviour Jesus Christ. And What sincere soul, that ever truly tasted Christs sweetnesse in his tender age, can chuse but think himself in heaven, while he reads and meditates upon this heavenly Story?

* Cum salutarem Historiam de vitâ & actis dulcissimi salvatoris nostri in Harm.

Besides these foure Evangelists divers others have written Gospels, (as e Hierome noteth) both from Lukes Testimony; Luke 1. 1. &c. and from monuments thereof remaining till his dayes: which Gospel (saith he,) were the beginnings of divers Heresies: as that of the Egyptians: of Thomas: of Matthias: of Bartholomew: of the twelve Apostles, of Basilides: of Apelles: and of others whom is would be too long to enumerate: and is necessary to say this at present: There have been some who without the Spirit and Grace of God, have endeavoured rather to frame a Narration; than to compile the truth of History. These and other spurious, adulterate and Apocryphal Gospels devised by subtile Heretiques, for the patronizing of their Heresies, the Church rejects as f Eusebius, and g Nicephorus, have long since testified.

MATTHEVV.

Sect. I. Name and Penman.

THE GOSPEL ACCORDING TO MATTHEW.] The Engliſh Word [Goſpel] comes from the old Saxon word [God-ſpel] i.e. Good-ſpeech. The Greek word ſignifies Good-tydings, or a Good-Meſſage: This word Goſpel in New Teſtament, is of ſeveral acceptations; both in bad and good ſence.

The word Goſpel is uſed
- 1. In bad ſence, for a falſe pretended Goſpel, Gal. 1. 6, 7.
- 2. In good ſence, and that either
  - 1. Properly, and ſo the word is uſed, either

    - 2. Specially, for the Doctrine of Grace, in accompliſhing the promiſe by Chriſt exhibited; this is peculiar to the New Teſtament, Rom. 1. 1.2. 2 Cor. 4.4.
  - 2. Metonymically.
    - 1. For the Preaching or Miniſtery of the Goſpel, 1 Cor. 9. 12, 14.
    - 2. For the Hiſtory of Chriſt, who is the prime Subject of the Goſpel. Thus the Books of the four Evangeliſts are called Goſpels.

This Book is called The Goſpel according to Matthew, becauſe he was Penman of it. Matthew, an Hebrew name; in Syriack, מתי Mattha. Some derive it from מס Mas, i.e. Tribute. Others from מתח Mathach, i. e. To extend, to explain, &c. So that Matthew ſhould ſound as much as, An explainer, viz. of Scripture. But a rather it is to be derived from נתן Nathan, i. e He hath given or beſtowed, whence מתן Matthan, A gift; ſo Matthew notes A gift, viz. of God. Matthew was alſo ſurnamed in Hebrew b Levi, i. e. Aſſociated, (The firſt reaſon, and original of the name Levi, ſee in Gen. 29. 34.) ſo he had two names. He was the ſon of c Alphæus; by Profeſſion a d Publicane, ſitting at the receipt of Cuſtome, ſo that his calling was very infamous among the Jews; yet Chriſt e calls him from the Receipt of Cuſtome to be a Diſciple, who preſently obeyed, and made Chriſt a great feaſt, inviting alſo other Publicans, whom he doubtleſs brought along with him, that they alſo might hear Chriſts Sermons and repent. He was one of the twelve f Apoſtles. Penman of this Book, Authority whereof was never queſtioned by the Church of Chriſt. He is called by g Tertullian, A moſt faithful Commentator of the Goſpel. He h preached the Goſpel to ſinners, not only by word, but by exemplary correcting his own life. He preached as ſome i think in a City of Ethiopia called Naddaver; as others, in Myrmena, a City of the Anthropophagi; where he is reported to work many ſtrange wonders; and divers unſound Doctrines are falſly aſcribed to him, too tedious to relate. At laſt he is reported to be faſtned with nails or ſpears to the earth.

Sect. II. Time of his writing.

Matthew wrote his Goſpel, as k Irenæus thinks, at that time when Paul was preaching the Goſpel at Rome, and founding a Church there. Or in the fifteenth year after Chriſts Aſcenſion, as l Nicephorus Or in the ninth year after Chriſts Aſcenſion, as others obſerve out of Euſebius, and Theophylact. By this difference of opinions it appears the punctual time of his writing, is ſomewhat uncertain. But the moſt received opinion of Fathers and Hiſtorians is (ſaith m Pareus) That Matthew wrote in the ninth year after Chriſts Aſcenſion, Mark two years after him, Luke in the fifteenth year after Chriſt, and John in the two and thirtieth year. And as for the former place of Irenæus. Pareus upon good grounds ſuſpects it to be corrupted, for the eſtabliſhing of the Popiſh ſoppery of Peters Primacy at Rome.

Sect. III. Language in which he wrote.

The Language in which Matthew wrote is worth the enquiring after, that ſo we may ſatisfie our judgements touching the Authentique copy whether it be the Hebrew or the Greek, which we are to follow. Some think he being an Hebrew, wrote in Hebrew to the Hebrews, among whom he had preached: Many ancient Writers embrace this Opinion Irenæus ſaith, n Matthew publiſhed the Writing of the Goſpel among the Hebrews in their Tongue, when Peter and Paul preached the Goſpel and founded a Church at Rome.

Rome. q Rendring Reason, Matthew having preached the Gospel to the Hebrews and minding to go to other Nations, wrote his Gospel in his own Country Language. So also p Nicephorus, and a Augustine thinks.

And r Hierome saith, Matthew in Judea first compiled the Evangelical Christ the Hebrew letters and words for them of the Circumcision that believed. Which who after translated into Greek, is not sufficiently certain. Further that Hebrew Gospel is had in the Library at Cæsarea Library, which Pamphilus the Martyr most studiously made; and I had liberty of copying it out, granted from the Nazarenes, who use this Volume in Beroea a City of Syria, &c.

But notwithstanding this opinion of divers ancient and learned Fathers: Divers modern Writers, and those of no small learning and judgement differ from them, and judge, that Matthew wrote not his Gospel originally in Hebrew, but in Greek, and that upon these grounds. 1. The Hebrew Gospel of Matthew his Edition is such for language, as it is improbable it should be written by Matthew, or any other skilful in the Hebrew Tongue, and Epiphanius himself confesses he amended it in many places. 2. The greek Gospel of Matthew was received as Authentique in the purest primitive times. It is certain (saith that Learned s Rivet,) that even from the first times the Primitive Church used Matthews Gospel written in Greek, and accounted the Greek Text for Authentique. Athanasius in Synopsi, in vita Matth. reports, The Greek Exposition was made by James the brother of the Lord according to the flesh. By John the Evangelist, saith Theophylact. By Luke and Paul, thinks Ambrose Serm. 8. in Genes. 3. The other Apostles originally wrote in the Greek Tongue, (as then most common) and that not onely promiscuously, to all both Jews and Gentiles, but peculiarly when they wrote to the Jews. As Author of the Epistle to Hebrews, Peter, James. And their Apostolical function required them so write in the most known Tongue, as most to edifying. 4. Matthews stile plainly agrees with Marks, differs not much from John's; and though therein there be some Hebraismes, so there are in most Books of the New Testament. 5. Matthew interprets Hebrew names by Greek, therefore he wrote in Greek not in Hebrew; as for instance, t Immanuel, u Golgotha, x Eli, Eli, Lamasabachtani. 6. None can certainly tell who should be the Author of the Greek version, if Matthew wrote in Hebrew, it being translated into Greek by John the Evangelist, as some; By James, as others; By Luke and Paul, as others: by Mark, as others are of opinion. Some y think that he wrote not in pure Hebrew, but in Syriack, being the Dialect then most commonly used; and this opinion tends to destroy the credit and authority of Mathews Gospel in Greek.

Sect. IV. Occasion and Scope.

Matthew, having preached the Gospel of Christ to the Hebrews, and being to depart from them to preach the Gospel to other people, upon this Occasion, as z Ecclesiastical Writers observe) he committed his Gospel to writing, that so he might supply and compensate his absence from them, by his written Gospel left with them? whereby be helped the memory of his hearers, preached to them though absent, and preacheth yet to all after ages, though himself be dead.

Scope, To evidence to all, but especially to the believing Hebrews, (with whom he had preached) that this Jesus Christ was the true Messiah, the true promised seed of a David and Abraham, in whom all the Nations of the world should be blessed.

Sect. V. Principal Parts.

This Gospel History by Matthew principally describes Christ's Birth, Life, & Death.

CHRIST BIRTH, where are laid down I His Pedigree, 2 The Manner of his Birth, 3 His Education in Infancy. I.

I. Christs Pedigree according the flesh drawn down from David and Abraham of whom he descended. This Pedigree contains, 1. The Title or Inscription of it, Ch. I. ver. 1. 2. The Genealogy it self, or the several Generations in it, v. 2. to 17. 3. The summary Recapitulation or Enumeration of those Generations. ver. 17. Chap. I.

II. The manner of Christ Birth, described I. By the Antecedents, viz. 1 His Conception by the holy Ghost during his Mothers Espousals, ver. 18. 2. Hereupon Joseph minding to put her away privily, suspecting her for fornication, ver. 19. 3. An Angel's satisfying of Joseph in a dream, about Maries conception, that he might take her to wife, promising Christs Birth, forenaming him Jesus, and interpreting that name, v. 20, 21. 4. The end of all this, that Scripture-Prophecies might be fulfilled, ver. 22. 23. 5. Joseph's obedience in taking his Wife, and his continency till Christ's Birth, ver. 24, 25. II. By the Circumstances or Circumstances, accompanying Christ's Birth, viz. 1. Place where Christ was born, in Bethlehem. 2. Time when, in Herods days, Ch. II. ver. 1. III. By the Consequents following his Birth, viz. 1. The wise-mens coming from the East to Jerusalem, to worship Christ, having seen his Star, ver. 1, 2. 2. The trouble of Herod and Jerusalem, hereupon, ver. 3. 3. Herods finding out by consulting with the chief Priests and Scribes, that Christ should be born in Bethlehem, ver. 4, 5, 6. 4. Herods sending the wise-men to Bethlehem, to find out Christ (pretending himself to worship him) who were conducted to Christ by the Starre, ver. 7. to 11. 5. The Wise-men's worshipping Christ, and giving presents to him, v. 11. 6. The wise-men's departing into their own Countrey, (being warned of God,) not returning to Herod, ver. 12. Chap. 2.

III. Christs Education in his Infancy, 1. in Egypt, till Herods death, whither his Parents fled with him at Gods appointment, for fear of King Herod, that so the Scripture might be fulfilled, ver. 13, 14, 15. This is amplified by Herods slaying all the Children in Bethlehem, and thereabouts, from two years old and under, that so he might murther Christ, ver. 16, 17, 18. II. In Nazareth ver. 19. to the end. II.

CHRISTS LIFE, viz. not his Private but his Publique life; which is principally described by his publick Ministry or Prophetick Office; Touching Christs Prophetick Office note 1. The Preparation to it, 2. The Execution of it.

I. The preparation to Christs Prophetick Office, whereby I. The people are prepared to be Christs hearers, viz. By the Ministry of John Baptist, (as Christs Harbinger) described 1. By the time and place of his Ministry, Ch. III. ver. 1. 2. By the substance of his Doctrine, ver. 2. Amplified by the Prophets testimony thereof ver. 3. 3. By his food and rayment, ver. 4. 4. By the effect of his Ministry upon them of Jerusalem and Judæa, whom he baptized, instructing the Scribes and Pharisees unto repentance, to whom he commends Jesus Christ, as far surpassing himself both Person and Office, ver. 5. to 13. II. Christ himself is prepared for his publick Ministry, 1. By being baptized of John Baptist, ver. 13, 14, 15, 16. 2. By the Spirits resting upon him in form of a Dove, ver. 16. 3. By his Fathers Testimony of him from Heaven, v. 17. 4. By his temptation, the Devil tempting him in the wilderness, to distrust Providence; On the pinacle of the Temple, to murther himself; On the Mountain to worship the Devil in Person; in all Chap. 3.

which Christ foiled the Devil, obtaining a signal victory, Chap. IV. 1. to 12.

Chap. 4.

II. The execution of his Prophetick Office. Here are declared

I. His beginning of his publick Ministry in Galilee, where consider 1. When he preached there, ver. 12, 13. 2 Why, viz. That the Prophecy might be fulfilled, ver. 14, 15, 16. 3. What was his doctrine ver. 17. 4. How there he called Peter and Andrew, James and John, ver. 18. to 23. 5. How he confirmed his Doctrine with miracles, ver. 23, 24. 6. How people resorted to him v. 25.

II. His Sermon on the Mount, where consider 1. The Occasion. 2. The Substance. 3. The Effect of it.

Chap. 5.

1. The Occasion, Ch. V. ver. 1.

2. The Substance of the Sermon it self, wherein Christ I. Comforts all the godly, and particularly his new called Disciples, against all the miseries and persecutions in this life, with blessedness promised them, both in this and the life to come, ver. 2. to 13. II. Exhorts his Disciples by Arguments set out in divers similitudes, to preach pure Doctrine and live holy lives, ver. 13 to 17.

III. Declares 1. The immutability of the Law, which the Gospel destroyes not, but establisheth, ver. 17, 18, 19. 2. The true sence and meaning of the Law, that it requires not only external and corporal observance in the outward man, (as the Scribes and Pharisees corruptly taught,) but also and especially the internal and spiritual obedience of the heart. And this is done, Partly More generally, ver. 20. Partly More specially, in expounding some particular Laws, viz. 1 The sixth Commandment touching murther, ver. 21. to 27. 2 The seventh Commandment touching Adultery, ver. 27. to 33. 3 The third Commandment touching swearing, ver. 33. to 38. 4 The Law of Retaliation, ver. 38. to 43. 5. The Law of loving our Neighbour, ver. 43. to the end of the chapter.

IV. Warns against the hypocritical Pharisees corruptions in divers Religious duties; directing withal how they ought to be managed, viz. Almes, Prayer and Fasting. 1. Almes to be given, not with publick ostentation, but secretly, Ch. VI. 1. to 5. 2. Prayer to be made, not with open Ostentation, but private Devotion, not with vain repetitions, but according to the b Lords own Directory or Pattern of Prayer, ver 5. to 16. 3. Fasting to be performed, not with hypocritical shews, but with sincerity, ver. 16, 17, 18.

Chap. 6.

b See the LORDS Prayer, Expounded in the close of this Sect.

V. Directs his hearers and us in them, 1. How to lay up treasures, not in Earth, but in Heaven, ver. 19. 20, 21. 2. How to guide themselves and actions by the c eye of the mind, enlightned, not darkned, ver. 22, 23. 3 To avoid covetous asking for food and rayment, (dissuaded by many Arguments) and primarily to seek Gods Kingdome, and his Righteousnes Jesus Christ, ver. 24. to the end of the chapter.

Chap. 7.

4 To avoid censorious perverse hypocritical reproofs, Ch. VII. 1. to 6. 5 To forbear propounding holy things and Pearls to Contemners and Persecutors, ver. 6. 6 To ask necessary good things of God ver. 7. to 12. 7. To observe that general golden Rule of Justice, To do to others, as we would they should do to us, ver. 12. 7. To enter the strait Gate of life with few, rather than the wide gate of destruction with many, ver. 13. 14. 8. To avoid false Prophets, though in sheeps-skins, and to detect them by their fruits, verse 15. to 21. 9. To adde true piety to a Christian Profession, verse 21, 22, 23. 10. Finally, To do, as well as hear his words, v. 24. to 28.

3. The Effect of his Sermon, viz. The peoples astonishment and the Reason thereof, verse. 28. 29.

III. His Confirmation of his Doctrine by Miracles, viz.

Chap. 8.

1. Cleansing a Leper with his touch, Ch. VIII. 1. to 5 2. Curing the Centurions servant of the Palsie, by his word, ver. 5. to 14. 3. Healing Peters mother in law of a Fever, by touching her hand, ver. 14. to 18. 4. (Having rejected a Scribe that would have followed him, ver. 18, 19, 20. And commanding a Disciple presently to follow him, that made some delay, ver. 21, 22. as he was going to ship:) He calmed the winds and waves with his word, ver. 23. to 28. 5. Casting Devils out of two men possessed in the country of the Gergesens, permitting the devils, to go into an herd of swine, ver. 28. to the end of the chapter. 6. Healing a Palsie-man with his word, that he presently carried his bed, Ch. IX. 1. to 9. [Here among his miracles are inserted 1 His calling of Matthew, ver. 9. to 14. 2 His excusing of his Disciples, for not fasting as Johns Disciples did, they being but as old garments and old bottles, too weak for such austere employments, ver. 14. to 18.] 7. Stanching the womans issue of blood upon her touching the hemme of his garment. 8. Raising to life the Rulers daughter, ver. 18. to 27. 9. Restoring to two blind men their sight by his word, ver. 27. to 32. 10. Casting out a dumb Devil, ver. 32, 33, 34. This Paragraph is closed up with a general condemnation of Christs Doctrine taught, and miracles wrought round about, ver. 35. Chap. 9.

IV. His sending his 12. disciples to preach to the house of Israel. Here are described, 1. The Occasion of it, viz. The greatness of the harvest, and fewness of the labourers, ver. 36, 37, 38. 2. The power of miracles wherewith they were furnished, Ch. X. 1. 3. The names of the 12 Apostles, ver. 2. to. 5. 4. Christs instructions to them for the right managing of their office, ver. 5. to 16. 5. The consolations wherewith he arms them against all troubles and persecutions, v. 16. to 40. 6. Christs Promises to such as receive them, v. 40, 41, 42. Chap. 10.

V. His preaching and acts in their Cities after he had sent forth his twelve Apostles into Judea, Chap. XI. ver. 1. Many particulars whereof are mentioned, viz. Chap. 11.

1. He answers John Baptists Disciples question about himself, ver. 2. to 7.

2. He preacheth to the Multitudes, (as Johns Disciples departed:) 1 Commending John Baptist and declaring him to be Elias that was to come, ver. 7. to 16. 2. Complaining of the Peoples perverseness, against both John Baptist and himself, ver. 16. to 20. 3. Upbraiding Chorazin, Bethsaida and Capernaum for their impenitency, ver. 20. to 25. 4. Comforting himself and his faithful Disciples against the scandal of so great blindness, ver. 25, 26, 27. 5. And sweetly inviting all labouring and heavy laden sinners to come to him, take his yoke and imitate him, with promise of Soul's rest, verse 28, 29, 30.

3. He vindicates his Apostles Act of plucking the ears of Corne and eating them on the Sabbath, against the Pharisees; proving it lawful, 1. By Scripture-examples, Ch. XII. 1. to 6. 2. By reason, ver. 6, 7, 8. 3. By miraculous restoring of a mans withered hand on the Sabbath-day, ver. 9. to 14. This is amplified, 1 By the Pharisees consultation hereupon to destroy him, ver. 14. 2 By Christs withdrawing thence, and charging them that he healed to conceal him; that so the Prophecy might be fulfilled, v. 15. to 22. Chap. 12.

4. He heals one possessed with a devil blind and dumb, ver. 22. Consequents whereupon were, I. The Peoples amazement, ver. 23. II. The Pharisees blasphemy, saying, that he cast out devils through Beelzebub. ver. 24. Whereupon Christ 1 Confutes their calumny, ver. 25. to 31. 2 Pronounces the unpardonableness of that their Blasphemy against the Holy Ghost, ver. 31, 32. 3 Declares that evil hearts are the fountain of evil words, which shall at last judge men, ver. 33. to 38.

5. He refuseth to gratifie the Scribes and Pharisees with any sign, save that of the Prophet Jonas. Threatning them, 1. With condemnation, 2. With final blinding and obduration, ver. 38. to. 46.

6. He declareth the doers of his fathers will to be dearer to him as his Brother, Sister and Mother, v. 46. to the end of the chap.

Chap. 13. 3. He preacheth, I. Out of a ship to the people on the shore in Parables, Chap. XIII. 1, 2, 3. These Parables were 1. Of the sower, the seed and four grounds, ver. 3. to 10. which is amplified Partly by his reasons why he preached in Parables, ver. 10. to 18. Partly by his interpretation of the Parable, ver. 18. to 24. 2. Of the good seed and tares, ver. 24. to 31. 3. Of the grain of mustard seed, ver. 31, 32. 4. Of Heaven, ver. 33. All this that the Scripture might be fulfilled, ver. 24, 35. II. To his Disciples, the multitude being sent away, 1. Expounding the Parable of the Tares ver. 36. to 44. II. Uttering more Parables to them, viz. 1 Of the treasure hid in the field, ver. 44. 2 Of the Pearl, ver. 45, 46. 3 Of a Net; expounded, ver. 47. to 51. III. Concluding his Sermons, with an exhortation of his Disciples, faithfully to dispense heavenly mysteries, new and old, &c. ver. 51, 52.

IV. His teaching and all is in his own Country, (viz. Galilee, compare Mat. 13. 53, 54. and 15. 29. with 17. 22. and 19. 1.) ver. 53, 54. where

1. His Country-men were offended at him, knowing his kindred, ver. 54. to the end.

Chap. 14. 2. Herod supposed him to be John Baptist, whom he had beheaded, risen from the dead, Ch. XIV. 1, 2. This is amplified by a Narration, 1. Of the cause of Johns beheading, ver. 3. to 13. 2. Of Christs departure thence upon the occasion, ver. 13.

3. He having healed their sick, feeds five thousand, besides women and children, with five loaves and two fishes, ver. 14. to 22.

4. He walks on the Sea to his Disciples, &c. ver. 22, to 34.

5. He heals in Genesaret all that touched his garments, v. 34, 35, 36.

Chap. 15. 6. He confutes the Scribes and Pharisees blaming his Disciples for eating with unwashn hands, Chap. XV. 1, 2. 1. Reproving them sharply for transgressing Gods Commandments by their traditions, ver. 3 to 10. 2. Instructing the People and his Disciples, that man is not defiled by meat from without, but by heart-corruptions, from within, verse 10. to 21.

7. He dispossesseth the daughter of the Canaanitish woman, ver. 21. to 29.

8. He healeth many diseased, ver. 29. to 32.

9 He feedeth four thousand besides women and children with seven loaves and a few little fishes, ver. 32. to the end.

Chap. 16. 10. He refuses to give the Pharisees and Sadducees any Sign, but that of Jonas, Chap. XVI. 1. to 5.

11. He warneth his Disciples of the leaven of the doctrine of the Pharisees and Sadducees, vers. 5. to 13.

12. He upon Peters confession of him, promiseth the sure building of his Church on that Rock, and the Keyes of the Kingdome of Heaven to Peter, ver. 13. to 21.

13. He, begins to foretell his death at Hierusalem to his Disciples, ver. 21. 1. Sharply reproving Peter for dissuading him from it, ver. 22, 23. 2. Warning all his Disciples to take up their crosse and follow him, ver. 24. to 28. 3. Promising to his Apostles, that they should, before they die, see Christ come in his Kingdome, viz. after his death, ver. 28.

Chap. 17. 14. He is gloriously Transfigured on an high mountain before Peter, James, and John, to encourage both himself and his Disciples against his Passion, Ch. XVII. 1. to 9.

15. He declares John Baptist, to be the promised Elias, ver. 9. to 14.

16. He heals the lunatick which his Disciples could not cure, ver. 14. to 22.

17. He again foretels his Passion and Resurrection, ver. 22, 23.

18. He payes Tribute for himself and Peter, who takes the money out of a fishes mouth, ver. 24. to the end of the chap.

Chap. 18. 19. He teaches his Disciples, (asking him who is greatest in the Kingdom of Heaven,) 1. To be humble and meek inoffensive to his little ones, Chap. XVIII. 1. to 11. 2. How to deal with a trespassing or offending brother, that he might be gained, ver. 15. to 20. 3. How often we should forgive an offending brother, ver. 21, &c. further clearing this by the Parable of a King, who had forgiven his Servant ten thousand Talents, but after punished him for his not remitting to his fellow servant his one hundred pence; shewing we should pity and pardon one another much, seeing God pities and pardons us farre more, ver. 23, to the end of the chap.

III. CHRISTS DEATH is set forth, 1. By the Antecedents, 2. The Manner, 3. The Consequents of it.

Chap. 19. 1. The Antecedents, or things going before his death, were 1. In his journy from Galilee to Jerusalem, 2. At Jerusalem.

1. In his journy from Galilee to Jerusalem, through Judea, where

1. He heals the diseased. Ch. XIX. 1, 2.

2. He answers the Pharisees touching the case of Divorce, v. 3. to 10. And withal instructeth his Disciples what Persons have need of marriage, ver. 10. 11, 12.

3. He puts his hands upon little children, as belonging to the Kingdome of Heaven, ver. 13, 14, 15.

He teacheth the young man how to attain to eternal life, who upon his Doctrine departed from him very sorrowful, ver. 16. to 23. whereupon 1. The Proceedings of Christ in the last and universal judgement, where are pathetically described, 1 The Judge, Christ, ver. 31. 2 The Parties to be judged; All Nations, ver. 32. 3. The manner of his Proceeding, in severing Sheep from Goats, and pronouncing of sentence, v. 32. to 46. 4. The event or excution of his sentence, ver. 46.

II. The manner of Christ's death, is described 1. By the more immediate Harbingers or Preparatories to it. 2. By the judicial progresse about it. 3. By the consummation of it. And in these Christ exerciseth his Priestly Office.

I. The more immediate Harbingers of Christ's death,

1. His own Prediction of his death near at hand,
Chap. 26. Chap. XXVI. 1, 2.

2, The Conspiracy of the chief Priests, Scribes and Elders against his life, v. 3, 4, 5.

3. The womans pouring an alablaster-box of very precious ointment on his head, anoipting him for his burial, v. 6. to 14.

4. Judas his covenanting with the chief Priests for thirty pieces, to betray him, ver. 14, 15, 16.

5, Christs eating his last Passeover with his twelve Apostles, ver. 17. to 21. At which 1. He intimateth that one of them should betray him; and which of them, ver. 21. to 26. 2. He instituteth the Lords Supper, ver. 26. to 30. 3. They conclude the whole solemnity with singing an Hymne, ver. 30.

6. His warning of his Disciples, how they all that night should be offended because of him, and how Peter should thrice deny him, v. 30. to 36.

7. His Prayer and Agony in the garden of Gethsemane, ver. 36. to 47.

8. Judas his betraying of him in the garden with a Kisse, ver. 47. to 57.

II. The Judicial Progresse about Christs Death, both in their Ecclesiastical and Civil Consistory.

1. In their Ecclesiastical Court, at Caiaphas the High-Priests Palace, where consider 1. The many injuries he suffered, ver. 57. to 69. 2. Peters threefold denial of him, for which he wept bitterly, ver. 69 to the end. 3. The chief Priests and Elders delivering of him bound to Pilate Ch. XXVII. 1, 2. These Chap. 27.
proceedings are amplified by the dreadful event they had upon Judas that betrayed Christ, who troubled in Conscience, brought again the 30 Pieces, confesses his sin, casts down the pieces of silver, and hangs himself; with which Pieces the Potters field was brought to bury stranger in. ver. 3. to 11.

2. In their Civil Court, before Pilate their Governor where 1. Christ confesieth himself to be King of the Jews, v. 11. 2. Christ answers not to his accusations, v. 12. to 15. 3. Pilate, admonished of his wife to have nothing to do with him, asks the people whether he should (according to their custome) release them Barabbas or Jesus, v. 15. to 24. 4. Pilate at the instant cry of the multitude, against his own conscience, releaseth Barabbas, and scourgeth Jesus, delivering him to be crucified, ver. 24, 25, 26.

III. The Consummation of Christs death, after his condemnation, where note the things that befell him.

1. In the Common Hall, by the Soldiers many ways miserably abusing him, ver. 27. to 32.

2. In the way to the Place of Execution, Simon is compelled to bear his Crosse after him, ver. 32.

3. In Golgotha, the place of execution; where 1. They gave him vinegar and gall to drink, v. 33, 34. 2. They crucifie him, v. 35. 3. They part his garments, casting lots. v. 35. 4. They watch him. v. 36. 5. They set his accusation over his head, v. 37. 6. They crucifie two Thieves with him, one on each hand, v. 38. 7. Passers by, chief Priests, Scribes and Elders, and the Thieves mock him v. 39. to 45. 8. Darkness was over all the land from the sixth to the ninth hour, v. 45. 9. Christ cries and complains to God in his Desertion, v. 46. 10. One reacheth him vinegar in a spunge to drink, v 47, 48, 49. 11. Jesus Cryes again, and yields up the Ghost, ver. 50.

III. The Consequents of his Death, viz.

1. Divers miracles upon the dead Creatures, by which the Centurion was convinced that Christ was the Son of God, As the Vaile of the Temple rent, &c v. 51. to 57.

2. His burial by Joseph of Arimathea, v, 57. to 62.

3. The sealing and watching of his Sepulchre by the Jewes, ver. 62. to the end.

4. His resurrection from the dead, 1. Declared by an Angel to Mary Magdalene and the other Mary, Ch. XXVIII. 1. to 9. 2. Confirmed to these women by Chap. 28.
Christs own appearing to them, ver. 9, 10. (After which, tidings of his Resurrection, coming to the chief Priests, they with the Elders largely bribed the Soldiers to say, That his Disciples by night stole him away while they slept, v. 11. to 16. 3. Ratified, to his Disciples by his appearing to them in Galilee, v. 16. 17. where Jesus according to his Mediatory Authority, gives Commission to his Disciples to dispense the word and Sacraments to all Nations; promising his daily Presence with them to the end of the World. Amen. ver. 18, 19, 20.

PRayer is an d offering up of our e desires to God in the Name f of Christ, g according to his will, for blessings upon our selves h or others with i Confession of sins, and k thankful acknowledgment of his mercies.

All these are in this Prayer of Prayers, usually called The LORDS Prayer; because the Lord Christ himself immediately framed it, and taught it to his Disciples, Partly as a Rule of Prayer, according to which all their Prayers were to be made, and the errours of their Prayers corrected, After this manner pray ye. Partly as a Forme of Prayer, which they might use in praying, m When you pray, say, &c.

Principal Parts in this Prayer are 1. The Preface 2. The Substance of the Prayer. 3. The Conclusion.

I.

The Preface, describing God to whom we pray. 1. By his dear Relation to us. Our Father, therefore most n willing to succour us or others, with or for whom we pray. 2. By his greatness and Majesty in himself. Which art in Heaven. Therefore most o able to hear and help all his Children: and most justly to be p reverenced by them.

The Substance of the Prayer, which is 1. Petitory. 2. Gratulatory.

I Petitory, containing six Petitions, wherein we ask things concerning 1. God. 2. Our selves.

In Prayer we are to mind and seek the things of God, before, and more than our own.

I. Concerning God, we petition three things,

That he will over-power and order all things for his own r glory. 2. That he would enable us and all his children to s glorifie him in all things.] Hallowed be thy Name.

2. That his Kingdome may come. [i. e. 1. That his t Kingdome of Power may be manifested in the destruction of Satan, and all Gods enemies. 2. That his u Kingdome of Grace may be advanced, both in our selves and in all belonging to the Election of grace. 3. That the x Kingdome of Glory may be hastned, that the Elects happiness may be y full, Christ may z resign up the Kingdom to the Father, and God may be all in all. Thy Kingdome come.

3. That his will may be done in earth as it is in heaven [i.e. That we, and all the Saints on earth, may 1 Purely, 2 Cheerfully, 3 Speedily, 4 Universally, a Constantly; Keep, Do and Submit to his a will, as b Angels and glorified Saints do in heaven.] Thy will be done on earth as it is in heaven.

II. Concerning our selves, we petition also three things, viz.

1. That all temporal blessings may be bestowed upon us, ours, and his. Give us this day our daily bread [Herein 1. We acknowledge God the c Author and disposer of all these things. 2 We desire them of him as a meer d gift of his grace; [Give us.] 3. We beg only e competent necessaries: [daily bread] not superfluities. 4. We pray only for f present necessaries, [this day,] and that we may not sinfully cark for future Provisions, because we pray for them only for the present day, and that every day.]

2. That all our sins may be pardoned. And forgive us our debts as we forgive our debtors. Here I. we confess, 1. That we g have sins; 2. That those sins are h debts, to which, without Christs satisfaction, Gods eternal judgment i is due. 3. That our selves cannot k satisfie for them. II. We pray, that in Christ these debts may be l pardoned, Freely, Fully, Daily. And we had need to pray daily for pardon, for we sin m daily: our n faith is but weak, and our n assurance of pardon but imperfect. III. We profess we ought, and do forgive our debtors freely, fully and daily, their o wrongs, or injuries to us, (though not alwayes the p damage,) whence we confirm our q hope that God doth and will forgive us.

MARK.

Sect. I. Name and Penman.

THE GOSPEL ACCORDING TO MARK. So denominated from Mark the Penman of it,

MARK, Some derive from the Hebr. מרק Marak i. e. He hath poliſhed, &c. As Hebrews. Others a rather take it to be a Latine name, (made Denizon in the Greek tongue,) and derived from the moneth of March, becauſe Mark was born in that moneth, it being uſual ſo to denominate men that were born in March. He was alſo called b John, viz. John Mark.

His father ſeems not to be mentioned in Scripture. His mother was that c Mary, in whoſe houſe they were praying for Peter, when Peter (brought out of Priſon by the Angel) came and knockt at the door. He was d Couſin to Barnabas; his Siſters ſon. Though he was not an Apoſtle, yet he was (as e Tertullian ſaith) an Apoſtolical man. Some f think he was one of the ſeventy diſciples; if ſo, he both heard and ſaw Chriſt. However, he was a great lover of the Apoſtles, the g follower of Paul and Barnabas; and h they had him to their Miniſter; afterwards when there aroſe a ſharp controverſie betwixt Paul and Barnabas about Mark, (who was with them at that famous Synod at Jeruſalem; Paul and Barnabas departed aſunder, and i Barnabas took Mark along with him to Cyprus. Paul ſaith elſewhere of him, k Take Mark and bring him with thee, for he is profitable to me for the Miniſtry. And he was with Paul when he was in priſon at Rome, under Nero; for he ſends his Salutation to l Philemon. As alſo to the Church at Coloſſe, ſaying, m Ariſtarchus my fellow-priſoner ſaluteth you, and Marcus Siſters ſon to Barnabas, (touching whom ye received Commandments, if he come unto you receive him.)

And after this (if there were not two Marks, which ſome n think there was,) Mark lived with Peter, who calls him o Marcus my ſon, either becauſe Mark was converted by Peters Miniſtry, or rather becauſe he was Peters companion and coadjutor in the Goſpel, as an Evangeliſt, (an extraordinary Officer; ſome p being Apoſtles, ſome Prophets, ſome Evangeliſts; which Evangeliſts were employed by the Apoſtles to perfect and confirm the Churches which the Apoſtles had planted,) whom Peter made uſe of in the places where he had firſt planted the Goſpel, for the farther confirming and perfecting of the Saints. Irenæus ſaith thus of him, q Mark the diſciple and Interpreter of Peter, writing thoſe things which were preached of Peter, delivered them to us. Whereupon Euſebius r intimates, that Mark had his Goſpel from Peter, whoſe it is reported to be. Probably Peter might dictate this Goſpel to Mark as a ſummary Abridgement of that doctrine which he was to preach to thoſe Churches whither Peter ſent him. He is ſaid firſt, to go into Egypt, and to have preached there the Goſpel which he had written; and to the Churches of Alexandria, and that ſuch a multitude of men and women, embracing the faith at his firſt coming, was won by his grave, holy, and ſevere example of living; That Philo himſelf thought it worth his labour to deſcribe in his writing, their ſtudies, exerciſes, manners, frequent meetings, the common

Chap. 1.

[1] Hier. Catal. Script. Eccl. Marc. Tom. 1. Mark the Evangelist, the disciple of Peter, a Levite and Priest by stock, wrote this Gospel in Italy; who taking the beginning of his Gospel from the words of the Prophets, proving John Christs Forerunner by the Testimony of Malachi, i. e. The Angel, signifying the Word was made flesh, from the Word of Isaiah, he begins his Gospel preaching; and findes in the Word of the Voice what in Consonants, that is, the Genealogies of God and mankind had lost. Whence wholly he begins to preach at first from the Perfection of Christs Age: nor labours he about the Birth of the Infant, who speaks of the Perfection of the Son of God. But mentioning the Fast of the legal number, the Repulse of the Devil, the ministery of Angels, he comprehends much in a little: who was the first Bishop of Alexandria, whose work it was to know and dispose all the sayings of the Gospel in it self, and to know the discipline of the Law in it self, and to understand the Divine Nature in the flesh of the Lord. Who sowes after Matthew, who roares as a Lion, who soares as an Eagle, who learns as a man, who sacrificeth as a Priest, who waters as a River, who flourisheth as a field, who is hot as wine: for Christ of whom he speaks, was a man in being born, a Calfe in doing, a Lyon in rising again, an Eagle in ascending. This Mark (as he [2] testifyeth,) died in the eight year of Nero, and was buried at Alexandria, Anianus succeeding him. [3] Nicephorus saith, Mark at last returned to Alexandria, where he dwelt with certain brethren, freely preaching Christ. But there the idol-worshippers suddenly make force against him, binde his feet with ropes, and so in cruel manner drag him through the City. His body therefore being dashed against the stones, was exceeding cut, and thence blood flowed out abundantly. That done, they shut the holy man in prison. There the Lord appeareth to him, declaring to him the future glory. But forthwith plucking him out of Prison, they draw him through the streets most barbarously. And being dragged in this sort, he at last commends his spirit unto God. Master Foxe reports thus of him, Mark the Evangelist, and first Bishop of Alexandria, preached the Gospel in Egypt, and there drawn with ropes unto the fire was burned, and afterwards buried in a place called there, Bucolus under the reign of Trajanus the Emperour. But the time, place, and manner of his death, we must be content to leave in some uncertainty, the infallible Scripture being silent herein.

Sect. II. Time when, and Language wherein Mark wrote his Gospel.

[1] See Sect. 2 on Mat.

As for the Time when Mark wrote his Gospel, (as hath [1] formerly been mentioned,) it was about two years after Matthew had written his, as Writers do conceive, though it be hard positively to determine herein.

Touching the Language wherein he wrote. Some of the Papists, (as [a] Baronius) thinks, That Mark wrote not his Gospel in Greek but in Latine, and that the Original Copy is reserved at Venice, among the Reliques of Saint Mark.

Answ. But as [b] Gerhard hath well observed, 1. The same Arguments whereby it was [c] formerly proved that Matthew wrote not his Gospel in Hebrew, may conclude that Mark wrote not his Gospel in Latin. 2. Neither proves it any Author of credit. Damasus, whom he cites, saith only the contrary to him. 3. The Copy pretended to be reserved at Venice, we leave among their Romish Relikes, wherewith they delude the simple. 4. Bellarmine [d] himself (who thinks that Mark wrote his Gospel in Latine at Rome, yet) ingenuously confesseth, That it was turned into Greek by Mark himself ——and at last concludes, Therefore the whole Greek Edition of the New Testament hath the Apostles or Evangelists Author thereof. Let us therefore with the whole stream of ancient and modern Orthodox Authors, eminent for Piety, Learning and Fidelity, receive and account only the Greek Gospel of Mark Authentick; especially when adversaries themselves so far subscribe thereunto.

Sect. III. Occasion and Scope.

The request of some brethren at Rome, is thought to be the Occasion of Marks writing this Gospel. Hierome thus declares it; [e] Mark the disciple and Interpreter of Peter, being intreated of the Brethren at Rome, according to what he had heard Peter relate, he wrote a short Gospel, which when Peter had heard he approved, and by his Authority published it to the Churches to be read. As Clement writes, lib. 6. Hypotyposes. The same for substance also is reported by divers [f] Ancient Writers.

Scope. As of Matthew. To evidence That Jesus is the Christ, the Promised Messiah: And to describe this Jesus Christ both in his life and death, in whom alone sinners are to believe for Salvation. Now as Matthew before had done this more copiously, So Mark here doth it more compendiously; noting also the series and order of the History; and yet in some things as in Christs Apparition after his Resurrection, &c. Mark is more full then Matthew.

Sect. IV. Principal Parts.

In Mark's Gospel, An Historical narration of Christs life (Chap. 1. to Chap. 10.) and Death (Ch. 10. 1. to the end) is orderly and compendiously laid down; and therein how he discharged his Prophetical, Priestly, and Kingly office.

CHRISTS LIFE (viz. his Publick, not his Private Life) is described; Partly by the Preparation to; Partly by the Execution of his publick Ministry.

I. Preparation to his Publick Ministry, contains I. The Preparation of hearers for Christ by the Ministry of John Baptist his Harbinger and forerunner, which is set forth. 1. By Title or preface to it, and the whole History, The beginning of the Gospel of Jesus Christ the Son of God, Ch. 1. ver. 1. 2. By the Prophetical Prediction of it, ver. 2, 3. 3. By his Execution of it, verse 4. 5. 4. By his singular habit and dyet, ver. 6. 5. By his singular testimony to Christ, ver. 7, 8.

II. The Preparation of Christ himself for Preaching to his hearers, which was done. 1. By his Baptisme of John, ver. 9. 2. By the Fathers sending the Spirit and giving Testimony to him, whereby he was both qualified, and approved for his Office, ver. 10, 11. 3. By the Spirit's driving him into the Wilderness to be tempted of Satan, that he might vanquish him by the Word, ver 12, 13. II. Execution of Christs publick Ministry in his Oracles he preached, Acts and Mira-

Miracles he wrought, is declared and described, as 1. Before his Ordination of his twelve Apostles. 2. From their Ordination till their sub-Mission, or sending forth. 3. At, and after their Mission.

I. Before Christs Ordination of his twelve Apostles, we have divers particulars of Christs publick Ministry; as his, 1. Preaching in Galilee, ver. 14, 15. 2. Calling Simon and Andrew, James and John, ver. 16. to 21. 3. Teaching in the Synagogue at Capernaum on the Sabbath day, ver. 21, 22. 4. Dispossessing a man of an unclean Spirit in the Synagogue, ver. 23. to 29. 5. Curing Simons wives Mother of a feaver, ver. 29. to 32. 6. Healing many Diseases, and casting out many Devils, ver. 32, 33, 34. 7. Preaching after he had prayed in a private place, in the Synagogues throughout all Galilee, ver. 35. to 40. 8. Cleansing the Leper, ver. 40. to the end. 9. Curing one sick of the Palsie, let down to him through Chap.2. the roof of the house, Chap. II. 1. to 13. 10. Calling Levi. i. e. Matthew sitting at the receipt of custome, ver. 13. to 18. 11. Apology for his Disciples not fasting as Johns did, ver. 18. to 23. 12. Justification of his Disciples act of rubbing ears of corn on the Sabbath, and eating them, ver. 23. to the end. 13. Restoring the mans hand on the Sabbath, that Chap.3. was withered, Chap. III. 1. to 6. Amplified by the consequents hereupon. viz. 1. The Pharisees and Herodians conspiracy to kill him, ver. 6. 2. His withdrawing to Sea, ver. 7. 3. The great concourse of People flocking after him for healing, vers. 7. to 13.

II. From his Ordaining of his twelve Apostles till his sending of them forth; divers other particulars of his publick Ministry are recorded; As his

1. Ordaining twelve Apostles; named, ver. 13. to 20. Amplified, 1. By the flocking of the multitude after him, v. 23. 2. By the ill construction his friends made thereof, v. 21.

2. Convincing the Scribes of their unpardonable Blasphemy against the Holy Ghost, because they challenged maliciously to cast out Devils through Beelzebub, v. 22. to 31.

3. Declaring the doers of his Fathers will, to be his Brother, Sister and Mother, verse 31. to the end.

4. Sermon on the Sea-side out of a ship, instructing the people in divers Parables, Ch. IV. 1. 2. viz.
Chap.4. 1. Of the Sower, propounded, ver. 3. to 10. Expounded to his Disciples, ver. 10. to 21. 2. Of a Candle not under a Bushel or Bed, but on a Candlestick; thereby teaching the Disciples to impart their others, ver. 21. to 26. 3. Of Seed growing up insensibly, ver. 26. to 30. 4. Of a Grain of Mustard-seed, ver. 30, 31, 32. with divers like Parables, expounding all privately to his Disciples, verse 33, 34.

5. Calming of the Tempest at Sea, v. 35. to the end of the chap.

6. Dispossessing a man of a Legion of Devils permitting them to go into the heard of Swine, Chap.
Chap.5. V. 1. to 21.

7. Staunching the womens issue of blood, at her touch of his Garments, as he was going to heal Jairus his daughter, v. 21. to 35.

8. Raising from the dead Jairus his daughter, v. 35 to the end.

9. Preaching in his own Country, where he was Chap.6. despised, &c. Ch. VI. 1. to 7.

III. At, and after his Mission or sending forth of his twelve Apostles; other acts of his publick ministery are declared, As;

1 His sending forth of his twelve Disciples to preach and work Miracles, furnishing them with power and instructions, v. 7. to 13. This is amplified; 1. By the Apostles execution of their Commission with success. v. 13. 14. 2. By the great fame of Jesus, whom Herod supposed to be John Baptist risen from the dead, whom he had beheaded, whereupon, the whole story of Johns beheading is here as in a parenthesis inserted, vers. 15. to 30. 3. By the Apostles return to Christ with reports of their acts, ver. 30.

2. His feeding 5000 with 5 loaves and 2 fishes, ver. 30. to 45.

3. His walking on the Sea, v. 45. to 53.

4. His coming to Genesareth, and healing their sick, v. 53. to the end.

5. His arguing against the Pharisees Traditions, where 1. The occasion hereof is noted, viz. the Pharisees blaming the Disciples for eating with unwashen hands, Chap. VII. v. 1, 2. 2. Pharisees and Jews Traditions are described, v. 3. to 6. 3. Their hypocrisie and laying aside of Gods Commandements by their Traditions, v. 6. to 14. 4. He instructeth the people, and after his Disciples, what things defile a man, v. 14. to 24. Chap.7.

6. His dispossessing of the daughter of the Syrophenician woman, v. 24. to 31.

7. His curing the deaf man that had an impediment in his speech, v. 31. to the end.

8. His miraculous feeding of 4000 with 7 loaves and a few fishes, Ch. VIII. 1. to 10. Chap.8.

9. His refusing to give the Pharisees a sign, ver. 10 to 14.

10. His warning his Disciples of the leaven of the Pharisees, and of Herod, ver. 14. to 22.

11. His recovering of sight to a blind man, spitting on his eyes, &c. v. 22. to 27.

12. His prediction of his own death and resurrection to his Disciples confessing him to be the Christ, ver. 27. to 32. Amplified. 1 By Peters rebuking him for that prediction, ver. 32. 2 By Christs sharp reproof of Peter for it, ver. 33. 3 By his teaching the people and his Disciples, to deny themselves, and take up their Crosse for Christ, ver. 34. to the end. 4 By promising to some standing there, a sight of his Kingdome coming with power, before they dye, [which was partly fulfilled by the effusion of the Spirit on the day of Pentecost, Acts 2.] Chap. IX. Chap.9.
ver 1.

13. His Transfiguration on the Mount, before Peter James and John, ver. 2. to 11.

14. His instructing of his Disciples touching the coming of Elias, v. 11. to 14.

15. His Casting out their Dumb and Deaf spirit which his Disciples could not cast out, ver. 14. to 30.

16. His prediction again of his Death and Resurrection, v. 30. 31. 32.

17. His teaching of his Disciples. 1 To be humble, by the example of little children, ver. 33. to 38. 2 Not to prohibit any from doing miracles in his Name, ver. 38. to 41. 3 How dear his Disciples were to him, ver. 41. 4 What care should be had not to offend the little ones that believe in him, v. 42. 5. How they should resist those corruptions, that are occasioned by, or acted in, or as dear as their hand foot or eye, v. 42. to 49. 6. How every one, that he may be a fit Sacrifice to God, must be seasoned with fire and salt, v. 49. 7. How the Disciples, and in them the Ministers of the Gospel, are to have salt in themselves, and peace one with another, ver. 50.

CHRISTS DEATH is described, 1 By the antecedents. 2 By the manner. 3 By the consequents thereof.

I. The Antecedents of Christs Death, may be considered, as 1 Before, 2 At, 3 After his coming to Jerusalem.

I. Before Christs coming to Jerusalem, in his journey thither, He I. Argueth against the Pharisees touching Divorce, Ch. X. 1. to 13. II. Gives leave Chap.10. to little children to be brought to him, and blesseth them, v. 13, to 17. III. Instructeth the young man, how to attain eternal life, ver. 17. to 22. which is amplified, 1 By his sad departure thereupon from Christ, ver. 22 2 By Christs inference hence; how hard it is for rich men to be saved, vers. 23. to 28.

3 By

2. By Christs discourse to them that forbade all for him, as the Apostle did, v. 38. to 42. IV. Foretels again his death and resurrection at Jerusalem, ver. 32, 33, 34. V. Iames and John, desirous to be one at his right hand, the other at his left in his glory, rather to prepare for Crosses and afflictions with him; and the Apostles zeal to seek preheminence, but to serve one another, ver. 35. to 45. VI. Gives sight to blind Bartimeus, ver. 46. to the end.

Chap. 11. II. At Christs entring to Jerusalem, 1. He rides into the City upon a Colt, with the peoples acclamations, and Hosanna's. Ch. XI. 1. to 11. 2. He views the Temple, and then departs to Bethanie, ver. 11.

III. After Christs coming to Jerusalem, He

1. Curseth the fruitless fig-tree going from Bethanie to Jerusalem, ver. 12. to 15.

2. Purgeth the Temple of the Prophanations thereof, ver. 15. to 20.

3. Promises (upon Peters observing of the fig-tree which Christ cursed) great things to faith, Extraordinary in Miracles, Ordinary in Prayer, v. 20. to 27.

4. Justifieth the authority of his actions, by John Baptists Testimony, ver. 27. to the end of the Chapter.

Chap. 12. 5. Foretelleth (under the Parable of a Vineyard let out to unthankful husbandmen) the destruction of the Jews, especially of their teachers, and the conversion of the Gentiles, Ch. XII. 1. to 12. Amplified by the event, viz. I. The Chief Priests, &c. seeking to lay hold on him, ver. 12. II. Their divers attempts to catch him in his words, ver. 1. By the Pharisees and Herodians question about paying Tribute to Cesar, v. 13. to 18. By the Sadducees question touching the Resurrection, ver. 18. to 28. 3. By the Scribes question about the first Commandment, v. 28. to 35.

III. Christs question, how Christ could be the son of David, ver. 35. to 37.

6. Warneth his hearers of the pride, avarice and hypocrisie of the Pharisees, v. 38, 39, 40.

7. Commendeth the poor Widow for her casting her two mites into the Treasury, v. 41. to the end.

Chap. 13. 8. Prophecieth, 1. Of the destruction of the Temple, Ch. XIII. 1, 2. 2. Of the grievous calamities which shall precede, ver. 3. to 14. 3. Of the grievous siege and destruction of Jerusalem, v. 14. to 24. 4. Of the Lords coming to the general judgement of the World, v. 24. to 32. amplified by an exhortation to constant watchfulness, and preparedness for his coming, and this urged by many arguments, ver. 32. to the end.

II. The manner of Christ death is set forth. 1. By the more immediate harbingers of it. 2. By the proceedings in it. 3. By the consummation of it.

Chap. 14. I. The more immediate harbingers of Christs death. were 1 The conspiracy of the Chief Priests and Scribes against his life, Ch. XIV. 1, 2. 2. The womans pouring upon his head an Alabaster box full of precious ointment, aforehand anointing his body to the burying, ver. 3. to 10. 3. The engagement of Judas for money to betray Christ to them, ver. 10, 11. 4. The Celebration of his last Passeover with the twelve, ver. 12 to 18. Amplified 1. Partly, by Christs foretelling them at Supper, that one of them should betray him, ver. 18, to 22. Partly, by Christs Institution of his Supper, as they were eating, ver. 22. to 26. 3. Partly, by the close of all with a hymn, v. 26. 4. Christs foretelling them how they all should be offended because of him that night, and particularly forewarning Peter of his three-fold denyal of him. v. 27. to 32. 5. Christs Prayer in the Garden of Gethsemane, that if possible the bitter Cup might pass from him, yet submitting to his fathers will, ver. 32 to 43. 7. Judas his betraying him presently thereupon with a Kiss, ver. 43. to 47.

II. The Jews proceedings in order to Christ death, viz. 1. They apprehend him, ver. 46, to 53. II. They accuse and condemn him before the high Priest for Blasphemy, because he said he was the son of God, ver. 53. to 65. This is amplified, by Peters three-fold denyal of Christ in the high Priests Palace, as Christ foretold him, ver. 66, to the end of the chapter. III. They deliver him bound to Pilate, Ch. XV. 1. where Christ is, 1 Examined, ver. 2. 2. Accused by the chief Priests, ver. 3. to 6. 3. Rejected by the people, and Barabbas a mutherer preferred before him, v. 6. to 15. 4 Scourged and delivered by Pilate, at the importunate clamour of the people, to be crucified, v. 15. IV. The Souldiers after his condemnation greatly abuse him in the Hall called Pretorium, ver. 16. to 20. V. They lead him out to be crucified, compelling Simon to bear his Crosse after him, v. 21, 22.

III. The consummation of his death in Golgotha, described in many particulars; As 1 They give him wine mingled with myrrhe, ver. 22, 23. 2. They crucifie him at the third hour, parting his garments, casting lots, putting the superscription of his accusation over his head, and crucifying two theeves with him, ver. 24. to 29. 3. By-standers and the Chief Priests mock him, ver. 29. to 33. 4. Darkness was over all the land, from the sixth to the ninth hour, v. 33. 5. Christ cryes out to his father in his Desertion on the Cross, whereat (some thinking he called for Elias) one gives him vinegar in a sponge, to drink, v. 34. to 37. 6. Christ crying again with a loud voice, yeilds up the ghost, v. 37. the veile of the Temple rending, the Centurion confessing him to be the Son of God, and the women that ministred to him looking on afar off, ver. 38. to 42.

IV. The consequents of Christs death, viz. I. His bodies Burial by Joseph of Arimathea, ver. 42. to the end. II. His Resurrection, declared by an Angel to three Women coming to the Sepulcher when the Sabbath was past, Ch. XVI. 1. to 9. III. His Apparition after his resurrection; 1. To Mary Magdalen, v. 9, 10, 11. 2. Then to two going into the Country, v. 12. 13. 3. Afterwards to the Eleven, 1 Upbraiding them for their unbelief and hardness of heart, v. 14. 2. Giving them general Commission to dispense the Word and Sacraments to all the world, with divers promises annexed, ver. 15. to 19. IV. His ascension into Heaven, v. 19. V. His Session at Gods right hand, ver. 19. VI. His Cooperation with, and Confirmation of his Apostles ministry, ver. 20.

LUKE.

LUKE.

Sect. I. Name and Penman.

THe Gospel according to Luke] This Book is so denominated from Luke, Penman of it.

Luke, some a account an Hebrew name לוקם Lokam, which signifies To-him-the-Resurrection, viz. To him the Resurrection of Christ was made known, perhaps from the opinion of b Theophylact; who thinks Luke was one of the seventy Disciples, and that Christ after his Resurrection, first appeared to Luke and Cleophas. But this is less probable, 1. Because Luke himself intimates that he wrote this History of Christ according as things were delivered by them c which from the beginning were eye-witnesses and Ministers of the Word, &c. 2. Because Christ d first appeared to Mary Magdalene after his Resurrection; afterwards to the two Disciples. And Ambrose saith it was one Ammaon, that was with Cleophas, but that is e uncertain. Hierome taking Luke for an Hebrew name, interprets it, f He-rising; Because Luke rising up, is daily increased, and makes Progress, whilest the world is filled with his Gospel; and he as often encreaseth, as being heard and read he edifyeth. But others take Luke or Lucas to be originally a Latine name, the same with Lucius: both derived (à Luce Oriente, i. e.) from the rising light, or morning light. These names being usually imposed on them that were born in the morning about Sun-rising: but enough of this name.

Who Luke was, is more considerable. For his Country he is g thought to be of Antioch in Syria, both by Hierome, Eusebius and others. For his Parents, probably they were honest and prudent, Luke being so brought up by them in literature. For his particular calling, he was a Physician. h Luke the beloved Physician, of whom i Hierome elegantly; Luke the Physician, who (leaving his Gospel and the Acts of the Apostles to the Churches,) as the Apostles of Fishers of Fishes, were made Fishers of men, of a Physician of bodies turned Physician of souls, Of whom also in another place, I have sent with him the brother, whose praise is in the Gospel throughout all the Churches: whose Book so often as it is read in the Churches, so often his Physick is continued and imparted to them. As Paul followed his Tent-making, so Luke followed his employment of Physick, even after admission to the publick ministry, that the Churches might not be burdened, nor any advantage taken against their Ministry by false Apostles and Seducers. By k Nicephorus, he is supposed to be also an excellent Painter or Limner, and that he drew in colours the Pictures of Christ, Mary, Peter, Paul, and other Disciples. But more antient Histories speak nothing hereof; and perhaps the l Art of Painting is ascribed to him, and the drawing of those pictures, (as the Centuriators observe,) because he doth so accurately and to the life describe the Virgin Mary, and Jesus Christ in his Birth, Life and Death in his Gospel, as also the Apostles, especially Peter and Paul in the Acts, as if they had been represented to our very eyes. Luke in all likelihood was a good Scholar, otherwise he could not have been a Physitian, which necessarily pre-requires some competent knowledge in Natural Philosophy. That he was most skilful in the Greek Tongue, not onely m Hierome testifies, but also his very Language and Stile clearly evidenceth; whereupon saith n Causabon, It is known to the Learned, that Luke observed a more pure Hellenisme, than the rest of the Evangelists.

For his spirituals; He is o thought to be converted by the Apostle Paul at Thebes, where he came to him, and was added to Christ; but whence Nicephorus had this information it uncertain. This is certain. p he was a faithful and constant companion of the Apostle Paul, who forsook him not, though in bonds at Rome, and that when others left him. He was most dear to Paul, who stiles him q Luke the beloved Physitian, and he elsewhere ranks him among his r Fellow-labourers in the Gospel. Whereupon Irenæus saith, s Luke was an inseparable Companion of Paul, and his Fellow-labourer in the Gospel. And t some of the Ancients think, that Luke is intended by that brother, whose praise is in the Gospel, throughout all the Churches, 2 Cor. 8. 18. Though Chrysostome thinks it was Barnabas, to whom u Calvin subscribes. Thus Tertullian speaks of him x Luke, not an Apostle, but an Apostolical man; not the Master, but the Disciple less than the Master, certainly so much after, as he is the follower of Paul an after-Apostle. Thus Hierome describes and commends him, y Luke the Physician of Antioch, at his writings declare, not ignorant of the Greek tongue, the follower of the Apostle Paul, and Companion of all his travel. He wrote the Gospel, of which the same Paul saith: We have sent with him the brother, whose Praise is in the Gospel throughout all the Churches. And to the Colossians, Luke the beloved Physitian salutes you. And to Timothy; Onely, Luke is with me. He published also another excellent volume, entituled THE ACTS OF THE APOSTLES, which History comes even to Pauls two years abode at Rome, viz. To the fourth year of Nero, whence we understand that Book was composed in that City. ——— Some suppose as oft as Paul saith in his Epistles, (according to my Gospel,) he understands it of Lukes Volume: and that Luke learned not his Gospel onely of the Apostle Paul, who was not with Christ in the flesh, but also of the other Apostles, which in the beginning of his Book he Declares, saying, As they delivered unto us, who from the beginning were eye-witnesses and Ministers of the Word. Therefore he wrote the Gospel as he heard, but composed the Acts of the Apostles as he saw. He exercised his Ministry (as Pauls fellow-labourer,) in z all these places, where he travelled with Paul, both in his journey from a Philippi, a City of Macedonia to Jerusalem, and in his travels from b Jerusalem to Rome; in the former whereof Paul was at liberty, in the latter in bonds. After Pauls decease, as c Epiphanius thinks, he preached the Gospel, not only in Macedonia and Italy, but also in Dalmatia and France. His death is variously reported. d Dorotheus thinks he died at Ephesus. Hierome saith h, e He lived eighty four four years, being 65. years old, was buried at Constantinople, to which City in the twentieth year of Constantius his bones with the Relliques of Andrew the Apostle, were translated from Achaia. Many great reports of him; † That having seen before-hand Paul suffering, he ventured into Greece, Illyricum, among wild Nations, with the Light of divine Doctrine and Knowledge, and as † the Conveyancer of Gods Word being fastned on a Cross like Olive-tree, because they should see by him a Type of a Gibbet of, but commended his Spirit unto God, having lived, (as is said,) eighty years; * where his body was among many other Monuments buried, is learned by the Prayers of the faithfull. For God sent down from Heaven wholesome ointment for their sores, in taking (I think,) of his Grace and Healing, whereof the sepulchre was known of all the faithfull. Hieronym. hath, That † Epaphras imprisoned for the Religion of Andrew, Luke and Timothy † Constantinople, at which the Devils roare, &c. Sect. II. Time when Luke wrote.

Luke penned two excellent Books, viz. The History of Christ in the Gospel, and the History of the Primitive Church of Christ in the Acts of the Apostles. The Acts he penned probably at his rest with Paul at Rome, in bonds, for that History is thought to have penned before; viz. whilest he accompanied Paul at liberty, travelling and preaching in Macedonia and Asia. For in the † former Epistle to the Corinthians he makes mention (as Chemnitius doubts not) of Lukes Gospel. † Hieronym saith, He wrote his Gospel in the parts of Achaia and Bœotia. And Paul mentioneth one of Theophilus; (and saith it is the common opinion of Fathers and Historians,) That Matthew wrote in the ninth year after Christs Ascension, Mark two years after, Luke in the fifteenth year, and John in the thirty second year; which seems in a thing so indifferent we may follow, till we can learn with something more certain.

Sect. III. Occasion, Scope and Excellency of the History.

Occasion of his writing, both his Gospel and the Acts, m Some say was the appointment of Paul; thats doubtfull. Probably the request of Theophilus (supposed to be some eminent Senator,) to whom he n directs both his Gospel and the Acts. Though some take this name Theophilus for any godly man, Lover of God, Luke himself clearly sets down one o occasion, viz. The unsuccessful attempts of many who wrote false Gospels. Whereupon saith p Eusebius, 'Luke in the beginning of his Gospel propounds the 'Cause, why he set upon the compiling of it: to wit, 'because many other had imprudently and inconsiderately attempted a Declaration of those things, of 'the truth whereof he had perfect knowledge: and 'as it were compelled thereunto by necessity, he 'withdrawes us from opinions which among others 'were doubtful and controverted; manifestly delivering in his Gospel, a certain and sure explanation 'of those things the truth whereof he had abundantly understood, partly by his familiarity and custome 'with Paul, partly by his frequent Conference with 'the rest of the Apostles.

m Niceph. Hist. Eccl. l. 2 c. 43.

n Compare Luke 1. 3, 4. with Acts 1. 1.

o Luke 1. 1, 2.

p Euseb. Hist. Eccl. l. 3. c. 18.

Scope of this History, (besides the general aim of all the Evangelists formerly intimated from John 20. 31.) take as followeth. Luke seems particularly to intend the supply of what others had omitted; and to record thinks q from the very first, and that methodically in order; that Theophilus might know the certainty of things wherein he had been instructed.

q Luke 1. 3, 4.

Nor is it to be neglected, which some say, viz. That Luke seems to have compiled this Evangelical History for the use of the Gentile-Churches, for whose use of Luke. the Apostle, (viz. Paul whom he still accompanied,) was chiefly appointed; bending to that end indited it in a style, and related the character and property of the Greek Tongue, more than the rest of the Evangelists.

The Excellency of this Gospel therefore (as it is implyed in all the Premises) is very remarkable. For 1. The Penman Luke was not onely very learned, but singularly pious, a great lover of Paul, whom he constantly accompanied not onely in his Prosperity, but in his greatest adversity, in bonds and prison at Rome, till the last, and in the midst of all the showers of Persecution that fell upon Paul, it is scarce probable how that scarce drops fell upon Luke his dear Associate. 2. The Language of Luke is more compleat accurate and elegant, then of the rest. Luke was an expert Grecian. 3. The Gospel of Luke hath been most anciently received by the Church as Authentique, and indited by the holy Ghost, and never contradicted, yea hath been had in singular estimation. 4. But especially this Gospel of Luke excelleth, (as Irenæus and divers other r Writers have well observed) Partly in the many particular Histories and notable Circumstances therein supplied, which none of the other Evangelists have recorded, nor should we ever have known them without Lukes Gospel. Partly in the conclusion of the Story of Christs Resurrection and Ascension, and the State of the Primitive Church for many years after, in the times of the Apostles; and this in the Acts of the Apostles written also by him.

† Things Recorded by Luke, which are not found in the other Evangelists.

Irenæus himself thus reckons up, (to which many more might be added. ‡ Many and necessary things of the Gospel we have known by Luke; As John Baptists Generation; The History of Zacharias. The Angels coming to Mary; Elizabeths Salutation; The Angels descending to the shepherds and the things spoken by them; The Testimony of Anna and Simeon touching Christ: His being left at Jerusalem being twelve years old, &c. Irenæus advers. Hæres. l. 3. c. 14. where the Reader may see many more particulars enumerated.

r See also Lukes additions enumerated by the Magdeburg. Centuriators. Cent. 1. l. 2. c. 10. but especially by Piscator in Præfat. in Luc. in quarto, who hath notably gleaned them up out of Lukes whole Gospel.

Sect. IV. Principal Parts.

In Lukes accurate Evangelical History, we are to consider, 1. The Preface, 2. The body of the History.

I. THE PREFACE to the whole History, 1. Describing the causes of Lukes writing, viz. 1. Impulsive, the false or unfaithful attempts of many, not acted by the Spirit of God in writing, whose errours were to be corrected by a true Narration. 2. Final, that Theophilus might know the certainty of things believed. II. Commending this ensuing History from 1. The truth of it, delivered by them that were eye-witnesses and ministers of the Word. 2. The method of it; in Order. 3. The perfection of it, having had perfect understanding of all things from the very first, all this in Ch. 1. ver. 1. to 5.

II. The BODY, or SUBSTANCE OF THE HISTORY it self, which principally contains a Narration of Christs, Birth, 2. Life, and 3. Death.

CHRISTS BIRTH is described by the 1. Antecedents, 2. Manner, and 3. Consequents thereof.

I. The Antecedents, or things going before Christs Birth, were 1. The conception of John Baptist; 2. The conception of Jesus Christ. 3. The Birth of John Baptist.

1. The conception of John Baptist Christs fore-runner, and first publick witness. Where not, 1 The time when this came to pass, in the dayes of Herod King

King of Judea, ver. 5. 2. His Parents of whom he descended, ver. 5, 6, 7. 3. The promise of John's Birth and Office, by an Angel appearing to Zacharias in the Temple, as he was in his Order executing the Priests Office, and burning incense, which promise was confirmed by a sign, viz. Zacharias his dumbness, v. 8 to 24. 4. The conception of it self, ver. 24, 25.

2. The Conception of JESUS CHRIST himself. Where are described, The Antecedents, The Conception it self, & the consequent events. I. The Antecedents, contained in the Angels promise of his conception, viz. 1. Time when, in the sixth moneth after John Baptists conception, v. 26. 2. Place where, in Nazareth a City of Galilee, ver. 26. 3. The Messenger revealing these tidings from God, the Angel Gabriel, ver. 26. 4. The Person to whom he was sent, to the Virgin Mary, ver. 27. 5. The conference betwixt the Angel and the Virgin Mary, containing the Angels, 1. Salutation of her, ver. 28, 29. 2. Promise of conception to her, foretelling the Name and Office of her Son that shall be conceived, ver. 30. to 34. 3. Instruction of her about the possibility of her Conception, ver. 34. to 38. II. The miraculous conception it self, as Mary assented to the promise, ver. 38. III. The consequent thereupon, viz. Mary's going speedily to visit her cosen Elizabeth mother of John Baptist, which is described 1. By Maries coming to Elizabeth and saluting her, ver. 39, to 40. 2. By the effects of Maries presence and salutation upon Elizabeth, viz. 1. Her babes leaping in her womb, 2. Her own Prophecying, wherein she congratulates Maries happiness, and confirms her faith in the Angels promises, ver. 41. to 46. 3. By Maries Heavenly exultation and joyful thanksgiving to God for his great mercies to her self, to Elizabeth, and to Israel, ver. 46, to 56. 4. By the time of Maries abode with Elizabeth, ver. 56.

3. The birth of John Baptist is described, 1. By the time thereof, viz. at Elizabeths full time, ver. 57. 2. By her friends congratulation at Gods great mercy to her therein, ver. 58. 3. By the circumcision of the child the eighth day, ver. 59. 4. By the imposition of the name, not Zacharias but John v. 59 to 64. 5. By the removal of Zacharias, dumbness hereupon, ver. 64. 6 By the fear and wonder that possessed all round about hearing these things, ver. 65, 66. 7 By Zacharias his admirable Prophecy both touching Christ and John Baptist, and the Offices of them both, v. 67. to 80. 8 By John's education and growth both in body and spirit, till the time of his publick ministery, ver. 80.

II. The manner of Christs Birth, is set forth 1 By the Time, viz. when Augustus Cæsar sent out his decree to tax the Roman Empire, Cyrenius being Governour of Syria, Ch. II. ver. 1. 2 By the place, viz. Bethlehem the City of David, and the occasion which drew Joseph and Mary from Nazareth to Bethlehem, at that time, viz. the taxing of all in their own city, ver. 2. to 7. 3. By the meanness of his Birth. 1 Wrapped in swadling-cloaths. 2. Laid in a Manger. 3. No room for him in the Inne, v. 7.

Chap. 2.

III. The Consequents upon Christs birth. viz.

1 The Publication or Manifestation of his Birth, 1 By one Angel to the Shepherds by Night, Declaring both Time and Place of his Birth, and Confirming the same with a Sign, ver. 8. to 13. 2 By many Angels together in their triumphant Hymne, ver. 13, 14, 16. 3 By the Shepherds having been ear-witnesses of of the Angels Tidings; and by Eye-witnesses of Christ New-born, v. 15. to 21.

2 The circumcision of Christ the eighth day, being named JESUS, ver. 21.

3. The Presentation of Christ in the Temple by his Parents, described, 1. By the time when, viz. Maries dayes of Purification being accomplished, ver. 22. 2. By the reason why he was presented; to fulfill the Law, ver. 22, 23, 24. 3. By Simeons Prophecy touching Christ, taking him up in his Armes, with a ravished heart in the Temple, ver. 25. to 36. 4. By the Prophecy of Anna the Prophetess touching Christ at the same time, ver. 36, 37, 38. 5. By his Parents return after this solemnity to Nazareth, ver. 39.

4. The growth of Christ, both in body and spirit, ver. 40.

5. Christs conferring and questioning with the Doctors in the Temple at 12 years old, being left there through his Parents neglect at the Feast of the Passover, wherein giving a specimen of his Prophetick Office, v. 41. to the end of the ch.

Hitherto of Christs Birth, the Antecedents, Manner and Consequents thereof.

II. CHRISTS LIFE, which was spent in his Publique Ministry; is described, 1 Partly, by the Preparation for; 2 Partly, by the execution of his publique Ministry therein.

I. The preparation for Christs publique Ministry, was

1. By the Ministery of John Baptist his forerunner, Preparing the people to be Christs hearers; where note, 1 When John began his Ministry, viz. in the 15 year of Tiberius Cæsar, &c. Ch. III. 1, 2. 2 Where he preached, ver. 3. 3 What he preached to several sorts of hearers, ver. 3. to 15. 4 What publick testimony he gave touching Christ, ver. 15: 5. How he reproved Herod for marrying Herodias, and was by him imprisoned for it, ver. 19, 20. 6 How he baptized his hearers; and Jesus Christs, vers. 21.

Chap. 3.

2. By Christs Baptisme by John; (was as it were Christs solemn Inauguration into his Office) where consider, I. Christs prayer at his Baptisme, ver. 21. II. The return of his Prayer, viz. 1 Heaven being opened, ver. 21. 2 The Holy Ghost descending like a Dove upon him. 3 The Fathers voice from Heaven, acquiescing in Christ ver. 22 III. Christs age when Baptized, about 30. years. IV. Christs * Natural Line by Mary, (as Matthew had described his legal Line by Joseph) vers. 23. to the end of the chapter.

* According to the Jewes manner of reckoning Genealogies by men, not by women; Mary is not expressed here in the Genealogy, but her Husband Joseph is called the Son of Heli, i. e. his Son in Law, having married Mary Heli's daughter. Josephs natural Father being Jacob, for it is said, Jacob, begat Joseph, Mat. 1. 16.

3. By Christs signal victory over the Devil tempting him, Where consider I. The place, the wilderness, viz. of Judea. II. The time, viz. presently upon his Baptisme in Jordan. III. The impulsive cause, viz. the Spirit, Ch. IV. 1. IV. The continuance of his temptations, viz. 40. dayes. Amplyfied 1 By his miraculous fasting all that while. 2 By his hunger afterward, ver. 2, V. The temptations themselves, which were three, with Christs repulses of them all, ver. 3. to 13. VI. The Event of his temptation, ver. 13.

Chap. 4.

II. The execution of Christs publick Ministry. 1 Before his last journey to Jerusalem, 2 In his journey, 3 After his journey, at Jerusalem.

I. Before Christs last journey to Jerusalem, from the time of his Baptism and temptation, Christs Ministry is described in many particulars of his doctrine and miracles in Galilee, ver. 14, 15. As

1. At Nazareth, where he had been educated, where note, 1 The time and place, viz. On the Sabbath-day in their Synagogue, ver. 6. 2 His Text read, and Sermon preached, ver. 7. to 28. 3 The events of his preaching there, the people filled with wrath, would have cast him down the brow of the hill, but he escaped, v. 28, 29, 30.

2. At Capernaum, Where 1 He taught on their Sabbath-dayes to the peoples amazement, ver. 31, 32. 2 He in the Synagogue dispossesses a man of an unclean Devil, ver. 33. to 38. 3 Going thence into Simons house, he cures his wives Mother of a Fever, ver. 38, 39. 4 About Sun-setting he cured many diseases, and cast out Devils, ver. 40, 41.

5 He a He calls his first Disciples, & prepares thence into a desert-place, declaring to the people that followed him, and would have stayed him among them, that he must preach to other Cities also, verse 42, 43, 44.

2. At the Lake of Gennesareth, 1 He cures at Peters Ship reaches the people, Ch. V. v. 1, 2, 3. 2 He by the miraculous draught of Fishes encourageth Simon, James and John how they shall catch men, and so he calls them, v. 4. to 12.

Chap. 5. 4. In a certain City, he cleanseth a Leper, ver. 12. to 15. Amplified by the events, viz. 1 Christs fame, 2. The people flocking after him to hear him, and be healed of him, ver. 15. 3 His withdrawing into the wilderness to pray, v. 16.

*Mat. 9. 1, 2. 5. (In his own City, as * Matthew calls it, or thereabout) he taught and healed, ver. 17. more particularly, I. He cures the Palsie-man, let down through the tiling in his couch, ver. 18. to 27. II. He calls Levi sitting at the receipt of Custome, v. 27, 28 This is amplified; 1 By Levi's feasting him and many Publicans, ver. 29. 2 By occurrents following viz. 1 Christs excusing his Disciples for eating with publicans and sinners, ver. 30, 31, 32. 2 Christs Apology for his Disciples not fasting as John's did; Partly by a parable of the Bridegrooms presence with the children of the Bride-chamber, ver. 33, 34, 35. Partly by a parable of a new piece in an old garment, and new wine in old bottles, ver. 36. to the end. III. He excuseth his Disciples act of plucking and Chap. 6. eating the ears of corn on the Sabbath day, Ch. VI. 1. to 6. IV. He healed the mans withered right hand on another Sabbath, ver. 6. to 12. V. He in those dayes chooseth out of his Disciples 12. Apostles, where are declared, 1 His previous preparation to this great work, by continuing in a Mountain praying all night, ver. 12. 2 His choice of his 12. Apostles next day, with their names, ver. 13. to 17. 3 His coming down afterwards into the plain, and preaching to them, and the multitude at the bottom of the mountain, ver. 17. to the end of the chapter.

In this large Sermon of Christ, consider 1 The preparatory occasion and circumstances of it, ver. 17, 18, 19. 2 The substance of the Sermon, which is directed, To his Disciples, To all the hearers together, To his hypocritical hearers. I. To his Disciples peculiarly, 1 Comforting and encouraging them now newly chosen, against all crosses and persecutions incident to their Office, by promises of blessedness, ver. 20. 24. 2 Amplifying these promises of Blessedness, by threatnings of contrary woes to all secure contemners of the Gospel, as Scribes and Pharisees, ver. 24. to 27 II. To all the hearers together, directing and exhorting them; 1 How to love their Enemies, and to recompence good for evill, ver. 27. to 31. 2 To do to others, as we would they should do to us, v. 31. These two; especially the former are urged by divers Arguments, ver. 32. to 37. 3 To avoid rash judging, ver. 37. 4 To forgive others, ver. 37. 5 To give to others, v. 38. 6 To beware of following of blind guides, v. 39. 7. To be content to be conformed to Christ in sufferings, ver. 40. 8. Not to be too severe in finding faults with others, whilest they are more faulty themselves, ver. 41, 42. but rather to evidence to others their inward goodness, By good fruits, ver. 43, 44. By good words, ver. 45 III. To his hypocritical hearers, directing them not only to profess him, and hear him, but to do his words; which he urgeth by a Parable of Builders on a Rock, and on the Earth, v. 46. to the end.

6. In Capernaum, he healeth the Centurions servant at the point of death, Ch. VII. 1 to 11.

Chap. 7. 7. At Naim, 1 He raiseth to life the Widows son, upon the Bier, ver. 11. to 19. 2 He answereth John's Disciples asking if he were the Messiah, charging them to tell John what they had seen and heard, ver. 19. to 24. Whereupon he takes occasion, 1 Partly to commend John Baptist and his Ministry, ver. 24. to 31. 2 Partly to condemn that Generation for contempt both of John's and Christs Ministry, ver. 31. to the end. 3 Being invited to eat with a Pharisee, she farneth in the example of the woman that washed his feet with tears, &c. How he entertained and and pardoned good penitent and believing sinners, ver. 36. to the end.

Chap. 8. 8. As he went through every City and Village preaching the Gospel, these will be seen with him. Ch. VIII. 1. to the end. Three more. I. The women that ministered to Christ of their substance, ver. 2, 3. II. His Sermon to the people, containing, 1 The Parable of the Sower, Propounded, ver. 4. to 9. Expounded, ver. 9. to 16. 2 The Parable of a Candle on a candlestick, ver. 16. 17. 3 An Admonition to take heed how they hear, ver. 18. III. His declaring them to be his Mother and Brethren that hear and do the Word of God, ver 19, 20, 21. IV. His calming the Tempest by his Word, as he sailed over the Lake, ver. 22. to 26. V. His casting a Legion of Devils out of the Man in the Gadarenes Country; not suffering the Man to be with him, ver. 26. to 40. VI. After his return thence, are declared, 1 His staunching of a womans issue of blood, at her touching of the hem of his Garment, as he was going to Jairus his Daughter that lay a dying. 2 His raising of Jairus's Daughter being dead ere he came to her, ver. 41. to the end. 3 His sending forth of the twelve Chap. 9. with power and authority, and instructions, Ch. IX. 1. to 7. 4 Herods perplexity about Christ, and his desire to see him, ver. 7. to 10. 5 His Disciples return and report, ver. 10. 6 His departure with them into a Desert place belonging to Bethsaida, where (the people flocking to him) he preached to them, healed them, and fed five thousand with five Loaves and two Fishes, v. 10. to 18. 7 His private Conference with his Disciples. 1 Asking them whom the people and they thought he was, ver. 18, 19, 20. 2 Charging them to conceal him, ver. 21. 3 Foretelling his own Passion and Resurrection, ver. 22. 4 Forewarning them of Crosses and Persecutions, v. 23. to 27. 5 Yet comforting them with a promise, that some standing there, should see the Kingdom of God come with Power, before they dye, ver. 27. 8 His Transfiguration, about eight dayes after, on the Mount, before Peter, John, and James, as he prayed, ver. 28. to 37. 9 His dispossessing the mans son next day, whom his Disciples could not dispossesse, verse 37. to 43. 10. His prediction of of his death again to his Disciples, wondering at the things he did, v. 43. to 46 11. His teaching his Disciples contending for Priority, by the example of a child to practise Humility, v. 46. to 49. 12. His charge to his Disciples, not to forbid him that cast out Devils in his name, v. 49. 50.

Thus of Christs Doctrine and Acts, from his Baptism till his last journey to Jerusalem.

II. In Christs last Journey to Jerusalem, Antecedent to his passion there, his Acts and Doctrine are further described; As

1. His non-entertainment by the Samaritanes in his journey, * Because going to Jerusalem, whereupon the Apostles, desiring to be revenged of them, are reproved by him, v. 51. to 57.

* For there was much enmity betwixt Jewes & Samaritanes.

2. His dealing in the way with several persons severally, 1. Repelling one that would have followed him, v. 57, 58. 2. Commanding another to follow him, that would first have buried his father, v. 59, 60. 3. Repelling another that would first bid them farewel at his house, v. 61, 62.

3. His sending the seventy by two and two before him into all places, where himself would come to preach and do miracles, Ch. X. 1, Described, 1. By the occasion, viz. The greatness of the Harvest, v. 2. 2. By his instructions to the seventy, both in reference to them that received them, ver. 3. to 10. and in reference to them that received them not, denouncing woe to certain Cities that profited not by the Gospel, ver. 10. to 17. 3. By the seventies return rurn, and joyful report of their ſucceſs, upon which Chriſt ſhewes, that to have their names written in Heaven is greater matter of joy, v. 17. to 21. 4. By Chriſts exultation in Spirit at his Fathers Spirituall Diſpenſations, ver. 21, 22. 5. By Chriſts magnifying his Diſciples condition, in reſpect of what they ſaw and heard, ver. 23, 24.

4. His inſtructing of the Lawyer tempting him, how to inherit eternal life, and who was his neighbour, by the Parable of the man that fell among thieves, ver. 25. to 38.

5. His reproving Martha careful about many things, and commending Mary for minding the one thing needful, ver. 38. to the end.

6. His inſtructing his Diſciples about Prayer, 1. How to pray, where is laid down * The Lords Prayer, Ch. XI. 1. to 5. 2. To be inſtant in Prayer, encouraging hereto, Partly by promiſes of Audience; Partly with promiſes of beſt bleſſings upon Prayer, ver. 5. to 14.

* See the Lords Prayer expounded in the Appendix to Matthew. Chap. 11.

7. His caſting out of a dumb Devil, ver. 14. Amplified by the conſequent events, viz. I. The dumbs ſpeech II. The peoples wonder, v. 14. III. The Blaſphemy and Temptation of others, ver. 15, 16. To both which he replies. 1. To the Blaſphemy of thoſe that ſaid he caſt out Devils through Beelzebub. Confuting their calumny by divers Arguments, verſ. 17. to 23. Reproving ſuch as took not his part againſt thoſe blaſphemies, ver. 23. Declaring the danger of Satans repoſſeſſing a man through his ſecurity, after he was caſt out, ver. 24. to 27. And ſhewing them that hear and keep Gods Word, to be the truly bleſſed, ver. 27, 28. 2. To the temptation of thoſe that ſought a Signe from Heaven, He replieth, 1 Partly denying any ſigne to them, but that of Jonas, ver. 29, 30. 2 Partly threatning them with condemnation for contempt of Chriſt and impenitency, ver. 31, 32. 3. Partly admoniſhing them to communicate their Light, as a Candle on a Candleſtick to others, ver. 33. 4 Partly warning them of an evill darke Eye, ver. 34, 45, 36.

8. His Sermon when he was invited to dine with a Phariſee, wherein he ſharply reprehends and threatens I. The Phariſees, 1. For their Avarice, ver. 37. to 42. 2. For their want of Love to God and Man, ver. 42. 3. For their Pride, ver. 43. II. The Scribes and Phariſees, for their Hypocriſie, ver. 44. III. The Lawyers, or Expounders of the Law; 1. For their inequal dealing with the People, ver. 46. 2. For their cruelty againſt the Godly, ver. 47. to 52. 3. For taking away the Key of Knowledge, ver. 52. The Event of this Sermon is alſo mentioned, ver. 53, 54.

9. His Sermon to his Diſciples, wherein 1. He Chap. 12. warns them of the leaven of the phariſees, Ch. XII. 1. 2. He encourages them to preach the Word boldly, notwithſtanding all danger of Perſecutions for ſo doing, and this by many Arguments, ver. 2. to 13.

10. His Sermon occaſioned by the mans requeſt to Chriſt, to ſpeak to his brother to divide the inheritance, ver. 13. wherein I. He refuſeth that employment, ver. 14. II. He diſſwades his hearers from Covetouſneſs, ſhewing the vanity of Riches without Grace, ver. 15. to 22. III. He teacheth his Diſciples, 1. To avoid carking and ſollicitude about food and rayment, and to ſeek Gods Kingdome firſt, ver. 22. to 33. 2. To give Almes, ver. 33, 34. 3. To be vigilant and diligent in their Callings, till their Lords coming, ver. 34. to 41. 4. To diſpenſe the Word of God, faithfully, wiſely, diligently, till his coming: which is urged by divers Arguments touched in the Parable of a Steward, ver. 41. to 49. 5. To expect the fire of Perſecutions after his departure, which fire is already kindled, ver. 49. to 54. IV. He inſtructeth the people, 1 To diſcern the preſent ſeaſon of Grace ver. 54. to 58. 2. To agree quickly with their Adverſary, and not to perſiſt in an ill cauſe, verſe 58, 59.

11. His Sermon occaſioned by ſome who told him of the Galileans, whoſe blood Pilate mingled with their Sacrifices, Ch. XIII. 1. wherein 1. He exhorts them Chap. 13. by Gods judgements to repent, ver. 2. to 6. 2. He warns them to bring forth Goſpel-fruit, by a parable of the Fruitleſs Figtree, v. 6 to 10.

12. His curing the crooked woman of her eighteen years infirmity, on the Sabbath day, in one of their Synagogues, and his defence of this act againſt the Ruler of the Synagogue, verſe 10. to 18.

13. His comparing the Kingdome of God; 1. To a grain of Muſtard ſeed, v. 18. 19. 2. To Leaven, v. 20, 21.

14. His preaching as he journeyed on towards Jeruſalem, ver. 22. 1. Exhorting to enter in at the ſtrait gate, rather than curiouſly to enquire how many ſhall be ſaved, ver. 23. to 31. 2. Anſwering the Phariſees, telling him that Herod would kill him, that he fled not from Galilee, from Herods cruelty, but rather went to Jeruſalem that he might ſuffer, upbraiding Jeruſalem for her cruelty, v. 31. to the end.

15. His eating bread on a Sabbath day with one of the chief Phariſees, Chap. XIV. 1. where 1. He healed a man of the Dropſie, ver. 1. to 7. 2. He teacheth the invited Gueſts Humility, v. 7. to 12. 3. He teacheth the Phariſee to feaſt the poor and impotent rather than the rich, ver. 12. to 15. 4. Upon the Speech of one that ſate at meat, viz. Bleſſed is he that ſhall eat bread in the Kingdome of God, He ſhewed under the Parable of a Great Supper, that God invites many by the miniſtry of his Goſpel, to ſpiritual and eternal Communion with him, who yet upon vain pretences refuſe to come in: and notwithſtanding, he will furniſh himſelf with Gueſts, even of the moſt deſpicable among the Jews, and of the miſerable Gentiles, v. 15. to 25. Chap. 14.

16. His inſtructing of the multitude following him, 1. To deny themſelves, ver. 25, 26. 2. To bear their Croſſe and follow Chriſt, caſting up what Chriſtianity will coſt them, like a man building a Tower and a King going to war, ver. 27. to 34. 3. To retain the Salt of grace in themſelves, leſt they be uſeleſſe, v. 34, 35.

17. His Sermon to the Publicans and ſinners, Ch. Chap. 15.
XV. 1, 2. wherein he declares what joy there is in heaven, at the converſion of one ſinner, and how ready God is to receive them, and this in three pathetick Parables, 1. Of the man rejoycing at finding of his Loſt ſheep, v. 3. to 8. 2. Of the woman rejoycing at finding of her Loſt groat, ver. 8. to 11. 3. Of the father rejoycing at the finding of his Loſt Son, ver. 11. to the end of the chap.

18. His Sermon to his Diſciples, wherein note I. His Doctrine, exhorting them 1. Under the Parable of the Unjuſt Steward dealing wiſely to make themſelves friends for eternity with the unrighteous Mammon, Ch. XVI. 1. to 10. 2. To be faithful in employing Chap. 16.
of theſe Temporals, ver. 10. to 13. 3. To avoid worldlineſſe, ver. 13. II. The Event hereof, the covetous Phariſees derided him, ver. 14. III. His directing his ſpeech hereupon to the Phariſees, 1. Reproving them for their abominable pride and hypocriſie, ver. 15. 2. Shewing 1 The Efficacy of the Goſpel from John Baptiſts time, which they deſpiſed, 2 The permanent Authority of the Law, which they violated, as in the particular of Divorce, v. 16, 17, 18. 3 Declaring under the Parable or Hiſtory, or rather Parabolical Hiſtory of the Rich man, and Lazarus, that in the life to come the godly-poor ſhall be moſt happy, when the graceleſſe rich ſhall be moſt remedileſſely miſerable; and that warnings from the dead will not bring men to faith and repentance, if the Word of God do not, ver. 19. to the end. IV. His turning his ſpeech again to his Diſciples, 1. Diſſwading them from offending the little ones, Chap. XVII. 1, 2. 2. Exhorting them to reprove and for- Chap. 17.
give one another, ver. 3, 4. 3. Shewing the force of faith, verſe 5, 6. 4. Declaring how we are debt-bound to God, and one God to us all, vers. 7. to 11.

19. His cleansing one Leper as he passed from a Village, passing through the midst of Samaria and Galilee to Jerusalem, ver. 11. to 20.

20. His Doctrine upon several occasions: 1. Shewing the Pharisees that Gods Kingdome comes not with observation, but is within, and among us. 2. Instructing his Disciples of the sundry signs of the State of man, when the world shall be in deepest security, v. 22. to the end. 3. Encouraging them by the Parable of the Unjust Judge, and the Widow, always to pray and not to faint, Chap. XVIII. 1. to 9. 4. Evidencing in the Parable of the Pharisee and the Publican, that they who trust to their own righteousness, despising others, are not justified of God, like those that humbly abase themselves, ver. 9. to 15. 5. Inviting little children to come to him, the Kingdom of God being of such, ver. 15. to 18. 6. Dissuading a certain Ruler what to do to inherit eternal life, ver. 18. to 31. 7. Foretelling to his Disciples his Death and Resurrection, ver. 31. to 35.

21. His Acts and Doctrine as he approached nigh and passed through Jericho, viz. 1. His recovering sight to the blind men sitting by the way-side begging, ver. 35. to the end. 2. His Conversion of Zacchæus the Publicane, who also made him a Feast, Chap. XIX. 1. to 11. 3. His Parable, the rest plainly delivered to his ten servants, spoken to them that thought, he drawing nigh to Jerusalem, the Kingdome of God would immediately appear, wherein 1 He refutes this opinion, showing that his glorious Kingdome was afar off, first to be obtained by his Death, Resurrection, Ascension, and preaching of the Gospel to all Nations. 2. He shows how thankfully every servant should employ his Talent in the mean time. 3. He comforts them against the ingratitude of many, v. 11. to 28.

That of Christs Acts and Doctrine in his last journey to Jerusalem, III. After Christs Journey to Jerusalem, are recorded his words and works most memorable, viz.

1. His entering into Jerusalem with Kingly state, ver. 28. to 41.

2. His weeping over Jerusalem for her present stupidity, and future ruine that should come upon it, ver. 41. to 45.

3. His purging the Temple of Prophanations by buying and selling there, ver. 45, 46.

4. His preaching daily in the Temple, ver. 47, 48.

5. His implicit asserting of his Authority from heaven, by a question propounded touching the Baptisme of John, who bare witnesse of him, Chap. XX. 1. to 9.

6. His Parable of the Vineyard, let out to unthankful Husbandmen, wherein he shewes the destruction of the chief Priests and Scribes, with the Jews for killing Gods Prophets, and at last Christ his Son, ver. 9. to 19. Amplified by the events, viz. 1. The chief Priests and Scribes seeking to entrap him about paying Tribute to Cæsar, that they might deliver him to the Power of the Governour, ver. 19. to 27. 2. The Sadducees Case against the Resurrection, against whom Christ asserts and proves the Resurrection out of the Old Testament, ver. 27. to 39. which one of the Scribes approveth, after which none durst ask him any Questions, v. 39, 40, 41. 3. Christs question how Christ could be Davids sonne, when David calls him Lord, ver. 41. to 45. 4. Christs Dehortation of the People, from the Ambition, Avarice and Hypocrisie of the Scribes, ver. 45, 46, 47.

7. His commending the Widow for her two Mites cast into the Temples Treasury, Ch. XXI. 1, 2, 3, 4.

8. His Prophecies, 1. Of the Temples destruction, v. 5, 6. 2. Of Jerusalems ruine, together with signs foregoing, v. 7, to 25. 3. Of the last coming of the son of man to judgement, v. 25. to 29. These Prophecies are amplified, 1 Partly by an illustration and confirmation of them, ver. 29. to 34. 2. Partly by an exhortation to watchfulnesse, ver. 34, 35, 36.

9. His teaching in the Temple by day, his lodging in the Mount of Olives by night: and the peoples resort to the Temple to hear him, ver. 38.

Histories of Christs life, and his publick ministry abroad, before, in and after his journey to Jerusalem.

CHRISTS DEATH is described by the I. Antecedents II. Manner, 3. Consequents thereof.

I. The Antecedents, or passages more immediately foregoing his Death, were

1. The conspiracy of the chief Priests and Scribes against him, Ch. XXII. 1, 2, Chap. 22.

2. The treacherous contract of Judas to betray him to them, v. 3. to 7.

3. His last Paschal Supper with his Disciple, v. 7. to 19. At which supper 1. He instituteth The LORDs Supper, ver. 19. to. 2. He selecth them that the Traytor was at the Table with him, v. 21, 22, 23. 3. He dissuades them from ambition, v. 24. to 28. 4. He promises to them glory in his Kingdom, v. 28, 29, 30. 5. He prayes for them, and particularly Peter Perseverance against temptation, v. 31, 32. 6. He forewarns Peter of his denial, v. 33, 34. 7. He prepares the Disciples for their eminent Persecution, ver. 35. to 39.

II. The Manner of his Passion, is described 1 By the Beginning, 2 By the Progresse, 3. By the Period of it.

1. The Beginning of it, in his Agony in the Garden, ver. 39. to 47.

2. The Progresse of his passion, I. In his Apprehension upon Judas his kisse, whereat he healed Malchus his ear smote off, ver. 47. to 54. II. In his Arraignment, 1. Before their Ecclesiastical Councel, in the High-priests Palace, where 1 Peter denyed him thrice, and wept bitterly for it, ver. 54. to 63. 2. They that held Jesus blasphemously abused him, v. 63. to 66. 3. The Elders, Chief-Priests and Scribes examine and condemn him, v. 66. to the end. 2. Before their Civil Power, where 1 He is accused for sedition before Pilate, Chap. XXIII. 1. to 6. 2. He is sent to Herod, and accused before him, mocked and remanded to Pilate, whereupon Herod and Pilate were made friends, ver. 6. to 13. III. In his Condemnation by Pilate to be crucified, to satisfie the clamour of the People after Pilate had three times justified him, and desired to release him, instead of whom he released Barabbas, v. 13. to 26. IV. In their leading him on to the place of execution, described 1. By Simons carrying his Cross after him, v. 26. 2. By Christs exhorting the people that lamented him, rather to weep for themselves and their children, in respect of the destruction that was coming upon them, ver. 27. to 32. 3. By leading two other Malefactors to be put to death with him, v. 32. Chap. 23.

3. The Period of Christ Passion is set forth in divers particulars, viz. 1. He is crucified on Calvary betwixt two Theeves, and prayes for his executioners, v. 33, 34. 2. His Garments are parted by lots, v. 34. 3. He is derided by People, Rulers and Souldiers, v. 35, 36, 37. 4. A Superscription was set over his head, ver. 38. 5. He is reviled by one of the Theeves crucified with him, the other being miraculously converted, v. 39. to 44. 6. The Sun was dark from the sixth to the ninth hour, v. 44, 45. 7. The vail of the Temple rent, ver. 45. 8. Christ yeilds up the Ghost, the Centurion justifying him, the People smiting their breasts, and his acquaintance and followers beholding these things, v. 46. to 50.

III. The Consequents of his Passion, viz.

1. His Burial by Joseph of Arimathea, the women observing, who prepared spices and ointments for his body, v. 50. to the end.

2. His Resurrection, declared, 1. By two Angels to Mary Magdalene and other women, who report it to the Apostles, Ch. XXIV. 1. to 13. 2. By himself appearing to the Disciples travelling towards Emmaus, v. 13. to 36. 3. By himself to the Disciples together, 1 Confirming his Resurrection them, by showing them his hands Chap. 24.

hands and feet, eating with them, urging the Scriptures for his death and rising again, and opening their understandings that they might understand them, ver. 36. to 49. 2 Promising the Spirit to them, ver. 49. 3. His Ascension, set forth by the Antecedents, Manner and Consequents thereof, ver. 50. to the end.

AN APPENDIX TO LUKE.

VIZ.

The blessed Virgin MARY's Song of Praise, after she had Conceived JESUS CHRIST, by the Holy Ghost.

Sect. I.

a Luke 1. 46.

PAraphrase, This thankful Song of praise. The Blessed Virgin Mary inspired with the Holy-Ghost a first uttered; and Luke only Penned it, digesting it methodically into his Evangelical History.

Sect. II.

b Luke 1. 26, 27, 31, 35.

Occasion hereof, was as followeth, The Angel Gabriel b appears to the Blessed Virgin Mary in Nazareth a City of Galilee, Promises to her from God that she should conceive in her womb, and bring forth a son, and call his name JESUS. ——— And to that end that the Holy Ghost should come upon her and the Power of the highest should overshadow her. These Promises c Mary believes, and believing d conceives. Whereupon she goes e in haste into a City of Judah, to visit her cousin Elizabeth, conceived with John Baptist six moneths before. Upon Mary's salutation of Elizabeth, Elizabeths child skipt in her belly for joy; and her self, filled with the Holy Ghost, most joyfully congratulates Mary's conception, and confirmes her faith touching the accomplishment of the Angels Promises from the Lord; upon which Mary her self ravished in spirit at the unspeakable goodnesse of God to her, uttered this Song and said, My Soul doth magnifie the Lord, &c.

c Verse 38.

d Ex quoniam diabolus per serpentem Evæ locutus, per Evæ aures mundo intulit mortem, Deus per Angelum ad Mariam protulit verbum, & cunctis seculis vitam effudit. Angelus sermonem ejecit, & Christum virgo concepit. O conjunctio sine sordibus facta, ubi maritus Sermo est, & uxor auricula. Hoc splendore concipitur Dei filius, hac munditiâ generatur. Aug. de Tempore Serm. 15. Tom. 10.

e Verse 39. to 46.

Sect. III.

Scope of Mary herein is, Most thankfully to blesse and magnifie the Lord, I. Partly for his wonderful mercy, actually conferred upon 1. Her self, in her blessed conception of JESUS the Son of God; and 2 Upon her Cousin Elizabeth, in her Conception of John Baptist, the forerunner of Jesus Christ, and this in her barren years. 2. Partly for his singular benefits conferred in Christ, the fruit of her womb, upon the whole Church of God.

How Excellent is this Song! 1 Uttered by the mother of Jesus Christ according to the flesh: 2 Occasioned by that miraculous mystery of Christs Conception by the Holy Ghost. 3. Expressed in heavenly strains of a ravished and transported Spirit, exalting the Lord and his free mercy, debasing her self and her meanness; Much like that excellent f Song of Hannah, upon the Birth of the Prophet Samuel, formerly paralleld with this Song of Mary in divers particulars.

f See in the Appendix to I. Sam.

Sect. IV.

I.

Principal Parts, In this Song of Praise

The blessed Virgins thankfulnesse is propounded; describing 1. The Subject praising, viz. Her soul and spirit. 2. The Object praised, viz. The Lord God her Saviour 3. The Acts of Praise, viz. doth magnifie, doth rejoice, or doth exult joyfully, ver. 46, 47.

II.

The grounds or reasons of this her thankfulnesse are expounded, viz. 1. Gods particular favours to particular Persons. 2. Gods general benefits to Israel.

I. Gods particular favours, 1. To the Virgin Mary her self in honouring her so highly, as that she should conceive Christ by the Holy Ghost. This benefit is amplyfied 1. By an Antithesis of the corrupting cause removed, viz. her mean condition. 2. By the Testimony of all the Elect that should count her herein happy, ver. 48. 3. By the greatnesse of the benefit, ver. 49. 4. By the causes of this benefit, viz. Gods Power, Holinesse, and constant mercy to them that fear him, ver. 49, 50. 5. By the effects of Gods Power, Holinesse and Mercy, both upon proud, Potentates, and rich of the world; and upon them of low degree, hungering after heavenly supplies, v. 51, 52, 53. II. To Elizabeth in that her old age she conceived John Baptist intimated in the words plural, ver. 50. to 54.

II. Gods General Benefits to Israel in Christ, according to his mercy, and promise to Abraham and his seed, ver. 54, 55.

My

This may be sung at Psal. 113.

LUKE I.

46. and Mary said,

MY Soul the Lord doth magnifie.
47. My spirit exulteth joyfully
In God my Saviour g no-lesse.
48. That on his Hand-maids h state so low
He look't; For lo, ev'n from this now
All generations shall me blesse.
49. For unto me the-mighty-one
Most graciously great-things hath done:
And I his name shall Holy call.
50. His mercy also doth appear
On them that him sincerely fear,
Ev'n i unto Generations all.

51. He with his Arm great k strength hath shew't,
He hath quite-scattered the proud,
In their own hearts l imaginings.
52. Hath put-down Potentates from Thrones i
And hath exalted low-lyings.
53. Hath fill'd the hungry with good-things:
Hath empty sent the rich away.
54. He m mindful of his mercy 47.
Hath help n his servant Israel,
55. As to our Fathers he decreed
And spake, to Abraham and his seed
For ever, as the Prophets tell.

g Gr. Also. h Gr. Depression or Abjection of mind.

i Gr. Unto Generations of Generations.

k Gr. hath made dominion. l Gr. Imagination. or thought. m Gr. To remember his mercy. n Gr. His childe.

The Prophecy of Zacharias Touching both JESUS CHRIST and JOHN BAPTIST, Luke 1. 67. to 79.

Sect. I.

o Luk. 1. 5.

Occasion and Penman. Zacharias the Priest o of the course of Abia, the father of John Baptist, on the eighth day after John's birth, when he was circumcised, p being filled with the Holy Ghost, Prophecied and uttered this Thankful Song of Praise to the Lord, both in reference to Jesus Christ our Saviour, now conceived by the Virgin Mary, and to John Baptist Christs forerunner, now brought forth by Elizabeth. Of which Song Luke is Penman, by the inspiration of the Holy Ghost, orderly digesting it in his Gospel-History. q How ready is the Lord to pardon his servants failings! Zacharias struck dumb for his unbelief; is now upon his Reformation filled with the Spirit, and prophecieth.

p Luke 1. 59 to 68.

q Vide quam bonus Deus, & facilis indulgere peccatis. Non solum ablata restituit, sed etiam insperata concedit. Ille dudum mutus Prophetas. Hæc enim gratia Dei maxima, quam cum qui negaverant confitentur. Nemo ergo diffidat, nemo veterum conscius delictorum præmia divina desperet. Novit Dominus mutare sententiam, si tu noveris emendare delictum. B. Ambros. Com. in Luc. 1. de Propher. Zacharie Tom. 5.

Sect. II.

Scope. Thankfully to blesse the Lord, both for his gracious visiting and redeeming his People from their enemies to serve him in holynesse, &c. by Jesus Christ now incarnate according to his Promises, Covenant, and Oath of old to his People: and also for sending John Baptist, the Prophet of the Highest now under the New Testament before his face, to prepare his way before him, and fit a people for him, by preaching remission of sins, and salvation by Jesus Christ.

Sect. III.

Principal Parts. In this Prophecy of Zacharias, note 1. The Inscription. 2. The thankful Prophecy it self.

I. The Inscription, declaring 1. The Causes of this Song: Principal, the Holy Ghost: Instrumental, Zacharias. 2. The Manner of it, He prophecied: its a prophetical Thanksgiving, or a thankful Prophecy, ver. 67.

II. The thankful Prophecy it self, 1. Concerning Jesus Christ. 2. Touching John Baptist his forerunner.

1. Concerning Jesus Christ, now incarnate and conceived of the Virgin Mary, blessing the Lord, God of Israel, I. More generally, for his merciful visitation of them in Christ, ver. 68. II. More particularly, for his redemption and salvation of his people by Christ, ver. 68, 69. This is Amplified by a Declaration 1. Of the house whence the Redeemer came, viz. Davids, ver. 69. 2. Of the outward impulsive cause of this Redemption, viz. His word by all his Prophets, ver. 70, 71. His word by all his Prophets, ver. 70, 71. His promise to the Fathers, ver. 72. His Covenant and Oath to Abraham, ver. 72, 73. 3. Of the end of this Redemption or fruit thereof to his, viz. their constant service of God without fear in holinesse and righteousnesse, v. 74, 75.

2. Touching John Baptist then circumcised, Prophetically describing 1. His Office, viz. The Prophet of the Highest, ver. 76. 2. His execution of his Office in preparing Christs way before him, by revealing to the people sitting in darknesse, salvation, remission of sins, and the way of peace in Jesus Christ, v. 76: to 80.

Sect. I. Name and Penman.

THE Gospel according to JOHN. This Book is thus entituled from the Penman of it, viz. Not John the Baptist (as he is a surnamed.) Nor John b surnamed Mark, but John the Apostle, whom Jesus loved, c This is the Disciple which testifieth of these things, and wrote these things. He wrote also three Epistles; and the Revelation in Patmos.

JOHN is originally an Hebrew name, viz. יוחנן d Jochanan, it is also sometimes written יהוחנן e Jehochanan; It is compounded of יהוה Jehovah, The LORD, the proper and essential name of God; and of חנן Chanan signifying, He hath been gracious; whence comes חן Chen, viz. Grace; so that this name JOHN imports, The Lord hath been gracious; or, The Grace of the Lord.

This John was of Bethsaida, which was after called Julias from Julia the daughter of Augustus, the f son of Zebedee, and brother of James, Fishermen by trade, whom Christ called forth to be fishers of men. Salome (mentioned g in the New Testament) is supposed to be John's mother. As John was with his Father and Brother in the Ship, mending their Nets, Jesus h called him and James his Brother; these two Jesus i surnamed Boanerges; that is, the sons of Thunder. * Hierome stiles John, The Evangelical Trumpet, son of Thunder, whom Jesus loved very much; who drank the streams of Doctrines from our Saviours bosome.

It is a Tradition k that John lived a single life, yet some are of opinion that John was l the Bridegroom at Cana in Galilee. It is certain that John was highly honoured of Christ; Before his Death; After his Resurrection; and After his Ascension. I. Before Christs Death, 1. John was one of the three m whom Christ took up with him into the Mount to behold his glorious transfiguration. 2. One of the two, n whom Christ sent to prepare his last Passeover. 3. That Disciple whom Jesus peculiarly o loved above all the rest for his singular graces and endowments. 4. Who p leaned on Jesus breast at Supper. 5. To whom Christ, by a q private token, discovered that Judas should betray him. 6. One of the Disciples r whom Christ would have nigh to him in his Agony in the Garden. And though John through humane frailty, when Christ was apprehended by the Jewes, fled among the rest, leaving his garment in their hands, escaped, s for so s some interpret that of the young man in Mark 14. 51, 52. understanding it of John) yet he speedily returned and t followed Christ even into the High-Priests Palace, to see the end. For John is thought to be that Disciple who was known unto the High-Priest, and went in with Jesus, and afterwards brought in Peter also. 7. The onely Disciple to whom Jesus Christ u commended his own mother, as they both were standing under his Cross, when he was a dying. II. After Christs Resurrection, 1. Mary Magdalene declaring the sweet news of Christs Resurrection, x John and Peter runne to the Sepulchre, but John out-ran Peter, as he out-loved Peter. 2. John was present at all Christs Apparitions, for 40. dayes. 3. John y first knew Christ standing on the shore as they were fishing at the Sea of Tiberias. III. After Christs Ascension. 1. John and Peter z miraculously healed the lame man as they were going into the Temple. 2. They a preached boldly against all Prohibitions 3. And b Samaria being converted by Philip, they were sent by common consent of the Apostles to Samaria, where at the imposition of their hands the Holy Ghost was given. 4. And Paul reckons c John among the Pillars of the Church of Christ, who among others gave him the right hand of fellowship at Jerusalem; which seems to be done at the famous Jerusalem d Councell.

That

That John the Apostle, after he in Rome had been cast into burning oyle, and suffered nothing thereby, was banished into an Island. (Though some i think this was done not at Rome, but at Ephesus.) Nero is thought to have flung him into the burning oyle: and Domitian to have banished him into an Island, viz. k Patmos, where on the Lords day he was in the Spirit, and had the Revelation given to him of God by an Angel. This exile of John is thought to be in the l fourteenth year of Domitian, when he raged so against the Church of Christ. From which banishment, after one years space, Nerva succeeding and rescinding Domitians impious Decrees, John is thought to have returned again to Ephesus in the 97. year of his age, and there to have lived and taught till he was ninety nine. Irenaus hath a very observable story of him, saying, m Polycarpus not onely taught by the Apostles, and conversing with many of them which have seen our Lord: but being constituted Bishop in the Church at Smyrna which is in Asia, whom we saw in our first age, for he continued very long. ——— There are that heard him say, that John the Disciple of the Lord, when he went to wash himself in the Bath at Ephesus, and espied Cerinthus within it, he leapt out of the Bath unwashed, and used these words, Let us flee lest the Bath fall, because Cerinthus the enemy of the Truth is in it. Also Polycarpus himself, when Marcion sometime came into his sight, and said, Acknowledge us; He answered, I acknowledge thee the first-begotten of Satan. With such study did the Apostles and their Disciples take heed lest they should have so much as any exchange of speech with any of them that did adulterate the Truth. n Eusebius also reports the same, and he records also out of Clement Alexandrinus another memorable story of Johns recovering of an Apostate disciple to repentance and reformed life, who had fallen to common robbing and stealing, and was a Captaine of the Thieves, but that's too large here to recite. They that please may read it Englished by Mr. Fox in his p Book of Martyrs.

Touching Johns death reports of Writers are various and uncertain, and some circumstances thereof related, seem fabulous and incredible. Nicephorus saith, q That John fore-seeing the day and hour of his dissolution, went forth at last (the Elders and Ministers accompanying him) out of Ephesus to a neighbouring tomb, where he was wont to pray, and there praying earnestly he commended the Churches to God, Takes his leave of them and covered with grave cloaths went into the Sepulcher and fell asleep in the 68 year after Christs Passion; whence his body was translated and carried up to Heaven. Sophronius (as Pareus r hath noted) reports, That John dyed in the 3d. year of Trajane the Emperour, that is in the 68 year after Christs Resurrection. Hierome writes s That John in the fourteenth year of Domitian, who raised up the second Persecution after Nero, banished by him into the Isle of Patmos, wrote his Revelation, which Justine Martyr and Irenæus interpret. But Domitian being slain and his Acts being for their too much cruelty rescinded by the Senate, he returns to Ephesus under Nerva the Emperour, and there continuing till Trajane the Emperour, he founded and governed all the Churches of Asia, and being worn with old age, he died in the 68 year after the Lords Passion, being buried nigh that City. And Augustine, Commending of those words of Jesus to Peter touching John, t If I will that he tarry till I come, what is that to thee? &c. saith thus, u John by occasion of these words, is believed to sleep alive under the Earth, Of whom they have a Tradition which is found in some writings though Apocryphal, that when he commanded a Sepulchre to be made for him, he was present and well; it being digged and diligently prepared, there he laid himself, as in a bed, and presently dyed. But as these think, that thus understand the Lords words, he died not, but lay down like one dead: and when he was supposed to be dead, he was buried sleeping, and so remains till Christs coming, and declares his life by the heaving up of the dust, which dust is supposed to ascend from the bottom to the top of the tomb by the force of his breath that reiseth it. And yet some report, x John made his Sepulchre with his own hands; and left his Disciples, Overseers of several Churches, viz. Pastor of Jerusalem, Polycarp of Smyrna, and Ignatius of Antioch.

Sect. II. Time when, and Occasion wherepon John wrote his Gospel.

Time, John wrote his Gospel last of all the Evangelists, as y Hierome testifieth. Irenæus saith, z John the disciple of the Lord, who also leaned upon his breast, he published his Gospel while he dwelt at Ephesus in Asia. * Eusebius also citeth this Testimony out of Irenæus. Hence it is very probable, that John wrote his Gospel towards the end of his life; Having preached (as a some think) 65 years, till the last times of Domitian, and that without any help of writing.

Occasion of Johns writing his Gospel, Ecclesiastical Writers tell us was twofold, viz. 1. To oppose and b confute the blasphemous heresies of Ebion and Cerinthus, who denied the Divinity of Christ, and of the Nicolaitans before them, who held divers horrid and absurd opinions touching Christs Person. Hence John in the beginning of his Gospel, so notably asserts the Divinity and Humanity of Christs Person. Hierome thus relates this Occasion, c When John was in Asia, and the seeds of Heresies, Cerinthus, Ebion and others, denying Christ to be come in the flesh, began to bud; whom he in his Epistles calls Antichrists, and the Apostle Paul often smites; He was compelled by almost all the then Bishops of Asia, and messages of many Churches, to write more highly of our Saviours Divinity, and to break in (as I may say,) to the very WORD of God, not so much with a bold, as an happy temerity. Whereupon Ecclesiasticall History declareth, when he was compelled by the Brethren to write, he answered he would do so, if they appointing a Fast, would all jointly intreat the Lord; which being performed, he being filled with Revelation, uttered that Proem comming from Heaven. In the beginning was the Word, and the Word was with God, and the Word was God. The same was in the beginning with God. ——— 2. To supply what the other three Evangelists had omitted, who principally and for the most part relate things done by Christ, but for that one year wherein Christ suffered, after John was cast into Prison; as d Eusebius at large explained. Thus Hierome; e when John had read Matthew's, Mark's, and Luke's volumes, he approved the Texture of the History and confirmed that they had spoken Truths, but had framed the History onely of one year, in which he suffered, after Johns imprisonment. That year therefore being passed by, the Acts whereof were declared by three, he declared the things done in the former time before John was shut up in Prison, as may be manifest to them that shall diligently read the volumes of the four Gospels.

Sect. III. Scope, and Excellency of John's Gospel.

Scope of Johns writing his Gospel-History, himself expressely noteth, f These are written that ye might believe that Jesus is the Christ the Sonne of God, and that believing, ye might have life through his Name. To this end he asserteth both the Divinity and Humanity of Christs Person, against the Heresies of his times: and also describeth his Mediatory Office, especially his Prophecy and Doctrine * in many particulars lars, which none of the other three Evangelists had touched.

Excellency of this Gospel is very great, for 1. The Instrument, author or Penman of it, John, was not onely an Apostle, but an Apostle of many eminent Privileges, (as above was noted;) a Saint compounded of grace and sweetness, that above all the rest he drew Christs heart after him. Because (saith f Chrysost.) and holy, full of admiration, abounding with secret wisdome, conferring so many and so great good things, that they who diligently read, and accurately observe him, may now not be accounted men and inhabitants on Earth, but above all good things of this world, may be placed in the rank of Angels, nor otherwise inhabit Earth, than as it were heaven it self. 2. The Matter of this History is most sublime and Coelestiall, viz. Christs ineffable Divinity, and incomparable Doctrine most insisted upon. John hereupon is deservedly compared (saith one,) to the flying Eagle, that soars higher than other Birds, and looks upon the rayes of the Sun with undazled eyes. For the other Evangelists, who sufficiently declare Christs Temporal Nativity and Acts, which he did in his manhood, but spake little of his Divinity, like going Creatures, walk with the Lord on earth. But he speaking little of his Temporal deeds, but more sublimely contemplating the power of his Divinity, flyes with the Lord to Heaven: for he that leaned upon the Lords breast at Supper, did more excellently than the rest, drink a draught of Coelestial wisdome from the fountain of the Lords breast. And John notably supplye the Doctrine, which Christ taught in the first years of his Ministry, before John Baptists imprisonment, which others had omitted. 3. The form of Johns writing is singular in Mysteriousness and Sweetness; in Mysteriousness, so often stiling Christ the i WORD, because as man expresseth his mind and will to another by a Word, so God hath made himself, and all his pleasure known by his substantiall word, the Son, unto us. In Sweetnesse, this gracious Disciple of Christs love, breathing out such strains of grace, and Torrents of love all along his Gospel. 4. Finally this Gospel hath been always had in most high esteem among the ancient learned Fathers. Augustine k reports that a Platonist was so taken with the beginning of Johns Gospel, That he said it was to be written in letters of gold, and to be set up in the most eminent places throughout all Churches. And elsewhere, l The Gospel excells all pages of Divine Scripture; for what the Law and Prophets foretold to come, the Gospel saith is come to passe. But among the Gospel-writers John excells in the Profoundnesse of divine mysteries. Ambrose saith, in Saint John who wrote his Gospel last, as a necessary requisite and Elect of Christ, powreth out eternal mysteries with a greater Trumpet; whatsoever he spoke, is a mystery. And elsewhere, n None, I dare say, saw the Majesty of God with such sublimity of wisdome, and unfolded them to us in our language. He transcends the clouds, transcends the powers of Heaven, transcends the Angels, and finds the Word in the beginning, and sees the Word with God. And of the first chapter he saith, o Our Fisher hath excluded all Heresies in this short chapter. For that which was in the beginning, is not included in time, nor prevented by the beginning, therefore let Arrius hold his peace. And that which was with God, is not confounded with commixtion, but distinguished by the solid Perfection of the Word abiding with the Father; that Sabellius may be dumb. And the Word was God, therefore this Word is not in the Pronunciation of speech, but in that designation of coelestial power; that Fotinus may be confuted. And that which was in the beginning with God, is taught to be the inseparable Unity of the

Sect. IV. Principal Parts.

In this Gospel-History JESUS CHRIST is described according to 1. His Person. 2. His Offices. 3. His execution of his Office.

CHRISTS PERSON is described as being God-man in one Person, I. The Godhead of Christ the WORD, is gloriously asserted, and clearly proved, 1. By his Eternity, Ch. I. ver. 1, 2. 2. By his Efficiency. Partly in Naturals, viz. creating the world, and all therein, and so enlightning all men with natural light, as John Baptist also testified, ver. 3. to 11. Partly in supernaturals, giving the Prerogative of Sonship or Adoption to all regenerate Believers, ver. 11, 12, 13. II. The Manhood of Christ is set forth, 1. By his incarnation. 2. By his cohabitation with men. 3. By his apparently Divine qualifications ver. 14. — I.

CHRISTS OFFICE is declared, as it was attested by John Baptist. 1. More generally, as a full and communicative Saviour, the Substance of the legal types and shadows, ver. 15, 16, 17. II. More particularly, I. As a Prophet, declaring God to us, ver. 18. II. As King and Priest, 1. Partly John testifying that he was the Christ, viz. Annointed to be both Prophet, Priest and King, and that John himself was only his fore-runner, ver. 19. to 29. 2. Partly, John next day pointing him out as with the finger that he was the Lamb of God, &c. which Testimony. He amplifies, shewing that he therefore baptized with water, that Christ might be made manifest to Israel, ver. 29, 30, 31. He confirmes by the Testimony of God at his Baptisme, v. 32, 33, 34. — II.

CHRISTS EXECUTION of his OFFICE, 1. Before, 2. In his four eminent Journeys to Jerusalem, at four solemn Feasts, wherein are described the chief passages of Christs Publick ministry, both in his Life and Death. — III.

I. Before Christs last journey to Jerusalem after his Baptism, are recorded, I. II. His abode at Jerusalem, during which time, 1. He purgeth the Temple of buyers and sellers, ver. 14. to 17. This act is amplified by the event thereupon, Partly on Christs Disciples, Partly on the Jews, who hereupon expecting a sign, had the sign of Christs raising the Temple of his body in three three dayes, if they should destroy it, ver. 17. to 23. 2. He worketh miracles on the Feast day, whereupon many believe on him, but he committed not himself to them, v. 23, 24, 25. 3. He preacheth to Nicodemus the Pharisee, a Ruler of the Jews, confessing the Divinity of his Miracles; 1. The necessity of regeneration to salvation, Ch. III. 1. to 14. 2. The benefit of faith in Christ crucified, ver. 14, 15. 3. The great love of God in Christ to the world, v. 16, 17. 4. The mischief of unbelief, ver. 18. to 22. III. His return from Jerusalem, Partly through Judea, where 1. He by his Disciples baptizeth, ver. 22. 2, John baptizing in Ænon near Salim, gives a most excellent testimony touching Christ to the Jews, complaining that Christ baptized more then he, wherein he debaseth himself that he may exalt Christ, ver. 23. to the end. Partly through Samaria, Chap. IV. 1. to 5. where. 1. He conferreth with the Samaritan woman at Jacobs Well, Declaring himself to be water of life, ver. 5. to 16. Convincing her of her adultery, ver. 16, 17, 18. Instructing her in the true Worship of God, ver. 19. to 25. And Declaring himself to be the Messiah, ver. 25, 26. This is amplified by the event of this conference, Upon the Disciples, they wondred, ver. 27. Upon the woman, running to call the Samaritanes to see Christ, v. 28, 29. And upon the Samaritanes coming to see him, v. 30. 2. He sheweth to his Disciples mean while, His zeal to his fathers work, v. 31. to 35. The spiritual harvest of souls ripe already, that the Apostles might reap what the Prophets had sown, v. 35. to 39. 3. He converteth many Samaritanes, tarrying with them two dayes, v. 39. to 43. 4. Thence he returneth into Galilee, where he miraculously healeth the Noble-mans son at Capernaum, ready to die, ver. 43. to the end.

II. At another Feast (probably the Feast of Pentecost which next follows the Passeover, as (q) some judge, though others think it was the (r) second Passeover at which Christ was; compare John 6. 4. and that in the second year of his ministry,) when Jesus went up to Jerusalem, Ch. V. 1. At which season. I. Jesus cureth on the Sabbath, a man lying at the pool of Bethesda, that had been sick of the Palsie thirty eight years, v. 2. to 10. This act is amplified, 1. By the Jews offence at Christ, and persecuting him for healing on the Sabbath, v. 10. to 17. 2. By Christs Apology for himself and his Act, declaring to them who himself is by a manifold Testimony, viz. Of his father, v. 17. to 32. Of John Baptist, v. 32. to 36. Of his works, v. 36. to 39. And of the Scriptures, v. 39. to the end. II. Christ feedeth the multitude, about five thousand, with five loaves and two fishes, Ch. VI. 1. to 15. III. Christ walketh on the Sea to his Disciples, v. 15. to 22. IV. Christ preacheth a Sermon to the Capernaites touching himself the true Bread of life; here note 1. The occasion of the Sermon, v. 22. to 26. 2. The Sermon it self, principally instructing them therein, That himself is the Author of everlasting life, and that faith is the instrument whereby we apply him, v. 26. to 59. 3. The Events of this Sermon, v. 59. to the end.

Chap. 5.

Chap. 6.

III. At the Feast of Tabernacles, In reference to which consider

1. How Christ ascended up to the Feast privately, not openly, as his brethren with ill intent incited him, Ch. VII. 1. to 11.

Chap. 7.

2. The Jews seeking for him at the Feast, and their various opinions of him, ver. 11. to 14.

3. His Sermon in the Temple in the middle of the Feast to the Jews wonder, ver. 14, 15. wherein 1. He asserts the Divinity of his Doctrine, v. 16, 17, 18. 2. He reproves the Jews for seeking to kill him for healing on the Sabbath, justifying his fact by Circumcision on the Sabbath, v. 19. to 25. 3. He answers the peoples false Argument that he was not the Christ because they knew whence he was, v. 25. to 32. 4. Upon occasion of the Pharisees and chief Priest sending Officers to take him, he threatens after a little while his departure from them, ver. 32. to 37.

4. His Sermon on the last day of the Feast, whereof note 1. The matter, viz. his invitation of all spiritually-thirsty souls to believe in him, promising to them the Spirit, v. 37. to 40. II. The Events, 1. The peoples various opinions of him, v. 40 to 43. 2. The Officers sent to take him, were so taken themselves with his Doctrine, that they could not apprehend him, ver. 45. to 50. 3. Nicodemus his Apology for Christ, ver. 50. to the end.

5. His teaching the people in the Temple next morning, Chap. VIII. 1, 2. where I. He Convinceth the consciences of the Scribes and Pharisees asking him what punishment should be inflicted upon the woman taken in adultery, urging her to repent, ver. 3. to 12. II. He preacheth, 1. Declaring himself the light of the world, v. 12. 2. Asserting the truth of him his Doctrine and testimony touching himself by his Fathers joyne testimony also, v. 13. to 33. 3. Confuting the Jews vain and hypocritical boasting that they were Abrahams seed, by their degenerate wicked practices, showing they were neither children of Abraham, nor of God, but of the Devil, ver. 33. to the end.

Chap. 8.

6. His curing the man on the Sabbath day that was born blind: Described I By the Occasion and precedent circumstances, Chap. IX 1. to 6. II. By the Manner of the cure, ver, 6, 7, III. By the Events ensuing thereupon, viz. 1. The neighbours bring the man to the Pharisees, informing them of Jesus his cure, ver. 8. to 14. 2. The Pharisees enquire of how Christ cured him, and of his Parents, chiding with him for confessing Christ, and Excommunicating him, v. 14. to 35. 3. Christ hereupon finds the man, and reveals himself more fully to him, ver. 35. to 39. 4. Christ upbraids the Pharisees for their blindnesse, ver, 39, 40, 41.

Chap. 9.

7. His Sermon wherein he preacheth himself the True Shepherd and door of the Sheep, I. Propounding a Parable, wherein he sheweth 1. Who is the true Shepherd, Ch. X. 1, 2, 3. 2. Who the true sheep, v. 4, 5, 6. II. Expounded the Parable, wherein, 1. He declares himself the onely door of the sheep, and those that guide not to him to be theeves, ver. 7, 8, 9, 10. 2. He asserts himself the good shepherd, upon divers grounds, farre beyond all hirelings, ver. 11. to 19. This Sermon is amplified by the Event, viz. The Peoples different opinion of him, v. 19. 20, 21.

Chap. 10.

8. At Jerusalem at the Feast of Dedication, in Winter, I. Jesus resolves the Jews that he was Christ, 1. Reproving their unbelief, ver. 22, 23, 24, 25. 2. Proving himself to be the Christ by his works, ver. 25. 3. Comforting himself against their unbelief, Partly by Gods decree, v. 26. Partly by the faith of his sheep, to whom he promiseth perseverance, v. 27. to 31. II. Jesus expostulates with them against their unjust endeavours to stone him, v. 31. to 39. III. Jesus escapeth from them seeking to take him, to beyond Jordan, where many believe on him, ver. 39. to the end.

9. His raising of Lazarus of Bethany to life, after he had been four dayes dead, described I. By passages Antecedent, viz. 1. His not coming though sent for, whilst Lazarus was sick, Chap. XI. 1. to 7. 2. His going to raise Lazarus being dead, ver. 7. to 18. 3 His entertainment thereby Mary Martha, and the Jews, ver. 18. to 33. 4. His trouble and tears at the sight of Mary's and the Jews weeping, v. 33. to 39. II. By the manner of his raising him, v. 39. to 45. III. By the Events, viz. 1. Many believe, ver. 45. 2. Some tell the Pharisees what he had done, v. 46. 3. The consultation of the chief Priests and Pharisees how they might destroy him, whereat Caiaphas prophecied that Christ should dye for the Jews, v. 47. to 54. 4. Jesus his withdrawing hereupon into Ephraim, near the wildernesse, ver. 54.

Chap. 11.

ourtrue Passover, being immediately thereupon sacrificed for his Elect.) where Christs Passion and Death is described by the 1 Antecedents, 2 Manner, And 3 Consequents thereof.

1. The Antecedents or passages going before his death, were I. The Jews inquisitiveness after him at the Feast, ver. 55, 56. II. The chief Priests and Pharisees command to detect him, ver. 57. III. Christs coming to Bethany, where Lazarus was, six dayes before the Feast, where Mary anointed his feet, wiping them with her hair, Chap. XII. 1. to 9. Amplified by the Peoples flocking thither, and by the Jews consulting thereupon to put Lazarus to death also, ver. 9, 10, 11. IV. His entring Jerusalem riding upon an Asses Colt with the Peoples Hosannah's, &c. ver. 12. to 20. This is Amplified, Partly by the Greeks desire to see Jesus, who came to worship at the Feast, v. 20, 21, 22. Partly by his Sermon to his Disciples and the People touching Death, Self-denial for Christ, and walking in the light, v. 23 to 37. Partly by a Declaration, 1. Of the Jews general blindness and unbelief; though some of the Rulers believed in him, but confessed him not; 2. Of the benefits of faith, and mischiefs of unbelief, ver. 37. to the end. V. His Paschal-Supper with his Disciples; at which 1. He washeth the Disciples feet, teaching thereby his spiritual washing them, and humility one to another, Chap. XIII. 1. to 18. 2. He complains of, and detects the Traytor Judas by a sop, ver. 18. to 27. 3. He upbraids and irritates Judas, ver. 27. to 31. 4. He comforts himself against his approaching death, commanding his Disciples to love one another, v. 31. to 36. 5. He forewarnes Peter of his threefold denial, ver. 36. to the end. 6. He comforts his Disciples against their present sorrow, for his approaching departure from them; And this by many Cordials, or Arguments of comfort, viz. Their faith in him, Chap. XIV. 1. The nature of heaven. His Preparation of it for them, ver. 2. His promise of return. His reception of them to himself. His glorifying them with himself, v. 3. Their knowledge whither he went, and the way; largely expounded, v. 4. to 12. Their doing after his departure the works that he did, and greater, (viz. The same in Doctrine and Miracles: Greater in preaching to Gentiles, whereas he preached only to the Jews, and doing many more miracles then Christ, being themselves many, and having longer time to do them in,) v. 12. His granting of their Prayers made in his Name, ver. 13, 14. His giving of the Spirit the Comforter to them, ver. 15, 16. His vouchsafing them his own comfortable heart-pacifying presence, sweetly described verse. 17. to the end. 7. He exhorts them, Partly to persevere in him by faith by many Arguments under the Parable of the Branches in the Vine, Chap. XV. 1. to 8. Partly to abound in spiritual fruitfulnesse, especially in mutual love one to another, v. 8. to 18. 8. He comforts them again, against the worlds hatred and persecution: as also against his departure: by their Election out of the world, ver. 18, 19. By his own example, ver. 20. By their good cause, ver. 21, 22. By the reflecting of all their sufferings upon God, ver. 23, 24. By the Scriptures Prediction, v. 25. By the Spirits Testimony, ver. 26. By their own Testimony, ver. 27. By his sending of the Holy Ghost the Comforter, whose operation shall be most beneficial both in reference to the world, and in reference to the Apostles themselves, Chap. XVI. 1. to 6. By his Resurrection, (when they shall see him again) and by his Ascension, Promising as a fruit thereof the hearing of their Prayers made in his Name, ver. 16. to 29. Finally, against their flight and dispersion he comforts them by his Fathers Presence still with him, and his victory over the world for them, ver. 29. to the end. 9. He powres forth his Most heavenly prayer, as our Great-High-Priest, before his suffering up of himself for us; Commending himself, and all his, thereto to the Father. Wherein he prayeth, Partly, for himself that the Father would now glorifie him, having finished his work, Chap. XVII. 1. to 6. Partly, for his Apostles and Disciples, that they may be preserved from evil, and Sanctified to the preaching of the Gospel, v. 6. to 20. Partly, for all the Elect, viz. that they may be spiritually united, and eternally glorified, ver. 20. to the end of the Chapter.

2. The Manner of Christs Passion, is described what it was, I. in the Garden, where he is betrayed, Apprehended, and led away to the High-Priest, Chap. XVIII. 1. to 15. II. In the High-Priests Pallas, before Annas and Caiaphas, where Jesus is examined by the High-Priest, buffeted by one of the Officers, and denyed by Peter, ver. 15. to 28. III. In the Judgement-hall before Pilate. where Jesus is. 1. Arraigned and Examined, ver. 28. to 38. 2. Rejected for Barrabas, v. 38, 39, 40. 3. Scourged, Chap. XIX. 1. 4. Crowned with Thornes, ver. 2. 5. Clothed with a purple Robe, ver. 2. 6. Mocked and Buffered, v. 3. And 7. Condemned by Pilate at the outrage of the people, contrary to his own Conscience, after he had divers times endevoured to release him, ver. 4. to 17. IV. In the place of Execution: where, 1 He is crucified betwixt two Thieves, v. 17, 18. 2. A Title is set upon his Cross, ver. 19. to 23. 3. His Garments are parted, and lots cast for his coat ver. 23, 24. 4. He commends his Mother to John standing by his Cross, ver. 25, 26, 27. 5. He drinketh Vinegar, and yeildeth up the Ghost, ver. 28, 29, 30. 6. His legs were not broken, but his side pierced, ver. 31. to 38.

3. The Consequence of Christs Passion, where I. His Burial by Joseph of Arimathea, and Nicodemus, ver. 38. to the end. II. His Resurrection, early on the first day of the week, (unknown to Mary Magdalene Peter and John when they came to the Sepulchre) Chap. XX. 1. to 11, Christs Resurrection is evidenced. 1. By two Angels to Mary Magdalene as she stood weeping at his Sepulcher, ver. 11. to 14. 2. By the Apparition of Jesus himself to Mary turning her self about; who also reported to the Disciples that she had seen the Lord, and what he had said unto her, v. 14. to 19. 3. By the Apparition the same first day of the week at Even, to the Disciples together, (Thomas being absent, and not believing) v. 19. to 26. 4. By his Apparition after eight dayes to the Disciples, Thomas being with them, & his faith being confirmed by hearing, seeing and handling of Christ, ver. 26. to 30. (Here is inserted the reason why some among the many signs which Christ did, are recorded, viz. That we might believe that Jesus is the Christ, and live by believing, v. 30, 31.) 5. By his Apparition to the Disciples at the Sea of Tiberias procuring them a great draught of Fishes, and Dining with them, Ch. XXI. 1. to 15. This Apparition of Christ is Amplified by Christs Conference with Peter, Partly charging him, as he loved him, to see his Lambs and Sheep, v. 15, 16, 17. Partly foretelling Peter by what Death he should glorifie God, viz. by being Crucified, as Christ was, v. 18. 19. Partly, answering Peters Question touching John who wrote these things, verse. 20. to the end of the Book.

The ACTS.

Sect. I. Order and Name.

HItherto of the History of Jesus Christ, the Head of the Church described by the four Evangelists.

THE HISTORY OF THE CHURCH OF CHRIST, his mystical Body, and that in the purest primitive Apostolical times, next followes; and is contained in the ACTS OF THE HOLY APOSTLES. So denominated, from the principal Subject-matter of of this Book, viz. The Acts of the * Apostles in the infancy of the primitive Church, therein recorded Historically.

* Object. But how can this Book be called The Acts of the Apostles, when it almost writes of Paul alone?

Answ. Many things are in this History recorded of all the Apostles, to chapter 13. But more of Paul then of any of the rest; Partly because Luke that penned it, was almost Pauls Companion in all his travels; Partly because as Pauls conversion was more miraculous, so his Ministry and course was more illustrious. He laboured more abundantly then they all, 1 Cor. 15. 16. Partly most of the other Apostles after the dispersion, exercised their Ministry among Gentiles, less famous then Jewes, Greeks and Romans. But its specially observable in this History, here's nothing at all mentioned of any Bishoprick that Peter had at Rome. And Funccius (Com. l. 5. in Chronol.) demonstrates that Peter never was at Rome. D. Paræus in Prolog. in Act. Ap.

Sect. II. Penman.

Penman of this History was Luke (the beloved Physitian) who also wrote the Gospel (of whom a see what is there spoken,) as appears, 1. By the Testimony of the ancient Complutense-Manuscript-Copy, wherein Lukes name is prefixed. 2. By the Preface or Introduction of this Book, wherein he mentions the former Treatise of the Gospel penned by him; names Theophilus, to whom he directed particularly this History of the Apostles, as well as that History of Christ, and also he connects or knits this Book to his Gospel, by continuing the History where he formerly left; viz. At the Resurrection and Ascension of Jesus Christ, which b here is somewhat more fully described, and what followed hereupon, so that this Gospel and the Acts of the Apostles, are but as one continued History. 3. By the very stile, which seemes notably to indigitate Luke unto us, Partly it being compleat and polished Greek, becoming Luke an accurate Grecian, who had also most diligently perused the Septuagint Version; Partly it being repleniished with Hebraismes, suitable to Lukes native Genius being by country a Syrian of Antioch, the Syrian Language being one of the Hebrew-Dialects,) Partly because herein sometimes is the Language of a Physitian, very agreeable to Lukes profession, as c his Spirit it was stirred in him, [παροξύνετο, His Spirit was in a Paroxysme;] the word is used by Physitians to signifie a sharp fit of an Ague, Fever, &c. And again, d The contention was so sharp, [ἐγένετο παροξυσμὸς, there befell a Paroxysme,] —— This word is not used in all the New Testament by any but Luke and e Paul, (whose companion Luke was,) 4. By the consent of ancient and modern Writers; Hieron. saith; f Luke the follower of the Apostle, and companion of all his travel, wrote the Gospel. ——And put forth also another excellent Volume intitled, The Acts of the Apostles; which History was even to Pauls two years abode at Rome, that is the fourth year of Nero, whence we understand this Book was composed in that City——He wrote the Gospel as he heard: but he composed the Acts of the Apostles as he saw. And again, g The Acts of the Apostles seem to import a bare History of the Infancy of the newborn Church, but if we know Luke the Physician to be the Penman of them, (whose praise is in the Gospel, we shall consider also that all his words are a Medicine for a languishing Soul. Oecumenius stiles h Luke the Evangelist, the Declarer of the Acts of Apostles. Erasmus saith, None but the unlearned and unskilful can doubt whether Luke were Penman of the Acts, &c. And Chrysostome testifies, i That the greater part of things here handled are the Acts of Paul, who laboured more then they all; which is the cause that he wrote this Book, who was the Disciple and follower of Paul, namely blessed Luke, &c.

f Lucas medicus Antiochensis—Sector Apostoli Pauli, & omnis peregrinationis ejus comes scripsit Evangelium—Aliud quoque edidit volumen Egregium quod titulo πράξεις Ἀποστόλων prænotatur, cujus historia usque ad biennium Romæ commorantis Pauli pervenit; id est ad quartum Neronis Annum. Ex quo intelligimus in eadem urbe librum esse compositum——Evangelium sicut audierat scripsit—Acta vero Apostolorum sicut viderat, composuit. Hieron, Catal. Script. Eccl. Tom. 1.

g Actus Apostolorum nudam quidem sonare videntur Historiam, & nascentis Ecclesiæ infantiam texere sed si noverimus Scriptorem eorum Lucam esse medicum, (Cujus laus est in Evangelio,) animadvertemus pariter omnia verba illius, animæ languentis esse medicinam, *Hieronym. Sect. III. Occasion, and Time of the History.

It is thought that Luke wrote this History at k Rome, during Pauls imprisonment there, and that l at the request of the brethren at Rome, and by the command of Paul. The time of Lukes writing it, is referred to the sixtieth year of Christ, the fourth of Nero, twenty seventh after Pauls conversion; it contains an history of m about twenty seven years, viz. from Christs Ascention unto the second year of Pauls imprisonment at Rome, which was about the fourth year of Nero.

But the peculiar guidance of the Holy Ghost was the principal cause of Lukes writing both this and the former Book.

Sect. IV. Scope, and Usefulness of this Book, &c.

To describe unto us the Rise, Growth, State and Practice of the Primitive Christian Church in her infancy, in the purest Apostolical times, how far obedient and obeyed Christs Commandements to his Apostles, after his Resurrection and before his Ascension, speaking to them of the things pertaining to the Kingdom of God, and they both in 1 Matters of faith, 2 Worship and Church-Communion, And 3 Church-Government; that herein the Primitive Church might be an exemplary Pattern to the following Churches in all succeeding ages. So that this is a most useful Book to the Church of God, highly commended by both a Antient and b Modern Writers.

Acts 1. 2. 3.

a Hierom stiles all the words of Luke the Physitian in this Book, A medicine for a languishing soul. Hieronym. Paulin. Tom. 2. Chrysostome counts this History such a treasure as is not fit to lie hid in obscurity. Whence no less profit will redound to us then from the Gospels themselves; Here Christs Promises to his Disciples fulfilled, here the Apostles being described as wonderfully changed for the better, doing the things that Christ did, and greater John 14. 11. preaching the Gospel to the whole World, &c. Ioan. Chrysost. Hom. 1. in Act. Apost. Tom. 3. in Nov. Test.

b Calvin reckons up divers utilities of the History of the Acts, viz. 1. It relating his sending of his spirit upon his Apostles) confirmes Christs Truth in his Promises, and that he is the mindfull and constant Governour of his Church, no distance of place hindering his promised presence. 2. It points out the beginning of Christs Kingdome, and as it were the renewing of the World; For though the Son of God had gathered some Church before he departed out of this World, yet the due forme of the Christian Church then began, when the Apostles furnished with new power, began to preach Christ the onely Shepherd, dead and risen from the dead, to gather all the dispersed to him. Therefore from Christs Ascension, whereby he was declared King of Heaven and Earth, the Rise and progresse of the Church is reckoned, Christ subduing the whole World to the Obedience of the Gospel by a few meere illiterate and contemptible Men, against all tempestuous Oppositions. 3. It sets forth GODS marvellous Protection of his Church, exercised with great Trials and persecutions, yea, continuall Deaths. 4. It declares divers excellent Sermons of the Apostles, wherein the pure Doctrine of the Primitive times was contained. 5. certainly informes us of the affaires of the primitive Church under the Apostles; which had we not this History, those spurious Books would have made doubtful and suspected; as the Book touching Peter and Paul, ascribed to him; The fained and ridiculous dispute betwixt Peter and Simon Magus, &c. Joan. Calv. Argum. in Act. Apost. Notably Pareus; This History contains, 1. Eminent Testimonies of Christs Resurrection, Ascension, and Exaltation. 2. The fulfilling of the old Promises of the plentiful effusion of the Holy-Ghost, of the Churches Preservation in midst of her Enemies, of the propagation of the Gospel to the Gentiles. And as the beginning was small and grievous, perhaps so will the end be Luke 18, When the Son of man cometh, shall he find faith on the earth? 3. The forme, condition and state of the Apostolick Church, that is, of a Church best constituted. A distinct order of teachers, and them that are taught, &c. 4. In the Disciples, examples of Ministers prudence, faithfulness: what they did, how they taught, how they dealt with the obstinate, how with the infirme, how with foes how with friends, how they managed prosperity and adversity, how they acted in the doubtful and controversal affaires of the Church. D. Pareus in Prolegom. in Act. Apost.

Sect. V. Principal Parts.

As in the four Gospel-histories, The Birth, Life, Doctrine, Miracles, Transfiguration and Death of Christ are described in his State of Humiliation: So in this History of The Acts are described the glorious Opetations of Christ, in and by his Disciples, in his state of Exaltation. Herein consider, 1. The Preface 2. The History it self.

The PREFACE to the History contains, I. A Summary Repetition, of the termes of Lukes former History of Christ, till his Ascention, so knitting the Histories together, Chap. I. ver. 1, 2, 3. II. A Narration of Christs glorious Ascension into Heaven, described 1. By the Preparation to it, v. 4. to 9. 2. By the Manner of it, ver. 9. 3. By the consequent of it, viz. The Apparition of two Angels to the eleven, gazing up after Christ, and their Prediction of Christs second coming in like manner, v. 10, 11. — I.

The HISTORY it self, described 1. More generally, the Acts of the Apostles in common. 2. More specially, the Acts of Peter and Paul in particular. — II.

I. More generally, The Acts of all or many of the Apostles are described, what they were in the first foundations of the Primitive Church, 1. Before, 2. At, 3. After the Feast of Pentecost.

I. Before the Feast of Pentecost, viz. from Christs Ascention to the Feast, are declared 1. Their joyne devotion at Jerusalem with certain woman and brethren, ver. 12, 13, 14. 2. Their calling of Matthias by lot to the Apostleship in the roome of Judas, upon occasion of Peters Sermon inciting thereunto. This was the first Synod at Jerusalem, ver. 15. to the end.

II. At the Feast of Pentecost are set forth, 1. The receiving of the Holy-Ghost promised, which is described, 1. By the Time when, Ch. II. 1. 2. The form or Manner how, viz. Partly with a sound from Heaven, even as a rushing wind, ver. 2. Partly with cloven tongues, as of fire sitting on them, v. 3. 3. The effects hereof, Upon the Apostles themselves, speaking with other tongues, ver. 4. Upon their hearers, some being astonished, some mocking, ver. 5. to 14. — Chap. 2.

II. Peters Sermon occasioned hereupon, wherein, Partly he confutes the false calumny of them that mocked at the Apostles, ver. 14, 15. Partly he informs the Hearers, 1. That the Apostle thus spoke with other tongues by the instinct of the Holy Ghost, ver. 16. to 22. 2. That Jesus Christ, whom they had wickedly crucified, but God had gloriously raised from the dead, and exalted at his Right Hand, had poured forth these gifts of his Spirit, v. 22. to 24. 3. That God had made this Jesus Lord and Christ, ver. 34. to 37. III. The Effects or fruits of Peters Sermon; viz. 1. The Hearers heart-compunction for crucifying Christ, ver. 37. 2. Their inquiry what they were to do, ver. 37. 3. Peters direction of them in the way of salvation, ver. 38. to 41. 4. The conversion of about three thousand, ver. 41. IV. The conversation and condition of this infant-Church. ver. 42. to the end.

III. After the Feast of Pentecost are declared,

1. How the Apostles (upon report of the miracles that Peter and John had wrought on the lame man; and the Doctrine they had boldly taught against all the oppositions and threats of the Priests and Elders) poured forth their Prayers against the Enemies of Christ and his Gospel, Ch. 3. and 4. to ver. 32. Here note I. The miraculous healing of the lame man by Peter and John; described, 1. By the Occasion, Ch. III. 1, 2, 3. 2. By the manner, ver. 4. to 8. 3. By the events of this cure, both on the lame man and the People, ver. 8. to 12. II. Peters Sermon hereupon, wherein, 1. He declares the cause of this cure; Negatively, not any thing in the Apostles; Affirmatively, the power of Christ and faith in him whom they crucified, but God raised again, ver. 12. to 17. 2. He comforts them against their — Chap. 3.

sin

sin of crucifying Christ, ver. 17, 18. 2. He exhorts them to repentance and faith in Christ, ver. 19. to the end. III. The Events of Peters Sermon, viz. 1. The Apprehension and imprisonment of Peter and John by the Priests, Ruler of the Temple, and Sadducees, Chap. 4. Chap. IV. 1. to 5. 2. The Rulers proceedings against Peter and John, (who boldly preach Christ before them,) v. 5. to 23. 3. The Apostles prayer upon report of the whole matter, with the Lords gracious and present answer, ver. 23. to 32.

2. How sweetly the believers conversed together, 1. In unity of heart, v. 32. 2. In communion of state, v. 32. 3. In Authority of the Apostles preaching Christs resurrection, ver. 33. 4. In Beneficence to them that wanted, by sale of their possessions, and depositing the prices thereof at the Apostles feet to be distributed, ver. 33. to the end. This is amplified by the Hypocrisie of Ananias and Sapphira his wife, who sold their possessions, pretended to lay down all the price at the Apostles feet, but kept back part, and were both smitten dead for lying to the Holy Ghost, Chap. V. 1. to 12.

3. How the Apostles wrought many wonders, 1. To the terror of some. 2. To the conversion of many, ver. 12. to 17.

4. How the Apostles were persecuted being imprisoned and beaten for preaching Christ Jesus, and how stoutly they behaved themselves under these sufferings, and after them, rejoycing that they were counted worthy to suffer shame for Christ, and persisting still in preaching, ver. 27. to the end of the chapter.

5. How the Apostles appointed seven Deacons to take care of the poor; This Act is described 1. By the occasion and moving cause of erecting such an office, Chap. 5. Chap. VI. 1. to 5. 2. By the manner of calling the Deacons to their office, whose names are recited, ver. 5, 6. 3. By the Event hereof, ver. 7. This Narration about the Deacons is amplified by the History of Stephen and Philip, two of the most eminent of the seven Deacons.

Touching Stephen here is declared how he I. wrought great miracles, v. 8. II. Disputed prevalently against several adversaries, v. 9, 10. III. Hereupon was persecuted by his adversaries. In his persecution, 1. He is accused before the Councel for blaspheming God and the Law of Moses, ver. 11. to the end. 2. He is examined by the Councel touching things laid to his Chap. 7. charge. Chap. VII. 1. 3. He makes his Apology before the Councel, answering his accusation, wherein he proves (against the ground of their accusation,) That God was not so pleased with Mosaical Rites and Temple in themselves, as that he would have them to be perpetuated, or could not be worshipped without them; Partly by the example of Abraham and the Fathers, who worshipped God aright, and were chosen of God before there was either Tabernacle or Temple, ver. 2. to 37. Partly by the Testimony of Moses, who prophecied of Christ the Prophet like unto him, who should institute a new way of worship whom Moses commanded the Jews to obey, v. 37. to 42. Partly by the example of the wicked Jews, who when they had the Tabernacle, worshipped not God aright, in that they served idols, ver. 42, 43. Partly by the nature of the Tabernacle after the heavenly pattern, and of the Temple, which were but to last for a time, and wherein God did not chiefly delight to dwell, ver. 44 to 51. From all which Stephen, sharply reproves the Councel for Rebellion against God v. 51. Cruelty against Gods Messengers, ver. 52. Violation of the Law, ver. 53. 4. Upon his answer he is barbarously stoned to death, Saul consenting to Chap. 8. his death, ver. 54. to the end, and chapter VIII. 1.

Touching Philip it is storied, I. How he converted the Samaritanes, which is set forth, 1. By the accidental occasion of it, viz. A great persecution of the Church at Jerusalem, to the dispersion of all the preaching Disciples, except the Apostles, (Saul particularly making havock of the Church) v. 2. to 5. 2 By Philips preaching and working miracles in Samaria, to their conversion, whereupon they believing were baptized, v. 5. to 14. 3. By the event hereof, viz. The Apostles at Hierusalem, hearing that Samaria had received the faith, sending Peter and John to confirm them with their doctrine, and miraculous giving of the Holy Ghost, by laying on of hands; which power Simon Magus desiring to purchase with money is sharply reproved, ver. 14. to 26. II. How he converted the Ethiopian Eunuch, where consider, 1. The Antecedent Preparations thereto, ver. 26. to 32. 2. The Manner of his conversion, v. 30. to 36. 3. The Events hereof, ver. 36. to the end of the chapter. To this History of Philip, and of the great persecution of the Church at Jerusalem, is annexed the History of Sauls miraculous Conversion, who was one of the chief Persecutors. Sauls Conversion is described, 1. By the session and state wherein the Lord took occasion to convert him, viz. in his heat of persecuting the Church, Chap. IX. 1, 2. 2. By the miraculous manner of his conversion, by the voice of Christ from heaven, and his vocation to the Apostleship, v. 3. to 20. 3. by the various Events following upon his conversion, ver. 20. to 32. Chap. 9.

Hitherto of the Acts of the Apostles, described more generally.

II. More specially, The Acts of Peter and Paul, are described in particular.

I. The particular Acts and Affairs of Peter, were Peter. 1 His Miracles, 2 His Doctrine, 3 His Sufferings. I. His Miracles wrought, viz. 1. Recovering at Lydda a man from the Palsie, after he had kept his bed eight years, ver. 32. to 36. 2. Raising Tabitha, called Dorcas, from the dead at Joppa, where many believing, he abode many days, ver. 36. to the end. II. His Doctrine, 1. Preached to Cornelius the Centurion; Described, Partly by the Antecedent causes of Chap. 10. his preaching, Ch. X. 1. to 34. Partly by the matter of his Sermon preached, ver. 34. to 44. Partly by the events or issues of his preaching, ver. 44. to the end. 2. Defended against them of the circumcision, that opposed his communion with the uncircumcised Gentiles, by his Narrative of the whole matter, Ch. XI. 1. to 19. [Here the History of Peter is interrupted, Chap. 11. by a Narrative inserted touching 1. The conversion of many in Phenice, Cyprus and Antioch, by them that were dispersed upon the persecution about Stephen, ver. 19. to the end. 2. The Martyrdome of James the brother of John by Herod Agrippa, Ch. XII. 1, 2.] Chap. 12. III. His sufferings under Herod who imprisoned him, thinking to kill him; here note, 1. Peters imprisonment, v. 3. to 7. 2. Peters miraculous enlargement by an Angel at the Churches prayers, ver. 7. to 11. 3. The Events upon that enlargement; Partly upon Peter himself, Partly upon his friends; Partly upon the Keepers of the prison, v. 11. to 20. This story is amplified, 1. By a Narration of King Herod the Persecutor his miserable end, v. 22. to 24. 2. By the Success of the Word afterward, ver. 24.

II. The particular Acts and Affaires of Saul, (after Sergius Paulus his conversion, named Paul,) are recorded, chiefly according to five remarkable Peregrinations or Journeyes which he took, viz.

1. His first journey with Barnabas, to preach the Gospel to the Gentiles, (John Mark being their Minister.) Touching which note I. The Antecedent preparation of them for their journey; 1. By the return from Jerusalem, whether they were sent with Alms to the poor Saints from Antioch in Syria, ver. 25. 2. By their solemn Call to this work and travel, Ch. Chap. 13. XIII. 1, 2, 3. II. Their journey it self, 1. To Seleucia, ver. 4. 2. To Cyprus, ver. 4 Preaching the word there at Salamis, ver. 5. And at Paphos, before Sergius Paulus Deputy of the Countrey, where Elamas the Sorcerer withstanding them is smitten blind, whereupon the Deputy believed, ver. 6 to 13. 3. To Perga in Pamphilia, where John deserted them, ver. 13. 4. To Antiochia in Pisidia: where, on the Sabbath-day, at the request of the Rulers of the Synagogue, Paul preached Christ to both Jews and Gentiles, the Doctrine defiring the fame Doctrine might be preached to them the next Sabbath-day, and all the City being come together, the Jewes filled with indignation, blaſphemed and contradicted their Doctrine, whereupon Paul and Barnabas turn to the Gentiles, the Jews rejecting the Goſpel, v. 14. to 41. 5. To Iconium, where at their preaching and miracles many Jews and Greeks believed, but others raiſed up perſecution againſt them, ver. 51, 52. and Ch. XIV. 1. to 6. 6. Thence they flee to Lyſtra and Derbe, Cities of Lycaonia; Chap. 14. where They preach the Word; they heal the Creeple at Lyſtra, upon which the People would have ſacrificed to them as to Gods, had they not been hindred; Paul at the Jews inſtigation is ſtoned almoſt to death, ver. 16. to 21. III. Their return from their journey, 1. Travelling back through all the places where they had preached, to confirme the Diſciples converted, v. 21. to 26. 2. Coming to Antioch whence they were ſent forth, v. 26. 3. Making report of the ſucceſſe and affaires of their journey, v. 27, 28.

2. His ſecond journey with Barnabas, Judas and Silas, from Antioch to Jeruſalem, to that famous Synod there, Deſcribed by the 1 Occaſions, 2 Acts, and 3 Events thereof. I. By the * Occaſions or procuring cauſes of the Synod, which were, 1. The Doctrine, which Chap. 15. certain coming from Jeruſalem taught the Convert-Gentiles, viz. That the obſervance of Circumciſion (and conſequently of the Ceremonial Law,) was neceſſary for them to Salvation, Ch. XV. 1. 2. The Schiſme, [σχισις] raiſed by them that troubled the Diſciples, ver. 2. 3. A great diſpute of Paul and Barnabas with them about this queſtion, ver. 2. 4. The Churches determination to ſend Paul and Barnabas, and certain others of them, as Delegates to Jeruſalem, to the Apoſtles and Elders about this matter, who accordingly went, ver. 2, 3. 5. The Delegates Narration of the whole buſineſs to the Apoſtles, Elders, and Church, when come to Jeruſalem, ver. 4, 5. II. By the Acts of the Synod convened about this Matter, ver. 6. &c. which were, Partly Deliberate, Partly Deciſive, both of them in an ordinary Synodall, not in an extraordinary and infallible way. Deliberative, 1. In much diſputation, ver. 7. 2. In Peters diſcourſe or ſuffrage, wherein he clears the point of Juſtification by faith, and of Salvation without the works of the Law, by the inſtance of Cornelius and other Gentiles with him, who at Peters Preaching believed, and received thereupon the gifts of the Holy-Ghoſt as well as the Jewes, and yet were not circumciſed, ver. 7. to 12. 3. In Barnabas and Pauls Narrative of the ſucceſs of their Miniſtry among the Gentiles, whereby alſo Peters ſentence is confirmed, v. 12. 4. In James his ſentence, Partly confirming Peters diſcourſe, By the teſtimony of the Prophet Amos, ver. 12. to 18. By the decree of God that the Gentiles ſhould be received in without Circumciſion, ver. 18. Partly adding his own advice, touching an expedient for removing and preventing of the Scandal of the weak Jewes, viz. That the believing Gentiles gratifie them in abſtaining from four things mentioned, which occaſioned the ſcandal, verſ. 19, 20, 21. Deciſive, having thus debated and ſtated the queſtion, the whole Synod, according to what Peter and James had ſpoken, determines and makes authoritative Decrees, impoſing them upon the Churches; imparting them to the Church of Antioch, both by word of mouth, and by Epiſtle, which is expreſſely recited, v. 22. to 30. III. By the Events of theſe Synodall Acts, ver. 30. to 36.

* There were three great evils which were the Occaſion of that meeting together of the Apoſtles and Elders, 1. Hereſie taught, aſſerting the neceſſity of obſerving the Ceremoniall Law, and that believers could not be ſaved without it. 2. The Scandal of the weak Jews, and their alienation of mind from the Gentiles who did neglect thoſe Ceremonies. 3. The Schiſme, or ſtrife raiſed by thoſe who troubled the Diſciples. And accordingly there was a threefold power or Authority, put forth in this meeting, 1. The Dogmatick Power, confuting the Hereſie and vindicating the Truth. 2. The Diataktick Power, making a practical Canon for avoiding the ſcandal, and abſtaining from ſuch thing as gave Occaſion of it. 3 The Critick Power, ver. 24. Branding thoſe Teachers with the black Marks of Lyars, ſubverters of Souls and troublers of the Church. Anſwer of the Aſſembly of Divines to the Reaſons of the Diſſenting Brethren, pag. 65. 66.

3. The third journey with Silas (Barnabas parting from him through the contention about Mark,) to viſit the Brethren in every City, where he and Barnabas had preached the word, ver. 36. to 41. viz. I. Through Syria and Cilicia confirming the Churches, ver. 41. II. Then to Derbe and Lyſtra, Cities of Lycaonia, where 1. Paul circumciſeth Timothy, Ch. XVI. 1, 2, 3. 2. They delivered the Decrees of Chap. 16. the Synod to the Churches as they went, ver. 4, 5. 3. Through Phrygia and Galatia, being forbidden by the Spirit to preach in Aſia, v. 6. IV. To Myſia where the Spirit ſuffered them not to go into Bithynia, v. 7. 5. Thence to Troas, where by a Vision they were called to Macedonia, ver. 8, 9, 10. VI. Thence to Samothracia. VII. Thence to Neapolis, ver. 11. VIII. Thence to Philippi a chief City of Macedonia, where 1. Lydia is converted, v. 12. to 16. 2. The Spirit of Divination is caſt out of a Maid, ver. 16, 17, 18. 3. Hereupon Paul and Silas are ſtripped, ſcourged and impriſoned, ver. 19. to 25. 4. Their Jaylor is wonderfully converted, v. 25 to 35. 5. And finally, Paul and Silas releaſed out of priſon, v. 35. to the end. IX. Thence through Amphipolis and Apollonia to Theſſalonica, Ch. XVII. 1. where 1. Chap. 17. Paul reaſoning proveth that Jeſus is Chriſt, ſome believing, v. 2. to 5. 2. Paul is perſecuted by the unbelieving Jews, but ſent away ſafe, v. 5. to 10. X. Thence to Berea, where 1. Paul preaching Chriſt many believed, ver. 10, 11, 12. 2. Perſecution is raiſed up againſt Paul by the unbelieving Jewes of Theſſalonica, ver. 13, 14, 15. XI. Thence to Athens v. 15. where Paul 1. Diſputeth, v. 16, 17. 2. Is perſecuted by the Epicureans and Stoicks, ver. 18. to 22. 3. Preacheth on Mars hill the true and living God, to them UNKNOWN, ſome mocking, but ſome believing, ver. 22. to the end. XII. Thence to Corinth, Chap. XVIII. 1. where 1. Paul abode with Aquila a Chap. 18. Jew, preaching Chriſt till the Jews oppoſed and blaſphemed, v. 2. to 7. 2. Paul went and abode in the houſe of Juſtus, to the converſion of many, preaching there a year and ſix moneths, ver. 7. to 12. 3. Paul is furiouſly perſecuted by the Jewes, accuſed before Gallio the Deputy, but diſmiſſed, ver. 12. to 18. 4. After this carries a good while, and then came into Syria with Priſcilla and Aquila, ver. 18. XIII. Thence to Epheſus, where he reaſoned with the Jews, ver. 19, 20, 21. XIV. Thence he ſayled to Cæſarea, ver. 22. XV. Thence he came to [Jeruſalem, v. 22.

4. His fourth Journey, undertaken for the Epheſians ſakes, from Hieruſalem. viz. I. To Antioch, ver. 22. II. Thence over all the Country of Galatia and Phrygia. ſtrengthening all the Diſciples, ver. 23. III. Thence to Epheſus, where 1. Apollos a Jew of Alexandria, knowing only Johns Baptiſme was inſtructed a little before more perfectly by Priſcilla and Aquila, and went thence with Letters from the Brethren to Corinth, ver. 24. to the end, and Chap. XIX. 1. 2. Paul inſtructs twelve rude Diſciples, † baptizing them, (being formerly as ſome think not rightly baptized) and conferring the gifts of the Holy-Ghoſt on them by impoſition of hands, ver. 2. to 8. 3. He preached and diſputed three moneths in their Synagogues, ver. 8, 9. 4. He diſputed dayly for two years, in the School of Tyrannus, that all Aſia heard the Word, ver. 9. to 11. 5. He wrought ſpeciall miracles, ver. 11, 12. Whoſe miracles the ſeven ſons of Sceva, vagabond Jewes, exorciſts, endeavouring to imitate, in caſting out Devils, were beaten by the Devils, ver. 13. to 17. whereupon, many believed, and conjuring Books were burnt, ver. 17. to 21. 6. He purpoſing to go to Jeruſalem through Macedonia, ſent before into Macedonia, Timotheus and Eraſtus, ver. 21, 22. 7. A grievous uproar is raiſed againſt Paul by Demetrius the ſilver ſmith, and the like craftsmen, for his ſpeaking againſt the Idolatrous worſhip of Diana which uproar was appeaſed by the Town-Clerk, v. 23. to the end. 8. Paul takes his leave of the Diſciples, Ch. XX. 1. IV. Chap. 20.

II. EPISTOLICAL BOOKS.

THE EPISTOLICAL BOOKS of the New Testament are all the Epistles, written by the Apostles; the Apostles being oft-times unable to instruct by their personal presence, supplyed that by writing Epistles. These Epistles are either written 1. To the Believing Gentiles. Or, 2. To the Believing Jewes, as was formerly noted.

To the believing Gentiles, The Apostle Paul wrote his Epistles; which are 1. General, written to whole Churches: 2. Particular, to some select particular Persons.

I. Some a do rank Pauls Epistles thus, according to the Churches and Persons to whom they were written, viz.

Pauls Epistles were written
- 1. To whole Churches; either
  - 1. Europe, as to the Churches at
    - Rome — in Italie.
    - Corinth, Thessalonica — in Grecia.
    - Philippi — in Thracia.
  - 2. Asia, as to the Churches at
    - Galatia, Ephesus, Colosse — in Asia Minor.
  - 3. Judea, and in other Nations dispersed, as the Epistle to the Hebrews.
- 2. To particular Persons; as to
  - Timothy.
  - Titus.
  - Philemon.

II. Others b endeavour, and that not unprofitably, to marshall Pauls Epistles in the Order of times and seasons wherein they were severally written, which Order is not observed as they are placed in our Bibles. And though the punctual time when every Epistle was written, cannot evidently and infallibly be demonstrated, either by the Epistles themselves, or other Ecclesiastical Histories, yet we may have good probabilities hereof, as may appear in this Type or Table ensuing.

A Chronological Table, describing the Order and Time wherein Pauls Epistles were written.

Pauls Epistles were written 1. Before his Bonds and Captivity at Rome. 2. In his Bonds and Imprisonment there.

1. Before his Bonds and Captivity at Rome, are these seven Epistles in this Order, viz.

1. First of all seems to be written the I. To Thessalonians From Athens by Tychicus. For Paul by reason of the tumultuous Jewes, going from Thessalonica to Berea, and thence to Athens, Act. 17. Thence he confirmes the Thessalonians in the faith by his first Epistle, as appears by 1 Thes. 3. 1, 2. and by the subscriptions of both the Epistles to the Thessalonians, (if Epistolical Subscriptions may be credited.) There are who think this and the other Epistle were written at Corinth, because Paul stayed not long at Athens, and because Timotheus and Silas came not to Paul at Athens, but at Corinth, and there abode a while with him, Acts 18. 1, 5. This Epistle written about seventeen years after his Conversion, in the eighth or ninth year of Claudius, and nineteenth year after Christs Passion, wherein (according to Hierome) the Councel at Jerusalem, was held.

2. About the same time, and in the same place Paul seems to have written the II. To Thessalonians, by Tychicus also. For what he had written in the former of Christs coming, and of the end of the World, he further explains in this, and vindicates.

3. The I. to Timothy seems to be written by Paul from Laodicea of Phrygia Pacatiana sent by Tychicus the Deacon, when returning the second time from Jerusalem, he passed through the Region of Galatia and Phrygia, Acts 18. 23. and before he returned to Ephesus, Acts 19. 1. For he promiseth to Timothy, being at Ephesus, that he would shortly come thither, 1 Tim. 1. 3. & 3. 14. viz. in the Nineteenth year after his Conversion, (as is thought) in the tenth or eleventh of Claudius, and the one and twentieth after Christ's death.

4. Next seems written the I. To the Corinthians, from Ephesus, while Paul stayed there, from Acts 19. 9, 22. compared with 1 Cor. 16. 8. (and this rather than from Philippi, as the Greek Postscript intimates, and before he went through Macedonia,) 1 Cor. 16. 5. for he passed through Macedonia after his three years abode at Ephesus. See Acts 19. 1, 8, 10, 21, 22. compared with Acts 20. 1. about the end of which time he is supposed to write this Epistle at Ephesus, before Pentecost. For he said, I will tarry at Ephesus, until until Pentecost, 1 Cor. 16. 8. which when he wrote he seems plainly to be at Ephesus. And Chrysostome so interpreteth it, saying, When he wrote this Epistle he was at Ephesus, it being winter. Joan. Chrysost. in 1 Cor. 16. 8. Hom. 43. Vid etiam Athan. in Synopsi. And this Pentecost went before that Pentecost when he intended to be at Jerusalem, Acts. 20. 16. which fell out about the sixty fourth year after Christs death, in the ninth of Nero, which year coming to Jerusalem with the contribution, he was cast into Bonds: in the thirtieth year after his Conversion.

5. Not much after this first Epistle: Paul wrote his II. To Corinthians from Philippi, when after Demetrius his tumult, he left Ephesus and came into Macedonia, Acts 20. 1, 2, 3. for then he must needs come to Philippi, (which was the first city upon the coast of Macedonia, Acts. 16. 12.) Hither referre that intimation of his coming to Corinth, with them of Macedonia, 2 Cor. 9. 4. that is there said to be done, when after he had passed through Macedonia into Greece, he had stayed three moneths, Acts 20. 2, 3. And after we never read that he returned into Greece.

6. In the same passing through Macedonia: At Nicopolis (as the Postscript intimates,) not farre distant from Philippi before he came into Greece, Paul is supposed to have written his Epistles to Titus, whom he calls from Crete to Nicopolis, because there he had determined to winter, Tit. 3. 12. though he seems after to have altered his purpose, and to have wintered in Grecia, as is thought at Corinth. Some think it was written from Ephesus.

7. The eminent Epistle to the Romans seems to have bin written, whilst Paul was wintring at Corinth, but having wintred in Greece, because of the treacheries of the Jews, returning through Macedonia, he came to Syria with the Contribution, whence at last he was carried bound to Rome in the sixty fourth year of Christ, in the ninth of Nero, and in the thirtieth year after his own conversion. So that these three Epistles, viz. The II. to Corinth, To Titus, And to the Romanes, seem to be written as is said, and all within the space of half a year: but the Epistle to the Romans seems to be the last he wrote before he came captive to Rome. Origen and Chrysostome prove it was written after both the Epistles to the Corinthians, because in both those Epistles he stirs them up to a collection for the poor Saints at Jerusalem, 1 Cor. 6. 1. to 6. 2 Cor. 8 9. which contribution he saith he had received from the Churches of Macedonia and Achaia, to carry it into Judea, Rom. 15. 25, 26. and he brought it to Jerusalem, in his last journey into Syria, described Acts 10. and 21. as himself testifies in his Apology before Felix, Acts 24. 17.

II. In his Bond and Imprisonment at Rome, and this under 1. His former, 2. His latter Imprisonment there.

I. Under his former Imprisonment when he was in more free custody, at his first coming to Rome, Acts 28. 16, 20, 30. 31. Then probably he wrote his Epistle to the Hebrews: For declaring that his Brother Timothy was set at liberty, he promiseth the Hebrews to come with him and see them, Heb. 13. 23. therefore then he had some hopes of liberty, or it may be had liberty at that time and preached in Italy, whence perhaps the Epistle is said to be written not from Rome, but from Italy.

II. Under his latter Imprisonment, when he was clapt up in closer Restraint. Then he wrote his other six Epistles, (in all which he mentions his chains,) and probably he wrote them in this Order, viz.

1. To the Galatians by Tychicus, to whom he writes that he bears in his body the marks of the Lord Jesus, Gal. 7. 17. viz. either his chains, torments, or brands.

2. To the Ephesians by Tychicus also, to whom he mentions his chains, Eph. 6. 20.

3. To the Philippians by Epaphroditus, them he salutes in the name of divers of Cæsars household, Phil. 4. 22.

4. To the Colossians by Tychicus and Onesimus, them he requests to remember his bonds. Col. 4. 18.

5. To Philemon by Onesimus Paul wrote, being a Prisoner and now aged, Phil. 9. and it is thought he wrote this Epistle after his first Apology, in which all men forsook him, but the Lord stood by him, and delivered him from the mouth of the Lyon. 2 Tim. 4. 17. Therefore having some dawnings of hope that he should be delivered, he desires Philemon to prepare him a lodging, for I trust (saith he) that through your prayers I shall be given unto you, Philem. 22. but the Lord had otherwise determined. Some think this Epistle was written after the II. to Timothy because there he bids Timothy and Mark to come to him, whom here he intimates to be with him, ver. 1, 24. But others collect rather the contrary, 1 partly because here he desires a lodging to be provided for him, v. 22. but in that Epistle he is not solicitous about his lodging, but about his departure out of this life, 2 Tim. 4. 6. 2 Partly because there he complains that Demas had forsaken him, 2 Tim. 4. 10. But here he salutes Philemon in Demas his name, ver. 24. Therefore this Epistle was written before Demas his desertion, or Demas had returned again unto him.

6. Last of all, a little before his Martyrdome, (which fell out in the thirty seventh year after Christ, in the fourteenth year of Nero, (as Hierome thinks, Hier. in Catal. Script. Eccl. Tom. 1.) and in the thirty sixth year after his own Conversion, or thereabouts,) Paul wrote his II. To Timothy, as all Circumstances evince, and the Epistle it self intimates. I am now ready to be offered, and the time of my departure is at hand, 2 Tim. 4. 6.

This noting of the several times of the Apostle's writing his Epistles is useful, To let us see why the Apostle wrote so variously about the same things, as Circumcision and other Ceremonies; for to the Romans he exhorteth that they should receive the weak, &c. about Ceremonies and indifferent things, Rom. 14. 1. &c. But to the Galatians and Colossians, he utterly condemns the use of Circumcision, &c. Gal. 5. 2. &c. Col. 2. the reason is the difference of times, as Chrysostome hath noted, Ceremonies were alwaies in themselves Mortales Mortal: At Christs death became Mortua, Dead; only Moses must be honourably buried; for the weak Jewes the use of them was permitted a while; But after they became Mortifere, Deadly to them used them.

But here Pauls Epistles shall be considered according to the method and distribution of all the Books of the New Testament first proposed, and that the rather because so we shall view them, as they stand in order in our Bibles.

And first of all Pauls general Epistles to whole Churches, which are nine viz. To the ROMANS.

I. Order of this Epistle.

THis Epistle to the Romans, though not first written, yet is set first, 1. By reason of the dignity of the Romans to whom it was written, Rome being the Seat of the Empire, and Head of the World. 2. Because of the largeness of this Epistle, this being the longest of all the Epistles: As Isaiah is set first, being the longest of all the Prophets. 3. But especially from the dignity of the matter, and dexterity in handling it, The Body of Divinity is so admirably herein handled, especially the principal points of Election, Reprobation, Redemption, Faith, and Justification by Faith, &c. That it is deservedly called by some [Clavis Theologiæ.] The Key of Divinity, and [Methodus Scripturæ.] The Method of Scripture.

The Epistle of the Apostle Paul to the Romans.

So denominated, 1. Partly from the object to whom the Epistle is written, viz. The believing a Romans; when this Epistle was written, there was so famous a Church at Rome, that their b Faith was spoken of throughout the World. Yea there were even in Cæsar's c household that had received the Faith.

But by whom or when was the Church of the Romans first planted?

Answ. Scripture is silent; d Papists say by Peter; But Peter never was at Rome, as learned men e demonstrate, much lesse planted the Church there. Barnabas is supposed to have preached Christ at Rome, and to have converted the Romans under the Reign of Tyberius. If f Clement may be believed. But now Rome is as infamous, as once it was famous; being the g Seat of Antichrist; The h Spiritual Egypt; i Sodome; and k Babylon devoted to destruction, &c. 2. Partly from the Penman of the Epistle, viz. l Paul.

Paul is a Latine name originally, from Paulus signifying A-little-one. So the Romans were wont to call them that were Little of Stature. Paul being appointed the Apostle of the Gentiles, seems most to be delighted with this Roman name. He was before his conversion m called Saul; an Hebrew name, signifying Desired, Asked, &c. from the Hebrew שָׁאַל Shaal, To ask, desire, &c. but after his conversion he is for the most part called Paul. Augustine saith, 'n Christ with one voice prostrated Saul, 'erected Paul: that is, he prostrated a proud one, 'erected an humble one. For what was the reason 'of changing his name, that being called Saul before, he would be called Paul afterwards: but 'that he acknowledged that the name of Saul was 'in him while he persecuted, a name of pride? 'Therefore he chose an humble name, to be called 'Paul, that is, A little one, —— Of which name he 'now glorying, and commending his humility, saith, I am the least of the Apostles, &c. Ambrose also to like purpose, o 'Amongst our Ancients, names were 'framed upon some reason, as Isaac for Laughter, 'Jacob for supplanting; so he is called Saul for his 'restlessenesse, but after he believed, of Saul he 'calls himself Paul, that it changed. And because 'Saul according to the aforesaid sence, is interpreted unquietnesse or retraction; when he came 'to the Faith of Christ, he calls himself Paul, that 'is, as it were of a Temper made quiet and humble, or little, and because our Faith is Peace. For 'whereas formerly he brought temptation upon 'Gods servants by his zeal of the Law; himself afterwards suffered temptations for the hope, which 'through the love of Judaisme he had before denyed. 'Some think he first had this name Paul given him, upon occasion of his conversion of Sergius p Paulus the Deputy. Whereupon excellently Hierome, q Attend diligently, that here first he received the name of Paul. For as Scipio having subjected Affrica, assumed to himself the name of Africanus: and Metellus having subdued the Iland of Creet, took to his family a Cretan Ensign, &c. So Saul being first to preach to the Gentiles, from the first spoil of that Church, Sergius Paulus the Proconsul, he carried away the Trophies of his victory, and exalted a Banner, that of Saul he should be called Paul. But if the interpretation of the name be sought, Paul in Hebrew sounds Wonderfull: Wonderfull indeed, that after Saul who is interpreted Desired, (because he was desired of the Devil to vex the Church) he of a Persecutor should become a vessel of Election. Notwithstanding (as r some conceive) it is not likely that he changed his name Saul into Paul, but rather that he had two names, as all the Jewes had that were freemen of Rome. Saul then denoted his Nation and Religion, Paul imported his Roman freedome. And Scripture favours this that he had two names, saying; Saul which also is Paul.

p Acts 13. 7, 9, 12.
q Diligenter attende quod hic primum nomen Pauli acceperit: Ut enim Scipio subjectâ Africâ Africani sibi nomen assumpsit; & Metellus Cretâ, insulâ subjugatâ, insigne Cretici familiæ suæ reportavit; & Imperatores nunc usque Romani ex subjectis Gentibus Adiabenici, Parthici, Sarmatici nuncupantur: Ita & Saulus ad Prædicationem Gentium missus, à primo Ecclesiæ spolio, Proconsule Sergio Paulo, victoriæ suæ Trophæa retulit: erexitque vexillum, ut Paulus diceretur à Saulo. Si autem & interpretatio nominis quæritur, Paulus in Hebræo Mirabilem sonat: Revera Mirum, ut post Saul, qui interpretatur Expetitus, eo quod ad vexandam Ecclesiam fuisset a diabolo postulatus, de Persecutore vas fieret Electionis. S. Hier. Com. in Ep. ad Philem. in init. p. 259. Tom. 9. Basil. 1553. r Hen. Alsted. Præcog. Theol. l. 2. c. 12. s Acts 13. 9.

The History of this Paul is notably described in the New Testament, as is evident if the Acts of the Apostles, and his Epistles be exactly compared together: He was a man so singularly observable both before and after his conversion, that to make a full description of him, would fill a considerable volume: In so much that Hierome coming to speak of him among other Penmen of Holy Writ, saith, u Concerning him I think better to be silent, than to write a few things; yet as of other holy Penmen, take a short taste of Paul also.

II. Touching his Religion and life before his conversion; d he profited above many his equals in the Jewish Religion: e After the most strict Sect of their Religion he lived a Pharisee; f He was blameless in legal righteousness, g he was a most zealous Persecutor of the Church of Christ: held the Garments of those that stoned Stephen, consenting to his death; Made havock of the Church, entring into every house, and haling men and women, committed them to Prison; h Breathing out threatnings and slaughter against the Disciples of the Lord, and being a fit instrument for exercising the Priests cruelty against the Christians,) i he received authority from the chief Priests, and shut up many of the Saints in Prison, and when they were put to death, he gave his voice against them, and punished them oft in every Synagogue, and compelled them to blaspheme, and being exceedingly mad against them, persecuted them even unto strange Cities; k But he obtained mercy because he did it ignorantly in unbelief.

III. Touching his Conversion, it was most singular and miraculous; For at last as he was in his Circuit of Persecution, travelling towards Damascus, in the way suddenly a light from Heaven shined round about him, and he fell to the Earth, and heard a voice saying to him, Saul, Saul, why persecutest thou me? I am Jesus whom thou persecutest; it is hard for thee to kick against the Pricks, &c. Whereupon (as Augustine saith.) m He was sent to the Gentiles, of a Thief a Shepherd, and of a Wolf a Sheep. Of a Destroyer, he became a Master-builder of the Church, and of a pernicious Persecutor, a precious Preacher, yea, a prime Apostle of Jesus Christ; while he was a Saul, Christ had not a more bitter foe; when he became a Paul, Christ had not a better friend; The worst child of nature, the best child of grace.

IV. Touching his Conversation and Apostolick Function, after his Conversion it was most pious, laborious and efficacious. I. In Preaching the Gospel, (having received the same by n a Revelation of Jesus Christ, o being rapt up into the third Heavens, which is Paradise.) He p laboured more abundantly then all the Apostles; And q from Jerusalem to Illyricum he filled all places with the Gospel of Christ; both planting it where it was not, and confirming the faithful therein where he had planted it. To which end he undertook divers tedious and hazardous r voyages both by land and sea, with indefatigable Activity and incomparable success. Whereupon saith Hierome excellently, s Paul was the ARROW OF THE LORD; who after he had flown hither and thither, being shot in the Lords Bow from Hierusalem to Illyricum, he hasted to go into Spain, That as a swift Arrow he might make both East and West fall under the feet of his Lord. And elsewhere he elegantly stiles him; t The Vessel of Election, The Trumpet of the Gospel, The roaring of our Lyon, The Founder of the Gentiles, The flood of Christian Eloquence: who rather admires than speaks the mystery unknown to former Generations, and the depth of the riches both of the wisdome and knowledge of God. II. In Penning the Sacred Scriptures he had no small share, writing divers admirable Epistles, both to whole Churches, and to particular Persons, fourteen in all, (The Order and Time wherein hath been formerly shewed.) In which the sublimity of the Matter, the Majesty, Gravity and Elegancy of the stile, and the pathetical quickness of the Arguments, are such as are able marvellously to penetrate all Readers hearts. By which, he though absent, instructeth the Churches: he now dead, yet still liveth, and speaketh to all succeeding Churches. These Epistles of his u Ambrose, and after him, x Augustine compares to the Land of Canaan flowing with milk and honey, yea saith, which of his Epistles are not whiter than milk, sweeter than Honey? which Epistles in the Churches Breast nourish People to salvation. Learned Hierome thus extols them; y I will bring forth the Apostle Paul, whom as oft as I read, methinks I do not so much hear words as thunders; read his Epistles, especially to the Romans, Galatians, Ephesians, in which he is wholly in Controversie; and you shall see him in the Testimonies which he takes out of the Old Testament, how artificiall, how prudent, what a dissembler of that which he doth. Some words seem simple, and as it were of an ignorant rustical man, who neither knows to do, nor decline deceits: but what way soever thou lookest, they are thunderbolts; He sticks in this cause He takes every thing which he toucheth; he turns the back that he may conquer; he feigneth flight that he may kill. III. In z Miracles and signs which he wrought, he was none of the meanest among the Apostles. 1. He a struck Elymas with blindness, seeking to turn Sergius Paulus the Deputy from the Faith. 2. He b healed at Lystra, a man lame from his mothers womb. 3. He c cast out of a maid a spirit of divination. 4. He d did speciall miracles at Ephesus, curing the sick, and casting out Devils, by handkerchiefs or aprons brought from his body to the sick. 5. He e raiseth up Eutichus. 6. He f shook the Viper off his hand into the fire, not hurt thereby. 7. He g cureth the Father of Publius of a Fever and a bloody flix; besides many other h miracles which he wrought for confirming his Ministry among the Gentiles. IV. In Revelations and Visions he excelled, For, 1. He i received his Gospel from Jesus Christ by Revelation. 2. He k was caught up into the third Heaven, Paradise; and heard unspeakable words, which it is not lawful for man to utter. 3. He l was commanded by Revelation to depart quickly out of Jerusalem. 4. He m, by Revelation ascended to Jerusalem after fourteen years. 5. He n is by Vision called to preach in Macedonia. 6. He o at Corinth is by vision encouraged to preach boldly. 7. He p in Jerusalem was encouraged by the Lord in a night-vision, that as he had testified of him there, so should he bear witness of him at Rome. 8. He q was informed by an Angel of the Lord, of the shipwrack and safety notwithstanding, of all that sailed with him. V. In the Extraordinary gifts of the Spirit he abounded, nor was therein r behind the chief Apostles. He had 1. The gift of Miracles, as was shewed. 2. The gift of Tongues, s I thank my God, I speak with tongues more than you all. 3. The gift of t wisdome and knowledge. 4. The gift of u continency. 5. The gift of Prophecy; For he x foretells to the Elders of Ephesus, that

In a word, what may be sufficiently spoken of Paul, in whom as in a Center the choicest virtues and perfections of the Saints did meet? c Paul was a second Abel, not once but every day sacrificed: Paul another Noah, sailing over the floods of ungodliness rising up against him, but without an Ark: Paul another Abraham, taken away not only from Country and Nation, but after bis calling, even from Life it self: Paul another Isaac, willingly bound for a Sacrifice: Paul another Jacob, always watching for the one Flock of the whole world: Paul another Joseph, distributing the food of Truth to the world, giving away with spiritual hunger: Paul another Moses, who brought back all Nations from the devils Tyranny unto Christ: Paul another Aaron; and used as a Priest to the People of the whole world: Paul another Phinehas striking through the impiety of Jews and Gentiles, as the fornication of minds, with the Javelin of Faith: Paul another David, who in combate provoked the devil as another Goliah: Paul another Elias, more clearly rapt up into heaven: Paul another Elisha, who cleansed the Nations from the inward polution of Leprosie: Paul another Hezekiah, who drew divers peoples to the one Faith of Christ: Paul another Josiah, who dissipated and destroyed the Gentiles abominations, &c. Chrysostome d compares Paul to the choicest Saints and Angels, and elegantly spends seven Homilies in the Praises of Paul the Apostle. And elsewhere he saith, e I love all the Saints, but especially blessed Paul, that Vessel of Election, that Celestial Trumpet, that Guide of the Spouse of Christ.

V. Finally, Touching Paul death; After he had wrastled with many difficulties, and waded through many troubles, he was carried bound to Rome, and there beheaded by Nero, that most beastly and cruel Tyrant, in the thirty seventh year after Christs Ascension, the fourteenth year of Nero, and about the thirty seventh after Pauls conversion, as Ecclesiastical f Histories inform us. g Chrysostome saith he was put to death on the twenty ninth day of June, and relates the occasion of Nero's beheading him to have been, h because he converted Nero's whore, from her filthiness to the faith of Christ, so that she would no longer live with him in uncleanness. i Ambrose and k Augustine report, That when he was beheaded, milk issued out instead of blood. And as l Hierome writeth, he was buried in the Ostiense way. But whatever were the circumstances of his death, this is certain, He is now with Christ which is best of all, rewarded with a Crown of Life and Glory, 2 Cor. 5. 1. 2 Tim. 4. 7, 8.

Sect. III. When, and Where this Epistle was written.

When it was written. See in the former Table. Where it was written, is to be considered. It is thought to be penned by Paul at Corinth: 1. Because herein he commends a Phebe to the Romans. She was a Servant to the Church at Cenchrea, which is a Port of Corinth. 2. Because he salutes them in the name of a Gaius his Host, and of the whole Church. And Gaius a Corinthian, β and there baptized by Paul. 3. Because he salutes them in the name of γ Erastus Chamberlain of the City, δ who abode at Corinth. 4. The Postscript testifies thus much.

Sect. IV. Occasion and Scope.

Occasion and Scope of this Epistle seems to be as followeth. The report that Paul had received of some disagreements both in judgement and affection in them of the Church of Rome, who were partly believing Jews, partly believing Gentiles. The Jews either wholly oppoling the Gospel, or mingling Law and Gospel together in the case of Justification, and all of them excluding the Gentiles from the fellowship of Christ, and despising them, insisting too much upon the Prerogative of the Jew: Contrariwise the Gentiles, knowing that the Jews were rejected of God, and the Gentiles implanted in their stead, too much insulted over them, as a People cast away, boasting of their own wisdom and vertues, and using their Christian Liberty with offence.

Now to reconcile these Controversies, and to settle them both in the Truth, and in unity of judgement and affection, the Apostle (being hindred from coming to them) deals by letters: Demonstrating that neither Jews had cause to boast of their Righteousness and Prerogatives, nor Gentiles of their wisdome; both of them naturally being liable to Eternal Condemnation notwithstanding, and both of them being to be justified by faith in Christ alone, and that they should not abuse grace, but walk in newness of life, &c. And therefore the Apostle, I. Removing the false cause of Justification, viz. the works of the Law which some rested in; II. He asserts the true cause both Immediate and Remote. 1. Immediate, viz. True Faith which he concludes upon, confirming it by the example of Abraham, and explaining it by the excellent effects thereof, Peace of Conscience, Assurance of Faith, Joy in God himself, as reconciled in Christ, Newness of Life, Freedome from the malediction of the Law, and Constancy against all Reliques of corruptions or afflictions. 2. Remote, viz. Gods Predestination, where he declares how the Jews, rejected by the pleasure of God for their unbelief, were left in ignorance till the fulness of the Gentiles should be come in, when the Jewes should be restored. III. Having thus cleared and proved the Truth of Justification, he proceeds to practical exhortations: 1. Generally to duties belonging to God and Man. 2. Specially how to behave our selves towards Superiours in matters necessary, how towards Inferiours and infirm ones in things indifferent; and so with certain Rules of life and salutations shuts up his Epistle.

Sect. V. Principal Parts.

In this accurate and excellent Epistle to the Romans, are chiefly three parts, viz. 1. A Preface. 2. A Treatise, containing the substance and body of the Epistle. 3. A Conclusion.

THE PREFACE to the whole Epistle, containing It
1. An

Chap. I. 1. An Inscription describing both Paul the Apostle, who wrote; and the Romans to whom he wrote, Ch. I. ver. 1. to middle of ver. 7. 2. A Salutation, v. 7. 3. Pauls Gratulation at their eminent faith, v. 8. 4. Pauls Supplication to the Lord, that he might see them for his and their Spiritual good, in imparting the Gospel to them, v. 9. to 17.

II. THE TREATISE, comprizing the chief Subject-matter of the Epistle, which is either 1. Informatory and Doctrinal; or, 2. Hortatory and Practical.

1. The Informatory or Doctrinal part of the Epistle, wherein the Apostle discourseth and accurately disputeth about the true cause of our Justification before God. Declaring what is 1 The immediate; 2 The Remote Cause thereof.

1 The Immediate, or more neer Cause of Justification after he had briefly propounded and hinted it, ver. 17 he describes 1. Negatively. 2. Positively.

1. Negatively, Declaring what it is not, viz. Not Good works according to the Law, because all are under sin. Now he convinceth all of sin. and consequently of the utter impossibility of their Justification by Good works, viz. I. That the Gentiles are under sin. 1. Because they with-hold the Truth of God in unrighteousness: 2. Because they thereby pulled down Gods wrath upon themselves, v. 18. This is farther amplified by a Declaration, Partly of Gods way of revealing himself and his Truth to the Gentiles, by light of nature, in the Book of the creature, v. 19, 20. Partly of their sinning against this light, v. 21, 22, 23. Partly of Gods heavy spiritual judgements upon them for this sin, viz. Giving them up to all excess of lusts and wickedness, v. 24. to the end of the chapt. Partly of the equity and righteousness of the judgements of God, whether upon Jews or Gentiles, Ch. II. 1. to 17. Chap. 2. II. That the Jewes also are naturally under sin, notwithstanding their confident boasting in all their Jewish privileges, v. 17. to 21. he proves by the fruits thereof in them, viz. 1. Not teaching themselves, v. 21. 2. Stealing, v 21. 3. Adultery, v. 22. 4. Sacrilledge, v. 22. 5. Breach of the Law, thereby even provoking Gentiles to blaspheme God, v. 23. to the end. These particulars are amplified, by answering to certain Objections, which hereupon the Jews might make, viz. Object. 1. Then the Jew hath no advantage above the Gentile, no profit of Circumcision. Answ. The Jew had much advantage, especially Chap. 3. by having Gods Oracles, Ch. III. 1, 2. Object. 2. Oracles no advantage, because not believed. Answ. Yet some believed; and God is faithful, though man believe him not, v. 3, 4. Object. 3. If mans unrighteousness commends Gods righteousness; then God is unjust in punishing it. Answ. Yet God cannot be unjust, being the Judge of the world; but they are unjust that hence encourage themselves in evil, because accidentally God brings good out of evil, v. 5. to 9. 6. That the Jews are naturally under sin as well as Gentiles, he further proves by Scripture Testimonies, v. 9. to 20. From all this he draws his Conclusion, Negatively, That no man can be justified by the deeds of the Law, v. 20.

2. Positively, Declaring what it is whereby we are justified, viz. By True faith alone in Jesus Christ, according to the Grace of God, as the only instrumental means whereby Jew or Gentile can be justified. This Justification by Faith alone is 1 Proved. 2 Explicated.

1. Proved, by divers Arguments, viz 1. Because God hath without the Law revealed another way of justifying sinners, viz. remitting their sins by true Faith in Christs blood, redeeming them of free Grace, for declaration of Gods righteousnesse; (Grace being the Motive or Impulsive, Christs Blood the Materiall, Faith the Instrumental Cause of Justification,) v. 21. to 27. 2. Because our Justification by Faith excludes all boasting, v. 27. Therefore all, both Jew and Gentile, must be justified only by Faith; God being one, and his way of justifying, one, v. 28, 29, 30. And yet this Justification doth not evacuate but establish the Law in Christ, v. 31. 3. Because Abraham, the Father of the Faithfull, was justified without the deeds of the Law, by Faith only, and that in his state of uncircumcision, and consequently so must all the spiritual children of Abraham be Justified, Ch. IV. throughout. Chap. 4.

2. Explicated; Justification by Faith is explained by divers fruits or effects arising thereupon; viz. I. Peace with God, Ch. V. 1. II. Joy in hope of the glory of God, v. 2. (which tribulation cannot prevent, but rather promote, v. 3. 4. 5.) this hope being strengthned by this Argument, We were justified by Christ blood when we were enemies, therefore we shall be saved by his life, much more being justified, v. 6. to 11. Chap. 5. III. Rejoycing in God himself as reconciled through Jesus Christ, v. 11. This our rejoycing in God through Christ, is amplified by the transcendency of Christ, the second Adam's righteousness, beyond the first Adam's unrighteousness, which are therefore thus paralleld together; both in respect of their Similitude and Dissimilitude. 1. Their Similitude, As by Adam sin entred upon all his posterity, and by sin Death; So by Christ righteousness, came upon all his posterity, and by righteousness life; This reddition is implyed in those words, who is the figure of him that was to come, v. 12, 13, 14. 2. Their Dissimilitude; The sin of Adam, whereby the judgement came upon all men to death and condemnation, was but one; but the free-gift of righteousness by Jesus Christ, hath much more abounded unto many, for their Justification from many offences, and not only from that one sin of Adam, v. 15, 16, 17. 3. Their similitude is again repeated and cleared, Thus: As by Adam Judgement abounded to all unto condemnation, by one offence of Adam: So by Christ the grace of God abounded to all, to Justification of life, by one righteousness of Christ, v. 18, 19. This Parallel is amplified by preventing an objection against it. Object. If sin were in the world before the Law, to what end was the Law given? Answ. To these ends, 1. That sin might abound, viz. in the clearer manifestation of it to us. 2. That grace might superabound, viz. might appear more conspicuously, prevailing over such sin, v. 20, 21. IV. Mortification of sin, and Newness of life another effect of Justification, 1. It evidenced by our fellowship with Christ, both in his Death and Resurrection, Ch. VI. 1. Chap. 6. to 12. 2. Is urged upon believers, v. 12, 13. Partly from the nature of Christian liberty, consisting in freedome from sin, and in the service of righteousnesse, v. 14. to 21. Partly from the evil effects of sin, shame and death, v. 21. Partly from the good effects of freedome from sin, holiness and eternal life, v. 22, 23. V. Freedom of justified persons from the Law (viz. 1. From malediction and condemnation. 2. From its irritation to sin) This is proved and amplified. Proved 1. Because we are dead to the Law, Ch. VII. 1. 2. Because we are lawfully mar- Chap. 7. ried to another husband, Christ, as the wife to another man, when her husband is dead, v. 2, 3, 4. 3. Because we are to bring forth spiritual fruit to our new Husband Christ, v. 5, 6. Amplified 1. By an Apology for the Law, that it is neither sin nor death but rather the direct Discovery of sin, verse 7. The occasional irritatour of sin, and accidental Procurer of death, v. 8. to 15. 2. By the complaint of the Apostle against himself, that his regenerate part is so hindred from keeping the Law, by the reliques of sin, the unregenerate part remaining in him, ver. 15. to the end. IV. Constancy of the faithful in their justified and sanctified state, notwithstanding all their Infirmities or reliques of sin within, and afflictions without. Against both which here are divers Consolatory Arguments laid down. Against the Reliques of sin, they that are in Christ are comforted, Partly, by their security from condemnation, Partly, by their spiritual Conversation, Ch. VIII. 1. Their security Chap. 8. from condemnation is evidenced, 1. By the efficacy of the Spirit of life in Christ, v. 2. 2. By the merit of Christ Jesus our Lord, justifying the Law, and condemning sin, ver. 3, 4. Their Spiritual emancipation is granted 1. From their former debt, they are not under the flesh but over the flesh, therefore they mind not carnal things, ver. 4, 5, 6. And that they are in the Spirit is clear by the habitation of Gods Spirit in them, v. 9. 2. From Condemning sin in the flesh, ver. 10. 3. From Gods Spirit dwelling in them v. 11. whereby they are bound and enabled to mortifie the deeds of the flesh, in being the Sons of God by his Spirit of adoption, v. 12, to the middle of 17. Against Afflictions, they that are in Christ are comforted. 1. By their Communion with Christ both in present suffering, and future reigning which shall far surpass all present sufferings, v. 17, 18. 2. By the example of the creature in it self groaning under the bondage of corruption, to be delivered and restored: The Saints themselves having much more cause to groan after freedome, having the first fruits of the Spirit, and expecting adoption, v. 19. to 24. 3. From the comfortable effect, Patience, Of hope that saves us, by enabling us to wait patiently, v. 24, 25. Fourth, Of the spirit that enables us prevailingly in these afflictions v. 26, 27. Fifth, of afflictions themselves which work together for good to them that love God, v. 28. and render them conform to Christ, wherewnto they are also Predestinated, and notwithstanding which they shall be glorified, v. 29, 30. 4. From God who is for them, v. 31. Who most dearly loves them, v. 32. Who freely justifies them, ver. 33. 5. From Christs Death, Resurrection, Session at Gods Right hand, Intercession and Love to us, v. 34, 35. 6. From an induction and enumeration of particular evils or creatures which can never separate them from Gods love in Jesus Christ, v. 36. to the end.

Hitherto of the more immediate cause of Justification, viz. Faith, and the consequents thereupon.

II. The more remote cause of Justification, viz. Gods Predestination to eternall life; brought in to prevent an objection against Justification by faith in Christ, as not true; because the Jewish Nation received it not. Answ. The Apostle therefore shows that Justification belonged not to the whole Nation, but to them onely that believe in Christ; and none believe in Christ but the Elect, others being justly rejected of God according to his eternal counsel, till the Gentiles fulness be come in; and then the remnant of the Elect Jews shall be converted and implanted into Christ. This the intent of Ch. 9, 10, 11. Predestination is described, 1. By the object Rejected. 2. By the Object Elected.

1. The object Rejected, were the carnal Jews. Their rejection is declared by preventing certain objections which Jews might make, viz.

1. Object. Paul then insulteth over the Jews, flattering the Romans. Answ. Paul insults not over, but griers for the Jews, being most zealous for them as his brethren and kinsmen, honoured with many Pre-Chap. 9. gatives, Chap. IX. 1. to 6.

2. Object. If the Jews be rejected, then Gods Promise hath failed, I will be thy God, &c. Answ. 1. By denying the consequence, for the word hath taken some effect, ver. 6. 2. By distinguishing the seed of Abraham, to whom the promise was made, into children of the flesh and of the Promise; those being rejected, but these being the true elect children of God, ver. 6. to 14.

3. Object, But then God is unjust, loving some, hating others, when both were equal. Answ. 1. By the denyal of Gods injustice, ver. 14. 2. By declaring the just cause of Gods dealing diversly with them, viz. His absolute power and soveraignty, to have mercy on some, and harden others at his pleasure, ver. 15. to 19.

4. Object. Then God finding fault with those whom he hardens, is cruel; for they are necessarily such, not being able to resist his will, v. 19. Answ. 1. Reproving such replyes against God, v. 20. 2. Clearing Gods absolute power over his creature, by the Potters power over the clay, ver. 21. 3. Confirming the equity of Gods dealing, by the unjustice and bad effects thereof, ver. 22, 23.

2. The object elected, viz. both the called Jews and Gentiles, ver. 24. That the elect Jews and Gentiles were elected, 1. He proves. 2. He defends against objections.

1. He proves by Scripture-Testimonies, viz. 1. Touching the Gentiles, ver. 25, 26. 2. Touching the Jews, ver. 27, 28, 29.

2. He defends against objections to the contrary. Object. I. It seems absurd that prophane Gentiles should attain to righteousness, and not the holy Jews. Answ. He answers, 1. Allowing the thing objected, from it never so absurd, ver. 30, 31. 2. Evidencing it by the contrary fruits thereof in both Jew and Gentile, ver. 32, 33. Object. II. But Paul thus justifies these things out of hatred of the Jews. They have a great zeal of God, therefore are not rejected. Answ. He answers 1. By friendly compellation, brethren, Chap. X. ver. 1. 2. By testification of his contrary desires and prayers for the Jews salvation, ver. 1. Chap. 10
3. By concession that they have zeal, but onely a blind zeal, which he proves, By their ignorance of Gods righteousness; By their adorning their own righteousness; By withstanding Christs righteousness; which is the complement and end of the Law for righteousness, ver. 2, 3, 4. which righteousness he proves to be the only true righteousness, both by the nature of the righteousness of the Law, which is impossible to be attained by sinners, v. 5. And by the nature of the righteousness of the faith. The properties whereof are described, ver. 6. to 14. The means whereof are vindicated from calumnies, ver. 14. to the end. Object. III. If God rejects the Jewes, then he rejects his own People. Answ. He answers; Chap. 1
1. By denying it, Chap. XI. ver. 1. 2. By demonstrating the contrary, that God hath not cast away the elect Jews, ver. 2, 3, 4, 5. 3. By distinguishing between the Jews, Elect, and Non-Elect; those being saved, these hardened; as the Scriptures testifie, v. 7. to 11. Object. IV. God by repelling and blinding the Jewes, that they might fall and be destroyed, seems to be cruel, &c. v. 11. Answ. He answers 1. Denying the false end of their rejection objected, they were not rejected that they might fall, ver. 11. II. Explicating the true ends intended by their fall; viz. 1 Salvation to the Gentiles; 2. Provocation of the Jews thereby to Jealousie, ver. 11. 3. Much more advantage by the Jews plenary conversion, ver. 12. which the Apostle urgeth, that he might provoke the Jews to humiliation, and save some of them, v. 13, 14, 15, 16. III. Deterring the Gentiles from glorying over the rejected Jews, 1. From the condition of the Jews, onely some of them being broken off; and of the Gentiles, who were wilde branches, but now partake of the Olive-tree, v. 17, 18. 2. From the absurdity of the branches boasting against the root that bears them, ver. 18. to 21. 3. From Gods impartiality to the natural branches, ver. 21. 4. From the cause of the Gentiles infidion, Gods meer grace, ver. 22. 5. From the condition of their standing, faith, ver. 22. 6. From the exemplary severity of God upon the Jewes, ver. 22. which is amplified by the contrary conditional effect promised the Jews, viz. They if they continue not in unbelief, shall be graffed in again; This he proves by divers Arguments, ver. 23. to 32. IV. Admiring and adoring the unsearchable depth of Gods dispensation herein, ver. 33. to the end.

Hitherto of the Informatory and Doctrinal part of this Epistle.

II. The Hortatory or Practical part, inferred from the former, follows; wherein he exhorts to good works, and duties of Sanctification; 1. More general, 2. More special.

I. More general duties, as
1. To present their bodies a spiritual sacrifice to God,

God, in their service according to the Word, Ch. XII. 1.

Chap. 12. 2. To be transformed by renovation of mind, and not conformed to this World, ver. 2.

3. To be humble under all the spiritual gifts, which God hath given, and to use them aright, ver. 3. Two urged, I. From Gods intent in giving divers gifts, or offices, viz. the good of the whole body of the Church, not that one member should insult over another; ver. 4, 5. II. From a distribution or exact enumeration of the several * offices in the Church, and the several duties imposed upon them therein; and this 1. More generally, into 1 Prophecy, 2 Ministry, ver. 6, 7. 2. More particularly sub-distinguishing, Prophecy and Ministry. 1. Under Prophecy, comprehending The Teacher, ver. 7. The Pastor, v. 8. 2. Under Ministry, comprizing Him that giveth, i. e. the Deacon; Him that Ruleth; And Him that sheweth mercy to them in distresse, in use in the primitive Church, ver. 8.

* The Church Officers under the New Testament.

4 To several Christian Duties necessary to the right managing of our Christian conversation; which are laid down in holy Aphorisms; As, 1. Sincere love, ver. 9. 2. Flight of evil, and following what is good, ver. 9. 3. Brotherly-kindnesse, ver. 10. 4. Mutual honouring one another, ver. 10. 5. Fervency of spirit in the Lords service, ver. 11. 6. Managing afflictions with Hope, Patience and Prayer, ver. 12. 7. Beneficence and Hospitality, ver. 13. 8. Blessing our Persecutors, ver. 14. 9. Sympathizing with one another in joy and grief, v. 15. 10. Mutual unanimity, ver. 16. 11. Patience under injuries, ver. 17. 12. Honesty of life before all men, ver. 17. 13. Peaceablenesse with all, ver. 18. 14. Recompensing of good to our enemies in stead of revenge, v. 19, 20, 21.

II. More special duties to be exercised in things, 1. Necessary, 2. Arbitrary.

1. In things necessary, duties required, are 1. Subjection to the higher Powers, urged by divers Arguments, Chap. XIII. ver. 1. to 8. 2. Brotherly love as the fulfilling of the Law, ver. 8, 9, 10. 3. The putting off all corruptions inconsistent with Christianity, and putting on the armour of light, &c. ver. 11. to the end.

Chap. 13.

2. In things arbitrary or indifferent, (which yet were not indifferent under the Law,) viz. Meats and Dayes. About which the weak, not instructed throughly in their Christian-liberty, took offence at the strong, in that they used them, and so censured them; the strong on the other hand offending and despising the weak. Hereto therefore the Apostle, I. Directs the strong how to receive the weak, and not to despise him, Chap. XIV. 1, 2, 3. II. Dissuades both strong and weak from censuring or rash judging one another, by divers grounds, ver. 4. to 13. III. Directs the strong to take heed of giving offence to his weak brother, who esteemeth things that are clean to be unclean, ver. 13, 14. This he urges by many Arguments, viz. 1. To offend a weak brother is to walk uncharitably, ver. 14. 2. To destroy him for whom Christ dyed, ver. 15. 3. To expose any good to, Thy Christian liberty, to be ill spoken of, ver. 16. 4. The Kingdom of God, consists not in meats and drinks; therefore we are not to contend for them as necessary to salvation, ver. 17, 18. 5. To walk contrary to peace and edification, ver. 19. 6. To destroy Gods work, viz. Faith in the weak. Object. I. But all things are pure. Answ. Though all things be pure in themselves, yet we must not use them to our weak brothers offence, ver. 20, 21. Object. II. But I have faith, and am satisfied in what I do, therefore I may use my liberty. Answ. It follows not: Thou mayst enjoy thy liberty to thy self before God: Needest not use it to thy brothers prejudice, v. 22. IV. Warns the weak to do nothing doubtingly, v. 23. V. Repeats the Exhortation about things indifferent. 1. Charging the strong to bear the infirmities of the weak, Ch. XV. 1. 2. Proving this to be their duty, Partly from the end of Gods giving his gifts to them, viz. Edification, ver. 2. Partly from Christs example, v. 3, 4. 3. Amplifying this by a suitable Prayer for them, that herein they may walk as they ought, ver. 5. to 14.

Chap. 14.

Chap. 15.

Hitherto of the Hortatory, or Practical part of this Epistle.

THE CONCLUSION of the whole Epistle follows; wherein the Apostle

I. Excuseth himself, 1. Partly for his boldness in thus writing to the Romans, v. 14. to 22.

2. Partly for his not coming to them hitherto, being detained in planting the Gospel in Greece, ver. 22.

2. Promiseth to come to them after he had been at Jerusalem, when he should take his journey into Spain, ver. 23. to 30.

3. Earnestly craveth their prayers, in reference to his journey, to Jerusalem, and to them, ver. 30. to the end.

4. Commendeth Phebe to their kind entertainment and assistance, Ch. XVI. 1, 2.

Chap. 16.

5. Saluteth the Saints at Rome, both in his own and the Churches name, v. 3. to 17.

6. He warns them to take heed of Schismaticks that cause divisions among them; whom he notably describes and deharts from, v. 17. to 21.

7. Sendeth to the Saints at Rome salutations from particular brethren, v. 21. to 25.

8. Finally, closeth up the Epistle with a Doxology or giving praise to God through Jesus Christ, ver. 25, 26, 27.

I. Corinthians.

Sect. I. Order and Time of writing it.

AS the Epistle to the Romans is in our Bibles set first, (though not written before all the following Epistles,) besides other Reasons probably for the Doctrine of Justification by Faith, therein so Excellently handled: So this I. Epistle to the Corinthians may deservedly bethought to be placed next in Order for the Doctrine of Church-Government, and Rules of Publick-worship therein notably prescribed.

Sect. II. Name, and Penner.

The 5. Epistle of the Apostle Paul is the CORINTHIANS: So intituled, Partly from the Penner thereof, Paul, (whereby it is distinguished from the larger) Partly from the Church to whom it is sent, The Corinthians: i.e. the Church of God at Corinth.

CORINTH was a famous City of Achaia, (which Achaia by an Hebrew name is called Javan) near to Athens, scated in Peloponnesus, as a little Tract of Land between two Seas, the Ægean and Ionian Sea. A most famous place, very populous and flowing with wealth; is now, (saith Cicero) the Light and Glory of all Greece: yet very infamous for luxury and multitudes of Vices. Once utterly destroyed by L. Mummius the Roman Consul; but after, for the opportunity of scituation, restored to its ancient splendour by Augustus. Paul coming from Athens to Corinth, f laid the first foundation of a Church there. He was their g Spiritual Father that begat them through the Gospel: Converting by his preaching h Crispus and Sosthenes, chief Rulers of the Jewish Synagogue there, and many other Corinthians; among whom Paul continued preaching, above a year and six moneths, God assuring him by night in a Vision, that he had much people in that City. And this Church of Corinth grew one of the i most eminent Churches for all manner of spiritual gifts.

Corinth,* (as Chrysostome saith) is now the prime city of Greecia, and of old it abounded with many commodities necessary for this life, also with plenty and wealth above all others. And therefore some of the forraign Writers have called that place Aprodyv, viz. Fruitful or Pleasant. It situate in the Peloponnesian Isthmus, and had ample matter for Merchandize. It was a City full of Rhetoricians and Philosophers, and of the seven which were called wise men, one was of this City. Chrys. in Ep. 1. ad Cor. Arg. e Lumen & decus totius *Græciæ. Sect. III. Occasion.

Occasion of writing this Epistle, seems from the whole tenour of the Epistle to be twofold. I. The information that Paul had from them of the house of Cloe, of the many woful distempers that infested the Church of Corinth after Pauls departure; as, 1. Schisms and k Divisions; 2. Many heinous Scandals, l as lusts, incest, covetousness, Law-suits of Christians before infidel-Magistrats, &c. 3. Idolatrous communion with Infidels in their m Idol-feasts. 4. Uncomely habits in n publick Assemblies. 5. Gross Prophanations of the o Lords Supper. 6. Barbarous p confusion in their publique Church-Assemblies. And 7. such Epicure-like Atheisme and Prophaneness to q deny the Resurrection and Eternal Life. II. The writing of some of the Corinthians unto the Apostle, for satisfaction in some particular cases; As 1. About r Marriage. 2. About s things sacrificed to idols. 3. About t Spiritual gifts. About u prophecying. And x About charitable Collections for the poor Saints in Judea. Divers of the Ancients, as Ambrose, z Chrysostome, a Theodoret, b Oecumenius, have intimated also the occasion of this Epistle to this purpose.

a Paul at first [illegible] to preach [illegible] many things in this City, (Act. of Corinth.) Christ appeared to him in a vision [illegible] and said, Speak, and not be silent, for I have many people in this City; and he abode there two years. In it the Devil [illegible] by whom the Jewes stirring him subscribed grievous things, in so much that they repented having their Controversie heard, refused to prosecute it, and drave him from the Judgment-seats. Paul, the protector of the faithful, standing on the judgment-seat, Paul was beaten. The Devil therefore perceiving that great City and multitude of People to have received the truth, and for wealth and wisdom to be had in admiration, and to be the Head of all Greece, (for the affairs of the Lacedæmonians and Athenians were in a miserable state, which then ancient Kingdom fell;) when he saw they had received the Word of God with a ready and cheerfull mind, what doth he? He divides the men, for he knew that the strongest of all Kingdomes divided, could not stand; And for the practising of his deceits he took occasion from the wealth and wisdom of the inhabitants, &c. Joan. Chrysost. in Ep. 1. ad Cor. Arg.

a The Devil seeing Corinth a populous City, and formerly given to idolatry, to believe in God, he subornes certain rich men and Philosophers among them, and had set up themselves that they might rule over the People in spirituals. which done, many of the vulgar sort were joyned to the rich, as more potent; and to the Philosophers, as to those who could teach some more excellent thing than the Apostles doctrine: and that hence dissentions and contentions might be raised up among them. They therefore wrote to the Apostle by Fortunatus, Stephanus and Achaicus, touching marriages and Virginity: whom he wrote back to them, both touching these and other things, sending Timotheus also. Because therefore rich men and Philosophers through arrogance divided the people, he first of all corrects their affectation of arrogance. Theod. apud Oecum. in Arg. in 1 Cor.

Sect. IV. Scope.

The Apostle therefore in this Epistle principally intends and endeavours. 1. To apply healing medicines specially to all the forementioned evils and maladies that began to grow in the Church of Corinth. 2. To give the Corinthians satisfactory Resolutions in all the particulars wherein they craved his advice from the Lord. Both these ends will more evidently appear upon consideration of the several parts of the Epistle in the V. Section here following.

Sect. V. Principal Parts.

In this I. Epistle to the Corinthians, consider 1. The Preface. 2. The Body, or Substance of the Epistle. 3. The Conclusion.

THE PREFACE to the whole Epistle, which contains I. The Inscription, describing 1. The Persons writing, Paul and Sosthenes, Ch. I. v. 1. 2. The Persons to whom they wrote, viz. Principally, to the Church at Corinth. Secondarily to all the Saints in Achaia, ver. 2. II. The Salutation, ver. 3. III. The Testification of his benevolent affection to the Corinthians, 1. By his Thanksgiving to God, for the singular gifts of God wherein they then excelled, v. 4. to 8. 2. By his assuring them of Perseverance to the end; upon divers grounds, v. 8, 9. I. Chap. 1. II.

THE BODY, or SUBSTANCE OF THE EPISTLE; which contains a Treatise of severall subject-matters, according to the present condition and necessity of the Church at Corinth; And is 1 Reprehensive, 2 Instructive. 3 Doctrinal.

I. In the Reprehensive part, the Apostle sharply reproves and and taxeth, their 1. Schismes. 2. Contempt of the Apostles ministry. 3. Neglect of Church-discipline. 4. Contentious Law-suits before Infidels. 5. Slight account of Fornication.

I. Their Schismes and Divisions about their Ministers, and their diversity of gifts, for which, some admired one, some another, he sharply taxeth, v. 10. to ch. 4. ver. 1. Here note 1. An embatical exhortation of them to unity both in word and judgement, and dehortation from Schismes; whereof consider 1. The manner, with beseeching, v. 10. 2. The occasion, their grosse Schismes, whereof the house of Chlo informed him, v. 11, 12. 3. The arguments for unity against Schisme, drawn from 1 Christs unity, 2 Christs death, 3 The forme of baptisme, v. 13. II. Paul teacheth clearing himself from being any cause of those divisions among them, either by his baptizing or preaching. 1. By his baptizing, he baptizing very few among them, That not being the chief employment to which Christ called him, v. 14, 15, 16, 17. 2. Not by his preaching among them, to which some affecting Pompe, and embracing Eloquence: others Plainnesse in preaching, (whereby there divisions were occasioned,) This he proves, Partly in that he preached not Christ crucified with wisdome of words to entice them; 1 That being contrary to his Mission, v. 17. 2 That tending to make Christs Crosse of none effect, v. 17. 3 That being contrary to Gods intent, viz. To confound the wisdom of the world, by the plain preaching of Christ crucified; whilst the People usually converted hereby, are not wise, mighty, noble, but foolish, weak and base, that no flesh might glory in it self but in the Lord, v. 18. to the end of the chap. Partly in that he preached in the plain demonstration of the spirit and power to save them, Ch. II. 1. to 6. This he amplifies, shewing that his preaching was with such mysterious spiritual wisdom, as far surpasseth all carnal mens capacities, yet is apprehended by them that are spirituall through the help of Gods spirit, v. 6. to the end. Partly in that he was necessitated to feed them with milk, More plain, easie, familiar doctrines, because of their carnalnesse and weaknesse, which still remains, as appears by their carnal divisions, Chap. III. 1, 2, &c. III. His convincing them of the evil of their divisions, by reason of their ministers, by divers Arguments, viz. 1. The carnalnesse of their divisions, v. 3, 4. 2. Their attributing more to their Teachers hereby than is meet, they being not Lords and Heads, but Ministers, the efficacy of whose ministry depends only upon Gods blessing, ver. 5, 6, 7. 3. The unity of their Teachers, which should teach them unity, v. 8. This unity of Teachers he proves by their office, they being Co-workers with God, v. 9. This their office is illustrated by a double Metaphor, viz. of Husbandry, v. 9. Of Architecture or building, himself being the Master-builder that laid the foundation Jesus Christ, others building thereon, whom he warnes to take heed of laying unsuitable superstructions upon Christ, v. 10. to 16. 4. Their own Sanctity, they are the holy Temples of God, and must not defile themselves with unholy Schismes v. 16, 17. 5. The folly and vanity of all their enticeing Teachers wisdom, in the sight of God, (which occasioned these divisions) v. 18, 19, 20. 6. The vainglory of this admiring their Teachers Persons; all their Teachers with all their variety of gifts, yea all things in the world being theirs in Christ for their good, v. 21, 22, 23.

Chap. 2.

Chap. 3.

II. Their contempt of the Ministry of the Apostles and others, he blameth; 1. Shewing in what account they ought to be had by them, viz. as Christs Ministers, and faithful Stewards of Gods mysteries, Chap. IV. 1, 2. II. Declaring how little he values their judgment of him, (viz. in preferring their eloquent Teachers before him.) For 1. This is but mans judgment, v. 3. 2. He dares not judge himself how much he is to be esteemed, much less should they that know him not so well, ver. 3, 4. 3 It is the Lords Prerogative to judge how every one is to be esteemed, v. 4, 5.

Chap 4.

III. Tacitly preventing an Objection; That might seem to argue thy self and Apollos to Heathenism, that could do nothing without God, and now taught them it ill to be too esteemed of? Answ. He proposeth himself and Apollos as examples of modesty for their imitation, that they be not puffed up one against another for their Teachers. 1. Because God only discriminates them from others. 2. Because they have received all they have. v. 6, 7. 4. Upbraiding their swelling haughtinesse, because of their supposed abilements without the Apostles; 1. By an ironical concession, v. 8. 2. By an option or wish that they were so, v. 8. 3. By an argumentation that they were not so absolute, nor as yet reigned: because the Apostles themselves reigned not, but rather were under great contempt and afflictions in the world, v. 8. to 14. This sharp reproof he mitigates, 1 Partly by intimating his intent therein, v. 14. 2. Partly by assuring them of his Fatherly affection to them as his spiritual children in the Gospel, v. 14, 15. Hereupon he exhorts them to imitate him as a spiritual father; which that they may do, For present sent Timothy to them, to inform them of his wayes imitable; And For future he promises to come to them himself, to exhibit himself exemplary to them, ver. 16. to the end.

III. Their neglect of Church-discipline, in case of the Incestuous Person, who married his mother in Law, he reproveth. 1. Describing the offence; 1. By the fame of it. 2. By the grievousnesse of it, Chap. V. ver. 1. 3. By their extream neglect about it, being so far from mourning for it, to punish the offender, that they were puffed up, ver. 2. II. Prescribing the punishment, viz. * Excommunication, set forth by the 1. Matter of it, viz. him that hath so done this deed; 2. Efficient causes of it, viz. ye gathered together, and my Spirit, in the Name and power of our Lord Jesus Christ. 3. Form of it, Delivering to Satan. 4. End of it, Partly for destruction of the flesh, Partly for salvation in the spirit, in the day of the Lord, ver. 3, 4, 5. III. Pressing them to inflict this punishment, apply this medicine, 1. From the evil of their former neglect and glorying. 2. From the peril of the sin unpurged out; it would leaven them all, v. 6, 7. 3. From the state of the Christian Church, which is now keeping a spiritual Feast, Christ our Passeover being sacrificed for us; as therefore at the typical Passeover, corporal leaven, so now at the true paschal feast, spiritual leaven is to be purged out, ver. 7, 8. 4. From his former command to them, to avoid the society of Fornicators and scandalous persons though not of the world without, which is impossible; yet of the Church within, which properly comes under Church-power, ver. 9. to the end.

Chap. 5.

* Excommunication described.

IV. Their contentious Law-suits, with one another before infidels, he utterly condemns and dissuades from them, by divers Arguments; 1. By this course they preferre the sentence of Infidels, before the judgement of Saints, Ch. VI. 1. 2. The Saints shall judge the World and Angels, how much more are they worthy to decide temporal differences, ver. 2, 3. 3. They shame the Church of God, by appointing insufficient men among them to judge in temporal affairs, whence they were necessitated to appeal to the Pagans, as if they had not a wise man among them, ver. 4, 5, 6. 4. These vexatious law-suits are unbrotherly, and they should rather suffer wrong, v. 6, 7. 5 Hereby they wrong and defraud their brethren unjustly, ver. 8. which injustice is aggravated; Partly, in that it and like sins are shut out of Gods Kingdom, v. 9, 10. Partly, in thanks most unsuitable to their present justified and sanctified estate, v. 11.

Chap. 6.

V. Their slight account of Fornication, he reproves. I. Preventing their excuse about fornication. That it is indifferent, therefore might be done by them.

Anſw. He anſwereth, The ways of Gentiles were fornications [illegible] any is not to be used, either when it is unſeaſonable, or when it belongs to undue [illegible] life, and accompanied with [illegible] but the body is ordained for [illegible] Lord, nor [illegible] 13. By [illegible] 19. This is [illegible] which the Saints [illegible] have to the Lord Chriſt as his members, [illegible] 17. 2. This fact is peculiarly againſt his own body, v. 18. 3. Their bodies are the Temples of the Holy Ghoſt, therefore not to be defiled, v. 19. 4. They ought to glorifie God both in body and ſoul, being not their own, but the Lords, bought with a price, v. 19, 20.

Hitherto of the firſt chiefeſt part of this Epiſtle.

II. In the ſubſequent Part of this Epiſtle, The Apoſtle reſolves, directs, or inſtructs them about diverſe practical matters: as about 1. Marriage. 2. Idolathytes. 3. Rabbinical publick Aſſemblies. 4. The Lords Supper. 5. Uſe of ſpiritual gifts. 6. Tongues. Touching all which, or at leaſt divers of them they had written to him for his advice, Chap. II. In caſe of unequal yoking of a believer and an unbeliever. 1. That they ſhould dwell together, becauſe thereunto the unbeliever is ſanctified by the believer, otherwiſe their Children were not Federally holy, v. 12, 13 14. 2. That in caſe the unbeliever voluntarily depart, the believer in ſuch caſe is free, Provided 2. That all peaceable endeavors be uſed for retaining him or her, there being poſſibility of gaining the unbeliever to the Faith, v. 15, 16. 2. That the believer abiding within the limits of his calling, uſe the gifts God hath given him, for gaining the unbeliever, ver. 17. And ſo he paſſeth from the Hypotheſis to the Theſis, intimating that what he had ſaid of the ſtate of Marriage, that it was not to be deſerted for Religion ſake, the like they were to think of other States of life, and of all externals, whether one be circumciſed or uncircumciſed, bond or free, &c. not to be ſolicitous of changing them, becauſe theſe are nothing with God; yet he cautions ſervants, 1. Rather if they can conveniently to accept of freedome. 2. Not to ſubject their Conſciences to men whom they ſerve, ver. 18. to 25.

5. About Virgins, whether they ſhould marry? I. Theſe Virgins that are at their own diſpoſal, (Parents being dead) he diſwades from marriage, not as unlawful, but as inconvenient, in reſpect, 1. Of the preſent diſtreſs of the Church perſecuted. 2. Of the troubles of the fleſh. 3. Of Worldly cares, ver. 25. to 36. II. Theſe Virgins that are under others Tuition, ought to be diſpoſed in marriage, if they have not the gift of Continency; otherwiſe they may be better continued in Virginity, v. 36, 37, 38.

6. About ſecond Marriages; that they are lawful, the former being diſſolved by death, v. 39. 40.

II. Touching eating Idolothytes, or Things ſacrificed to Idols, I. He refels the Arguments brought in defence thereof. Arg. 1. They that have knowledge are ſufficiently inſtructed of the lawful uſe of idolothytes, they may eat them; But, &c. Anſw. He Answers, 1. By denying the Propoſition, knowledge is not ſufficient without Charity to edify brother. 2. By denying alſo the Aſſumption, they had not ſufficient knowledge, Partly becauſe they were private, Partly becauſe they were inclinable to their former Chap. 8. Idolatries, Chap. VIII. 1, 2, 3. Arg. 2. They that know an Idol is nothing, and that there is but one God, may eat thereof, &c. Anſw. He diſproves, 1. By Concluſion, That all Idols is nothing, &c. v. 4, 5, 6. 2. By limitation of the Aſſumption, all have not this knowledge of Idols and Idolothytes, and thoſe that are ignorant will be offended, ver. 7. Arg. 3. But if we eat not, we deprive our ſelves of our right. Anſw. Eating betters not, Not eating makes not worſe, ver. 8. II. He diſwades from publique eating things ſacrificed to Idols, by many Arguments. 1. From Chriſtian liberty which is not to be abuſed to the offence of the weak, v. 9, 10. 2. From the weak brother, who is not to be deſtroyed by their Chriſtian liberty, v. 11. 3. From Chriſt, who is not to be ſinned againſt herein, ver. 12. 4. From Pauls example, Partly reſolving never to eat fleſh, rather than offend his brother, ver. 13. Partly denying to make uſe of his Apoſtolick power in receiving maintenance from the Church of Corinth for his Miniſtry, though he proves this due, from the example of Peter, James and others, From compariſon of the like; From the Laws typical Teſtimony; From equity; From example of falſe Apoſtles; From the Levites example; Chap. 9. From Chriſts Ordinance, Chap. IX. 1. to 15. Partly abridging himſelf in the uſe of his whole Chriſtian liberty, for the gaining and ſaving of the more, ver. 19. to the end. 3. From the Idolatrouſneſs of partaking in theſe idol-feaſts, Thus: ye ought to flee from Idolatry, But to communicate in idol-feaſts is Idolatry, Therefore to be avoyded. The Propoſition, that we ought to fly from Idolatry; He partly proves from Gods vengeance upon Iſrael for that ſin, notwithſtanding they had the Chap. 10. ſame ordinances for ſubſtance that we have, Chap. X. 1. to 6. Partly amplifies by the concomitant ſins and puniſhments in the Iſraelites example, (five being inſtanced in) all which are recorded for our example and admonition, to warn us againſt Idolatry, v. 6, to 15. The Aſſumption, That to communicate in idol-feaſts is idolatry, he proves Analogically, Partly from the Lords Supper, they that partake that Bread and Cup have Communion with Chriſts Body and Blood ſignified thereby, v. 15, 16, 17. Partly from the Jewiſh ſacrifices, they that eat of the ſacrifices have Communion with the Altar, as members of the Jewiſh Church, v. 18. So they that communicate in idol-feaſts have tacite Communion with the idols to whom they are offered, yea Communion with Devils (ſeeing idols are nothing) v. 19. 20. 6. From the impoſſibility of having Communion with Chriſt in his Supper, and with Devils in theſe idol-feaſts, v. 21. 7. From the deſperate folly of this ſin, ver. 22. III. He adviſeth them, touching private buying, or private eating things ſacrificed to Idols; 1. Premiſing general Rules about things indifferent, viz. That they conſider expediency as well as lawfulneſs, That they ſtudy edification of others, ver. 23, 24. 2. Reſolving them that they may buy what is ſold in the Shambles, and eat privately what is ſet before them, asking no queſtion, unleſs ſome ſhew that it is ſacrificed to Idols, v. 25. to 31. IV. He concludeth this whole ſubject with three excellent Rules, 1. To do all to Gods glory, v. 31. 2. To offend none, v. 32. 3. To ſuccour the infirmity and ſeek the ſalvation of all, after the Apoſtles example, ver. 33. whom they Chap. 11. are to follow as he follows Chriſt, Ch. XI. 1.

III. Touching decent habits of men and women in Church-Aſſemblies, Premiſing a commendation of them for obſerving him. He directeth 1. Men to worſhip with their heads uncover'd, 1. Becauſe hereby the mans ſuperiority over the woman, according to Gods ordinance, is teſtified. 2. Becauſe even nature ture teacheth it is a ſhame for men to have long hair, and ſo conſequently to be covered. II. Women to worſhip with heads covered, 1. Becauſe it is a ſhame for a woman to be ſhaven, and to be uncovered is as if ſhe were ſhaven. 2. Becauſe hereby the woman teſtifies her ſubjection to the man according to Gods ordinance. 3. Becauſe otherwiſe ſhe will offend the Angels. 4. Becauſe her hair is given her for a covering, v. 2. to 17.

IV. Touching the Lords Supper, and the right Adminiſtration thereof. Here I. He ſharply reproveth them. More generally diſpraiſing them for coming together for worſe, not for better, v. 17. More particularly, taxing them for prophanation of the Lords Supper, 1. By Schiſmes or Diviſions, every one taking before other his own Supper, v. 18. to 21. 2. By drunkenneſſe, v. 21. Theſe evils he ſharply blames and aggravates, ver. 22. II. He recites the Primitive Inſtitution of the * Lords Supper, formerly delivered by him to them, againſt which they had offended. In which inſtitution, note the Efficient, Matter, Forme and end of the Lords Supper, 1. The Efficient, The Lord Jeſus; Amplified by the circumſtance of time, when; the ſame night in which he was betrayed, ver. 23. 2. The matter, Outward, viz. The ſigns, Bread and Wine; with the actions pertaining to them, Taking, Giving thanks, Breaking, Giving. Inward, viz. the ſpiritual myſteries ſignified, Chriſts body and blood. Spiritually Taken, Bleſſed, Broken, Given for and to us. 3. The forme, viz. That Sacramental union betwixt theſe ſigns and theſe myſteries in theſe phraſes, This is my body, this is my blood, &c. which union conſiſts in the inſtituted Signification, Obſignation, Exhibition. 4. The end, eſpecially the Remembrance of Chriſt, and conſtant ſhewing forth his death till his ſecond coming, ver. 24, 25, 26. From all he by way of corollary, inferres, that unworthy partaking of the Lords Supper renders Perſons guilty of the Lords Body and blood, v. 27. III. He inſtructs them and us how to communicate worthily, viz. By Self-examination before communicating, v. 28. This is urged, 1. From the peril of eating and drinking judgment to themſelves that eat unworthily, v. 29. This he proves by the Corinthians ſad experience, v. 30. 2. From the benefit of ſelf-judging, whereby the Lords judgment is prevented, v. 31. which judgment of the Lord on his People is but a chaſtiſement to prevent condemnation, v. 32. IV. He concludes this matter with an exhortation, 1. To unity in communicating. 2. To eating at home, (ſo laying aſide Love-feaſts,) promiſing to order other things at his coming, v. 33, 34.

V. Touching their ſpiritual gifts, I. He declares That their right uſe is, when they are employed, not to the contempt of their brethren, but for the common good and profit of the Church, they being given to this end by the Spirit. This he proved by divers Arguments, As 1 None of their gifts are from themſelves, but all from one and the ſame Spirit of God; This he declares Experimentally in the Corinthians wonderful converſion by the Spirit, Ch. XII. 1, 2, 3. Poſitively in that all diverſities of gifts are from the Spirit, v. 4, 5, 6. 2. The end of the Spirits gifts is for common profit, v. 7. 3. No one Perſon hath all gifts, but ſeveral men are ſeverally gifted by the ſpirit, that the members may be mutually obliged one to another, v. 7. to 12. 4. We are all members of one and the ſame Organical Body of Chriſt, 1. Being joynt-Partakers of Baptiſme and the Lords Supper. 2. Reſembling a natural body, which though it have many members, and they their ſeveral offices, yet is but one body, v. 12. to 21. 5. The meaneſt and baſeſt members are neceſſary and uſeful to the excellenteſt and nobleſt, as in the natural, ſo in the organical body of Chriſt, ſo that the meaneſt cannot be deſpiſed without injury to the whole, v. 21. to 28. 6. This difference of members and their offices, ſome ſuperiour, ſome inferiour, God hath ſet in his Church for the good of the whole body, v. 28, 29, 30. II. He exhorts them to cover earneſtly the beſt gifts, v. 31. III. He undertakes to ſhew them a more excellent way than gifts, v. 31. &c. The grace of Chriſtian Charity, as being 1. More neceſſary than all gifts, Ch. XIII. 1, 2, 3. 2. More excellent in effects, which are deſcribed Affirmatively and Negatively, v. 4. to 8. 3. More permanent than all gifts, which ſhall ceaſe in heaven; but charity ſhall never fail; nay in that bleſſedneſs is to be beyond Faith and Hope, v. 8. to the end.

VI. Touching the gift of tongues, and Prophecying, he gives divers directions; As. I. That in their Churches aſſemblies, they ſhould more endeavour after prophecying than to ſpeak with tongues, Ch. XIV. v. 1. And this for divers reaſons; 1. Becauſe prophecying is more profitable to the edifying of the Church, than ſpeaking with tongues, whereby a man edifieth only himſelf, v. 2. to 6. This Argument he amplifies, Partly by an hypotheſis or ſuppoſition in his own Perſon, v. 6. Partly by a ſimilitude drawn from muſical inſtruments, eſpecially warlike, which cannot be underſtood unleſſe They give a diſtinct and certain ſound; no more can they be underſtood ſpeaking ſtrange languages, v. 6. to 10. 2. Becauſe to ſpeak with tongues, renders hearers and ſpeakers Barbarians to one another, which is abſurd and ridiculous unleſſe they be interpreted, v. 10. to 16. 3. Becauſe the unlearned cannot ſay Amen to a Prayer or Thankſgiving in a ſtrange tongue, v. 16, 17. 4. Becauſe Paul himſelf prefers profiting the Church by a known tongue, farre before tongues, though he ſpoke more than they all, v. 18, 19. 5. Becauſe the uſe of ſtrange tongues, and not underſtood, may be a ſign to unbelievers to aſtoniſh them: But prophecy is a means of good to believers to edifie them, v. 20, 21, 22. 6. Becauſe, whereas ſpeaking with tongues only amazeth and aſtoniſheth unbelievers, Prophecying may ſo effectually convince them, as to convert them, v. 23. to 26. II. That every of them uſe their gifts to the Churches edification, v. 26. To this end he ſhews them, 1. How to uſe tongues profitably, v. 27, 28. 2. How to prophecy to the Churches beſt advantage, v. 29. to 34. III. That women be ſilent in their Churches, and aſk their huſbands at home, v. 34, 34. IV. That all things about Prophecy and Tongues be done decently and in order, premiſing a ſharp reproof to their haugtineſſe and contempt of others, by reaſon of their gifts, v. 36. to the end.

Thus of the Inſtructive Part of this Epiſtle.

III. In the doctrinal part of this Epiſtle, He aſſerts the Doctrine of the * Reſurrection from the dead, againſt the hereſie of them that denied it in the Church of Corinth. Here note 1. A Preface, 2. A Treatiſe, 3. A Concluſion.

I. A Preface, wherein Paul recites the ſumme of the Goſpel which he had preached to them; which they believed: wherein they ſtand; whereby they are ſaved, Ch. XV. 1, 2. viz. I. That Chriſt died for our ſins, v. 3. II. That he was buried. III. That he roſe again the third day, v. 4. Evidencing his Reſurrection, 1. To Cephas. 2. To the twelve, v. 5. 3. To above five hundred brethren at once, v. 6. 4. To James. 5. To all the Apoſtles, v. 7. 6. To Paul himſelf, ver. 8. to 12.

II. A Treatiſe of the Reſurrection, wherein 1. He Aſſerts and proves the Reſurrection by many Arguments, 1. From the faith of the Goſpel hitherto preached and received, That Chriſt is riſen, therefore it is falſe that there is no reſurrection of the dead, v. 12, 13. This Argument is amplified by divers abſurdities that would otherwiſe enſue; As, Our preaching is vain and falſe, Our faith is vain, v. 14. to 18. The dead in Chriſt are periſhed, v. 18. Chriſtians of all men were moſt miſerable, v. 19. 2. From the Reſurrection of Chriſt, Partly as the firſt fruits of them that ſleep, ver. 20. Partly as a Second Adam quickening all his, as the Firſt Adam deadned all his, v. 21, 22, 23. 3. From the duration of Chriſts mediatory

That our bodies shall not rise the same in qualities, as they are buried, but far more excellent, that so they may be conform to Christ, and be capable of inheriting Gods Kingdom, v. 37. to 51. III. THE II. Epistle of Paul the Apostle to the CORINTHIANS.] So called from a Paul the Penman of it, (of whom b before,) and from the Parties to whom he wrote, viz. The Church at Corinth, (of which c formerly) and to all the Saints in all Achaia, probably there being many Saints in that Province (as d Calvin noteth) who could not so safely and conveniently meet in Church-Assemblies, but were dispersed up and down by reason of turbulency of those times.

Sect. II. Time.

e Before Epistle to the Romans.

When this Epistle was written, see before in the e Chronological Table of the Order and Time of the writing of Pauls Epistles.

Sect. III. Occasion.

f Jo. Chrys. Homil. 5. in 2. Ep. ad Corinth. Theod. apud Oecum. in Arg. in II. Corinth.

Occasion of this Epistle seems to be. I. Partly those calumnies and aspersions cast upon Pauls words and actions by false Apostles and other his adversaries, after his former Epistle. They charged him, 1. With levity, that he came not to them according to his Promise. 2. With pride and tyrannical severity, because of the Incestuous Person. 3. With arrogancy and vain-glory in his ministry, therein lessening the Authority of the Law. 4. With personal contemptibleness, insinuating, that however he was glorious in his letters, yet in person he was but base, &c. II. Partly the good effect that in some measure his former Epistle had upon them, (as f Chrysostome saith,) putting them upon mourning and reforming, especially their Teachers, (as g Ambrose intimates,) though it did not so much profit them as was meet, some impious ones despising Pauls Authority, and persisting still (as h Calvin noteth,) in their contumacy and haughtiness. III. Partly their forwardness in their contribution to the Saints in Judea, which the Apostle had formerly commended to them. IV. Partly their benevolent and kind receiving of Titus, (as i Chrysost. observeth.) These things especially gave the Apostle Occasion of writing to the Corinthians this his second Epistle.

g Secundam Epistolam Apostolus scribit Corinthiis, cujus hæc principalis est causa, quoniam in primâ pro quorundam peccatis doctores eorum præcipuè corripuerat, & multum fuerant contristati. Nunc eos consolatur suum eis proponens exemplum, & docens non debere ægre ferre quod pro aliorum sunt salute correpti, cum ipse pro aliena salute periculis quotidie & morti subjaceat. Ambr. Præfat. in 2 Cor.

Sect. IV. Scope.

Proportionably therefore the Apostles Scope in this Epistle is principally, 1. To shew that he came not so soon to them as he promised: Not out of levity, But partly by reason of his k troubles in Asia, that hindred him; Partly that he might give them the more time to set their Church in better order, that so he might l come more comfortably to them. 2. To declare, that his sentence against the m incestuous Person was not rigid or tyrannical, but necessary and pious: and now that Excomunication had wrought so good an effect upon him, he (commending their obedience therein) exhorts them to absolve him from that sentence, and restore him. 3. To intimate his great success in preaching the Gospel, which he doth not for his own, but the Gospels glory, which had peculiar efficacy upon the n Corinthians above others, and farre surpassed the Ministry of o Moses, and was hid s 2 Cor. 10. and 11. & 12, and 13 s Personal contemptibleness imputed to him by the false Apostles, whereupon he reproving their vain-glory, enters upon an high commendation of his Apostolick office and Power; and his extraordinary Revelations, farre out-shining all the counterfeit glory of false Teachers: yet declaring he had rather use meekness than his power, if he be not forced thereto by their contumacy and impenitency. So that great part of this Epistle, both in the beginning and latter end is Apologetical, and may in that regard be stiled, Pauls Apology, or Apologetick Epistle against his Adversaries calumnies.

Sect. V. Principal Parts.

In this Epistle are considerable, 1. The Preface, 2. The substance of the Epistle. 3. The conclusion.

I. THE PREFACE or Introduction to the Epistle, contains I. The Inscription, denoting 1. The Parties writing, viz. Paul and Timothy. 2. The Parties written to, viz. The Church at Corinth, and all the Chap. 1. Saints in all Achaia, Ch. I. ver. 1. II. The Salutation, ver. 2. III. The Apostles Gratulation, or Thanksgiving to God for his comforts in tribulation. Here 1. God, the object of his Thansgiving is described, As Father of Christ, As Father of mercies, As God of all comfort, ver. 3. 2. The ground of the Thanksgiving, Gods comforting in tribulation, is amplified, Partly by the extent of it, in all tribulation: Partly by the end or intent of it, that the Apostle may be able by his own experimental comforts in distress, to comfort others in like case; and particularly the Corinthians, whom he hopes to be sharers in comforts, as well as in crosses, ver. 4. to 8.

II. THE SUBSTANCE of the Epistle, 1. consists in a Treatise, 1. Excusatory, or Apologetical. 2. Hortatory, or Practical. 3. Minatory or Threatning.

I. In the Excusatory or Apologetical part of the Epistle, 1. He purgeth himself from some Imputations. 2. He commends and magnifies his Ministry.

I. He purgeth himself from the unjust imputations of 1. Levity and Temerity, 2. Severity.

1. From the imputation of Levity and temerity in
*1 Cor. 16. 2. to 8. that he came not to them, as he formerly promised.* He excuseth himself, I. By the extremity of his afflictions, even to despair of life, which befell him in Asia, whereby partly his coming to them was hindred, ver. 8. to 12. II. By the testimony of his Conscience touching the simplicity and godly sincerity of his conversation in the world, and especially towards the Corinthians, as themselves will testifie; upon which confidence he was minded to come to them before, therefore none had cause to taxe him for levity or breach of Promise, ver. 12. to 17. III. By the truth of his preaching among them, still constant to it self, whence he proportionably proves the truth and constancy of his purpose in coming to them, v. 17. &c. This his truth and constancy in preaching he amplifieth, 1. Partly by his solemn Oath confirming it, v. 18. 2. Partly by the constant matter of his preaching among them, viz. Christ Jesus, in whom all Gods Promises are Yea and Amen, v. 19,20. 3. Partly by the efficient cause of both his and their establishment in preaching and receiving the Gospel, viz. Gods Annointing, Sealing, and giving the earnest of his Spirit to both, v. 21. 22. IV. By his end in delaying hitherto to come to them, viz. To spare them, that they might have time to repent, and put their Church in order before his coming, v. 23. This he amplifies 1. Shewing that he and the other Ministers had not dominion of their faith, but were helpers of their joy, v. 24. 2. Declaring that he purposed not to come again to them in heaviness, as he came unto them in his former Epistle, lest thereby he deprive himself of all comfort, none being able to comfort him like them, Ch. II. ver. 1. Chap. 2.

2. From the aspersion of too much Severity and Tyranny, in writing to them formerly to excommunicate the Incestuous Person, he clears himself, I. By declaring why he wrote his former Epistle to them, viz. 1. To prevent his matter of sorrowing in them, and to provide for his and their joy at his coming, by their Excommunicating the incestuous Person before, v. 3. 2. To testifie his entire love, in writing to them with so many tears, v. 4. II. By shewing that the incestuous Person was a grief to them as well as to him, therefore he was not too rigid against him, v. 5. III. By making it his present request to them, to restore and absolve the Incestuous Person excommunicated, now repenting, and this he urgeth, 1. Because his punishment hath been sufficient already, v. 6. 2. Because that otherwise he may be swallowed up of overmuch sorrow, v. 7. 3. Because hereby they shall confirm their love to him, v. 8. Object. But why dost thou now write to restore him, whom formerly thou wroteſt to have cast out. Answ. He answers, because now he had obtained his end in writing, viz. A discovery of their obedience, v. 9. 4. Because Paul himself had absolved and forgiven him for their sakes, therefore so should they, v. 10. 5. Because Satan should get no advantage, either against the incestuous Person, driving him to despair, or against the Corinthians, raising hereupon divisions among them, or falsely perswading them that the lapsed are not to be restored, v. 11.

II. He commends and magnifies his ministry (and therein tacitly wipes off the imputation of Arrogance and false Doctrine,) I. By his singular care that he had therein of the affairs of the Corinthians, being restlesse at Troas, (where notwithstanding an opportunity of preaching Christ was offered,) because he there met not Titus to informe him of their state, v. 12,13. II. By the general successe of his preaching in every place. Amplified 1. By the cause thereof, God. 2. By the event thereof in the Apostle, Thankfulnesse to God, and Triumph in Christ. 3. By the nature of this successe upon several objects, viz. either to life or death. 4. By his insufficiency to this work. 5. By his sincerity of Doctrine, whilst many others contrariwise corrupt the Word, v. 14. to the end. III. By the particular efficacy of his Ministry upon the Corinthians themselves converted thereby, who therefore are his Epistle of commendation to all, Chap. III. 1. to 6. Chap. 3.

The use of the Exceeding part of the Epistle.

II. In the Hortatory or Practical part of the Epistle, He earnestly exhorts the Corinthians.

I. To walk worthy of the Gospel, and not to receive Gods grace of Reconciliation, preached therein, in vain. And this I. More Generally, that receiving the grace of Reconcilement, they bring forth the fruit thereof in obedience and thankfulness to God. This is urged, 1. From the duty of the Apostles office as Co-workers with God, therefore bound to presse them

From the condition of the present season of the Gospel, this being the very time wherein God had promised to work more effectually upon mens hearts by Christs Doctrine, v. 2. 3. From his own exemplary Pastoral care in the Ministry of the Gospel. Both to prevent offence therein, v. 3. And to approve himself in all things as the faithful Minister of Christ; in all ministerial Graces, Properties, &c. most elegantly described. In like manner they, as his Sons, should proportionably in their places imitate him, v. 4 to 14. II. More Particularly, that they avoid all intimate fellowship, by marriage or otherwise, with Infidels and Idolaters. 1. Because of the extream disparity and contrariety betwixt them, whereby they are inconsistent one with another, v. 14, 15, 16. 2. Because of the singular benefits that will ensue upon their separating from Infidels and Idolaters, viz. Gods Reception of them, and Paternal Relation to them, according to his Promises, v. 16, 17, 18. Therefore they should have no fellowship with Idolaters, by presence of body or allowance of spirit, but contrariwise should Injury to any. 2. Corruption of any by false Doctrine. 3. Or Defrauding any of their estate, v. 2. II. Because he singularly testified his dear affection to them, 1. Having them in his heart to live and dye with them, ver. 3. 2. Speaking freely of them only to themselves, but glorying of them to others, v. 4. 3. Being Comforted exceedingly in all his tribulations by the report that Titus made to him of their affairs; Partly, what good effect his former Epistle had upon them, especially in reference to the incestuous person, working them to godly sorrow and reformation: v. 4. to 13. Partly, what kind respects and obedience they manifested to Titus, according as Paul had boasted of them to Titus, ver. 13. to the end.

This to be done by the commendation of the zeal and willingness of Titus and other brethren, who upon Pauls request, exhortation and commendation, were come to the Corinthians, purposely about the perfecting of their charity, ver. 16. to the end. 6. The prayers of the Saints highly valuing the grace of God in them, shall be hereby engaged for them, v. 14. This exhortation Paul shuts up with thanks to God, as being confident he herein had obtained his desire in them, v. 15.

1. He wipes off that Aspersion cast upon him by false Teachers; That his Personal presence was base, but his Letters Bold; shewing; 1. That at his coming he purposeth to be bold against some that traduced him as walking carnally, v. 1, 2. 2. That though he walk in the flesh, he walks not after the flesh, v. 3. 3. That he hath a powerfull Ministry, as weapons of an heavenly warfare, committed to him, able, Partly to subdue some to the Obedience of Christ, v. 3, 4, 5. Partly to take revenge on all contrary disobedience, v. 6. 4. That as others are Christs, so he is Christs, having Apostolical authority from him, of which he need not be ashamed to boast, v. 7, 8. 5. That he will be found as potent in his Presence, as by his Letters, v. 9, 10, 11.

2. He taxeth the false Apostles for their self-applause and that beyond their line boasting of other mens labours: which himself did not, verse 12. to the end.

3. He vindicates himself and his Apostleship from contempt in their eyes who preferred the false Apostles before him, entring upon a necessitated and forced commendation of himself and his Apostle-stleship. Here, I. He prefaceth, desiring them to bear with him in this his just and necessary self-condemnation, Ch. XI. ver. 1. And this 1. Because it Chap. 11.
is in his zeal to God and Christ. 2. Because now he doth it out of holy jealousie to them, whom he had espoused as a chaste virgin to Christ; but now fears they are corrupted from Christs simplicity, in that they were so prone to receive them who preached a false Jesus, a false Spirit, a false Gospel, ver. 2, 3, 4. II. He commends himself and his Apostleship, upon many considerations, viz. 1. By his equality to the chief Apostles, ver. 5. Object. But thou art rude in speech. Answ. 1. Yet not in knowledge. 2. In all things I have been throughly made manifest among you. v. 6. 2. By his preaching the Gospel freely to the Corinthians, taking wages of other Churches to that end, ver. 7. to 11. Not that he loves not the Corinthians, ver. 11. But Partly, that thus he may cut off occasion from the false Apostles who sought to traduce him, ver. 12. Partly, That he may not be herein inferiour to the false Apostles, who pretended to preach the Gospel gratis, that they might be like Christs Apostles; whose hypocrisie he illustrates and threatens, ver. 12. to 16. Obiect. But this thy glorying is foolish. Answ. He answers, 1. By Concession, yet as a fool suffer me a little ver. 16, 17. 2. By explication of his Reasons why he will boast himself, Partly, because others glory, v. 18. Partly, because themselves suffer fools gladly, (ironically calling them wise;) yea suffer false teachers to smite them on the face by reproach, ver. 19, 20, 21. Partly because wherein soever false Apostles did boast themselves, he dare also, ver. 21. 3. *By his Parity & superiority to all those false Apostles. Chap. 12. Ch. XII. 1. to 5. This he amplifies, Partly showing that he would rather glory in his infirmities, (instancing in his being buffeted by Satan, that he should not be immeasurably exalted by revelations,) that Christs power may shine in his infirmities, ver. 5. to 11. Partly intimating that they have compelled him to this glorying, whose duty rather it was to have commended him, and that for divers reasons, ver. 11, 12, 13. 3. By his singular fatherly affection to the Corinthians, seeking not theirs but them, willing to spend and be spent for them, and neither by himself nor by others making a gain of them, ver. 14. to 19. This his commendation of himself he amplifies by a Prolepsis, shewing Negatively, that he did it not out of any self-guiltiness; Affirmatively, That it was for their edification, ver. 19.

Hitherto of the Hortatory, or Practical part of the Epistle.

III. In the minatory, or Threatning part of the Epistle.

1. He intimates his fear, that at his coming to them, 1. He shall find them such as he would not, viz. guilty of divers offences enumerated, and impenitent notwithstanding. 2. He shall be found of them such as they would not, viz. sharp and severe, vers. 20, 21.

2. He threatens impenitent offenders with the severity and Power of his Apostolical Office, as having told them; 1. Because he had now thrice admonished them, which was as much as three witnesses in the Law, convincing them of obstinacy, Ch. XIII. 1, 2. Chap. 13. 2. Because they as it were provoke him to severity, seeking a proof of Christ speaking in him, which to them was not weak but powerful, for though he was weak among them as a man, yet he was powerful as Christs Minister: As Christ himself was crucified as a weak man, but rose as a powerful God, ver. 3, 4. This power of Christ in him to them, he Proves by his Converting of them to the faith, wherein he appeals to their own experimental Self-probation, unless they be reprobates, as he trusts they shall know he is not. v. 5, 6.

3. He lenifies this threatning, 1. By his Prayer for them that do no evil, but that which is honest; what account soever he be of with them, ver. 7. This he confirms, Partly, from his customary manner of acting, viz. not against, but for the truth, ver. 8. Partly from his earnest affection to their spiritual good, ver. 9. 2. By intimation of his intent in writing thus sharply to them, viz. that he may spare sharpness at his coming, ver. 10.

III. THE CONCLUSION of the whole Epistle; containing his farewel and valedictory. 1. Exhortation to them, ver. 1. 2. Salutation of them, ver. 12, 13. 3. Petition for them. ver. 14.

Sect. I. Name and Penman.

Galatia so called from Galli, viz. The French, that came and inhabited there, who called the countrey after their name. That they were French, all agree, (saith Calvin.) whence arose the name of Gallogrecians; but from what part of France they came, is less evident; but he thinks they most probably came from the utmost Tract of Rhene, towards the brittish sea, Galatia c was an ample Province of Asia Minor; near to Phrygia, into which anciently entred a People from Gallia of Europe, and seated themselves betwixt Bithynia and Cappadocia, as is testified by d divers Authors. The more principal cities in the Province of Galatia, (as e Appianus notes) were these; Synopa, Pompeiopolis, Claudiopolis, Ancyra, (the Metropolis, famous for an ancient Councel there,) Laodicea, Antioch and Nicopolis, Paul with f Silas and Timothy, travelled through the Region of Galatia once, but were then forbidden of the Holy Ghost to preach the Word in Asia. But afterwards he g went over all the Country of Galatia and Phrygia, in order, strengthening all the Disciples. In which Countrey of Galatia, in most of the famous cities, (it is conceived) Paul had planted famous Churches of Christ, because he mentions the h Churches of Galatia.

Sect. II. Occasion.

It seems by the current of this Epistle, that after i Pauls departure from Galatia, having planted the Gospel there: there came among them false Apostles, and corrupt teachers, who to advance their own doctrine, (as Chrysostome l hath observed) endeavoured

i Οἱ ἀπὸ Ἰακώβου ἐλθόντες, &c. viz. The believing Jews, Partly possessed with a good opinion of Judaisme, Partly drunk with the thirst of vain-glory, whilst they desire to procure to themselves the dignity and authority of Teachers, went to the Galatians, taught that they had need of Circumcision, that Sabbaths and New-moons were to be kept, nor was Paul to be endured, that took away the observations of these things. For (said

(said they) Peter, James and John added not these things, who are chief among the Apostles, and have been conversant with Christ. ——— Paul was not a Disciple of the Apostles, but these of Jesus Christ: They were our Lords, they many; and Pillars of the Church: And they accidentally charged Paul with simulation, taking away Circumcision from them, allowing it to others, &c. Therefore when he saw all Asia in an inflammation, and a dangerous fire to be kindled against their Church, and the weaker [illegible] to be [illegible] should fall, partly moved with just [illegible] partly provoked with extream grief of spirit, he wrote this Epistle vehemently all, exhorting to these things ——— And this Scripture, Paul an Apostle, &c. of men, nor by man, &c. Joan. Chrys. Com. in cap. 1. Ep. ad Gal. Tom. 5. in N. T.

vered to disgrace Pauls Apostleship, as if he were not so much an Apostle, as the Apostles Disciples; and to pervert the purity and simplicity of the Gospel of Christ among them, by mixtures of legal doctrines urging the observance of both moral and ceremonial law, and particularly of Circumcision, Ceremonial Sabbaths, and New-moons, as necessary to Justification; so mingling and blending together Law and Gospel, Works and Faith, Judaisme and Christianisme, tending dangerously to the subversion of the Church. Hereupon he took Occasion to write this Epistle to them.

Sect. III. Scope.

Hence the Apostle zearning over these Churches with much anger and great Spirit, (as k Chrysostome and Oecumenius have well observed) writes this Epistle to them. Partly to assert the Divine Authority of his Apostleship; Partly to reclaim them out of their error in that fundamental point of Justification: both by convincing them of Justification by Faith only, and by demonstrating unto them the true nature and use of moral and ceremonial Law; And partly to incite them to a holy Christian Conversation.

Sect. IV. Principal Parts.

In this notable and vehement Epistle to the Galatians, consider principally, 1 A Preface, 2. A Treatise, 3 A Conclusion.

I. A PREFACE or entrance to the whole Epistle, containing 1. The Apostles Inscription, 1. The Parties writing, viz. Paul (whose Apostolick office is notably asserted, not upon an humane but divine foundation, and this against the false Apostles denying it to the Galatians,) and the brethren with him. 2. The parties written to, viz. The Churches of Galatia, Ch. I. ver. 1, 2. II. The Apostles Salutation, shewing 1. What he wishes to them; Grace and Peace. 2. From whom, from God the Father and our Lord Jesus Christ. To Christ he ascribes, 1. Expiation of our sins, as wrought by his death, v. 4. 2. Eternal glory, as therefore due to him, v. 5.

Chap. 1.

II. A TREATISE, containing matters, 1. Reprehensory or Elenctical, 2. Informatory or Doctrinal, 3. Hortatory or Practical.

I. Reprehensory; wherein 1. Partly he blames them. 2. Partly he convinceth them.

1. He blames and sharply taxeth them, that they had so soon fallen from the Gospel-doctrine of Justification by Faith, which he had preached to them: to that Anti-Gospel opinion of Justification also by the works of the Law. Here consider 1. His pathetick admiration at their so speedy defection from the Gospel, and him that called them into Christs grace, to a false Gospel, of some that troubled them and would pervert the Gospel. ver. 6, 7. 2. His double execration of every one, Man or Angel that should preach to them any other Gospel than he had preached, and they had received, ver. 8, 9.

[illegible] of their power, exercise in teaching the Gospel he preached to them and [illegible] fellowship, [illegible] 3. Disorderly, [illegible] 4. Disorderly, [illegible] 5. Disorderly, [illegible] 6. Disorderly, [illegible] 7. Disorderly, [illegible] 8. Disorderly, [illegible] 9. Disorderly, [illegible] 10. Disorderly, [illegible] 11. Disorderly, [illegible] 12. from the Gentiles, for fear of the Jews, and so repelling the Gentiles from Church Communion, unless they would reject the liberty of the Gospel, and come under the yoke of the Law, ver. 12. This is amplified by the ill events, 1. Upon the other Jews, 2. Upon Barnabas, ver. 13, II. By Pauls Reprehensory speech to Peter; wherein 1, He blames Peter, being a Jew, for Gentilizing, and yet compelling the Gentiles to Judaize, which was unequal, ver. 14. 2. He demonstrates the point in question, viz. Justification by faith, by the Jews own conviction thereof. Tum; We, though Jews, to whom the Law was given, yet taught by the word and experience, that a man is justified by faith and not the works of the Law, because no man can keep it, have believed in Christ that we might be justified by faith: therefore much more the Gentiles, to whom the Law was not given, are to be justified by faith, and not by the works of the Law, ver. 15, 16. 3. He refels a contrary Objection. Object. But if we Jews seek to be justified by Christ, then our selves are found sinners; and if we be found sinners, is not Christ the Minister of sin? doth not Christ open a door to sin? Answ. He answers, Partly by denying the inference, ver. 17. Partly by proving the contrary, in the Hypothesis of his own person by divers reasons, (1) Because, then Justification by faith should build up what it had destroyed, and so should destroy it self which were absurd, v. 18, (2) Because the Scope of the Gospel is contrary, viz. That by the law discovering sin, we should be dead to the Law, as to the seeking of Justification from it, that we might live to God, v. 19. (3) Because they that are Christs, are crucified with Christ, that they might not live in sin, v. 20. (4) Because they that are justified by faith in Christ, live by faith in Christ crucified, yea, Christ lives in them, ver. 20. 4. He confutes Justification by the works of the Law, from a double absurdity that would follow thereupon, viz. Then the grace of God were frustrated: Then Christ were dead in vain, v. 21.

Hitherto the Reprehensory Part of the Epistle.

II. Informatory or Doctrinal; wherein he treats of Justification by faith, without the deeds of the Law; 1 Reproving, 2 Proving. 3 Refelling, 4 Deborting.

I. Reproving the Galatians most sharply for their folly in being bewitched from this truth, so clearly taught them, Ch. III. 1.

Chap. 3. II. Proving Justification by faith without legal works by many Arguments, 1. Because they received not the Spirit, (viz. the Spirit of Grace, Adoption and Miracles,) by the works of the law, but by the faith of the Gospel, v. 2. II. Because it is a point of folly and absurdity in them, to begin in the Spirit (viz. To begin to be justified by faith, as Paul taught them,) and to end in the Flesh, (viz. to perfect their Justification by legal works, as the false Apostles taught them,) v. 3. This he amplifies, 1. By the vanity of all their former sufferings for the faith now deserted, v. 4. 2. By repetition of the first Argument, v. 5. III. Because Abraham the father of the faithful was justified by faith; consequently so must all his faithful children be justified, whether Jews or Gentiles, v. 6. to 10. IV. Because they that seek Justification by the works of the Law, are under the curse, they not being able perfectly to fulfill the Law; now that which cursed them, cannot justifie them, ver. 10. V. Because Habakkuk testifies that men shall be justified by faith; now the Law is not of faith, but of works, v. 11, 12. VI. Because Christ's redemption of us from the curse, by being made a curse for us, that by him the blessing of Abraham might come upon the Gentiles; is received only by faith, v. 13, 14. VII. Because the Earthly and Heavenly inheritance was given to Abraham by Covenant and Promise, and also confirmed to him in Christ's his promised seed, four hundred and thirty years before the Law was published, and therefore cannot be disannulled by the Law. that righteousnesse should come by the works of the Law, and not by faith, ver. 15. to 19.

III. Refelling divers Objections that might be made by legal Justiciaries, against the doctrine of Justification by faith, viz.

1. Object. To what use serveth the Law, if we are not to be justified by it? Answ. He answers, 1. Explaining the true intent of the Law, viz. to convince of sin, v. 19. 2. Limiting the continuance of the Mosaical Dispensation, viz. till the coming of Christ, to whom the Promise was made, ver. 19. 3. Commending the administration of the Law; Partly from the Ministry of Angels used therein, v. 19. Partly from the mediation of Moses therein, betwixt God and the People, which implyed a discord betwixt them by reason of the Peoples sin, v. 19, 20.

2. Object. Is not the Law then against Gods Promises? Answ. He answers, I. Denying the inference, God forbid. II. Confirming by reason, That the Law is not against Gods Promises. 1. Because it was never given to afford life and Justification by it, but rather to seal up condemnation, by convincing all of sin, that despairing in themselves, they might go to Christ for life, v. 21, 22. 2. Because the Law (under which we were kept in our minority, distinct from all People, in hope of the Gospel-faith to be revealed,) was as our School-master to bring us to Christ, (viz. The moral Law, by convincing of sin; The Ceremonial by pointing at Christ the remedy against sin.) that so we might be justified by faith in Christ, v. 23, 24.

III. Declaring the abrogation of the Mosaical dispensation of the Law at Christs coming, the ends thereof being fulfilled. This he sets forth under a double Metaphor, 1. Of the Law, as a School-master, from whose servile place the faith of the Gospel frees us, v. 25. to the end. 2. Of the Law, as Tutor or Governour, under which the Church of the Jews, in her minority and non-age was kept, till the coming of Christ, when the Church came to her Maturity and full age, and by Christ was freed from that bondage, Chap. IV. 1. to 8. Chap. 4.

IV. Deborting; The Apostle more gently rebuking them, dehorts the Galatians from adhering to legal observances, and this by divers Arguments; 1. From comparison of their former state of ignorance when they served Idols, with their present state of faith and knowledge, wherein they would enslave themselves to the beggarly Elements of the world, v. 8, 9. II. From the Apostles fear that his preaching the Gospel to them will be rendred vain by their legal observances ver. 10, 11. III. From the Apostle Pauls example, who was once as zealous of the Law as they, but renounced all for Christ, ver. 12. This Argument he pathetically urges upon divers grounds. 1. His not writing these things out of any revenge against them, v. 12. 2. His afflictions he endured in preaching the Gospel to them, v. 13. 3. Their former zeal and fervent love to him and his Ministry, v. 14, 15, 16. 4. Their false teachers ill-grounded love and zeal to them, ver. 17, 18. 5. His rendereſt affections to them, travelling in pangs as a mother for them; desiring to be with them, and change his voice towards them, because he is afraid of them, v. 19, 20. IV. From the very testimony of the law it self which did prefigure its own abolition, and the establishment of grace alone, and this in the Allegory of Abrahams two sons by Agar and Sarah, and therefore concludes the inheritance not to be of the law, and the works thereof, but of grace. More particularly, 1. He propounds the history of Abrahams two sons, the one of the bond-woman after the flesh; the other of the free-woman by promise, ver. 21, 22, 23. 2. He allegorically expounds this history of the Two Covenants; the one from M. Sinai in Arabia, which answereth to Jerusalem, and gendreth to bondage; the other from the Hierusalem above, v. 24. to 28. 3. He applies this to the Galatians, that they as Isaac are children of the Promise, and therefore not to expect the eternal Inheritance by the works of the law, but by faith, ver. 28. 4. He comforts them against the persecutions of legal Justiciaries; Partly by the exam-example of those [illegible] was called out, that he should not consent with them to the perfuasions of [illegible] and so totally [illegible] 20, 21.

Habits of the Inferiour Part, or Doctrinal Part of the Epistle.

III. Heretofore or Practical. The Apostle having thus cleared the point of Justification by Faith alone, and not by works of the Law, (which was the whole dispute with a zealous Exhortation to the Galatians, viz.

I. To persist stedfastly and constantly in their Christian liberty from the bondage of the Mosaical yoke. This he presseth by divers Arguments, Directly and Indirectly: 1. Directly, 1. Because Circumcision deprives of all benefit by Christ. Ch. V. v. 1, 2. 2. Because Circumcision engages the Circumciled as debtors to keep the whole law, v. 3. 3. Because they who seek justification by the law are fallen from grace, v. 4. 4. Because God hath but one way of justifying both Jews and Gentiles, viz. By a lively faith: v. 5. 6. II. Indirectly, 1. Reproving them that they did not persist in their good course wherein they began, through ill perswasion, to their own leavening, v. 7. 8. 9. 2. Translating their faultiness, especially to their seducers troubling them, v. 10. 3. Clearing himself from the Aspersion of preaching Circumcision from his sufferings for Christ, v. 11. 4. Wishing that their troublers were cut off, v. 12.

Chap. 5.

II. Whether [illegible] To this end he layes down several Precepts, General and Special. 1. General. 1. That they walk worthy of the vocation to the Saints, v. 1. 2. That they love one another in love, v. 13, 14, 15. 3. That they walk in the Spirit, and so they shall be preserved from the common vices of this time; there [illegible] of the Spirit and Flesh are enumerated; and by divers Arguments the works of the Flesh dissuaded from, v. 16. to the end. II. Special. 1. That they reconcile Christian meekness in reproving a lapsed brother, Ch. VI. v. 1. 2. That every one Chap. 6. think humbly and modestly of themselves, v. 3, 4, 5. 3. That they exercise Benevolence, Towards their Ministers, ver. 6. to 10. Towards all, but especially the houshold of faith, v. 10.

III. A CONCLUSION of the whole EPISTLE, containing 1. A Testification of his love, in writing to them with his own hand, v. 11. 2. A Commonefaction, or warning of them against false teachers, who urge Circumcision, Partly that they may avoid Persecution for Christ, Partly out of hypocrisie and ambition, that they may glory in their flesh, v. 12, 13. 3. An opposition of his own example, against that of the false Apostles; he preaching the Gospel sincerely, and walking accordingly, v. 14, 15, 16. 4. An Apostolical Protestation against the arrogance of the false Apostles, whom he slights as not having the honourable * Marks of sufferings for Christ, like himself, ver. 17. 5. The valediction, v. 18. * Marks of Jesus.

EPHESIANS.

Sect. I. Name and Penman.

THE Epistle of the Apostle Paul to the EPHESIANS.] So denominated from the a Saints at Ephesus, to whom principally Paul wrote. Marcion the Heretick, pretending to be a curious Searcher of the Titles, calls it Paul's Epistle to the Laodiceans, (as b Tertullian hath noted,) but contrary to the truth of the Church. Hierome calls it c The Apostles middle Epistle, both in order and sentence; as the heart is in the middle of the creature; hence intimating with how many difficulties and profound questions it is involved.

a Eph. 1. 1.

b Ecclesiæ quidem veritate Epistolam istam ad Ephesios habemus emissam, non ad Laodicenos; sed Marcion ei Titulum aliquando interpolare gestiit, quasi & in isto diligentissimus explorator. Nihil autem de Titulis interest, cum ad omnes Apostolus scripserit, dum ad quosdam, &c. Tertullian. adversus Marcion. lib. 5. cap. 17.

c Nunc ad Ephesios transeundum est. Mediam Apostoli Epistolam, ut ordine ita & sensibus. Mediam autem dico, non quod primas sequens, extremis major sit, sed quomodo cor animalis in medio est; ut ex hoc intelligatis quantis difficultatibus, & quam profundis quæstionibus involuta sit. Hier. Proæmia Ep. ad Eph. Tom. 9.

EPHESUS was d the Metropolis of Asia Minor, a city on the shore of the Ionian-Sea, looking towards the west of Asia Minor; or as Herodotus think, in Lydia, of old a city of great traffique, but much addicted to idolatry and superstition, and to Magick Arts and Witchcrafts, which always follow Idolatry, (saith Hieromes judgment,) there being the f Temple of the great goddesse Diana. Not Diana the Huntrix, girt and bearing the Bow; but the many breasted Diana, whom by the very effigies they falsly pretended to be the Nurse of all beasts and living creatures; saith g Hierome. Paul came to Ephesus at first, and reasoned with the Jewes in their Synagogues, h but tarried not there at that time, because he hasted to keep the feast at Jerusalem, after that he came a second time to Ephesus, preaching and disputing there for two years and three moneths, not i ceasing to warne every one, night and day, with teares; that to the Tower of Idolatry being destroyed, the Temples of lesser Cities might easily be taken; as l Hierome noteth. And so Paul planted a famous Church at Ephesus, continuing there, till by the m uproare at Ephesus he was necessitated to depart thence; and so he went into Macedonia——yet after his departure into Macedonia, he committed the care and inspection of the Church at Ephesus unto n Timothy. And Paul being afterwards at Miletus, o called thither the Elders of Ephesus, exhorting and incouraging them in their charge, knowing they should see his face no more. After

Sect. II. Occasion.

Occasion of Pauls writing to the Ephesians, was not Schismes and Scandals in Ephesus, as in the Church of Corinth; nor false doctrine supplanting Justification by faith, that fundamental point, as in the Church of Galatia, that mingled the works of the Law with faith; But (as q Calvin observeth.) it was very probable the Apostle was afraid lest false Apostles should trouble their faith, as if they had been only instructed by halves. For they were Gentiles, and having embraced pure Christianisme, they heard nothing of Ceremonies, nothing of Circumcision; Whereas they that urged the Law upon Christians, counted all profane that were not initiated by Circumcision. For this was there common song, None ought to be reckoned among Gods People, unlesse circumcised; all the rules commanded by Moses were to be observed. Therefore they calumniated Paul that he made Christ equally common to the Gentiles and Jews; and asserted his Apostleship to be a Prophanation of the heavenly doctrine, because he prostituted the Covenant of grace to impure men, without distinction. Therefore the Apostle in singular tenderness and provident care of this Church, (he being not now far from his death,) lest they should faint or be discouraged by his bonds at Rome, and be weary of the Gospel, either through the Crosse, or through any such calumnies of false teachers, writes this Epistle to confirm them.

Sect. III. Scope.

The Scope of this Epistle, is 1. From the due consideration of their r Election, s Predestination, t Redemption, u Effectual vocation, out of their woful Gentilish condition by nature, into the fellowship of Gods People in Christ by grace, and the x Publication of the Gospel to this end among the Gentiles, by Paul especially, to hearten and encourage the Ephesians unto constancy in Faith and Piety, and establishment therein, notwithstanding all y his tribulations for the Gospel, or their discouragements by any false teachers whatsoever. 2. To provoke them to z walk worthy of their Christian vocation; in the faithful discharge, both of the General and Common duties of Religion, and of the a Special duties of particular relations. 3. To arm themselves so with the b whole Armour of God, that they may stand constant and triumphant against flesh and blood, and against all Satans crafty and violent temptations.

Sect. IV. Principal Parts.

In this Epistle to the Ephesians, are 1. The Preface, 2. The body of the Epistle. 3. The Conclusion.

I. THE PREFACE contains, I. The inscription, describing 1. The Person writing, 2. The Persons written to Ch. I. ver. 1. II. The Salutation, ver. 2.

Chap. I.

II. THE BODY, or SUBSTANCE of the EPISTLE is 1. Partly Informatory or Doctrinal, 2. Partly Hortatory or Practical.

I. In the Informatory or Doctrinal part of this Epistle are lay'd down, not Controversally but Dogmatically, God saving benefits to the Ephesians (& proportionably to us,) or the causes of salvation; now these are declared, 1. More Summarily, 2. More particularly.

1. More Summarily, in form of a Thanksgiving, wherein note 1. The Praise it self. 2. The Object of this Praise. 3. The Arguments or grounds of this Praise, ver. 3.

II. More particularly, divers causes of salvation are insisted upon, as the particular grounds of the Apostles thankfulnesse, both in respect of Jews first, and Gentiles afterwards, viz.

1 Election, described by its 1. Author, 2. Object, us in Christ, 3. Eternity, 4. End, ver. 4.

2. Predestination, described also by the 1. Object predestinated, us. 2. Benefit wherein we are predestinated, Adoption by Christ. 3. Inward impulsive cause, good pleasure, &c. 4. End ver. 5, 6.

3. Redemption, set forth by the 1. Author redeeming, and Price, Christ by his blood, 2. Benefit by Redemption, Remission of sins, Fountain of it, Grace, ver. 7. 4. Manifestation of it, in all wisdom and prudence according to his purpose. 5. End, for the gathering together in one all things in Christ, vers. 8, 9, 10.

4. Vocation of both Jew and Gentile, to the Participation of this Redemption according to Gods purpose, of the Jew first, ver. 11, 12. Of the Gentile afterwards, particularly of the Ephesians themselves, 1. By operation of the Word, 2. By Obsignation of the spirit, ver. 13, 14.

This Vocation of the Ephesians, he amplifies, I. By the fame of their growth in faith and love, which he heard, ver. 15. II. By the effect of that report upon himself in reference to the Ephesians, viz. III. Thankfulnesse to God, and Prayer for them, ver. 16. wherein consider 1. To whom he prayes, ver. 17. 2. What he prays for in their behalf, viz. The increase of the spirit of Wisdom and Revelation, &c. ver. 17, 18. 3. To what end? that they may know more and more. Partly the hope of their calling. Partly the riches of the glory, &c. ver. 18. Partly the surpassing greatnesse of his power towards them believing, ver. 19.

This exceeding greatness of Gods Power, is described by its effects, On Christ, and On themselves. I. On Christ their Head, viz. 1. Quickening, and raising him from the dead, v. 20. 2. Exalting him at his own right hand far above all creatures, as Head over all to the Church, his body, v. 20, 21, 22, 23. II. On the Ephesians themselves, Christs members. 1. Quickening them with Christ from their spiritual death, Co. II. ver. 1. &c. This is described, Partly by their sad state of sin and wrath before they were quickned, ver 1, 2, 3. Partly by the impulsive causes moving God thus to quicken them, rich mercy, great love and grace, ver. 4, 5. 2. Raising them with Christ, ver. 6. 3. Exalting them to sit in heavenly places in Christ, ver. 6. This their Exaltation is described and amplified, Partly by the end of it, viz. The manifestation of Gods riches of grace towards the Ephesians, saved by grace through faith, not of works; which are effects, not causes of this grace, ver. 7, 8, 9, 10. Partly by the singular Priviledges thereupon redounding to the Ephesians, thus Quickned, Raised, Exalted, viz. whatever were their former misery and distance from God, yet now they are in Christ brought nigh as well as Jews; are fellow-Citizens with the Saints, Of the houshold of God; yea an Holy Temple and Habitation of God, v. 11, to the end of the Chapter.

Chap. 2.

5. Publication of all these rich benefits of Christ to the Gentiles by the Ministry of the Apostle Paul especially, that thereby the Gentiles might be built up as Gods Temple, Ch. III. Here note, I. Pauls call to preach Christ to the Gentiles, described 1. By the Event of his preaching to the Gentiles, viz. his own imprisonment, v. 12. 2. By the divine Revelation of that great mystery to Paul (in other Ages unknown) that the Gentiles should be fellow-heirs, and of the same body with the Jews, and enjoy Christ in the Gospel; v. 3. to 7. 3. By the ministerial Commission which God gave him towards the Gentiles; set out by the Authour, v. 7. Instrument, v. 8. Matter of his Ministry; ver. 8. 9. End, making known e-even to Angels by the Church, the Wisdom of God according to his purpose in calling the Gentiles, v. 10, 11, 12. II. Paul's Imprisonment, Adjures hereupon to the Ephesians, that they shrink not from his doctrine, (glorying by reason of his sufferings) as being 1. For them. 2. Their glory, v. 13. III. Paul's prayer for them, where note 1. To whom he prays, verse 14, 15. 2. For what to pray in their behalf, viz. Their strengthening in the inward man by the Spirit, verse 16. Christs inhabiting their heart by faith, verse 17. Their rooting and grounding in love, v. 17. Their comprehension of Christs boundless love, v. 18, 19. Their replenishing with all the fulness of God, v. 19. 3. The Conclusion of his Prayer, with a Doxology, or giving glory to God, v. 20, 21.

Hitherto of the Informatory, or Doctrinal part of this Epistle.

II. In the Hortatory or Practical part, He stirs up, and exhorts the Ephesians to divers Christian duties, in testimony of their gratitude for all the former benefits. These duties are 1. More general, 2. More special.

I. More general duties, common to all Christians, viz. To walk worthy of the heavenly vocation wherewith they are called, Chap. IV. ver. 1. To this end he particularly directs them how to walk worthily, viz. with

Chap. 4.

1. Humility and Meekness, ver. 2.

2. Long-suffering, and loving forbearance of one another, v. 2.

3. Unity of the Spirit in the Bond of Peace, ver. 3. Because there is 1. One Body. 2. One Spirit. 3. One Hope, v. 4. 4. One Lord. 5. One Faith. 6. One Baptism, ver. 5. 7. One God, ver. 6. 8. One common end of all the extraordinary and ordinary Ministers of the Gospel, (those gifts of Christ as fruits of his Ascension.) and of their Ministry, viz. The perfecting of the Saints in the unity of faith, full knowledge of Christ, and compleat growth up unto him in all things, as the body in the head. v. 7, to 17.

4. Holiness of life, which consists 1. In Mortification or putting off the old man. 1. Because Gentiles uncovertly walk in the lusts of the old man, v. 17 to 20. 2. Because they have better learned Christ, v. 20, 21. 3. Because the old man is to be put off. 4. Because the old man is corrupt, v. 22. II. In Vivification, or putting on the New Man in Righteousness and Holiness, v. 23, 24.

5. Truth, putting away lying; This is urged from our Co-membership in Christ, v. 25.

6. Speedy placableness in anger; Because else we give place to the devil, v. 26, 27.

7. Diligent labour, that they may give to others, and not steal from others, v. 28.

8. Profitable, not corrupt Communication, urged 1. From the commodity of good Communication to others, ver. 29. 2. From the mischief of bad to themselves, v. 30.

9. Brotherly love; which is Described and Urged, I. Described, 1. Negatively, by the opposite vices from which they are dehorted, ver. 31. 2. Positively by the acts of brotherly love required, ver. 32. II. Urged, 1. From Gods love to us, whom we are to follow as children, ver. 32. and Ch. V. ver. 5. 2. From Christs love in dying for us, ver. 2.

Chap. 5.

10. To avoid fellowship with divers lusts of carnal men. Here I. These lusts or corruptions are described: 1. Fornication. 2. All uncleanness. 3. Covetousness. 4. Filthiness. 5. Foolish talking. 6. Jesting, vers. 3, 4. II. The avoiding of these corruptions, is urged upon divers considerations. 1. They are uncomely for Saints, ver. 3. 2. They are inconvenient, ver. 4. 3. They exclude from Gods Kingdom, and incurre his wrath, ver. 5, 6. 4. They were darkness, are light, therefore must walk as children of light, proving what is acceptable to the Lord, v. 7, to 11. 5. These are unfruitful works of darkness, and shameful to be spoken of, therefore to be reproved by light, ver. 11. 6. Gods people should walk better, and that upon divers grounds, verse 15, 16, 17.

11. To beat drunkenness, and as an Antidote against it. 1. To be filled with the spirit. 2. To exercise themselves in spiritual melody to the Lord. 3. To learn themselves continually to thankfulness in all things, v. 18, 19, 20.

12. To subject themselves one to another; which Subjection is limited, in the Lords fear, ver. 21.

II. More special duties, peculiar to some particular Relations; As betwixt 1. Husbands and Wives. 2. Parents and Children. 3. Masters and Servants.

1. Betwixt Husbands and Wives Here 1. Wives are exhorted to subject themselves to their own Husbands, v. 22. This Subjection is set forth by the 1. Manner of it, as to the Lord, v. 22. 2. Grounds of it, Partly the Husbands Headship; Partly the Husbands Protection of her, v. 23. 3. Pattern of it, the Churches subjection to Christ, v. 24. 4. Extent of it, v. 24. 2. Husbands are exhorted to love their wives, 1. From the example of Christs love to his Church, giving himself for it, to cleanse it, &c. v. 25, 26, 27. 2. From the neer union betwixt husband and wife, they being one flesh morally, v. 28, 29. as the Church is one flesh with Christ mystically, v. 29. to 33. Whence the husband is to love his wife as himself, which is amplified, by the wifes relative duty of Reverencing her Husband, v. 33.

2. Betwixt Parents and Children. Here I. Children are charged to obey their Parents, Ch. VI. v. 1. Chap. 6. This is 1. Limited, in the Lord. 2. Urged, Partly from the equity of it; Partly from the commodity of it, v. 1, 2, 3. II. Parents are charged 1. Not to provoke their children. 2. To educate them Christianly, v. 4.

3. Betwixt Masters and Servants. Here I. Servants are charged to be obedient to their Masters. This obedience is 1. Described by its adjuncts or properties, viz. 1. Fear to offend, 2. Singleness of heart, Amplified by its opposite eye-service. 3. Good will. 2. Urged partly from the Agreeableness of this to the Will of God and Christ, Partly from the commodity of so doing, v. 5. to 9. II. Masters are charged 1. To do the same things to their servants, viz. the things that are good and just. 2. To forbear too much austerity; because they have a Master in heaven, who respects not persons, v. 9.

III. THE CONCLUSION of the Epistle, wherein

1. He encourages them to be strong and constant in the Lord, against all Satans subtil temptations, through the help of the whole * Armour of God, v. 10. 11. This he doth I. Urging it, with arguments drawn 1. From the greatness and danger of the adversaries, v. 12. 2. From the necessity of this course, that they may stand in the evil day, ver. 13. II. Describing the whole Armour of God particularly, which is 1. Defensive only: As Girdle of Truth, Breast plate of Righteousness, v. 14. Shooes of the preparation of the Gospel of Peace, v. 15. Shield of faith, especially commended for quenching all the devils fiery darting temptations, v. 16. Helmet of salvation, v. 17. 2. Offensive as well as Defensive, viz. The sword of the Spirit, the Word, v. 17. Prayer for themselves, for all Saints, and for the Apostle himself particularly, v. 18, 19, 20. * armour of God,

2. He shews why he sent Tychicus to them, 1. To inform them of his affairs. 2. To comfort them, v. 21, 22.

3. He concludes with an Apostolical Salutation, wishing them Peace, Love with Faith and Grace, v. 23, 24.

The Epistle of Paul the Apostle to the PHILIPPIANS.] So entituled, because written by a Paul to the Saints, Bishops and Deacons at Philippi.

PHILIPPI was the name of two Cities, viz. One in Thessalie, at first called Datbos, but after Philippi from b Philip of Macedon, who repaired it. Another a City of Macedonia, the first City of that part of Macedonia, c and a Colony: situate in the confines of Thracia, in the fields whereof Pompey was overcome by Cæsar; and after Brutus and Cassius by Anthony and Octavius. This latter Philippi is here meant; to this Philippi Paul came, being warned by d Vision to go into Macedonia, and there he abode certain dayes. Here Lydia and the Jaylor were converted. Here (as Chrysostom in his Preface to the Philippians saith,) The Ruler of the Synagogue believed. Here Paul and Silas was beaten with rods: Here they were intreated by the Magistrates to go out, and they were a feast to them, Here the preaching of the Gospel had a splendid beginning. And Paul here laid the foundation of a flourishing Church. Which (as e Ambrose and Chrysostome note) did not after the Apostles departure, fall off from the faith and purity of Gospel doctrine, through the enticements of the false Apostles, as the Galatians did; nor to other offences as the Corinthians did: but were constant in Faith and Piety, and increased both in number of believers and their graces; as their commendations in this Epistle testifie.

e Ambr. Præfat. in Ep. ad Phil. Gairsias &c.] It evidently appears, that Paul in writing to them, deals honorifically with them, interposing nothing that was Reprehensory, now this was a great Argument of their vertue, that they gave their Doctor no occasion of chiding, and that all things are written to them not in an Objurgatory, but in a swasory way. *Joan. Sect. IV. Principal Parts.

In this Epistle to the Phillipians are 1. The Preface, 2. The Matter, 3. The Conclusion.

THE PREFECE to the Epistle, which contains I.
I. The Inscription, denoting 1. The Parties writing, 2. The Parties written to, Ch. I. v. 1. II. The Apostolical Salutation, v. 2. Chap. I.

THE MATTER, or SUBSTANCE of the Epistle, II.
wherein

I. He confirms and encourages them in the Faith, I. By declaring his constant thankfulness to God on their behalf, v. 3, 4. Here the matter of his Thankfulness is 1. Propounded, viz. their fellowship in the Gospel from the first day till then, v. 5. 2. Amplified by his confidence of their Perseverance, Partly from the nature of God, who begins and perfects his good work in his people, v. 6. Partly from their zeal towards him in his sufferings, illustrated by his reciprocal dear love to them, v. 7, 8. 2. By his Prayer for their abounding and Perseverance in grace, and that inoffensively to Gods glory, ver. 9, 10, 11.

II. By removing the scandal of his Cross and Sufferings, that might discourage them, which he doth 1. Declaring that his bonds at Rome were so far from hindring, that they have furthered the course of the Gospel; Partly because his bonds for Christ were manifest to all Cæsars house, v. 12, 13. Partly because many brethren of the Ministry were by his bonds emboldened to preach without fear, v. 14. And however some preached Christ not so sincerely as others, yet Christ was preached, and he joyed therein, ver. 15. to 19. 2. Intimating his assurance that all these his sufferings should turn to his good; Partly through their Prayer, Partly through the supply of Christs spirit, ver. 19. Partly from his own hope upon his former experience, that Christ shall be magnified by him both in life and death, and himself should gain by both, ver. 20, 21. though the Philippians would gain more by his life, which puts him upon a strait, whether he should chose life or death, yet he is confident he shall live longer, for furtherance of their faith and joy. v. 22. to 27.

II. He exhorts them to a pious Conversation becoming Christs Gospel, ver. 27. &c. To this purpose he incites them particularly.

1. To joyn stedfastness of spirit and mind in contending for the Faith, or Doctrine of the Gospel, notwithstanding all the terrors of their Persecutors, v. 27, 28. To the induring of whose persecutions, he encourages them, 1. Because their Persecutions are an evident token of their Persecutors destruction, but of their salvation, v. 28. 2. Because its a greater gift to suffer for Christ, then to believe in him, ver. 27. 3. Because hereby they shall have communion with the Apostle himself, was.

2. To unity in mind and heart; from divers pathetick Arguments in reference to himself, Ch. II. ver. 1, 2.

3. To lowliness of mind. I. Dissuading from the contrary vices, viz. 1. Contention. 2. Vain-glory, verse 3. II. Describing this lowliness of mind; As whereby 1. We esteem others beyond our selves, verse 3. 2. We regard others affairs as well as our own, verse 4. III. Urging it, 1. From Christs example, who though equal to God, yet debased himself in the forme of a servant to the death of the Crosse, and was therefore most highly exalted: So proportionably shall they be that debase themselves like him, verse 5. to 12. 2. From their former constant obedience to him; whence he now expects the like obedience in working out their salvation with fear and trembling, verse 12. 3. From Gods grace, which alone works in them to will and to do, therefore they have no cause at all to be high-minded in themselves, verse 13. 4. From the good end or event that hence will ensue. Partly in respect of themselves, their inoffensiveness, as becomes the sons of God in a corrupt age, verse 14, 15, 16. Partly in respect of the Apostle, his joy in them as their Ministers in the day of Christ, verse 16. This he amplifies 1. from them he employes by rejoycing to be poured forth, even as a drink-offering upon the service of their faith; by his death, wishing them also therein to rejoyce with him, verse 17, 18.

Chap. 2.

III. He declares to them, both his purpose of sending Timothy to them for future, and his Reason of sending Epaphroditus their Minister to them for present. 1. His Purpose of sending Timothy shortly to them to know their state, as soon as he sees how it will go with himself, commending Timothy, As 1. Like-minded. 2. Naturally caring for their state, while others seek their own, not the things of Christ. 3. Serving with Paul in the Gospel as a son with a father, ver. 19. to 24. This he amplifies, by his hopes of coming himself to them shortly, ver. 24. II. His present sending of Epaphroditus to them; Here 1. He commends Epaphroditus singularly, ver. 25, 26. 2. He shows why he sent him back to them, viz. that they might be comforted, in seeing him recovered who had been sick nigh to death, ver. 26. 27. 28. 3. He exhorts them gladly to receive, and highly to esteem him, who had so hazarded his life for the work of Christ, v. 29, 30.

IV. He warns them against the false doctrine of false Apostles, that would mingle the works of the law with faith in the point of Justification. Here I. He cheers them up in the Lord against all contrary discouragements of false teachers, Ch. III. v. 1. II. He excuseth his inculcating the same things unto them, because safe for them, ver. 2. III. He cautions them against false Apostles, branding them, As 1. Dogs, that for their bellies bark'd and snarl'd against the truth. 2. Evil-workers, that builded not, but destroyed the Church. 3. Concision, rending asunder the Churches unity by obtruding Circumcision, ver. 3. Amplifying this by his and their opposite Circumcision of the heart, the true matter of glorying in Christ, ver. 4. IV. He opposes his own example against them, As 1. Farre surpassing these false Apostles in legal Privileges and Works; enumerated particularly, ver. 4, 5, 6. 2. Denying notwithstanding and disdaining all these his Privileges and Works as loss and dung for the excellency of Christs knowledge and righteousness by faith, and experimental Communion with and Conformity to Christ, both in his Death and Resurrection, ver. 7. to 12. 3. Yet not counting himself Perfect in Christ, but through Christs assistance, contending daily after Perfection, ver. 12. to 15. This he amplifies, Partly exhorting them that were more perfect among the Philippians to be like-minded with him. Partly comforting them that were more imperfect with hopes of a clearer Revelation; only cautioning them, to farre as they have attained to walk by the same rule, ver. 15, 16. 4. Exhorting the Philippians herein to follow his example, verse 17. which he urgeth, Partly from the sensuelness, earthliness and damnableness of the false Apostles course; therefore to be avoided, ver. 18, 19. Partly from the heavenliness and hopefulness of his course of life, verse 20, 21.

Chap. 3.

V. He exhorts to Christian duties, I. More particular, viz. 1. The Philippians to stedfastness in the Lord, Ch. IV. 1. 2. Euodias and Syntiche to concord, ver. 2. 3. His true yoke-fellow, to help his helpers and fellow-labourers, ver. 3. II. More generally. As, 1. To rejoycing in the Lord, ver. 4. 2. To moderation; because the Lord is at hand, ver. 5. 3. To tranquility and composedness of mind, against all carking solicitude, ver. 6. And to this end, (1) He directs them to disburden all their cares and troubles into the bosome of the Lord by Prayer, ver. 6. (2) He Promises them in their so doing, the unconceivable peace of God, to keep their hearts and minds from distempered passions and imaginations, ver. 7. 4. To truth. 5. To gravity. 6. To justice. 7. To purity. 8. To amiable manners. 9. To things of good report. 10. To every thing vertuous and praise-worthy ver. 8. 11. To all things which he had commended to them by his doctrine or life, v. 9.

Chap. 4.

VI. He most gratefully commemorates and commends their bounty sent to him by Epaphroditus their Pastor; Here he 1. Rejoyceth in the Lord, at their care they took of him though they lacked opportunity, ver. 10. 2. Declareth that his spirit was not weakned and broken with adversities and wants, (though they had not supplied him:) because he could be content in any condition, through Christ instructing and strengthening him, ver. 11. to 14. 3. Thankfully acknowledging their communicating to his necessity both now and heretofore, v. 14. 15. 16. 4. Clears himself from suspicion of avarice intimating that the thing he desired, was fruit abounding to their account, v. 17. 5. Commends their present expression or bounty by Epaphroditus; as being an abundant supply to him; and an acceptable sacrifice to God, v. 18. 6. Promiseth them a supply of all their wants from God, vers. 19. 7. Praiseth God, ver. 20.

THE CONCLUSION of the Epistle, with 1. Salutations, v. 21, 22. 2. An Apostolical valediction, or farewell-Prayer, v. 23.

All Pauls Epistles are holy, but they have somthing more that are sent from him in bonds; as the Epistles to the Ephesians, to Philemon, to Timothy, and this present Epistle.—But why say I these Epistles have more then others? Because he wrote them when he was in bonds. As if a valiant man should write, mean while desisting from slaughter and trophies: so he also did. Himself also knew this was a great matter. For writing to Philemon he saith, whom I have begotten in my bonds. Jo. Chrysost. in Ep. ad Colos. Homil. 1. Tom. 6. in N. T.

THE Epistle of the Apostle Paul to the COLOSSIANS.] So intituled from the Colossians, to whom Paul wrote this Epistle, a To the Saints and faithful brethren in Christ which are at Colosse.

These Colossians were b not that People dwelling in Rhodes, called Colossians from that huge Colossus or Image of the Sun seventy cubits high, there erected: But rather those inhabitants of Colosse c a chief city in Phrygia in Asia Minor, near unto Hierapolis and Laodicea; as d Chrisostome thinks. And this Epistle it self seems to intimate thus much, wherein he mentions Epaphras his e zeal for them at Colosse, Laodicea, and Hierapolis; Bids them f salute the brethren which are in Laodicea, and that g this Epistle be read in the Church of the Laodiceans. Now Laodicea and Hierapolis are near Colosse, but farre distant from Rhodes, as learned Writers import. Xenophon writes, h That after Cyrus entred into Phrygia, he went straight unto Colosse, a city of universal resort, flourishingly rich and great. Orosius, and also Eusebius report, i That three cities of Asia, Laodicea, Hierapolis and Colosse fell with one and the same earthquake, and this in the time of Nero's reign, in the very next year after Pauls death. And k Pliny seats not Colosse in any Island, but among the Cities of the Continent.

When and Whence this Epistle was written, see in the former Table.

Sect. II. Occasion.

Epaphras fellow-labourer with the Apostle, had in Colosse with other Ministers planted a Church. The Faith preached to the Colossians was impugned by two sorts of adversaries, viz. Partly by some converted out of Judaisme, who urged the Cereremonies of the Law, Circumcisions, New-moons, Sabbaths, and Differences of meats, as necessary to salvation, confounding Christ and Moses together: Partly by some converted out of Gentilisme, who obtruded Philosophical subtilties upon them, counting the simplicity of the Gospel too much below wise men; especially babling many things touching Angels and their Ministry, as by whom salvation was to be obtained, and so they blended Theology with Philosophy. The Apostle therefore being l Prisoner at Rome, writes upon this Occasion to instruct and establish them in the true Doctrine of the Gospel taught them by Epaphras against all the impostures of false teachers, whether Jewish or Paganish.

Sect. III. Scope.

The chief intent and Scope of this Epistle is 1. To shew, that all m hope of mans salvation is grounded on Christ our Redeemer, enjoyment of him, and perseverance in him, as in whom alone all n compleat fulnesse, perfections, and All-sufficiencies to that end do meet; and therefore Christians should fully rest themselves satisfied in the faith of Christ only. 2. To cautionthe o Colossians, and all Christians against all Mosaical Ceremonies, Philosophical speculations and deceits, and humane traditions, as inconsistent with Christ and his fulnesse for our salvation. 3. To incite the Colossians to seek their happinesse p higher, then in those low earthly and external things, and to exercise themselves more spiritually and Evangelically, in Mortification of sin, and Sanctity both in heart and life, in General and Particular duties of Christianity.

Sect. IV. Principal Parts.

In this Epistle to the Colossians are 1. The Preface 2. The Body of the Epistle, 3. The Conclusion.

THE PREFACE to the Epistle, contains, I. The Inscription, describing 1. The Parties writing; 2. The Parties written to, Ch. 1. ver. 1, 2. II. The Salutation, ver. 2. III. The exordium, or Entrance into the Epistle, to procure benevolence with the Colossians, wherein note 1. His Gratulation in their behalf, v. 3. 2. The grounds of this his Gratulation, viz. Partly their Faith in Christ. Partly their love to all the Saints, ver. 4. Both which are amplified, By their final cause, viz. their hoped happiness in heaven. By their instrumental cause. viz. The Gospel preached to them by Epaphras, who declared their spiritual state to Paul, ver. 5. to 9. 3. The Apostles Prayer for their increase in all spirituals, To the knowledge of the truth, ver. 9. To the exercise of Piety, ver. 10. To the enduring of the Cross, ver. 11. I, Chap. 1.

THE BODY or SUBSTANCE of the Epistle, consists of matters, 1. Doctrinal, 2 Practical. II.

I. In the Doctrinal part, he 1. Asserts the Truth positively. 2. Confutes errour polemically.

I. He positively asserts the Truth, laying down the summe of Christian doctrine, touching the primary causes and benefits of salvation, in way of thankfulnes for them, ver. 12. &c. Here are therefore described.

1. The saving benefits ascribed to the father, I. More generally, viz. his fitting us to partake of glory, ver, 12. II. More particularly how he thus fits us, viz. 1. Privatively, by delivering us out of the Kingdom of darkness. 2. Positively, translating us into the Kingdom of Christ, the son of his love, viz. by Effectual calling, v. 13.

1. The saving benefits ascribed to the Son, viz. Redemption, ver. 14. This Redemption is set forth, I. By the price paid. His blood. ver. 14. II. By one eminent benefit purchased, Remission of sins, ver. 14. III. By the compearnes and all-sufficiency of Christ the Redeemer, described, and confirmed. 1. Described magnifically magnifically by divers glorious Titles attributed to him; As (1.) Image of the invisible God, ver. 15. (2.) First-born of every creature. Because he created all things, ver. 15, 16. Because he is before all things. Because all things consist by him, ver. 17. (3.) Head of the Church, ver. 18. (4.) The beginning, the first-born from the dead, ver. 18. 2. Confirmed, Partly from the final cause thereof, that in all he might have the Preheminence, ver. 18. Partly from the efficient ordaining cause, it pleased the Father, ver. 19. Partly from the formal cause. All fulness dwelling in Christ as Mediator, ver. 20. IV. By the manner of this Redemption, and the benefit of Reconciliation to God thereby; spoken of, 1. As concerning all more generally, ver. 20. 2. As concerning the Colossians more particularly; where note (1.) Their natural misery, and the cause thereof, (2.) Their spiritual delivery, and the means thereof, (3.) The glorious end of that delivery, ver. 21, 22. (4.) The condition upon which they shall enjoy benefit by Christs Redemption and Reconciliation, viz. Perseverance in the faith of the Gospel; which Perseverance is closely urged by many Arguments, Partly because this is necessary to their enjoying Benefit by Christs Redemption, ver. 23. Partly because this is the faith which all believers generally have received, ver. 23. Partly because Paul himself divinely called to this Ministry, preached this doctrine to them, and suffered persecution for it joyfully, ver. 23, 24, 25. Partly because of the singular excellency and dignity of this Doctrine, and of the mystery contained therein to the Gentiles, viz. Christ in them the hope of glory, ver. 26, 27. Partly because of the Apostles singular labouring and striving to preach this mystery of Christ in the Gospel throughout the world, ver. 28, 29.

II. He polemically confutes the errours contrary to the faith of the Gospel. In which confutation note,

1. His Preface, for procuring of their attention and benevolence, wherein 1. He declares what great conflict and care he had for the Colossians, Laodiceans and others confirmation in the faith, Ch. II. v. 1. Chap. 2.
II. He gives the reasons of this his care for them, 1. For their manifold good, viz. Comfort, Union in love, and Full-assurance of understanding to the acknowledgement of the mystery of God and Christ, v. 2. This Mystery of Christ, is commended gloriously, as having all treasures of saving wisdom and knowledge hid therein, v. 3. 2. To prevent their peril of seducement by false teachers, v. 4. 3. From his inward affection to them, and spiritual Presence with them, though corporally absent from them, Described, Partly by the manner of his affection, Joying Contemplating upon them, Partly by the grounds thereof, viz. Their order, their Beel-stedfastness of faith, ver. 5.
III. He concludes exhorting them constantly to adhere to Christ, as Epaphras had taught them, 1. With firmness of faith. 2. With abounding therein. 3. With thankfulness in that behalf, v. 6, 7.

2. His Proposition, touching the errours to be confuted, he lays down; I. Cautioning them against impostures. II. Referring these impostures to three heads. 1. Philosophy, viz. that which is deceitful, vain. 2. Traditions of men. 3. Mosaical Ceremonies, called the Rudiments of the World. III. Hinting a general rule, whence we may discover they are to be rejected, viz. if they withdraw from Christ, v. 8.

3. His Confutation of these errours propounded and stated. I. More generally by Arguments against them all, drawn 1. From the infinite Perfection of Christ in himself, in whom the perfect Deity dwels personally, therefore he neither needs nor admits these Additionals, v. 9. 2. From their compleatness in Christ, in whom they have compleat furniture for salvation, ver. 10. 3. From Christs absolute Headship and Supremacy, ver. 10. II. More particularly, by Arguments against these errours severally. 1. Against Mosaical Ceremonies, as Circumcision, &c. which he proves needless to Christians. (1.) Partly because they have in Christ a Circumcision far better in respect of the Author, Christ; Manner, without hands; Effect, True Sanctification; and Visible sign, Baptism, succeeding in room of Circumcision, ver. 11, 12. (2.) Partly because they have all Christs perfect Justification, in remission of all their sins, v. 13. Both for being removed, the Ceremonial law, (which was a sign of guiltiness,) is removed by Christs death, ver. 14. yea all Spiritual enemies are by his death spoiled, captivated and and triumphed over, v. 15. (3.) Partly because all Mosaical Ceremonies were but the shadows of Christ the body now come; therefore ye Christian Colossians are not to be censured and judged for not observing these vanished shadows and if judged, ye need not regard it, v. 16, 17. 2. Against Philosophical seducers, he argues, (1.) Branding them, Partly for usurping to themselves like that of Judges in a race, a Judiciary Authority to determine any thing about Gods worship; Partly for their assuming this power to beguile the People withall. (2.) Shewing wherein they fraudulently usurp this power, viz. In imposing upon them A voluntary humility, and worship of Angels. (3.) Confuting and condemning these doctrines: Partly because they arise from ignorance, Partly because they flow from pride, v. 18. Partly because they draw from the Head Christ, who affords all necessaries to his mystical body, who knits the members together whereby they grow, ver. 19. 3. Against superstitious Traditions of men, in outward Rites and Observances, he argues, (1.) Propounding a general Argument; The death of Christ hath freed them from Mosaical Ceremonies, though imposed by God himself, much more from superstitious traditions meerly imposed by Men, ver. 20. (2.) Instancing in some particular traditions condemned, v. 21. (3.) Condemning these particular Traditions, Partly from their own perishableness, Partly from their weak foundation, mens Commands and Doctrines, v. 22. (4.) Declaring with what specious pretences these Seducers varnish over these Commands and Doctrines, wherein notwithstanding there's no true wisdom or Piety, v. 23.

Hitherto of the Doctrinal part of this Epistle.

II. In the Practical part of this Epistle are Corollaries from the former; he Instructs them in and Exhorts them to divers Christians duties. 1. General 2. Special.

I. General duties of Christianity, commonly concerning all believers, are divers, As

1. Seeking and setting their minde and affections on things above, not on things on the earth, 1. Because they are risen with Christ. 2. Because Christ sits at Gods right hand, Ch. III. 1, 2. 3. Because they are spiritually dead to those earthly things ver. 3. 4. Because our life is now hid with Christ in God, will hereafter appear gloriously in Christs appearing, ver. 3, 4. Chap. 3.

2. Mortification of their corrupt lusts, Carnal or Spiritual. I. More carnal corruptions, Here 1. Mortification is generally perscribed. 2. The lusts to be mortified, are instanced in ver. 5. 3. This Mortification of these lusts is urged, Partly, from the pernicious event that will follow upon these lusts, ver. 6. Partly, from their carnal course herein, formerly, ver. 7. II. More Spiritual corruptions. Here 1. The evils to be put off are enumerated, ver. 8, 9. 2. This putting them off is urged, from their present spiritual estate, having put off the old man, and put on the New-man, v. 9, 10. 3. These Reasons are strengthned by removing false causes of Helping or Hurting us before God: viz. all outward Priviledges, Conditions or Relations; Christ being all in point of Religion to commend us unto God, ver. 11.

3. Putting on and exercising of divers vertues, Here I. He exhorts to certain vertues, intermingling divers Arguments urging thereunto, ver. 12. to 16. II. He incites to the Study, Knowledge and use of the Word of Christ, as a singular guide and furtherance therance in all the former vertues, v. 16. III. He prescribes a general Rule for all their actions, 1. That all be done in Christs Name. 2. That all be done with thankfulness to God in Christ, ver. 17.

II. Special duties of Christianity, peculiarly concerning some particular Relations, prescribed and urged by divers Arguments, As 1. Of Wives and Husbands, v. 18, 19. 2. Of Children and Parents, v. 20, 21. 3. Of Servants and Masters, v. 22. to the end, and Chap. IV. 1.

Chap. 4. III.

THE CONCLUSION of the whole Epistle, wherein

1. He exhorts the Colossians to divers necessary duties, As 1. Continuance and watching in Prayer with thanksgivings and Prayer for Paul himself in particular, ver. 2, 3, 4. 2. Walking wisely towards them that are without, by redeeming time, ver. 5. 3. Discreet savourines in Communication, v. 6.

2. He declares why he sent Tychicus and Onesimus to them, whom he worthily commends to them, vers. 7, 8, 9.

3. He sends divers salutations to the Colossians and others, from several Persons singularly commended, ver. 10. to 16.

4. He directs the Colossians 1. To cause this Epistle to be read in the Church of the Laodiceans, and themselves to read the Epistle from Laodicea, v. 16. 2. To admonish Archippus to be diligent and faithful in his Ministry, ver. 17.

5. He closeth up the Epistle, 1. Shewing that he was wont to send his salution under his own hand. 2. Craving the remembrance of his Bonds. 3. Apostolically saluting them, wishing Grace to be with them, ver. 18.

a 1 Thes. 1. 1.

THE first Epistle of Paul the Apostle to the THESSALONIANS.] So denominated, because written by a Paul to the Church of the Thessalonians. And they from their City Thessalonica, which was the b Metropolis, or Mother City in Macedonia, situate on the edge of the Macedonian shore. Anciently it was called Therma, and thence the Thermaick Haven. c Some give this Reason of the change of the name; Philip King of Macedonia in a memorable battel in these parts over-came the People of Thessaly. For monument of which victory, the neighbouring City was re-edified and enlarged, and named Thessalonica; as it were (Θὶς ἄλλο νίκην) i. e. Put the Victory to another. It was sold by Adronicus to the Venetians, but they did not long enjoy it, for it was (as other parts of Greece,) quickly possessed by the Turks. Is now a famous Empory for Indian Merchandize, (but under the dominion and Idolatry of the Turks,) d known by the name of Saloniki.

In Thessalonica God pleased to plant a Church, by the Ministry of Paul and Silas; converting both Jews and Greeks. See the History of it in the e Acts. There the unbelieving f Jews, moved with envy, raised tumults against Paul and Silas, and also against the Saints that entertained them, Jason, &c. so that g Paul and Silas were glad to fly away by night to Berea, and after that to h Athens, whence he is thought to have written this Epistle.

k Jo. Calv. Arg. in 1. Ep. ad Thes.

The Occasion of Pauls writing this Epistle seems i evidently to be this, viz. Paul being forced by tumults to depart from Thessalonica, and fearing lest the Church there newly collected, should be hazarded through fear k of troubles and persecutions, and going to Athens he sends Timothy back to confirm the Thessalonians in the faith, and report their state to him. Whereupon Timothy informing him of their constancy notwithstanding persecutions, and of all their Affairs, from Athens Paul wrote this Epistle to them, for their encouragement. When this Epistle was written, see in Table above.

Sect. III. Scope.

The Scope of Paul in this Epistle, is, 1. To encourage the Thessalonians to l constancy and perseverance in the Faith and Grace received, by means of the Apostles m faithful Ministry, which the Lord made exceeding effectual upon them; and that they n faint not by reason of his or their sufferings and afflions for the Gospel. 2. To incite them unto all holiness of conversation, o pleasing to God, branched out into many Christian duties; and to progress therein unto p perfection. 3. To urge all Christians proportionably, to constancy in the Faith received against all tribulations, and to sanctity of Life in all holy Performances, till they come to be compleat.

THE PREFACE, contains I. The Inscription, describing 1. The Parties writing. 2. The Parties written to. II. The Salutation, or Apostolical Prayer, Chap. I. v. 1. I, Chap. 1.

THE SUBSTANCE, or MATTER of the Epistle is chiefly Hortatory. Herein he exhorteth the Thessalonians, I. To Constancy and perseverance in the Faith and Grace received. 2. To Sanctity of Life, and progress in Grace unto perfection. II.

I. To Constancy and Perseverance in the Faith and Grace received, he exhorts them by many Arguments. As

1. From the consideration of Gods rich Grace, bestowed on them by the Apostles Ministry, and the general

Fayre thereof in the Churches of Christ, from which confequently they fhould not go back. Here note, I. The Apoſtles conſtant Remembrance and Prayer for them, ver. 2. II. The Grounds of this his Thankfulneſs, &c. viz. the ſupernaturalness of their Graces, eſpecially Faith, Love and Hope, which are Amplified (1) Severally, by their ſeveral and peculiar effects, (2) Jointly, by the Sincerity of them all, ver. 3. (3) His knowledge of their divine Election, (the Fountain of all their graces) ver. 4. The evidences whereby he knew that by which they were elected, viz. (1) The power of his Miniſtry upon them. (2) The gifts of the Holy Ghoſt attended. (3) The fulneſs of the Spirit, viz. much aſſurance, in which things he appeals to their own Conſciences, v. 5. (4) Their holy practice, following the Apoſtles and Chriſt upon their receiving of the word with patience and joy, ver. 6. This grace of theirs is amplified by the eminent events thereof, viz. Partly their exemplarineſs to all believers in Macedonia and Achaia, ver. 7. Partly the fame of their Faith, not onely in Macedonia and Achaia, but in every place, ver. 8. Partly the teſtimony which other Churches gave to the Apoſtle touching the Theſſalonians Converſion by his Miniſtry, which Converſion is notably deſcribed by the parts of it. v. 9, 10.

Chap. 2. 2. From the faithfulneſs of the Inſtrument, whereby they were effectually converted, viz. Paul, Here I. The efficacy of his firſt preaching to them is declared, Ch. II. ver. 1. II. The means or helping cauſe to this efficacy, viz. Pauls faithfulneſs in his Miniſtry, is deſcribed and amplified. 1. By his Boldneſſe in his Miniſtry; ſet forth, Partly by the meaſure of it, holding up even againſt all his afflictions. Partly by the Author of it, God, ver. 2. 2. By his Sincerity, in his Miniſtry according to the truſt committed to him of God; which Sincerity he evidenceth; Partly by removing from himſelf the evil properties of hypocritical falſe-hearted Miniſters. As [1] Impoſture, [2] Impurity, [3] Guile, ver. 3. [4] Men-pleaſing. Amplified, by his contrary care to pleaſe the heart-ſearching God, ver. 4. [5] Flattery, [6] Covetouſneſs, ver. 5. [7] Vain-glory, &c. (as it may be rather interpreted) Mercenarineſſe, v. 6. Partly by aſcribing to himſelf the properties of a ſincere and faithfull Miniſtry, viz. (1.) Nurſe-like gentleneſs towards them, ver. 7. (2) Affectionate love and deſire after them, ver. 8. (3) Conſtant laboriouſneſſe and diligence in his employment, that he might not be chargeable to them in preaching the Goſpel, ver. 8. (4) Unblameableneſſe of life among them, ſet forth, Partly by the witneſſes thereof, God and them. Partly by the branches thereof Holineſs and Righteouſneſs, ver. 10. (5) Faithful diſcharge of his miniſterial acts, Exhorting, Comforting, Charging. Amplified, Partly by the manner thereof, As a father doth his children, ver. 11. Partly by the matter thereof. That they would walk worthy of God, who had called them, v. 12.

3. From their own experience of the efficacy of the doctrine of faith upon themſelves. Here note I. The Manner of their receiving the Word, viz. Not as Mans, but Gods. II. The fruit of this their receiving the Word, 1. Upon the Apoſtles conſtant Thankfulneſs, ver. 13. 2. Upon themſelves, viz. Effectual Operation, ver. 13. This effectual operation upon them, is evidenced by their willing ſuffering affliction of their own Country-men for the Goſpel, as the Churches in Judea did of the Jews, ver. 14. The Jews cruel perſecuting acts being mentioned particularly, ver. 15, 16.

4. From the Apoſtles ſingular care and tenderneſs over them, who (though he could not come to them himſelf, yet) ſent Timothy to them, to comfort and ſtabliſh them in the faith, notwithſtanding the Apoſtles afflictions. Here I. He makes Apology for his abſence from them, ſhowing 1. That his abſence from them was Forced, Short, Not in heart, ver. 17. 2. That his deſire to ſee them was great, and his endeavours divers, but hindred by Satan, ver. 17, 18. 3. That this his deſire did ariſe from the high eſteem he had of them, and hope of reward, accompanied by them in their converſion, in the Day of the Lord, ver. 19, 20. II. He declares his ſending Timothy to them from Athens, to compoſe his diſtreſs. More note, The moving cauſe of ſending him, he loved them, he could no longer forbear, Chap. III. ver. 1, 2. The Commiſſion of Timothy ſent, ver. 2, 3. The end of his ſending him to them, viz. To confirm and ſtabliſh them in the faith, leaſt they ſhould be ſtaggered although Paul aboundeth, ver. 2, 3. Againſt which afflictions he comforts them, Partly from divine Appointment, ver. 3. Partly from the Apoſtles Prediction thereof before they came, ver. 4. 5. The Reaſonableneſs of his former end in ſending Timothy, v. 5. III. The ſeaſonable Timothy's good report to him of their ſpiritual ſtate at his return, where conſider 1. The matter of his report, viz. Their faith, love, good remembrance of the Apoſtle, deſire to ſee him, v. 6. 2. The event of his report in Paul, viz. Partly his chearening comforts in all their ſufferings by their ſtedfaſtneſs, v. 7, 8. Partly his thankfulneſs for his joy in them, v. 9. Partly his conſtant Prayer and earneſt deſire to ſee them, for further perfecting of their faith, v. 10. beſeeching the Lord to direct his way to them, to increaſe their love, and eſtabliſh them unblameable in holineſſe at the coming of Chriſt, v. 11, 12, 13.

II. To Stability of life and Progreſſe in grace unto Perfection therein, he exhorts them 1. More generally. 2. More particularly.

1. More generally, where obſerve, I. The Manner of his exhortation, we beſeech, &c. II. The matter exhorted, to abound in walking acceptably before God. III. The motives or reaſons whereby this is urged, 1. Their receiving and knowing the Apoſtles commands to this end, Chap. IV. 1, 2. Chap. 4. Gods Will, ver. 3. 3. The end of Gods calling, ver. 7. 4. The hainouſneſs of the neglect hereof, defiling God, v. 8. 5. The bounty of God in giving his Spirit, v. 8.

II. More particularly, he exhorts them to divers duties; (wherein perhaps they were defective or endangered.) As

1. To Chaſtity, not in fornication and the luſt of Concupiſcence, according to the manner of the Gentiles, v. 3, 4, 5.

2. To Juſtice, where note 1. The ſin to be avoided, viz. Over-reaching and Fraud, v. 6. 2. The reaſons againſt it, viz. (1) Their relation of brotherhood. (2) The Lords avenging of ſuch, v. 6. [Here are annexed divers Reaſons to the general duty aforementioned, v. 7, 8.]

3. To brotherly love, 1. Acknowledging they are taught hereunto of God, ver. 9. 2. Commending them for practiſing it towards all the brethren in Macedonia, ver. 10. 3. Inciting them yet to abound more and more, v. 10.

4. To care of quiet and peaceable living together in Chriſtian ſociety, where note I. The duty ſtudy to be quiet. II. The means helpful thereto, 1. Doing their own buſineſs. 2. Induſtry in their private callings; urged, Partly from Pauls former command. Partly from the benefits thence enſuing, whereat they ſhould aim, ver. 11, 12.

5. To moderation of ſorrow and lamentation for the dead in Chriſt, where conſider I. The duty it ſelf required, viz. Moderation in mourning, &c. II. The Arguments upon which its urged; 1. Becauſe immoderate mourning for them, Partly diſcovers their ignorance of the deceaſed Saints happy condition. Partly makes Chriſtians appear like hopeleſs Heathens. 2. Becauſe their death is but a ſleep, ver. 13. 3. Becauſe the Reſurrection of the Saints at Chriſts coming is certain, in as much as Chriſt (their head) is riſen, ver. 14. 4. Becauſe the dead in Chriſt ſhall at his coming have this Prehemineence beyond the Saints then found living, that they ſhall riſe firſt at Chriſts Christs glorious coming, and afterwards they with those that remain alive, shall be caught up together to meet Christ in the ayre, and so be ever with him, ver. 15, 16, 17, 18. The coming of Christ be amplified by way of Erotesis, meeting with that curious question, When shall Christs coming to judgement be? Shewing (1) That though the particular time be not known; yet themselves know it shall be sudden, and this when the world is in deepest security. This is illustrated by two similitudes, viz. Of a Theefs coming in the night. Or travel coming upon a woman, Chap. V. ver. 1, 2, 3. (2) That they should not be discomfited by the suddenness of that dreadful day of Christs coming; Partly because they are not in the sad state of darkness liable to surprizal, v. 4. Partly because they have the Priviledge of being children of the light and of the day, ver. 5. whence they are exhorted not to sleep, but to watch; be sober, and put on the spiritual Armour, that they may still be prepared for Christ, ver. 6, 7, 8. Partly because God hath ordained them in Christ, not to wrath, but to salvation and life, whether they wake or sleep; to which end they should comfort and edifie one another, v. 9, 10, 11.

Chap. 5.

6. To give due respect to the publique Ministry set over them, where I. The Object of their duty, the Ministers are described, 1. As labouring among them. 2. As over them in the Lord. 3. As admonishing them, ver. 12. II. Their duties to their Ministers are specified, viz. 1. Knowing them, vers. 13. 2. Loving them; set forth, Partly by the measure of it. Partly by the ground of it, ver. 13. 3. Peace and concord with them, (as * some Greek Copies insinuate.) ver. 13.

* Pacem habete.]

Quanquam hic locus varie legitur etiam apud Graecos, mihi tamen magis arridet ea lectio, quam reddidit vetus interpres & sequutus est Erasmus: nempe, Pacem habete cum eis, vel colite. Voluit enim (meo judicio) Paulus Satanae artibus obviam ire, qui non cessat omnia molliri, ac vel turgia, vel dissidia, vel simulcares excitet inter Plebem & Pastorem, Inc. Joan. Calv. Com. in loc.

7. To warning of the unruly.
8. To comforting of the feeble-minded.
9. To supporting of the weak.
10. To Patience towards all.
} ver. 14.

11. To forbear revenging of injuries, rather overcoming them with good, ver. 15.

12. To constant rejoycing, ver. 16. For maintaining whereof they must; 1. Pray unceasingly, ver. 17. 2. Give thanks, in all things, this being Gods will, ver. 18, 3. Not quench the Spirit, ver. 19. 4. Rightly use prophecying, viz. (1) Not despise publike preaching, ver 20. (2) Prove all they hear. (3) Hold fast what is found to be good, ver. 21.

3. To abstain from all appearance of evil, ver. 22.

The CONCLUSION of the whole Epistle, conrains I. His supplications for them. 1. That the God of Peace would sanctifie them wholly. 2. That they wholly may be preserved blameless till Christs coming, ver. 23. in hope whereof he confirms them from Gods fidelity calling them, ver. 24. II. His requesting of their prayers for himself, ver. 25. III. His Salutation, ver. 26. IV. His charge to read this Epistle to all the Brethren, ver. 27. V. His Valediction, or Farewel-Prayer for them, ver. 28.

II. Thessalonians.

Sect. I. Name and Penman.

THE second Epistle of Paul the Apostle to the THESSALONIANS.] So denominated from a Paul the Penman thereof, (of whom see what hath been b formerly spoken,) and from the Church of the Thessalonians written to, c formerly also described.

When and Whence this Epistle was written, see in the Chronological Table before the Epistle to the Romanes. It is of like Argument with the former; and probably written not long after it. In d Calvins judgement, It is not probable it was written from Rome, for then he would have touched something of his bonds, as he doth in others. And about the beginning of the third chapter he intimates some instant peril upon himself from absurd men; whence it may be conjectured he wrote it in his journey when he went to Jerusalem. And that it was written long before at Athens, is the commonly received opinion among Latine Writers. The Postscript (if it may be credited,) saith, it was written from Athens.

Sect. II. Occasion.

Occasion seems to be; 1. Partly the intimation of Pauls e fervent love to them, and earnest f desire to come and see them, in his former Epistle: whereupon being detained from coming to them according to his desires, he labours by this Epistle to supply the want of his Presence, and to perfect what was lacking in their faith; lest the Thessalonians, should think themselves neglected, by Pauls hastening some whither else, and not coming to them, as g Chrysostome and h Calvin hath well noted. 2. Partly the information or reports which the Apostle had received, 1 Touching the Persecutions which the Church of the Thessalonians had undergone for the Gospel; 2 Touching false teachers, who (perhaps taking occasion by some passages of the i former Epistle, about Christs second coming to judgment,) insinuated to them, (pretending they had it from Paul himself, k by Spirit, by Word, or by Letter,) That the day of Christ was at hand; that his coming would be speedily and in that age; and 3 Touching the l exorbitant walking of some in idleneſse, neglecting their particular callings Church-discipline mean while sleeping among them;

them; the whole contexture of the Epistle ephinces these Occasions.

Sect. III. Scope.

The Scope and Intent therefore of the Apostle in this II. Ep. to the Thessalonians principally is 1 To testifie his sincere love to them and care of them & their spiritual welfare by writing, though he should not as yet attain to them, according to his longing Desires and Prayers. 2. To encourage and confirm them against all the Persecutions and Tribulations they endured for Christ and his Gospel. 3. To convince them of the vanity and falshood of that opinion spread among them, That the day of Christ was present at hand; forasmuch as before the day of Judgement, there must first be an Apostasy and Antichrist must be revealed, whose mistery of iniquity even began to work in the Apostles, days but his Revealing was hindred till he that letted should be taken out of the way. And so he takes occasion notably to describe Antichrist, by his Properties, Revealing, Reign and Ruine. 4. Finally to exhort them to divers Christian duties, and particularly to withdraw themselves from those disorderly and idle Persons, (if they should contumaciously disobey this Epistle,) separating them from Church-communion.

Sect. IV. Principal parts.

In this II. Epistle to the Thessalonians, are 1 The Preface, 2 The Substance, or Subject matter of the Epistle. 3 The Conclusion.

I. THE PREFACE contains I. The Inscription, denoting 1. The Parties writing. 2. The Parties written to, Chap. I. ver. 1. II. The Apostolick Salutation, ver. 2.

Chap. 1.

II. THE SUBSTANCE or SUBJECT MATTER of the Epistle, is 1. Consolatory, 2. Informatory, or Monitory. 3. Hortatory.

I. Consolatory. In this part he comforts the Thessalonians against their Persecutions and Tribulations which they endured for Christ and his Gospel. Herein.

1. He insinuates his dear affection to them, in that expression of true love, viz. his singular Gratulation or thankfulnesse for their spiritual welfare. In this Gratulation note I. The Act, viz. Constant Thanksgiving to God for them, ver. 3. II. The ground thereof, we are are bound, Which Obligation ariseth, 1. From their neer spiritual Relation, Brethren. 2. From Congruence of the duty, As it meet. III. The matter of his Thanksgiving, viz. Their eminent growth, 1. In faith. 2. In brotherly love, ver. 3. 3. In Patience and faith under all their persecutions and tribulations. Amplified by the effect thereof in the Apostle his glorying in them, in the Churches of God, ver. 4.

2. He comforts them over all their Persecutions and Sufferings, upon divers grounds. As I. From Gods just judgment to come hereby manifestly vindicated. II. From the end to which these sufferings are subordinate, viz. fitting the Thessalonians for Gods Kingdom. III. From the cause of their sufferings, For which, &c. ver. 5. IV. From the Justice of God, which shall be especially manifested for his People, against their Persecutors at the day of judgement; where note 1. The Acts of Gods Justice, (1) Punitive, to wicked Persecutors, ver. 6. 2. Remunerative on persecuted Saints, viz. Rest, ver. 7. 2. The time of this Justice, at Christs glorious coming to judment, with his mighty Angels, v. 7. 3. The terrible manner of his coming, in flaming fire, ver. 8. 4. The notable effects or events of his coming, Partly to them that know not God, nor obey Christs Gospel, most terrible damnation, v. 8, 9. Partly to Saints and Believers, Gods most comfortable Glorification and Admiration in them, ver. 10.

3. He prays for the Thessalonians, in order to their comfort herein. Here note 1. The Occasion of his Prayer, Wherefore, or as the Greek (εἰς ὃ) Unto which viz. for loving you for which glory at Christs coming. 2. The constancy of his Prayer. 3. The Blessings prayed for, viz. That God would (1.) Count them worthy of his calling. (2.) Fulfill all the good pleasure of his goodnesse. (3.) Accomplish the work of faith with power, v. 11. 4. The end of this Prayer, the mutual glorification of Christ in them, and them in Christ, verse 12.

II. Informatory or Monitory. In this part he warnes the Thessalonians against that erroneous opinion which false teachers suggested to them, touching the time of Christs second coming. Touching which 1. He cautions them. 2. He confutes the errour. 3. He comforts them. 4. He dirests them.

I. He cautions them against this errour, wherein consider. I. The Manner, how he cautions them, viz. with 1. Meeknesse, We beseech you. 2. Love, Brethren. 3. Earnestnesse, by Christs coming, and our gathering together to him, Chap. II. ver. 1. II. The Matter, against which he cautions them, viz. unsetledness of mind, and trouble of spirit about the Instant approach of the day of Christ, Amplified by the methods which false teachers used to unsettle them herein, 1. By Spirit, i. e. Revelations or Prophecies. 2 By Word of mouth. 3. By Letter, all pretended to be from the Apostle, ver. 2.

Chap. 2.

II. He confutes the errour, That the day of Christ was at hand*, by a prophetical Prediction of two noble Antecedents, which must be before Christs coming, neither of which was yet come to passe, and therefore Christs coming could not be instant and at hand in their dayes, ver. 3. &c. These Antecedents are

* Judgement day not at hand in the Apostles days

1. A general Apostasy, from true faith and Religion in the Church, v. 3.

2. The Revealing of Antichrist, ver. 3. This * Antichrist is notably described by his 1 Properties, 2 Revealing, 3. Ruine, 4. Reign. I. By his Properties, 1. That man of sin. 2. That son of Perdition. ver. 3. 3 Who opposeth all that is called God, ver. 4. 4. That exalteth himself above all that is called God. 5. Who as God sitteth in the Temple of God, viz. in the Church, ver. 4. These things are amplified, By the Apostles intimation of his informing them in these things formerly, ver. 5. II. By his Revealing and the time of it, where he declares 1. That Antichrist was not yet revealed, there being an Impediment hindring it, (viz. according to the general consent of Writers, the Roman Empire, and that as it was both Heathen and Christian,) consequently Christs coming could not be instant, v. 6. 2. That the mystery of iniquity even then was working, though obstructed, v. 7. 3. That the said Impediment shall be taken out of the way, ver. 7. 4. That when the Impediment should be removed, That wicked should be revealed, ver. 8. III. By his ruine and destruction, set forth 1. By the Authour of it, The Lord Christ. 2. By the manner whereby Christ shall consume him, viz. Partly by the spirit of his mouth, Partly by the brightenesse of his coming. ver. 8. IV. By his Reign and Dominion betwixt his Revealing and Ruine. Here are set forth 1. His Manner and means of Advancement to his Reign, More generally, after the working of Satan. More particularly, (1) With all power, (2) With signes and lying wonders, v. 9. (3) With all deceivablenesse of unrighteousnesse, ver. 10. 2. His Subjects or Vassals over whom he shall exercise dominion, Them that perish, v. 10. 3. The reasons of their coming under his dominion, Partly their own sin, in not receiving the love of the truth to salvation, v. 10. Partly Gods just judgement upon them, sending them strong delusion to believe a lye, to their damnation, v. 11, 12.

* Antichrist, described.

III. He comforts the Thessalonians against fear of Apostacy, and of Antichrists seducements: 1. Giving ing Thanks to God for their grounds of ſtedfaſtneſſe, Partly for their Election to ſalvation, through Sanctification and faith, ver. 13. Partly for their vocation by the Goſpel thereunto, ver. 14. 2. Exhorting them to ſtedfaſtneſſe in his Doctrine, delivered them by word or writing, ver. 15. 3. Praying earneſtly that Jeſus Chriſt and God the Father would comfort and ſtabliſh them in every good word and work, ver. 16, 17.

III. Hortatory. In this part he peremptorily preſcribes Reformation of certain corruptions of Manners and Practice among them, intermingling divers ſharp reproofs therefore. Here

1. He promiſeth, before his ſomewhat ſharp Reproof, an inſinuative Preface, wherein I. He craves their prayers for himſelf. 1. That the Word of the Chap. 3. Lord may have free courſe, and be glorified, Ch. III. ver. 1. 2. That he may be delivered from abſurd, wicked, faithleſſe men, ver. 2. II. He expreſſeth 1. His hope in the faithful Lord for them, that he will ſtabliſh them in good, Keep them from evil, v. 3. 2. His confidence in them, that they are and will be obedient to his Commands, ver. 4. III. He prayes for them that the Lord would direct their hearts, 1. Into the love of God, 2. Into the patient waiting for Chriſt, ver. 5.

2. He Preſcribes the Reformation of two evils, viz. I, The Remiſſeneſſe of Church Diſcipline towards diſorderly walkers. Here note, 1. The Manner of his preſcribing, moſt peremptorily and gravely. 2. The Matter or duty preſcribed, withdrawing from diſorderly walkers, ver. 6. 3. The enforcement of this duty, from their own knowledge thereof, Partly by Pauls example when among them for their imitation, ver. 7, 8, 9. Partly, by his command, That* Manual work. they who would not work ſhould not eat, ver. 10. II. The idleneſſe of ſome among them neglecting Manual labour, contrary to the Apoſtles rule. Where note, 1. His information of the fault. 2. The fault it ſelf, Diſorderly walking of ſome, Not working, being buſie bodies ver. 11. The remedy preſcribed, work, ver. 12. 4. His direction to the Church in caſe ſuch inconſiſtent walkers reform not, after they are warned by this Epiſtle Partly, that they themſelves be not weary of orderly walking, ver. 13. Partly, that they cenſure the Contumacious; which cenſure is (1) Preſcribed, They muſt Note ſuch; They muſt not company with ſuch, ver. 14. (2) Mitigated and qualified, ver. 15.

THE CONCLUSION of the whole Epiſtle, Containing I. His Supplication for them: 1. That they may have conſtant Peace by all means. 2. That the Lord would be with them all, ver. 16. II. His valedictory Salutation under his own hand unto them, ſet forth, 1. By the end and intent of it, To be a Token to the Churches that the Epiſtle was his own, and not counterfeit, ver. 17. 2. By the Matter of it, The Grace of our Lord Jeſus Chriſt be with you all, Amen ver. 18.

Thus farre of Pauls IX. General Epiſtles, written to whole Churches.

Next come to be conſidered Pauls IV. Particular Epiſtles, directed to certain particular Perſons, viz. two to TIMOTHY, and one to TITUS, all about affairs Eccleſiaſtical, and one to PHILEMON, about matters Oeconomical or Domeſtical Thoſe Epiſtles to Timothy and Titus, * Auguſtine ſaith, He ought to have before his eyes, who hath the office of a Teacher in the Church of God impoſed upon him.

* Aut Apoſtolum Paulum Timotheo & Tito non de buiſſe præcipere quid vel quem admodum preciperent aliis, Quas tres Apoſtolicas Epiſtolas ante oculus habere debet, cui eſt in Eccleſia Doctoris Perſona impoſita. Aug. de Doctr. in Chriſt. l. 4. c. 16. Tom. 3.

I. TIMOTHY.

Sect. I. Name and Penman.

a 1 Tim. 1. 1, 2.

THE firſt Epiſtle of the Apoſtle Paul to TIMOTHY. So denominated from a Timothy to whom Paul wrote.

TIMOTHY is a Greek name; ſignifies, An Honourer of God. Probably his godly Parents deſired he might be ſuch an one when they gave him his name: and he proved an excellent Inſtrument of Honour to God, both in Doctrine and Converſation, according to the happy Omen and Preſage of his name. He is b Acts 16. 1, 2. compared with Acts 14. 6.

ſuppoſed to be of b Lyſtra a city of Lycaonia in Aſia; c becauſe there Paul firſt found him, and there the brethren reported well of him, as familiarly knowing him. His d father was a Greek and a Proſelyte; His Mother a Jeweſſe who believed, her name e Eunice, daughter of Lois, his Grandmother: both ſincere believers; f from a child they trained him up in the knowledge of the holy Scriptures. Whence Paul is perſwaded that the g like unfained faith dwelt in him, as did in his Mother and Grandmother. His father being a Greek, he was not circumciſed in infancy after the cuſtome of the Jewes, but being come to maturity h Paul circumciſed him for the gaining of the Jewes, by his Miniſtry, And having i good commendation of him by the brethren of Lyſtra and Iconium, Paul made him his companion in travels throughout the Churches farre and near; whom he moſt diligently and faithfully ſerved and aſſiſted in the work of the Miniſtry, ſometimes being left with the Churches by the Apoſtle, further to inſtruct them by his preaching: ſometimes being ſent as a Meſſenger to the Churches, to comfort and ſtabliſh them. So that Chryſoſtome deſervedly ſaith of him k He was an admirable young man, ——— who at once became both a Diſciple, and a Maſter. Though he had many bodily l infirmities upon him, yet he abounded with many eminent graces, gifts, and ſpiritual endowments, as m ſincere faith, n ſaving wiſedome, o faithfulneſs, p temporance, &c. And in proceſs of time being ordained a Miniſter of the Goſpel; q with impoſition of the hands of the Preſbytery,

He so much rejoyced at himself, that he became most affectionately drawn to the Apostle, of whom therefore he often makes such honorable mention, especially to the Philippians. For I have no man like-minded, who will naturally care for your estate, for all seek their own, not the things which are Jesus Christs: but ye know the proof of him, that as a son with the father, he hath served with me in the Gospel. And elsewhere he dignifies him with divers excellent Titles, calling him f his brother, g his beloved son and faithfull in the Lord. h a workman unreprovable. i his fellow-helper. k his dearly beloved son. l the minister of God, and his fellow-labourer in the Gospel of Christ. m his work-fellow. Yea Paul joyns Timothy with himself in the n Inscriptions of divers Epistles to the Churches, that so he might both commend Timothies worth and authority to the Churches, as also propound him as an exemplary pattern to all faithfull Ministers. Paul made use of his Ministry in his travels, in preaching with him; and in messages from him to the Churches. He b leaves him and Silas at Thessalonica and Berea, himself being persecuted thence by the Jewes. Paul going thence to Athens, sends for c Timothy and Silas to come to him; Who came to him d at Corinth. Whence he again sends Timothy into Macedonia, to e Thessalonica, to comfort the believers against tribulations and persecutions. Thence returning to Paul, he comes to Corinth, whence he accompanies Paul into f Asia, where, as Paul (knowing him to be most able and trusty,) besought him so to be g abode still at Ephesus, There to instruct that Church, (touching which employment Paul gives him Precepts and Directions throughout this whole I. Epist. to Timothy,) Thus Paul committed the care of the church of Ephesus to Timothy. Which Church he, with other Overseers, h happily taught and governed. But how long, (though some determine,) is most k uncertain. And some apprehend when Paul wrote his second Epistle to Timothy, Timothy seems not to be at Ephesus, because Paul therein tells him, I Tychicus have I sent to Ephesus. His death is uncertainly reported; but some think that at last, more grievously inveighing against the idolatrous worship of Diana neer unto her Temple, he was slain of the Gentiles with arrows and stones, as is testified by m Ecclesiastical History. Some think that his Bones, together with the reliques of Andrew and Luke, were translated to Constantinople, by Constantine the Emperour, as n Hierome is of opinion: By Constantius, as o Nicephorus.

When this Epistle was written, see in the Table before the Epistle to the Romanes.

Sect. II. Occasion.

Paul p being to depart into Macedonia, besought Timothy to abide still at Ephesus, for the better ordering, instructing and establishing of that eminent Church, which the Apostle had there planted; and particularly, that he might charge some that they teach no other doctrine, nor give heed to fables and endlesse genealogies, which Minister questions rather than edifying in the faith. And Timothy being at Ephesus about this work, Paul upon this Occasion (not knowing how long he might tarry elsewhere,) writes this I. Epistle to him, purposely to encourage and q instruct him in his duty, about managing all Ecclesiastical affaires there. Chrysostome moving this question, r Why should Paul write onely to Timothy and Titus, and not also to Luke, Silas and Clemens his other Associates; Answers it thus, because to Timothy and Titus he had committed the Care and Government of the Church: but the others did still accompany him.

Sect. III. Scope.

Scope therefore of the Apostle in this Epistle is Timotheus, to furnish him by with all necessary directions & instructions in the Apostles absence touching his ministerial duty to the Church of Ephesus, that as if Paul (as he had long, he might know how he ought to behave himself in the house of God, which is the Church of the living God, the Pillar and Ground of truth. An I this. 1. Touching the maintaining the t truth of Faith and Gospel-doctrine, against false teachers of the Jewish corrupting the time. 2. Touching due manner of publick worship, u for whom and how they were to pray; and how to demean themselves in publick Assemblies. 3. Touching Church-Officers, x Bishops and Deacons, and their qualifications. 4. Touching the great corruption in y Faith and Manners, which in the last Times would befall the Church: of which the Church was to be forewarned. 5. Touching z his Doctrine and Life, how he should teach and behave himself towards a all sorts of Persons in the Church respectively. II. Mediately, to furnish all faithful Pastors and Ministers of the Gospel, with rules & directions how to manage their Ministerial Function faithfully, in Doctrine, Worship, and Government in the Church, and exemplary Conversation before the Church, and how they are to arme themselves and their flocks, against future corruptions in Faith and Life. So that this Epistle may not unfitly be stiled Saint Pauls Directory for the due managing of the Ministerial Office in the Church of God.

Sect. IV. Principal Parts.

In this I. Epistle to Timothy, are 1. The Preface. 2. The Matter, or Substance of the Epistle. 3. The Conclusion.

THE PREFACE contains (as in other Epistles) I. The Inscription. Wherein are signified, 1 The Person writing, Paul; described, Partly, by his Office; Partly, by the Divine Authority of his Office Ch. I. ver. 1. 2. The Person written to; Timothy, described by his spiritual Relation to Paul, ver. 2. II. The Apostolical Salutation, ver. 2. I. Chap. 1. II.

THE MATTER, or SUBSTANCE of the Epistle is chiefly Practical. Herein the Apostle instructs Timothy in the due discharge of his Ministerial Office. More Particularly,

I. He directs him in point of Faith, How to maintain against the teachers of the Law, the Truth of the Gospel (wonderfully committed to Paul) inviolable against all impediments and oppositions, with a good conscience. Here consider,

1. The charge formerly imposed on Timothy by the Apostle, whereof he is now remembred, in reference to the Church of Ephesus. This is set forth, I. By the Occasion, of it; viz. Pauls going to Macedonia, ver. 3. II. By the Matter of it, viz. Timothy's Restraining and charging false Teachers, that they preach not 1. Heterodox Doctrines, other than Pauls, viz. mingling works and faith in point of Justification, ver. 3. 2. Fabulous Speculations, ver. 4. 3. Endless Genealogies; condemned Partly, As Matter of Contention, Partly As Unedifying, ver. 4. III. By the ground of this charge, drawn from the right use b of the Law, so much abused by false Teachers. Here 1. The true end of the Law is propounded, viz Love; which Love is described by the root thereof, A pure heart, A good Conscience, An unfeigned Faith, ver. 5. 2. The Deviation of false Teachers from this true end of the Law is blamed, Partly, from the ill effect ensuing thereupon; vain jangling, ver. 6. Partly, from the bad cause thereof, the ignorance of these false-Teachers of the Law, ver. 7. 3. The usual Objection

b Right use of the Law

jection made by false teachers, when their abuse of the Law was taxed by the Apostle, (viz. That he wholly destroyed all use of the Law.) is here by way of Prolepsis prevented. Wherein (1) He grants that the Law, lawfully used, is good, ver. 8. (2) He asserts that the Law was not given (in respect of the damnatory and terrifying use of it) to the righteous, but to the unrighteous; and therefore the regenerate of all men have least cause to oppose the Law, ver. 9, 10. (3) He Declares that the Law rightly understood and used, is not contrary, but consonant to the Gospel, which was committed to him by Jesus Christ, ver. 11. &c. Here he takes occasion, Partly, to magnifie Christs incomparable grace to himself in calling him, being so unworthy, into the Ministry, ver. 12. to 16. Partly, to extoll Christs wonderful long-suffering towards all sinners, that hereafter should believe, in his exemplary dealing with Paul, ver. 16, 17.

2. The Re-inforcement of this former charge upon Timothy. Wherein note I. The duty impos'd, against all impediments or difficulties from false teachers, intimated in a Warfare, ver. 18. II. The grounds, whereby its urged, are drawn. 1. From his Relation to Paul, Son Timothy, 2. From the Prophecy touching Timothy. 3 From the goodness of this Warfare, ver. 18. III. The way how he should fulfill this charge 1. By holding the Faith. 2. By maintaining a good Conscience, without which, Faith will be shipwrackt, as in Hymenæus and Alexander, delivered therefore to Satan by the Apostle for their blasphemy, v. 19, 20.

II. He instructs him in point of Ecclesiastical worship. And particularly,

1. Touching c Publick Prayer. I. For whom Prayer is to be made, Generally, for all sorts of men, Chapter II. ver. 1. Particularly, for Kings and all in Authority, that we may lead a quiet and peaceable life in all godliness and honesty, ver. 2. This is urged from divers Reasons 1. Because, this course is good and acceptable with God, ver. 3. 2. Because God will have all men (i. e. all sorts of men) to be saved, which he proves; Partly, by Christs dying for all sorts; Partly, by his own Ministry even to Gentiles, the worst of men. Now if all sorts of men shall be saved, consequently all sorts are to be prayed for, ver. 4. to 8. II. Where Prayer is to be made, In every place; All Ceremonial distinction of place being now removed, verse 8. III. How Prayer is to be performed; 1. Holily. 2. Charitably. 3. Believingly, v. 8.

c Publick Prayer, how to be managed. Chap. 2.

2. Touching Womens deportment in Church-Assemblies, Whom he regulates both in their Habits and Actions there. I. In their Habits, that Women adorn themselves in modest apparel, with shamefastness and sobriety; 1. Forbearing the contrary excess in apparel. 2. Chiefly minding the spiritual adorning with good works, as most becoming their profession of godliness, ver. 9, 10. II. In their Actions. Here 1. They are commanded to bear: (1) with Silence, (2) with Subjection, v. 11. 2. They are forbidden to d teach, because that were to usurp authority over the man, ver. 12. which usurping over the man he condemns, Partly, from the Order of the womans creation, after the man, ver. 13. Partly, from the Order of the womans sinning before the man, and being Satans instrument to seduce the man; whence God imposed upon her subjection to her Husband, v. 14. in which subjection and sorrows in child-bearing he comfortably lenifies, assuring women, that notwithstanding this their condition, they may be saved by perseverance in Faith, Love, Sanctity and Sobriety, ver. 15.

d Women not to teach in the church

III. He instructs him touching Church-Officers, Bishops and Deacons, and their due Qualifications, viz.

Chap. 3. e Qualifications of Bishops or Overseers, And of Deacons.

I. Touching Bishops or Overseers, here are 1. The Commendation of the Office it self, as A good work, Ch. III. ver. 1.

2. The e Qualification of the Persons that are to be admitted into that Office of a Bishop or Overseer. (All which Qualifications agree as well to the meer Ruling Overseer or Ruling-Elder, as to the Over-seer that teacheth also; except that (Apt to teach,) which yet in some sort, in a lesser measure and degree ought to be in the Ruling-Elder, in reference to Admonition, and other publick Censures; compare with this place Tit. 1. 6, 7.) These Qualifications, are 1. More general, he must be blameless, ver. 2. II. More particular, that he be 1. The husband of one wife. 2. Vigilant. 3. Sober. 4. Of good behaviour. 5. Given to Hospitality. 6. Apt to teach, v. 2. 7. Not given to Wine. 8. No Striker. 9. Not greedy of filthy lucre. 10. Patient. 11. Not a brawler. 12. Not Covetous, v. 3. 13. One well ruling his own house, having his children in subjection with all gravity, ver. 4. This is urged as necessary, by an Argument from the lesse to the greater, v. 5. 14. Not a Novice (viz. newly converted to the Faith,) which is urged from the spiritual danger that may ensue, v. 6. 15. Well reported from them that are without, v. 7. this is urged from the inconvenience of the contrary.

II. Touching Deacons, 1. He declares their Qualifications, viz. that they be 1. Grave. 2. Not double tongued. 3. Not given to much wine. 4. Not greedy of filthy lucre, ver. 8. 5. Holding the Mystery of Faith in a pure conscience, ver. 9. 6. Blameless, upon tryal before they exercise their Office, verse. 10. 7. Husbands of one wife: And their (as also the Bishop's) wives, (1) Grave, (2) Not slanderers, or as the Greek, not Devils, (3) Sober, (4) Faithful in all things, v. 11, 12. 8. Ruling their children and their own house well, ver. 12. II. He exhorts Deacons to the well managing of their Office, from the double benefit thence ensuing, 1. An honourable esteem in the Church, they purchase to themselves a good degree. f Jo. Calv Com. in loc 2. Great boldness in the Faith in Christ, viz. from conscience of their faithful discharge of their Office, they serve Christ with greater confidence, &c. v. 13.

III. Touching both Bishops and Deacons, (and proportionably other Ecclesiastical matters in this Epistle) Paul shewes Timothy why he wrote these things to him, viz. That, in his absence; he might sufficiently instruct Timothy how to behave himself in the Church of God, ver. 14, 15. This Church of God he commends as most worthy of his utmost care, it being 1. Gods habitation, the House of God. II. Truths publisher and maintainer; The pillar and ground of Truth or Gospel-Doctrine is 1. Singularly commended, without controversie great is the mystery of Godliness. 2. Particularly described in some particular heads of it, viz. (1) God manifest in the flesh. (2) Justified in the Spirit. (3) Seen of Angels. (4) Preached to the Gentiles. (5) Believed on the world. (6) Received up to Glory, v. 16. IV. He Prophetically forewarns Timothy (that he may forewarn the Church) of the g Apostacy of some from the Faith in the latter times. This Apostacy is described, 1. By the certain Detection of it, viz. by the Spirit, Chap. IV. ver. 1. II. By the time of it; in the latter times. IV. By the means, or Causes procuring it, viz. Seducing spirits, and their Doctrines of Devils, which Seducers are branded, 1 For hypocritical lying. 2. For their seared Conscience, v. 1, 2. IV. By the errours that shall be introduced, 1. Forbidding Marriage. 2. Forbidding of Meats (both which notably agree to Romish Doctrine) ver. 3. This forbidding of Meats he condemns, Partly, as repugnant to Gods end in creating them, ver. 3. Partly, as derogating from the creature; which is good, if rightly used, viz. If it be received with thanksgiving; it being Sanctified by the Word and Prayer, ver. 4, 5. V. He practically exhorts and directs Timothy.

g Apostacy of latter times foretold. Chap. 4

1. How to behave himself, both in Doctrine and Conversation, in reference to his Ministerial function, viz. I. To remember the brethren of these things, which Paul had written to him. This is 1. Urged from the benefit ensuing, the approving himself thereby a good Minister of Christ, &c. ver. 6. 2. Amplified by the opposite old wives fables, which he is to shun, v. 7. II. To exercise himself unto Godliness in the spiritu-spiritualty of it. 2. Because outward corporal exercise comparatively profiteth little. 3. Because godliness in the spiritualty of it, is profitable for all things, as having the Promise of this and the life to come, ver. 6, 8. This he commends and enforces, Partly by his reverent offering and commending the saying, ver. 5. Partly by mention of his labour and suffering for the truth, undergone in confidence of Gods salvation according to this promise, ver. 10. Partly by charging him to command and teach these things, ver. 11. III. To compose his Youth, by his exemplary gravity in manners, which may procure respect and reverence from all, instancing in divers particulars, ver. 12. IV. To improve h his ministerial facultie and ability. 1 By diligent reading the Scriptures, ver. 13. 2. By frequent preaching, ver. 13. To which he presseth him from the consideration of his solemn call to the Ministry, ver. 14. 3. By Meditation, ver. 15. 4. By devoting and addicting himself wholly to these things ver. 15. 5. By especial heedfulnesse to himself and doctrine, ver. 16. 6. By Perseverance in these courses, ver. 16. All which are pressed upon him as conducible, (1) To his own: (2) To his hearers salvation, ver. 16.

h Ministerial abilities, how improved.

2. How to order and temper his Reproofs, to Elder or younger, men and women, with respect to their age, with all love and purity, Ch. V. v. 1, 2.

Chap. 5. i What Widows are to be relieved by the Church

2. How poor i widows are to be provided for by the Church, which is called Honouring them, v. 3. Here he directs, I. What widows are to be taken into the number, viz. Those 1. That are destitute of children and nephews, by whom upon divers grounds they should be maintained, ver. 4, 8. 2. That trust in God. 3. That are constant in devotion, ver. 5. Opposite to whom are they that live in pleasure, dead while they live, ver. 6, 7. 4. That are sixty years old, ver. 9. 5. That have been the wife of one husband, ver. 9. 6. That are well reported of for good works: sundry particulars being instanced in, ver. 10. II. What widows are to be refused, viz. 1. The younger widows, Partly because of their inconstancy and levity, unbecoming that state, ver. 11, 12. Partly because of their idleness, ver. 13. Partly because of their tatling and pragmaticalness, ver. 13. Whereupon these younger widows he directs to marry, and in that state to walk inoffensively; and this because some had already turned aside after Satan, v. 14, 15. 2. The widows of believers, who are appointed to Relieve their own widows, that the Church be not needlesly charged, v. 16.

4. How Presbyters or Elders are to be dealt with, in regard of their 1 Maintenance, 2 Accusation, 3. Reproof, 4 Ordination. I. That, in point of Maintenance, they are to be counted worthy of double honour by the Church. This is 1. Amplified by a clear distribution of the Elders, (thus to be honoured) into two sorts, (1) Those that rule well, (2) Those that labour in the Word and Doctrine, who especially are to be thus honoured, ver. 17. 2. Pressed with Reasons, Partly from the Analogy of that law of Moses, Against muzling the oxe that treads out the corn. Partly from that Rule of Christ, The labourer is Worthy of his reward, ver. 18. II. That no accusation be received against an Elder, but under two or three witnesses, ver. 19. III. That Elders offending be reproved before all. 1. That others may fear, ver. 20. 2. That so Ecclesiastical administrations may be done without partiality or respect of Persons, which he most solemnly charges to be observed, ver 21. IV. That no Elders or Church-officers be suddenly ordained with laying on of hands. This is, 1. Urged from the peril of partaking in other mens sins, in sudden laying on of hands, ver. 22. [Here in a short digression he adviseth Timothy for his healths-sake to drink a little wine, ver. 23.] 2. Qualified, by intimation of the difference of both mens sins and good works who desire Ordination, Some mens sins are open aforehand, such are presently to be rejected: Some follow after, and therefore require a longer time to search them. Again some mens good works are so manifest aforehand, that they may be presently admitted; others cannot long be hid, and will need less time to approve them, v. 24, 25.

5. To teach Christian Servants to honour and obey their Masters, whether infidels or believers. 1. Their infidelity notwithstanding, Let as many servants as are under the yoke count their own Masters worthy of all honour, that Gods name and doctrine be not blasphemed. Ch. VI. ver. 1. 2. Their believing Masters, so much the rather because they are such, v. 2. Chap. 6.

6. To withdraw fellowship from unsound Heterodox teachers, Heretical and schismatic, that Paul hath charged Timothy. And this he enforceth. I. Partly from the evil properties of these teachers. 1. Differing from the wholesome doctrine of Christ, v. 3. 2. Proud. 3. Ignorant. 4. Doting about questions and strifes of words, v. 4. II. Partly from many ill effects of their doctrine. 1. Envy. 2. Strife. 3. Railing. 4. Evil surmisings, v. 4. 5. Perverse disputes of corrupt minded men, who suppose Religion by worldly gain, and are therefore to be avoided, ver. 5. In opposition unto which he asserts, Godliness with Contentment to be great gain, ver. 6. which Contentment he urgeth (1) From the like naked state of our birth and death, ver. 7. (2) From supposed enjoyment of necessaries food and raiment, ver. 8. (3) From the manifold and damnable mischiefs ensuing upon a fixed resolvedness to be rich, and the love of money; particularly enumerated, v. 9, 10.

7. How to approve himself as a faithful Minister and man of God, in better courses, and contrary to these of false teachers. I. By flying all those evil ways and manners of false teachers, ver. 11. II. By following the contrary vertues and pious courses, 1. Righteousness, 2. Godliness, 3. Faith, 4. Love, 5. Patience, 6. Meekness, 7. Fighting the good fight of Faith, 8. Laying hold of eternal life. To which he is incited, Partly from his calling thereto. Partly from his former good Profession thereof, wherein he therefore should persevere, ver. 11, 12. III. By the faithful, fruitful, and unspotted discharge of his ministerial function in all the duties of it commanded and prescribed in this Epistle, wherunto he solemnly chargeth him.

In which Charge, note, 1. The manner of it, most gravely and solemnely, viz. (1) Before God, who quickens all things, and therefore can quicken those that suffer for the faith. (2) Before Christ Jesus, who before Pontius Pilate witnessed a good Confession, and therein gave us an example of confessing the truth even to the death, ver. 13. 2. The matter of it, to keep this Commandement without spot unrebukeable, ver. 14. 3. The Continuance of it, how long, until the appearing of our Lord Jesus Christ; this respects not only Timothy but all Ministers, till Christs second coming to judgement ver. 14. This appearing of Christ is Amplified, (1) By the time when it shall be, viz. in Christs time, v. 15. (2) By the glorious description of Christ that shall appear, ver. 15, 16. (3) By a Doxology to Christ, ver. 16.

8. Finally, what charge Timothy is to give to them that are rich in this world, viz. I. Forbidding them, 1. To be high-minded. 2. To trust in the uncertainty of riches, ver. 17. II. Commanding them, 1. To trust in the living God, because he richly gives all things, ver. 17. 2. To do good, to be rich in good works &c. ver. 18. because in so doing they lay up a good foundation of future happiness for themselves, ver. 19.

III. THE CONCLUSION of the whole Epistle, which contains I. His final exhortation to Timothy, 1. To keep faithfully the Gospel-doctrine committed to him in trust. 2. To avoid profane vain bablings and oppositions of science, &c. because they cause men to erre from the faith, v. 20, 21. II. His Apostolical Malediction, v. 21.

THe ſecond Epiſtle of Paul the Apoſtle to TIMOTHY. So denominated from a Timothy, to whom Paul wrote now this ſecond time. A deſcription of this Timothy ſee in the former Epiſtle. But (ſaith b Chryſoſtome,) what means it that he ſends to Timothy even a ſecond Epiſtle? He had ſaid, I hope to come to thee ſhortly. This came not to paſſe; he therefore comforts him by letters, inſtead of his Preſence, perhaps ſorrowing for this, and for that he had now began to take upon him the burden of Government, &c.

Sect. II. Time.

c In Chro. Table before Epiſtle to Romans. d Hiſt. Eccleſ. Magd. Cent. 1. l. 2. c. 10. Paulus. e Jo. Calv. Arg. in II. Ep. ad Tim. f Hic autem præcipuus eſt cardo in quo verſatur, ut Timotheum tam in fide Evangelii, quam in conſtanti ſinceràque ejus prædicatione confirmet, Sed non parum his exhortationibus momenti addit temporis circumſtantia. Mortem habebat Paulus ante oculos, quam ſubire paratus erat pro Evangelii teſtimonio. Quæcunque igitur hic legimus de Chriſti regno, de ſpe vitæ æternæ, de Chriſtianâ militiâ, de fiduciâ Confeſſionis, de certitudine doctrinæ, non tanquam ATRAMENTO SCRIPTA Sed IPSIUS PAULI SANGUINE, accipere convenit. Nihil enim aſſerit pro quo mortis ſuæ pignus non opponat. Proinde hæc Epiſtola quaſi ſolennis quædam eſt ſubſcriptio Paulinæ Doctrinæ. Jo. Calv. Arg. in II. Epiſt. ad Tim.

Though there be ſome difference about the particular circumſtance of time when this Epiſtle was written, ſome taking it to be written a little before Pauls death, as was c formerly intimated: Others d ſuppoſing it to be written a little before Pauls firſt liberty, and before his bringing to Rome from Jeruſalem, becauſe this Epiſtle ſeems to mention divers things done about that time. Yet herein all agree that it was the laſt of all theſe Epiſtles which Paul wrote. e Calvin. doubts not, but betwixt the time Paul wrote his I. Epiſtle to Timothy, and this ſecond, Paul ſpoke with Timothy, and uſed him as his aſſociate and fellow-helper in many places; and he collects that Timothy was yet at Epheſus, when this Epiſtle was written, becauſe herein Paul ſalutes Priſcilla and Aquila, and Oneſiphorus, the laſt of whom was an Epheſian, and the other ſtayed there when Paul ſailed into Judea, as Luke teſtifies. f And this (ſaith he) is the chief hinge upon which he turns, to confirm Timothy both in the faith of the Goſpel and ſincere preaching thereof. But the circumſtance of time is of no ſmall moment to theſe exhortations. Paul had death before his eyes, which he was ready to undergo for the Teſtimony of the Goſpel. Whatſoever things therefore we read here touching Chriſts Kingdome, The hope of eternall life, The Chriſtian Warfare, Faithfull Confeſſion, and certainty of Doctrine, we ſhould take them as written, not with ink, but with the blood of Paul himſelf; for he aſſerts nothing, but what he is ready to ſeale with his death. Therefore this Epiſtle is as A certain ſolemne ſubſcription of Pauls Doctrine. So that this Epiſtle written at ſuch a time, and being Pauls concluding Epiſtle, and laſt farewel-letter before his death, and as it were the ſealing up of all his other, Epiſtles, and of all the doctrines, exhortations conſolations, &c. contained in them; ſhould make great impreſſion upon all Readers, as being the words of a dying Apoſtle.

Sect. III. Occaſion.

The Apoſtle having left Timothy at g Epheſus to take care of the Church there; when he departed from the Elders of Epheſus, after he had called them to Miletus, and given them charge of the flock, b they all wept ſore. Probably, k Timothy was one of thoſe that poured out tears; and perhaps the Apoſtle that he might comfort Timothy, lamenting him, l intimated ſome hopes of his return unto him to Epheſus. But Paul mean while being caried away captive to Rome, and by his bonds hindred from coming thither again to Timothy, (though perhaps he might ſee him elſewhere, and employ him alſo,) thought it neceſſary by this Epiſtle to ſtabliſh and comfort him, both againſt the m Apoſtles ſufferings and martyrdome approaching, as alſo againſt all the preſſures and proſecutions of the Church, and that he ſhould be moved by none of them, to deſert and neglect the faithful keeping of that excellent Treaſure of Truth and Goſpel-doctrine, commited of truſt to him, and that they might more effectually be comforted in one another, he deſires him to n do his diligence to come ſhortly to him, that ſo they might take their laſt farewell one of another. For this was o Pauls laſt Epiſtle, (as his Swan-like Song,) a little before his death.

Sect. IV. Scope.

The Apoſtles Scope in this Epiſtle, is I. More Immediate, in reference to Timothy, p moſt effectionately dear to Paul; Partly to exhort and encourage him to conſtant faithfulneſſe in his miniſterial office; and to that end, 1 To q ſtirre up the gift given him. 2 Not to be aſhamed of the r Lords teſtimony, nor of Pauls ſufferings. 3 To ſ hold faſt the Patterne of ſound words. 4 To t keep inviolable that Depoſitum of Goſpel-truth and Miniſtry committed to him. 5 To u propagate this Goſpel-truth to other faithfull men. 6 To x endure hardneſſe and perſecutions for the Goſpel. 7 To y ſuppreſſe Logomachies. 8 To z approve himſelf to God in his miniſterial dexterity. 9 To ſhun a prophane and vain bablings of proud Hereticks. 10. To decline b ſtriſes and contentions in the execution of his miniſtry. Partly To c forewarne Timothy of the perilouſneſs of the laſt days, by reaſon of wicked hypocriticall ſeducers, and enemies of the truth, even beginning to ariſe in the Church: whom he warns him to flie, preſcribing him divers remedies againſt them. II. More mediate in reference to all true Timothies, the faithful Miniſters of the Goſpel in after times, To incite and provoke them unto all faithfulneſſe and diligence in their miniſterial calling, notwithſtanding all difficulties or ſufferings. And to caution and arme them againſt evil men and ſeducers, endangering the Church of God.

Sect. V. Principal parts.

In this II Epistle we have chiefly these 3 The Preface. 2. The substance of the Epistle. 3. The conclusion.

I. THE PREFACE to the Epistle, contains I. The Inscription, describing 1. The Author writing, described, [1] By his name, Paul. [2.] By his office, Chap. I. An Apostle of Jesus Christ, which Office is Amplified, partly from the Divine cause thereof, of the will of God. Partly, By the matter of his Apostolical Doctrine in that Office, viz. The promise of life in Christ Jesus, Chap. I. ver. 1. 2. The Person written to, set forth [1] By his name, Timothy. [2] By his spiritual relation to Paul, his dearly beloved son, ver. 2. II. The Salutation, wherein are, 1. The blessings wished and prayed for; Grace, Mercy, Peace. 2. The fountain from whom they are desired, viz. Gods Father, and Christ Jesus our Lord, ver. 2. III. The introduction, or Entrance into the Epistle. Wherein Paul (to win more benevolent obedience to what he wrote) affectionately testifies his dear spiritual love to Timothy, 1. By the Signes of this love in Paul, viz. [1] His constant remembrance of Timothy in his prayers, v. 3. [2] His great desire to see him, v. 4. 2. By the grounds or causes of Pauls love to Timothy, viz. [1] Timothies tender affection to Paul, testified with tears, v. 4. [2] Timothies unfeigned faith, like that of his parents, v. 4, 5.

II. THE SUBSTANCE of the Epistle is chiefly, 1. Hortatory and Consolatory. 2. Monitory.

1. Hortatory and Consolatory (divers Consolations being interwoven among the Exhortations.)

He exhorts and encourages Timothy chiefly to Constant faithfulness in the discharge and execution of his Ministerial Calling. And to this end

1. To stir up (like fire under the ashes) and expresse that Ministerial Gift which he received by the positive of Pauls hands, as one of the d Presbytery, v. 6. This is urged from the nature of the Spirit which God gives his Ministers, described 1. Negatively. It is not a Spirit of fear, that we should sluggishly and cowardly let our gifts lye idle. 2. Affirmatively, It is a Spirit of Power, of love and of a sound minde; that against all heights and difficulties we should be thereby enabled and guided sweetly to act to the Churches edification, v. 7.

d 1 Tim. 4. 14.

2. Not to be ashamed of the Testimony of our Lord, the Gospel; nor of Pauls sufferings for it: but rather to be willing himself to take part of the Gospels afflictions, v. 8. Hereto he encourageth him, I. From Gods Power, engaged for his Ministers in such sufferings, v. 8. II. From the greatness of the benefit viz. Eternal Salvation, preached in the Gospel to the Gentiles, richly worth all manner of suffering for. This Salvation is described, 1. By the actual application of it to us in Effectual Calling, v. 9. 2. By the Impulsive cause of it, set forth Negatively, not our works, Affirmatively, but Gods eternal purpose and Grace in Christ, v. 9. 3. By the meritorious cause of it, Christ abolishing death, &c. v. 10. 4. By the instrumental cause, manifesting, and bringing to light this Salvation in Christ, viz. the Gospel, ver. 10. III. From his own example; who, being the Apostle and preacher of this Gospel to the Gentiles, and suffering for that cause, yet is not ashamed of these sufferings. And this from his own assurance, 1. Of Gods faithfulness in his promises, whom he hath believed. 2. Of Gods Power in keeping his Salvation for him, with which he hath betrusted him, ver. 11, 12.

3. To hold fast the Platform of sound words; which he heard of Paul. Consisting chiefly of two branches, which comprehend the two chief Parts of Divinity, viz. 1. Faith, under which are all things to be believed. 2. Love, under which are all things to be observed, ver. 13.

4. To keep constantly inviolable that excellent e Treasure of Gospel Truth, Ministry and Ministerial endowments committed of trust to him, v. 14. This he Amplifies I. By directing him how to keep it, viz. By the holy Ghost inhabiting in him, ver. 14. II. By warning him of the contrary known perfidiousness of All in Asia. 2. Specially, Of Phygellus and Hermogenes, v. 15. From which Defection he wishes the Lord mercifully to preserve the house of Onesiphorus; As one who [1] Often refreshed Paul. [2] Was not ashamed of his chain, but diligently sought him out in Rome. [3] Ministred unto him in many things, v. 16, 17, 18.

e Jo. Calv. in loc. Piſc. in loc.

5. Strenuously and courageously to communicate Gospel-truth received from Paul, to other faithful Ministers who may teach and propagate it to others, Chap. II. ver. 1, 2.

Chap. 2.

6. To endure hardness and persecutions for the Gospel and the Ministry thereof, v. 3. This he urgeth upon divers grounds. I. From the Nature and Obligation of his Calling; He hath as a good Soldier listed himself under Christ, and therefore neglecting private affairs, he must endeavour to please his Commander in chief, v. 3, 4. II. From the happy fruits and reward which he shall reap hereupon at last, set forth under a double Metaphor, 1. Of a man striving for masteries lawfully, who is therefore crowned, v. 5. 2. Of an Husbandman labouring who first partakes of the fruits, v. 6. These he amplifies by wishing him understanding in all things upon due consideration thereof, v. 7. III. From Pauls exemplary sufferings for the truth of the Gospel. Here 1. Some special Gospel-truths for which he suffers, are influenced in viz. (1) Christs Manhood, of Davids seed. (2.) Christs Resurrection, v. 8. 2. His sufferings for this truth are described, Suffering trouble as an evil doer unto bonds. Against which he comforts himself, Partly from the Gospels free course notwithstanding his bonds, ver. 9. Partly from the end of his sufferings, viz. for promoting the salvation of the Elect thereby, ver. &c. Partly from our future conformity to Christ in his Crown, as well as in present in his Cross, v. 11, 12. which he amplifies by the contrary peril of denying Christ, Christ will deny them; yet in so doing is faithful and just, consistent with himself, and cannot deny himself, v. 13.

7. To Suppress Logomachies or strifes about words. As 1. Unprofitable. 2. Pernicious, v. 14.

8. To approve himself to God in his Ministry, as 1. A laborious Workman that need not be ashamed. 2. A Right Divider or Distributer of the Word of Truth ver. 15.

9. To shun prophane and vain babblings of proud Heretick and erroneous persons, 1. Because they will increase to more ungodliness ver. 16. II. Because they will by degrees mortally eat like a f Gangrene in the Church, ver. 17. This mischief, he 1. Evidenceth by a notorious instance of the Heresie of Hymeneus and Philetus, affirming that the Resurrection was past already, v. 17, 18. 2. Qualifieth; by obviating the offence that might arise by reason of such Apostacy, viz. Partly comforting Gods Elect that they shall escape such Apostacy, being immoveably his, ver. 19. Partly cautioning Professors of Christ, sincerely to depart from iniquity, lest they fall, ver. 19. Partly declaring that its not unsuitable to the state of the visible Church, Gods great house, to have in it several sorts of vessels, some to honour, some to dishonour, viz. both Elect Saints, and reprobate Apostates, Hereticks, &c. ver. 20. Partly directing how a man may approve himself a vessel of honour, viz. by purging himself from these, i. e. these heretical and Apostatical Teachers or their evil ways, ver. 21.

f That the word is here to be translated Gangrene not Canker (which are two divers diseases,) Calvin learnedly shews, from the judgement of divers learned Physicians, Jo. Calv. Com. in loc.

10. To avoid distempered strifes and contentions in the course of his ministry. And to that end. I. To flee youthful lusts, i. e. impetuous and arrogant heats, to which youth is subject, as the tinder that kindles these contentions, ver. 22. II. To follow the contrary vertues opposite to contentiousnesse, which which are instanced in, ver. 22. III. To shun foolish and unlearned questions, as gendring strifes, ver. 23. Here 1. This striving is prohibited to him that serves the Lord in the Ministry. 2. The contrary Gentleness, Patience and Meekness in instructing Opposers is prescribed to him, ver. 24. 25. And urged from the hopes of winning opposers to repentance; which Repentance is described, Partly by the Author of it, God. Partly by the consequent effects of it, viz. Acknowledging of the truth; and recovery out of the devils snare, under whom they were utterly captivated, v. 25, 26.

II. Monitory, wherein the Apostle Prophetically forewarns Timothy of the dangerous Seducers and Enemies of the Truth, that were even then arising, and should much more in future times arise in the Church; charging him to turn away from such. Here we have 1. A discovery of these Seducers. 2. A Remedy against them and their Seducements.

1. These Seducers are described and discovered to us. I. By the time when they should spring up; In the last days, viz. in all these Gospel-days since Christ, for even in Timothies days there were such Seducers, from whom he must turn away. Ch. III. ver. 1. II. By the evil influences they should have upon their days wherein they appeared, rendring them perilous times, ver. 1. III. By the notorious and prodigious abominations wherewith they should abound; eighteen of them being enumerated, ver. 2, 3, 4. IV. By their specious hypocrisie, (under which they cloak all the former villanies) Here these hypocrites are delineated, 1. By what they have; viz. besides their foresaid corruptions; A forme of godlinesse. 2. By what they want, viz. The power of Godlinesse, ver. 5. V. By their Art in seducing. 1. Slily creeping into houses ver. 6. 2. Craftily inveighing and captivating silly women; described, Partly by their corrupt consciences, laden with sins, &c. Partly by their ignorant minds; as fitting them for such seducements, ver. 6, 7. VI. By their Opposition of the Truth; which is 1. Illustrated by the similitude of Jannes and Jambres withstanding of Moses in Egypt. 2. Evidenced by the Causes of their Opposing the Truth; they being (1) Men of corrupt mindes (2) Reprobate (or void of judgment) concerning the Faith, ver. 8. 3. Threatned, Partly with a stop to their seducing proceedings; Partly with a manifestation of their folly to all, as it fell out to Jannes and Jambres, v. 9.

Chap. 3.

2. The remedy against these Seducers and their Seducements is prescribed to Timothy, viz. I. A careful imitating of Pauls Exemplary Doctrine and Conversation Here are set forth, 1. Timothies full knowledge of them. 2. The Doctrine and vertues wherein Timothy should follow him, especially in suffering Persecutions for the Gospel. 3. The Lords delivering him out of them all; for his encouragement, ver. 10, 11. 4. The inevitable lot of Persecution to all the godly; therefore godly Ministers should not think much at it in themselves, ver. 12. II. A due consideration of the vile Condition of Seducers, which shall waxe worse and worse, 1 Deceiving. 2 Being deceived; may arme against them, ver. 13. III. A Constant continuance in the Gospel truths, which he had learned and been assured of, ver. 14. This is pressed upon him, 1. From the Authority of Paul of whom he learned them, ver. 14. 2 From his long acquaintance with the Scriptures, from a child, which are able to make him savingly wise, through Faith, ver. 15. 3. From the g SCRIPTURE'S (1) Divine Authority, ver. 16. (2) Manifold utility. For Doctrine, of Truth; For reducing, Reproof of Error; For Correction of corrupt manners. For Instruction in righteousnesse, ver. 16. (3) Compleat Perfection, able perfectly to furnish the man of God to all good works, vers 17.

g Scriptures Authority, Utility, and Perfection.

IV. A Diligent and faithfull preaching of the word, whereby others may be preserved from seducements. Here 1. He most solemnly chargeth him before God and Jesus Christ, Judge of quick and dead, to performe this duty, Ch. IV. ver. 1. 2. He prescribeth and describeth this diligent and faithfull preaching of the Word, in several parts of it, ver. 2, 3. 3. He presseth this diligent preaching upon him; (1) From the future Apostacy of men from sound Doctrine and the truth to fables: After their own lusts gaining to heap to themselves teachers, having itching ears. Therefore he must make advantage of the present opportunity, ver. 3, 4. (2) From the infirme approach of Pauls death, (by whom Timothy was guided and encouraged in his Ministry hitherto.) ver. 5, 6. Against his death he comforts both himself and Timothy; Partly by the assurance of his Death, His Offering of himself up for sealing of the truth, and the Departure, ver. 6. Partly from his sincere and full discharge of his Apostolical function, metaphorically described, ver. 7. Partly from the glorious Crown of Righteousnesse, reserved for him by Christ the righteous Judge, and for all that love his appearing, v. 8.

Chap. 4.

III. THE CONCLUSION of this Epistle; wherein

1 He earnestly desires Timothy, 1. To come shortly to him before his death, and to bring Mark with him. And this 1. Because Demas had forsaken him through worldlinesse. 2. Because he had sent upon publick service, Crescens to Galatia, Titus to Dalmatia, and Tychicus to Ephesus. 3. Because only Luke was with him, ver. 9. to 13. II. To bring with him at his coming the Cloak, and Books, but especially the Parchments which he left at Troas, v. 13.

2. He warns him against Alexander the Coppersmith, who did him much evil, greatly withstanding his preachings, upon whom he imprecates a reward according to his works, v. 14, 15.

3. He gives him a brief Narrative of his first Answer viz. before Nero, I. How no man stood with him, but all deserted him; praying that this may not be laid to their charge, ver. 16. II. How yet the Lord stood with him, 1. Strengthening him, to make the preaching fully known to the Gentiles. 2. Delivering him out of the Lyons mouth, viz. Nero's devouring wrath, ver. 17. Upon which experience he takes occation, Partly to assure himself of the Lords Protection from all evil, and of his Preservation of him to his heavenly Kingdome, Partly to glorifie the Lord, v. 18.

4. He desires Timothy to salute divers Persons, v. 19.

5. He signifies to him, Erastus his abode at Corinth, and Trophimus his being left sick at Miletum, v. 20.

6. He importunes him to come before winter, v. 21.

7. He sends him salutations from all the brethren, v. 21.

8. Finally, he closeth up his Epistle with a valedictory prayer, 1. For Timothy. 2. For the brethren with him, v. 22.

Titus

TITUS.

Sect. I. Name and Penman.

The Epistle of Paul to TITUS.] So intituled from the name of the a Person to whom Paul wrote. Titus is evidently a Greek name, either derived b from (τίτος) Titos, A little Bird, or Dove; (as Jonah in Hebrew hath his name from a Dove) or rather from (τιω) Tio. i. e. To honour, esteem, &c. thence τίτος Titus, Honoured, whence Titus is named; a fit name for him, that was truly Honoured both by God and man.

Titus was by Nation c a Grecian, a Gentile, and uncircumcised probably till his death; yet effectually converted by Paul to the faith, hence called his d naturall son after the common faith. Yea he calls him his e Partner and fellow helper concerning the Gentiles, and his f brother, having enjoyed him as a g companion in his travels, a Comfort in his sorrows, and having used him as a Legate or Messenger unto diverse Churches, and herewithall him with the h Collections for the poore Saints in Judea. Paul having planted a Church in the Isle of Crete, (now called Candy, situate upon the Aegean Sea, opposite to Morea or Peloponnesus southwards, at this day subject to the Venetians,) he left Titus there behind him to finish the work, in appointing him to set in order things that were wanting, and to ordain Elders in every city. And in that Island of Crete, there were (as the i Commentators and others note,) an hundred cities. So that there was ample matter and opportunity for enlarging the Church of Christ. And there it is thought k Titus died and was buried.

Sect. II. Occasion and Scope.

Paul having left Titus in Crete, to order things wanting, &c. in the Church now planted there, and p preceiving that in his absence, many ambitiously aspired to the Pastorall office; and false teachers, erroneous in judgement, and scandalous in life, crept in, seeking Partly to destroy the faith, by mingling Christ and Moses together, Partly to disturbe Church Government planted, and Partly to disjoyne the practice from the Profession of Piety.

Paul therefore solicitous for the Church, writes this Epistle to Titus from Nicopolis, 1. To strengthen and gain Authority to his Ministry there, against all contempt. 2. To direct him in this Epistle, (which is of the like Argument with the I. and II. Ep. to Timothy,) (1) How to q order and stablish things wanting in the Church; especially in due ordaining of well qualified Bishops or Presbyters, of whom see the sence of the Apostle Paul, as also of r Hierom. (2) How to suppresse false teachers and seducers, s that obtruded upon them circumcision, Jewish fables, and Commandements of men, to the subverting of many. (3) How to demean himself both in t soundnesse of Doctrine, and exemplarinesse of Conversation towards all sorts of Persons in the Church.

p Pauli, Ego sum Paulus, Hic Apollo, Hic autem Cephas, communi Presbyterorum cœtûs Ecclesiæ gubernaculum. Postquam vero unusquisque eos quos baptizaverat, sibi putabant esse, non Christi, in toto orbe decretum est ut unus de Presbyteris Electus superponeretur cæteris, ad quem omnis Ecclesiæ cura pertineret, & schismatum semina tolleremus. *Jerom. Sect. III. Principal Parts, or Analytical Explanation.

In this Epistle to Titus (of like nature with the two Epistles to Timothy, especially the former) are considerable, 1. The Preface. 2. The Matter, or Substance of the Epistle. 3. The Conclusion.

THE PREFACE contains 1. The Inscription. 2. The Salutation.

1. The Inscription Expresseth I. The Person writing this Epistle; Paul. Described by his Office in the Church; 1. More Generally, a A servant of God. a. More Specially and Particularly, And an Apostle of Jesus Christ. This his Apostleship he commends by the Harmonious concord betwixt it, and the Common Faith of all the Elect in all ages, as preaching no other Doctrine than what the Elect had professed, According to the Faith of Gods Elect. This Faith he Exegetically explains, (1) By the Nature of it, An acknowledging of the Truth which is after Godliness, Chap. I. ver. 1. (2) By the end of it, In hope of Eternal life. This Hope of eternal life he describes, Partly by the ground of it, Gods faithful and ancient Promise, which God that cannot lye, promised before the world began. (Greek, before Times of ages,) v. 2. Partly by the Instrumental Means discovering it to men in due time, viz. The preaching of his Word; But hath in due times manifested his Word through preaching. This preaching of Gods Word he Amplifies by the Divine Commission and Command thereunto given Paul himself particularly; which is committed unto me, according to the commandment of God our Saviour, v. 3. II. The Person written to, Titus; described by his Spiritual Relation to Paul who converted him to the faith; To Titus mine own Son according to the common faith, v. 4.

2. The Salutation, wherein are 1. The blessings prayed for in Titus behalf. 2. The fountain whence they flow, v. 4.

THE SUBJECT MATTER, or SUBSTANCE of the Epistle, Here

I. Paul Declareth for what ends he left Titus in Crete, viz. 1. To set in order the things that were wanting, in these new planted Churches. 2. To ordain Presbyters (or Elders) in every City; both to be done, As Paul had appointed, v. 5.

I.

s Tenendum etiam memoriâ est, quod alibi dixi Servi nomen hic aliud sonare quàm communem subjectionem, qualiter servi Dei vocantur omnes fideles: sed accipi pro ministro, cui certum aliquod munus injunctum est, &c. Jo. Calv. Com. in Tit. 1. 1. Chap. 1.

II. Paul

II. Paul directeth Titus in reference to these ends. 1. Touching Ordination. 2. Touching the faithful Execution of his Ministerial Office.

y The Qualifications requisite in Presbyters, or Bishops.

I. Touching Ordination, what y Qualifications are requisite in the Persons that are to be ordained Bishops, or Presbyters (whom he here makes one and the same.) and this 1. In life. 2. In Doctrine.

1. In life, The Qualifications of a Bishop or Elder, are laid down, I. More Generally, If any be blameless. II. More Particularly; His Particular Qualifications are either Relative or Absolute. 1. Relative, in respect of his Family-Relations (1) To Wife, Conjugal Chastity; The Husband of one Wife. (2) To children, Religious and inoffensive education of them, having faithful children, and these, Neither intemperate, not accused of Riot. Nor disobedient, Or unruly, ver. 6. These Qualifications are urged from the Nature of his Office, Partly in that he is a Bishop or Overseer to others. Partly in that he is the Steward of God, ver. 7. 2. Absolute, his Absolute Qualifications are Propounded Negatively and Positively; Negatively, shewing what a one he must not be, viz. (1) Not self-willed. (2) Not soon angry. (3) Not given to wine. (4) No striker. (5) Not given to filthy lucre, ver. 7. Positively, shewing what a one he must be, viz. [1] A lover of Hospitality. [2] A lover of good men; or good things. [3] Sober. [4] Just. [5] Holy. [6] Temperate, v. 8.

2. In his Doctrine; His Qualification is Described by the Matter, End and Ground thereof. I. By the Matter, that he Hold fast the faithful Word, in Doctrine. II. By the End, that he may be able by sound Doctrine, 1. To exhort, viz. the flock. 2. To convince Gain-sayers, ver. 9. III. By the Grounds or Reasons why he must be thus Qualified to these ends viz. both in respect of the false-teachers in Crete: and in respect of the people of Crete. 1. The false-teachers in Crete, (to be convinced, whose mouthes must be stopped,) He describes. (1) By their multitude, Many. (2) By their Adjuncts or Manners, viz. Unruly, Vain talkers, Deceivers, especially they of the Circumcision, ver. 10. (3) By their practice, teaching things which they ought not for filthy lucre sake. (4) By the pernicious effect of this their Practice, Subverting whole houses, ver. 11. 2. The people in Crete, to be reproved and exhorted, are Described By their corruptions testified by one of their own Prophets, viz. Epimenides the Cretian Poet, ver. 12. Which testimony the Apostle, Partly Ratifies, This witness is true. Partly Improves, hence inferring a Duty of reproving them, Wherefore rebuke them sharply, &c. cuttingly. This Rebuke is Amplified by the end thereof, That they may be sound in the faith, ver. 13. Which soundness in faith should discover it self (1) By their rejecting of errour; Not giving heed to Jewish Fables and Commandments of men, &c. ver. 14. (2) By their right apprehension and notion of Christian liberty, viz. That to the pure all things are pure. This is Amplified, and Confirmed; Amplified by the Opposite state of impure ones, But unto them that are defiled, and unbelieving is nothing pure; but even their mind and conscience is defiled, ver. 14. Confirmed by the Reasons hereof, Their Hypocrisie, Their wickedness. They profess they know God, but in deeds they deny him, &c. v. 16.

II. Touching the faithful discharge of his Ministerial Office; Paul Directs Titus.

Chap. 2.

1. More Generally, what to preach, But speak thou the things which become sound Doctrine. Chap. II. ver. 1.

2. More Particularly, how to accommodate his Doctrine. 1. More Peculiarly to some Sorts of persons. 2. More Commonly to all sorts of Christians.

1. How to fit and accommodate sound Doctrine more peculiarly to some sorts and ranks of persons. Here consider, 1 The Directions themselves. 2 The Grounds thereof. I. The Directions themselves shew how Titus was to teach. 1. Aged men, to be (1) Sober. (2) Grave. (3) Temperate. (4) Sound in in Faith, in Charity, in patience, ver. 2. 2. Aged women to be (1) In Behaviour as becometh holiness. (2) Not false accusers, Gr. nor Devils. (3) Not given to much wine. (4) Teachers of good things; that they may teach young women their duties, Gr. That they wive the young women, &c. ver. 3, 4. 3. Young Women to be [1] Lovers of their husbands. [2] Lovers of their children. [3] Discreet. [4] Chaste. [5] Keepers at home. [6] Good. [7] Obedient to their own husbands. And all this, That the Word of God be not blasphemed, v. 4, 5. 4. Young men to be sober minded, ver. 6. Upon occasion of this Direction to young men, he gives Titus himself, (perhaps he was young, like Timothy) his Lessons, exhorting him [1] In his life, to be Exemplary to the flock; In all things shewing thy self a Pattern of good works. [2] In his Doctrine to shew, Incorruptness, Gravity, Sound speech that cannot be condemned. All being urged from the End, viz. The Shaming, and Silencing of Opposers hereby, ver. 7, 8. 5. Servants, (1) To be obedient to their own Masters. (2) To please them well in all things. (3) Not answering again. (4) Not purloyning, but shewing all good fidelity. These are urged from the commodity thence redounding, That they may adorn the Doctrine of God our Saviour in all things, ver. 9. 10. II. The grounds upon which all these more Peculiar Directions foregoing, (or also these more common directions following) are urged, are; Partly the Doctrine of the Gospel. Partly the End of Christs death. 1. The Doctrine of the Gospel; Here, The Gospel is Described, and The Doctrine of the Gospel is Declared. The Gospel is Described, (1) By the Denomination of it, The Grace of God. (2) By the blessed tidings it brings, or chief Subject matter of it, bringing Salvation to all men, i. e. to all sorts of men. (3) By the Manifestation of it, hath appeared, ver. 11. The Doctrine of this Gospel is Summarily Declared, Teaching us; Partly for this present world, (1) What to shun or deny, viz. Ungodliness, i. e. All sins against the first Table. Worldly lusts, i. e. all sins against the second Table, (2) What to do, or how to live, viz. Soberly, in respect of our selves. Righteously, in respect of our brethren. Piously, in respect of God, ver. 12. Partly for the world to come, to expect (1) Eternal Salvation, and bliss hoped for, looking for that blessed hope (2) The glorious coming of Christ to Judgement, and the glorious appearing of the Great God, and our Saviour Jesus Christ, ver. 13. 2. The End of Christs Death, viz. (1) Redemption of us from all iniquity. (2) Sanctification or purifying of us to himself. Partly In our persons, to be a peculiar people. Partly in our actions to be zealous of good works, ver. 14. These more peculiar Directions he closeth up with a command to Titus, that he press these things with all authority, so as none may despise him, v. 15.

2. How to accommodate sound Doctrine, More commonly to all sorts of Christians, touching their behaviour and conversation. Here I. Their duties are propounded. 1. Towards Civil-powers and Magistrates, that they be subject to them, and obey them, Chap. III. ver. 1. 2. Towards one another; More generally, to be ready to every good work, v. 1. More particularly, (1) To speak evil of no man. (2) To be no brawlers. (3) To be gentle shewing all Meekness to all men, v. 2. II. These duties are urged by divers Arguments, 1. From their present Christian condition, far differing from their former carnal state. Both their states are described; Their former carnal condition in which they were, (1) Foolish, (2) Disobedient, (3) Deceived, (4) Serving divers lusts and plea- z Here betwixt Gravity and sound speech, our English Translation hath inserted, Sincerity, which I find not in the Greek Original. Beza confesseth that in some Ancient Greek Copies he findes ἀφθαρσίαν added, (which ours do Translate Sincerity, more properly signifies Incorruption) but he thinks this word is redundant and to have crept out of the Margent into the text, in stead of ἀδιαφθορίαν incorruptness, Bez. An. in Tit. 2. 7. This exhortation to Titus somewhat troubles Interpreters, and methinks they force the words too much to a sence scarce genuine. I have in this Analysis hinted what to me seems most natural.

Chap. 3.

forts. (5) Stirring up to faithful and strong (6) Merciful (7) Christian goodness, [8] Assurance of the love which they are happily brought into, [9] The author, Efficient, God.

No marks of [illegible] are here given, distinctively. God [illegible] manner; Especially, [10] The Means of Salvation, by the working of Almighty power. Instrumentally, by the Spirit also the worker of grace and Salvation, [11] The Object, God absolutely, by the bestowing of the gifts God absolutely freely on us through Christ. v. 4, 5. [3] The end; viz. Justification by his grace. Adoption and Heirship of eternal life, v. 7. 3. From the peculiar excellency of this Doctrine. That believers maintain good works. This is a faithful saying ——— That they that have believed in God, might be careful to maintain good works, ver. 8. Here Titus is directed, [1] To urge and affirm these things constantly; because they are good and profitable to men, ver. 8. [2] To avoid contentious, foolish questions and genealogies, and contentions, and strivings about the Law; because they are unprofitable and vain, v. 9. [3] To reject an Heretick, after the first or second admonition. Partly because such an one is subverted, or turned from the foundation. Partly because such a one sinneth against his own conscience, verse. 10, 11.

THE Epistle of Paul to Philemon.] So called because a peculiarly and in the first place directed to him by Paul.

PHILEMON] as b some think, sounds like an Hebrew name, and signifies, either Marvellously bestowed, or The mouth of bread, so denoting his beneficence and bounty, c releiving them with bread, &c. that were poor and needy. d Others rather taking this Etymon to be uncertain, count Philemon a Greek name, signifying kissing, from (φίλημα) Philema, i. e. A kiss. So intimating his kindnesse.

This is not e that ancient Comick Poet called Philemon, which Paul seems to have read, by some f expressions in his Epistles: The fragments of which Poet are extant, collected by Hen. Stephen. But this Philemon is supposed by g Theophylact, to be by Country a Phrygian, and in particular by Hierome to be a h Colossian, and one of the Ministers of the Church at Colosse, an eminent Town in Phrygia. Paul here calls him i fellow-labourer, viz. in preaching the Gospel, and k Partner. He is called a Bishop by Anselme, an Evangelist by Hierome: As 1. Gerhard hath observed. And elsewhere saith Hierome, m Paul and Timothy write to Philemon, Dearly beloved, and a fellow-labourer: wherefore is called dearly beloved, because he was exercised in the same work of Christ. And here is mentioned of the n Church in his House. Probably Philemon was converted, or much edified by Paul's Ministry, from that intimation: o Albeit I do not say unto thee how thou owest unto me, even thine own self besides. VVas dear to Paul; he calls him p brother, and his q Dearly beloved. He is commended for his r Faith in Christ, and bountiful love to all the Saints. Though rich, yet is suspected to be somewhat too covetous, from that expression, s If he hath wronged thee, or oweth thee ought, put that on mine account. I Paul have written it with mine own hand, I will repay it. VVe finde no mention of him in Scripture, but only in this Epistle.

Sect. II.

Sect. II. Occasion.

Onesimus servant to Philemon, had much wronged him in purloyning his goods, (as is probably thought he stole some money from him,) and so ran away from him to Rome, where (Providence so ordered things,) hearing Paul preach he was converted, gave good evidence of his true Repentance and Faith, and ministred to Paul in prison. But Paul understanding the cause of his departing from his Master, sends Onesimus back again to his Master with this Epistle, written upon that Occasion, perswading him to forgive the injury he had done unto him, to be reconciled to him, and entertain him again into his service.

Sect. III. Scope.

Pauls Scope in this Epistle, is to reconcile Onesimus (now converted to Christ by Pauls preaching,) to Philemon his Master, whom he had much wronged formerly, in purloyning his goods, (being unconverted,) and had thereupon run away from him, deserting his service.

Sect. IV. Principal Parts, or Analytical Explanation.

In this most Elegant and Pathetical Epistle to Philemon (in every word whereof, as† Hierome well observed, there is so much force and wisedom,) Consider 1. The Preface. 2. The Substance of the Epistle. 3. The Conclusion.

† Sed mihi videntur: dum Epistolam simplicitatis arguunt, suam imperitiam prodere: non intelligentes quid in singulis sermonibus virtutis ac sapientiæ lateat. Hier. proœm. in Epist. ad Philem. Tom. 9.

I. THE PREFACE contains I. The Inscription, Denoting 1. The persons writing, viz. 1 Paul, described by his present suffering condition, 1 A Prisoner of Jesus Christ. 2 Timothy, described by his spiritual Relation to Paul, Our Brother. 2 The parties written to, viz. 1 To Philemon especially, Described partly by his dearness to Paul, Our dearly beloved. Partly by his fellowship with Paul in the Ministry, and fellow-labourer, Philem, vers. 1. 2 To Appia, whom Paul stiles, beloved. 3 To Archippus, described by his Co-partnership with Paul in the Spiritual Warfare of the Ministry, Our fellow-souldier. 4 To the Church in Philemons House, ver. 2. II. The Salutation. v. 3. III. The Introduction, or entrance into the Epistle, wherein Paul ingratiates and endears himself to Philemon, that he may more effectually prevail in his following request. And this he doth 1. By declaring his Devout Actions in behalf of Philemon, viz. 1 Thanksgiving to God 2 Constant prayers, ver. 4. 2. By describing the Matter of this his Thanksgiving and prayer. 1 Of his thanksgiving, viz. Partly Philemons faith towards the Lord Jesus. Partly his love towards all Saints, ver. 5. 2 Of his prayer, viz. That Philemons faith by communicating it self, may evidence and demonstrate its effectualness in all good, v. 6. 3. By testifying his great Joy and Consolation in Philemons love; of which love he mentions one eminent Act; His refreshing the Saints bowels, ver. 7.

II. THE SUBSTANCE of the Epistle, is touching the Reconcilement of Onesimus a false and fugitive servant, (but now converted by Pauls Ministry in his bonds) unto Philemon his Master, Here note, 1 The Matter. 2 The Manner. 3 The motives or Reasons of Pauls request.

I. The Matter requested by Paul is intimated 1. More generally, I beseech thee for my Son Onesimus, &c. v. 10. 2. More particularly, Thou therefore receive him, v. 12.

II. The Manner of Pauls propounding this his request, 1. Not by way of commanding or enjoyning him what was meet, though in Christ he had power so to do, ver. 8. 2. But rather by way of beseeching, and that because of the love he bears to Philemon, ver. 9.

III. The Motives or Arguments, (every word almost being an Argument,) wherewith Paul emphatically urgeth his request, are drawn, I. From the Person requesting or beseeching, being such an one, as 1. Paul the aged; beseeching him by his grey hairs. 2. Paul a Prisoner of Jesus Christ, beseeching him by his Chains for Christ, ver. 9. II. From the Person intreated for, Onesimus; To be received again. 1. Because he is Pauls Convert-son, and begotten in his bonds, ver. 10. 2. Because though in times past he was unprofitable to Philemon, yet now he will be profitable both to Philemon and Paul, ver. 11. 3. Because he is most dear to Paul, even his own bowels, ver. 12. 4. Because his service was now so valuable, that Paul had a desire to have retained him, to have ministred to himself in his bonds in Philemons stead, but that he would do nothing without his consent, and he shews why; That Philemons benefit should not be as it were of necessity, but willingly ver. 13, 14. 5. Because providence seemed so to order and over-rule his departure, (making it an occasion or opportunity of his Conversion by Paul) as if God did thereby prepare and intend him for his service for ever, ver. 15. 6. Because he went away a Servant, but returns a brother beloved, both to Paul and Philemon, temporally and spiritually, ver. 16. III. From the mutual dearness, interest and obligations, betwixt Paul intreating, and Philemon intreated, 1. They are partners, and therefore wishes him to receive Onesimus as himself, ver. 17. 2. Paul engages himself to Philemon, repay all the dammage and injury he hath sustained by Onesimus, ver. 18, 19. 3. Philemon himself is much more in Pauls debt, than all this amounts to; albeit I do not say to thee, how thou owest unto me even thine own self besides, probably being converted by Paul, ver. 19. 4. Hereby Philemon shall rejoyce Paul, and refresh his bowels in the Lord, ver. 20. 5. Finally, Paul wrote in confidence of Philemons obedience, knowing he would do more than was desired, ver. 21.

III. THE CONCLUSION of the Epistle. contains 1. Pauls request to Philemon, to prepare him a lodging, hoping through their prayers to be given unto them, ver. 22. 2. Salutations from divers brethren to Philemon, ver. 23, 24. 3. The Apostolical Valediction, or farewell-Benediction to them whom he wrote unto, ver. 25.

HEBREWS.

HEBREWS.

Sect. I. Name.

THE Epiſtle of Paul the Apoſtle to the HEBREWS.] So intituled in the Greek Copies, from the Penman writing it, Paul: and the Parties to whom he wrote, The Hebrews. The Syriack verſion hath it, The Epiſtle to the Hebrews.

HEBREWS, viz. Jews, ſo denominated; Not from Heber, Selahs ſon, Sems grandchild: But rather from b Abram, the father of the faithful. And that not from the name Abram, or Abraham, (as it were Abrahamans, as ſome think, becauſe Abrahams Poſterity were beloved of God,) which is written with (א) whereas Hebrews is written originally with (ע) viz. עִבְרִי Hibbiri: But from the Epithet given firſt to Abram, viz. c Abram the Hebrew, Abram being called עִבְרִי Hibbiri, i. e. the Hebrew; from עָבַר Hibbabar, ſignifying To paſſe over, or paſſe through: becauſe from Meſopotamia he paſſed over Euphrates into Canaan, and ſo d paſſed through the land. So that Abram the Hebrew, ſounds as much as Abram the Paſſenger, or the Paſſer through. Hence Abrams poſterity are called Hebrews, which name ſeems ſomwhat more worthy than the name Jews, becauſe the name Jews came but from Judah, Jacobs ſonne, the Kingly ſtock.

To Hebrews by nation, but now become Chriſtians by Profeſſion, This Epiſtle was written. e Some think the Apoſtle wrote onely to thoſe Hebrews that dwelt in Jeruſalem and Judea, for whom Paul had made many Collections among the Gentiles in Aſia, Achaia, &c. As f James, Cephas and John had requeſted him, whom he ſometimes ſtiles g the poor, ſometimes h the Saints, ſometimes i the poor Saints at Jeruſalem. To theſe Hebrews only this Epiſtle is thought to be written by the Apoſtle, becauſe in the latter end thereof he k promiſeth to ſee them. But Peter ſeems remarkably to teſtifie that this Epiſtle was written to the l Diſperſed Hebrews, who believed in Chriſt. Why might not the Epiſtle be written to them all?

Sect. II. Penman of this Epiſtle, Paul.

Penman of this Epiſtle is not ſo infallibly agreed upon, by learned men.

Some of old m aſcribed it to Luke, or Barnabas or Clement, or ſome uncertain Author. Some n to Barnabas, Some to o Apollos. Calvin himſelf, though in his Argument before this Epiſtle, he ſaith, p he cannot be brought to think it was Pauls, yet q after, ſeems to incline to that Opinion that Paul wrote it.

But that Paul was Penman of this Epiſtle, was the unanimous opinion of all the ancient Greek Writers, (except Caius mentioned by r Nicephorus and Hierome, who onely reckons thirteen Epiſtles of Paul) and of many Latin Authors, ancient and modern. It is evident to them that will diligently conſult their writings; And is particularly cleared out of multitudes of Authors, by Jo. ſ Gerhard that learned Lutheran, by t David Pareus that induſtrious and elaborate Commentator upon Scripture: And by that acute u Dr. Whittaker, in his time The Glory of Cambridge, eſpecially for polemick Divinity, who ſaith, Should I reckon them all up who aſcribe this Epiſtle to the Apoſtle Paul, I ſhould be infinite. And he recites very many, to whom I referre the learned Reader; though for his own judgement, he leaves the determination of it in medio, as being ſomewhat unreſolved. I like well that paſſage of Hierome: x "This I "ſay to ours: This Epiſtle which is inſcribed to the Hebrews, is received as the Apoſtle Pauls, not only by the Oriental Churches, but of all the Eccleſiaſtical Greek Writers backwards, though many "think it is the Epiſtle of Barnabas or Clemens; but "it matters not whoſe it be; ſeeing his the Epiſtle of "an Eccleſiaſtical man, and is daily celebrated by the "Churches reading of it. And ſince we are ſure it was inſpired and indited by the Holy Ghoſt, we may be leſſe ſollicitous what Inſtrument he uſed in penning of it. Yet That the Apoſtle Paul was Penman of this Epiſtle, may be evinced by divers conſiderable Arguments, As.

II. The Teſtimony of Peter is moſt conſiderable, z As our beloved brother Paul alſo according to the wiſedome given unto him hath written unto you. As alſo in all his Epiſtles ſpeaking in them of theſe things, in which are ſome things hard to be underſtood, &c. 2 Pet. 3, 15, 16. wherein note (with a Gerhard, Piſcator, and others) for the ſtrengthning of this Argument, theſe enſuing particulars, viz.

z 2 Pet. 3. 15, 16.

a 1 Gerhard. quo ſup. b 1. Piſc. in Prol. in Ep. ad Heb.

1. That Paul wrote to them alſo to whom Peter wrote. But Peter wrote to the Hebrews, c both his Epiſtles. Therefore Paul wrote to the Hebrews, and either this Epiſtle is that which Paul wrote to the Hebrews, or its loſt. That it ſhould be loſt is unlikely, when Gods Providence hath preſerved ſuch a ſmall Epiſtle, and of private concernment, as his Epiſtle to Philemon, for the uſe of the Church: but doubtleſſe

c. Compare 1 Pet. 1, 1. with 2 Pet. 3. 1, 2.

leſſe what Paul wrote to the Hebrews was more large and full, and touching the myſtery of ſalvation by Chriſt crucifyed, as moſt neceſſary to them, who ſtuck too much to the Levitical Prieſthood, as if it ſhould be perpetuated; and ſtumbled at Chriſt crucified: and this is the Argument of this Epiſtle.

2. That Paul wrote to them of the ſame things that Peter wrote. Now herein Peter's Epiſtle and this to the Hebrews agree; as 1 Peter writes, d That by Chriſt are given to us all things pertaining to Life and Godlineſſe. That Jeſus Chriſt is e the Son of God in whom the Father is well pleaſed with us, of whom the Prophets ſpoke. So theſe things are largely handled f in this Epiſtle to the Hebrews. 2. Peter exhorts them to g faith and holineſſe. So the Epiſtle to the Hebrews largely inciteth, h to faith and holineſſe. 3. Peter ſhews the i danger of Apoſtacy. So the Epiſtle to the k Hebrews.

3. That Paul wrote wiſely; now much wiſdome appears, both in Words, Matter, and Method of this Epiſtle to the Hebrews.

4. That herein (viz. in Pauls Epiſtles,) are ſome things hard to be underſtood. As touching l Predeſtination, Election, and Reprobation. Touching m Antichriſt and his Revealing, and divers other intricate points, So this Epiſtle to the Hebrews hath its remarkable difficulties, as touching n Apoſtates, and the Sin againſt the Holy Ghoſt, &c.

III. Pauls zeal and affection was great to the o Hebrews: And can we think he ſhould never write to them that were ſo exceeding dear to him? And what could he write more proper and neceſſary for them, then touching the abrogation of the Levitical Prieſthood, and the ſurpaſſing excellency of Chriſts Perſon and Office, eſpecially of his true ſpiritual and eternal Prieſthood, whereof the Levitical was but a dim ſhadow, which this Epiſtle treats of, above any other?

IV. Mention is here made of p Timothy his brother, and that he is ſet at liberty. Now elſewere Paul calls Timothy q his brother; And in what accions Timothy, (Pauls Companion) was with Paul, hath r before been evidenced.

V. The Authour of this Epiſtle mentions his s bonds. And this is Pauls manner in his other Epiſtles, which were written after he came into bonds for Chriſt and the Goſpel, to make ſome t mention or other of his Bonds.

VI. The character of the ſtile and language in this Epiſtle, ſeems ſo plainly to be the ſame with Pauls in his other Epiſtles, that they indigitate Paul to be the Penman. Well conſider and parellel the enſuing places.

VII. Finally that which the Apoſtle himſelf counts as it were the Character and Seal of all his Epiſtles his Token, u The grace of our Lord Jeſus Chriſt be with you all, Amen: is the valedictory cloſe of this Epiſtle, u Grace be with you all, Amen.

Theſe Arguments may ſtrongly perſwade that the Apoſtle Paul was Author of this Epiſtle, and conſequently that this Epiſtle is of Apoſtolical, yea of Divine Authority, as well as his other Epiſtles. Nor are the objections usually brought to the contrary, of ſuch difficulty, but that they may eaſily receive ſatisfactory Anſwers, and are anſwered by Beza, Pareus, Piſcator, in their Prologue before this Epiſtle, and others.

When and Whence this Epiſtle was written, ſee in the Chronological Table, before Epiſtle to Romans.

Sect. III. Language, in which this Epiſtle was written.

That it was written in Hebrew, by Paul an Hebrew, to the Hebrews, and ſo tranſlated into Greek by Luke or Barnabas, 2 ſome think; Hierome notably inclined to this opinion, ſaying, ‘ a The Epiſtle to ‘ the Hebrews is not thought to be Pauls, becauſe ‘ of the difference of ſtile and ſpeech, but either ‘ Barnabas's according to Tertullian; or Luke's the ‘ Evangeliſts according to ſome; or Clement's, after ‘ Biſhop of the Roman Church, whom they report to have ordered and adorned Pauls ſentences in his own Language. Or certainly becauſe Paul wrote ‘ to the Hebrews, and by reaſon of the Jews envy a‘ gainſt him, in the beginning of the Salutation cut ‘ off his name. He wrote as an Hebrew to the He‘ brews in Hebrew, i. e. moſt skilfully in his own ‘ tongue, that thoſe things that were eloquently writ‘ten in Hebrew, might more eloquently be tranſlated ‘ into Greek. And this is the cauſe, why it ſeems to ‘ differ from the reſt of Pauls Epiſtles. But b others ‘ rather are of opinion that Paul wrote this Epiſtle ‘ at firſt in Greek; which may be probably believed ‘ upon theſe enſuing grounds.

1. The ſtile and phraſe of this Epiſtle, ſeems rather to Grecize, (and to conſiſt of pure and elegant Greek, as c Euſebius noteth out of Origen,) then to Hebraize, there being fewer Hebraiſms in this Epiſtle, then in Pauls other Epiſtles. But there would have been more, had it been writ in Hebrew.

2. The places alledged out of the Old Teſtament are not alledged according to the Hebrew Original but the Greek Verſion of the Septuagint.

3. The Hebrew names are interpreted, as d Melchiſedec, King of Righteouſneſs, and Salem, Peace.

4. Moſt Jews then underſtood the Greek Tongue, eſpecially thoſe that lived in Aſia Minor, and therefore there was no inconvenience in writing to them in Greek.

5. Peter and James wrote their Epiſtles to the diſperſed Jews in Greek, and Paul wrote all his other Epiſtles to the Gentiles in Greek; why then ſhould we imagine this to be written in Hebrew?

6. To think that Paul wrote in Hebrew to the Hebrews, is an opinion attended with divers inconmodities, (as that learned and acute e Junius hath well obſerved,) eſpecially with theſe two, 1. ‘ That ‘ at that time Paul could not determine with himſelf ‘ in what Dialect he ſhould write to the Hebrews, ‘ which all the Hebrews might underſtand. For there ‘ was then pure Hebrew Language in the Scriptures, ‘ but not in popular uſe. Among the people there ‘ were many Dialects, Chaldee, Syriack, Jeruſalem, ‘ Samaritane, and others: which alſo by reaſon of ‘ the places, where the Jews were diſperſed, at that ‘ time ſuffered many alterations and corruptions; ‘ whence it came to paſs, that neither the Hebrew ‘ tongue was underſtood of many, nor this or that ‘ Dialect of theſe or thoſe. Had Paul therefore writ

'In Hebrew, he had already taught among him the 'learned Hebrews; besides what he knew of the other 'Dialects, he had easily learned (some say also) 2. 'That by this Argument of writing to Hebrews, he had easily taught his own Countrymen this Argument 'when written by him, that though (which among 'the Jews were deemed a crime) they had entertained 'the baptized Jesus (which more deeply wounded 'more audaciously have mocked Flesh Eating, 'and more maliciously have traduced it as unfaithful 'ones and strangers: unless he had written in their 'tongue, which might both have infected his own 'people, and also many others have appeared and 'asserted his faithfulness against their virulent ca'lumnies.

Now hence consequently the commodities and advantages accruing by his writing to them in Greek, are evident. Viz. 1. That his writing might be understood of all the Jews, in what places soever they were (and they were chiefly in Asia minor, as by the beginning of Peters first Epistle, and of the Revelation is confirmed,) as using the popular language of the places wherein they lived. 2. It should also be understood of all the Gentiles, for whom also consequently the Apostle would provide by this writing. For why did he write to the Romans in Greek, but for this cause? therefore by the like ground he wrote to the Hebrews in Greek. For though then the Romans had the Empire, yet the Greek Language remained in most parts of the World.

7. The Ancient Writers witnesse not that they have seen any Original Hebrew Copy of this Epistle.

Sect. IV. Occasion.

The Occasion of the Apostles writing to the Hebrews, seems to be the infirmity and affliction of the believing Hebrews. For the whole current of this Epistle seems to insinuate, That though they had entertained Christ, yet they adhered too much to Moses and the Levitical Priesthood; and perhaps some of them had some hesitancy about Christ, whether he were the promised Messiah: and yet for their entertaining of Christ so far as they did, they seem not only to be reproached by their Countrymen, as Apostates from the Law, but were greatly persecuted for Christ; the Apostle understanding this their state, [e] wrote to instruct and support them herein.

Sect. V. Scope.

The Apostles Scope in this Epistle, is (in order to the Confirmation and Consolation of the weak and afflicted Christian Hebrews.) 1. To inform them, [f] That the Gospel under the New Testament by Jesus Christ, farre excelleth the Ministry of the Law under the Old Testament by the Prophets: Jesus Christ incomparably surpassing all the Ministers of the Old Testament in Person and Office. In Person, being both [g] Eternal God, even above Angels, and therefore his [h] Gospel more to be attended to than the Law spoken by Angels: and also [i] True man, like us in all things, (sin only excepted,) and therefore the only true Messiah, promised in the Old Testament, and exhibited in the New. In Office. being 1. The Churches only King; 2. The chief [k] Prophet and Apostle, more faithful in the Church than even Moses himself, whom therefore they must [l] believe and obey, lest by unbelief they lose the spiritual and eternal, as Israel did the temporal Rest of Canaan. 3. The great High-Priest; farre surpassing Aaron the Levitical High-Priest, [1] In [m] Call unto his Office [2] In eminency of [n] his Sacrifice: [3] In Order of Priesthood, being of [o] Melchizedech's everlasting Order, and by oath sworn to the unremovall all that [p] were given God by him. [4] In [q] Unchangeableness, Spiritualness, and Truth of his Office. [5] In Excellency of [r] Covenant, viz. the New Covenant, (which is the Mediatory) [s] In Excellency of [t] Tabernacle, his own Body, and of his Ministry thereby. [7] In Efficacy of [u] Sacrifice, being one Sacrifice of infinite value, of perpetuall vertue, and perfecting for ever. [8] In entering into Heaven. 1. To confirm in the [w] Faith and Confession of the Doctrine of Christ, from the Perfection of Ministry, and the Everlasting [x] Reward of Faithfull witnessing of it. 2. To [y] reform the Conversation, agreeable to the Gospel Doctrine of Christ. [1] By patiently bearing the Cross without fainting. [2] By following [z] Peace with men, and Holiness towards God. [3] By a [a] brotherly love. [4] By [b] Marriage-chastity. [5] By true [c] Contentment. [6] By following the [d] faith and constancy of their Teachers. [7] By [e] Beneficence. And [8] By due [f] Subjection and obedience unto their Church-Governours, that have the rule over them.

Sect. VI. Principal Parts.

In this Divine, Elegant and sweet Epistle to the Hebrews, (viz. Those Believing Jews, who were with much difficulty won from Levitical Observances into the Simplicity and Spirituality of the Gospel: and were in great danger of Departing from the Gospel Faith, through manifold tribulations and persecutions:) The Apostle 1. Doctrinally informs them. 2. Practically exhorts them. 3. And so finally concludes his whole Epistle.

I. HE DOCTRINALLY INFORMES the believing Hebrews, That the Gospel-Ministry under the New Testament, wherein God hath spoken to us by Jesus Christ his Son, God and man, farre surpasseth and excelleth the ministry of the Law, under the Old Testament, wherein God spoke to the Fathers several times and wayes only by the Prophets, Ch. I. v. 1, 2. This he clears, 1. By the transcendent Dignity of Christs Person. 2. By the surpassing Excellency of Christs Office. Chap. I.

1. The Transcendent Dignity and Glory of Christs person is declared and evidenced, in respect of his two natures in that one person, 1. His Divinity, or Godhead. 2. His Humanity, or Manhood.

1. Christs glorious [g] Godhead is 1. Evidenced. 2. Applyed. [g] Christs Godhead.

1. Christs Godhead is Evidenced Absolutely and Comparatively, 1. Absolutely, Christs Godhead is evidenced; in that, 1. He is heir of all things. 2. He made the worlds, ver. 2. 3. He is the brightnesse of the Fathers glory, and expresse character of his person. 4. He sustaineth all things by the word of his power. 5. He by himself expiated, or purged our sins. 6. He sits on the right hand of God, ver. 3. II. Comparatively Christs Godhead is evidenced by his infinite Superiority to the Angels, In as much As 1. He is the Eternal Son of God, and so hath a more excellent name than they, ver. 4, 5. 2. Divine worship is due to him, even from all the Angels, ver. 6. 3. All the Angels are but his servants, ver. 7. 4. He is eternall God, and King over all, Annointed with the spirit, as man, to this office above all his fellows, ver. 8, 9. 5. He is the Eternall unchangeable Creator of Heaven and Earth, ver. 10, 11, 12. 6. He sits at Gods right hand, in supreme Authority, ver. 13. 7. Angels Minister to him and to his Elect, v 14.

2. Christs Godhead is Applyed, by the Apostles inferring thence, That seeing Christs person is so excellent, therefore his Gospel-Doctrine is the more heedfully to be believed and stedfastly retained, Ch. II. ver. 1. This exhortation is further urged. 1. Because the Neglect of Christs Doctrine is dangerous; which is proved by an Argument from the lesser to the greater, the neglect of Moses Doctrine (spoken but by Angels,) was justly punished, ver. 2. How much Chap. 2.

much more shall the neglect of the Gospel-Doctrine, (that reveales so great Salvation, Spoken by the Lord, and confirmed both by the Apostles testimony, and the Holy-Ghosts gifts,) be severely plagued, ver. 3, 4. 1. Because God hath not put the world to come, here spoken of (viz. the world as Restored to man by Christ) in Subjection to Angels, ver. 5. But unto Christ, which is proved by the Testimony of David. This Testimony is, 1. Propounded, viz. That God visited man, viz. in Christ, made a little lower than Angels, that he crowned him with glory and honour, putting all things without exception in subjection under him, ver. 6, 7, 8. 2. Applyed to Christ. Partly by way of Concession, That we see not yet all things compleatly put under him, ver. 8. Partly by way of exposition, That Jesus made a little (or, a little while) lower than Angels, for the suffering of Death was crowned with Glory and Honour, viz. At Gods right hand, ver. 9. Object. But why must Jesus suffer Death? Answ. 1. Because so it pleased the grace of God. 2. He tasted death, not for himself, but for man, for every man, i.e. For every one of the Elect sons of God, ver. 9, 10. 3. It became the Justice of God, to consecrate the Captain of our salvation through Death, that so God might bring many sons unto Glory, ver. 10.

h Christs Manhood.

II. Christ's true h Manhood is also evidenced and cleared, (besides divers intimations thereof in the former passages,) by many causes of his Incarnation, laid down, viz. 1. That he that Sanctifieth, and they that are Sanctified in their nature by him might be all of one, and they his brethren, as was in the Old Testament fore-prophecied, ver. 11, 12, 13. 2. That partaking flesh and blood with us, he might dye, and by dying both destroy the Devil that had the power of Death, as also deliver his own from bondage and fear of Death. (As in the Law the right of Redemption belonged to the next kinsman) ver. 14, 15. That he thus partook flesh and blood. He Partly proves by Scripture, testifying he was to descend of Abraham and his seed; Partly amplifies by denying this priviledge to the Angelical Nature, Christ took not hold of Angels, v. 16. 3. That being made like to his brethren in all things, he might be a merciful and faithfull high-priest for them, ver. 17. Which he further clears from Naturall Sympathy betwixt partners in afflictions, Christ himself being more experimentally prepared to succour and sympathize with us in Temptations and afflictions, in that himself hath suffered being tempted, ver. 18.

II. The surpassing excellency of Christs Office, is asserted and proved in the three Principall Parts thereof, viz. 1. His Kingship. 2. His Prophecy. 3. His Priesthood.

i Christs Kingship.

I. The i Kingship of Christ is but briefly and accidentally touched. As Ch. I. 2, 3, 8, 13. II. 9. VII. 2. VIII. 1.

k Christs Prophecy.

II. The Prophecy or Prophetical Office of Christ, is preferred farre before that of Moses, whom therefore the Christian Hebrews must much more believe and obey, lest as unbelieving Israel came short of the temporall, they also misse of the eternal rest. Here therefore the Dignity of Christs Prophetick office, is 1. Asserted. 2. Applyed.

I. The dignity of Christs Prophetick office especially, is asserted. Here note, I. The Preface to this assertion, containing 1. An insinuative Compellation of the Christi-Hebrewes, Holy Brethren, Partakers of the heavenly calling. 2. An Exhortation of them upon the former dignity of his Person, to consider Christ in his office, wherefore consider Christ Jesus ——— Ch. III. ver. 1.

Chap. 3.

II. The Grounds whereupon the dignity of Christs Prophecy is asserted, viz. 1. He is the Apostle and High priest of our Profession, ver. 1. 2. He is as faithful in his message, in changing the Levitical Ordinances and Priesthood, as Moses was in his message in delivering the same, ver. 2. 3. He is farre more honourable than Moses himself. [1] Partly in as much as he being God, is the Builder of the house, the Church; of which house Moses himself is but a part ver. 3, 4. [2] Partly because Moses continued in the Church only as a Servant, v. 5. But Christ as a Son, and Lord over his own house, ver. 6. This he amplifies, shewing how we may approve our selves to be Christs house, viz. by Stability and Continuing of our Faith and Hope, ver. 6.

2. The Dignity of Christs Office is pressed by way of Earnest Exhortation. The Apostle exhorts the Christian Hebrews, Faithfully to hearken to and obey Christs Doctrine, and constantly to persevere in the Faith of the Gospel, and that against all grounds or occasions of Apostacy. 1. From the Holy Ghosts Authority; who 1. Commands them to day to hear Christs voice. 2. Prohibits their hardning of their hearts, like unto rebellious Israel in the wilderness, under the severe penalty of being excluded from entring into Gods rest, ver. 7. to 12. II. From the benefit of enjoying communion with God, and with Jesus Christ; Here 1. Unbelief is declared to be the ground of Apostacy from God, ver. 12. 2. The deceitfulness of sin is insinuated to be the cause of hardning. To prevent which, they are to exhort one another, ver. 13. 3. Stedfast perseverance in the Faith, is commended to them as the only means making them Partakers of Christ, ver. 14. III. From the peril of being shut out of Gods rest, through unbelief, as the provoking and unbelieving Israelites were. Here 1. This exclusion of Israel is limited, Not all that came out of Egypt, ver. 15, 16. 2. This exclusion of some is evidenced, Partly by the death of the murmurers in the Wilderness, ver. 17. Partly by the Oath of God against their entring into his Rest, because of their unbelief, ver. 18, 19. 3. Upon this exclusion of Israel of old, the Christian Hebrews are charged to fear, lest they also through unbelief come short, and be shut out of Gods promised Rest, Ch. IV. ver. 1. And this for divers Reasons; [1] Because the preaches of this rest is made to us in the preaching of Christs Gospel, as well as to Israel, ver. 2. [2] Because, The Word preached, tendring this rest to Israel, became unfruitful to them through unbelief; so it will to us, v. 2. [3] Because, By Faith we enter into rest, as Israel contrariwise entred not, through unbelief, ver. 3. Object. But what is that Rest which we are invited by Christs word to enter into? Answ. This he resolves, by giving distribution of several Rests mentioned in Scripture, 1. There's The Seventh-dayes Rest, wherein God rested from his works of Creation finished at the beginning, ver. 3, 4. But this rest is not intended here, [1] Because, The promise of the rest is repeated [2] Because, long after the seventh-Day's rest, Another day is limited, ver. 5, 6, 7. 2. There's Canaans rest given Israel by Joshuah; but that's not meant, because after Jesus (viz. Joshua) had given them possession of Canaan, he speaks still of another day of Rest, ver. 8. 3. There's therefore another Rest besides both these, and shadowed out by them, especially by the seventh dayes Rest, viz. A Spiritual and Eternal Rest, remaining to the people of God, wherein they cease from their own works, ver. 9, 10. And this Rest all should labour to enter by Faith, taking heed they miss not of it by unbelief, v. 11. IV. From the lively penetrating and searching nature of Gods Word: And from the All-seeing eye of God with whom we have to do, whereby all the unbelief, hypocrisie, and back-sliding Principles of our hearts are most accurately discovered and laid naked; so that no unbeliever or back-slider, though but in heart, may think to escape his notice and judgment, ver. 12, 13. V. Finally, From Christs Priesthood, these Hebrews are encouraged to Perseverance and stedfastness in their profession of Faith (taught them by Christ their great Prophet.) Here 1. Christ our Priest is commended, as [1] Most High, We have a great High Priest. [2] Most glorious, that is passed into the Heavens, ver. 14. [3] Most compassionate over our infirmities, being in all points tempted as we are, yet without sin, vers. 15. 2. They are here exhorted herunto to come boldly to Christ as to a Throne of Grace, for obtaining all seasonable Grace and Assistance in the way of Holiness, ver. 16. And thus the Apostle passes from the Doctrine about Christs Priesthood to the Practical Uses thereof, which he much inlarges.

I Christs Priest-hood

III. The Priesthood, or Priestly Office of Christ. That Christ is our great High Priest, compassionate, merciful, and of all others compleatly qualified for us, by comparing him with, and preferring him before Aaron in all Priestly completions and perfections in this and

1. The Requisites and Perfections of Aarons Priesthood are reckoned up in a Typical high Priest.

1. Was of Men or chosen by them for whom he was consecrated, in things pertaining to God. 2. Offered Gifts and Sacrifices for sin. Ch. V. ver. 1. 3. Could compassionate sinners, ignorant and out of the way, himself being compassed with infirmity, ver. 2. 4. Ought therefore to offer for his own sins, as well as the peoples, ver. 3. 5. Must be called of God as Aaron, and not take the honour of that Office to himself, ver. 4.

2. Christs Priestly Perfections are Declared to Equallizing, yea far excelling all those perfections of the Levitical High-Priest, viz.

1. Christ assumed not the Glory of his Priesthood to himself, but was called thereto of God; As is proved by a double Testimony. 1. More obscurely, by a Testimony Synechdochally m alledged; the words wherein the Argument lies not being expressed, Thou art my Son, this day have I begotten thee; Ask of me, &c. This Asking implyes his Priesthood, v. 5. 2. More clearly, Thou art a Priest, &c. v. 6.

m Vid. Jo. P. scat. in loc. Et. Fran. Jun. Parallel. in loc.

2. Christ Offered up Sacrifices farre beyond the Levitical, viz. Prayers and Supplications, and himself by dying, ver. 7, &c. which are Amplified, 1. By the circumstance of Time, when he offered up these Sacrifices, viz. In the dayes of his flesh. So that he was able to Sympathize with us, ver. 9. 2. By the Adjuncts, Object and Success of his Prayers. (1) The Adjuncts of his Prayers, with strong crying and tears. (2) The Object to whom he prayed, to him that was able to save him from Death. (3) The success of his Prayer, He was heard, in that he feared, v. 7. 3. By the eminency of his Obedience, Though he were the Son of God (and so without sin,) yet by his Actual suffering the learned experimental Obedience, ver. 8. 4. By the effect of his sufferings, being made perfect, he became Author of Eternal Salvation to all that obey him, therefore he suffered for them, nor for himself, v. 9. 6. By Gods Authorizing & calling him hereunto, v. 10.

3. Christ was of Melchizedec's everlasting Order, far surpassing Aaron's, v. 10. In the farther unfolding of this, 1 He Prefaceth. 2 He Paralleleth Christ and Melchizedec together.

"HE PREFACETH to the Christian Hebrews to "stir up their attention to this Mystery of Christs be-"ing after Melchizedec's Order. Herein I. He propoundeth to speak much of Christ, as a Priest of Melchizedek's Order, of whom we have many things to say, ver. 11. II. He intimateth the difficulty of their Doctrine, by reason of their incapacity, being Dull of hearing, v. 11. Their Dulness he reprehensorily evidenceth, 1. In the Hypothesis, declaring, Partly, what they might and ought have been for their long time of learning, for the time ye ought to be Teachers. Partly, what they were notwithstanding, viz. Such as needed to be taught the first Principles of Gods Oracles, needing milk not strong meat, ver. 12. 2. In the Thesis Describing (1) Who are babes, viz. they that use milk, and are unskilful in the word of righteousnesse, v. 13. (2) Who are riper Christians, grown men, viz. Partly, they who can digest strong meat, more perfect Doctrines, Partly, they who by use have their spiritual Senses exercised to discern Good and Evil, v. 14. III. He earnestly exhorts them hereupon to Go on with him to perfection, and stedfastly to Persevere to the end. And this by divers Arguments; 1. From the absurdity of sticking still in Principles, and Laying p Christ a Priest after Melchizedecs Order. Chap. 7.

p HE PARALLELETH Christ and Melchizedec "together. And thence infers the excellency of "Christs Priesthood beyond Aarons. I. Christ and Melchizedec are compared together, Melchizedec being described. As 1. King of Salem, and Priest of the most High God. 2. Blessing Abraham, meeting him returning from the Slaughter of the Kings, Chap. VII. vers. 1. 3. Receiving Tenths of all the spoyls from Abraham. 4. Being mystically, (1) King of Righteousnesse, (2) King of Peace, ver. 2. (3) Without Father, (4) Without Mother, (5) Without Discent, (6) Without beginning of dayes, (7) Without end of life, as he stands mentioned in Scripture. 5. Abiding a Priest continually. Herein resembling the Son of God, Jesus Christ, ver. 3. II. Hence the excellency of Christs Melchizedec-like Priesthood above Aarons is inferred and evidenced by divers Arguments, 1. From the excellency of Melchizedec, (the Priest of God and type of Christ, above Abraham and all the Levitical Priests. Above Abraham, Partly in that Abraham himself paid him Tenths, whilst only Abrahams Posterity paid the Levitical Priests Tenths upon which ground yet the Levites were superiour to their brethren, vers. 4, 5, 6. Partly in that he blessed Abraham, the lesse being blessed of the better, ver. 6, 7. Above all the Levitical Priests. Partly, in that they receive Tithes, who yet die; but he receiveth Tithes who liveth, ver. 8. Partly, in that Levi Levi himself being in Abrahams loynes when Melchizedec met him, in Abraham paid Tithes to Melchizedec, ver. 9, 10. 2. From the insufficiency of the Levitical Priesthood, (and of the Ceremonial Law, stablished by that Priesthood) to bring any Persons to true Perfection, whereupon they were to be abrogated, and to give place to Christs Melchizedec-like Priesthood, bringing to Perfection. That Perfection came not by Levitical Priesthood, he proves, Because the Priesthood was changed from the order of Aaron to the order of Melchizedec, which needed not, had Aarons Priesthood been sufficient, v. 11. And with the Priesthood the Ceremonial Law also was consequently exchanged & abrogated, v. 12. This change of Priesthood and Law he evinceth, (1) By the translation of the Priesthood to another Tribe, Christ our High-Priest Springing out of Judah, which tribe afforded no Levitical Priests, ver. 13, 14. (2) By the testimony touching another Priest after Melchisedec's Order, constituted not by the law of a carnal commandement, but by the power of an endlesse life, v. 15, 16, 17. [3] By the declaring the true cause why the Ceremonial law was changed, viz. the laws weaknesse and unprofitableness, making nothing perfect, which is Amplified by the contrary perfection of Christs Priesthood, but the bringing in of a better hope, did; by the which we draw nigh to God, ver. 18, 19. 3 From the different manner of the constitution of these two Priesthoods; the Levitical Priests were made without an oath. But Christs Melchizedec-like Priesthood with an Oath, that it might be unalterable. In which respect Christ is a surety of a better Testament, ver. 20, 21, 22. 4. From the different continuance of the Levitical Priests and Christ, They were Many and Mortal, and therefore continued not. Christ but One, and Immortal; and therefore executing an everlasting Priesthood; and consequently able everlastingly to save all that believe in him, ver. 23, 24, 25. 5. From the different condition of Christ and those Levitical Priests, in Purity and Glory. Christ as was necessary) is pure, being holy, harmelesse, undefiled, separate from sinners, and therefore needs not offer sacrifice for his own sins: Christ is glorious, being made higher than the heavens. But these High-Priests need daily to sacrifice for their own sins, &c. ver. 26, 27. 6. From the different efficacy of their sacrifices; the Levitical Priests perfect not, though they offererd daily sacrifices: Christ perfects by offering himself once; and no wonder, for the Levitical Priests were sinners; but Christ constituted by Oath since the Law, is the spotlesse and perfect Son of God, v. 28.

4. Christs Priesthood, (which is a capitall, or chief matter herein to be considered, is Celestial, Spiritual, and True; and therefore far more excellent than Aarons, which was but Earthly, Carnal, and Typical. This is evidenced 1. By the heavenly state of Christ our High-Priest, at Gods right hand, Ch. VIII. ver. 1. 2. By the heavenly place wherein he ministers, viz. in the Sanctuary of heaven, and the true Tabernacle, viz. of his body,) pitched by the Lord not by man, ver. 2. 3. By the spiritual and true sacrifice which he offered, viz. the true Tabernacle of his body wherein he ministers, ver. 2. This is proved, Partly because every High-Priest must have some gifts and sacrifices to offer; and therefore so must Christ, ver. 3. Partly because though Christ were on earth, yet he could not offer the typical sacrifice by the law, forasmuch as he was not of Levies tribe, who medled with shadows of heavenly things, according to the Pattern in the Mount, ver. 4, 5.

Chap. 8.

5. Christ is Mediatour of a better Covenant than Aaron was, therefore his Ministry or Priesthood is more excellent than Aarons. That the Covenant whereof Christ is Mediatour, is better than that of the Levitical Priests, is proved, I. Because Christs Covenant is stablished upon better Promises, ver. 6. II. Because the former Covenant was faulty and defective, as is evidenced by the Prophet Jeremiahs testimony touching a New Covenant, largely recited, ver. 7, 8, &c. wherein we see, 1. Gods Promise of making a New Covenant, containing [1] The Author of this New Covenant, The Lord. [2] The Parties with whom the Lord will Covenant, the house of Israel and the house of Judah, viz. 1 All the Elect which shall be gathered into one body. [3] The time when this Covenant shall be made, The days come, viz. The days of Christs coming under the New Testament, ver. 8. 2. Gods opposing of this New Covenant to that Old Covenant, as unlike to it, and short of it; Not according to the Covenant, &c. That Old Covenant he describes, [1] By the Parties with whom it was made, with their Fathers, viz. the Israelites that came out of Egypt. [2] By the time when it was made, In the day when I took them by the hand to lead them out of the Land of Egypt. [3] By the insufficiency or faultinesse of that Covenant, (which occasioned their making of a New Covenant) discovered, Partly in the Israelites breach of it; because they continued not in my Covenant. Partly in the Lords punishing of them for that breach, and I regarded them not, saith the Lord, ver. 9 2. Gods preferring the New Covenant (to be made after those days, viz. after the days of the Old Covenant, in the days of Christ) before the former Covenant, in respect of the excellent Nature and Promises thereof. He Promiseth [1] A new promulgation or Inscription of his Laws, viz. Not in Paper, Parchment, or Tables of stone, &c. but in their minds, enlightning them in the knowledge of God and his will; and in their hearts, enclining and enabling them to the Love and performance of Gods Will and Lawes known; I will put my Lawes into their mind, and write them in their hearts. [2] A new Stipulation, or Covenant-Obligation betwixt God and them in respect of their gratuitous Adoption; wherein God undertakes for both Parties to the Covenant, viz. For himself, That he will be to them a God; This is the highest Promise in the world, God being the only Supream Good that can be enjoyed. For them with whom he Covenants, That they shall be to him a People: This is the fullest and yet sweetest Obligation upon them; Fullest, in that they must be wholly Gods people; Sweetest in that God undertakes they shall be his, ver. 10. [3] A new Illumination touching God and his ways. And this Partly in respect of the Intensiveness or degree thereof, they shall not be so ignorant even of Principles of Faith, and stick in first Rudiments as they of old, not knowing who God was; but they shall discern more deep, intimate and perfect mysteries of Religion; And they (shall not teach every man his Neighbour, and every man his Brother, saying, Know the Lord. Partly in respect of the Extensiveness thereof, to all that are in Covenant with God of all ranks or conditions, for they shall all know me from the greatest to the least, ver. 11. (4) A new Provision against all their corruptions, whereby their Covenant might be violated. viz. Gods gratuitous Remission, and utter Obliteration of all their sins; For I will be mercifull to their unrighteousnesse, and their sins and their iniquities will I remember no more, ver. 12. Now from this Testimony of Jeremiah touching a New Covenant, the Apostle infers two Corollaries to his present purpose, viz. 1. That God by saying a New Covenant, hath antiquated, or made the other Old. 2. That that Covenant which decayeth and waxeth old, vanisheth away, and is abrogated by the New Testament, ver. 13.

q The New Covenant described out of Jer. 31. 31. &c.

r I. Calvin in loc.

(Object. If under the New-Testament a man shall not teach his neighbour or brother, but all shall know the Lord; Then farewel Publick Ministry, farewel private instruction; Toere's now no need of either, but only of Gods inward inspiration to teach all, under the Gospel.

Answ. The weaknesse of this Objection (commonly made from this and the like Scriptures, ignorantly perverted by them that separate themselves and are adversaries to the publick Ministry, and all Ordinances of the Gospel.) may appear upon these ensuing considerations, I. Under the New Testament private instruction is not so necessary. For the Gospel commands, 1. That wives learn of their husbands at home, 1 Cor. 14. 35. 2. That Parents bring up their children in the nurture and admonition of the Lord, Eph. 6. 4. 3. That private Christians exhort, instruct and admonish and edifie one another, 1 Thes. 5. 11. 2 Thes. 3. 15. 1 Cor. 3. 18. Therefore private instruction is still necessary, even under the Gospel; and that by vertue of Gospel-Precepts. II. Under the New Testament, The Publick Ministry, and Instruction of the whole visible Church of God by the publick Ministry of men will still be necessary till the coming of Christ. To prove this, I argue, 1. Partly, because Christ hath ordained a Publick Ministry, giving Pastors and Teachers for the perfecting of the Saints, for the work of the Ministry, for the edifying of the Body of Christ. Till we all come into the unity of the faith, and of the knowledge of the Son of God, unto a perfect man, unto the measure of the stature of the fulness of Christ; which Perfection will not be attained till the Judgement-day; therefore till then the whole Church is to be instructed by the publick Ministry, Eph. 4. 11, 12, 13. And as Christ hath commanded his Ministers to teach and dispense his Sacraments, so he hath promised to be with them always to the end of the world; therefore his Ministry shall continue till then, teaching his Church, Mat. 28. 19, 20. Further ordinarily Faith comes by hearing, but how shall men hear without a Preacher? or how shall they preach except they be sent? Rom. 10. 14, 15, 16, 17. Therefore whosoever despiseth the publick Ministry and instruction thereby, treadeth upon a Gospel-ordinance of the Lord Jesus Christ. 2. The whole Church of Christ, and every particular member in this life know but in part. Yea Paul himself knew but in part, and confessed himself imperfect, (though he had been in the third Heavens,) See 1 Cor. 13. 9. 12. Phil. 3. 10, 12. 13. and therefore all need constant instruction, especially by the publick Ministry. And that man who is conceited of his own knowledge, he knoweth nothing yet as he ought to know, 1 Cor. 8. 2. Thus the publick Ministry's instruction is still necessary, both by reason of Christs Institution, and the Churches Imperfection in this world. III. Hence, This New-Covenant-Promise of illumination, that they shall not teach one another, &c. cannot intend to shut out private Instruction, or the publick Ministry, because since that Covenant was promised, Christ hath ordained and appointed both in his New Testament. And this may further appear, 1. Partly, because the true intent of this Promise is to shew, that under the New-Covenant God would give a more plentiful and perfect knowledge of himself and divine mysteries to his Covenant-people, than he did to his People under the Old-Testament, in their Non-age and Minority. Hereupon saith Calvin, they pass by that which is chiefly worthy consideration. The Prophet doth not wholly deny that they shall teach one another, but these are the words, They shall not teach, ——— saying, Know the Lord. As if he had said, such ignorance shall not possess mens minds as heretofore, that they should not know who God is. Joh. Calv. Com. on Heb. 8. 11. 2. Partly, because the Promise of the Principal cause of illumination of the Spirit of God, shuts not out the Instrumental cause thereof, the Publick Ministry, or private instruction, but rather implies and includes them, as the means prescribed to that end by God. For (saith Pareus) as it followeth not, God feeds all, therefore there's no need of bread or husbandry; for by these means God feeds: so it follows not, God teacheth all, therefore there's no need of the Word, for by the Word heard and preached, he teacheth all. D. Pareus Com. on Heb. 8. 11.

t Christs Tabernacle and Ministry therein, beyond the Levitical.

6. Christs t Tabernacle and his Ministry therein discharged under the New Covenant, or Testament, far excels the Levitical Tabernacle; and the Ministry therein under the first Covenant, or Old Testament: Christ by his own blood and entring into Heaven it self, having obtained eternal redemption for his Elect, and fulfilled what was prefigured in those Types, and so abrogated those Levitical shadows. For clearing this, I. The Levitical Tabernacle, and ministration therein, with the infirmity thereof, under the first Covenant are described, Ch. IX. v. 1. &c. 1. The Levitical Tabernacle is described by the two chief parts thereof (the Court of the people; as not belonging to the Priests, being omited) viz. (1) The Sanctuary with its sacred Utensils; The Candl stick. The Table, and Shew-bread, v. 2 (2) The Holiest of all after the second veyl, with its holy furniture; The Golden Altar of Incense, (rather than the u Golden censer.) The Ark of the Covenant containing u Jo. Cal. Com. in loc. D. Pareus in loc.

Chap. 9.

in it the golden pot that had Manna, Aarons Rod that budded, and the Tables of the Covenant. Over the Ark the Cherubims of Glory shadowing the mercy-seat, v. 3, 4, 5. 2. The Levitical Ministration in this Tabernacle is described also; Partly, what it was in the Sanctuary, the first Tabernacle, The Priests always accomplishing the service thereof, v. 6. Partly, what it was in the Holiest of all, the second Tabernacle, The High-Priest alone once every year, not without blood, for himself, and the errors of the people, v. 7. 3. The infirmity or Weakness of this Levitical ministration is hence inferred, and that in divers respects; (1) In that thereby the way was not made manifest, the holiest of all was not manifested, because the High-Priest entred but into the holy of holies only once a year, v. 8. (2) In that the Tabernacle was but typical, a figure for the time then present. (3) In that the Tabernacle-gifts and Sacrifices were but carnal and external, perfecting none as pertaining to the Conscience. (4) In that they were but Temporary, till the Gospel-time of Reformation, ver. 9, 10. II. Christs Priesthood and Ministry is preferred far before the Levitical in many respects. As, 1. Christ is an High-Priest of good things to come, and not of shadows. 2. Christ exercised his Priesthood in a greater and more perfect Tabernacle, not made by men but by God, viz. His own body, v. 11. 3. Christ offered not blood of Goats and Calves, but his own blood. 4. Christ entred into Heaven it self, not into an earthly Sanctuary. 5. Christ entred into this Holy-place once for all, not often. 6. Christ obtained not temporal, but eternal redemption for us by his blood, v. 12. That Christ obtained eternal redemption by his blood, is proved, By the Efficacy of Levitical Sacrifices purifying Ceremonial uncleannesses, ver. 13. Whence, from the lesser to the greater, it follows; That Christs true Sacrifice of himself by death, purgeth our consciences from all spiritual uncleannesse of sin, v. 14. Why it was needful that Christ should obtain redemption for us by his Death. He proves; (1) Because it was necessary that by dying for purging the sins of the first Testament, Christ should confirm the New Testament, whereof he is Mediatour, v. 15, 16, 17. 2. Because, as by the Levitical blood all typical things in the Law were Ceremonially purged, so it was necessary, That the things typified, the heavenly things themselves, should be purified with better Sacrifices, even the blood of Christ himself, v. 18. to 24. Better Sacrifices they must be. Partly, because the Sanctuary into which Christ entred, was better, viz. Heaven it self, therefore the Sacrifices brought into it must be proportionable. Partly because the end of his entring was better, viz. not to come thither again yearly, but constantly to appear in Gods presence for us, as our Advocate, v. 24. Nor yet to offer himself often, as the High-Priest entred the Holy-place yearly with the blood of others; for then Christ should have suffered often since the beginning of the world, which were absurd to grant; both because its repugnant to the Story of Christs death, who hath once purged sin by sacrificing himself, v. 25, 26. And also because its contrary to the common law of nature, touching mens once Dying, and after being brought to Judgement: suitable whereunto Christ was but once offered to bear the sin of many, till he appear again without sin at the judgment day for our Salvation, ver. 27, 28.

7. Finally, Christs x one sacrifice of himself, once, offered is far more Efficacious, than the many Levitical Sacrifices often repeated year by year. This he evidenceth, two ways, I. By demonstrating the insufficiency of the Levitical Sacrifices offered year by year, to make the commers thereunto perfect, which he doth by divers Reasons, 1. Because the Law had but a shadow of good things to come, not the very image of the things, Chap. X. v. 1. 2. Because, had they purged and Perfected the worshippers, they would have ceased to be offered, as needlesse any more; but they did not cease, ver. 2, 3. 3. Because in the reiteration of these x Christ's One sacrifice of himself once offered. sufficati ver. Chap. x.

these Sacrifices, there was a yearly re-itered remembrance and acknowledgment of sin, v. 3, 4. Because it is impossible that such weak Sacrifices as the blood of Bulls and Goats, should purge away sins in the sight of God. v. 4, 5. Because as David testifieth God rejected those Levitical Sacrifices and Offerings, therefore they were insufficient and ineffectual, v. 5, 6. II. By proving the surpassing excellency and effectualnesse of Christs once offering up of himself for compleat perfecting of them that will believe in him. This he cleares by divers Arguments, 1. From Davids testimony in Psal. 40. Evacuating all Levitical Sacrifices, and establishing Christs true Sacrifice. This Testimony is Propounded and Expounded. [1] Propounded; Here Christ as Gods Priest designed, is brought in, speaking: Christ speaks, Partly of Gods rejection of all Levitical Sacrifices, Partly of Gods calling and fitting him for offering a better Sacrifice, but a body hast thou fitted me, ver. 5, 6. Partly of his own readiness to obey Gods call, and do his will, according as Scripture had promised of him, v. 7. [2] Expounded and accommodated to the present case. Here he declares, Partly, the taking away of the Levitical Sacrifices of the Law, by Christs coming to do the will of God, ver. 8, 9. Partly, How Christ fulfills the will of God to our sanctification, viz. by offering up his own body once for all, v. 10. 2. From Christs sitting down (after he had once for ever offered himself for sin,) at Gods right hand, till his foes became his footstool, i. e. till the judgment day; whence he concludes, though the daily repeated Sacrifices of the Levitical Priests could never take away sin, yet Christ hath by this one Offering perfected for ever them that are sanctified. Otherwise if sin had been upon him by imputation, and not been fully purged, he could have had no place in heaven much lesse at Gods right hand. So that here [1] This Argument is illustrated, v. 11. [2] The Argument it self is propounded, v. 12. [3] The conclusion inferred, v. 13. 3. From the Testimony of the Holy Ghost by Jeremiah in the Promise of the New Covenant, whereof Christ is Mediatour, v. 15. &c. Here [1] The Testimony it self is recited, especially for that clause, And their sins and iniquities will I remember no more, ver. 16, 17. [2] The inference hence is made, Now where remission of these is, there is no more offering for sin; so that this one offering of Christ, the Mediator of this New Covenant, is for ever effectual and sufficient, v. 18.

Hitherto the Apostle hath Doctrinally informed in the Hebrews. That the Gospel Ministry under the New Testament by Jesus Christ, God-man, our great Prophet and High-Priest, farre excelleth the Levitical Ministry under the Old Testament.

He PRACTICALLY EXHORTS the believing Hebrews (as it were by way of Application of all that hath been said touching Christ, but especially touching his Priesthood) To divers Christian duties inferred hereupon. Principally, 1. To sincere and constant Faith in Christ. 2. To a Christian conversation, correspondent to this Gospel Doctrine of Christ.

I. To sincere and constant faith in Christ. That seeing he is such an High-Priest, they accept him by Faith, and constantly persevere therein. This Exhortation is 1 Propounded. 2. Urged.

I. He Propounds this Exhortation in three suitable branches mutually depending upon each other, and pressed briefly with some particular Arguments. viz. I. To draw near, y viz. to Jesus Christ. Here he shewes them both How, and Why, they should draw neer. 1. How to draw near, viz. (1) With a true heart. (2) In full-assurance of Faith, (3) Having their hearts sprinkled from an evil conscience, viz. by Justification and remission of sinnes through the sprinkling of Christs blood. (4) Their bodies washed with pure water, viz. Sanctified by the Spirit of Christ 2. Why they should thus Draw nigh to God, (1) Because, they have boldnesse to enter into the holyest, viz. Heaven; not by the blood of beasts, but by the blood of Jesus; and that not through the old way the vail, but through a New and living way, viz. Christs flesh. (3) Because they have an High-Priest over the house of God, ver. 12, 22. II. To hold fast the profession of their Hope without wavering. This is urged from the fidelity of God in his Promises, v. 23. III. To maintain Christian communion (as an help to their stedfastnesse and perseverance in faith,) And this Privately and Publickly. 1. Privately in considering one another, to provoke to love and good works, v. 24. 2. Publickly, in frequenting and not forsaking their Assembling together, (viz. as some think, with the convert Gentiles, whom the Jewes were prone to despise.) This is pressed, (1) From the evil practice of some, forsaking publick Assemblies. (2) From the hastening of the day of Judgement, v. 24, 25.

II. He urgeth this exhortation to stedfastnesse in the faith of Christ, &c. by divers Arguments, viz.

1. From the peril of Apostacy from the Christian Faith, viz. Eternal destruction. Here I. The sin is described, A sinning wilfully after receiving the knowledge of the Truth. The Apostle here intends the a Sin against the Holy Ghost. II. The judgement against this sin is threatned. 1. Privitively, there remaineth no more sacrifice for sin, v. 26. 2. Positively, most dreadful destruction, ver. 27. II. This threatning is confirmed, 1. By the punishment inflicted upon Contemners of Moses law, ver. 28. whence he argues, as from the less to the greater, that much sorer punishment is due to the Contemners of Christ. Whose sin is aggravated in that they [1] Tread under foot the Son of God, and count the blood of the Covenant an unholy thing. [2] Do despite to the Spirit of Grace, ver. 29. 2. By testimonies of Scripture asserting Gods vengeance upon the wicked, amplified, Partly, from the joint witnesse of conscience, knowing this to be Gods nature, ver. 30. Partly from the dreadfulnesse of their condition, that fall into Gods sin-revenging hands, ver. 31.

2. From their former zealous beginnings, enduring (after their conversion) a great fight of afflictions for the faith of Christ, therefore they should not cast away their confidence, but persevere, v. 32. &c. They endured afflictions 1. Partly, whilest they were made a gazing-stock by their sufferings. 2. Partly, whilest they became companions of them that were so used. (1) By compassionating the Apostle in his bonds. (2) By taking the spoyling of their goods joyfully; moved thereunto from their assurance of their better and more enduring Substance in heaven, v. 33, 34. Whence he inferrs, cast not away therefore your confidence, v. 35.

3. From the great reward of eternal salvation promised to them that persevere in faith to the end. Here I. The great recompense to them that persevere in faith is propounded, v. 35. I. Their perseverance in respect of that reward, is pressed, 1. From the necessity of patience to waite and wrestle, till the promised happinesse be received, ver. 36. 2. From the certainty of Christs coming after a little while to reward them, ver. 37. 3. From the command of living by faith till then. 4. From Gods abhorring of Apostates, v. 38. Of which number the Apostle hopes the Hebrews are not, v. 39.

4. From the Singular excellency of Faith, and living thereby, they are exhorted to persevere therein. To this end here. 1. Faith is described. 2. This Description is confirmed. 3. This confirmation is illustrated. 4. This illustration is concluded.

(1) Faith is described more generally, as it respects all Gods promises (wherein that of Christ is included) and all Divine revelations past, present, and future. And thus its described, 1. As realizing all things hoped for, and making them actually subsist to the believer. Now Faith is the substance of things hoped for. 2. As clearly and convincingly evidencing invisibles, making them as visible to the believers, And the evidence of things not seen. Ch. XI. v. 1.

(2) This description of Faith is confirmed more Generally by two instances, shewing that this is the nature of Faith. 1. Of the Fathers of the Old Testament; that that by Faith he obtained a good report, ver. 2. 2. Of all (as when as these) understanding the worlds creation out of nothing by Gods word, v. 3.

(3) This Confirmation is more particularly Wrought and by an Induction of particular instances of the Fathers of the Old Testament from the beginning of the world, who were so eminent in the approval of God, and called Saints, but by true faith, which purified their hearts and their hearts should follow, if they would like Saints approved. These faithful Fathers of the Old Testament were 1.

I. Before the flood, As 1. Abel, who by Faith, (1) Offered a more excellent sacrifice than Cain, (2) Obtained Gods testimony, that he was righteous. (3) Speaketh being dead, which is miraculous. He By his Blood speaks to God for vengeance: By his Sacrifice and Martyrdome speaks to us for imitation ver. 4. 2. Enoch, who by Faith (1) Was translated alive from Earth to Heaven. (2) Had testimony before his translation, that he pleased God, which without faith none can possibly do. This is proved from the necessity of Faith in him that comes to God, He must believe, Partly That God is: Partly That God is a rewarder of them that diligently seek him, ver. 5, 6. 3. Noah, who by Faith, (1) Was moved with fear, upon Gods warning him of things not seen. (2) Prepared an Ark, To his families Salvation, but the worlds Condemnation, (3) Became heir of the Righteousnesse which is by Faith, v. 7.

II. After the Flood till Moses, and Israels departure out of Egypt. As 1. Abraham, who by Faith (1) Readily obeyed God, calling him from Ur, his own Country, and leading him he knew not whither, v. 8. (2) Patiently sojourned as a stranger in the Land of Promise, as did Isaac and Jacob also, ver. 9. The ground whereof is given, Because he looked higher than Canaan, even to Heaven it self, v. 10. 2. Sarah, who by Faith (1) Conceived and (2) Brought forth a son; Both beyond the ordinary course of Nature, ver. 11. This her bringing forth of a Seed Amplified, Partly from the effect hereof, viz. Abrahams numerous seed according to the Promise, v. 12. Partly from the event hereof, viz. the Faith of Abrahams posterity (as well as of the Fathers fore-cited) whose Faith appeared in their Professed living as Strangers on earth, and expecting an heavenly country, ver. 13. to 17. Abraham again; who by Faith. (1) Offered up Isaac, which is Amplified, Partly by the Impediments that might have hindred, viz. Isaac being his only begotten Son by Sarah. And the Promise in Isaac, ver. 17, 18. Partly by the Acting of his faith upon Gods Omnipotency to raise Isaac from the dead, which encouraged the offering of him (2) Received Isaac from death in a figure, ver. 19. 3. Isaac who by faith blessed Jacob and Esau concerning things to come, ver. 20. 4. Jacob, who by Faith (1) Blessed Josephs sons. (2) Joyfully worshipped God, having sworn Joseph to bury him in Canaan, ver. 21. 5. Joseph, who at his Death by Faith, (1) Mentioned Israels future Departure out of Egypt. (2) Commanded that his bones should be buried in Canaan, v. 22.

III. From Moses till the possession of the Promised Land; As, 1. Moses and his Parents, His Parents by Faith hid him three moneths after he was born contrary to Pharaohs command, ver. 23. Moses himself by faith. (1) Refused to be called the sonne of Pharaohs daughter, preferring the afflicted condition of Gods People before the pleasures of sin for a season, and all Egypts treasures, having an eye to the future reward. ver. 24. to 27. (2) Forsook Egypt not fearing the Kings wrath, eyeing the Invisible God, ver. 27. (3) Kept the Passeover and Sprinkling of blood, that when Egypts first-borne were destroyed, Israels might be preserved, ver. 28. 2. All Israel who by faith, (1) Passed through the Red-sea safely, Amplified by the contrary event to the Egyptians, ver. 29. (2) Compassed Jericho seven times till the walls thereof fell down, ver. 30. 3. Rahab, A Gentile, who by faith, [1] Received the Spies in peace; [2] Thereupon perished not with the unbelievers, v. 31.

IV. Finally, From the Possession of the promised Land till the time of the Maccabees, under Judges, Kings and Prophets, the faith of many is commended. Here, lest he should be endless in particular instances, he chiefly heaps together. 1. The names of some eminent further ones, among Judges, Kings and Prophets, for the rest, ver. 32. 2. The emineces ad out their faith, and of the faith of others in their times, viz. (1) Subdued Kingdomes, As Joshuah e subdued thirty one Canaanitish Kings, and after him the Judges subdued divers others, &c. The d Canaanites, e Midianites, f Philistines, Ammonites, h Moabites and Amalekites. (2) Wrought Righteousnesse, as i Samuel, and k David. (3) Obtained Promises, viz. The performance of Promises, not of that great Promise of Christ, but of some more special and particular promises, as of the land of Canaan to Israel, of the Kingdome to David, &c. (4) Stopped the mouths of Lyons, as did l Samson, m David, n Daniel, ver. 33. (5) Quenched the violence of fire, as o Daniels three companions, (6) Escaped the edge of the sword, as p David escaped the sword of Saul, q Elijah of Ahab r Elisha of the Syrians. (7) Out of weaknesse were made strong as s King Hezekiah. (8) Waxed valiant in fight, As many Judges and Kings, but especially t Samson, and David. (9) Turned to flight the Armies of the Aliens, As u Gideon the Midianites, with three hundred men with lamps and pitchers, x Jonathan and his Armour-bearer the Philistines, ver. 34. (10) Women received their dead, raised to life again, as the y widow of Zarephath that entertained Elijah, and the z Shunamite that lodged Elisha. (11) Others were tortured, not accepting deliverance; The cause whereof was, Their hope of a better Resurrection. As a divers by Antiochus in the dayes of the Maccabees, ver. 35. (12) Finally, Others had Tryal of many cruel persecutions, enumerated, ver. 36. to 39. Thus of the illustration of faith in this induction of many particulars.

(4) This illustration he concludes with I. A Commendation of all the persons instanced in for their faith; thereby they obtained a good report. 2. An Amplification of their praise they were thus faithful, yet received not the Promise, viz. the accomplishment of their promise, in the exhibition of the Messiah. This he confirmes by two reasons, (1) Because God hath reserved the exhibition of the Messiah, till the times of the New Testament, having provided some better things for us. (2) Because they without us should not be made perfect, v. 39, 40. III. An exhortation to the Hebrews, from the consideration of this so great a cloud of witnesses; whom they are to follow, to run the race of Faith with Patience; and to this end, to remove all impediments, viz. 1. Every weight of this present world 2. The easily-encompassing sin. Ch. XII. ver. 1. &c. And so he passeth from constancy in faith, to exhort unto Constancy and Patience in bearing afflictions and other duties of a Christian Conversation.

II. To a Christian Conversation correspondent to this Gospel Doctrine of Christ. Here he exhorts to sundry Christian duties; As

I. To constant-Patience in bearing of the Crosse in our Christian Race, Ch. 12. v. 1. This is Urged, I. From the former cloud of witnesses, v. 1. II. From Christs example in suffering. Here, 1. Christ is commended as the Author and finisher of their Faith, therefore to be followed as the chief Captain of believers. 2. Christs exemplary suffering is propounded and described, [1] By the Motive wherewith he encouraged himself to suffer, The joy set before him. [2] By the Manner of his suffering, Endured the Crosse, despising the shame. [3] By the happy event of his suffering, his enthronment at Gods right hand, v. 2. 3. Christs suffering is Amplified [1] Partly by the Dignity of his person, Consider him that endured, &c. [2] Partly by the indignity and extremity of his sufferings, such contradiction of sinners, ——And to blood: whereas the Hebrews had not yet resisted to blood, &c, v. 3, 4. tion and relation to God, as Sons to a Father under whose rebukes and chastisements consequently they should not faint, 1. Because Scripture so prescribes, ver. 5. 2. Because the Lord chastiseth all his sons in love, ver. 6. 3. Because, right filial enduring of chastisements shewes they are dealt withal as Sons and not as Bastards, v. 6, 7, 8. 4. Because they submit to their Natural Fathers chastisements, how much more should they submit to Gods? (1.) They being Fathers of flesh; God Father of Spirits. (2.) They correcting for their own pleasure, or passion; God for our profit, viz. Life and Holiness, v. 9, 10. IV. From the Nature of Affliction. 1. Though for present not joyous, but grievous, yet 2. For future advantagious, yeilding the peaceable fruit of righteousness, v. 11. From all these Arguments he drawes an encouraging Conclusion, Exhorting them 1. To courage and alacrity notwithstanding the Crosse, v. 12. 2. To uprightness, or evenness of course, for avoiding of Apostacy. 3. To healing of their former lameness and defectiveness, v. 13.

II. To peaceableness with all men, v. 14.

f Motives to Holiness.

III. To (f) Holiness towards God, which is pressed 1. From the necessity of it, without which no man shall see the Lord, v 14. II. From the evil of the opposite corruptions, which they ought diligently to avoid themselves, and endeavour that others may do so also, viz. 1. Apostacy, or failing of the grace of God. 2. Bitter root of Heresie or Scandal breaking out. (1.) To their trouble. (2.) To the Defilement of many, ver. 15. 3. Fornication. 4. Profaneness; exemplified by the instance of prophane Esau, whose profaneness is described (1.) By one notorious Act thereof, viz. Contemning Christ, in selling his Birthright, a privilege leading to Christ, v. 16. (2.) By his punishment suitable, losse of the blessing, not being able with his Tears to move Isaac to repent about the blessing, ver. 17. III. From their priviledged condition under the New Testament farr beyond that of Saints and Believers of old under the Old Testament, therefore they should walk worthy of that priviledge in all suitable Holiness and Spiritualness. Here, 1. He sets forth their Priviledge-State Negatively and Affirmatively, Negatively, they are not now under the Old Testaments Bondage, and Servile Dispensation, in Communion with, (1.) Mount Sinai, an earthly touchable Mount and burning with fire, (2.) A terrible promulgation of the Law or Covenant. (3.) An astonished people, and (4.) A Trembling Moses, ver. 18. to 22. Affirmatively, but they now are under the New Testament's more free and spiritual Administration, having communion with (1.) Spiritual Mount Sion, and City of the living God, the heavenly Jerusalem. (2.) Myriads of Angels. (3.) The General Assembly and Church of the First-born, which are enrolled in heaven. (4.) God the Judge of all. (5.) Spirits of just men made perfect in glory. (6.) Jesus the Mediatour of the New Testament. (7.) Finally with the blood of sprinkling, speaking better things then the blood of Abel, viz. not Accusations and cryes for vengeance: but Asolution, Pardon, Justification, &c. from our sins, ver. 22. 23. IV. From the danger of despising or rejecting Christs voice in the Gospel, which danger is 1. Proved, from their not escaping punishment that rejected Moses voice in the Law: whence he argues, from the lesse to the greater, much more they shall not escape, that reject Christs voice. Moses speaking but on Earth: Christ speaking from Heaven, ver. 25. 2. Amplified, by the greater Majesty and efficacy of Christs voice under the New Testament then under the Old: For, (1.) Then his voice only shook the Earth. (2.) But now (according as was promised by Haggai) he yet once more shakes not only Earth, but Heaven also, v. 26. By which shaking once more, is signifyed, the removing of those things that are shaken, for the establishing of New heavens, and New earth, viz. the unshaken Kingdome of Christ; From the receiving of which Kingdom he incites them To have grace for serving God acceptably with reverence and godly fear; threatning them, that otherwise God will be to them a consuming fire, v. 27, 28, 29.

IV. To constancy in Brotherly-love, whereunto he Exhorts I. Most Generally, Ch. XIII. v. 1. II. More specially, to some particular branches of it; As 1. Hospitality towards Strangers. Urged, because thereby some have unawares entertained Angels, ver. 2. 2. Sympathizing with them that are in bonds and adversity; As if suffering with them, v. 3. Chap. 13.

V. To Marriage-chastity. 1. From the honourableness of marriage to all sorts and degrees 2. From the Purity of Marriage-state. 3. From Gods judgement upon Whoremongers and Adulterers, v. 4.

VI. To Contentment with present enjoymenes; (dehorting also from the contrary vice of covetousness.) Urged 1. From Gods singular Promise, Never to leave nor forsake us, ver. 5. 2. From the All-sufficiency of this promised presence and help of the Lord against all fears and enemies, evidenced in Davids Testimony, ver. 6.

VII. Finally, he exhorts them to the due performance of certain Duties in reference to their Church Governours and Teachers, whether (1.) Already Deceased, or (2.) Yet living.

1. In reference to their Church-Governours and Teachers [1.] Deceased, To remember them and follow their Faith. This urged 1. From the end of their conversation, viz. Either, that they sealed the Faith they preached with their blood (thanks [h] Calvin.) Or, that they persisted sound in the Faith to the Death, v. 7. 2. From the constant sameness of Jesus Christ our Mediator, the chief Object and Foundation of faith; who for the substance of his Manifestation is still the same; Yesterday, under the Old Testament; To day under the new Testament; And for ever, to the worlds end, and to all eternity, v. 8.

2. In reference to their Church-governours and Teachers yet living, 1 Bad, or 2 Good.

[1.] In reference to Bad Teachers, more Generally; That they be not carried about with there divers and strange Doctrines. More Specially, that they mingle not Legal Ceremonies as difference of meats &c. with the Gospel. This is urged, 1. From the profitable effect of the Gospel, whose grace sufficeth to stablish the Heart. II. From the unprofitableness of this Ceremonial difference of Meats, to them that have exercised themselves therein, ver. 9. III. From the mischief of seeking for righteousnesse by observing Levitical Ceremonies; whereby they debarre themselves from partaking of Christ with us. This he Proves and Applyes, 1. He proves this by the Analogy betwixt the Type and Anti-type. (1.) The Levitical Type stood thus: The High-Priest who served the Tabernacle, had no right to eat of the bodies of those beasts, whose blood he brought once a year into the most holy place for sin: and this, because by the i Law their bodies were to be burnt without the Camp. (2.) The Anti-Type thus; even so they that still serve the Tabernacle, and adhere to Levitical Ceremonies, have no right to eat of Christ, who that he might sanctifie us with his own blood, suffered without the City gate, v. 10, 11, 12. 2. He applyes this, inferring from Christs suffering and sacrificing himself without the gate, these two consectaries, viz. (1.) That we should go forth with Christ without the camp, bearing his reproach. And this, Partly because here we have no continuing City; Partly because we seek one to come, ver. 13, 14. (2.) That we should imitate Christ in offering up to God spiritual sacrifices by Christ, viz. The Sacrifices of continual Thankfulness, v. 15. And of acceptable bountifulness, v. 16.

i Levit. 16.

[2.] In reference to their good Church-governours and Teachers, duties are exhorted to, More generally and more particularly, I. More generally to them all, That they obey them, and submit themselves unto them. Hereunto they are urged, 1. From the utility of their Office, they watch for souls. 2. From the difficulty of their service, As they that must give an account. 3. From the benefit of their obedience to them;

An account with joy. 4. From the sad event of their disobedience, An account with grief, unprofitable for them, ver. 17. II. More particularly to the Apostle himself, that they would pray for him, 1. Because he had a good Conscience to God, in all things willing to live honestly, though he dissuaded them from Levitical Ceremonies, ver. 18. 2. That he might the sooner be restored to them, v. 19.

III. HE CONCLUDES his whole EPISTLE.

1. With a Supplication to God for these Hebrews, In which note I. A Description of God to whom he prayes, 1. By his Attribute of Peace, The God of Peace. 2. By his Act of raising Christ from the dead, Christ being honourifically stiled (1) The Lord Jesus, (2) The great Shepherd of the sheep, redeemed by the blood of the everlasting Covenant, ver 20. II. A Signification of the blessing for which he prayes in their behalf, viz. 1. Gods perfecting them in every good work to do his will. 2. Gods working in them to this end, that which is well-pleasing in his sight through Jesus Christ. III. A Doxology to Christ, v. 21.

2. With an Obtestation beseeching them to suffer the word of exhortation by this short Epistle, verse. 21.

3. With an Intimation, 1. Of Timothies being set at liberty. 2. Of his intent to see them shortly with him, v. 23.

4. With Salutations, v. 24.

5. With an Apostolical Valediction, v. 25.

Thus of the Epistle of the Apostle Paul to the believing Hebrewes.

NOw follows seven other Epistles, some of them Evidently, and the rest of them Probably, written to Believing Hebrews, viz. The Epistle of a James The two b Epistles of Peter; The first Epistle of John seems probably written to all the Believing Hebrews, especially in Asia Minor. For 1. The Greek Title calls it a Catholique, or General Epistle, as c Zanchy and Beza think, Because generally written to all the Jews, (Though some think it was written to the d Parthians, among whom were many of the Jews of the old Captivity and dispersion of ten Tribes, whence Parthians, are thought to be nam'd in the first place in that enumeration of the dispersed Jews in the e Acts.) 2. The very matter of the Epistle, being directed against the blasphemous errours broached among the Jews, especially those of Ebion and Cerinthus against the Divinity of Christ, seems to imply that it was principally written to the Jewes. The second Epistle of John, is to an f Elect Lady, probably a believing Hebrew, of great wealth and worth. For he warns both g her and her children, of the Heretics and Seducers that opposed the person of Christ, after the manner of his Epistle. And he intimates his intention of h visiting them personally. Gaius, to whom he wrote his Third Epistle, is not obscurely i intimated there to be a believing Jew, as Piscator notes. Finally, the Epistle of Jude seems written to the dispersed believing Jews. 1. In the Greek Title, it being called Catholick or General. 2. And for the matter of it being of the nature with 2 Pet. (even as an Abstract of part of it,) against the Seducers of those times, as the sameness of words and phrase import.

Of these Epistles Hierome utereth this Elogy, k James, Peter, John, Jude, Apostles, put forth seven Epistles, as Mystical, as Succinct: and both short, and long; short in words, long in senses: so that he is a rare man that is not darkling in the reading of them.

These * seven Epistles are by some called Catholique, by some Canonical.

* D. Pareus in Præm. in Ep. Jacobi. Ep. Jacob. Jac. Laurent. in Tit. Ep. Jacobi.

Catholique or General, not in respect of the universal concernment of the matters contained in them, for such is the matter of Pauls Epistles also: but in respect of the Parties to whom these Epistles are written, viz. Not to any particular Church, as the Epistles to the Romanes, Corinth, &c. Nor to particular persons as the Epistle to Timothy, Titus, Philemon: But Generally to the believing Jewes, dispersed in several Countreys. In this respect divers l Latin, especially m Greek Writers call them Catholique. Though properly the Second and Third Epistle of John cannot be called Catholique, yet being joyned to Johns First Epistle, which is Catholique, by use they come to be so called, though abusively.

Canonical, not that these seven Epistles only or peculiarly among all others are Canonical and Authentique; for, that were to derogate from other Epistles of Paul: but because they contain n Canons or Rules of Christian life. o Beza thinks they were by mistake called Canonical, (perhaps for Catholical,) for 1. Why should not also Pauls Epistles be called Canonical? 2. Greek Writers do not so call them. 3. Latins have (though groundlesly,) doubted of the Authority of the Epistle of James, and second of Peter: therefore its not probable they would call them Canonical.

James.

JAMES.

Sect. I. Name and Penman.

The Catholique Epistle of JAMES the Apostle.] So stiled in the a Greek Copies. Tremellius in his Translation of this Epistle out of the Syriack, prefixes this Title before this Epistle in reference to the rest, viz. b The three Epistles of the three Apostles, before whose eyes our Lord transfigured himself, that is of James and Peter and John. And Beza adds the reason, c For the second of Peter, the second and third of John, and the Epistle of Jude, are not with the Syriack counted Canonical.

Penman hereof was d James, James in Greek and Latine is the same with the Hebrew Jacob, which signifies e A Supplanter.

But what James this was, is not so easily determined. There were three of that name, (as some f learned Authors are of opinion) two of them Apostles, and the third one of the seventy Disciples, viz. 1. James g the son of Zebedee, brother to John, He was with Christ at his h transfiguration. He was called i James the greater, either in respect of his age, or of his stature, or of his calling to the Apostleship. The Syriack Interpreter seems to ascribe this Epistle to this James, as Tremellius renders it. k Three Epistles of three Apostles before whose eyes our Lord did transfigure himself, that is, Of James, Peter and John. But (as Pareus) notes the Kings edition translated by G. Fabritius hath it thus; l In the Name of the Lord Jesus the Messiah, we Seal the three Epistles of James and Peter and John. This speaks not particularly of James the greater. Besides this James was put to death by m Herod Agrippa in the second year of Claudius, but this Epistle seems to be written afterwards to the convert Jews dispersed, after n Claudius had cast both Jews and Christians out of the City of Rome. 2. James the son of Alpheus, an o Apostle also, p Brother of Jude, Called sometimes q James the lesse, either for distinction from the former James, or for distinction from his Uncle James, the brother of Alpheus, as r Piscator (following Junius) thinks; and s the brother of the Lord Either; 1. Because he was the son of Joseph (the supposed father of Christ (by a former wife, as divers both Greek and Latine t Fathers think. Or rather, 2. He is called the Lords brother, (after the Hebrews manner of speaking) because he was Cousin german to him, his mother being that u Mary, which was sister to the blessed Virgin, called in the original Greek, x Mary of Cleophas, viz. either the daughter of Cleophas, or the wife of Cleophas, as our Translators put it in Italick letters: perhaps following y Beza, who thinks that Title, Mary of Cleophas, which is to be interpreted, Mary the wife of Cleophas, rather then Mary the daughter of Cleophas, because its more usual to denominate women from their Husbands. But as z Ludovicus de Dieu observes; Both are usual. For Anna the Propheteſſe is called daughter of Phanuel, her Husbands name not being mentioned, with whom yet she had lived seven years. And the Arabick Version hath it, a the daughter of Cleophas. How that this Mary of Cleophas, was the Mother of this James, is not only the Opinion of b Hierome, c Theodoret, and other Writers both ancient and Modern; but it may be evinced by divers Arguments from the Text, viz. Partly, Because as d John, mentioning the women that stood by Christs Cross, besides Mary Christs Mother, reckons up his Mothers sister Mary of Cleophas, and Mary Magdalene: So e Mark saith, Among the women looking on, were Mary Magdalene, and Mary the Mother of James the lesse, and of Joses, &c. (Matthew also to like purpose. So that Mary of Cleophas, and Mary the Mother of James was one and the same, Partly, because after Christ death other Scriptures testifie, That f Mary Magdalene and Mary the Mother of Joses beheld where he was laid. That h Mary Magdalene, and Mary the Mother of James——had bought spices that they might come and annoint him. That i it was Mary Magdalene and Joanna and Mary the Mother of James,——that reported Christs Resurrection to the Apostles; by which it is evident, that this Mary the Mother of James was Mary of Cleophas, because we read not of any other Mary, besides Christs Mother, and this Mary of Cleophas that accompanied Mary Magdalene at Christs death, at his Sepulchre, &c. relating his Resurrection.

Object. But how can James be the son of Mary, the Wife of Cleophas, when James is elsewhere called the k son of Alpheus? Answ. To this it may be answered, either that this Alpheus had two names, (as the Jews had,) and was called also Cleophas; Thus l Hierome; or that this m Mary had two Husbands, viz. first Alpheus, of whom she had James and Joses: after his death Cleophas, of whom she had Judas and Simon, whence they are all called sons of Mary, but James peculiarly the son of Alpheus, and Simon the son of Cleophas, as n Eusebius hath it out of Hegesippus. This James son of Alpheus, o is by Pareus, Calvin, and others, conceived to be Penman of this Epistle. (1) It being most suitable to an Apostle of unlimited Commission to take care of all the Tribes dispersed. (2) The matter of the Epistle becoming an Apostolical Spirit. Nor (saith Pareus) doth any thing solidly contradict this opinion, who also answers p Objections brought to the contrary. Therefore if the Epistle be Apostolical, it is questionlesse of Divine Authority. 3. As for the Third James called Oblias, The just, of the number of seventy Disciples, q Hierome singularly commends him from the testimony of Hegesippus, That he was holy from his Mothers Womb, drank neither wine nor strong drink, ate no flesh, was never shorn; nor anointed with ointments, nor used Bath. To him alone it was lawful to enter into the Holy of Holyes. He used no Woollen but Linnen Garments, alone entred into the Temple, and with bended knees prayed for the People so long, till his knees were supposed to have contracted the hardness of Camels, &c. thinks he was that James, the brother of the Lord, whom Paul mentions in the Epistle to the Galatians, (which opinion r Calvin dislikes,) That after the Apostles he was ordained Bishop of Jerusalem; That Josephus himself counts him to be of such holiness and repute, that for his sake only, by the counsel of Ananus the Priest, the City Jerusalem was supposed to be destroyed. And though he wrote this Epistle, as an Epistle ascribed to Matthias, but in Latin he is called [That never-blessed apostle surnamed Just, whom they reported to be unto Jesus Christ in just, life and manner of Conversation, as if he were a twin-brother of the same womb, whom they say if we list, they see Jesus himself according to all the lineaments of his body. But (to omit that same question, whether there were such a James or no) it is much unlikely that he should be Penman of this General Epistle, that was confined himself to a particular charge.

Apostles

Sect. II. Occasion and Scope.

James taking notice, that [t] twelve Tribes dispersed, were under great temptations and trials of afflictions, and also that divers gross corruptions had prevailed over many of them, and that too many among them contented themselves with a fruitless formal Profession of faith, without the concurrent practise of holiness; upon this Occasion he writes this Epistle to them. His intent and Scope therein, being principally to exhort them. 1. To have a right judgement of Temptations, whether outward trials of the Cross, that they are [a] all matters of joy, therefore to be born comfortably and patiently; Or inward solicitations to sin, [x] that God is not at all the Author of them, but man's own original concupiscence. 2. To be [y] ready to hear, receive and do the word of God. 3. To avoid having [z] respect of Persons, for carnal and worldly differences of their state and condition. 4. To joyn [a] good works and an holy life to their faith, without which faith is not living, but as a dead carcase without a soul. [b] 5. To shun [c] Censoriousness of one another, and all other [c] abuses of the Tongue. 6. To reform [d] their corrupt worldly lusts, by [e] submitting to God, resisting the Devil, true repentance and brotherly love. [f] 7. To depend upon [f] Divine Providence for their lives and Actions. [g] 8. To use [g] Riches aright. [h] 9. To forbear all [h] rash swearing whatsoever, by any kind of thing. [i] 10. To improve [i] their own and others Prayers against all inward and outward afflictions. [k] 11. And diligently to reduce an [k] erring brother from his sinful way.

Sect. III. Principal Parts.

In this General Epistle of James, consider 1. The Preface. 2. The Subject-Matter of the Epistle.

I. THE PREFACE contains, I. The Inscription, denoting 1. The Person writing, viz. James a servant of God, and of the Lord Jesus Christ. 2. The Parties written to, viz. The twelve Tribes which are scattered abroad. II. The Salutation, Greeting, Ch. I. v. 1.

Chap. I. II. THE SUBJECT-MATTER of the Epistle, is chiefly Hortatory (here and there some few Doctrina's being inserted.) James Exhorts the twelve Tribes dispersed,

I. To a right apprehension and judgement of temptations, 1 Outward. 2. Inward.

D. Pareus in loc.

I. Outward Temptations or Trials of the Cross, he Exhorts them to Account all matter only of rejoycing, Count it all joy, &c. ver. 2. This he urgeth by divers Arguments, viz. I. Because These afflictions are Tryals of Faith, ver. 3. II. Because, These Tryals work Patience, ver. 3. Which Patience should have its perfect work in them and upon them, 1. In the [l] Integrity and Sincerity of it, That ye may be perfect and entire. 2. In the constancy of it to the end, wanting nothing; (Gr. Deficient in none, i.e. in no Temptation Patience failing.) ver. 4. III. Because, Thus to account of Temptations is a point of Divine Wisdom; which wisdom they that lack are directed to seek it by Prayer. Here he shews, 1. Of whom they are to ask, viz. of God; This is urged, (1) From the Nature of God, He gives liberally to all that ask, it is upbraids not for often asking, yea, the oftner we come to him, the better welcome. (2) From the Promise of granting it, And it shall be given him, ver. 5. 2. How they are to ask, viz. in Faith, nothing wavering, because a wavering man (1) Is uncomposed, and unquiet in himself, like a wave of the sea, tossed of the wind, ver. 6. (2) Obtains nothing in Prayer of the Lord, ver. 7. (3) Is double-minded, and unstable in all his ways, verse 8. IV. Because, the brother of low degree in temporals, yet is exalted in spirituals, and therefore should rejoyce, ver. 9. This is illustrated by an oppositе exhortation to the Rich and great ones of the world, that they rejoyce not in their wealth or outward prosperity, but rather in their low and humbled frame of Spirit, denying these things, being prepared for the Cross. This is urged from the vanishing faitableness of wealth and all worldly glory, like the flower of Grass withering at the Suns burning heat, ver. 10, 11. V. Because, right enduring of Temptation renders a man blessed, in that after his Cross he shall receive the Crown of life promised, ver. 12.

II. Inward Temptations, or Sollicitations unto sin, he Exhorts them not to ascribe them to God. And this he presseth, 1. From the Nature of God altogether incapable hereof; 1. Passively, he cannot be tempted with evil. 2. Actively, he tempteth no man to sin, ver. 13. II. From the true inward immediate efficient cause of these Temptations, viz. A mans own lust, or original Concupiscence; The [m] gradual Motives of which concupiscence unto sin, are 1. The Sollicitation of concupiscence (1) Drawing a man away from God. (2) Enticing him unto Evil, ver. 14. 2. The Conception of lust, by the consent of the Will. 3. The Birth, or bringing forth of sin conceived, viz. bringing sin into Act. 4. The finishing of sin by the [n] habitual course in it. Sin when it is finished. 5. The Production of Death, as the due wages of all, ver. 15. III. From the inconsistency of this soliciting unto sin, with God and his wayes, (and they erre that think otherwise of him, ver. 16.) For, 1. Generally, He is the Author of every good and perfect gift, yea he is immutably the Authour of good, and therefore cannot be the cause of evil, ver. 17. 2. Particularly and Specially, He is the Authour of that singular Benefit of our Regeneration, which Regeneration is described by (1) The Impulsive cause, of his own will begat he us. (2) The Instrumental cause, with the Word of Truth. [3] The final cause, That we should be a kinde of first fruits of his creatures. Hence he inferreth, That they should so hear and do this word as becomes those persons that are regenerated by it, ver. 19, &c. II. To a right use of the Word, as becomes them that are regenerated by it, ver. 19, &c. Here he exhorts them. I. To a ready Disposition and forwardness unto Hearing, let every man be swift to hear. And in order thereunto. 1. To bestow to speak against what we hear. 2. To be slow to wrath, viz. in respect of the convictions, corrections, or reproofs, &c. of the word heard, because such wrath works not what is just in Gods sight, ver. 19, 20. II. To a due receiving or Entertaining of the Word heard. Here 1. He Directs them how to receive the word, viz. [1] Penitently, laying apart all filthiness, and superfluity of naughtiness, opposite to the Word. [2] Meekly. [3] Believingly, having the Word engraffed, viz. by Faith in our hearts. 2. He urges them hereunto, from the Excellency of the Word, able to save their soules, ver. 21. III. To a real practice of the Word thus heard, and received. Because. 1. Meer Hearers, and not doers, deceive their own selves, ver. 22. Which is Elegantly illustrated

m How sin is compleated by degrees.

n To. Coly. Com. in loc

ted by a similitude of a man, That beholding his face in a Glass, presently forgets what manner of man he was: so he that hears only speculatively, not practically, ver. 23, 24. 2. True doers of the Word contrariwise, [1] More o inwardly and accurately look into the intrinsecal nature of the Word; called the perfect Law of Liberty, because by regenerating us, it brings us into the perfect liberty of the sons of God. [2] Continue constantly in that Divine knowledge by the Word, and are not like Hypocrites for a flash. [3] Become blessed in their Deed, ver. 25. This right doing of the Word is Described, Negatively. It is not in greatest shews of Religion, accompanied with an unbridled tongue, rendring all vain, ver. 26. Affirmatively, pure and undefiled Religion indeed externally declares it self, Partly. in Charity to the afflicted fatherless and widows. Partly, in self-preservation from the spots of the world, ver. 27.

ἐξ παρακύψας δε τὸν νόμον, &c.] παρὰ ἐγκύπτειν est inclinato corpore vel capite, quasi conniventibus oculis rem intueri. Paræus in Com. in loc Chap. 2.

III. To avoid respect of Persons. for their outward different conditions. This Exhortation is I. Propounded, Ch. II. ver. 1. II Explained and Exemplified in a supposed case of a rich man Honoured, and a poor man Neglected in their Assemblies, ver. 2, 3. III. Urged upon divers grounds viz. because. 1. This to respect persons, argues them of partiality, and perverse judging, ver. 4. 2. Poor Saints are not to be despised for their poverty, being [1] Elected. [2] Rich in Faith, [3] Heirs of the Kingdom promised, ver. 5, 6. 3. They have no such cause to honour and prefer Rich men; In that [1] They oppress them. [2] They draw them before the Judgment-seats. [3] They blaspheme Christs Name, whereby they are called, ver. 6, 7. 4. Hereby they are convinced not to be fulfillers but transgressors of the Law of brotherly love, ver. 8, 9. Yea, though in all other points they keep the Law, yet failing in this one point, they break the whole Law, in as much as they offend against the Authority of one and the same Law-giver, v. 10, 11. IV. Concluded. He concludes this Exhortation, cautioning them so to speak and do without respect of Persons, as those that are to be judged by the Law of liberty, the Gospel. For 1. Unmerciful men to their brethren, shall have judgement without mercy. 2. Merciful men on the contrary shall glory against fear of judgement, and Mercy rejoyceth or gloryeth against judgement, ver. 13.

IV. To joyn unto Faith, its proper Fruits, good works; without which, Faith is but false and dead, and not that Faith that saveth, or is profitable to salvation, v. 14, &c. This he proveth, I. By Parity of Reason, thus; As professions of love, without Performances, are wholly unprofitable: so is Faith without works unprofitable and dead, v. 14. to 18 II. By the Impossibility of Demonstrating and Evidencing truth of Faith without works, laid down Dialogue-wise, v. 18. III. By the example of the Devils, who have Faith without works, (for they believe that there is one God, and thereupon tremble) yet for all this shall not be saved: nor shall men that have only Faith like that of Devils, v. 19. IV. By the examples of persons justified of old, viz. by a dead, workless, fruitless faith, but by a faith bringing forth good works (which works justified their Faith before men, as their faith justified their persons before God.) Here two examples are produced, viz. 1. Of Abraham by Faith offering up Isaac, v. 20. to 25. 2. Of Rahab, by faith receiving the Spies, and sending them away in peace, v. 25. From all this he concludes, As the body without the spirit, so Faith without works is dead, v. 26.

V. To avoid the sinful abuse of the Tongue and the occasions thereof. Here 1. The abuse of the Tongue is deborted. 2. Remedies against the abuse of the Tongue are Prescribed.

I. The Abuse of the Tongue, is Dehorted, 1. More Particularly. 2. More Generally.

1. More Particularly, That they do not rashly, masterly and superciliously censure one another, My brethren be not many Masters. This he urgeth 1. From the peril of such Censures; They bring greater judgement, heavier Censures from God and man, Ch. III. v. 1. 2. From all mens common frailty and infirmity, In many things we offend all, therefore all should rather watch over themselves, than Censure others, v. 2. Chap. 3.

2. More Generally the abuse of the Tongue is Dehorted, and contrariwise the right use is exhorted to, upon divers considerations. 1. The loathsome use of the Tongue is an endless point of perfection. This he proveth, because they that can bridle the Tongue, can bridle the whole body, ver. 2. For clearing of this, He propounds two similitudes, and applies them. 1. He propounds two pregnant Similitudes, viz. [1] Of a little bit in an Horses mouth, whereby we turn what way we list the horses whole body, ver. 3. [2] Of a very small Helme, whereby the Governour turns about the greatest ship, though driven of fierce winds, whithersoever he listeth, ver. 4. 2. He applies these similitudes to the present case of the Tongue, Even so the Tongue, though but a little member, boasteth great things, viz. p Effecteth great things; therefore he that can Rule his little Tongue can Rule the whole body, ver. 5. II. The sinful abuse of the Tongue is most grievous and intolerable. This is Evidenced, 1. By the mischievousness of an evil Tongue, set on fire of Hell: (1) It is as a fire; now a little fire kindleth a great Wood. (2) It is a world of iniquity. (3) It hath such influence among the Members, that it defileth the whole body. (4) And it sets on fire the course of nature, &c. q The wheel of Generation. i. e. The whole course and revolution of our life from morning to evening, from year to year, from youth to Manhood, from Manhood to old age, &c. ver. 5, 6. 2. By the untameableness of an evil Tongue, which untameableness is 1 Aggravated, as far worse than that of all kinds of Beasts, Birds, Serpents and things in the Sea; all which have been tamed by man, but the tongue can no man tame, ver. 7, 8. 2 Evidenced, Partly because the tongue is an unruly evil. Partly because it is full of deadly poison, ver. 8. 3. By the monstrousness of an evil tongue; the same tongue blessing God, and cursing men which are made after Gods similitude, which ought not to be, ver. 9, 10. That herein the tongue is monstrous and unnatural, he shewes in three similitudes, viz. (1) Of a Fountain that at the same place sends not forth sweet and bitter, salt and fresh water. (2) Of a Fig-tree, that bears not both Figs and Olive-berries, (3) Of a Vine, that bears not both Grapes and Figs, verse 11, 12.

p So also Jo. Calv. D. Paræus. Jo. Piscator Jo. Diodate expound this place.

q ἡ τροχὸς τῆς γενέσεως Vid. Joan. Cal. Com. in loc.

II. The Remedies against both the former abuses of the Tongue are Prescribed and Urged. 1. Prescribed, viz. 1. Meekness of wisdome expressed in their whole Conversation: an opinionative wisdome being one great cause of the former distempers of the Tongue, ver. 13. 2. Avoiding of bitter envying, and contentiousnesse in their hearts, whereby the tongues censoriousness and other abuses are bred and nourished, ver. 14. &c. II. Urged by divers arguments. 1. Because, They that are envious and contentious in glorying in their Christianity, lye against the Truth, ver 14. 2. Because Envious and Contentious wisdom is not from God, but Earthly, Sensual Devillish, ver. 15. This he proves; Partly, by the Devillish effects of Envie and Strife, viz. (1) Confusion. (2) Every evil work, ver. 16. Partly, by the contrary Divine Properties and fruits of that wisdome which is from God, which is [1] Pure. [2] Peaceable. [3] Gentle and easie to be intreated. [4] Full of mercy and good fruits. [5] Without partiality. And [6] Without Hypocrisie, ver. 17. 3. Because the fruit of righteousness is sown in peace by them that make peace, ver. 18.

VI To reform their corrupt worldly lusts, and the pernicious fruits thereof. To this end, 1. He dissuades them them from their carnal lusts. 2. He Prescribes Remedies against them.

1. He dissuades them from their corrupt wordly lusts wearying in their affections, especially inordinate love of the world. 1. Because these lusts are Original causes of wars and brawlings among them, Chap. IV. v. 1. 2. Because these lusts, and the fightings thence arising, are insatiable, meerly vain and unprofitable to them, v. 2. 3. Because these lusts hinder the obtaining of our Prayers, v. 3. 4. Because these spiritual adulterous lusts are inconsistent with the love of God, and make men his enemies, as the Scripture saith, and not in vain, (for that phrase: Do ye think that the Scripture saith it in vain? is to be referred to that which goeth before, not to that which follows, as r Calvin hath well observed, because neither that passage that follows, nor other equivalent to it, is found in Scripture,) v. 4, 5. Because these lusts are unsuitable to the holy Spirits inhabiting in us. Doth the Spirit that dwelleth in us lust to envy? as if he should say, No, it is impossible. This also he proves from the contrary Operation of the Spirit, He gives more Grace, &c. He is liberal in his gracious Dispensations, and that's quite repugnant to the Nature of Envy; (this interpretation of all other I meet with, seems most clear, facile and genuine,) v. 5, 6.

Chap. 4.

r Jo. Calv. Com. in Ep. Jac. c. 4. ver. 4, 5, 6.

II. He prescribes divers remedies against these corrupt lusts. As, 1. Humble Submission of themselves to God, as an Antidote against their pride. II. Resisting of the Devil, Tempting to these evils. This is urged, by a promise of his flight thereupon, v. 7. III. True Repentance laid down in divers expressions: As in 1. Drawing nigh to God. To which is promised Gods drawing nigh to them. 2. Cleansing and purifying themselves, Outwardly, and Inwardly, v. 8. 3. Penitential Mourning and godly Sorrow, v. 9. 4. Humbling themselves in the sight of the Lord. Whereunto is promised, The Lords lifting them up, v. 10. IV. Brotherly love, to be evidenced, In not speaking evil of one another. They are not to speak evil of their Brethren. 1. Because that were to traduce and judge the Law, not to do the Law, v. 11. 2. Because that were to invade the Prerogative of God, That One Law-giver able to save and destroy, v. 12.

VIII. To use riches aright, This Exhortation is implyed in his Threatning of rich men for the abuse of their Riches. Here 1. The threatning is propounded, wherin I. Their miseries coming upon them are intimated. 2. They are summoned to weep and howle for these miseries, Ch. V. v. 1. II. The Cause of this threatning is expounded, viz. Their sinful abuse of their Riches, divers ways, As 1. By their Covetous hoarding: which is [1] Aggravated, In that rather than they will employ their wealth to good uses, they keep up their hoard, till their Riches be corrupted, Their Garments Moath-eaten, Their Gold and Silver Cankered. [2] Threatned; That the rust of their wealth shall be a witness against them. That it shall eat their flesh as fire. That they have treasured up for the last days, ver. 2, 3. 2. By their oppression, in fraudulent delaying the hire of the labourers which have reaped down their fields. This sin is aggravated (1) In that it is declared to be a Crying sin. (2) In that the Lord of Hosts hath already heard their cry, v. 4. 3. By their voluptuous Epicurisme and sensual luxury v. 5. 4. By their cruelty in condemning and killing the just, he not resisting them, v. 6. Chap. 5.

If rich mens keeping back the hire of harvest-labourers be a Crying-sin much more their withholding the hire of the Ministers, who labour in the Spiritual Harvest of the Gospel, is a Loud Crying Sin. The Sin of England at this Day. Divines mention four sorts of Crying sins, viz. 1. Wilful and deliberate Murder, Gen. 4. 10. 2. That unnatural Sin of Sodomy, Gen. 18. 20, 21. and 19. 5. &c. 3. Cruel Oppression, Exod. 3. 7, 8. 4. Defrauding Labourers of their wages, James 5. 4. X. To use their own and others Prayers as an especial Antidote against afflictions, I. Their own Prayer, in soul-Affliction, which is Amplified by a Direction, To sing Psalmes in mirth, ver. 2. II. The Prayers of the Elders of the Church in case of bodily sickness. Here 1. The Elders are directed how to deal with the sick, viz. (1) They must pray over them. (2) Annoint them with oyle, as a sign of healing In the Name of the Lord. (This anointing belonged only to them in the Primitive times, that had the miraculous gift of healing.) ver. 14. 2. Promises are made to such Prayer, viz. (1) Recovery of the sick. (2) Remission of his sins, v. 15. III. The mutual Prayers of Christians confessing their faults one to another. To the use whereof in distress they are encouraged, 1. From the singular Prevalency of the effectual fervent Prayer of a righteous man, ver. 16. 2. From the example of Elijah, subject to like passions as we are, who shut and opened Heaven by his Prayers. So that Elijahs Prayer was the Key of the Clouds, the Key of Heaven, v. 17, 18.

XI. To reduce and Convert an Erring Brother, if possible. This is urged from the double benefit thereupon ensuing. 1. Saving a Soul from death. 2. Covering a multitude of sins, v. 29.

I. PETER

Sect. 1. Name and Penman.

The first Catholick Epistle of PETER the Apostle.] So called, partly in reference to the dispersed Jews, to whom generally this Epistle is directed, (as was afore-noted;) partly in respect of a Peter the Apostle, Penman of it.

PETER [ΠΕΤΡΟΣ] a Greek name. Not the proper name, but rather the b Surname of this Apostle. His proper name was c Simon; an Hebrew name, שמעון i. e. An Hearer. From שמע To Hear. Christ surnamed him Peter; But When he first surnamed him is doubted; whether when d Andrew first brought him to Christ, or when Christ called him and his brother from their Fishing, saying e follow me. Or when he was appointed an f Apostle with the eleven. Or finally when he made that excellent g Confession of Christ, that he was the Son of the living God. Answ. This doubt we may thus resolve; This surname of Peter was Promised, Imposed, Confirmed to him by Christ. 1. Promised to him by Christ, when he was h first called to be Christs Disciple. 2. Imposed or given to him by Christ, when he called him to the i Apostleship, &c. 3. Confirmed to him by Christ also, upon Peters firm and excellent Confession of Christ, saying, k Thou art Peter; as if he had said, By this Confession thou shewest thy self to be a Peter indeed, as at first I promised thee to be, and after denominated thee; because thou hast confessed me to be the true Rock, against which all the gates of Hell shall not prevail. &c. For Peter in Greek, is the same with l Kephas or Kipha, in Syriack, both signifie a Stone. Christ gave him this name by Anticipation, in reference to that firm and solid Confession of Faith touching Christ, which Peter should, yea did make; and on which Faith confessed, as on m a Rock, Christ did Promise to build his Church, &c. Which was fulfilled, Peter preaching the n first Sermon, whereby both Jews and Gentiles were converted to Christ, and the first foundation of the Christian Church, after Christ, was laid. Which was the Priviledge conferred by Christ upon Peter, peculiarly above all the Apostles.

Peter was the o son of Jona and p brother of Andrew; by trade they were q Fishers in the sea of Galilee; whence Christ called them to be Fishers of men.

By Country a r Galilean, probably a Citizen of Capernaum; for there was s his house, and there he paid Tribute. By Relation a married man, as is testified both by u Scriptures, and x Ecclesiastical Writers. It is likely he, as well as Andrew his brother was an Hearer of John Baptist, who shewed to Andrew the true Messiah, whereupon Andrew brought Peter also unto Christ. After this y Christ called both Andrew and Peter, who followed him as his Disciples. After this Peter was made one of the a twelve Apostles, and he still named the first in order; and with the rest he received power of preaching and working miracles. He beheld Christs glorious b transfiguration on the Mount. He caught the c fish, in whose mouth was the piece of money which he paid as Tribute for Christ and himself. He made thus fruitful a Confession of Christs. He [illegible] Christ in his d Agony, when his soul was [illegible] to the death, and his body sweat drops of blood falling down to the ground. He followed Christ afar off in apprehension, into the e High Priests House, as for the end, when he of a bold confessor, through fear became a cowardly denyer of Christ; but afterwards penitently lamented his fall with bitter tears. He at the woman reports of Christs Resurrection, f ran to his Sepulchre and entred in, &c. Near the b Sea of Tiberias, did cast himself into the Sea to swim to Christ appearing on the shore; where Jesus charged him thrice to feed his sheep and lambs, and foretold him with what manner of death he should glorifie God. He visibly beheld Christ ascending into heaven. Among others received the h gifts of the holy Ghost at Pentecost, and there preached so effectually, that three thousand souls were converted at that Sermon. This was a glorious draught of spiritual fishes indeed. He was very laborious and successful in his Ministry, and seems to have preached the Gospel in i Samaria, in Lydda, Joppa, Cæsarea and most places of Palestine; Asia Antioch, Ionia Pontus, Galatia, Cappadocia Asia and Bithynia, writing his Two Epistles to the dispersed therein. In Babylon, p and (as Eusebius thinks,) in q Alexandria, where afterwards he ordained Mark. He was by r vision of a great sheet, &c. instructed touching the Calling and Conversion of the Gentiles. He was a member of that famous s Synod at Hierusalem, where he shewed that the Mosaicall Ceremonies were abolished by Christ, and that they were not to be imposed upon the Gentiles, and that all (both Jews and Gentiles) believing, were accepted and justified. He foretold future events, especially touching t Antichrist, and the u Day of Judgement. He had the miraculous Gifts of the Holy Ghost, and especially after Christs Resurrection wrought many Miracles; x Spake with Tongues; y Healed the Lame man at the beautiful gate of the Temple, with his word. Makes z Ananias and Sapphira fall down dead at his word, a Gives the Holy Ghost to the believers at Samaria, by Imposition of hands. b Recovers Eneas that had been sick of the Palsie eight years, Raiseth Tabytha from death to life. And at his preaching the word to Cornelius, c the Holy Ghost fell upon all them that heard it. He suffered many things for Christ and his Gospel; was d Threatned by the Council for preaching Christ, was e Beaten by the Council, and rejoyced that he was counted worthy to suffer shame for his name; Was f imprisoned by Herod (after he had murdered James,) who intended to kill him also, but an Angel brought him out of Prison, the night before his intended execution, at the Churches instant Prayers. And at last as h Hierome and i Hegesippus report, He was crucified with his heels upwards and his head downwards, (as himself desired,) because he was unworthy to be crucified in the same manner, as was the Son of God, his Lord.

Finally, it is worthy observation that as Peter had his Notable Eminencies, so he was not without his remarkable infirmities. 1. Peter had his notable Eminencies, As 1. He had singular k Courage, l Zeal, and m boldnesse for expressing himself. Hereupon counted one of the three n Pillars of the Primitive Church. 2. He made that admirable o Confession of Christ. 3. He was p one of the three which Christ took took up into the Mount to see his glorious Transfiguration. 4. He was one of the three which Christ took out from his Apostles to accompany him in his bitter Agony. 5. Shamefully [u] denyed Christ thrice, and every time worse than other. 4. And [x] walked not with a right foot in the beginning of his Ministry, drawing the Gentiles to Judaize among the Jews, &c.

Sect. II. To Whom, Whence, and When this Epistle was written.

1. That Peter wrote this Epistle to the believing Jews or Hebrews dispersed, in Pontus, Galatia, Cappadocia, Asia and Bithynia, and not unto the believing Gentiles in those parts, may appear upon these considerations, 1. There were at this feast of Pentecost, waiting at Jerusalem [y] Jewes, devout men out of every nation under heaven, dwellers in Cappadocia, Pontus, and Asia, &c. Therefore the Jews were dispersed in those parts. 2. Peter, by agreement among the Apostles, had [z] the Ministry of the Circumcision, committed to him peculiarly; therefore in more likely he wrote to Jews than to Gentiles. 3. These to whom Peter writes, are here called a Strangers scattered, (παρεπιδημοις) which word signifies strangers properly from another country; such were the Jews, who through persecution in Judea, fled into forreign nations; whereas believing Gentiles were called rather b Proselytes. 4. They are said here c to be redeemed from their vain Conversation, received by Tradition from their fathers; wherein he seems to have respect to the Traditions of the Jewish Rabbies, and Elders. 5. These to whom Peter writes are stiled d A chosen generation, A Royal Priesthood, An Holy Nation, A Peculiar People: which are the praises of the [e] Jewish People. So that Peter wrote to those dispersed Hebrews afflicted in their dispersion, to whom James wrote after him, and Paul his Epistle to those Hebrews, after both.

2. It is more than probable that Peter wrote this Epistle by [f] Sylvanus, to the Jews of the dispersion while he was now at Babylon. But what Babylon this was is doubted; because there were divers Babylons. 2. There was a [g] Babylon in Chaldea, 2. A Babylon in [h] Egypt. 3. And in resemblance hereunto the [i] mystical Babylon, viz. Rome. Now [k] Papists themselves upon this place generally contend, that here, by Babylon is meant Rome, that thereby they may prove Peter was at Rome. But they forget how herein they confesse Rome to be that wicked [l] Babylon, Mother of Harlots, destined to destruction. Lorber leaves every man to abound in his own sence, which Babylon it was. [m] D. Pareus and Diodate [n] think, that Babylon in Chaldea is to be here understood, where Peter the Apostle of the Circumcision preached to the Jews: and that no one reason can be given, why Peter should conceal the name of Rome, had he intended Rome.

3. When this Epistle should be written, Peter himself somewhat intimates by that phrase, o If any man suffer as a Christian, which intimates that this Epistle was written after Antioch had received the Faith, for there the Disciples were first called p Christians, which was about the same time that q James was crowned with Martyrdome. And r Pareus is of opinion that Pauls Epistle to the Hebrews, the Epistle of James, and Peter were all written to the same Believing Hebrews dispersed, but that Peters Epistle was written first, James his Epistle second, and Pauls Epistle to the Hebrews, last of all.

Sect. III. Occasion.

The [s] strangers that came up to Jerusalem at Pentecost, were many of them converted by Peters Sermon, and so baptized. To whom therefore Peter here writes as to [t] New-born babes, weak, and as yet unsetled in the faith; and upon their return into their own Country, much exercised for Christs sake, with [u] afflictions and crosses as the current of the Epistle manifests.

Sect. IV. Scope.

That therefore the Apostle as a spiritual father, might confirme these his children in faith, against all trouble and persecution, he writes to them all this Epistle; Therein I. Assuring them, and [x] testifying to them, that the Faith or Doctrine of grace, wherein they stood, was the true grace of God. Forasmuch as They were 1. Begotten again, [y] to a lively hope of the heavenly inheritance. 2. Preserved [z] unto this salvation. 3. Rejoycing in a hope thereof, notwithstanding all their present pressures. 4. Believing in [a] Christ, and loving him, though corporally unseen. 5. And Partakers of the mystery of [c] salvation through Christ, by the Preaching of the Gospel to them. II. & Exhorting them, consequently; 1. More generally to common Christian duties, viz. (1) To constant [e] hope of salvation. (2) To an [f] holy life in order thereunto. (3) To [g] brotherly love. (4) To improve the [h] word for further growth, as becomes regenerate Persons. (5) To be [i] built up more and more in Christ, the chief Cornerstone. (6) And to [k] converse with the Gentiles as becomes Christianity. 2. More specially to the particular duties of several Relations and Conditions, viz. (1) Of [l] subjects to Magistrates. (2) Of [m] servants to their Masters. (3) Of [n] Husbands and Wives. (4) Of [o] Christian Brethren to one another. (5) Of [p] afflicted ones, in respect of their Persecutions and Persecutors. (6) Of [q] Presbyters to their flocks. (7) Of [r] the Younger to the Elder. (8) And of them [s] all against Satans temptations, that he draw them not to Apostacy.

THE PREFACE to the Epistle, contains, 1. The Inscription. 2. The Salutation. 3. The Gratulation, or Gratulatory Introduction. I.

1. In The Inscription note. I. The person writing, described, 1. By his Surname, Peter. 2. By his Office, An Apostle of Jesus Christ, Chap. I. v. 1. II. The Parties written to, the Christian Jews of the Dispersion; who are here Described, 1. By their present Outward Temporal Condition in the world; being Strangers scattered throughout Pontus, Galatia, &c. 2. By their present Inward Spiritual state to God; being Elect. Of this their Election he declares, (1) The Cause or Fountain, Gods own Purpose, According to the foreknowledge of God the Father. (2) The The effect, discovering their Election through Sanctification of the Spirit. Which Sanctification is amplified by the ends thereof, viz. Partly, The obedience Chap. 1.

2. In the Salutation, he prayeth the multiplying of Grace and Peace to them, v. 2.

I. In the Gratulatory Benediction, he blesseth God the Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, for his Spiritual Benefits unto them; viz. 1. Their Regeneration to a lively hope of the Heavenly Inheritance. Here note, 1. The moving Cause of this Regeneration; Gods much mercy. 2. The Meritorious Cause of their Regeneration to this Hope of Glory by the Resurrection of Jesus Christ from the dead, v. 3. 3. The Excellency of the inheritance whereunto they are begotten; it being, (1) Incorruptible. (2) Undefiled. (3) Immarcessible, or unwithering. (4) Reserved in Heaven for them, v. 4. II. Their Preservation as in Garrison unto this salvation, ready to be revealed in the last time. The causes of which Preservation are 1. Principal, The power of God. 2. Instrumental, Faith, ver. 5. III. Their exulting joy in their hope of Salvation, notwithstanding their present sadness by reason of manifold Temptations of affliction. Their afflictions he lanifies, and comforts them under them, in that 1. They are but for a season. 2. They are necessary (if need be.) 3. They are Gainful, Tryals of Faith: which Tryal of Faith is Described, (1) By the Excellency of it, Being much more precious than of Gold which perisheth. 2. By the end, or issue of it, That it may be found unto praise and honour and glory at the appearing of Jesus Christ, ver. 6, 7. IV. Their faith in Christ though not corporally seen by them; from which Faith, 1. They love Christ, though unseen. 2. They rejoyce in Christ, which joy is amplified, (1) By the Excellency of it, Ineffable and glorious, v. 8. (2.) By the procuring Cause of it, their certain hope of receiving the end of their Faith their Souls Salvation, v. 9. V. The full Manifestation of the Mystery of Salvation by Jesus Christ now shewn by the preaching of the Gospel. This Benefit is Amplified. 1. By the diligent search and enquiry of the Prophets after this Salvation by Christ, and particularly of the time of his Exhibition and suffering in our flesh to accomplish our Salvation, v. 10, 11. 2. By the Persons on whom this full manifestation of Christ was vouchsafed, viz. Not to the Prophets themselves, but to us. 3. By the Authority of them that published these things in the Gospel to us, viz. The Apostles furnished with the Holy Ghost from Heaven. 4. By the Angels desires to look into these things, v. 12.

II. THE SUBSTANCE of the EPISTLE is chiefly Hortatory. Herein upon Consideration of the forementioned Preface, he Exhorts them to divers Christian duties, 1. More General, concerning them as Christians. 2. More special, appertaining to them as in such or such particular Relations or Conditions.

I. More Generally, he Exhorts them as Christians to the constant Exercise and improvement of the Regenerating and Sanctifying Grace of God conferred upon them. As,

1. To constant hope of salvation by Christ. Here are expressed 1. How they are to help on this their hope, viz. (1) Girding up the loynes of their minde. (2) Being sober. 2. What they are to hope for, viz. for the Grace that is to be brought to them at the Revelation of Jesus Christ, ver. 13.

2. To an Holy life, in order to the salvation hoped for. Here this Holy Conversation is Described, and urged. I. Described, as Consisting 1. In the Renouncing of their former lusts, in their ignorance. 2. In their conformity to their holy, heavenly Father, in all manner of Conversation. II. Urged by divers Arguments. 1. Hereby they shall testifie themselves to be Gods obedient children, ver. 14. 2. God that called them is holy: therefore so should they be holy, as Scripture chargeth them, ver. 15, 16. 3. The Father whom they call upon, will judge according to every mans work without respect of persons. 4. Their time in this world is but a Time of their Sojourning, and therefore to be passed in fear, ver. 17. 5. They are redeem- for this end, that they might shew forth the virtues that called them, and so offer up Spiritual Sacrifices; further they were (2) A Royal Priesthood. (3) A holy Nation. (4) A peculiar People. (5) Called out of darkness into marvellous Light. (6) Were not a People, but now are the People of God. (7) Which had not obtained mercy, but now have obtained mercy, v. 9, 10.

2. To Converse Christianly among the Gentiles. 1. Partly in abstaining from fleshly lusts. 1. Because, they are in this world but as Strangers and Pilgrims. 2. Because, these lusts warre against the soul, ver. 11. 2. Partly in having their conversation honest among the Gentiles; 1. That they may have no occasion to speak against them as evil doers. 2. That they may by their good works, have cause to glorifie God in the day of visitation, v. 12.

Hitherto of the Apostles Exhortation to Duties more Generally concerning all, as Christians.

II. More Specially he Exhorts them to certain duties appertaining to them in respect of their particular Relations, Callings or Conditions Shewing

I. How as Subjects they are to behave themselves towards Magistrates, viz. They are to submit themselves to every Ordinance of man. Here 1. He distributes Magistrates to be submitted to, into 1. Supream, As the King. 2. Subordinate. As Governours sent by him. II. He urgeth this submission to both upon divers grounds, ver. 1. From Gods Instituting of Magistracy, implied in that phrase, For the Lords sake. 2. From the benefit of Magistracy intended. [1] For the punishment of evil doers. [2] For the praise of them that do well, ver. 13, 14. 3. From the benefit ensuing upon such submission to Magistrates. For, (1) Thus, they shall do well. (2) Thus, they shall by well-doing, (as is the Will of God) put to silence the ignorance of foolish men, ver. 15. (3) Thus, they shall rightly improve their Spiritual freedom, Partly, whilest they use not their liberty for a cloak of maliciousness; Partly, whilest they herein, as the servants of God, fulfil his will, ver. 16. III. He concludes this Exhortation with divers other suitable directions, 1. To honour all men. 2. To love the Brotherhood. 3. To fear God. 4. To honour the King. ver. 17.

II. How as Servants they are to demean themselves towards their Masters, viz. To be subject to their Masters with all fear. Here, I. He distributes Masters, (to whom they are thus to yield subjection,) into two sorts, viz. 1. The good and gentle. 2. The froward ver. 18. II. He urgeth their subjection to both, withal comforting Christian-servants all injuries of froward persecuting Masters, and this upon divers grounds. 1. Because it is thank-worthy and acceptable with God, Patiently to suffer injuries for conscience towards God; whereas on the contrary, it would be no glory to them to be buffeted for their faults, ver. 19, 20. 2. Because Christians are called to suffering wrongs for well doing, ver. 21. 3. Because Christ hath given us a notable example of patient-suffering for well-doing, when he suffered for us, ver. 21. Which example of Christ is notably Amplified: (1) By Christs innocency, no way deserving to suffer in respect of himself, ver. 22. (2) By Christs patience under his sufferings, not avenging himself, but committing his cause to him that judgeth righteously, ver. 23. (3) By the excellent ends and benefits of Christs suffering; viz. Expiation of our sins, bearing them on his own body on the tree. Sanctification of our hearts and lives, that we being dead unto sin, should live unto righteousness. Both which fruits are illustrated by a double Metaphor, viz. Of diseased Patients healed by Christs stripes, ver. 24, 25. Of stray-sheep brought home to Christ the Shepheard and Bishop of our Souls, ver. 26. All which may oblige them to follow Christs example.

III. How as Wives and Husbands they should carry themselves towards one another. 1. Wives should look to the discharge of these Duties, viz. 1. To be in subjection to their own Husbands. That so they may be won to obey their word, which mistrusts their Wives unto such purity and fear in their Conversation, CHAP. III. ver. 1, 2. 2. To adorn themselves: Not outwardly in their bodies, with curious or costly Array, ver. 3. But inwardly in the hidden man of the heart with a meek and quiet spirit. For, [1] This is most acceptable. [2] This is the Precept of God of great price, ver. 4. [3] This was the Adorning in use and fashion with holy Women of old, and of Sara in particular. Whose daughters they shall be, Partly whilest they do well, Partly whilest they depend upon the Lord in their well-doing, not being afraid with any amazement through their husbands contrary carriages, ver. 5, 6. II. Husbands should dwell with their wives according to knowledge, giving convenient Honour to them. 1. Because. the wife is the weaker Vessel. 2. Because, she is joynt heir with her husband of the Grace of life. 3. Because, otherwise their Prayers would be hindred, ver. 7.

IV. How as Brethren they are to maintain and nourish mutual love and dearness to one another, viz. by being 1. Same minded. 2. Sympathizing. 3. Brotherloving. 4. Pitiful; that is, To their infirmities, and to their Miseries. 5. Courteous, or (as y Calvin rather thinks) Humble, for the Greek here hath two readings, ver. 8. y In Calv. Com. in 1 Pet. 3. 8.

V. How as distressed and afflicted ones they should demean themselves towards their Oppressours and Persecutors, viz.

1. To forbear revenge, not rendring evil for evil, or railing for railing: but contrariwise blessing. 1. Because, they are called hereunto. 2. Because hereby they shall inherit a blessing, ver. 9. This he confirms by a testimony of David. Promising life and good dayes to them that eschew evil and do good, and threatning them that do contrary, ver. 10, 11, 12. 3. Because, if thus they follow that which is good, scarce any are so vile as to wrong them, ver. 13. 4. Because though they should suffer for Righteousness, yet are they thereto happy, ver. 14.

2. To Sanctifie the Lord in their hearts, relying on his protection, and not to be afraid of their Persecutors terrour, nor to be troubled, ver. 14, 15.

3. To be ready always to give an answer to every one that asketh them a Reason of the hope that is in them. i.e. To be ready to make Confession of their Christian Faith before any, even their adversaries, especially them that are in Authority. This must be done 1. With Meekness. 2. With Fear, ver. 15.

4. To adde to their Christian Confession, a good life, having a good Conscience. And this for many Reasons: 1. Because, hereby they shall shame their their adversaries that falsly accuse their good conversation in Christ, ver. 16. 2. Because, if the Lords will be that they must suffer, it is better to suffer for well doing then for ill doing, ver. 17. 3. Because Christ himself hath suffered once for our Sins: Therefore they should not think much to be conform to Christ in suffering for well-doing: but should notwithstanding their sufferings have a good Conscience and cease from sin, after Christs example. (This seems evidently to be the intent of the whole context, from v. 18. to ch. 4. ver. 3. and well considered, serves much to clear this most intricate place puzling all Interpreters.) Here for farther pressing and clearing of this Argument, Christs Suffering is 1. Amplified. 2. Applied.

1 Christs suffering is Amplified [1] By the innocency and righteousness of Christs Person suffering, the just for the unjust. [2] By the intent or end of his suffering; that he might bring us to God. [3] By the happy events or consequents of his suffering; viz. His Resurrection, Ascension unto Heaven, Session at Gods right hand, and the Subjection of all the Angels unto him. 1. His Resurrection, Though he was put to death in the flesh, viz. As man: yet he was quickned, or raised again, by the spirit, viz. by his Godhead,

ver. 18.

v. 18. Thus efficacy of Christs Spirit or Divinity, Quickning Christ, is further Amplified by the notable Quickning Efficacy and Activity thereof towards others, manifested (think z Calvin even to the Dead; By which he also went and preached to the spirits in prison, &c. Here note (1) What Christ by his spirit did, viz. he went and preached. (2) To whom, viz. To the spirits in prison; disobedient sometimes. (3) When he thus preach'd, viz. When once the long suffering of God waited in the dayes of Noah, while the Ark was a preparing. The benefit of which Ark is, Partly describ'd; wherein few, that is, 8 souls were saved by water, v. 19, 20. Partly illustrated by a like spiritual benefit of Baptism, (not the outward washing of the body, but the inward washing of the soul and Conscience, which thereupon comfortably answers and witnesses for us before God) which now saveth us by vertue of Christs Resurrection, ver. 21. 2. His Ascension into Heaven. 3. His being at Gods right hand. 4. His having Angels and Authorities and Powers made subject to him, v. 22.

z Hoc addit Petrus, ut sciamus vivificam illam, de qua loquutus est, spiritus virtutem, non exertam fuisse in sola Christi persona sed in nos etiam diffundi, quemadmodum & Paulus docet ad Romanos cap. 5. 5. Dicit ergo non sibi modo Christum resurrexisse, sed ut vim eandem Spiritus sui aliis patefaceret: adeoque ipsam usque ad mortuos penetrasse. Unde sequitur, nos eam non minus sensuros, ut quicquid in nobis mortale est, vivificet, &c. Joan. Calv. Com ad 1 Pet. 3. 19.

II. Christs suffering is Applyed; in that from Christs suffering for us, he exhorts them to Arme themselves likewise with the same minde, as suffering with him, and in him; And consequently (1) That they cease from sin, not living any longer the rest of their time in the flesh, to the lusts of men, (2) That they live to the will of God, Chap. IV. ver. 1, 2. Hitherto of his third Reason for their keeping a good Conscience drawn from Christs suffering. 4. Because their present changed State and Time calls them to conscientious walking, it being enough (and farre too much) that they have spent the time past of their life, (while they were carnal,) in Gentilish lusts, divers whereof are mentioned, ver. 3. This their changed condition he Amplifies by the events thereof upon them, whose carnal wayes and lusts these Convert Jews had renounced; [1] Their stranging or wondring, that as formerly they run not with them to the same excesse of Riot [2] Their speaking evil of them therefore, v. 4. Against which evil carriages of their carnal adversaries, he comforts them, Partly, From consideration of Christs future judgement, to whom quick and dead, and so these men must give account, v. 5. which he proves in that not only Christians now, but also the people of the old world, though dead, were under one and the same Gospel of Christ, which is as the Law or Rule whereby Christ will judge all, ver. 6. Partly, from the hastening of the day of judgment, ver. 7. 5. Because, The world hasteneth to an end, But the end of all things is at hand, whence he inferreth Exhortations to divers Christian duties of a good life, viz. [1] To Sobriety, [2] To Vigilancy unto Prayer, ver. 7. [3] To fervent charity, especially among themselves, Because charity shall cover a multitude of sins, vers. 8. [4] To mutual Hospitality without grudging, ver. 9. [5] To mutual communication of their spiritual gifts to one another, according to their respective callings in the Church, As good Stewards of the manifold Grace of God. And he particularly instanceth in two more eminent, viz. Preaching the Word, which their Pastors and Teachers are to handle as the Oracles of God. And Ministration, viz. to the Saints miseries and wants, which Deacons are to discharge, As of the ability which God giveth; That God in all things may be glorified through Christ, to whom he ascribes praise and dominion for ever, vers. 10, 11.

Chap. 4.

5. Not to think strange at the sharpest fiery tryals for Christ and Christianity, as if some strange thing happened to them, but rather to rejoyce therein. 1. Because, These sharp sufferings are for their Tryall, as gold is tryed by the fire, ver. 12. 2. Because, hereby they become conform to Christ. (1) Now conform to him in his Cross, ye are partakers of Christs sufferings. (2) Hereafter in his joy and Crown, when Christs glory shall be revealed, ver. 13. 3. Because, in thus suffering for Christ, the Spirit of Glory and of God resteth upon them. Though reviled on the Persecutors part, yet he is Glorified on their sufferers part, ver. 14. 4. Because, to suffer (not as evil doers, but) as Christians, is not matter of shame, but matter of praise to God, ver. 15. 5. Because, This Gospel-Time brings inavoidable chastisements upon the Church; for the time is come that judgement must begin at the house of God ver. 18. 6. Because, consequently the calamities of ungodly Persecutors will be at last most woful. This is inferred from the former most Pathetically, (1) By way of Interrogation; If it begin at us, what shall be the end of them that obey not the Gospel? ver. 17. (2) By way of admiration; If the Righteous scarcely be saved (viz. shall not be freed in this life from judgements, afflictions, &c.) Where shall the ungodly and sinner appear? ver. 18. These Arguments he closeth up with an Encouraging Exhortation to them that suffer according to the will of God, To commit the keeping of their souls to him in well-doing; Inasmuch as he is 1. Most willing to preserve them in all their sufferings, being faithful. 2. Most able also, being their Creator, v. 19.

VI. How their Presbyters or Elders in Office should there in discharge their duty in feeding the flock of God among them. This duty is Described, and Urged. 1. Described, they are to feed the flock, taking the oversight thereof. 1. Not by constraint, but willingly. 2. Not for filthy lucre, but of a ready mind. 3. Neither as Over-ruling, or Lording it over the Heritages. viz. Particular Churches; but being ensamples to the flock. II. Urged by divers Motives; drawn, 1. From the Example of the Apostle Peter himself, exhorting them to this duty; (1) Being a Co-Presbyter also, and a witness of Christs sufferings. (2) Being by hope a partaker of the Glory that shall be revealed. 2. From the Nature of the Church to be thus fed and overseen by them; being (1) The flock of God. (2) Gods Heritage. 3. From the Glorious reward promised to the faithful performers of this Duty at the appearing of Christ the Chief-Shepherd, or Arch-Pastour, viz. A Crown of Glory that fadeth not away, Chap. V. ver. 1, 2, 3, 4.

a Timendas non esse injurias & pœnas persecutionum: quia major est Dominus ad protegendum, quàm Diabolus ad impugnandum, D. Cyprian, de Exhort. Martyrum lib. cap. 10.

VII. How the younger among them should submit themselves towards the Elder: Yea, How all of them should subject themselves, in Christian love, to one another; being clothed with humility, to that end. This is urged, 1. From the Beauty of Humility, be ye cloathed (Gr. b Knotted) with Humility, viz. Either, closely girt with it, as servants of old with a kind of Garment knit together in a knot; or, curiously adorned, as delicate women adorn themselves with knots 2. From Gods resisting the proud, but giving grace to the humble, v. 5, 6. Hence by way of Corollary he infers, That they should not fear, by reason of this humility, to be trampled upon by the insolent: but rather devolve all their care upon God, that cares for them, ver. 7.

Chap. 5.

b Ἐγκομβώσασθε] Pr. priè significat, Innodate: quasi dicat Arcte vobis astringite. Est Metaphora sumpta à genere vestimenti in nodum constricti, quo serviturebantur. VIII.

VIII. Finally, He exhorts them all Ways to Resist the Devil and his Temptations; especially those following them to Apostacy by reason of their Sufferings. Here 1. He directs them how to resist the Devil; viz. By being, 1. Sober, 2. Vigilant, 3. Steadfast in the Faith. II. He incites them to this Resistance of the Devil upon Consideration, 1. Of the Nature and Disposition of the Devil, who is (1.) An Enemy (2.) An Enemy not Asleep, but Active, (3.) A cruel Enemy, As a roaring Lion, (4.) An enemy indefatigable in his cruelty, He walketh about seeking whom he may devour. 2. Of the manner of their Affliction, wherein the Devil tempts and exercises them: they are the common lot of all the Saints in the whole world, who have their several shares of affliction to accomplish them with, verse. 9. 3. He prayes for them, (1.) The God of all Grace who hath called us into his eternal Glory, that after they have suffered a while, he would perfect, stablish, strengthen, settle them. Concluding his Prayer with a Doxology to God, v. 10, 11.

e Elegantly Cyprian describes Satans subtilty and devices, whereby he endeavours to deceive and to devour us.

THE CONCLUSION of the EPISTLE III. contains I. An Intimation by whom the Apostle Peter sent this Epistle to them of the Dispersion: By Sylvanus, whose fidelity to them he commends. II. A Summary Recapitulation of the Substance and Scope of his Epistle, viz. 1. Testifying that this is the true Grace of God wherein they stand. 2. Exhorting them, v. 12. III. Salutations: 1. Sent to them (1.) From the Church at Babylon, elect with them. (2.) From Marcus his son, v. 13. 2. Enjoyned to them. That they greet one another with a kiss of charity, ver. 14. IV. The Apostolical valediction, or Fare-well-Prayer for them, Peace be with you all that are in Christ Jesus. Amen. v. 14.

II. PETER.

Sect. I. Name Penman and Authority of this Epistle.

a 2 Pet. 3. 1.

The II. Catholick Epistle of PETER the Apostle.] The Apostle himself calls this his a Second Epistle. He writes it to the same People to whom he wrote his first, viz. To the b believing Jews dispersed, and in effect to the same end.

b 1 Pet. 1. 1, 2 & 1. 12, 13, 14, 15.

Some few Writers have doubted of the Authority of this Epistle, (as also of that of James, of the second and third of John, and of the Epistle of Jude,) as c Eusebius, and after him d Hierome intimates. Nor is it found in the Syriack Version.

c Euseb. Hist. Eccl. l. 3 c. 19.

d B. Hier. in Catal. Script. Eccl. tit. Simon Petrus. Tom. 1.

But divers cogent Arguments perswade us that this is an Apostolical Epistle, and written by Peter, As 1. The inscription mentions the same Penman of this Epistle with the first, viz. e Simon Peter a servant and an Apostle of Jesus Christ. He that wrote this Epistle testifies, that he f must shortly put off this his Tabernacle, as our Lord Jesus Christ hath shewed him. Now to whom did Christ shew this but to g Peter. 3. He that wrote this Epistle, was with Christ upon the Mount at his transfiguration, beheld his Majesty, ——— and heard that voice of the father from Heaven, when he was with Christ on the holy Mount, h This is my beloved son in whom I am well pleased. Now there were only i three, viz. Peter, James and John, in the Mount with Christ, at his transfiguration; and therefore it must be written by one of them three, (and by whomsoever of them, it is of Apostolical, yea of divine Authority;) but unto James or John none ever yet ascribed it, nor is there any reason so to do, but many to the contrary; therefore it must needs be confessed to be written by Peter. 4. He that writes this Epistle calls it his k Second Epistle, and intimates he wrote them both to the same persons, viz. the dispersed believing Jews. 5. He that wrote this Epistle calls I Paul his beloved brother, commends him, and approves the Authority of his Epistles; which were too much for any but for an Apostolical pen. 6. An holy Apostolical spirit breaths throughout this whole Epistle, both in his exhortations to holy duties, monitions against false teachers and Apostacy, and predictions of things to come. 7. The m stile and Phrase are Apostolical and consonant enough to that of Peters first Epistle. 8. To all these may be added the consent of n antient Writers, that count this Epistle Canonical and Apostolical. And o Beda wonders how any should doubt of the Authority of this Epistle, when the Penman hath put his name in the beginning, and testifies he was with the Lord in the holy Mount.

Sect. II.

Sect. II. Time, when this Epistle was written.

Peter wrote this Epistle a little before his death; for he saith herein, p I think it meet as long as I am in p 2 Pet. 1. 13, 14.
this Tabernacle, to stir you up by putting you in remembrance, knowing that shortly I must put off this my Tabernacle, even as our Lord Jesus Christ hath shewed me. But at what time Peter did put off his Tabernacle, is hard particularly to determine; And learned Writers are not agreed among themselves about it.

Sect. III. Occasion.

q 2 Pet. 1. 14. The holy Apostle Peter considering, That q shortly he was to put off his Tabernacle of the flesh, as the Lord Jesus Christ shewed him. And knowing that among the scattered tribes some were too negligent r 2 Pet. 1. 5, 8, 9, 10. of r Progress in faith, and other accompanying vertues, and of making their Calling and Election sure, s 2 Pet. 1. 12. and that those who were best s instructed and established herein, had need be put in remembrance and stirred up hereunto; And fore-seeing by the spirit of Prophecy, that as even then there were, and afterwards there would be much more in the Church t 2 Pet. 2. 1, 2. &c. among them, t Heretical seducers and false teachers, of notorious ungodly manners, bringing in the most impious and damnable Heresies, and walking in a most carnal, dissolute, unclean and offensive course of life, to the shame of the Church, yea, that in the u 2 Pet. 3. 3. &c. last days, u Prophane scoffers should arise, that should deride the second coming of Christ to judgement, The Apostle hereupon takes Occasion to write this Epistle.

Sect. IV. Scope.

The Scope, and intent therefore of the Apostle in x 2 Pet. 1. 12. &c. and 3. 1. 2. this Epistle, is 1. More generally, x to stirre up the pure minds of the scattered Jews, by putting them in remembrance, both of the Prophets words, and the Apostles Commands, and this he aims at in both his Epistles. 2. More Particularly, [1] To encourage them from their large experience of Gods spiritual y 2 Pet. 1. 2, 3, 4. bounty unto them, y having given them all things pertaining to life and godliness, hopefully to expect from him a multiplication of Grace and Peace unto them. [2] z 2 Pet. 1. 5, 8, 10. &c. To incite them to z adde to Faith vertue & other graces and to have these blessings abounding in them, that so they may make their Calling and Election sure, and never fall. [3] To fore-warn and fore-arm them against a 2 Pet. 2. 1. to the end of the Chapt. a false teachers, and Heretical Impostors that should rise up among them; whose damnable Heresies he describes; whose destruction he threatens; and whose cursed manners, and abominable properties he detects, characterizing them to the life, as unclean and impure livers, enemies to Dominions and Magistrates, Riotous voluptuous Epicures, Scandalous Seducers, Covetous Practitioners, and Empty proud Vainglorious boasters, who therefore must carefully be abandoned. [4] Finally, to foretel them, and b 2 Pet. 3. throughout. the Church of Christ, b of Prophane Scoffers, that shall deride and deny Christs second coming to judgement, which having asserted and described, as also the New-heavens and New earth afterwards expected, he exhorts them to prepare themselves by all Holy conversation, Godliness and Unblameableness for the coming of the Lord.

Sect. V. Principal Parts.

In this II. Epistle of Peter are 1. The Preface. 2. The Substance of the Epistle. 3. The Conclusion.

THE PREFACE. I.

THE PREFACE contains, 1. An Inscription. 2. A Salutation.

1. An Inscription of the Epistle, Respecting 1. The person writing; who is here described, [1] By his name and Surname, Simon Peter. [2] By his Office, More Generally, A Servant. More Specially, And an Apostle of Jesus Christ. 2. The persons written to, viz. The believing c Jews scattered up and down the Roman Empire; Here described especially by their true faith which God had vouchsafed them; To them that have obtained like precious faith with us, &c. This their faith being amplified, (1) by the worth and excellency of it, Precious Faith. (2) By the sameness of it, for nature and substance, with the faith of all Gods people, yea of the Apostles themselves, like precious faith with us. (3) By the causes of it, Efficient; God and our Saviour Jesus Christ. Impulsive, through the Righteousness of God and Christ, Ch. I. ver. 1.

c For clearing this compare 2 Pet. 1. 1. and 3. 1. with 1 Pet. 1. 1.

2. A Salutation; where note, I. The Benefits which he witheth to them, or prayes for in their behalf, viz. The multiplication of Grace and Peace. Grace and Peace be multiplied unto you. II. The means whereby those benefits are to be multiplied to them; Through the knowledge, (1) Of God; And (2) Of Jesus Christ our Lord, ver. 2. III. The ground whereupon he encourages them, to hope for further multiplication of these benefits upon themselves this way, viz. Their former experience of Gods grace and bounty to them herein, (who is still like himself to his acts of speciall grace and favour,) According as his Divine power hath given unto us all things that pertain to Life and Godliness, &c. Which experience of theirs is Amplified, 1. By the plenty of Benefits conferred upon them, All things pertaining to Life and Godliness, viz. To spiritual and eternal (not natural) life, and to godliness the soul thereof, (as d Calvin speaks) 2 By the Original causes of these benefits, viz. Christs power and Free-grace. His Divine Power hath given unto us all things. 3. By the inward and immediate means, whereby these benefits were conveyed to them, viz. Through the knowledge of him, (i.e. Jesus Christ,) that hath called us by Glory and Vertue, (i.e. e by his own Glorious Vertue; Or by his own Glory and Vertue, as some Greek Copies read it. Our Translation, unto Glory and Vertue, seems improper, and not to the Apostles sence, ver. 3. 4. By the outward instrumental means, whereby these benefits are rendred and applyed, viz. The Promises; By which are given unto us the greatest and precious Promises, &c. These promises are described, (1) Partly by their Fountain whence they freely flow; By which are given, &c. διὰ τοῦτο i.e. By which Glory and Vertue of Christ immediately forementioned. Or δι' οὗ i.e By whom, (as some Greek Copies read it,) that is, By which Christ. For Substance they come both to one. (2) Partly by their Adjuncts, viz. Greatest and Precious Promises. (3) Partly by their end why they are conferred on them, viz. That by these you might be Partakers of the Divine Nature, having escaped the corruption that is in the world through lust, ver. 4.

THE SUBSTANCE of the Epistle, which is 1. Hortatory, 2. Monitory, 3. Prophetical. II.

I. The Hortatory part of the Epistle, He exhorts them to abound in Faith and other Graces, accompanying Faith. This Exhortation (inferred upon things forementioned, And besides this; or, And for this same thing,) is 1. Propounded, 2. Urged.

1. Propounded. In the propounding of this Exhortation; note, 1. The singular diligence required about this duty, Giving all diligence, ver. 5. II. The Duty it self, which is twofold. 1. To adde unto faith vertue, and other graces, enumerated, as in a Gradation, for compleation of Faith, ver. 5, 6, 7. 2. To endeavour that these things may not only be in them, but abound, ver. 8.

2. Urged by divers Arguments. They should give all diligence to have Faith, and all those other graces abounding in them. 1. Because in so doing, they shall neither be barren nor unfruitfull in the knowledge of Christ, ver. 8. II. Because he that lacks these things, 1. Is blind and cannot see afar off. 2. Hath wilfully forgot that he was purged from his old sins, ver. 9. III. Because thus [i.e. by these] we shall make sure our Calling and Election sure, viz. by the fruits and effects thereof. IV. Because [in so doing] they shall never fall, for a much as abounding in these graces is the ready way to Christs everlasting Kingdome, for so an entrance shall be ministred unto us abundantly, &c. ver. 10, 11. V. Because it was no way unbecoming, but necessary for the Apostle Peter thus to exhort them, and put them in remembrance of their duty, who therefore excuseth himself for so doing, upon divers considerations, viz. 1. This is for their benefit, though they know these things and are established in the present truth. Wherefore [i.e. seeing this course is so many ways beneficial to you,] I will not be negligent to put you alwayes in remembrance, &c. ver. 12. 2. This to stir them up and put them in remembrance is the Apostles duty, yea, I think it meet, &c. ver. 13. 3. The Apostle was shortly to put off his Tabernacle, as Christ had shewed him, ver. 14. 4. The Apostle desired and endeavoured that they might be able to have these things always in remembrance after his decease, ver. 15. VI. Because the Doctrine of the Gospel preached to them by the Apostles, (wherein these duties are required,) was not fabulous, but most certain and Divine. Here 1. He declares the sum of the Gospel, (as Calvin observes,) viz. (1) The exhibition of Christ. (2) The power and efficacy of Christ exhibited. When we made known unto you the Power and Coming of our Lord Jesus Christ, &c. ver. 16. 2. He Evidences to them, that this Gospel was no cunningly devised Fable, but a certain Divine Truth, (1) From the certainty of the Apostles Testimony, who were, Partly, Eye-witnesses of Christs Majesty, ver. 16. Partly, Ear-witnesses of Gods glorious voice from heaven touching Christ, as the beloved Son of God, and great Prophet of the Church to be heard, when the three Apostles were with Christ in the Holy Mount at his Transfiguration, ver. 17, 18. (2) From the sweet consent and Harmony betwixt the Prophetical and Apostolical Doctrine. Here, Partly He extols the Prophetical word as more firm [viz. in respect of the account and apprehension of the Jews, who undoubtedly received the Prophets] than this voice from heaven. We have also a more sure word of Prophecy. Partly, he commends these Christian Jews for attending thereto, Whereunto ye do well that ye attend. Partly, he prefers the Apostolical Doctrine before the Prophetical, This being but as a light shining in a dark place, That as the Day dawning and the day-star arising in their hearts, v. 19. Partly, he cautions them how to understand the Scriptures of the Prophets, not according to every mans private fancy, but according to the sence and minde of the Holy Ghost; The Penmen of Scripture speaking not by the will of man, but the motion of the Holy Ghost, ver. 20, 21.

Hitherto of the Horratory part of the Epistle.

II. In the Monitory Part of the Epistle, He fore-warnes them of False-Teachers, Heretical and blasphemous Seducers that should creep in among them, and were even then arising up, least they should either be seduced or discouraged by them. To this End 1. He forewarns them of these false Teachers. 2. He threatens them. 3. He characterizeth and describeth them, that so they may be the better avoided.

1. He forewarns them of false Teachers that should arise among them, as there were false-Prophets of old among their fore-fathers, (It being the Churches lot in all ages to be pestered with such,) More Particularly, 1. Of the Heresies which their false-teachers shall bring in, or privily bring in; viz. (1) Damnable Heresies. (2) Impious and Anti-christian, Even denying the Lord that bought them. (3) Destructive, And bringing upon themselves swift destruction, Ch. II. ver. 1. 2. Of the prevalency of their Heretical pernicious wayes, They shall obtain many followers, by reason of which (many followers) the way of truth shall be blasphemed, ver. 2. 3. Of the intent of these false-teachers, viz. to make merchandize of them, both in their souls and states. This their merchandizing is Amplified, (1) By the Root whence it springs, viz. Covetousness. (2) By the Art whereby many shall compass this End, viz. By feigned words, pretending more than ordinary Piety, Purity, Moderation, Love, &c. under which they shroud their damnable Heresies, ver. 3.

II. He threatens the false-teachers with speedy judgement, and damnation, ver. 3. This threatning he 1 Confirms and 2 Amplifies. 1. He confirms this threatning of these wicked Heretick damnation, by three remarkable instances of Gods vengeance. 1. Upon the Angels that sinned, cast down to Hell, and reserved in chains of darkness to further judgment, ver. 4. 2. Upon the old World, of the ungodly, drowned with a flood, when Noah a Preacher of Righteousness was preserved, ver. 5. 3. Upon the wicked Cities of Sodom and Gomorrah, overthrown, and turned to ashes; when Righteous Lot, whose righteous soul was daily vexed with their wicked and filthy deeds, was delivered, ver. 7, 8. II. He Amplifies this threatning tacitely comforting the Godly 1. Against the delay of their own deliverance; The Lord knowes how to deliver the godly out of Temptation, viz. he knowes what's the best way, and when the best season. 2. Against the delay of wicked Heretick punishment, The Lord knowes how to reserve them till a fit time of punishment, verse 9, 10.

III. He lively [&] characterizeth these Hereticks that they may be shunned, by divers infamous and odious Properties in them, viz. They are

1. Impure and Unclean livers. That walk after the flesh in the lust of uncleanneſse, ver. 10.

2. Enemies to Magistrates, Civill Dominions and Dignities. Here I. Their Anarchical Opposition to Magistracy is described, 1. By their evill and sinfull carriages against them, viz. [1] They despise Government, or Dominion. [2] They are not afraid to speak evill of Dignities. 2. By the root of these evill carriages, viz. [1] Their Pride, Presumptuous (or, Audacious) are they. [2] Their wilfulneſse; And self-willed, or, self-pleasers, ver. 10. II. This their Anti-Magistraticall disposition and demeanour is aggravated, 1. By the contrary example, even Angels themselves Greater in Power and might, who (though God imployes them to protect his Church and to withstand and punish the tyranny and rage of wicked Rulers, yet) bring not in a Railing accusation against them before the Lord, that we can finde in all the Scripture, vers. 11. 2. By their brutishneſse herein, As wild-Beasts sottishly runne upon their own destruction, being made to be taken and destroyed: So these speak evill of things they understand not, and shall utterly perish in their own corruption; receiving the reward of unrighteousnesse. ver. 12, 13.

3. Riotous Sensualists and voluptuous Epicures; They that count it pleasure to riot in the day time, ver. 13.

4. Scandalous Seducers of unstable Soules, with whom they feast themselves, enticing them at their Feasts, Christi Potentiam & adventum] Non dubium quin his vocibus Evangelii summam comprehendere voluerit: ut certe nihil præter Christum continet, in quo abscondita sunt omnes sapientiæ thesauri. Duas autem partes distinctè ponit, nempe Quod exhibitus in carne fuerit Christus; Deinde qualis sit virtus ejus & efficacia. Sic enim integrum habemus Evangelium, &c. *Joan. Calv. Feasts, by their lascivious Gestures, and whorish looks, to uncleanness. Spots and blemishes, spotting themselves with their own deceivings, while they feast with you; Having eyes full of adultery, (Gr. of the adulteresse; or, of the Whore,) that cannot cease from sin, beguiling unstable soules. v. 13, 14.

3. Covetous Practiseness, plodding and contriving in their hearts how to compasse money and wealth from others. An heart they have exercised with Covetous Practises. This is Amplified, I. By the Cursed Condition into which they cast themselves, by this and their other corruptions. Cursed children, ver. 14. II. By their Resemblance herein to Balaam the false Prophet, who for gain was willing against his conscience, to have Cursed Gods blessed people Israel, Which have forsaken the right way, and are gone astray following the way of Balaam son of Bosor. Balaams erroneous way is Aggravated, 1. By the unrighteousness of his course, intimated, viz. His endeavour to Curse Gods people. 2. By the Roote whence this unrighteousness sprang, viz. His Covetousnesse, He loved the wages of unrighteousness. 3. By the Madness of the Prophet herein, striving for lucre, to go against Gods will. 4. By the Prodigious reproof of Balaams iniquity and madnesse, by a Dumb Asse speaking with mans voice. He was unworthy of mans reproof, therefore is deservedly reproved by a foolish and despicable Asse, v. 15, 16.

6. Empty, proud, vain-glorious Teachers speaking great swelling words of vanity. This vicious Property of their Big, vain, empty speaking, is 1 Illustrated. 2 Threatned. 3. Aggravated. I. Illustrated elegantly by a double similitude. 1. Of Wells without water. 2. Of Clouds. (viz. without rain) carried away with a Tempest. II. Threatned; To whom the mist of darknesse is reserved for ever. ver. 17. III. Aggravated, by the pernicious effect hereof upon divers of their Seduced hearers, allured hereby under specious pretences of Liberty, unto uncleanness and other lusts, to their destruction. Here note More Particularly, 1. The Garb of these Seducers language, or Teaching; They speak great swelling words of vanity; as (h Calvin saith) boasting aloud of the Spirit, and Spirituals, &c. 2. The Subtilty of their speech to Seduce, For when they speak—they allure. 3. The Persons Seduced hereby, Those that were clean escaped from them who live in errour, viz. Who had renounced Gentilisme, and imbraced Christianisme. 4. The Art, or Bait whereby they allure and deceive them. viz. By allowing them to live in their carnal lusts under specious pretences of Christian liberty from the Law; they allure through the lusts of the flesh, through much wantonness—while they promise them liberty. Which pretended Liberty, the Apostle evidences to be real bondage under corruption, inasmuch as they are overcome by corruption, ver. 18, 19. 5. The miserable End of these that profess and know Christ, but are seduced again to Error and Corruption by such false teachers, v. 20. Aggravated, in that, [1] Such Apostates condition is farr worse than that of ignorant unconverted Heathens, ver. 21. [2] The true Proverb is verified in them; The Dog is turned to his vomit again; and the Sow that was washed, to her wallowing in the mire, ver. 22.

Thus of the Monitory Part of this Epistle.

III. In the Prophetical Part of this Epistle, Peter Prophecies of the sensual Prophane scoffers in the last dayes, that shall scoffe at Christs Second coming to Judgement. Touching this Prophecy note 1. The Preface to it. 2. The Substance, or Matter of it.

I. In the Preface to this Prophecy, by way of Transition from his former Matter, he declares the End and Scope which he aimed at, in writing both his I. and II. Epistles, viz. To stirre them up, and put them in remembrance, That they be still mindful of the Doctrine of the Prophets and Apostles, Ch. III. v. 1, 2. Chap. 3.

II. In the Substance, or Matter of the Prophecy. Peter 1. Prophetically declares the Error. 2. Doctrinally confutes it. 3. Practically improves the Confutation.

1. He Prophetically declares the Error of the scoffers in the last dayes, about Christs coming: 1. Describing the Persons that shall broach it, to be [1] Scoffers. [2] Walkers after their own lusts, ver. 3. 2. Indigitating the point of their scoffing Error, Saying, where is the Promise of his coming? 3. Expressing their manner of reasoning against Christs coming: The World and all things therein continue as they were from the Creation; therefore it shall continue still, and consequently Christ shall never come to judgment, v. 4.

2. He Doctrinally refutes this Error: Shewing, 1. That As God made Heaven and Earth, consisting out of the water and in the water, by his word: (whereof these Scoffers are wilfully ignorant:) So he is able by the same word again to destroy them, v. 5, 6. That, all things have not continued as they were from the Creation, because the old world perished by water, v. 6. 2. That the present Heavens and Earth are reserved by Gods word, to be burnt up by fire at the day of judgment, when ungodly men shall be destroyed, ver. 7. 4. That, though the Lord seem to delay his coming long, yet no time is long to God, a thousand yeares being but as one day, &c. Nor doth he deferre his coming out of slacknesse to performe his Promise, but out of long-suffering, that his Elect may have opportunity of Repentance, ver. 8, 9. 5. That The day of the Lord shall come (1) Suddenly, As a thief in the night. (2) Terribly, in respect of the whole frame of the Creation. The Heavens shall passe away with a great noise; The Elements shall melt with fervent heat. The Earth, and the works therein shall be burnt up, v. 20.

3. He Practically improves this Confutation, By Exhorting them upon consideration: Partly, of the certain, sudden and terrible coming of Christ to judgment; Partly, of their hopes of new Heavens and a new Earth: To certain suitable Duties, viz. 1. To be singular persons in all holy conversation and godlinesse, ver. 11. 2. To expect with patience and holy desire the coming of the day of God. And this (1) Partly, because then this world shall terribly be dissolved, ver. 2. (2) Partly, because after this worlds Dissolution, they expect according to Gods Promise, i New Heavens and a New Earth, wherein dwels righteousnesse, ver. 13. 3. To be diligent that they may be found of him in peace, without spot, and blameless, as may become that New pure world expected, v. 14. 4. To interpret and account the Lords delay in coming, to be for the better preparing of them for Salvation, which he confirms by Pauls Testimony, Both in his Epistle written to these dispersed Jews, viz. the Epistle to the Hebrews: And in his other Epistles writing of these things. In which Epistles some things are hard to be understood, which unlearned and unstable men wrest, as they do other Scriptures, to their own destruction, ver. 15, 16.

i New heavens and New Earth.

THE CONCLUSION of the Epistle contains III.
I. Summary Exhortations, 1. To Stedfastnesse against all the Errors of the wicked. This is urged, from their Knowing of these things before. 2. To Growth in Grace and in the knowledge of Christ. II. A Doxology to Christ, To him be glory, both now and for ever. Amen. ver. 17, 18.

I. JOHN.

Of this John, his life and death, hath formerly been spoken at large, as the Gospel of John, Sect. I.

Sect. I. Name.

The first Catholique Epistle of JOHN the Apostle.] This Epistle hath this Title in all the ancient manuscript-Copies; As a Beza in his Annotations before this Epistle hath observed, —— Which as Beza there well adviseth us, we are thus to understand, viz. The first Epistle of John the Apostle, which is Catholick; for of all Johns Epistles, this only is Catholick or General, the other two being Particular, viz. The second to the Elect Lady and her children; The third to Gaius, and therefore it were improper to call r the first General Epistle in any other sence.

l Beatus Joannes Evangelista cum Ephesi moraretur, usque ad ultimam senectutem & vix inter discipulorum manus ad Ecclesiam deferretur, nec posset in plura vocem verba contexere, nihil aliud per singulas solebat proferre collectas, nisi hoc; Filioli diligite alterutrum. Tandem discipuli & fratres qui aderant, tædio affecti, quia eadem semper audirent, dixerunt: Magister, quare semper hoc loqueris? Qui respondit, dignam Joanne sententiam, Quia præceptum domini est, & si solum fiat, sufficit. Hier. in Ep. ad Gal. 6. 10. p. 200. Tom. 9. Basil. 1553.

Sect. II. Penman.

Penman of this Epistle is John the Apostle, as is evident, 1. From the Greek Title, [Ἰωάννου τὸ Ἁγιον καθολικὴ ἐπιστολὴ πρώτη] i. e. The first Catholique Epistle of John the Apostle, b Thus all ancient Greek Copies have it. 2. From his manner of speaking of Christ, asserting his c Divinity in divers passages of this Epistle, and calling him the d Word; John being most sublime in asserting the e Godhead of Christ in his Gospel, and in the f Revelation often; and no Writers in the New Testament stiling Christ the Word but John in his g Gospel, in his g Revelation, and here in this b Epistle. 3. From that eminent and singular Character of Johns Spirit, viz. The Spirit of Love, most predominant and conspicuous all along this Epistle, as in his Gospel and Revelation. John was i the Disciple whom Jesus loved above all his Disciples. He was a meer compound of sweetest love; in all his writings, breaths nothing in a manner but Love. Hence excellently k Calvin, This Epistle is altogether worthy the Spirit of that Disciple, which was therefore beloved of Christ above the rest, that he might render him familiar unto us, and in this respect Hierome relates a most remarkable story of John: saying, l Blessed John the Evangelist, when he abode at Ephesus even to extream old age, and was hardly carried to the Church betwixt the hands of the Disciples, nor could weave up his voice into many words, was wont to pronounce nothing else at their several meetings together, but this; Little Children love one another: At last the Disciples and Brethren that were present, being tyred out because they alwayes heard the same things, said, Master why dost thou alwayes speak this? who gave an answer worthy of John, Because it is the Lords command, and if it alone be done, it sufficeth.

John therefore being the undoubted Penman of this Epistle, it is of unquestionable Authority, m as Eusebius, and n Hierome testifie, that there never was doubt in the Church about the Author or Authority of this Epistle, but that it was generally received, and constantly approved by all. Augustine saith, o This Epistle is Canonical, is reched among all Nations, is held by Authority of the whole world, it hath edified the whole world. And elsewhere intending to expound this Epistle to his People, he gives this reason thereof; p Because love is especially commended in this Epistle, most sweet to all that have a sound spiritual palate to relish the bread of God, and most memorable in the Holy Church of God. For he speaks many things, and almost all things of love, &c. so that he counts it a most sweet Epistle and most memorable in the Church of God.

Sect. III. When, and Whence this Epistle was written.

John wrote his Gospel at Ephesus, as q Irenæus, and r Eusebius think. This Epistle seems (in s Zanchy's judgement,) to be written after his Gospel. And he wrote it when he was now old, as Hierome saith, and being old he departed not from Asia, therefore its probable he wrote it at Ephesus. John lived after the other Apostles, t and wrote after them all.

Sect. IV. Occasion.

The Occasion of Johns writing this Epistle was chiefly threefold. 1. John observed that in his days there were many Heretical Teachers and Seducers which he calls u Antichrists, (and by a Prophetical Spirit foresaw, that afterwards there would arise many more.) x Epiphanius reckons up these Hæretical Antichrists in Johns days, and y Aug. out of Epipha- [illegible] by Angels; [illegible] rerunt; held the Samaritan fictions, and the [illegible] sundries errors. [illegible] held, the world and men were [illegible] believed not also Christ was crucified of the Jews, but Simon the Cyrenian who carried his Cross. 2. Ebionites, from Ebion one of the seven Deacons, Christs disciples, who being married to Mary Magdalen the sister of Lazarus his wife, and would have dissolved her and pronounced her as common to all [illegible] mind filthy self, maintaining the community of wives, &c. But Clement Alexandrinus commends this Ebion for Piety and Continency; and saith, his daughters remained unmarried, and in all lived chastly. Whence Parens thinks he probably it was not Ebion the Deacon, but some other. 3. Cerinthians, Cerinthus was the Author of that impure and profane Sect; though those Heretics under the [illegible] holy mans name, countenance their odious filthiness. 4. Gnosticks, who would be so called from the excellency of their knowledge above those all the former; and thought to have risen from the filthy Nicolaitans. 5. Carpocratians, from Carpocrates in Asia; who taught every thing opposite to Religion, and every invention of sin, that men might live and do the will of the Devil: 6. Abrenuntians, who denied they could not erode Principalities and Powers, whom their things please, that they might come to the superiour Heavens; And [illegible] was only man, ordained of both Sexes, [illegible] the Law; Denyed the Resurrection, &c. 8. Quartodecimans, from Cerinthus, Christ [illegible] thinks and worthless, from Cerinthus, Christ [illegible] ning of whom, John is reported to have leaped out of the Bath at Ephesus unwashed, as [illegible] merly noted,) and Antitactes; who said, the world was made by Angels: men ought to be circumcised and keep the Ceremonial Law; who denyed Christs Divinity; said, he was not before Mary; that he was a meer man, that Christ is not risen, but hereafter should rise again. And fabulously conceived, that after Christs resurrection, Christ shall reign on earth a thousand years, in which earthly Kingdom of Christ, men shall live according to the carnal pleasures of their belly and lust, &c. whence also they were called Chiliasts, or Millenaries. 9. Nazareans, who though they confess Christ the Son of God, yet observe all things of the old Law, which they say Christians learned by the Apostolical Traditions, not to observe carnally, but to understand spiritually. 10. Hebionites, from Hebion; who held that Christ was only man, and observe Circumcision, and other Commands of the Ceremonial Law, from which we are freed by the N. Testament. All these Heretical Antichrists were in John's dayes. II. John took notice of divers carnal believers, who made great profession of Knowledge, Faith and Piety towards God, and of love towards their brethren, who yet lived impiously towards God, and uncharitably towards their brethren, to the scandal of the Gospel. III. Finally, John considered how necessary it was to encourage true believers in Communion with God, Stedfastness in the true faith, holiness of life, Sincere brotherly-love, Growth in grace; and to promote the assurance of their eternal life. These things principally gave John Occasion of writing this Epistle by way of remedy.

1. Epistle of JOHN.

Sum of the Epistle.

[illegible] communion with God in Christ have they walk [illegible] &c. I abide in Christ [illegible] Commandments, every one that [illegible] practising of righteousness is born [illegible] life.

[illegible] This hath God [illegible] Son of God, [illegible] —And therefore is it [illegible] this Testimonie. [illegible] multitude of marks, Signs or Characters of Believers, [illegible] our spiritual Estate here [illegible] down for this end, more than in any other [illegible] a piece of Scripture in the whole Bible. [illegible] Signs, or Evidences are here reduced to several heads and set down for the help and comfort of the Readers, in some of which, at least the weakest Christian, (if sincere,) may find abundant Soul-refreshing and heart establishment.

I. Evidences, Signes or Discoveries of Gods love to us.

1. Christs being sent to die for us, that we might by him, 1 John 3.16 and 4.9,10.

2. Adoption, That we should be called the sons of God, 1 John 3.1.

3 Our not loving the world, nor the things of the world, inordinately, 1 John 2.15, 16, 17.

4. Our love to God, which is an effect, or reflexive beame of Gods love to us, 1 John 4. 19.

II. Evidences or Signes of our Regeneration, Adoption, Sanctity.

1. That the world knoweth us not, 1 John 3.1.

2. True believing that Jesus is the Christ, 1 John 5. 1.

3. Not committing, or practising of sin, 1 John 3. 8, 9. Especially not that great sin of sins, The sin against the Holy Ghost; So, The wicked one toucheth him not, 1 John 5. 18.

4. Overcoming erroneous heretical spirits and and their seducements, 1 John 4.1, 4.

5. Overcoming the world by faith, 1 John 5. 4. 5.

6. Doing, or Practising of righteousness, 1 John 2.29. and 3. 10.

7. True love of the brethren 1 John 3. 10, 14. and 4. 7.

8. Hope (if not allurance in some measure) that we shall be conformed to God and Christ in his glorious appearing, 1 John 3. 2. 3.

9. In hope of glory, purifying our selves as God is pure, 1 John 3. 3.

III. Evidences or Signes that we are of the truth, of the true number of Gods people.

1. Having an unction from the holy one teaching us all things, 1 John 2. 19. 20. 27.

2. The Testimony of an upright heart or conscience touching our real and true love of the brethren, 1 John 3. 18. 19. 20. 21.

3. Perseverance with the faithful in Christ and in the truth, 1 John 2. 19. 27.

IV. Evidences or Signes of being in light, not in darkness: in life not in death.

1. Having the Son, viz. Actual interest in, and enjoyment of Jesus Christ, 1 John 5. 11, 12.

2. Loving, and not hating of our brother, 1 John 2. 9. 10, 11. and 3. 14, 15.

V. Evidences, or Signes of our true knowledge of God, and of Jesus Christ.

1. Real and sincere keeping of his Commandments, 1 John 2. 3, 4.

2. Not sinning, or denial of sin, 1 John 3. 6.

3. A right entertaining and hearkning to the true Apostolical Doctrine, 1 John 4. 5, 6.

4. Mutual brotherly love, 1 John 4. 7, 8.

VI. Evidences or Signes of our true love to God, and to Jesus Christ.

1. When our love to God, flowes from Gods love to us, 1 John 4. 19.

2. The casting out of base servile fear, 1 John 4. 18, 19.

3. Not loving the world, and things in the world, inordinately, excellively, 1 John 2. 15, 16.

4. Keeping Gods Word and Commandments, and that cheerfully, 1 John 2. 5. and 5. 3.

5. Our true love to Gods children, for the heavenly Fathers sake who begat them: Opening our bowels of compassion to brethren in need, 1 John 5. 1. and 4. 11, 12, 20, 21. and 3. 17.

VII. Evidences or Signes of our Communion with God and with Jesus Christ.

1. The Holy Spirit of God, and of Jesus Christ given us, 1 John 3. 24. and 4. 13.

2. The true abiding of the ancient Primitive Truth and Doctrine of Christ in us, 1 John 2. 22, 23, 24.

3. True confessing that Jesus is the Son of God, 1 John 4. 15.

4. Not doing, or practising of sin, 1 John 3, 6, 8.

5. Unfeigned love to God, and dwelling therein, 1 John 4. 16.

6. Walking in light not in darkness, 1 Jo. 1. 5, 6, 7.

7. Walking as Christ walked, 1 John 2. 6.

8. Keeping his Word and Commandements, 1 John 2. 5. and 3. 23, 24.

9. True Brotherly-love, 1 John 4. 12.

VIII. Finally, Evidences or Signes of true Brotherly-love, or unfeigned love of Gods children, 1 John 5. 1, 2.

1. True Spiritual knowing of God, 1 John 4. 7, 8.

2. Sincere loving of God 1 John 5. 1, 2.

3. Right Keeping of Gods Commandements, 1 John 5. 2, 3.

4. Loving the Brethren peculiarly as they are begotten of God, &c. 1 John 5. 1, 2.

5. When we love the brethren not complementally and verbally only, but really and sincerely: Opening tender bowels of compassion to them in need; yea if the cause require, hazarding our dearest lives for the children of God, 1 John 3. 16, 17, 18, 19.

By these Evidences, Signes, or Characters of our spiritual Estate, clearly laid down in this Excellent Epistle, the weak in faith may become strong in Assurance, and the strong may become stronger: yea all that truly believe in the Name of the Son of God, (if the souls be not shut out) may hereby come to know that they have eternal life. All which Evidences, there more fully opened and unfolded in a distinct Treatise, entituled, The Believers Evidences for eternal life: to which I refer my gentle Readers, that would be diligent, well-weaned and disingaged, but especially that find afflicting dayes, To help forward their Assurance for Heaven, when they can have little or no assurance of any thing on earth.

Sect. VI. Principal Parts, or Analytical Explication.

THE PROEM, or INTRODUCTION, making Entrance into the Epistle; shewes 1. What Subjects matters the Apostle propounds principally to treat of in this Epistle, viz. of the great Theam of the Gospel; Jesus Christ the Word of Life. 1. Of Christs Person, God-man. [1] Christs God-Head is intimated in these Phrases: That which was from the beginning, ——The Word of Life.——The Life.——That Eternal Life which was with the Father. [2] Christs Manhood, implyed in these expressions; which we have seen with our eyes, which we have looked upon, and our b hands have handled of the Word of Life. ——For the life was manifested, and we have seen it.——And was manifested unto us. 2. Of Christs office, To be the Author of life to us, implyed in that Christ is called The Word of Life;——The Life;——That Eternal Life which was with the Father, and was manifested unto us, Ch. I. ver. 1, 2. II. What the Apostle intends to clear touching Christ, viz. 1. Not any novelty, but That which was from the beginning. 2. Not any uncertainty, but that whereof the Apostles were infallible witnesses; Which we have heard, which we have seen with our eyes, which our hands have handled, &c. ver. 1, 2, 3. III. To what End or Purpose he will treat of these things, viz. 1. That those to whom he writes might have communion or fellowship with the Apostles, which fellowship of the Apostles is sweetest and Highest, And truly our fellowship is with the Father and his Son Jesus Christ, This Communion is even Heaven on Earth, ver. 3. 2. That having such fellowship, their c joy might be full, and so they at last become eternally happy, ver. 4.

II.

THE SUBSTANCE of the Epistle it self is, 1. Practical. 2. Doctrinal.

I. The Practical Part, is full of Holy and Heavenly Exhortations unto Sanctity of life and Conversation, as becomes them that have communion with the holy God; And that in divers Particular Duties of Christianity, sometimes pressing the same Duties again and again, (as that of Brotherly love) but with new,

; Motives

Preserve or Augment. How Secure [illegible]

I. To walk in the Light, as he is in the Light, is to walk in the Love of God, and Holiness of Life, as he doth. If they profess communion with God,

From the Nature of God, revealed in the Gospel, (1) God is Light, ver. 5. (2) God is Love, ver. 8. From this darkness, ver. 6. (2) from the Light, ver. 9.

Secondly, Because we are with God, [illegible] there is necessity that [illegible] the same as from all sin, ver. 7.

II. Not to deny sin to be in us, or to have sin by Nature, yea though we be regenerate, but rather frequently to confess it before God. 1. Because, if we say we have no sin, (1) We deceive our selves, (2) The truth is not in us, ver. 8. 2. Because if we confess our sin, God is faithful and just, (1) To forgive it for our sake, viz. in Justifying us. (2) To cleanse us from all unrighteousness, viz. in both Justifying and Sanctifying us, ver. 9. 3. Because, if we say we have not sinned, viz. Actually; (1) We make God a liar. (2) His Word is not in us, ver. 10.

III. To make Confession, to avoid the guilt of sin as a Pardon, and yet if in particular instances we repair by Faith unto Christ as already available all sin. He encourages to come to Christ for relief against sin, from the two chief Acts or Parts of Christs Priesthood, ver. 1. His Intercession in Heaven with the Father for us; which is Available by the Righteousness of the Intercessor, able to prevaile. If any man sin we have an Advocate with the Father, Jesus Christ the righteous, Ch. II. ver. 1, 2. His Satisfaction or, and Expiation of sin on earth, by his Death; and this, (1) Not only for the sins of Jewes, to whom he writes; And he is the Propitiation for our sins, (2) But also for sins of Gentiles of every Nation through the world; And not for ours onely, but also for the sins of the whole world, ver. 2.

IV. To adde to their knowledge of Christ true obedience to his word and Commandments. 1. Because, hereby we may know that we truly know Christ, ver. 3. 2. Because, to make a profession of knowing Christ, without keeping his Commandements is Hypocrisie, ver. 4. 3. Because, the keeping of Christs Word by any one, evidenceth (1) That the love of God is truely perfected in him. (2) That such are in Christ, and have communion with him, ver. 5. 4. Because, its the Duty of such as profess communion with Christ, to walk as Christ walked, ver. 6.

V. To love the Brethren; Touching this Duty, 1 He Prefaceth to it. 2 He presseth it. And 3 Declares why he so urgeth it, and other duties of holy life. 1. He Prefaceth to it, shewing that this Duty whereunto he exhorts them, is not any New, but an Ancient Duty; being grounded not on a New, but an Old Commandment. This is 1. Asserted and proved, in that he writes no other Commandment to them, than what they had heard preached to them from the beginning, ver. 7. 2. Corrected by a Concession, that this his Exhortation unto Brotherly-love, is in some sort A New Commandment. Here; Partly, he explains how, or in what respect it is New, viz. (1) In respect of Christ who renews this Old Commandment. (2) In respect of themselves who receive this Commandment as renewed by Christ. Again a New Commandment I write unto you, which thing is true in him and in you. Partly he proves this old Commandement to be new in these respects; because the darkness is past, and the true Light now shineth, viz. The bright day of the

VII. To beware of the dangerous Antichrists and Heretical Seducers that should come in the last times, yea were already come in Johns dayes, especially those that denyed Christ, either in Person or Office, as Simonians, Basilidians, Carpocratians, Cerinthians, Ebionites, &c. Against which he arms them, and encourageth them to persevere in the truth by divers considerations. As 1. That it is the last time, forasmuch as divers Antichrists are already come, which are fore-runners of that great Antichrist, foretold by the Apostles to come in the last dayes, vers. 18. 2. That, these Antichrists separated, and went out from the Church of Christ, and from the truth; because they were not of Christs true Church, for true believers continue, verse 19. 3. That, those to whom John writes, had an Unction from the holy One, and knew all things, viz. had the Annointing of the illuminating and sanctifying Spirit from Christ, teaching them all things necessary to their salvation and preservation from seducers, ver. 20. This he Amplifies shewing hereupon why he wrote to them; not so much to inform them of the truth which they knew not, as to Confirm them in the truth which they knew, ver. 21. 4. That, if there be any heretical lyar, he is that lyar lyar that denyes Jesus to be the Christ; who is a liar, but he that denyeth that Jesus is the Christ? v. 22. 5. That, whosoever denieth the Father and the Son is Antichrist, vet. 22. 6. That, whosoever denyeth the Son, denyeth the Father also, ver. 23. 7. That, they abiding in the true faith of the Father and the Son, according to the Doctrine which they had heard of the Apostles from the beginning, (whereunto he exhorts them,) should bring them to eternal life, promised to them, ver. 24, 25. 8. That, though he hath write these things to them, concerning those that seduce them: yet forasmuch as the anointing (of the Holy Ghost) abideth in them, and teacheth them all necessaries to salvation, &c. He encourageth them that they shall persevere and abide in him, ver. 26, 27. 9. Finally, That, if they perseveringly in his truth abide in him, they shall have confidence to look Christ in the face, and not be ashamed before him at his coming, v. 28.

VIII. Sincerely to practise righteousness, and abandon the practising of sin; (contrary to the cursed and devilish doctrine of the Carpocratians, who taught men to sin.) This is urged by many cogent Arguments. As,

1. Because, the true practice of righteousness, evidenceth him that so practiseth to be born of God, who is righteous, v. 29.

2. Because, the heavenly Father hath vouchsafed us no vulgar favour in adopting us to be his children, which singular mercy should kindle in us an earnest indeavour to be conform unto him in purity. That this Argument may be the more prevalent, He Amplifies the great benefit of Sonship. 1. By the singular and admirable love of the Father in adopting us. Behold what manner of love the Father hath bestowed upon us, that we should be called the sons of God. 2. By the worlds contempt or disregard of this their Privileged-state of adoption. Against which he comforts them, from consideration of the true cause thereof, viz. Their ignorance of the Father adopting; Therefore the world knoweth us not, because it knew him not Chap. III. ver. 1. 3. By the unspeakable glory that at his appearing shall certainly be conferred on them because they are the Sons of God; which glory shall chiefly consist, (2) In conformity to him, we shall be like him. (2) In perfect i vision of him; for we shall see him as he is, ver. 2. 4. By the property and disposition of all that have this hope of glory, to purifie themselves as he is pure, viz. in some true spiritual resemblance, though not in equality of purity, ver. 3.

Chap. 3.

i Ergo visuri sumus quandam visionem, quam nec oculus vidit, &c.

visionem præcellentem omnes pulchritudines terrenas, Auri, Argenti, nemorum atque camporum, pulchritudinem maris aëris, pulchritudinem Solis & Lunæ, pulchritudinem stellarum, pulchritudinem Angelorum: Omnia superantem, quia ex Ipso pulchra sunt omnia. Quid ergo nos erimus, quando videbimus? Aug. Tract. 4. in Ep. Joan. Tom. 9.

3. Because, the Commission of sin is the transgression of the Law: which therefore believers should shun, ver. 4.

4. Because, Christ in whom was no sin, was manifested to take away sin, viz. by his death, &c. therefore Christians may not continue in sin, v. 5.

5. Because, whosoever have Communion with Christ and abide in him, sin not; But they that sin, have not seen him, nor known him, v. 7.

6. Because, he that truly doth righteousnesse is righteous, (whatsoever seducers suggest to the contrary.) This he proves from Christs example, v. 7.

7 Because, he that committeth sin is of the Devil. This is proved; 1. From the devils sinful nature: for the devil sinneth from the beginning. 2. From the end of Christs manifestation, which was; That he might destroy the works of the devil, viz. Sins. Therefore they that commit sin cannot be of Christ, but of the devil, v. 8.

8. Because, Regenerate Persons do not commit sin, nor can they sin, (viz. as carnal unregenerate Persons do,) because they are born of God, and have a seed, that are repugnant to sin, resisting it, ver. 9. k How they sin not, cannot sin. See cleared at large in many particulars, in my Reformed Pastor, Sect. III. p. 204, 207.

Quæ in Regeneratione homine perseverante, peccare non possunt. Quæ cum Communicatio, luci & tenebris? Christo & Belial? Quomodo dicit se non posse peccare; sic nec justitia & iniquitas, peccatum & bona opera, Christus, & Antichristus. Si suscepimus Christum in hospitio mentis, perfecta illicò fugamus daemonia: Si perseveremus, & per peccati januam ingressus non fuerit diabolus, protinus Christus recedit. Hier. adversus Jovinian. l. 2. p. 69. Tom. 2. Basil. 1553.

9. Because, the manifest character, distinguishing the children of the devil from the children of God, is 1. More generally, the not doing of righteousness. 2. More particularly, the not loving of their brethren. (And so pursueth against exhort to brotherly-love.) v. 10.

IX. To unfeigned brotherly-love. Hereunto he exhorts them by many prevalent Arguments, viz. 1. From Gods message or command, preached to them at first by the Apostle, to love one another, v. 11. 2. From Cains contrary evil example of hating and slaying his brother for his righteousness, whereby he evidenced himself to be of that wicked one the devil, ver. 12. Whence he comforts the Regenerate against the worlds hatred of them, because thus it was of old, v. 13. 3. From the benefit of brotherlove, whereby we know that we have passed from death to life, ver. 14. 4. From the mischief of hating, or not loving the brethren, viz. (1) Such a man abideth in death. (2) Is a l Murderer. And (3) Consequently hath no eternal life abiding in him, ver. 14, 15. 5. From Christs own example, Christ so loved us as to lay down his life for us: so should we love the brethren, as in some cases to hazard our lives for the brethren, ver. 16. 6. From the impossibility of having Gods love to dwell in them, if having these worlds goods, they shut up their bowels from their Brethren in need. Therefore they should love them not in word and in tongue, but in deed and in truth, ver. 17, 18. 7. From the excellent effects or benefits which will redound to them, from upright and real loving of the brethren, viz. (1) Hereby they shall know that they are of the truth, viz. of the true number of Gods People. (2) Hereby they shall have assured confidence of heart and conscience towards God: who being greater then conscience, will much more condemn if conscience condemn, ver. 19, 20, 21. 3. Hereby their n confidence in God is crowned with his hearing of their Prayers; because in so doing they keep his Commandements, and do those things that are pleasing in his sight, ver. 22. His Commandement being; Partly, that we should believe on the Name of his Son Jesus Christ. Partly, that we should love one another, ver. 23. The keeping of his Commandement being a fruit of our communion with with God dwelling in us, which abiding of God in us, is assured to us by his Spirit, ver. 24.

Basil. 1553.*

X. To beware of heretical Seducers, and of beleiving every Spirit, (viz. every teacher that pretends the spirit,) but to try the Spirits, whether they be of God. Here, I. He confirms this Exhortation; because many false Prophets are gone out into the world, Chap. IV. ver 1. II. He directs them how to try and discover the Spirits, viz. 1. Affirmatively, Every spirit that confesseth that Jesus Christ is come in the flesh, Chap. 4.

flesh is of God, v. 2. 2. Negatively, Every spirit that confesseth not that Jesus Christ is come in the flesh, is not of God. This he brands as the spirit of Antichrist Partly, fore-prophesied of by the Apostles, that it should come into the world. Partly, in some degree was even now already in the world, ver. 3. III. He comforteth them, 1. Against the danger of their being overcome by the seducers; yea that they have overcome these seducers already; Partly, because they are of God. Partly, because Greater is God in them than Satan in these Seducers. ver. 4. 2. Against the Prevalency of these Seducers Doctrine in the world. (1) It is only the world that heareth them. (2) The world therefore heareth them; Partly, because these seducers are of the world. Partly, because they therefore speak of the world; that is, agreeably to the corrupt humour and disposition of the world, ver. 5. 3. Against the contempt or neglect of the Apostolical Doctrine in the world, by shewing [1] That the Apostles are of God, though the world hear them not. [2] That he that knoweth God, heareth the Apostles (3) That he that is not of God, heareth them not; none but such despise their Doctrine, v. 6. IV. He concludes this whole exhortation with this intimation, Hereby know we the Spirit of truth, and the spirit of error, ver. 6.

XI. Finally, He exhorts again to Brotherly-love, by divers Arguments. As,

1. Because, God is the Authour of it; Love is of God, v. 7.

2. Because, this love of the brethren, is a Sign 1. Of Regeneration; Every one that loveth is born of God. 2. Of true knowledge of God, and knoweth God, ver. 7. This is illustrated by its contrary. He that loveth not, knoweth not God; and he confirms it by a reason from Gods nature; for God is love, v. 8.

3. Because, God hath taught us by his own example to love one another in sending his Son into the world for us; In this sending consider, 1. Who did send, God. 2. Who was sent, his only begotten Son. 3. Whither he was sent, into the world; therein to be Born meanly, Live afflictedly, and Die cruelly for us. 4. For what end he was thus sent, viz. (1) To be the Propitiation, for our sins. (2) That we might live through him. 3. What's the singular moving cause of all this; Herein is love, not that we loved God, but that he loved us. Therefore if God so loved us, we ought also to love one another, ver. 9, 10, 11.

4. Because, if we love one another, (though corporally, no man hath seen God at any time, yet) spiritually we see and know that God dwelleth in us, and we in him, perfectly and sincerely loving him, 1 Partly, by this fruit of the spirit in us, brotherly-love, v. 12, 13. 2. Partly, by Confession that Jesus is the Son of God, sent to be the Saviour of the world, as the Apostles knew and testified, ver. 14, 15. 3. Partly, by dwelling in this brotherly-love, in as much a (o) God is love, ver. 16.

And and again elsewhere; Nescio utrum magnificentiùs nobis charitas commendari possit, quam ut diceretur, Deus charitas est. Brevis Laus, & magna Laus: brevis in Sermone, & magna intellectu. Quam citò dicitur, Deus dilectio est. Et hoc breve est. Si numeres unum est: Si appendas, quantum est? Deus dilectio est, & qui manet in dilectione, in Deo manet, & Deus in illo manet. Sit tibi domus Deus, esto domus Dei: mane in Deo, & maneat in te Deus. Maneat in te Deus ut te contineat, maneas in Deo ne cadas: ——quomodo cadet, quem continet Deus. Aug. Tract. 9. in Ep. Joan. Tom. 9.

3. because, by this brotherly-love, (if sincere and perfect,) we shall be enabled to appear with confidence and boldnesse in the day of Judgment. This is confirmed, 1. From our conformity to, and resemblance of God, (who is love,) by this sincere brotherly-love; Because as he is, so are we in this world, ver. 17. 2. From the nature of sincere and perfect love, inconsistent with slavish tormenting fear; there is no fear in love, but perfect love casteth out fear, because fear hath torment, &c. ver. 18.

6. Because, we cannot evidence our true love to God, (which originally ariseth from Gods loving us first,) if we be without true brotherly-love. If a man say he loveth God and hateth his brother, he is a liar; This is confirmed, 1. By the impossibility of loving God whom we have not seen, if we love not our brother whom we have seen (Seeing and Knowing being the ground of Loving) ver. 19, 20. 2. By Gods joynt command to love both, And this Commandment have we from him, that he who loveth God, love his brother also, ver. 21. 3. By the near relation betwixt God and the brethren, who (believing (p) that Jesus is the Christ,) are born of God. Whence every one that loves him that begat, viz. God, loves him also that is begotten of him, viz. the Regenerate child for the Fathers sake, Chap. V. ver. 1. 4. By the dependance of our love to the children of God, upon our true love to God, the cause of brotherly love. By this we know that we love the children of God, when we love God and keep his commandements, ver. 2. This love of God is Amplified by the peculiar signes or discoveries thereof, viz. (1) Keeping his Commandments. (2) Not counting his Commandements grievous, ver. 3. That the Regenerate, the true lovers of God count not his Commandements grievous, he proves; because the Regenerate do by true faith in Christ conquer the world, which hinders their cheerfull keeping of Gods Commandements, ver. 4, 5. (So he passeth to the Doctrinall part of the Epistle concerning Christ.) p Statim fidei conjunxit dilectionem, quia sine dilectione fides inanis est; cum Dilectione, fides Christiani: Sine dilectione, fides Dæmonis, Qui autem non credunt, pejores sunt quam Dæmones. Aug. Tract. 10. in Ep. 1. Joan. Tom. 9.

II. The Doctrinall part of this Epistle, declares that Jesus is the Christ, true God and man that should come into the world. This is (1) Proved (2) Applyed.

I. This Truth is Proved by many Testimonies viz. 1. Of the Law, under the Old Testament, Typically prefiguring Christ, This is he that came by water and blood, even Jesus Christ, not by water only, but by water and blood. This points at, and alludes to (q) the type and Antitype. The Type is Summarily reduced to two heads, viz. water i. e. II. This truth thus Proved is Applyed, by way of Exhortation. John exhorts them to give credit to these testimonies touching Jesus being the Christ, and that for divers Reasons; 1. Because this Testimony of the Father touching his Son is Divine, farre exceeding the Authority and credit of all Humane testimonies, ver. 9. 2. Because He that believes on the Son hath the witnesse in himself, viz. the Spirit and his own conscience testifying that Jesus is the Christ, ver. 10. 3. Because he that believes not God, [1] Makes God a Liar, in not believing his record, that he hath given us eternall life in his Son, ver. 10. 11. [2] Testifies he hath not the Son, nor life by him, as contrariwise he that believes hath, ver. 12. 4. Because they that believe on the name of the Son of God, have great advantages thereby, (for promoting of which faith, and benefits thereof, John wrote this Epistle) viz. [1] Have eternall life, [2] May know that they have eternall life. [3] May make progresse in believing, ver. 13. Which sinne unto Death, The world that lyeth in wickednesse may commit; but they that are born of God shall not commit; in that 1 They by inward Grace keep themselves, and that wicked one toucheth them not, 2 They are of God, 3 They know and understand the Son of God who is come in the flesh, and are in him, who is the true God, and that Eternall life, ver. 18, 19, 20.

II. JOHN.

Sect. I. Name.

The second Epistle of JOHN the Apostle] This Epistle of John is not, as the first, Catholick or Generall, but Particular; being written to Particular persons, viz. a To an Elect Lady and her children: Who she was, is not known: Some think that ELECT was her proper name, but thats improbable, for then John would not have said, To the Elect Lady: but, To the Lady ELECT.

a 2 Joh. 1.

Some turn this into an Allegory, and say that by the Elect Lady John intended the whole Christian Church: but this is most unlikely; and plainly repugnant to this Epistle it self. For 1. To write to the whole Christian Church, under the notion of an Elect Lady, is so unusual, that we find no such thing done in all the New Testament. 2. This Epistle not onely mentions this b Lady and her children. But also sends her salutations from the c children of her Elect Sister. 2. The Apostle speaks of his intention, d to come and see her, and speak face to face. Which cannot be understood of the whole Christian Church. She is e thought to be some eminent religious Matron of great estate, who much relieved and supported the members of the Church in her days.

c 2 Joh. 13.

Sect. II. Penman.

Some think the Penman of this Epistle, was another John then the Apostle; f Eusebius reports it out of Papias, the disciple of John the Presbyter: that besides John the Apostle, the beloved disciple, there was another of that name, viz. John the Presbyter, g That they both lived in Asia. and that each of them had a Sepulcher at Ephesus, and that its very probable John the Presbyter, saw and wrote the Revelation. (But this last I shall evidence to be a mistake when I come to the Revelation,) And g Hieron after him notes, That some think this second and the third Epistle of John; Papias were not the Epistles of John the Apostle, but of John the the Presbyter, who also is reported to have published that opinion of Christs reign in the flesh with the Saints, after the Resurrection a thousand years, &c. But this opinion that another John then John the Apostle, should be the Author of these two Epistles, seems to be a plain mistake; for, 1. The Greek Copies call it in the Title, The second Epistle of John the Apostle. 2. The Matter of the Epistle is not only Divine and Apostolical: but notably owns John to be the Writer, wherein the Old and the New Commandment; Christian-love; walking in the truth; and taking heed of Seducers and Anti-christs, are pressed as in the first Epistle of John. So that this is Johns genuine language. And almost in the h same words and manner of phrase, if well compared together, 3. The i Salutation is plainly Apostolical. And notably relished of John's Spirit. 4. Both k ancient and l modern Writers account this Epistle Canonical, and ascribe it unto John the Apostle. So that this Epistle, being written by John the Apostle is of unquestionable Authority.

h Among others passages compare these carefully together viz. 1 John 2.7 with 2 John 5.——and 1 John 2. 23. with 2 John 9.——and 1. John 4. 1, 2, 3. with 2 Joh. 7.——and 1 John 5. 2, 3. with 2 John 6. &c. i 2 John. 1, 2, 3. *k Concil. Carthag. 3. Can. 47. Concil. Laodic. in c. ult. Aug. de Doct. Christ. l. 2. c. 8. Sent. Sect. III. Occasion.

Some think that John's familiar Christian acquaintance with this Elect Lady, gave him Occasion of writing this Epistle. Others rather think it was written against the Antichristian heresie of m Basilides and his followers, who taught that Christ was not a true man but a phantasme, and therefore that he neither did, nor suffer'd those things which he is said to do and suffer. Why may not both well stand together? John took Occasion, Partly from his Christian acquaintance with this pious Lady; Partly from the wicked heresies of Basilides and others in those times, denying Jesus to be the Christ: to write this Epistle to caution believers against them.

Sect. IV. Scope.

The chief Scope and intent thereof of John in this brief Epistle, is; To incite the elect Lady and her children, (whom he commends, for n walking in the truth,) to persevere in the o truth, and carefully to shun all heretical Seducers that bring not Christs Doctrine. As also to adorne the truth with p love and good works.

Sect. V. Principal Parts.

In this II. Epistle of John, (which is very short,) are considerable, 1. The Person. 2. The Substance of the Epistle. 3. The Conclusion.

I. THE PREFACE contains, I. The Inscription, expressing, 1. The Person writing, The Elder. 2. The Persons written to, Unto the Elect Lady and her children. 3. A testification of the Apostles, and others sincere love to the Lady and her children. And this for the common Truth or faith, which is, and ever shall be in them all. 2 John ver. 1, 2. II. The Salutation, or pious Prayer of the Apostle for them, wherein note, 1. The blessings prayed for in their behalf, Grace, Mercy, and Peace. 2. The Fountain whence they are to flow; From God the Father, and from the Lord Jesus Christ, the Son of the Father. 3. The Adjuncts or companions of those blessings wished for; In Truth and Love, v. 3.

II. THE SUBSTANCE of the Epistle, wherein the Apostle I. Congratulates with the Lady, that some of her children walketh in the truth, as they had received commandment from the Father, ver. 4. II. Exhorts to constancy in the ancient Doctrine, or commandment of Brotherly-love, Obedience and Truth, ver. 5, 6. III. Warns them against Seducers, denying Christs Incarnation: 1. Shewing the danger of them; in that, (1) They are Many. (2) They are Deceivers. (3) They are Antichrists, v. 7. (4) If they look not to themselves against these Seducers, They will, Partly, lose what they have already wrought or gain'd, Partly, misse their full reward, ver. 8. (5) Whosoever transgresseth and abideth not in the Doctrine of Christ, hath not God. But contrariwise, he that abideth in the Doctrine of Christ he hath both the Father and the Son, ver. 9. 2. Forbidding them all familiarity and fellowship with such Denyers of Christs Doctrine, lest they partake in their sins. q If there come any unto you, and bring not this Doctrine, receive him not into your house, neither bid him God speed. For he that biddeth him God speed, is partaker of his evil deeds, ver. 10, 11.

q Joannes Apostolus in Epistola sua posuit dicens Si quis ad vos venit, & Doctrinam Christi non habet, &c. Quomodo admitti tales temere in Domum Dei possunt, qui in Domum nostram privatam admitti prohibeantur? Aut quo modo cum eis sine Ecclesiæ baptismo communicare possumus. Quibus si Ave tantum dixeremus, factis eorum malis communicavimus? Sentent. Episcop. Concil. Carthag. apud Cypr. Sent. 81. p. 449. Edit. 1593.

III. THE CONCLUSION of the Epistle. 1. With Intimation that he omits writing many other things, hoping to come to them, and speak to them by word of mouth, That their joy may be full, ver. 12. 2. With Salutations from her Elect Sisters Children, ver. 13.

III. JOHN.

III. JOHN.

Sect. I. Name, and Penman.

The third Epistle of JOHN the Apostle.] This Epistle is not General, but Particular; written to Gaius.

Penman of this Epistle also, as of the former, was John the Apostle, and therefore it is Authentique and Canonical. Both these are evident by all the four reasons alledged, touching Johns Second Epistle. And the Words, Phrases, and Method of these two Epistles harmoniously agree, as an intentive Reader may well observe. John directs this Epistle, a To the well-beloved Gaius; but what Gaius this was is not so evident. Scripture mentions three persons of this name, viz. 1. Gaius of b Macedonia. 2. Gaius of c Derbe. 3. Gaius of d Corinth. Whom Paul calls e Gaius mine Host, and of the whole Church, writing from Corinth to the Romanes. This Gaius was a man eminent for Hospitality, especially to the Ministers and Members of the Church of Christ. Perhaps this Gaius of Corinth, was the Gaius to whom here John also writes; For, 1. He is singularly commended here for his f charity and hospitality. 2. The consent of writers subscribes hereunto. As g Lorinus testifies. However he was a very eminent man in the Church.

g Vide Lor. Com. in 3. Ep. Joan. ver. 1.

When or where this Epistle was written, is not certainly known.

Sect. II. Occasion.

Its very probable by the subject-matter of this Epistle, that John took Occasion of writing this Epistle, from consideration of the bountifulnesse and hospitablenesse of Gaius; which John had occasion to improve towards some b Ministers, that went to preach to the Gentiles gratis, who seem to have brought this Epistle from John to Gaius.

b 3 John 6, 7, 8.

Sect. III. Scope.

His chief intent or Scope in this Epistle, is 1. To request Gaius, according to his i wonted bounty and benevolence to the Saints, to bring forward on their Journey certain Ministers that went to preach the Gospel to the Gentiles. 2. To brand Diotrephes k for his pride, malicious calumnies and opposition against the Apostle and the brethren. 3. And to commend l Demetrius.

Sect. IV. Principall parts, or Analyticall Exposition.

In this III. Epistle of JOHN the Apostle, are 1. The Preface. 2. The Substance of the Epistle. 3. The Conclusion.

I. THE PREFACE contains, I. The Inscription, describing 1. The Person writing, the Elder. 2. The Person written to; by his name, and by his true dearnesse unto the Apostle, Unto the welbeloved Gaius, whom I love in the truth. 3. John v. 1. II. The Salutation, containing the Apostles well-wishing Prayer for him. Wherein note, 1. The earnestnesse of the Apostles wish. Beloved, I wish above all things, 2. The blessings wished or prayed for in his behalfe, viz. [1] Prosperity, that thou mayst prosper. [2] Health for enjoyment of that prosperity, And be in health. [3] The Measure or proportion of these blessings wished for, Even as thy Soul prospereth, verse 2.

II.

THE SUBSTANCE of the Epistle is 1. Gratulatory. 2. Hortatory.

I. Gratulatory, wherein the Apostle singularly commends Gaius, I. For his Piety, which was in him and wherein he walked. The truth that is in thee, even as thou (m) walkest in the truth. This is 1. Confirmed by the Testimony of the Brethren. 2. Amplified by John's exceeding great joy to hear that his spiritual children walk in the Truth, and Gaius in particular, ver. 3, 4. II. For his Charity and Hospitality; set forth, 1. By his fidelity in it. Beloved thou doest faithfully. 2. By the extent of it, (1) To the Brethren, viz. the Brethren of the Ministry, as after appears. (2) To Strangers, persecuted and scattered, ver. 5. 3. By the testimony hereof given by them before the Church, ver. 6.

m Ἐν ἀλη-θείᾳ σὺ περι-πατεῖς, ὁ ἐστὶ τὴν ἐν-αγγελι-κὴν ἀπλό-τητα περι-πατεῖν. Oecumen. Com. in loc.

II. Hortatory, wherein he exhorts Gaius to bring on their journey certaine Brethren, (perhaps by them John wrote this Epistle) who went forth to preach unto the Gentiles. This request is (1) Urged. and (2) Amplified.

1. This Exhortation is Urged by divers Arguments, As, 1. Because, This was a good and pious work. Whom if thou bring forward in their journey after a godly sort, thou shalt do well, ver. 6. 2. Because these Brethren travelled to preach the Gospel to the Gentiles, not for private gain, But for Christs glory, v. 7. 3. Because, we ought therefore (n) to receive such. 4. Because, by receiving and assisting such, we become fellow-helpers to the Truth, ver. 8.

2. This Exhortation is Amplified, I. By the Apostles Intimation, that he wrote to the Church about this Matter also, but fears it would be to small effect by reason of Diotrephes, &c. I wrote unto the Church, but Diotrephes, &c. Here 1. His faults are recited, viz. (1) His Pride in the Church; who loves to have the Prehemineence among them. (2) His contempt of the Apostle; receiveth us not, v. 9. (3) His Malice against the Apostle; prating against us with malicious words. (4) His not Receiving of the Brethren. (5) His forbidding them that would. (6) His casting them out of the Church, viz. by Excommunication. 2. He for these faults is threatned by the Apostle, v. 10. II. By the Apostles cautioning of Gaius, not to follow or imitate this evil example of Diotrephes, or of any other: but that which is good. 1. Because, he that doth good, is of God. 2. Because, he that doth evil hath not seen God. III. By the Apostles contrary commendation of Demetrius, As having a good report,

1. Gene-

1. Generally, of all men. 2. Really, of the truth it self. 3. Peculiarly, of John, ver. 12.

III. THE CONCLUSION of the Epistle contains 1. The Apostles Apology for writing so short an Epistle to him; because he trusted shortly to see him, and to speak mouth to mouth, ver. 12, 14. 2. The Apostolicall valediction, or farewell-prayer, Peace be to thee. 3. The Salutations [1] Sent to Gaius; Our friends salute thee. [2] Imposed on Gaius, Greet the friends by name, v. 14.

JUDE.

Sect. I. Name, and Penman.

a Jude 1. THE Catholique (or General) Epistle of the Apostle JUDAS;] Thus denominated from a Jude the Penman who wrote it, and from the Persons to whom it was written, viz, The same to whom Peter wrote his second Epistle, they for substance being both the same.

Penman of it was Judas b the brother of James. Judas is Originally an Hebrew name, viz. יְהוּדָה Jehudah, which signifieth Praise: from יָדָה Hodah, that is, He hath confessed, he hath praised. This name was first given to the fourth son of Jacob by Leah, because at his birth his mother c praised the Lord. From him the tribe of Judah was denominated. There were two Apostles that had this name, viz. 1. Judas d Iscariot, that e had the bag, and betrayed Christ. And afterwards in some sort f repented, restored the thirty pieces, and hanged himself. So that he g burst asunder in the midst, and all his bowels gushed out, and so he went to his own place. 2. Judas h the brother of James, viz. Of James the son of Alpheus; Who. after the death of i James the brother of John, was famous at Jerusalem k among the Apostles. Where he is conceived by l Beza to keep his chief abode, that he might teach the Jews that resorted thither out of all Nations, unto which Jews especially, Judas here seems principally to write, and therefore mentions James. This Judas is also called m Lebbeus, i.e. Hearty; and surnamed Thaddæus, which is in the Syriack the same with Judas in Hebrew. Hierome writes thus of him; n Simon the Canaanite, &c. He it is who in another Evangelist is called Zelotes. For Chana is interpreted Zeal. Ecclesiastical history delivers that Thaddæus the Apostle was sent to Edessa, to Abagarus King of Chosdroena, who by the Evangelist Luke is called, o Judas the brother of James; and elsewhere he is named Lebbæus; which is interpreted p A little heart; And it is to be believed that he had three names; As Simon Peter and the sons of Zebedee, are named Boanarges from the firmness and greatness of their faith.

Of this Judas his Conversion, or peculiar calling to the Apostleship, the Scripture speaks not particularly: But onely of his being numbred with the twelve Apostles, and of his writing of this present Epistle. We read little of him in Scripture, besides that question which he put to Christ, at or immediately after the Supper, q Lord how is it that thou wilt manifest thy self to us, and not unto the World? To which Christ replyes; If a man love me he will keep my words, and my father will love him, and we will come unto him, and make our abode with him, &c. This Judas is r supposed to preach the Gospel in Judæa, Galilee, Samaria, Idumæa, Arabia, Syria, and a long time in Mesopotamia. As also in Pontus, Ægypt, and at last in Persia, where the Magi slew him for his free and faithful reproving of their superstitions. Of his Posterity see what s Eusebius reports out of Hegesippus, too long here to recite.

Sect. II. Authority of this Epistle.

The Authority of this Epistle, (though suspected heretofore by some, and that upon very inconsiderable grounds; yet) is now t generally acknowledged to be Divine; especially considering that, 1. Judas u the brother of James, one of the Apostles, wrote it. 2. The matter of it, yea, and most of the very phrases and words, are the same with those of the Second Epistle of Peter, if they be diligently x compared together, both which Epistles breath forth nothing but Divine and Heavenly Doctrine. 3. Antiquity hath received this Epistle as Authentique, and part of the Divine Canon. Eusebius saith, y The Books doubted of, but received by most, are the Epistles of James and Jude, the Second of Peter, the Second and Third of John. Hierome saith z Judas the brother of James wrote a small Epistle, one of the Catholique Epistles; and because he takes a testimony from the Book of Enoch, which is Apocryphal, it is rejected by many, but by Antiquity and use it challengeth Authority, and is reckoned among the holy Scriptures. a Tertullian and b Cyprian Alledge this Epistle of Judas as part of holy Scripture. Oecumenius comments upon Judes whole Epistle. c Augustine and others, who recite the Caralogue of the Books of Scriptures, reckon Judes Epistle among the rest.

Arguments or Objections to the contrary are invalid. These the principal.

Objct. 1. This Epistle recites Histories no where else to be found in Scriptures, as d the contending of Michael the Arch-Angel with the Devil, about the body of Moses.

d Jude 9.

Answ. 1. Divers stories are pointed at in New Testament, which we find not in the Old Testament. As that e Jannes and Jambres withstood Moses. That at Mount Sinai, f Moses said, I exceedingly fear and quake: Shall therefore these Epistles Authority be suspected? 2. These stories (though formerly unwritten, but happily derived by tradition from hand to hand, yet) now are written by guidance of the Spirit of God. And the writing of them rather assures us of the truth of these Histories, then detracts from the Authority of the Books wherein they are recorded. 3. This story hath footsteps in g Deuteronomy.

Who thereupon some say, (That Angel would have buried Moses, but the Devil challenged Moses to be his own, because of his killing the Egyptian; and therefore with God him. But others better, God knowing Israels propenesse to idolatry, lest they should commit idolatry with Moses dead body, (as after they did with the Brazen Serpent) buried him so man knowing where, and the Devil endeavouring to discover it, the Angel withstood him.

a Etsi non exprimitur occultandi ratio, consilium tamen dei fuisse videtur occurrere superstitioni: Solenne enim Judæis fuit, quod & illis Christus exprobrat, Occidere Prophetas, deinde venerari eorum sepulchra, Joan. Calv. Comment. in Deut. 34. 6. Jo. Diodat. Annot. in Deut. 34. 6.

The chief cause seemeth to be a mystery, that the Law (whereof Moses was the Minister,) being once dead and abrogated by Christ, should never more be sought after, but quite abolished out of the conscience of sinners, that the grace of Christ may live and reign alone. See Gal. 4. 9, 10, 11. and 5. 4. Also that the legal rudiments should by the coming of the Gospel, be taken away from Israel, never to be found or enjoyed by them any more, &c. *H. Object. 2. Jude mentions the k Prophesie of Enoch. The Old Testament hath no such Prophesie.

Answ. 1. Some think in Judes time there was a l Canonical Book of Enoch extant. 2. Others say better than they; suppose Enochs Book were Apocryphal, yet in Apocryphal Books there's some truth; and why may not this Apostle alledge this passage out of Enochs Prophesie, without approving that whole Book, or divesting this Epistle of its Authority; as well as the Author to the Hebrews, alledge some m Heb. 11. 35. passages out of the Book of m Maccabees; or Paul some sentences out of n Heathen Authors and Poets?

n As those in 1 Cor. 15. 32. Tit. 1. 3. 12. Acts 17. 28. 1 Tim. 2. 12. and 5. 23.

3. Others think this Prophesie of Enoch was rather Real than Verbal, viz. respecting the order of the Patriarchs, that as death by reason of sin had reigned over the six first fathers, Adam, Seth, Enos, Canaan, Mahalaleel, Jared, but could not touch the seventh, Enoch: so death shall reign over the world six thousand years, (which shall so long continue,) but in the seven thousandth year eternal life shall begin, and death shall be swallowed up in victory. 4. But others best of all understand here, (as the Text seems evidently to carry it,) Enochs verbal Prophecy, which either was extant in writing in the Apostles days, but now lost as Master p Perkins noteth; or, though not written, yet Jude received by Tradition, or rather by Revelation of the same Spirit of God by which Enoch prophecied, and here recorded as part of the Divine Canon.

Object. 3. Jude alledges other q Apostles sayings; therefore seems rather to be a disciple of the Apostles, than an Apostle himself, especially seeing he calls not himself an Apostle, but r the servant of Jesus Christ. And therefore this Epistle is not Authentical.

Answ. 1. Though it could be proved Jude was not an Apostle, yet it therefore follows not his Epistle is not Authentical; Mark and Luke were not Apostles, yet the three Books they wrote are of unquestionable Authority. The Authority of Books of Scripture, are not from the Penman writing them, but from the Spirit of God inditing them. 2. Daniel cites s Jeremiah, Ezekiel cites t Daniel. Were they therefore not Prophets, but Prophets disciples? Peter alledgeth u Pauls Epistles; was Peter therefore no Apostle, but only a disciple? 3. Jude's alledging the other Apostles, derogates not from the Authority of his Epistle, but proves that Jude wrote after both x Paul and y Peter, in whose Epistle, these Predictions are extant. 4. Finally, though Judas here call not himself an Apostle, that argues not therefore he was not an Apostle. James in his z Epistle, John in his a three Epistles, Paul in his Epistles to the Philippians, and in both his Epistles to the c Thessalonians, superscribe not themselves Apostles; were they therefore not Apostles? But Jude here stiles himself a the brother of James, and that is full as much as if he had stiled himself an Apostle; for the texts are expres that Judas the brother of James, was e one of the twelve Apostles.

Object. 4. But Jude the Apostle taught in Persia, and therefore had he written this Epistle, he would rather have written it in the Persian, than Grecian tongue.

Answ. 1. Its not infallibly certain that Jude was in Persia when he wrote this Epistle. 2. There is no necessity of the Apostles writing in the language of the People, with whom they then lived. Matthew lived among the Æthiopians, Paul at Rome when he wrote some of his Epistles, yet they wrote not in Æthiopick or Latin, but in Greek; Greek being then the most common language in the World, the Holy Ghost would have Greek to be the Original language for the New Testament, as the Hebrew especially for the Old. And Jude's Epistle is Catholick or General, and therefore was written in Greek the general tongue.

Sect. III. Time, when this Epistle was written.

When and where this Epistle was written is uncertain. f Some think this Apostle was in Persia or Asia minor, where the Simonian Hereticks abounded, when he wrote it, viz. A year before he dyed, and that he there died anno. 68. after Christ. Probably he wrote after both Paul and Peter, to whose writings he seems to have g reference; And the whole Epistle is as an Abstract of part of Peters second Epistle.

Sect. IV. Occasion

Occasion seems (from the current of the b Epistle,) to be those abominable heresies, impieties and impurities of the Simonians, Nicolaitans, Gnosticks, &c. r abounding in those times, who held Sin to be indifferent, women and all things to be common, &c. By which cursed and abominable Seducers, the truth and wayes of God were betrayed, and blasphemed, and the People of God endangered. To this purpose saith k Oecumenius, He writes this Epistle to them that now believed. And this was the Occasion; certain men covertly coming-in, and teaching that sin was a thing indifferent, and denying the Lord; he held it necessary to write and confirme the Brethren.

Sect. VI. Principal Parts, or Analytical Explication.

In this Epistle of Jude are these general branches viz. 1. The Preface. 2. The Substance or Subject-matter of the Epistle. 3. The Conclusion.

I. THE PREFACE contains, 1. The Inscription; which Describeth 1. The person writing. (1) Partly, by his Name, Jude. (2) Partly, by his Office, The a Servant of Jesus Christ, viz. in the Apostleship and Ministry of the Gospel. (3) Partly, by his Relation, And brother of James, viz. of James son of Alpheus. 2. The Persons written to, (1) Partly, by their Vocation, To the called-ones. (2) Partly, by their Sanctification, Sanctified by God the Father. (3) Partly, by their Preservation in this their holy state by Christ. *And Preserved in Jesus Christ. II. THE SUBSTANCE, or SUBJECT-MATTER of the Epistle is comprehended 1. In the main Proposition or Exhortation of the Epistle. 2. In the Arguments enforcing it. 3. In Hortatory Directions in Order thereunto.

I. The main Proposition of the Epistle. In laying down whereof he declares, I what he intends to treat of in this Epistle, and that 1. More generally, of the Common Salvation and that with all diligence. Beloved, when I gave all Diligence to write unto you of the Common Salvation. 2. More particularly, of their earnest contending for the Faith; It was needful for me to write unto you, and exhort you. That you should earnestly contend for the Faith which was once delivered to the Saints. Here (1) The true Faith is described, The Faith once delivered to the Saints. (2) The zeal they should shew for this Faith is declared, That ye should earnestly contend. (Gr. x Contend-a-in-an-Agony) (3) The necessity of the Apostles Exhortation of them hereunto; is intimated, It was needfull for me, &c. ver. 3. II. What gave the Apostle occasion to write, to them about this Argument, viz. Divers wicked Heretical Seducers crept in among them. For there are certain men, &c. These are described, 1. By their Subtilty, in y creeping-in-unawares, as-by-stealth. 2. By their Impiety; Ungodly men. 3. By their Heresie, (1) Turning the Grace of God into Lasciviousness. Abusing the Doctrine of Gods rich and free Grace, to the Patronizing and encouraging themselves and others in all carnal lewdness, uncleannesse and beastly lusts; As Simonians, Carpocratians and others did. (2) Denying the only Lord God, and our Lord Jesus Christ. 4. By their being fore-written, or prædordained of God of old to this judgment, God having most justly decreed to leave them to these Errours, and to give them up therein to their own Damnation; Who were before of old ordained to this condemnation, v. 4.

x ἐπαγωνίζεσθαι, y Verbum ἀγῶνος quo utitur, obliquam & furtivam insinuationem notat; quâ Satanæ ministri incautos decipiunt. Jo. Calv. Com. in Jude 4.

II. The Arguments enforcing this Proposition and Exhortation upon them, viz. That they earnestly contend for the Faith once delivered to the Saints. Taking heed of these subtile, wicked, lascivious, blasphemous and reprobate Seducers, are chiefly drawn from 1. The Dreadfull Examples of Gods wrath upon like offenders of old. 2. The Horrid Corruptions of these Seducers.

I. From the horrid corruptions of these Seducers. Which corruptions are 1. Described. 2. Threatned.

1. Their Corruptions are lively and particularly described, viz. I. Lustful uncleanness; Likewise also, these filthy Dreamers defile the flesh, v. 8. II. Contempt and Calumniating of Magistrates; Despise Dominion, and speak evil of Dignities, ver. 8. This is aggravated by a comparison of the Greater with the Less. 1. The Greater, viz. The example of Michael, who (1) Though the Arch-Angel, Most Singular in Power and Knowledge. (2) Disputing with the Devil about the body of Moses, viz. with the worst adversary, in a just cause. (3) Yet durst not bring in a railing Accusation against him, but commended his cause to God, saying The Lord rebuke thee, ver. 9. 2. The Lesser, viz. These Seducers (1) Revile, or speak evil. (2) They speak evil of those things which they know not. (3) What they know naturally as brute beasts, in those things they corrupt themselves, ver. 10. III. Cruelty to their brethren; They have gone in the way of Cain. IV. Covetousness, adulterating the Truth for base Gain; And run greedily after the error of Balaam for reward. V. Seditiousness in disturbing the Order and Peace of the Church; And perished in the gain-saying of Core, ver. 11. VI. Epicurisme in their Love-Feasts; which is 1 Described; when they feast with you, feeding themselves without fear. 2. Aggravated by the Scandalousness thereof; These are spots in your Love-Feasts. VII. Vain-glorious emptinesse and Hypocrisie; Clouds they are without water, carried about of winds. VIII. Utter Deadnesse and Barrennesse to all good spiritual fruit; Trees whose fruit withereth, without fruit, twice dead, plucked up by the roots, ver. 12. IX. Turbulency, and Restless impetuousnesse in their Course, at last only detecting their own shame and folly. Raging waves of the Sea, foaming out their own shame. X. Extream levity and inconstancy; Wandring Stars, ver. 13.

2. Their Corruptions are threatned 1. More Generally with woe; Woe unto them, verse 11. 2. More Particularly with Hells everlasting darknesse; To whom is reserved the blackness of darkness for ever, ver. 13.

III. From the testimonies of the Holy men against them viz. of 1. Enoch. 2. The Apostles.

1. The Testimony of Enoch. And Enoch also, the seventh from Adam, prophesied of these, &c. Here (1) Enoch is described. (2) This Prophecy is recited (3) This Prophecy is Applyed to the present Seducers. 1. Enoch who prophecyed of these, is described to be, the seventh from Adam. II. His prophecy of the Lords coming to judgement is recited; Wherein besides the note of attention, Behold; Consider, 1. The Judge; The Lord cometh, &c. 2. The Glorious Train attending this Judge, Cometh with ten thousands of his Saints; (which Saints shall also be Assessors with him in judgement,) ver. 14. 3. The parties to be judged, Generally, All. Specially, All that are ungodly among them. 4. The Processe, or Acts of judgement intended; viz. (1) More Generally, To execute judgement upon all. (2) More Specially, to convince all that are ungodly among them. So that they shall clearly see they are most justly damned for their sins. 5. The crimes for which these ungodly ungodly ones shall be judged, &c; (1) All their ungodly deeds which they have ungodly committed. (2) All their hard speeches, which ungodly sinners have spoken against him, ver. 15. III. This Prophecy is accommodated and applyed to these present Seducers, who are Evidenced to be guilty of Ungodly Deeds and Hard words, in that they are 1. Murmurers, viz. against Divine dispensations. 2. Complainers, viz. against their own condition, against others, never contented. 3. Walking after their own lusts. 4. Their mouth speaketh Great-swelling-words. Despising the vulgar Dialect, They vaunt themselves in lofty strange Exotick Notions, whereby they pretend to rap up their deceived ones above the Heavens, as Calvin elsewhere notech. 5. Having mens persons in admiration, because of advantage, viz. with base flatteries insinuating themselves into the favour of rich and great ones for worldly gain, verse 16.

z Dicas metaphoram Tonicurva sonare: Nam Communi sermone spreto, exoticum nescio quod idioma sibi fingunt: postquam visi sunt suos discipulos supra cælum rapere, repentè in belluinos errores procidunt. Calvin. Comment. in Jud. 13.

2. The Testimoy of the Apostles, (especially of Paul and Peter;) But beloved, remember ye the words which were spoken before of the Apostles of our Lord Jesus Christ, That they told you there should be mockers ——— &c. In which Apostolical Prediction Note, 1. The thing foretold; That there should be mockers, who should walk after their own ungodly lusts. 2. The time when these should appear; In the Last time, ver. 17, 18. 3. The accommodation of the Apostles Prediction, to the present Heretical Seducers; described (1) By their Schismaticalness, These be they who separate themselves. (2) By their meer carnalness, Sensuall (Gr. Animall,) having not the Spirit, ver. 19.

III. The Hortatory Directions subjoyned by way of Remedy, or Antidote against these Seducers and their Seductions, are divers. As 1. That they Edifie themselves on their most Holy Faith. 2. That, they Pray in the Holy Ghost, viz. by his assistance, &c. 3. That, by both the former Courses, they keep themselves in the love of God, looking for the mercy of our Lord Jesus Christ unto eternal life. So persevering in Truth and Godliness, ver. 21. 4. That, they be sollicitous and careful to deliver their brethren out of the snares of these Seducers. Wherein they are Directed to deal differently with different persons, making a difference, viz. [1] To have compassion of some, dealing more tenderly with the weak, simple, seduced ones, ver. 22. [2] To save others, viz. hardned ones, and seducers, pulling them out of the fire; Partly, with fear, convincing them of their Errours with Terrour, &c. Partly with extream detestation of all partnership with them in their fleshly impurities, hating even the Garment spotted with the flesh. A Metaphor from Garments legally unclean, which defiled such as touched them, ver. 23.

THE CONCLUSION of the Epistle Consists of a Doxology, or giving Glory to God; In which Doxology I. He describes God, (whom he Glorifies and Praises,) divers wayes suitably to his fore-going Exhortations, and to the encouragement of the faithful, viz. 1. By his power; Now unto him that is Able [1] To keep you from falling; and [2] To present you faultless before the presence of his Glory, with exceeding joy, ver. 24. 2. By his Wisdome; to the only wise God. 3. By his saving Property; Our Saviour. II. He ascribes unto this God. 1 Glory. 2 Majesty or Greatnesse. 3. Dominion. 4. Power, or Authority: And all as due to him, Now and for ever, Amen, verse 25. III.

Revelations.

Sect. I. Name, Nature of the Book, and Penman thereof.

THE PROPHETICAL BOOK of the New Testament, Prophetically foretelling what shall be the future condition of the Church of Christ in all ages to the end of the world is the REVELATION OF JOHN THE DIVINE. This may well be called a Prophetical Book: For 1. The Holy Ghost himself divers times stiles it a a Prophecy. 2. The nature of the Book is chiefly Prophetical, as the Series of the Book implyes; and also some passages plainly testifie that it treats of b things which must shortly come to pass. And of c things which shall be hereafter.

dignated to us both the nature of the gift, and the Penman of it.

3. Nature of the Book. A Revelation.] So called, because it reveals and makes known unto us secret hidden mysteries, and future events. Its true, this Revelation is not without matters of much intricateness and obscurity. Whereof saith it? c The Revelation of John hath as many mysteries as words, nay, I have said less, a small matter, in regard of the merits of the Volume; all Praise is too low for it; manifold understandings he hid in every word, being a prophecy of future Occurrents till the end of the World, o'r can it chuse but be extreamly difficult, and hard to be understood: For, as Irenæus upon another occasion hath observed, f All Prophecies are figurative and ambiguous to us, till they be effected: but when the time is come, and the thing prophecied hath event, then they have a more clear and certain exposition. Now as Augustine well noteth, g In this Book, intitled The Revelation, many things are spoken obscurely, that they may exercise the Readers mind: and some few there are in it, by the manifestation whereof the rest may be searched out with labour; especially, because he therefore reveals the same things many wayes, as if he seemed to speak other and other things, when yet he may be found out to speak the same things——otherwise and otherwise. Yea I verily believe no mortal creature on earth is able fully to understand and penetrate into all the profound depths and mysteries of this Book, which hath so exercited and puzzled all Interpreters: or this I think, If some things therein by help of Divine light may be cleared, though all cannot, he that writes shall be a gainer, and he that reads shall be no loser.

f Irenæus Adverf. Hæref. l. 4. c. 43.

g Et in hoc quidem libro, cujus nomen est Apocalypsis obscurè multa dicuntur, ut mentem legentis exercecant; & pauca in eo sunt, ex quorum manifestatione in dagentur cætera cum labore; maximè quia sic eadem multis modis repetit, ut alia atque alia dicere videatur: cum aliter atque aliter hæc ipse dicere investigetur. Aug. de Civit. Dei lib. 20. cap. 17.

3. Penman, or Instrumental Author of it, viz. John the Theologue, or Divine. What John this was some question. h Eusebius mentions two Johns, whose monuments were to be seen at Ephesus, viz. John the Evangelist, who wrote the Gospel, and first Epistle of John, and John the Presbyter, who wrote the second and third Epistle of John, and the Revelation. To him also i Hieron seems to incline, and k Dionysius Alexandrinus.

But that this is a great mistake; and that JOHN the Evangelist and Apostle was Penman of this Revelation, may be cleared by these considerations.

1. The Title attributes it to John the Divine. This Epithet we read no where to be given to John the Presbyter, but belongs to John the Apostle, and Evangelist [καθ' ἐξοχὴν] by way of peculiar emphasis, because like an Eagle he soars aloft; writes more sublimely of the Divinity of Jesus Christ, both in this Book (in which D. Pareus hath observed XLVIII. Arguments of Christs Divinity.) as also in his l Gospel, and in his m first Epistle; and the King of Spaines Bible of Montanus his Edition, hath this Greek Title before the Revelation, [Ἀποκάλυψις τοῦ ἁγίου Ἀποστόλου καὶ Εὐαγγελιστοῦ Ἰωάννου τοῦ Θεολόγου.] i. e. The Revelation of the holy Apostle, and Evangelist John the Divine. Which Title, (whether it were prefixed by John, or after by the Church) tends to clear this matter: The substance of this Title being consonant to the n Preface of the Revelation it self, nor is any way probable that Christ sent his Angel to any other John, than to John the Apostle with this Revelation.

2. John the Penman of this Book is so described, that John the Apostle and Evangelist, seems plainly to be indigitated; o Signified it by his Angel unto his servant John: Who bare record of the Word of God, and of the Testimony of Jesus Christ. Now how notably

So that by all this, 'tis plainly evident, that the Penman of the Revelation was John the Apoſtle, that wrote the Goſpel, and the Epiſtles.

The Interpretation of John's name, together with the particular deſcription of him, hath been formerly diſpatched in the opening of his g Goſpel.

Sect. II. Authority of the Revelation.

The Authority of this Book is not Humane, but Divine. For,

1. This Book was indited by Jeſus Chriſt himſelf, the faithful and true witneſſe; who ſent his Angel to teſtifie the ſame to John the Apoſtle, and by him to the Churches, h The Revelation of Jeſus Chriſt which God gave unto him, to ſhew unto his ſervants things which muſt ſhortly come to paſs; and he ſent and ſignified it by his Angel unto his ſervant John. And towards the cloſe of the Book he ſaith, i I Jeſus have ſent mine Angel to teſtifie unto you theſe things in the Churches. Note; This Revelation was given by John the Apoſtle, to the Churches; by an Angel, to John by Jeſus Chriſt, to that Angel; by God, to Jeſus Chriſt. How punctually then is the Divine Authority of it aſſerted?

h Rev. 1. 1. i Rev. 22. 16. k Rev. 1. 11, 19. See alſo Rev. 2. 1, 8, 12. 18. 3. 1, 7, 14. & 14, 13. & 19. 9. & 21. 5.

2. It was penned by John the Apoſtle of Chriſt, (who was divinely inſpired and acted by the Holy Ghoſt,) as hath been formerly manifeſted, and therefore it is of Divine Authority eſpecially conſidering that this bleſſed Apoſtle was commanded by Jeſus Chriſt to write this Book. k Saying, I am Alpha and Omega; the firſt and the laſt; and what thou ſeeſt write in a Book. ——— Write the things which thou haſt ſeen, and the things which are, and the things which ſhall be hereafter.

3. The nature of the Book imports the Divine Authority of it. For, 1. It is eminently l prophetical, ſpeaking of things that ſhall be hereafter; and the Prophecies of this Book, are touching future events, in reference to the Church, to the end of the world; until m the myſtery of God be finiſhed; till the n Kingdoms of this world, become our Lords and his Chriſts, and he ſhall reign for ever and ever; and till o the marriage of the Lamb be come; and his Wife (the Church) hath made her ſelf ready. So that neither ancient Writers not any other, but ſuch as were inſpired with a ſpirit of prophecy from the all-knowing God, could p foretell things to come. 2. In the prophetical expreſſions of it, it is conſonant to other prophetical Books, and gives light to them: as to Daniel and Zechariah, but eſpecially to Ezekiel as in the particulars of q eating up the Book; of r ſealing Gods People; of s the four living Creatures; of t Gog and Magog; of the u meaſuring of the Temple and City; of x the two Olive Trees, &c. 3. Many things foretold in this Book prophetically, are fulfilled and come to paſſe actually, as Interpreters have obſerved in many particulars. y Therefore this Book is of divine Authority. 4. Promiſe of z explaining how long the idolatrous and tyrannical kingdome of Antichriſt ſhould laſt, was made to Daniel the Prophet, which ſome conceive to be fulfilled in theſe a Apocalyptical Viſions. And had not Chriſt under the New Teſtament, left his Church ſome prophetical Record for her comfort againſt the horrid cruelty, idolatry and darkneſſe of the Antichriſtian dominion, ſhewing when it ſhould have an end, and how happy at laſt the Church ſhould be, all her enemies being univerſally made the footſtool of the Lamb, ſhe were in a worſe condition then under the Old Teſtament; which were abſurd.

4. As the Holy Ghoſt by Moſes, the firſt Penman of the Canon of the Old Teſtament warned the Jewes againſt adding to, or diminiſhing from the Word of God; b You ſhall not adde unto the Word which I command you, neither ſhall you diminiſh from it. So by the Apoſtle John, the laſt Penman of the Canon of the New Teſtament, Jeſus Chriſt warneth all perſons that hear the words of this Prophecy; c If any man ſhall adde unto theſe things, God ſhall adde unto him the Plagues that are written in this Book: And if any man ſhall take away from the Words of the Book of this Prophecy, God ſhall take away his part out of the Book of Life, and out of the Holy City, and from the things which are written in this Book. By which ſevere Commination, the compleat Perfection, Integrity, and divine Authority of this Book is aſſerted by Chriſt, againſt all whom Chriſt foreſaw, would either endeavour to infringe the Authority of it, or corrupt the purity of it. Hereby then the whole divine Canon is ſealed up, as being now fully compleat, and divinely Authentical, after which we are to expect no more Scripture from God.

5. The general current of beſt Antiquity, (except ſome few particular Perſons, and divers of them guilty of ſuch hereſies as this Book condemns,) hath embraced this Book, and accounted it of divine Authority. As thoſe formerly cited, to prove John the Apoſtle to be Penman of it; and d many more that might be enumerated.

Sect. III. The Excellency of the Revelation.

The ſingular Excellency of this Book, is moſt conſiderable. For,

1. The Conveyance of it at firſt to the Church is ſingular, viz. From f God, to Jeſus Chriſt; From Jeſus Chriſt, to an Angel; From the Angel to John, whom Jeſus peculiarly loved above all his Apoſtles and Diſciples. And this to John, when in exile for Chriſt in the g Iſle Patmos; and that not on a common day, but h on the Lords day, the Queen of days; and to John in Patmos on the Lords day, not in an ordinary but extraordinary compoſure and elevation of his ſoule; when i he was in the ſpirit, caught up (as it were,) and tranſported in an holy extaſie or ſpiritual rapture, that he might the more attend to theſe myſteries Revealed, and have more immediate un-interrupted Communion with Jeſus Chriſt the Revealer; what can all this import, but ſome ſingularly eminent treaſure for the Church in this Book, whereby the Church in her deepeſt tribulation may be (with John) ſpiritually intranſed and raviſhed with many heavenly Contemplations, and ſurpaſſing grounds of joy and conſolation?

f Rev. 1. 1. g Rev. 1. 9. h Rev. 1. 10. i Rev. 1. 10.

2. The ſtile is ſtately and ſublime, and may wonderfully take the higheſt notion; The expreſſions quick, piercing and pathetical, and may pleaſingly penetrate the dulleſt affection. The whole contexture is ſo full of divine Majeſty, that it commands an awful reverence in all gracious hearts that read it.

3. The matter of it is moſt heavenly and ſpiritual, and that in exceeding great variety; Notably deſcribing the Divinity of Chriſt; his Offices and the benefits of them. Clearly pointing out Antichriſts Seate,

State, Tyranny, Rise, Growth, Power, Aft; and Fall. And most lively delineating the Churches condition. What it was in the primitive times after Christ; And what it should be afterwards till the worlds end: How sad, yet safe under Antichrists dominion; How sweet and happy after Antichrists destruction; How comfortable at the day of judgment; And how glorious in heaven with Jesus Christ for evermore. What Saints would not thirst much, to read and hear; more to understand; but most of all, to enjoy these things? Some of them are laid down most mystically in abstruse visions to exercise the judgments of the wisest: Some more familiarly to succour the infirmity even of the weakest. In some places, the Lamb may wade; in others, the Elephant may swim. Those prevent contempt; these anticipate discouragement. Joachimus Abbas prefers this Prophecy before the Prophecy of all other Prophets. Beza saith, k That those things in other Prophets, which were not fulfilled after Christs coming, the Holy Spirit hath heaped them altogether in this precious Book, and also added others to save it was needful or useful for the Church to know them. Oecolampadius calls this Book, l The best Paraphrase of all the Prophets. Hieronym saith, m The Revelation contains infinite mysteries of future things. And elsewhere (as hath been already noted,) he testifieth, that n The Revelation hath as many mysteries, as words. Yea but a little I say, all praise is too low for the merit of this Volume, manifold understandings lye hid in every word.

4. The Book it self is compleat, o capable of no Addition or Detraction, but upon severest penalties.

5. The Penman eminent, viz. John that beloved Disciple, that sweet compound of love. It was Moses his honour, who was p Gods peculiar favourite, to be Penman of the first Book of the Old Testament. And it was John's honour, who was q Christs peculiar favourite, to be Penman of the last Book of the New Testament; Oh what Divine love and favour is made known unto the Church, in all the Volumes between the Armes of these two Favourites! Hierome thus commends John; r Peter is an Apostle; and John an Apostle; but Peter an Apostle only; John both an Apostle, and an Evangelist, and a Prophet. An Apostle, because he wrote as a Master to the Churches: An Evangelist, because he penned the Book of the Gospel: A Prophet, for he saw in the Isle Pathmos (into which he was banished by Domitian the Prince, for the testimony of the Lord,) The Revelation, containing infinite mysteries of future things.

6. Finally, God counts them blessed souls, that read, hear and Keep the words of this Prophecy, s Blessed is he that readeth, and they that hear the words of this Prophecy, and keep those things that are written therein. A blessed Book indeed, that renders them blessed, who are practically versed and exercised in it.

Sect. IV. Difficulty of the Revelation; and some Directions for the better understanding of it.

Sundry Books of Holy Scripture, are hard to be understood, especially those that are Prophetical, but among all the prophetical Books chiefly the Revelation. It is a book full of obscure and intricate Visions, making known abstruse and hidden mysteries most mysteriously, and that in reference to future times; and therefore the acutest perspicacity is here exercised the profoundest judgment of Interpreters is RULE I.

1. Read, Meditate, Practise and Pray; that thou most spiritually understand. Read, what is here revealed; Meditate, on what thou readest; Practise, what thou knowest upon meditation; and Pray that by all these, and beyond all these, the Lord Christ may enable thee to know.

1. Read daily, diligently, and attentively. t Blessed is (even) he that readeth, and they that hear the words of this Prophecy. The u Ethiopian Eunuch read the Prophet Isaiah, though he understood him not, and while he was so reading, the Spirit of the Lord sends him Philip to be his Interpreter. Though thou understandest not every thing in this Revelation, yet read it often; who knows but the Spirit may send thee an Interpreter, yea himself may become an Interpreter to thee? He that reads and hears may understand in time; but he that doth neither, how should he understand at all?

2 Meditate, and ponder upon what thou readest seriously. Its part of the blessed godly mans character, p That his delight is in the Law of the Lord, and he will meditate in his Law day and night. The Lords Word, is his Law; and this book is no mean part of his Word. The hands frequent exercise, makes hardest tasks easie to be done: so the minds frequent exercise, makes hardest truths easier to be known. Meditation is the minds exercise; stir up thine intellectuals, judiciously revolve these mysteries again and again in thy thoughts. If thoughts get once up upon the wing, thou canst not tell how high they may aspire and soare aloft to the discovery of these sublime things. And be sure here's such spirituality, sublimity, variety, certainty and commodity of these divine mysteries, as are richly worth all thy intensive contemplations. John himself was q ravisht in spirit, when he saw these things: thou wilt be ravisht in spirit also when thou knowest these things.

3. Practise sincerely what upon reading and meditation thou findest to be thy duty. They are r bap-

Ty that keep those things which are written in this Book. Knowledge is the guide of Practice: Practice is the nurse of Knowledge. David gained most divine knowledge by his holy y Practice. He that doth most, knows best what he knows, and z shall know more then he knows, as Christ hath promised.

4. Pray often and fervently, to the a Father of lights, to dispel thy darkness; to Christ the great b Prophet, to unfold these mysteries to thee; and to the illuminating spirit, that as c he anointing, he would teach thee all things. God alone that d gave the Revelation, can give us the mind and meaning of the Revelation. Christ alone, whose eyes are as a flame of fire, and who is that Lamb, having seven eyes, which are the seven spirits of God, that alone was worthy to open the Book, and unloose the seals thereof, can open these secrets to thy mind, and unseal thy mind by his Spirit, that thou mayst discern his will and pleasure. Praying Christians will prove Knowing Christians. Moses was but a while in the earthly Mount with God, and his face did shine: dwell thou in the heavenly Mount by Prayer with God, and thy mind will shine, thy heart will shine.

RULE. II.

II. Compare diligently the passages, phrases and expressions which are in the Revelation, with those of other Scriptures and Prophecies, which are either purposely alledged, or plainly alluded to. Hereby much light will be gained to many dark places in this book and so Scripture shall expound Scripture, which is the best and surest Interpreter of it self. See this cleared in the following instances of Allegations of, or allusions to other Scriptures, which are found in this Book.

Here God is described by his eternal being, e which is, and which was, and which is to come: In allusion to that essential Name of God, I am that I am, and especially to JEHOVAH, which note Gods eternal independing being, which was, is, and will be, this name including in it the Praeter, present, and future tense. Here Christ is called b the first begotten of the Dead; As Paul saith of him, But now is Christ risen from the dead, and became the first fruits of them that slept. Here its said of Christs coming to judgement. c Every eye shall see him, and they also which peirced him, and all kindreds of the earth shall wail because of him: And Zechariah saith, they shall look upon me whom they have pierced, and they shall mourne for him, as one mourneth for his only Son. &c. Here Christs eternity is set down in the same phrase, wherby Isaiah declares Gods Eternity, d I am the first & the last So that Christ is eternal God. Here Christ is described. e One like unto the Son of man, clothed with a Garment down to the foot, and girt about the paps with a golden girdle. His head & his hairs were white like wool, as white as snow, and his eyes as a flame of fire, & his feet like unto fine brasse, as if they burned in a furnace, and his voice as the sound of many waters. In like manner as Daniel describes the Eternal, All-knowing, Terrible and Omnipotent God; and the Son of God: And the Ancient of days did sit, whose garment was white as snow, and the hair of his head like pure wool ——— Behold a certain man clothed in Linnen, whose loyns were girded with fine Gold of Uphaz.—And his eyes as lamps of fire, and his armes and his feet like in colour to polished brasse, and the voice of his words like the voice of a multitude. Hence Christ is discovered to be God, Eternal, Omniscient, Omnipotent. Multitudes of such passages are observable throughout this Book, too tedious here to expresse at large; only they are here pointed at in the f Margin. The diligent Reader may carefully at his leisure compare these parallel places together, and thereby he will find no small advantage for the clearer understanding of many things in this Book.

RULE. III.

III. Consider accurately and weigh judiciously the intrinsecal Nature of the Revelation it self. Other Scriptures may afford some glimmerings of light to this Book, as hath been intimated; but the judicious pondering of the inward frame of this Book will yield farre clearer beams of light thereunto. Under God, The Revelation is the best expounder of the Revelation, (as g Pareus hath observed.) This the best and surest basis or foundation of the most safe, clear, and certain Interpretation. To devise a proper, natural and genuine sence from it, must needs be far more cogent and satisfactory, than to obtrude or impose a devised and forced sence upon it. The great variety, uncertainty, and unsatisfactorines of Expositors upon the Revelation, seems chiefly to have risen from their not extracting their Expositions from the inward nature of the Revelation. Now in the Revelation it self, these things seem chiefly conducible to the opening and unfolding of the Mysteries therein; viz. 1. To eye the Scope of the Book. 2. To observe the Method, Series and Order of the whole Prophecy. 3. To weigh advisedly the sweet Harmony and consent of the Prophecies, and their exact contemporarinesse with one another. 4. To note heedfully all such visions or obscure passages, as are interpreted in the Revelation it self; for of all such; the Exposition is undoubted and infallible.

g Dedi operam ut argumentum, scopum, nexum, seriem periodo singularum declararem; sed cum primis, ut Harmoniam atque consensum typorum præcedentium & sequentium, obscuriorum & apertiorum invicem, & cum typis phrasibusque veterum prophetarum evidenter ostenderem; sicque Apocalypsin per Apocalypsin illustrarem; quæ interpretandi ratio non potest non esse tutissima & certissima. Cum enim sit evidens, typos obscuriores præcedere, clariores subsequi, & esse tamen analogos: utique ex clarioribus obscuriores investigari debent. D. Pareus in Proem. Apoc. cap. 11.

1. Eye

1. For fill the Scope of the Book. This is a common Term, and Period, whereunto all the particular Prophecies and Passages of the Revelation primarily run, and wherein they all meet. And consequently this forms the Method of the whole Book: and all the Visions, Prophecies, and Passages contained in it, are to be ranged under it, and to be explained according to the rule of this Method. Which is so plain and natural, that it is impossible there should be any mistake about it. 2. Observe another general Rule or Order of the whole Prophecy. This is an Ariadne's Thread, or Clew, that will infallibly direct you through the Labyrinth of this Prophecy, that you shall not lose nor cast off. This will prevent the greatest confusion in the interpreting and understanding of this Book. This will not only discover many stiff clouds, but dissolve and untie many of them most successfully. This will chalk and line out the right path to the immediate Scope of the whole. Now the Method and Order, which seems to lie plain before me in this Book, is Generally, as here followeth. (Particularly, as is afterwards described in the Principal parts, or Sections of the Application.)

(1) The whole Revelation seems plainly to be distributed into three general Branches, viz. 1. The Preface, Rev. 1. 1, 2, 3. 2. The main body of the Book, from Rev. 1. 4. to Rev. 22. 6. 3. The Conclusion of the Book, Rev. 22. 6. to the end. This is clear and evident.

(2) The main body or Substance of the Revelation seems to be disparted by Christ himself, according to the nature of the Subject-matters therein handled. i Write the things which thou hast seen, and the things which are, and the things which shall be hereafter. Hence the whole Revelation is comprehended under things seen. These things seen are divided into two sorts, viz. I. The things which are; this Book is chiefly historical. And under this Branch seems to be understood all the present affairs of the seven Churches in Asia, Described, 1. Partly in one General Epistle to them all, Rev. 1. 4. to the end of the Chap. 2. Partly, and especially in seven particular Epistles directed to the seven Churches severally, Rev. 2. and 3. throughout. II. The things which shall be hereafter. This Branch is chiefly Prophetical. And under this Branch seem evidently to be comprehended all the Prophecies, from Rev. 4. 1. to Rev. 22. 6. And in this part are lodged the chief difficulties of the Revelation.

(3.) This part of the Revelation, which is most properly and purely Prophetical, and absolutely the most abstruse and intricate of all, is by learned Interpreters variously methodized. I observe among them three several Opinions about the Order and Method thereof. 1. Some conceive this part is one entire continued Prophecy of future events to the end: and thus they express it: Here are first brought in seven Seals, opened one after another; in the seventh Seal are brought in seven Trumpets, sounding orderly after one another; and under the seventh Trumpet are brought in the seven Vialls destroying the Beast. This is the way that k Brightman, Piscator, and Napier go. But it hath these two inconveniencies especially attending upon it, viz. Partly that they are forced to begin the Prophecy in the twelfth Chapter of the Revelation, which relates to the infancy of the Primitive Church, which ought according to order to have been set first, and so (as l Pareus hath well observed,) They make a great skip, and exceedingly disturb the Order of the History, which things cannot be defended. Partly, that they are necessitated for salving the former inconvenience to count the whole 12. 13. and 14. Chapters of the Revelation, to be a meer repetition of those things contained in the Seals and Trumpets. Which large Repetition makes such a wide chasme and gap in the Series of the Prophecy, as is not to coordinate thereunto. 3. These two Prophecies treat of Two distinct subjects, or two distinct sorts of mysteries. The first Prophecy treats of a book in the right hand of him that sate upon the throne, written within and without, sealed with seven Seals. The Second Prophecy, of a little book, which is open in the hand of a mighty Angel, that stood upon the sea and upon the earth. These mysteries are distinct. 4. These two Prophecies, in respect of the mysteries contained in them, are orderly parallel one to another, as at once have already demonstratively shewed: and so they are distinct and are the fairer. 5. These Two Prophecies have two distinct manners of ending. The first, with the finishing of the mystery of God, as he hath declared to his Servants the Prophets: The Kingdoms of this world becoming our Lords and his Christs. The Second with the binding of Satan for a thousand years; The Reigning of the Saints with Christ a thousand years: yet both these Prophecies ultimately terminate & meet in the General Resurrection of the dead, the general Judgement, the damnation and torments of the wicked, and the endless salvation and happiness of the Righteous. Finally, inasmuch as Daniel in his Prophecy under the Old Testament, did estate signifie the coming of Christ, and the future state and lot of the Jewish Church, according to the Succession and Series of the IV. Empires: Why should it be thought strange that John in his Prophecy under the New Testament, should foretell and measure the future lot, and affairs of the Christian Church, according to the affairs and events of that which remains of the Fourth and last, viz. the Roman Empire which Christs Kingdome will at last swallow up and abolish?

Object. Only here against these two distinct Prophecies, or Systems of Prophecies, it may be objected; That this second Prophecy is made to begin in ch. 10. 8. whereas the first Prophecy ends not till the close of the eleventh chapter; which seems to be very preposterous, and much to invert the order of things.

Answ. 1. It cannot be denied but that this Objection is of weight, and deserves serious consideration for here is an evident suspension or interruption of the publication or manifestation of the 7th. Trumpet from ch. 10. v. 8. to ch. 11. v. 15. in all which verses the beginning and progress of the second prophecy is interposed: And then From ch. 11. v. 15. to the end of that ch. The 7th. Trumpet, and mysteries thereof are manifested to the end of the world. Then in ch. 12. 1. and so forwards to ch 22. 6. The other mysteries of the second prophecy, are revealed and superadded. II. Notwithstanding this great pause or interruption of the First Prophecy, by interposition of part of the Second Prophecy, yet it hinders not at all the distinctness of these two Prophecies, and the resolving of this Prophetical part of the Revelation, into these two Systemes of Prophecies. For,

1. The mighty Angel hath immediately, and in due order annexed the seventh Trumpet, and the mystery thereof, summarily at the end of the sixth Trumpet, though but in this brief intimation; d That in the days of the voice of the seventh Angel, when he shall begin to sound, the mystery of God shall be finished, as he hath declared to his servants the Prophets.

d Rev. 10.7.

2. The full and compleat manifestation of this Seventh Trumpet, and the mysteries therein, is by the same Angel purposely suspended, for special and weighty reason, viz. that so he might draw down the Series of the Second Prophecy (viz. in the first vision thereof, Touching e the measuring of the Temple, treading of the unmeasured outer Court of the Temple, the holy City, under foot by the Gentiles fourty two moneths, and the two witnesses prophecying in sackcloth one thousand two hundred and sixty dayes, &c.) even equal to the period of the sixth Trumpet of the First Prophecy, now already so far carried on; that so the contemporaneousness of these mysteries with the seven seals to the end of the sixth Trumpet in the First Prophecy being once setled: all the following visions of the Second Prophecy, contemporary or parallel in time to this Sixth Vision thereof may be deduced thereupon, and so be more exactly in point of time compared with the Seals and Trumpets, and consequently be more certainly interpreted, as after will more clearly appear. So that by this suspension of the Seventh Trumpet, with the interposition of part of the Second Prophecy, the distinctness of these two Systems of Prophecies, is not overthrown, but confirmed, and the interruption is exceeding advantageous for the understanding of the rest of the Revelation. Let the attentive Reader heedfully consider this, for the facilitating of many difficulties in this Book.

Ponder and weigh additionally the Synchronisms, or Contemporaneousness of these two Prophecies, how the visions therein run parallel with one another, what an intimate Harmony and consentaneity there is amongst them in behalf of time. The diligent and heedful comparing of Visions together, which are contemporary, will notably and especially help to the more certain defining and determining of the beginnings and periods of future times foretold in this Book, and so to the true understanding of the Revelation; it being one of the greatest difficulties in the Revelation, punctually and certainly to find out the Beginnings and periods of the Times therein intended.

Now the Contemporaneousness of these two Prophecies stands thus, viz. I. The Systeme of Visions in the First Prophecy is most evidently laid down in f the f Rev. 6. 1, opening of Seven Seals, one after another in Order. 3, 5, 7, 9, In the g opening of the Seventh Seal whereof, Seven 12. and 8. 1 Trumpets are sounded one after another successively. g Rev. 8. 1, So that as this First Prophecy h begins with the open- 2. &c. ing of the First Seal; so it ends with the sounding b Rev. 5. 1. of the last Trumpet. This is clear from the Series of with 6. 1. the Text without difficulty. II. The Systeme of i Rev. 10. 7. Visions in the Second Prophecy, presents to us divers & 11. 15, particular Visions contemporary to one another, and &c. also to several parts of the First Prophecy in order. As: 1. These are contemporaneous to the six first Seals: and to one another, viz. (1) The measuring of the Temple of God, and of the Altar, and of them that worship therein. (2) The Battel of the seven-headed Dragon with Michael about the Childes birth, whereof the woman travelled. 2. These are contemporaneous to part of the Seventh Seal, i. e. to the Six First Trumpets sounding under the Seventh Seal: and also contemporaneous to one another: viz. [1] The unmeasured outward Court of the Temple or Holy City, given to the Gentiles to be trodden under foot for forty two moneths. [2] The Lords two Witnesses (at last to be overcome and killed by the Beast, after they have finished their Testimony,) prophecying in sack-cloath one thousand two hundred and sixty days, i. e. forty two moneths. [3] The woman that brought forth the man-child, and fled from the Dragon into the Wilderness, is there nourished from the face of the Serpent one thousand two hundred and sixty days; Or for a time, and times, and half a time. [4] The seven-headed and ten-born'd beast, after the deadly wound of his last head was healed, blasphemeth God, his Tabernacle, and them that dwell in Heaven: warreth with, and overcometh the Saints forty two moneths. [5] The two-horned beast, or false Prophet, who restored the first beast, exerciseth all the power of the first beast before him. [6] The Lambs Virgin-Company of 144000 redeemed from the Earth, (who alone could learn and sing the New-Song,) standing with him on Mount-Sion, the fear and worship of God is commanded; the ruine of Babylon, and of them that worship the beast, &c. is threatned. [7] Babylon the great, the Mother of Harlots, and abominations of the Earth, sits upon the seven-headed beast, now in the course of his seventh head being ten-born'd, and makes the inhabitants of the earth drunk with the wine of her fornications. 3. Six of the seven Vials of Gods wrath, destroying the Beast, are contemporaneous to the sixth Trumpet. 4. Finally, These are contemporaneous to the seventh Trumpet (under (unless which the mystery of God shall be finished; and to the innumerable company of Angels praising Triumphant, of all Nations, and Kindreds, and People, and Tongues) and also concerning many other, viz. (1) The opening of the Book (to the beginning unto the Seventh Trumpet). (2) The sounding of the Seven Trumpets. (3) The first Resurrection and Reigning of the Saints a thousand years. (4) The holy City, New Jerusalem prepared as a Bride adorned for her Husband. Light whereof, the nations of them which are saved shall walk, and unto which the Kings of the earth bring their glory, (honour) cannot have from God an entrance.

These are the chief main things which we conceive in the five Particulars, which give great light to the Revelation; I forbear (for avoiding of Prolixity) to enlarge my self further, although many more from the Text, or expressing them in a Scheme, (as once I had intended,) because, 2 both are so accurately and learnedly done on my hand already.

4. Thirdly, Mark exactly what Prophecies, Visions, or obscure passages are in this Book, of the Revelation expounded. And there bring the expositions to mind, and the sense and use. And from these expositions proportionally borrow light for the discovering of other obscure passages depending thereupon, relating thereunto, or contemporaneous therewith. Thus Christ expounds, k The mystery of the seven stars in his right hand, and of the seven golden Candlesticks. The seven stars are the Angels of the seven Churches, and the seven Candlesticks which thou sawest are the seven Churches. Thus m the mystery of the woman (the great whore of Babylon) and of the beast that carrieth her, which hath seven heads and ten horns, is most clearly expounded by the Spirit of God. Thus by this (which alone of all the mysteries in the Prophetical part is expounded,) we might have some certain foundation for interpreting and understanding of the rest.

Hitherto of the third direction touching the Interpretical nature of the Revelation it self.

Sect. V. Time, when this Book was written.

This Book is generally conceived to have been Penned and published after all the Books of the New-Testament, by John the Apostle, who survived after all the Apostles, living (as Sophronius thinks) even till the third year of Trajan the Emperour, which was in the one hundred and second year after Christs Birth, as Helvicus computes, and Sect. VI. Occasion.

Sect. VII. Scope.

The Scope or drift of the Revelation may be considered 1. More generally, 2. More particularly.

I. More generally, Jesus Christ by this Book intends to reveal and make known unto his Apostle, and beloved disciple JOHN, and by JOHN unto the Churches, both the present things that then were, when the Revelation was given, and the future things that should be afterwards, from Johns days till the end of the world. This (1) the Title of the Book intimates. b The Revelation of Jesus Christ, which God gave unto him, to shew unto his servants things which must shortly come to pass; and he sent and signified it by his Angel unto his servant John. And (2) Christ himself confirms this in his command to John touching the penning of this Book, saying; c Write the things which thou hast seen, both the things which are, and the things which shall be hereafter. This also (3) The Series and Current of the Book evinceth, which runs along in Prediction of future events till at last the d Mystery of God be finished; e The Kingdoms of this World become our Lords and his Christs; f The dead small and great arise, and are judged according to their works; And till the Holy g City, New Jerusalem, be prepared as a Bride adorned for her husband. As an indication of this intended period of this Prophecy, perhaps that emphatical hint of Christs coming to judgement, is prefixed in the front of the Prophecy before the first visions; h Behold he cometh with clouds, and every eye shall see him, and they also which pierced him, and all kindreds of the earth shall wail because of him; even so, Amen.

II. More particularly, Jesus Christ intends in this Book to declare,

i Though immediately these seven Epistles declare the present condition and affaires of the seven Asian Angels and Churches; yet Mediately and Analogically by rule of Proportion, the contents of these Epistles concern all the Churches of Christ, according as their state and condition is correspondent to that of any of these 7. Churches. For, whatsoever things were written aforetime were written for our learning, that we through patience and comfort of the Scriptures might have hope, Rom. 15. 4. But Mr. Brightman herein proceeds a little further, and conceives, That these seven Cities contain the universal condition of the Church among the Gentiles; and therefore to those seven Churches and Cities, according to their Order, situation and distances from each other as types; he joyns other fellow-Churches answering thereunto as Anti-types, Counter-Copies or Counter-pains, of these seven Churches. And so makes all these Epistles, as well Prophetical in respect of the future Counter-pain Chambers: Historical, in respect of the present Anti-type Asian Churches. These Asian Churches he sets forth by their Characters and Counter-pains, as followeth, viz. 1. Languishing Ephesus, the first of these seven Cities: The Counter-pain of it. The first Christian Church from the time of the Apostles till the time of Constantine the great, which was the Principal of all other Churches. 2. Sweet-smelling Smyrna, an under-City of Ephesus, northward from it, and a Colony belonging to the Ephesians: The Counter-pain of it; The Church succeeding the first, beginning with Constantine, and continued till Gratian, till about Anno Dom. 382 according to Eusebius. 3. High and haughty Pergamus, lying northward from Smyrna about five hundred and forty furlongs. The Counter-pain of it: the Church from Gratians time, about the year 380. till about the year 1300; 4. Growing Thyatira, bending South-east from Pergamus, about eighty English miles, the first New-springing Church. The Counter-pain of it, the Church from the year 1300 till about the year, 1520. 5. Hypocritical Sardis, tending further Southward, being the second New-springing Church: The Counter-pain of it, the first Reformed Church begun by Martin Luther at Wittenburg a Town of Saxony by the River Albis, in Anno Dom. 1517. 6. Godly Philadelphia, lying from Sardis southward: The Counter-pain or Anti-type of it: The second Reformed Church, springing up after that of Germany, viz. The Church of Helvetia, Suevia, Geneva, France, Holland, Scotland. 7. Luke-warm, Vain-glorious Laodicea, lying Eastward from Philadelphia, the last of all these seven Churches: The Counter-pain of it: The Church of England, last of all reformed, viz. in Anno 1547. when King Edward the sixth came to the Crown, and becoming a confirmed and established Church about eleven years after, when Queen Elizabeth began to reign. See Thomas Brightman in his Revelation of the Apocalypse, or chap. 2, 3. This his way of interpretation (though to some it may perhaps seem somewhat too curious,) is not wholly to be despised. Because (1) The Accommodation of those Churches to their Counterpaines, is made remarkably fit and appositе. (2) The Events, even since his writing as well as before, have notably corresponded. (3) The Analogical Application of these Epistles to Churches of like condition with them of Asia, cannot rationally be denyed.

II. The things that shall be hereafter, viz. The future condition of the Christian Religion, and Churches of the Gentiles, especially the European Churches; the Remains of the Roman-Empire, and the tyrannical dominion of Antichrist, (those singular Subject-Matters of this book,) extending themselves in Europe peculiarly. Now this future state of the Christian Religion, and Christian Church, is laid down in two Mystical Prophecies, or Schems of Prophecies, viz.

1. The first Prophecy is of a k Book sealed with seven Seals, and of the Lambs opening of them; in the seventh of which Seals are brought in seven Trumpets founded by seven Angels; and in the seventh Trumpet seven Thunders uttering their voices. In all which Seals and Trumpets, the future state and destiny of that bitter Enemy of the Church of Christ, the Roman Empire is fore-told, (but still with reference to the Church) and that in divers remarkable periods of events; especially 1. Under the six first Seals, what shall be the state of the Empire, while yet standing and flourishing, till the power of it and its Idols should be ruined. 2. Under the seventh and last Seal, what shall be the fatal destiny of that Empire, now declining, falling, and running to ruine, through the seven-fold order of plagues, inflicted by the sounding of the seven Trumpets. (The righteous Lord justly revenging the blood of so many Martyrs as had been slain under the Roman power,) till at sounding of the last Trumpet, the Kingdoms of this world became our Lords and his Christs.

2. The second Prophecie is of a A Little Book open, (which John is commanded to p eat up,) whereby the future lot, condition, and affairs of the Christian Church and Religion, are more nobly, fully, and clearly fore-told, what they shall be from the Primitive times till the last Judgment, and this in divers particulars, viz. 1. How purely and regularly the Church should walk and worship God in the Primitive times according to Divine Rule; This noted by the q measuring of the Temple, Altar, and Worshippers therein. In which time the r woman, the Church, travelleth to bring forth her Child, Christ personal and mystical, into the Roman world; and brought him forth: but is cruelly persecuted for three hundred years by the Roman Empire, that Worshipper of the Red Dragon, fighting against Michael against the Spirit of Christ in his Servants. 2. How corruptly the Church, next succeeding the Primitive Church, should decline to Idolatry, Gentilism, and to the Anti-christian Apostacy for forty two moneths, which is noted by the s un-measured outer Court being given to be trodden under foot by the Gentiles forty two moneths. During which sad and lamentable condition of the Church. (1) The t two witnesses Prophecy in sackcloath, till God raise up a better state for the Church. (2) The woman, the Church, being freed from heathenish tyranny, (the Dragon being overcome,) and u nourished, (as Israel of old, ere they came to Canaan,) in the Wilderness, till Christs second coming. (3) The Church in the Wilderness meets with new troubles and persecutions. Partly by a x seven-headed, and ten-horn'd beast. Partly by a y two-horn'd beast, but both mutually engaged to each other. That being the secular power of ten Kingdoms united in one Roman-State or Republick: This being the Roman Papacy. Both, persecuting and overcoming the Saints forty two moneths. (4) In the midst of all the seducements and persecutions of these two Beasts, wherewith the Generality of the Roman world were overcome, yet there were a z select number of Saints, viz. 144000. who persisted pure, not submitting to the wicked power of these Beasts. (5) Babylon the great City, the Mother of Harlots, a maketh all Nations drink of the Wine of the wrath of her Fornications: for which she is threatned with ruine. 3. How the b seven Vials of Gods wrath shall be poured out, to the gradual destruction of the Anti-christian Beast; and judgment of the great Whore of Babylon. The c mystery of which Whore is so clearly expounded of the Roman Papacy, that he that runs may read it: and her irrevocable d ruine is graphically and pathetically described, together with the Saints e joyful triumphs thereupon. 4. Finally, How happy and glorious the state of the Church

i Though immediately these seven Epistles declare the present condition and affaires of the seven Asian Angels and Churches; yet Mediately and Analogically by rule of Proportion, the contents of these Epistles concern all the Churches of Christ, according as their state and condition is correspondent to that of any of these 7. 1. The first Prophecy is of a k Book sealed with seven Seals, and of the Lambs opening of them; in the seventh of which Seals are brought in seven Trumpets founded by seven Angels; and in the seventh Trumpet seven Thunders uttering their voices. In all which Seals and Trumpets, the future state and destiny of that bitter Enemy of the Church of Christ, the Roman Empire is fore-told, (but still with reference to the Church) and that in divers remarkable periods of events; especially 1. Under the six first Seals, what shall be the state of the Empire, while yet standing and flourishing, till the power of it and its Idols should be ruined. 2. Under the seventh and last Seal, what shall be the fatal destiny of that Empire, now declining, falling, and running to ruine, through the seven-fold order of plagues, inflicted by the sounding of the seven Trumpets. (The righteous Lord justly revenging the blood of so many Martyrs as had been slain under the Roman power,) till at sounding of the last Trumpet, the Kingdoms of this world became our Lords and his Christs.

2. The second Prophecie is of a A Little Book open, (which John is commanded to p eat up,) whereby the future lot, condition, and affairs of the Christian Church and Religion, are more nobly, fully, and clearly fore-told, what they shall be from the Primitive times till the last Judgment, and this in divers particulars, viz. 1. How purely and regularly the Church should walk and worship God in the Primitive times according to Divine Rule; This noted by the q measuring of the Temple, Altar, and Worshippers therein. In which time the r woman, the Church, travelleth to bring forth her Child, Christ personal and mystical, into the Roman world; and brought him forth: but is cruelly persecuted for three hundred years by the Roman Empire, that Worshipper of the Red Dragon, fighting against Michael against the Spirit of Christ in his Servants. 2. How corruptly the Church, next succeeding the Primitive Church, should decline to Idolatry, Gentilism, and to the Anti-christian Apostacy for forty two moneths, which is noted by the s un-measured outer Court being given to be trodden under foot by the Gentiles forty two moneths. During which sad and lamentable condition of the Church. (1) The t two witnesses Prophecy in sackcloath, till God raise up a better state for the Church. (2) The woman, the Church, being freed from heathenish tyranny, (the Dragon being overcome,) and u nourished, (as Israel of old, ere they came to Canaan,) in the Wilderness, till Christs second coming. (3) The Church in the Wilderness meets with new troubles and persecutions. Partly by a x seven-headed, and ten-horn'd beast. Partly by a y two-horn'd beast, but both mutually engaged to each other. That being the secular power of ten Kingdoms united in one Roman-State or Republick: This being the Roman Papacy. Both, persecuting and overcoming the Saints forty two moneths. (4) In the midst of all the seducements and persecutions of these two Beasts, wherewith the Generality of the Roman world were overcome, yet there were a z select number of Saints, viz. 144000. who persisted pure, not submitting to the wicked power of these Beasts. (5) Babylon the great City, the Mother of Harlots, a maketh all Nations drink of the Wine of the wrath of her Fornications: for which she is threatned with ruine. 3. How the b seven Vials of Gods wrath shall be poured out, to the gradual destruction of the Anti-christian Beast; and judgment of the great Whore of Babylon. The c mystery of which Whore is so clearly expounded of the Roman Papacy, that he that runs may read it: and her irrevocable d ruine is graphically and pathetically described, together with the Saints e joyful triumphs thereupon. 4. Finally, How happy and glorious the state of the Church

Sect. VIII. Principal Parts, or Analytical Explication.

In this well ordered Book, The Revelation, are chiefly considerable, 1. The Preface. 2. The Substance, or Body of the Book. 3. The Conclusion.

I. THE PREFACE contains, I. The Denomination, or Title of the Book; The Revelation of Jesus Christ. II. The End intended in this Book, To shew to his Servants things which shall shortly come to pass. III. The Efficient Cause, or Author of this Book; which are, 1. Principal, viz. [1] God, [2] Jesus Christ; which God gave unto him. 2. Instrumental, viz. [1] An Angel. [2] John; and he sent and signified it by his Angel unto his servant John. Chap. 1. ver. 1. This John is described as a fit Instrument to receive and make known this Revelation, in that He bare record of the WORD of God, and of the Testimony of Jesus Christ, and of all things he saw, ver. 2. IV. An Invitation, To read, and hear the words of this Prophecy, and to keep those things which are written therein; 1. From the benefit thence redounding; Blessed is he that readeth, &c. 2. From the General Concernment of this Prophecy; For the time is at hand. Though therefore it reveal future things, yet some of them shall shortly begin to be: therefore every one is concerned therein, ver. 3.

II. THE BODY, or SUBSTANCE OF THE BOOK is wholly Visional; chiefly comprehended in VII. Visions. Wherein John describes and writes the things which he had seen, which things Christ himself ranks into two sorts, Rev. 1. 19. viz. 1. The things that are. 2. The things which shall be hereafter.

1. THE THINGS THAT ARE, seem Primarily and Immediately to have respect to the State of the Church then present, viz. To the State of the seven Asian Churches especially: But Secondarily, Mediately and Analogically to other following Churches, as it were adumbrated and resembled by them. o as some think. The things concerning the Asian Churches, or the seven Churches in Asia Minor, are comprehended " 1. In one General Epistle to them all joynly. 2. In " seven Particular Epistles directed to the Angels of " the seven Churches Severally.

o See Sect. VII. immediatly foregoing.

1. THE ONE GENERAL EPISTLE, written to the seven Churches in Asia joynly; contains in it, 1. An Inscription. 2. A Salutation. 3. A Narration.

1. In the Inscription are mentioned 1. The Party writing; John. 2. The Parties written to, To the seven Churches in Asia, v. 4.

2. In the Salutation, note 1. The blessings wished, or prayed for, in respect of these Churches, Grace be unto you, and Peace. II. The Fountain whence these Blessings must flow, viz. 1. From God the Father, Described by the Eternity of his Essence; " From nal Mission, Wisdome. (2) His eyes were as a flame of fire: Denoting his Omniscience and piercing-speedy, far discerning all things. His terrible quickness and fiercenesse to revenge, Psal. 18. (3) His feet like unto fine brass, as if they burned in a furnace: denoting his firmness and power, able to contend with all that touch or oppose him. (4) His voice as the sound of many waters: denoting the terribleness and vociferousness thereof among all the people of the world, Ezek. 1. (5) He had in his right hand seven Stars: Denoting the Government and Protection of the Ministers of the Churches. (6) Out of his mouth went a sharp two-edged Sword: Denoting the cutting power and efficacy of his word, his ability to avenge himself upon his enemies. (7) And finally, his countenance as the Sun shineth in his strength: Denoting his incomprehensible and unconceivable glory, ver. 16. VII. The Reverend or Confirmers arising upon this Vision, viz. 1. John's Confternation: And when I saw him, I fell at his feet as dead. 2. Christs consolation and confirmation of John; Partly, by his Fact: And he laid his right hand upon me. Partly, by his Word: Saying unto me, fear not. The Arguments whereby Christ comforts John, are drawn, (1) From Christs absolute eternity: I am the first and the last, ver. 17. (2) From his life, though he was dead: I am he that liveth, and was dead: and behold I am alive for evermore, Amen. (3) From his Power and Authority over Hell and Death, to open and shut them at his Pleasure: And have the Keys of Hell and of Death, v. 18. 3. Christs command to John to write the things which he had seen; viz. Both (1) The things which are. And (2) The things which shall be hereafter, ver. 19. 4. Christs interpretation of the former Vision, viz. [1] Of the Mystery of the seven Stars, which are the Angels of the seven Churches. [2] Of the mystery of the seven Candlesticks, which are the seven Churches, v. 20. Unto these seven Churches he afterwards directs him to write seven several Epistles, in the two chapters following.

Hitherto of The Out General Epistle to all the seven Churches jointly.

II. THE VII. PARTICULAR EPISTLES, directed to the Angels of the VII Churches in Asia, severally. Touching every of which Epistles are chiefly considerable, 1. Christs command to write to them all. 2. A Description of Jesus Christ, Partly, agreeable to the former Descriptions of Christ in chapter. 1. Partly, Suitable to the present state and condition of the several Angels and Churches. 3. A Narration (1) Of the good, commendable in them, or (2) Of the Evil condemnable in them; or both. 4. Exhortations, urged with Promises, or Threats. 5. Conclusions inciting to Attention.

Chap. 2. q See for clearing this Rev. 2. 22, 23, 24. 25. and the close of every of these seven Epistles.

Now these Particular Epistles are directed, Primarily to the seven Angels of the seven Churches; Secondarily, with and in them to the q seven Churches themselves: In 1. Ephesus. 2. Smyrna. 3. Pergamus. 4. Thyatira. 5. Sardis. 6. Philadelphia. 7. Laodicea.

I. Languishing Ephesus.

1. The Epistle to the Angel of the Church of Ephesus. In which note. I. The Inscription; shewing 1 To whom John is directed to write: Unto the 1 Angel of the Church of Ephesus, write. 2. From whom he must write, viz. from Christ himself; shewing all the Epistles. Christ here describes himself, in reference to his Church. (1) By his Protection and Guidance of his Ministers, These things saith he, that holdeth the seven Stars in his right hand. (2) By his presence with and care of all his Churches; who walketh in the midst of the seven Golden Candlesticks, Chap. II. ver. 1.

1 Angel.] This word comes Originally from the Greek word ἄγγελος which signifies, One sent-forth-on-a message. It is used, I. More Generally, for any Messenger. So the Spies are called Messengers Gr. Angels James 2. 25. II. More Specially, 1. For Christ the Angels of the Covenant, κατ' ἐξοχὴν. As Mal. 3. 1. Zech. 4. 4. 2. For created Spirits, Good or Bad. (1) Good, viz. those Ministring Spirits sent forth to Minister for the Heirs of Salvation, Heb. 1. 13, 14. Thus its used most commonly. (2) Bad, viz. Satan, and all the rest of those Spirits that left their first estate, 2 Pet. 2. 4. Jude 6. 1 Cor. 6. 3. 2 Cor. 11. 14. For the Devil and his Angels, Mat. 25. 41. Yea, hence its sometimes used for Satan's Temptation, called The Messenger of Satan, Gr. the Angel of Satan, 2 Cor. 12. 7. 3. For the Ministers of the Gospel. Ambassadours for Christ, 2 Cor. 5. 20. who are Messengers sent to publish the good tidings of the Gospel. Thus its often used in the Revelation, as Rev. 1. 20. 2. 1. 8. 18. 3. 1. 7. 14.

Now, Angel in this last sence, here, (and in the other six Epistles following) is not to be taken Distributively. As if this Epistle were written only to one single Individual Angel, or Minister, in that then Church had no more. Or as if some one Angel or Minister above the rest, by way of eminency called Angel. But it is to be understood Collectively, for all the Ministers of that Church, even the whole College or order of Pastors therein. As Bright-man fully shews on Rev. 1. For, 1. It is evident, There was not only One, but many Elders in the Church of Ephesus, at one and the same time, Acts 20. 17, 28, 30, 31. 2. It is clear, that, as among the Apostles there was none greater than other by ordinary office; but they were all equal, Mat. 20. 25, 26, 27. Luke 22. 24, 25, 26. So among the Pastors there was no superiority of office or Power, but all were equal. Compare Acts 20. 17. with ver. 28. and Tit. 1. 5. with ver. 7. viz. Ther. Com. plen. in Epist. Tit. p. 8. ver. 5. Jun. & prim. Clar. viz. on Tit. Sect. 2. 3. Sometimes Christ speaks to the Angels or Ministers of a Church, in the Plural, not in the singular number, which shews that the word Angel here is used Collectively. Thus speaking to the Angel of the Church in Thyatira, he saith, ὑμῖν δὲ λέγω, καὶ τοῖς λοιποῖς τοῖς ἐν Θυατείροις, that is, But unto you I say, and unto the rest in Thyatira, ——— I will put upon you no other burden, but that which ye have already. Hold fast till I come, Rev. 2. 24, 25. By which plural word, [ὑμῖν, unto you] discretively distinguished here from τοῖς λοιποῖς, ——— &c. and unto the rest in Thyatira. Christ seems plainly to intimate that he directs his speech to a plurality of Angels, under the collective and singular word, Angel.

II. The Substance of the Epistle, containing 1. Christs Observation of all the wayes of the Angels; I know thy works. 2. Christs commendation of the Angel, (1) For his unwearied labour in the Ministry, against Discouragements; And thy labour ——— And for my Names sake hast laboured, and hast not fainted. (2) For his constant patience under some remarkable afflictions and persecutions; And thy Patience, ——— And hast born, and hast Patience. (3) For his zeal in the Discipline; Partly in that he could not bear them which were evil. Partly, in that he had tryed them which say they are Apostles, and are not, and had found them lyars, ver. 2, 3. 3. Christs Dispraise and Reprehension of him, for leaving his first love, ver. 4. 4. Christs Exhortation of him to Reformation, by way of remedy. Here note, (1) The Duties required; Remember therefore from whence thou art fallen, and Repent, and do the first works. (2) The Argument pressing to this Duty, viz. A severe commination, or else I will come unto thee quickly, and will remove thy Candlestick out of his place, except thou repent, ver. 5. (2) The Qualification or Mitigation of this Threatning, upon consideration of his hating the deeds of the Nicolaitans, hateful also to Christ, ver. 6.

III. The Conclusion of the Epistle, 1. With an Invitation to Attention; common to all the 7. Epistles; inciting all, but especially the Angels of the Churches, to give heed to the Monitions of the Spirit. He that hath an ear, let him hear what the Spirit saith unto the Churches. 2. With a sweet Promise to him that Overcomes; To him that overcometh will I give to eate of the tree of life, which is in the midst of the Paradise of God, ver. 7.

II. Sweet-

II. Smirt-smelling Smyrna.

2. The Epistle to the Angel of the Church in Smyrna, wherein consider I. The Inscription, declaring 1. To whom John is to write; And unto the Angel of the Church in Smyrna write; 2. From whom he is to write, viz. From Christ, who is described by reference to this Church, These things saith the first and the Last, which was dead and is alive. Therefore able to help and like to those that have suffered for him. II. The Substance of the Epistle, containing 1. Christs observation, both of the Angel, and of his Enemies. Christ observed and knew the Angel's (1) Tribulation, (2) Outward Poverty, (3) But his inward spiritual Riches. Christ observed and knew his enemies Blasphemy against Christ; which enemies are described, (1) By their Hypocrisie, And the blasphemy of them which say they are Jews and are not, (2) By their Impiety; But are the Synagogue of Satan, ver. 9. 2. Christs encouraging consolation of the Angel, against all the sufferings that were further coming upon him; Fear none of those things which thou shalt suffer. Christ encourages him against Persecutions, upon consideration (1) Of the Author of them; The Devil. (2) Of the Nature of them, Imprisonment, shall cast you into prison. (3) Of the extent of them, not to all; Some of you into. ——— (4) Of Christs end and intent in them, That ye may be tryed. (5) Of the duration of them, but for a little space; And ye shall have tribulation for ten dayes. (6) Of Christs promise to the faithfull under them; Be thou faithful unto death, and I will give thee a Crown of life, ver. 10. III. The Conclusion of the Epistle. 1. With an Incitement to Attension; He that hath an ear, &c. 2. With a Promise to him that overcomes, He shall not be hurt of the second death, ver. 11.

III. High and haughty Pergamus.

3. The Epistle to the Angel of the Church in Pergamus. Wherein are, I. The Inscription, shewing 1. To whom John is to direct his Epistle; And to the Angel in the Church of Pergamus write; 2. From whom he is to write, viz. From Christ: Described in reference to this Church, To be Him, who hath the sharp sword with two edges. And therefore able to fight against offenders with the sword of his mouth, ver. 12. II. The Substance of the Epistle, setting forth, 1. Christs Knowledge and Observation of this Angel's wayes: I know thy works. 2. Christs commendation of the Angel for his singular constancy in confession of Christs Faith: And thou holdest fast my name, and hast not denyed my Faith. This is Amplified by two pregnant circumstances, viz. (1) Of the Place where he dwelt: And where thou dwellest, even where Satans seat is, because Pergamus was more given to idolatry than all Asia besides, saith f Arethas. (2) Of the time wherein he lived: Even in those dayes wherein Antipas was my faithful Martyr, who was slain among you, where Satan dwelleth, ver. 13. 3. Christs Reprehension of him, and controversie with him, for false Doctrines, viz. (1) The Doctrine of Balaam, who (when he could not curse Israel, yet) taught Balaac to cast a stumbling block before the children of Israel; by enticing them, Partly, to eat things sacrificed to idols; Partly, to commit fornication, viz. with the †daughters of Moab, ver. 14. (2) The Doctrine of the Nicolaitans, hated of Christ, v. 15. 4. Christs exhortation of him to Repentance, urged by a threatning, Repent, or else I will come unto thee quickly,

IV. Grieving Thyatira.

4. The Epistle to the Angel of the Church in Thyatira, wherein consider, I. To whom, &c. 2. From whom, &c. (1) By his Person, (2) By his Eyes, (3) By his Feet. II. The Substance of the Epistle, containing 1. Christs Observation, both of the Angel, and of his Enemies. Christ observed and knew the Angel's (1) Charity, (2) Service, (3) Faith, (4) Patience, (5) And his works, and that the last to be more than the first. 2. Christs Reprehension of, and controversie for, what was vicious in this Angel, viz. the toleration of a false Prophetess, who, (1) By her pretended Name, Calling her self a Prophetess, &c. Her wickedness is set forth, (2) By the kind of it; Teaching and seducing Christs Servants, Partly, to commit Fornication. Partly, to eat things Sacrificed to Idols, ver. 20. (2) By her obstinate impenitency therein; And I gave her space to repent of her Fornication, and she repented not, ver. 21. (3) By the punishments threatned for it, which shall be different upon different Offenders, viz. Jezabel her self, I will cast into a bed; a bed of sorrow and anguish, ver. 2. Them that commit Fornication with her, into great Tribulation, except they repent of their deeds, v. 22. 3. Her Children he will kill with Death. All which punishments are Amplified by the Event thereof in all the Churches, viz. Their Experimental discovery hereupon of Gods All-searching Omniscience, and most accurate Distributive Justice: And all the Churches shall know, That I am he which searcheth the reines and hearts: And will give unto every one of you according to your works, ver. 23. 4. Christs Exhortation by way of Antidote; wherein consider, (1) The Persons Exhorted, which were, Partly the Ministers of that Church, But unto you, I say. Partly the People, and unto the rest in Thyatira, as many as have not this Doctrine, and which have not known the depths (as they speak) of Satan, as they speak. (2) The Duty Exhorted to, Not the burdensome observation of the Ceremonial Law, urged by Impostors; but constant perseverance in the Apostolical Faith and Doctrine; I will

(4) To repent. These exhortations Christ presseth with a severe threatning in case of neglect; If therefore thou shalt not watch, I will come on thee as a thief, and thou shalt not know what hour I will come upon thee, ver. 3, 4. 4. Christs commendation of him, in respect of some few in that Church, that had walked uprightly and purely; Thou hast a few names even in Sardis which have not defiled their Garments. This commendation he amplifies by Promises, Partly to these few; And they shall walk with me in white, for they are worthy, ver. 4. Partly to all Conquerours, to whom he promiseth gradually, (1) Resplendent glory; He that overcometh, the same shall be clothed in white Rayment. (2) Eternity of this glory and happiness; And I will not blot out his Name out of the Book of Life. (3) Open publication of their glory before God and his Angels; But I will confess his Name before my Father, and before his Angels, ver. 5. Christs reprehension of this Angels [illegible] 3. Christs exhortation [illegible] Partly to [illegible] Partly promised for future, viz. (1) Subduing his Hypocritical Enemies; Behold I will make them of the Synagogue of Satan, (which say they are Jews and are not, but do lye,) behold I will make them to come and worship before thy feet. (2.) Convincing his Enemies that Christ loves him; And to know that I have loved thee, v. 9. (3) Preserving and keeping him from the general hour of temptation, because he kept Christs word; Because thou hast kept the word of my Patience, I also will keep thee from the hour of temptation, which shall come upon all the World, to try them that dwell upon the earth, v. 10. — 3. Christs exhortation of the Angel, to perseverance and stedfastness in faith, &c. Hold that fast which thou hast. This is urged, (1) From the suddenness of Christs coming; Behold I come quickly. (2) From the peril otherwise of losing his reward; That no man take away thy Crown, ver. 11. (3) From promises made to him that overcomes, which promises gradually depend upon one another, viz. 1. Of his stability and firmness in the triumphant Church of God; Him that overcometh, will I make a Pillar in the Temple of my God. b An Allusion to the two Pillars which Solomon Erected in the Temple called Jachin, i. e. He will establish, and Boaz, i. e. In it is there is strength, 1 King. 7. 22. Prefiguring the present and future stability of the Elect in Gods Church: 2. Of his constant Permanency in the Church; And he shall go no more out: that is, he shall not go out of Gods Temple, as those typical Pillars were carried out, and broken by Nebuchadnezzar. 3. Of the evident and publick manifestation of him to be A Son of God, A Citizen of the New Jerusalem, and a Member of Christ, or c an Heavenly King by Christ Jesus: and this by the inscription of a three-fold name upon him: And I will write upon him the name of my God, and the name of the City of my God, New Jerusalem, which cometh down out of Heaven from my God, and I will write upon him my new name, ver. 12. c Throne.] A Throne is a Seat of Princely Power, Royalty and Glory. God the Fathers Throne denotes the absolute Supremacy of his incomparable Majesty, Power and Glory; infinitely exalted above all created Beings whatsoever, (even above Christ himself, as man) Isa. 66.1. with 1 Kings 8 27. Dan. 7. 9. 13. 22. This Throne also is common to all the three Persons of the God-head equally, viz. To the Son as God, Heb. 1.8,10, 11. and to the Holy Ghost, Rev. 1. 4. as well as to the Father. Christ is said to sit down with his father on his Throne, when as God-man our Mediator, having humbled himself to death, even to the death upon the Crosse for our Redemption, he was raised from the dead, and exalted to sit on the right hand of the Throne of the Majesty in the Heavens, Heb. 8. 1. and 12. 2. was [illegible] above Men, Angels, and all Creatures in the world, for the good of his Church. Compare these Testimonies well together, Phil. 2. 9, 10, 11. Dan. 7. 13, 14. Eph. 1. 20, 21, 22, 23. Thus Christ by death overcoming Satan, Death, and all our Spiritual Enemies, sate down on his Fathers Throne. And this is Christs Throne, viz. his advancement as Mediator next unto God, above every name that is named. Now the Saints that overcome shall sit in Chap. 4. 1 This General part of the Revelation seems to extend thus much, (as D. Forbes [illegible] great tribulation by Heresie grievously [illegible], than [illegible] this yoke, [illegible]; drawn [illegible] his in the [illegible] they shall [illegible] from the joyful choice of the Confession [illegible] avenge his [illegible] Church in this world, and in full [illegible] in heaven.

And these things are foreshewed in [illegible] six distinct visions. Partly Historical, representing [illegible] whole History of the Church from the Revelation till the last Judgement, as the Second, Third, Fourth and Seventh. Partly Prophetical, foretelling her conflicts with Antichrist, and the end thereof, as the Fifth and Sixth. And every of them are concluded with the description of the last Judgement, punishment of the enemies, and victory of the godly, literally or figuratively expressed. The reason of which iteration those Interpreters admire, but cannot explain, who seek a continued history in the visions. But our method being observed, it is clearly discerned. D. Forbes Præam. cap. 4.

These visions are (according to him) described as followeth, viz. II. Vision, from chap. 4. 1. to chap. 8. v. 1. III. Vision, from chap. 8. v. 1. to chap. 12. v. 1. IV. Vision, from chap. 12. v. 1. to chap. 15. ver. 1. V. Vision, from chap. 15. ver. 1. to chap. 17. ver. 1. VI. Vision, from chap. 17. v. 1. to chap. 20. v. 1. VII. Vision, from chap. 20. v. 1. to chap. 22. v. 6. Notwithstanding all these seven Visions, and the particular acts under them, are evidently comprized in, and may be digested into two distinct parallel contemporary Prophecies, as hereafter will more clearly appear.

Now these Things that must be hereafter, are revealed to John in Two distinct Prophecies, most notably contemporary or parallel in time to one another, and consequently explaining one another, viz. 1. The First Prophecy of a Book sealed with seven seals, from Chap. 4. 1. to Chap. 10. 8. 2. The Second Prophecy of a Little Book open, and the Contents thereof, from Chap. 10. v. 8. to chap. 22. v. 6. In the former, the future events and state of the Roman Empire, but with reference had to the Church: In the latter, the future affairs

The I. PARABLE.

Of a Book, Seales, Seven Seales, Beginneth

In the Fifth Prophesy of a Book Sealed with seven Seals, consider, 1. The Preparatories to the opening of the seven Seals. 2. The opening of the seven Seals themselves.

I. THE PREPARATORIES to the opening of the seven Seals prohibit, are diverse, but chiefly considerable to their two ends. 1. A vision of God on a glorious Throne, (who had this Book sealed with seven Seals in his right hand.) 2. A vision of the Lamb in the midst of the Throne, (alone prevailing to open this Book, and take the seven Seals thereof.)

In the Vision of God and Heavenly assistants in heaven, (who had this sealed Book in his hands,) consider, 1. The Translation preparing John. 2. The Description of Gods entertainment in his Church.

The Translation from the foregoing matter in this Vision, describing the Apostle Johns Preparation for beholding these ensuing mysteries. John is prepared. 1. By light. 2. By voice. 3. By the event or effect of both.

1. By light, And after this I looked, and behold a door was opened in heaven, where once. 2. The time of the light, after this, viz. after the vision about the seven golden Candlesticks immediately in order.

2. The difference of John's I looked. Not satisfied with what he had seen already, he desires carefully to see more. 3. The thing seen, A door open in heaven, or a light of entrance opened, to see heavenly things by heavenly minds.

Rev. 1.10

1. What manner of voice it was. viz. like that which John heard at 1. first. And the first voice which I heard, was as it were of a Trumpet talking with me. Both to enhance the beginning of a new vision, and to make John more certainly hear and understand. 2. What the voice uttered, viz. (1) Something mandatory, which said, come up hither, viz. to heaven, to see heavenly things. (2) Something promissory, And I will shew thee things which must be hereafter, Chap. IV. ver. 1.

III. By the event, or effect of both upon John, viz. A spiritual extasie or rapture, And immediately I was in the Spirit. This is (as it were) That Apocalyptical Theatre whereon John Acts his Revelation.

2. The starkly description of Gods tabernacle in heaven. This is the more exactly to be considered, because it serves to explain many Types, and mystical expressions alluding hereunto, in the following Series of the Revelations. And it is conform to Gods manner of encamping in his Tabernacle, in the midst of Israel in the wilderness, The Type whereof I have b formerly described: and may be singularly explained thereby, as after will particularly appear; the intent of this description being to set forth, 1 Gods special Presence in midst of his Church militant. 2. His Churches graceful state thereby, 3. His dispensations, Comfortable to her, Terrible to her enemies, 4. His Churches holy worship and praise returned to God.

b See the Type of Israel encamping about the TABERNACLE on Numbers Sect. V.

1. Gods special Presence in midst of his militant Church: And of old the Tabernacle was pitched in midst of Israels campe in the wilderness; And behold a Throne was set in Heaven, and one sate on the Throne. And he that sate was to look upon like a Jasper and a Sardine stone; And there was a Rainbow round about the Throne, in sight like unto an Emerauld. Here note, 1. One Throne in Heaven. 2. One sitter thereon. 3. This one sitter thereon, God, described by resemblance to three

As the Laver was placed in the Entry of the Tabernacle, i made of i Exod. 30. the women's Looking glasses, instead whereof in Solomons Temple succeeded the Brazen Sea; And before the Throne there was a Sea of Glass like unto Christall. [3] The faithful Ministers of the Gospel, which are other outward means whereby Gods Spirit works, in Resembled by four Beasts, (or Gr. four living creatures) in the midst of the Throne, and Evangelicall round about the Throne. These are described all 1. by their place whereon they were seated, viz. round about the Throne; And round about the Throne were four and twenty Seats; and upon the Seats I saw four and twenty Elders sitting. 2. By their apparrell, Sitting, Heresy is noted, Partly their Preheminence, Partly their Communion with God and Christ. Partly their Authority to judge the world, in Allusion with Christ. 3. By their dignity, they being all of them [1] Elders, [2] Priests, being clothed in white raiment, walked white in the Lambs blood [3] Kings, and they had on their heads Crowns of gold; (for Christ hath made them Kings and Priests to God Rev. 1. 6.) ver. 4.

Exod. 25 31, 37. and 40. 24, 25.

III. Gods dispensations from his Throne, are described 1. As terrible to his Churches enemies in his threefold expression of his judgements; And out of the Throne proceeded lightnings, and thunderings, and voices. 2. As comfortable to the Church her self in a like threefold Donation of favours and benefits, viz. [1] The Spirit of Sanctification; And there were seven Lamps of fire burning before the Throne, which are the seven Spirits of God. Unless there was the i Candlestick of Gold with its seven Lamps burning in i the Tabernacle before the Holy of Holyes, ver. 5.

1 Their place betwixt the Throne and the Elders, as ministring from God to them; And in the midst of the Throne, and round about the Throne. 2. Their number, were four beasts, (Gr. living creatures.) Because sufficient for the four corners of the world; or because chiefly of four Ranks, Apostles, Evangelists, Pro-

'Hitherto of Gods Spiritual Presence in Heaven, amongst 'his Church, both Ministery and People. Then fol- 'lowing creatures and Elders, which holds still to all 'the Churches following alterations, adhering keep 'of Gods spiritual Presence, Protection, and 'Grace.

2. In the Vision of the Lamb in the midst of the Throne, (by whom the Church doubts Gods Presence, Protection, and Grace fore-mentioned; and by whom she receives the particular Privilege of this Revelation; The singular excellency and dignity of the Revelation is described. 1. By the nature of the Book. 2. By the inability of all creatures to open it. 3. By the Lambs ability to open it. 4. By the triumphant Gratulation to the Lamb thereupon.

1. By the nature of the Revelation, the excellency dignity thereof appears. The nature of it is described thus; And I saw in the right hand of him that sate on the Throne, a Book written within and on the back-side, sealed with seven Seals. Here, 1. It is A Book; to note the certainty of the things therein contained. 2. It is a Book in the right hand of him that sate upon the Throne; denoting, Partly that God is the primary Author of it. Partly that all the Future events and affairs of the Church, revealed in this book, are firmly and surely ordered and directed by God himself. 3. It is A Book copiously written, not only within, but on the back-side of the Roll also; to signifie, besides the certainty of the matter, the singularity of Gods care and Providence over his People in all particular cases. 4. It is sealed with seven Seals; i. e. most perfectly sealed up, (seven being a number of Perfection,) which intimates the intricate mysteriousness and abstruse secretie of it. Chapter V. ver. 1.

2. By the inability or impotency of all creatures, to open this book, and loose the Seals thereof, upon publick Proclamation made for the opening of it; the dignity of the book is further manifested. Here

1. Their Station, in the midst of the Throne, Verse 6. Fourthly, by the Circumstances of their Appearance, they are manifested to be Christ. 1. By the Lamb, the Name of the Son. 2. The Praise ascribed by them to him, ver. 9. Thou art worthy to take the Book, and to open the Seals thereof, for thou wast slain, and hast redeemed us to God by thy blood, &c. Salvation to our God which sitteth upon the Throne, and unto the Lamb for ever and ever, v. 13. 3. The close of it is, and of the whole Gratulation, by the Church that first began it, and who is most concerned in this seven-sealed Book. This is done, [1] By the Beasts Obsignatory Amen, And the four Beasts said, Amen. [2] By the Elders Laudatory Adoration, And the four and twenty Elders fell down and worshipped him that liveth for ever and ever, ver. 14.

Hitherto of the PREPARATORIES to the opening of the seven Seals.

II. THE OPENING OF THE VII. SEALS THEMSELVES. Writers differ much from one another in Interpreting the Mysterious Contents of these Seals. Except the Lamb who opened these Seals, who can infallibly and exactly open the sence of all these Seals? It is good to search out what we can, the things Revealed: yet it will become us to be wise to sobriety, and not to be too Peremptory and Definitive. Scope of all these seven Seals and the seven Trumpets, in the seventh Seal (thinks n Mede) is, To foretel the future destiny of the Roman Empire (I add, still with reference to the Church of Christ,) by several eminent intervals, points of Periods of time; viz. Under the first six Seals the Intestine events of the Empire now standing and flourishing, arising in the Empire it self, Till at last in the sixth Seal Christ utterly destroy and demolish the power of Idols and Gentilish Idol-gods in the Romane world. Under the seventh Seal and seven Trumpets in it, the Forreign events of the Empire, now falling and running to utter ruine, and those brought upon them by barbarous Nations. And that the four Beasts (which he resembles to the four Ranks of the Tribes of Israel, camping Eastward, Southward, Westward, about the Tabernacle) are ordained to the four first Seals, as their Ministers, at every Seal agreeable to the station of each Beast, Ezekiel. &c. But in the matter of fact, these are very lame. You see fully satisfied, for the Reader to censure freely.

n Jos. Med. in Com. Apoc. part I. de sigillis.

In these four Seals, touching 4 matters in each alike, viz. I. That the Lamb opens them all. 2. That by opening of them all, mysterious Events are Revealed. 3. That all of them have Types of their coming events. II. Touching 4 matters alike in all the four, viz. 1. That to each of them is annexed one of the four Beasts, having John to come and see. 2. The Matters represented by the four Beasts, provoking the people, represented by John, to behold things Revealed. 3. That the Type of each of them, is an Horse and his Rider. An Horse, a speedy strong warlike creature, denoting celerity, power and prevalency of these Events. The Rider guiding the Horse, denoting The chief instruments of these events ruling, and (thinks Forbes) the Guidance of Providence, ordering, over-ruling and directing all these Events. III. Some things are proper and peculiar to every Seal, as after will particularly appear. These things premised once for all, Consider now the opening of the VII. Seals particularly in Order.

o Thus Brightman Forbes, Pareus, interpret.

1. Seal Opened. Touching which note; I. The Opener of the Seal, Christ; And I saw when the Lamb opened one of the Seals. II. The Herauld inciting John to Attendance; And I heard as it were the noise of Thunder, One of the four Beasts, saying, Come and see. Here is declared 1. Who the Herauld was, viz. The first Beast, like a Lyon. 2. How potent his voice was, like Thunder. 3. What he said, Come and see, Ch. VI. ver. 1. VIII. The Type represented under this Seal, viz. A white horse, (white being a colour signifying sometimes Purity, sometimes Royalty, sometimes Victory;) and his Rider, 1. Armed with a Bow, An instrument of war, striking swiftly both far and near. 2. Adorned with a Crown, An emblem of Victory and Triumph; And I saw, and behold a white Horse, and he that sate on him had a Bow, and a Crown was given unto him. IV. The event ensuing, And he went forth conquering and to conquer, viz. beginning but not finishing his Conquest, ver. 2.

Chap. 6.

According to p Mede, This is the first memorable lot befalling the Roman Empire. This first Beast, like a Lyon, whose Station was Eastward, denotes a Rider, i. e. An Emperour, coming from the East, viz. Christ from the time of his Ascension into Heaven, wounding the Roman-gods and their worshippers with the Arrows of the Gospel, that they began to submit to Christ as a Conquerour. According to q others, By the Lyon-like thundring Ministry of Christ, the Apostles and others in the Primitive times, when the Church was white and pure in Divine Worship and Discipline, The Gospel ran swiftly through the world conquering victoriously for present turning Gentiles from Idols: and laying foundations of Conquest for the future. These interpretations for substance come much to one.

II. Seal Opened. Touching which note; I. The Opener of the Seal, Christ; And when he had opened the second Seal. II. The Herauld inciting John to Attend, viz. the second Beast like a Calf; I heard the second Beast say, come and see, ver. 3. III. The Type represented to his view under this Seal, was a Red Horse, and his Rider armed with a Great sword An Emblem of bloody wars and slaughter. IV. The event ensuing, viz. Taking off Peace from the Earth, by intestine cruelties, Men killing one another; And there went out another Horse, that was red, and power was given to him that sate thereon, to take peace from the earth, and that they should kill one another; And there was given unto him a great sword, ver. 4.

III. Seal Opened. Touching which note, I. The Opener of the Seal Christ; And when he had opened the third Seal. II. The Herald inciting John to attendance; I heard the third Beast say, Come and see. This third Beast had a face as a man. III. The Type represented under this Seal was a black horse, and his Rider having a pair of Ballances; and I beheld, and lo, a black Horse, And he that sate on him had a pair of Ballances in his hand, v. 5, 6. The Event calling, viz. A voice explaining the mystery of this Type. Touching which voice are declared, 1. Whence the voice came, viz. From the Lamb who stood in the midst of the four Beasts, Rev. 5. 6. He discloseth and disposeth of all those Events; And I heard a voice in the midst of the four Beasts, &c. This is peculiar to this Seal. 2. What the voice said, which seems to be [1] Partly, by way of commination, threatning a Famine; A measure of Wheat for a penny, and three measures of Barley for a penny. 2. Partly, by way of Limitation; And see thou hurt not the Oyl and the Wine, ver. 6.

About the sence of this Interpretation much differ among themselves. 1 Medc understands it of the noble Procuration and severity of Justice throughout the Roman world; u Ballances being an Emblem of Justice, usually painted with Ballances, and the blackness of the Horse, denoting the severity of Justice, viz. That they should not take Wheat or Barley, but for a just price; and that they should not hurt, i. e. not steal Oyl and Wine. The third Beast like a man, whose station was Southward signifying the beginning of this Seal under Severus Emperour coming from the South. And singular, severe & exact justice, was to the Roman Empire, especially under Severus and Alexander, the most famous fitters on this black horse. x Others understand here extream Corporal Famine or Dearth of Corn, so great, that corn was not measured, but weighed, an 1 that men grew black with hunger, Lam. 4. 7, 8. The scarcity being not of superfluities, Oyl and Wine; but of necessaries, Wheat and Barley. But y others interpret this of Spiritual Famine, extream Dearth of the pure Word and Truth, when the black Horse of Heresie, especially the Arrian Heresie, so overspread, blacked and infected the Church, yet some few precious defenders of the Orthodox Truth (which from the effect is compared to Oyl and Wine) were not hurt therewith, as Athanasius, Hilarius &c. z Brightman thinks the world here was threatned with Famine of corporal food, for loathing spiritual food.

g Jac. Mel. in Com. Apoc. Part. 1. de Sigil 5.

This Seal (which I doubt) begins when the former Seal ended, viz. under Aurelius the Emperor, about Anno 168, when the Empire gave Persecution (the strength and violence of the former Seal,) was extinct. Under this Seal the Tenth Persecution, begun by Diocletian, continued by others, was more bitter, bloody, and of longer continuance in the Church than any of the former. In Egypt alone, (a little point of the Roman Empire,) 144000 men were slain, and ten hundred. Whereupon with Egyptians, the Diocletian Æra is called the Æra of Martyrs. Almost the whole World was fulfilled with the blood of Martyrs, saith Sulpitius Severus. h Others for substance thus interpret this Seal. I Pareus thinks (but less probably) that in this Seal is the Consolation of the Martyrs, against the Cross, signified by the Red Horse, whose souls being in safe Receptacle under the Heavenly Altar, Christ, should after a little while, (viz. The time of Anti-christs tyranny,) be completely Glorified at the day of Judgment, and all other fellow-Martyrs with them.

VI. Seal opened. This Seal seems plainly to set forth Christs dreadful Judgments upon his Churches Enemies, in the Roman Empire especially; whereupon they are discovered, and even at their wits end, as if the very day of Judgment it self were come upon them, for their bloody cruelties inflicted on the Saints even to death, as was lamented in the fifth Seal. Touching this Sixth Seal, consider, I. The Opener of it, ver. 1. The Lamb Christ: And I beheld when he had opened the sixth Seal. II. The matter of it, or mysteries revealed upon opening of the Seal. These are described three generally: And lo there was a great earthquake. An Enallage used in k Scripture, to note great changes. More particularly. 1. The Sun became black as sack-cloath of hair. 2. The Moon became as Blood, ver. 12. 3. The Stars of Heaven fell unto the Earth. This is illustrated by an Emphatical Similitude: Even as a Fig-Tree casteth her untimely Figs, when she is shaken of a mighty wind, ver. 13. 4. The Heaven departed as a Scrole when it is rolled together. 5. And every Mountain and Iland were moved out of their places, ver. 14. 6. Finally, the general horror and amazement ensuing hereupon. This horror is pathetically described; (1) By the extent of it, viz. to all sorts and degrees, great and small: And the Kings of the Earth, and the great Men, and the Rich Men, and every Bond-man, and every free-man, &c. (2.) By the intensive extremity of it, compelling them, Partly to frightful actions: Hid themselves in the Dens, and in the Rocks of the Mountains, ver. 15. Partly to frightful distracted cryes: And said to the Mountains and Rocks, fall on us, and hide us from the face of him that sits on the Throne, and from the wrath of the Lamb, ver. 16. (3.) By the cause of it, viz. The present day of the Lambs intolerable revenge: For the great day of his wrath is come, and who shall be able to stand, ver. 17.

l With expressions like to these following, not only the day of judgment is described, Mat. 24.29. &c. Mark 13. 24. Luke 21. 25, but also other great judgments in this life; as the destruction of Babylon, Isa. 13.9, 10, 13. of Egypt, Ezek. 32.7. to 11. and of the Churches Enemies, Joel 3. 14, 15, 16.

m Joseph Med. in Com Apoc Part. 1. de Sigil. 6.

This Seal, thinks m Mede, begins from the three hundred and eleventh year of Christ, where the cruel Ten years Persecution under the Fifth Seal ended. When by Constantine the great, and his Successors, there was such a mighty change and subversion of the Roman Heathenish affairs, (signified here, by the great Earthquake,) wherein all the Heathenish Gods were thrown from their Heaven, their Priests annulled, and for ever deprived of their Revenues, their Idol-Temples broken, pull'd down, burnt, &c. abolished, throughout the whole Roman world. And the Emperours, Kings, and Potentates, endeavouring to procure their endangered souls, (heretofore polluted, forbidden, nay so highly addicted to defend this Roman Heathenish Religion,) to fearfully crushed and fallen. This is the first Complement of Christ's Victory over the Roman Heathenish Empire, the Foundation whereof Christ laid in the Fifth Seal. For particular Accommodations of Events to the particulars of the Text, I refer the Reader to him. n Others apply this Seal to the Christian world, n To this which felt an horrible Earthquake about six hundred purpose, or like years after Christ: When the Sun, Jesus Christ perpetually was obscured: The Moon, the Church, turned into Pareus, Blood: The Stars, the Ministers, fell from Heaven- Bright. liness to Earthliness: The Heavens, the Scriptures, rolled up and neglected: Mountains and Hands, viz. Kings and People, endangered to be brought under the Roman Tyranny, &c.

"Hitherto of the Roman Empire inclining for and "evenes, arising especially from within it self
"while now standing and flourishing, fore-told
"in the first six Seals. Next of that Empire's
"forreign events, brought upon it chiefly by for-
"reign Nations from without it, while now fal"ling and running to ruine, fore-shewed in the "seventh Seal, especially by the first six Trum-
"pets, and all with reference to the Gospel
"and Church of Christ.

III. Vision.

VII. Seal. Touching this seventh Seal, consider, 1. Previous Consolations of the Church, premised before the opening of it. 2. The actual opening of it. 1. Previous Consolations of the Church premised before the opening of the seventh Seal, are comprehended in three particular Visions. 1. Of four Angels holding the four Winds. 2. Of an Angel sealing the servants of God. 3. Of a great multitude, clothed with white Robes, having Palms in their hands.

1. The Vision of four Angels holding the four Winds. Here consider, I. The time of this Vision; And after these things I saw, &c. i. e. or after the things or affairs transacted under the Sixth Seal, the seventh Seal with its Trumpets being now about to begin. II. The matter of the Vision; I saw four Angels standing on the four Corners of the Earth, holding the four winds of the earth, that the wind should not blow on the earth, nor on the sea, nor on any tree. These Angels, (viz. not Satan and his evil Angels hindring the winds of the Gospel, from blowing on the Church, as o some Interpret; but good Angels, having power and commission to inflict Judgments upon the Roman world,) are here described. 1. By their number; four: for the four corners of the World. 2. By their posture, standing: A posture of service and of readiness for it. 3. By the place where they stood; on the four corners of the earth. To shew the extent of the ensuing evils under the seventh Seal from all parts of the world. 4. By their Action; They held the four winds of the earth. Here I understand not by winds the Preachers of the Gospel, or the influences of spiritual grace (as p some) because that which follows in ver. 2, 3. favours not this interpretation, but seems repugnant thereto: but rather the fierce tempests of q Wars and other Calamities from all corners of the World, which these four Angels had commission to hold or loose from this or that part of the earth, according as the following Angels should intimate to them by sounding their Trumpets, for dissipation and destruction of the [illegible] the Sea, earth, and trees, is [illegible] only to the Metaphor of winds, which do hurt Earth by raise of houses, on Sea by Shipwracks, on Trees by breaking them and tearing them up by the roots; tempestuous winds being manifold Annoyances. Chap. VII. Vers. 1.

2. The vision of another Angel sealing the Servants of God within the Roman Empire, thereby to secure them from the horrible tempests coming upon the Empire, that they should not be ruined in the common calamities. Here this Angel is described, I. By the place whence he came; And I saw another Angel ascending from the East. Probably therefore it intends the Lord Jesus Christ, who opened the Scrib and who marked those Mourners in Ezek. 9. 1, 2, 3, 4. By whose paschal-blood (a Type of Christ,) Israel was preserved from Egypts plague, Exod. 12. 7. 12, 13. II. By his Attendi; Having the Seal of the living God. Compare that of Paul; The foundation of God standeth sure, having this Seal, the Lord knoweth who are his. The Elect and their Election are sealed in Christ, who here witnesseth his choice once by his peculiar Providence from those that were to be destroyed. III. By his Speech; where note 1. The vehemency of it, denoting his intensive care over his Elect; And he cryed with a loud voice. 2. To whom he directed it; To the four Angels, to whom it was given to hurt the earth and the sea: As having Authority and command over them, ver. 3. 3. What he spake to them, viz. He gave them charge to suspend their executions of judgments committed to them, till Gods Servants were likely and securely provided for, that they might palpably be distinguished from others, by the Angels executing God wrath; Saying, hurt not the earth, neither the Sea, nor the trees, till we (i. e. Christ, and his ministring Angels) have sealed the servants of our God in their foreheads, ver. 3. IV. By the number of those whom he sealed. Which number is laid down 1. Summatim, in the Sealed is twice mentioned. 1. Here in the I. Prophecy at the beginning of the Trumpets. As of those that were to be preserved under the Ruines of the Trumpets. 2. In the II. Prophecy, at the Beasts obtaining of power. As of those that were to be praised for their faithfulness to God and the Lamb, when others received the mark of the Beast. Whence it is clear that the Prophecy of the Beast, is contemporary with this of the Trumpets: viz. nor beyond the end of the sixth Trumpet, wherein the months of the Beast determine with the days of the mourning Witnesses. III. The Order of Primogeniture, or of free women's sons before bond, is not observed at all: but as to those carnal respects they are reckoned up confusedly, the younger being set before the Elder, and the handmaids sons being set before the sons of the wives. In the matter of Salvation carnal Prerogatives are nothing, bond and free are all one in Christ. Piscat. Mede. First, Leah's four sons, (whereof the last two left by Zilpah her maid,) are reckoned up, viz. 1. Judah. 2. Reuben. 3. Gad. 4. Aser. Then Rachels two sons, (whereof the first was by Bilhah her maid,) viz. 5. Naphtali. 6. Manasse. Afterwards, Leahs other four sons, viz. 7. Simeon. 8. Levi. 9. Issachar. 10. Zabulon. Last of all Rachels other two sons viz. 11. Joseph. Benjamin.

IV. In this Order these twelve are here conceived to be ranked, from their, or their tribes Memorable Acts more or lesse vertuous touching Gods true Worship, Religion and Honour, or their respect to Christ, recorded in Scripture. As, Judah is set first, because Christ the Lyon of the Tribe of Judah, King of the Church, descended of that Tribe, Heb. 7. 14.

Reuben second, who was famous for it's building the Altar of witness by Jordan, for retaining of Gods pure Worship, Josh. 22. 10, 27.

Gad third, who was famous, Partly for joyning with Reuben in the said Altar, Josh. 22. 10. Partly in that the two famous destroyers of Baalisme were of that Tribe, viz. Elijah the Prophet, 1 King. 17. 1. 1 Chron. 5. 11, 16. and Jehu the King.

Aser fourth and last, who was eminent for the Sareptan Widow, who nourished Elijah, 1 Kings 17. 9. Sarepta belonging to Aser. And for Anna the Prophetesse, (of Aser's Tribe, Luke 2. 36.) who blessed God for Christ, when presented in the Temple, Luk. 2. 38. yet set last, because their Renown was but in respect of women.

Rachels two sons, Nephtali and Manasse, are ranked next.

Nephtali (though by her Maid Bilhah,) first. Probably, 1. Because Barak, who subdued Sisera, was of Naphtali, Judg. 4. 6. 2. Because Huram, by whose workmanship the instruments and furniture of the Temple was prepared, was of Naphtali also, 1 Kings 7. 14. 2 Chron. 2. 14. 3. But especially because Christ dwelt in Capernaum, the Metropolis of Galilee, and a chief City in the Tribe of Naphtali, and there began and exercised his ministry working miracles not appearing in Judea, but at publick Feasts, Compare Isa. 9. 1. &c. Mat. 4. 14. with the Series of the Gospel-story.

Manasse next, as being famous for Gideon the destroyer of Baal, Judg. 6. 15. 24. 32. and for Elisha the Prophet.

After these come the four other sons of Leah, in order of their Primogeniture, as not being singularly renowned.

Last of all are Rachels other two sons, viz. Joseph and Benjamin.

Joseph's Tribe was double according to his two sons, viz. Manasseh's Ranked before. And Ephraim's, in whose stead Joseph's name is put, Ephraim's name deservedly being blotted out, and his Tribe ranked thus low: both because of the Idolatry of Micah an Ephraimite, whereby Israel was corrupted, Judg. 17. 1, 4, 5. and 18. 31. and also because of Israels grievous defection to Idolatry, by means of Jeroboam and Ahab both Ephraimites.

Benjamin youngest of all, comes after all: and not undeservedly. Partly because of Shimei a Benjamite's cursing of David, 2 Sam. 15. 5, 6, 7, 8, 11. Partly because of King Saul a Benjamite's cruel hatred and persecution of David, that special Type and famous Ancestor of Jesus Christ, 1 Sam. 9. 1, 2. and 18. 29.

Dan is wholly left out of this Catalogue, and Levi put in his Roome; Some think, because Antichrist was to come of Dan: but (as Parens observes) Bellarmine himself counts that a fiction. Rather it was, Partly because the Danites were Ringleaders in following Micah's Idolatry under the Judges, Judg. 18. Partly because the Danites were Harbingers of those notorious publick Idols of Jeroboam, erected in Dan and Bethel, 1 King. 12. 28, 29, 30. But of these things the Reader may see more in Commentators on this chapter, viz. Arethas apud Oecumen. Brightman, Mede, Parens, Forbes, Piscator, &c.

3. The Vision of 1. Great-multitude-white-robed, &c. praising God, and the Lamb. Their Triumphs are Contemporany to the seventh Trumpet; At which time they are here aforehand comforted with their happy state after all their Tribulations. Here consider, I. The exceeding numerousness of the Multitude seen; After this I beheld; And lo, a great multitude, which no man could number, of all Nations, and Kindreds, and People, and Tongues. II. Their Place and Posture; They stood before the Throne, and before the Lamb: whose presence is in midst of his Church, as was shewed, Chap. 4. for her Protection, Consolation, &c. III. Their habit; Cloathed with white Robes, and Palms in their hands. Emblemes of Purity, Joy Victory and Triumph, ver. 9. IV. Their Joyfull Triumphant Gratulation. (viz. for preserving and saving them from the calamities of the six Trumpets,) which gratulation is described, 1. By the zeal and fervency of it; And cryed with a loud voice. 2. By the Tenour or Matter of it which they uttered; Saying, Salvation to our God which sitteth upon the Throne, and unto the Lamb, ver. 10. 3. By the Harmonious Gratulation of all the Angels, on the Churches behalf, with Prostration, Adoration, and like thankful Acclamations before the Throne; And all the Angels stood round about the Throne, and about the Elders and the four beasts, and fell before the Throne on their faces, and worshipped God; Saying, Amen: Blessing, and Glory, and Wisdom, and Thanksgiving, and Honour, and Hitherto of the former Contents of the Church and Saints; Premised in the opening of the seventh Seal.

2. The Actual opening of the seventh Seal. Here consider, I. The Opener of this Seal, as of all the former, viz. The Lamb, And when he had opened the seventh Seal. II. The Events following the opening of it. These are of two sorts, viz. 1 Preparatory. 2. Executory.

1. Preparatory to the things farther intended under this seventh Seal; and they are chiefly four, viz. I. Silence in Heaven for half an hour; There was silence in heaven about the space of half an hour. Either portending great things to follow; or denoting and alluding to the Rite of the Temple, wherein (though x musical Instruments sounded whilst Sacrifices were offered: yet) there was deep Silence, whilst Incense was offering up, y the People secretly praying with themselves. This seems rather here implyed by Silence, because of the offering up of z Incense here following, which was done at the same time, Ch. VIII. ver. 1. II. The Vision of seven Angels with seven Trumpets; And I saw the seven Angels which stood before God, and to them were given seven Trumpets. By Angels here understand, not only the Angels themselves, to be leading Executors of the following Plagues, but also such men as they shall stir up as co-instruments to act with them. By their standing, conceive their constant readiness to all service which God shall impose upon them. By Trumpets, warlike instruments, as it were the sounding of the Alarm to Gods Judgements against the Roman Empire. And by seven, note the sevenfold remarkable Intervals, or Pauses of judgements inflicted, ver. 2. III. The Vision of Another Angel, viz. a Jesus Christ our heavenly High-Priest, and his Actions. This Angels Actions, here pointed out with allusion to the a So, Pareus Napier, Forbes, Piscator.

2. Executory. The Executory Events upon opening of this seventh Seal, were, The seven Angels actual sounding of their seven Trumpets, in Order. For better understanding whereof (as Mede hath well noted) useful that we consider how the Roman Empire, and other Empires of the world, are ordinarily resembled to the frame of the Universe: whereof Earth, Sea, Rivers, Heaven, Stars, are parts. Earth, noting as it were the lowest part, bottom or Basis of those Polities. Sea, encompassing the Earth, noting the compass, extent, or largeness of their Dominions, comprehending all the people of that Polity. See Jer. 51. 36. 44. Ezek. 32. 2. Isa. 19. 5. Rivers, which come from the Sea, noting both Provincial and other lesser powers, as also the channels of those Rivers, Provinces themselves within such Dominions. Finally, Sun, Moon, and Stars, which are seated in the supreme part of the world, Heaven; noting the Potentates feared in the Heaven, as it were, of supreme political Power. This Analogy observed, may facilitate the understanding of things, viz.

I. Trumpet sounded. Here consider. 1. The Sounding, The first Angel sounded. II. The Events thereupon, viz. 1. The Sign following, denoting the tempestuous judgment inflicted; And there followed Hail and fire mingled with blood, and they were cast upon the Earth. By Hail and Fire mingled, Scripture is wont to express [k] terrible hostile incursions and acts of Enemies: but here Blood is extraordinarily added, to intimate the bloody slaughter intended by this Trumpet. 2. The effect ensuing thereupon; And the third part of Trees was burnt up, and all green grass was burnt up. By trees, seem to be intended the great and rich ones in the Roman Empire, such Scripture usually resembling by [l] Trees: By green grass, here opposite to trees, the meaner vulgar sort: By the third part, seems intended the Confines and whole bounds of the Roman Empire, which in John's time was the third part of the World discovered. This seems proved by that of the [m] Seven-headed ten-horn'd Dragon (i. e. The Heathenish Roman Empire, under the Dragons Dominion) drawing the third part of the stars of Heaven with his tail, and casting them to the Earth (i. e. Subjecting the third part of the Princes and Potentates of the world to his Dominion) ver. 7.

This First Trumpet (according to [n] Mede) begins from the end of the sixth Seal, under which the Roman Idol-Archy was so extremely disturbed and shaken, inflicts the first blow upon the Empire now about to fall, smiting the Territory and People of the Roman world, (the whole Basis and Earth of that Polity) with an horrible Tempest, depopulating it with the bloody invasion of the Northern barbarous Nations, destroying many both of higher and lower rank. And this from the first year of Theodosius, Anno Dom. 395. when Alaricus King of Goths with his Army of Goths and other Barbarians broke in upon the East part of the Empire, miserably wasting it five years. [o] Hierome himself (who lived about these times) sadly bewails, and describes these calamities; Consult him. Afterwards the same Alaricus went into the West, spoyling it far and near. After him Radagaisus with an Army of 200000. Anno Dom. 404. But most terribly of all was the West destroyed and wasted, Anno Dom. 406. Which [p] Hierome also intimates and laments. This was the terrible storm of Hail, Fire, and Blood, under this first Trumpet. Pareus makes this first Trumpet parallel with the first Seal, [q] extends this Trumpet from Pentecost till the times of Domitian, when the Primitive Christians suffered so many things of the persecuting Jews. [r] Forbes interprets the fire in this Trumpet of the fire of contention in the Church, first kindled by Victor Bishop of Rome, which burnt up true Religion, and grew to bloody cruelties. This in the days of Constans, Constantius, and Valens. Piscator, Of the deadly Heresies of those that live on the Earth, the Continent.

II. Trumpet sounded. Here note, I. The sounding it self; And the second Angel sounded. II. The events thereupon, viz. 1. The sign following, denoting the Judgment inflicted; And as it were a great Mountain burning with fire, was cast into the Sea. By Mountain, Scripture is wont to signifie a City; so old Babylon is called a [s] Mountain. By Sea it expresses the amplitude of any Dominion, (as was before noted.) 2. The effects ensuing thereupon; And the third part of the Sea became blood: and the third part of the Creatures which were in the Sea, and had life, dyed: and the third part of the Ships were destroyed. Blood, denotes slaughter: yea, death, though without effusion of blood. Death is sometimes generally taken for [t] destruction, and that even of things wanting life, ver. 8, 9.

This Second Trumpet seems to begin where the first ended. 1. Mede thus interprets it; The great Mountain burning with fire, &c. The great City of Rome once and again taken, spoyled, and destroyed with hostile flames; Cast into the Sea, i. e. ruined, to the destruction of the amplitude of the Roman Dominion of Jurisdiction; The third part of the Sea became blood; i. e. The extent of the Roman Dominion, and the collection of People therein, (which was a third part of the World) was destroyed, the head City being wasted; the Barbarians at their pleasure wasted her Provinces, dividing them into new Kingdoms. The third part of Creatures, &c. (which is) The Armies in the Empire for its defence: were irreparably ruined. And the third part of Ships destroyed, i. e. All helps and means of Traffique, of supporting the power of the Empire, being wofully lost. Rome being first taken by Alaricus King of Goths, Anno Dom. 410. And after that the Roman Dominion was still miserably dilacerated, till Anno Dom. 455. Rome was taken again and spoyled by Genserius King of Vandals; and next year after, the Kingdom, as it were, divided into ten Kingdoms, foretold by Daniel and John, viz. Of 1. Britannia Saxonica. 2. Franks. 3. Burgundians. 4. Wisigothes. 5. Suevi and Alans. 6. Vandals. 7. Alemannes. 8. Ostrogoths. 9. Greeians. 10. Others, interpret, this Trumpet, of the Arrians that corrupted the Church and her Ministers, whereby many fell from the faith: [y] Pareus makes this Trumpet parallel with the second Seal, the Red Horse, and interprets it of the cruel Persecutions of the Church by the Roman Empire. [z] Piscator expounds this of the deadly Heresies of them that live in the Sea, in the Islands, &c.

III. Trumpet sounded. Here consider, 1. The sounding it self; And the third Angel sounded. II. The events thereupon, viz. 1. The sign following; implying the Judgment inflicted by this Trumpet, viz. The fall of a great Star; This Star is described by (1) The place whence, (2) The Manner how, (3) The place where it fell; And there fell a great Star from Heaven, burning as it were a Lamp, and it fell upon the third part of the Rivers, and upon the Fountains of Waters, ver. 10. (4) The name of it; And the name of the Star is called Wormwood. 2. The effects ensuing upon the fall of this star; And the third part of the Waters became Wormwood, and many men dyed of the Waters, because they were made bitter, ver. 11.

By this great star, a Mede understands the great and Ancient Cæsar of the West, (Scripture [b] comparing Kings to Stars, and their falls to the falls of Stars from Heaven,) from the second division of the Roman Empire into Eastern and Western, upon the death of Theodosius I. and from about the taking of Rome by Genserius King of Vandals. This Western Cæsar, as it were, dying under the mutual Treacheries and Butcheries of those petty Cæsars; Avitus, Majoranus, Severus, Anthemius, Olybrius, Glycerius, and Julius Nepos, till at last after 91. years, he expired and breathed out his last under the fatal name of Augustulus, and so fell quite from his Heaven of Roman Power, Odoacre Herulus quite extinguishing the Western Empire, Anno Dom. c 475. or 476. This Star is called Wormwood, and justly; both in respect of his own, and others bitter afflicted condition within his Dominions, from first to last, by reason of barbarous Enemies wasting, and at last abolishing of this Western Empire. [d] Some expound this third Trumpet (as parallel to the third Seal, the black Horse,) of the Arch-Heretiques and Apostates in the Church, especially of the Bishop of Rome after Silvester, so corrupting and embittering the Scriptures and the Doctrines therein with Heretical Errours, that many dyed and perished thereby, and commonly it is interpreted of [e] Heresies of one sort or another.

This sign is described by his 1 Nature, 2 Fall, 3 Power given him; And I saw a Star fall from Heaven unto the Earth, and to him was given the Key of the bottomless pit, Chap. IX. ver. 1. This Star is interpreted of l Mahumed the false Prophet acted and assisted by Satan. II. The Effects ensuing which are many and pernicious. As, 1. He opened the bottomless pit, viz. Hel. 2. He raises thence smoak; And there arose smoak out of the pit. viz. Mahumedisme. This smoak is described, Partly by the greatness of it; *As the smoak of a great Furnace. The world was obscured with a new darkness of Mahumedisme, after Christ the Son of Righteousness by his Gospel had dispelled the former darkness of Paganisme, ver. 2. 3. He brings locusts upon the earth out of the smoak, i. e. By this false Religion of Mahumedism he stirs up the Saracens or Arabians, (a Nation populous and numerous like Locusts, as Scripture is wont to express enemies numerousnesse by m Locusts,) to waste and destroy the world; And there came out of the smoak Locusts upon the earth.

3. Their faces; And their faces were as the faces of men, i. e. They were not Infell Locusts, but they were really men, though in some regards resembled to Locusts, ver. 7. 4. Their hair; And they had hair as the hair of women. That is, They wore long hair, unshorn, like women: This intimates they were Arabians, for that's their habit as o Pliny notes; and when they go to war they are wont to knit themselves horns and crisped-curled-bushes of their own hair, saith p Camerarius. 5. Their teeth; And their teeth were as the teeth of Lions. That is, they were strong and cruel to tear, destroy and devour, ver. 8. 6. Their breast-plates; And they had breast-plates, as it were breast-plates of iron, viz. They were strongly armed and defended. 7. Their wings; And the sound of their wings was as the sound of Chariots of many horses running to battel. This notes their great multitude, war-like speed and terribleness, ver. 9. 8. Finally, Their tailes; And they had tailes like unto Scorpions, and there were stings in their tailes, and their power was to hurt men five months, v. 10. The which is the Angel of the bottomless pit, is Satan: Satan is King especially of all the Pagans, they were under his q power: Hence here seems intimated a Pagan Kingdom, viz. that of Mahumed, whereby Satan Rules. His name both in Hebrew and Greek signifies, A Destroyer. A Waster; and well suits to Satan as King of these Locusts, who so wasted and destroyed the World. Note that this Abaddon is an allusion to OBOD the common name of the Arabian Kings of that Tract whence Mahumed with his Locusts first sprang. See Grave.

Other r Writers interpret this Trumpet, of the mischief which Heresies and Heretical men, especially Papists, Anti-Christ and his Emissaries brought into the Church. s Brightman understands both the Saracens and Romans.

II. Woe-Trumpet.

VI. Trumpet sounded, being the II. WOE-TRUMPET. Herein consider 1. The sounding it self, And the sixth Angel sounded. 2. The Events thereupon, which are chiefly three, viz.

1. A Command from Christ, to the sixth Angel to loose the four Angels bound in Euphrates; And I heard a voice from the four Horns of the Golden Altar, which is before God, (An Ancient Type of Christ) Saying to the sixth Angel which had the Trumpet, loose the four Angels which are bound in the great River Euphrates, ver. 13, 14. These four Angels t Mede interprets of the four Turkish Tetrarchs, or four Kingdoms of the Turks into which they dispersed themselves, from Anno 1080. when crossing Euphrates, they poured themselves into the Neighbouring Tracts of Asia and Syria. These four Turkish Kingdoms on this and the other side of Euphrates being at Bagdad, Cesarea in Asia minor. Aleppo and Damascus; which four with their numerous Army of Horse-men, this Trumpet calls into the Roman World, (which calamity, alas, is thought yet to come) from Euphrates, where by Providence they had been long detained. Pareus interprets them of four sorts of People, viz. Arabians, Saracens, Tartars, Turks. u Forbes saith, These four Angels are the four Heads of the Mahometan and Turkish Armies. x Diodate, that they are the four Angels mentioned, Rev. 7. 1. y Piscator, that they are all the ill Spirits dispersed in all the four corners of the World.

t Jos. Med. in Com. Apoc. Part. 1. de Tub. 6. It is not to be doubted but these Angels be the Turks; and to this Opinion do most Interpreters consent; they are said to be four, because there were four principal Families of the Turks. Brightman on Rev. 9. 14. u Forbes on Rev. 14. x Jo. Diod. Annot. on Rev. 9. 14. y Piscat. Schol. in Rev. 9. 14.

2. The Execution of this Command; wherein note, I. Their loosing; And the four Angels were loosed. II. Their preparedness for Execution of Christs [illegible] month; Which were prepared for an hour, and a day, and a month, and a year. This was understood either [illegible] [illegible] upon all occasions. [illegible] A prophetical hour, day, month and year; that is, 391 years, beginning from the Turks taking of Bagdat, [illegible] from which time they were ready. For from that time till Anno Dom. 1453. are precisely 396 years, when the Turks (Anno 7 Mahom.) did actually raise the remains of the Roman Empire in the East, having taken Constantinople the Royal City. III. The end of their prepared-ness For to slay the third part of men, ver. 15. that is, the men of the Roman Empire, which was the third part of the World; yet not all these, as is clear, ver. 20. therefore this Third part is to be taken partitively, for part of this third part; as a Scripture's manner of speaking is. IV. The number of their Army is shewed, 1. What it was. 2. How John came to know it; And the number of the Army of the Horsemen were two hundred thousand thousand: And I heard the number of them, ver. 16. V. The Armour or Ammunition of this Army, viz. of those Horses and their Riders is described, viz. 1. Their Breast-plates. 2. Their Heads. 3. That which came out of their mouths; And thus I saw the Horses in the Vision, and them that sate on them, having breast-plates of fire, Hyacinth, and Brimstone; and the heads of the Horses were as the heads of Lyons, and out of their mouths issued fire and smoak, and brimstone, ver. 17. Their breast-plates before them, seem to be that which was seen to come out of their mouths, which covered their breasts, as it were breast-plates. That which came out of their mouths, was fire, Hyacinth-like smoak and brimstone. This kind of Description, (not found elsewhere in Scripture) seems to be literally understood; viz. of Gunpowder made up with brimstone, which comes out of the mouths of Guns with fire and smoak: and makes the horses heads amidst it, seem truculent and terrible. This kind of Armour, viz. Guns they used, at the siege and taking of Constantinople: as b Mede hath it out of Mechmetes. This b Jos. Med. interpretation seems very apposite, in Com. Ap. Part. 1. de Tub. 6. Before him also Brightman interprets this of Guns, Pieces of Ordnance, and Gun-powder, more used by the Turks than by any other men. The greatness of that Gun was almost incredible, which Mahomed used in besieging Constantinople, for the drawing whereof, 70 yokes of Oxen, and 2000 men were used, As Laonicus Chalcocondilas in his eight Book of Turk. Hist. reports. And those 1200 Janizaries, which are the ordinary Guard of his body, are all Gunners. Brightman on Rev. 9. 17. Pareus quoting this out of Brightman, expounds it much to like purpose. D. Pareus in Apoc. 9. 17.

c Jos. Med. quo supr.

3. The calamitous effect, wrought by the loosing of these four Angels, and their Euphratean Horsemen and Horses, viz. The killing of the third part of men: that is, many of the Roman Empire, (which was the third part of the world,) as was hinted afore; By these there was the third part of men killed, by the fire, and by the smoke, and by the brimstone which issued out of their mouthes. That is, by the Gun-powder and Bullets which issued out of the mouths of Guns, used by this Euphratean Army, ver. 18. This sad effect is Confirmed, and Amplified. I. Confirmed, by declaring whence it came to pass, viz. 1. By their hostility; For their power is in their mouth. That is, by these Guns. 2. By their Serpentine subtilty; And in their tailes, for their tailes were like unto Serpents, and had heads, and with them they do hurt. That is, they had drunk in the Saracen, Mahumetan religion, whereby they proved very hurtful and pernicious, as the Saracens before them, ver. 19. II. Amplified, by the incorrigibleness and impenitency of the remnant in the Roman Empire, that had escaped the deadly fury of this Euphratean Army of Turks; though these judgements were inflicted before their eyes eyes on their brethren, yet they repented not of their sins and abominations, viz. Not of their 1. Devil-worship and Idolatry. 2. Murders of the Saints, whose souls cry under the Altar. 3. Sorceries. 4. Fornication. 5. Thefts, proceeding upon the Roman world the Judgement of this Trumpet; And the rest of the men that were not killed by these plagues, yet repented not of the works of their hands, that they should not worship devils, and idols of gold, and silver, and brass, and stone, and of wood; which neither can see, nor hear, nor walk; neither repented they of their murders, nor of their sorceries, nor of their fornication, nor of their thefts, vers. 20, 21.

III. Woe-Trumpet.

VII. Trumpet; being The III. WOE-TRUMPET, and the last of all the Trumpets, reaching to the end of the world. Concerning this Trumpet, note, 1. The Preparatories to it. 2. The actual sounding of it.

1. PREPARITORIES premised to this Seventh and Last Trumpet, are very largely laid down. This being the closing trumpet, at the sounding whereof the Roman Beast being abolished and the times of his last head being determined, c The mystery of God shall be finished as he hath declared to his servants the Prophets. For the Lord did of old reveal to Daniel, that there should arise d four great Kingdoms, or four Monarchies in the earth, (resembled Partly by the Image whereof Nebuchadnezzar dreamed, Partly by Four Beasts.) All which the Kingdom of Christ should at length utterly overthrow. And that when Christ shall have subdued and utterly overthrown all these Kingdoms, e after a time, times, and dividing of time, e He with his Saints shall reign over the whole world for ever: And then f time shall be no longer, i.e. The time of these four Monarchies; or of this fourth and last the Roman Empire; but g The Kingdoms of this world shall become the Lords and his Christs. This is the main scope and intent of the Seventh Trumpet; therefore it is a glorious Trumpet, and no wonder it is ushered in with Preparatory visions. These Preparatory visions are principally, 1. The vision of a mighty Angel come down from Heaven. 2. The information and vision of the little Book, and the contents thereof.

1. The vision of a mighty Angel come down from Heaven, summarily foretelling the Events of the Seventh Trumpet. That this Angel was Christ, (as most Interpreters do consent) appears 1. By the following description of him, which cannot fitly be applyed to any other. 2. By his subsequent actions, which cannot safely be attributed to any other. 3. By the parallel passage in Daniel touching h A man clothed in Linnen, which was upon the waters of the River, when he held up his right hand and his left hand unto heaven, and sware by him that liveth for ever, that it shall be for a time, times, and an half. Now this man was i Michael, i. e. Christ. Consequently this k vision, here plainly taken out of Daniel, is to be interpreted of Christ also. Now here consider, 1 The Angels description. 2. The Angels Action. 1. The Angels Description, which is very stately and glorious, suitable to the then state of his Church, and the things which he was to reveal further. He is described 1. By his mighty power; And I saw another mighty Angel. Christ is l the mighty God. 2. By the place whence he came; Come down from Heaven, viz. condescending to his Church and People here below, for their relief and consolation: Or descending from this Church, (in this book called heaven,) to put all the kingdoms of this world, Earth and Sea under his feet. 3. By his clothing; Clothed with a cloud. A Cloud, an Emblem of divine Majesty; God being wont to appear in m a cloud to his people. And when Christ shall come to judgement, he shall n come with clouds. 4. By his Crown, as it were; And a are therein, v. 5, 6. (2) By the matter of his Oath; viz. That there should be time no longer. But in the days of the voice of the seventh Angel, when he shall begin to sound, THE MYSTERY OF GOD SHOULD BE FINISHED, as he hath declared to his servants the Prophets. That is, the Roman Empire shall continue for no longer time, but all the Kingdoms of this World shall become our Lords and his Christs; and he shall judge and destroy all his Enemies for ever, rewarding his Saints, and causing them to reign with him for ever. This is the summary intimation afore-hand, what shall be the events of the seventh Trumpet, ver. 6, 7.

a Rom. 11, 17, 28, 29.

2. The Information and Vision which John had of THE LITTLE BOOK OPEN. Here the Second Systeme of Prophecies, touching the future state of the Church, evidently beginneth, (as I have already cleared at large,) wherein consider, I. The Preparation or Inauguration of John to this new Prophecy, ver. 8, 9, 10, 11. II. The Prophecy it self; which for time is parallel or concemporaneous with the former Prophecy of the Book sealed with seven Seals; Herein is a Representation of the two-fold state of the Church, viz. 1. Regular, and pure at first, under the type of the Temple, Altar and Worshippers measured, Chap. 11. 1. This is contemporaneous to the six first Seals. 2. Irregular, and impure by Idolatries and Gentilish Superstitions, under the types of the Court without the Temple unmeasured, trodden under foot by the Gentiles forty two moneths; and of the Two Witnesses Prophecying in sackcloth, bewayling and mourning for this lamentable state of the Church, for the same time of forty two moneths, (for 1260. days make up 42. moneths,) ver. 2, to 14. Now these are contemporany to the six first Trumpets under the seventh Seal. At the end of these therefore, (that is, both at the end of the Sixth Trumpet, and of these Visions of The Little Book, brought thus far on that they may be contemporany to the Sixth Trumpet,) The second WOE determines, and the third WOE hastens; The second Woe is past, and behold the third Woe cometh quickly, v. 14.

¶ —— But touching this Little-Book, and these fore-mentioned mysteries in it, here I only point at them thus briefly and generally, to shew the Series and Orders of the Text, how it leads on to the sounding of the Seventh Trumpet: In the beginning of the II. Prophecy I shall speak to them more fully and particularly. The judicious Reader may be pleased to consider, that the holy Spirit of Christ seems purposely here to have suspended the Relation of the actual sounding of the Seventh Trumpet, by the interposition of so much of the II. Prophecy, contained in The Little Book, as is parallel with, and contemporany to the I. Prophecy from the very beginning of it to the end of the Sixth Trumpet; that so by linking, and, as it were, looping of these two Prophecies thus together, he might, as with a finger, point out unto us the right way of the Interpretation of both these Prophecies, viz. by paralleling and comparing them one with another, in respect of their Visions and Mysteries, which are so notably Contemporaneous.

2. The actual SOUNDING of the Seventh Trumpet, which brings the third, last, and heaviest woe upon all the wicked in the whole world, Enemies to Christ and his Church, by the a last Judgment. This contrariwise shall be the glorious Trumpet for the Church and Saints of God, bringing in the Consummation of all their miseries, and the Inchoation of all their compleat eternal felicities. Herein note these events, viz.

a This Trumpet is expounded by Parens, and most Interpreters Ancient and Modern, of the last general judgment.

Which thing rends cooably, to confirm the distribution of this Book into two Prophecies. The last Judgment concluding them both.

1. The great triumphs in Heaven, that now (the mystery of God being finished,) the Kingdoms of the world are become the Lords and his Christs; And the seventh Angel sounded; And there were great voices in Heaven, saying, THE KINGDOMES OF THIS WORLD ARE BECOME OUR LORDS AND HIS CHRISTS, AND HE SHALL REIGN FOR EVER AND EVER, ver. 15.

2. The Gratulation of the twenty four Elders, (formerly b represented as sitting before Gods Throne,) that the time of Gods reign and judgment was come. Touching this Gratulation, consider, 1. What company presented it to God; And the four and twenty Elders which sate before God on their Seats. II. In what form and manner they presented it to God, viz. 1. With Prostration before God. 2. With adoration of God; Fell upon their Faces and Worshipped God, ver. 16. III. What was the matter or substance of this Gratulation, viz. 1. Their thanksgiving to the Omnipotent, Eternal God; Saying, we give thee thanks, O Lord God Almighty, which art, and wast, and art to come. 2. The grounds of this their Thanksgiving, [1] Because now God had taken to himself his great Power and Dominion over the whole World; Because thou hast taken to thee thy great Power, and hast reigned, ver. 17. [2] Because now the time of Gods wrath was come, for suppressing and taking vengeance of the Anger of the Nations, or Gentiles, c who had so long trodden under foot the Outer Court of the Temple, the Holy City, even for forty two moneths together; And the Nations were angry, and (or, But) thy wrath is come. [3] Because the time of the general judgment of the dead, 1. Good, 2. Bad, was come; And the time of the dead, that they should be judged: Both that thou shouldest give reward unto thy Servants the Prophets, and to the Saints, and them that fear thy Name, small and great: and shouldest destroy them which destroy the Earth, ver. 18.

3. The actual execution of judgment on both the righteous and wicked; 1. On the righteous Prophets, Saints, and Fearers of Gods Name, by vouchsafing them the heavenly beatifical Vision of Jesus Christ, typified of old by the Ark of the Testament, placed in the Holy of Holyes; And the Temple of God was opened in Heaven; And there was seen in his Temple the Ark of his Testament. 2. On the wicked Enemies of Christ and his Church, by inflicting on them an horrible tempest of manifold vengeance; And there were Lightnings, and Voices, and Thunderings, and an Earthquake, and great Hail, ver. 19.

Thus The I. Prophecy, or I. System of Prophetical Visions in the Book Sealed with seven Seals, endeth.

THE II. PROPHECY.

Of The Little-book Open, beginneth.

The I. Prophecy, or I. Systeme of Prophetical visions contained in the Book sealed with seven Seals, chiefly foretelling the future events and destiny of the Roman Empire, (But still with reference to the Church oppressed and persecuted thereby) being thus explained and here finished: The II. Prophecy, or The II. Systeme of Prophetical visions, comprized in A LITTLE BOOK OPEN, foretelling especially the future events and condition of the Church of Christ, See before on this B. the Revelation Sect. IV. Rule III. in 2. Partic. Direction in that Rule.

Christ, and the Christian Religion, from the Primitive Apostolical times, till the Judgment day, an end of the world, comes next to be considered. The events or mysteries forerold in this Second Prophecy, are not only divers of them contemporary to one another, but also all of them are contemporary (i.e. falling out, or coming to passe in the same intervals or spaces of time) with the events of the I. Prophecy; and so they serve mutually to clear the understanding of each other, being judiciously and duely compared together.

Now in this II. PROPHECY are considerable, 1. The Preface to it. 2. The Body or Substance of it.

I. THE PREFACE to this Second Prophecy containes John's Prophetical Inauguration, or his Preparation to Prophesy again, viz. this second time. The substance of the Preface is taken from that of [d] Ezekiel's eating up the Roll, which was in his mouth as honey for sweetnesse. Herein consider, 1. A command to John by the voice which he heard from Heaven, (viz. e that first voice as of a Trumpet talking with him.) to Go and take The little Book open in the hand of Christ; And the voice which I heard from heaven spake unto me again, and said, Go, and take THE LITTLE BOOK which is OPEN in the hand of the Angel which standeth upon the Sea, and upon the Earth. ver. 8. II. John's obedient execution of this command; And I went unto the Angel, and said unto him; Give me the little Book. This Act of John is Amplified by divers events thereupon ensuing, viz. 1. By Christs enjoyning John to eat up the Book, with intimation of two contrary effects thereof; And he said unto me, take it, and eat it up; and it shall make thy belly bitter, but it shall be in thy mouth sweet as honey. This Eating up of the Book, implying his furnicure and qualification for the ensuing Prophecy: for men are said to Eat Books when they greedily read them, and upon reading so understand them as to be able to utter the contents thereof to others. The Book eaten, should be sweet as honey in his mouth; that is, The taste by knowledge of the mysteries and future events therein Revealed, should be sweet and pleasant to him at the first apprehension: But they should make his belly bitter; That is being entertained into more inward and serious consideration, they should be bitter to his heart and spirit, in respect of the calamitous and afflicted condition of the Church therein described, ver. 9. 2. By John eating up the Book as Christ required, and perceiving the effects thereof which Christ fore-signified; And I took the little Book out of the Angels hand and eat it up: And it was in my mouth sweet as honey. And as soon as I had eaten it, my belly was bitter, vet. 10. 3. By Christs interpretation of the mystery intended by John's taking and eating up of the Little Book, viz. the preparing John for a New and more Noble Prophecy than the former, touching the future lot of the Church and Religion; And he said unto me, Thou must PROPHECY AGAIN before many Peoples, and Nations, and Tongues, and Kings, v. 11.

II. THE BODY, or SUBSTANCE of this II. Prophecy, touching the future affairs of the Church and Religion from the Apostles days, till the end of the world. Herein principally are foretold, 1. The various state of the Church in several intervals or periods of times in respect of Religion. 2. The manifold Tribulations and Persecutions wherewith she shall be exercised by reason of several enemies in those several conditions. 3. The Deliverance of the Church at last out of all her Distresses, by Gods righteous judgements in her enemies Destruction. 4. The happy state and condition which the Church shall enjoy upon that her Deliverance.

1. The various state of the Church in respect of Religion in several intervals of times, is foretold and described two ways. 1. By its Regular Purity at first. 2. By its Irregular Impurity afterwards. Both which comprehend the whole Course of the Church till the Seventh Trumpet.

1. The Regular Purity of the Church and Religion at first, [as drawn out in a Section under the Particular Vision of the Outer Court of the Temple] by Measuring the Inner Court of the Temple, where God and his Worship is; interpreting the Measuring Reed of the Angel, to signifie the Church and Religion therein founded by the Apostles of Christ, as exactly examined by, and conformable to the unerring Reed of the written Word; and therefore singularly pure and holy; And there was given me a Reed like unto a Rod: And the Angel stood, saying, Rise, and measure the Temple of God, and the Altar, and them that worship therein. Ch. 11. 1. viz. This pure condition of the Primitive Church, ordered according to Scripture Rule and Standard, continued for about 300 years or upwards after Christ, viz. even till the beginning of the 42 moneths, during which, the Holy City should be profaned by the Gentiles, and those Prefigurations so long also be limitated by the two Witnesses which 42 months (as after will appear) reach to the sounding of the Seventh Trumpet.

2. The Irregular Impurity of the Church and Religion afterwards, by reason of Gentilish Papal Superstitions and Idolatries, is set forth under the Particular Vision of the Outer Court of the Temple; farther distant and remote from the Holy of Holies, unmeasured, trodden under foot 42 moneths; Signifying that the Church succeeding the Primitive Church in the following Ages, would not be in Religion so Regular and conform to the Canon and Measuring Reed of Gods Word as the Primitive Church, but would grow irregular and exorbitant in Gentilish Idolatrous worship, profaning it, as if Heathenism were again revived. Here more particularly consider; 1. A Prophetical direction to leave or cast out the Outer Court or Holy City, and not to measure it; But the Court which is without the Temple, leave out, and measure it not. The Outer Court, and Holy City, seem to be all one; the latter Exegetical to the former: for in the Tabernacle in the Wilderness, there was no Outer Court but the Israelitish Camp, the Holy City. II. The Reason of this Direction; For it is given unto the Gentiles, and the Holy City shall they tread under foot, forty and two moneths, ver. 2. Wherein note, 1. To whom it shall be given, or left through Gods just dispensation; To Gentiles, viz. To them that exercise Gentilish Idolatrous Worship. 2. What shall be the event hereof, viz. Their treading under foot the Holy City. As Gentiles trod [g] Jerusalem under foot, hostilely possessing and overthrowing the City; to which this text here seems to allude: so the Church typified by Jerusalem, should be possessed and profaned by Romish Gentiles and their idolatries. 3. For how long time this Calamity shall continue, forty two moneths. These forty two moneths are parallel to the time of the [h] Witnesses Prophecy, 1260 days, being 42 moneths, which time [i] determines with the sixth Trumpet, and immediately before the sounding of the seventh Trumpet. III. The Concomitant Event attending upon this defiled and deplored state of the Church, viz. The Lords two Witnesses (the Preachers and Asserters of Divine Truth) Prophecying all the while in Sackcloth, continually bewailing the polluted and lamentable state of the Church; till God should raise up Monitors to the Christian world (saith [k] Mede) going a whoring with the Gentiles, and Guides to his Saints that keep the Faith. These Witnesses are described, 1 By their Number. 2 By the time of their Prophecy. 3 By their Habit. 4 By their Resemblance. 5 By the Events of their Prophecy.

[1] By their Number; And I will give unto my two Witnesses, i.e. I will give Authority, or Commission. They are two, 1. Partly, because by the [l] mouth of two or three witnesses every thing, according to the the Law was to be eſtabliſhed. 2. Partly, becauſe the Truths whereunto they ſhould bear Witneſs were contained in the two Tables, and in the two Teſtaments. 3. Partly, becauſe the Types, whereunto here theſe Witneſſes are evidently compared, were of Two, viz. in Zerubbabel and Joſhua under the Babyloniſh Captivity; Eliah and Eliſha, under the Baalitiſh Apoſtacy; Moſes and Aaron in the Wilderneſs. And the ſtate of the Church under which theſe two Witneſſes Prophecied, agrees to that of Iſrael in the Wilderneſs, under Balaam, and in Babylon.

(2) By the time, or Term of their Prophecy; And they ſhall Prophecy 1260. dayes. This time determines a with the ſixth Trumpet, being the ſecond Woe-Trumpet, immediately before the ſounding of the laſt Trumpet, when the myſtery of God ſhall be finiſhed, which is yet to come; and conſequently the Witneſſes ſeem not yet to be ſlain, nor to have finiſhed their Teſtimony. Their time of Prophecy is computed by Days, as the Gentiles Idolatrous treading down of the Holy City, by Months; becauſe b Error, Idolatry, and all ſin, are works of darkneſs and of the Night, and the Moon Rules over the Night. But true Religion is compared to the day and light, And the Sun Rules by day. Upon this account alſo, The blaſphemy of the Beaſt is hereafter computed by c Months: but the Womans abode in the Wilderneſs by d Days.

(3) By their Habit wherein they Prophecied; Cloathed in Sack-cloath, viz. intimating their lamenting the treading down of the Holy City, and their inviting the Church to Repentance and Reformation, ver. 3.

(4) By their Reſemblance to three pairs of Witneſſes under the Old Teſtament, viz. I. To Zerubbabel and Joſhua, reſtorers of the Jewiſh Church under the Babyloniſh Captivity, repreſented by two Olive-trees ſtanding on the two ſides of the Candleſtick continually ſupplying it with Oyl; Theſe are the two Olive-trees, and the r two Candleſticks ſtanding before the God of the Earth. The Candleſtick ſignifying the Church of thoſe times, reſtored and maintained with ſpiritual ſupplies, not by ſtrength or Armies, but by Gods ſpecial bleſſing and influence: the Olive-trees extraordinarily dropping Oyl for light into the Candleſtick, ver. 4. II. To Eliah and Eliſha, Reſtorers of Gods pure Worſhip, from Baalitical Idolatry. In this Alluſion is ſignified a double Power which is granted to them, viz. 1. A Power to avenge themſelves againſt their Enemies, by the myſtical f fire of the Word they Preach, denouncing Gods wrath againſt their wickedneſs: as Eliah t called for fire from Heaven and devoured his Enemies, the Captains of their Fifties, And if any man will hurt them, fire proceedeth out of their mouth, and devoureth their enemies: and if any man will hurt them, he muſt in this manner be killed, ver. 5. 2. A Power to avenge the Church of Chriſt againſt the defilers and Gentiliſh Prophaners thereof; Theſe have power to ſhut Heaven, that it rain not in the days of their Prophecy. That is, as Eliah u ſhut Heaven, that it rained not on Iſrael almoſt conſumed with drought and Famine, in the days of his Prophecy, till he had deſtroyed the falſe Worſhip and Worſhippers of Baal: So theſe Witneſſes by the Keyes of the Kingdome of Heaven have power to ſhut Heaven againſt the Idolatrous Gentiles, excluding them from x hope of eternal Life by the blood of Chriſt and ſhowers of Divine grace, till they repent. III. To Moſes and Aaron, Deliverers of Iſrael out of Ægyptian Bondage, and Reſtorers of Gods true Worſhip in the Wilderneſs; And have power over Waters to turn them to Blood, and to ſmite the Earth with all Plagues, as often as they will, viz. As Moſes and Aaron, immediately before, and at their bringing of Iſrael out of Ægypt, y turned their waters to blood, and ſmote them with ten ſore Plagues: So toward the period of theſe two Witneſſes Prophecy, when the Chriſtian People ſhall now be quite reſcued from the Antichriſtian bondage and tyranny of the Beaſt, the Vials of Gods wrath like Ægypt plagues ſhall come upon the Beaſt & upon his Gentiliſh worſhippers; The plagues of the firſt Vial being z Anoyſome and grievous ſore; the ſecond and third being Blood, &c. ver. 6.

(5) By the various conſequents or events of their Prophecy and Teſtimony. (Wherein theſe Witneſſes become ſingularly conforme to Chriſt a who preached about 42 moneths, i.e. three years and an half; was then ſlain by the Roman Governor laid dead three days; three days after roſe again with a great earthquake; and 40 days after aſcended into heaven, a Cloud receiving him.) viz. 1. The Beaſts war againſt the two witneſſes; And when they ſhall have finiſhed their Teſtimony, the Beaſt that aſcended out of the bottomleſſe pit, ſhall make war againſt them, viz. when now part of the Chriſtian World ſhall repent of their Gentiliſh Idolatries and reform, and the witneſſes ſhall for joy begin to lay aſide their mourning weed. This ſeemes to have been from the beginning of the Reformation of the Reformed Churches, and ſo on to this day. 2. The beaſts victory over them; And ſhall overcome them, and kill them, ver. 7. viz. not Properly, but Metaphorically; they ſhall be civilly ſlain in reſpect of their Office and Function, i.e. be taken off from their Teſtimony. But when? b Brightman thinks in Anno 1547. when Charles the fifth put to flight the Proteſtant Armies in Germany. Others refer (as Mede notes) to the woful havock made of the Germane Churches. c Others to John Wickliffs and John D. of Leiceſter, his Protector, excommunicated by the Pope; or to John Huſſe, and Jerome of Prague, the two famous Bohemian witneſſes, &c. Moſt are very willing to perſwade themſelves, that this calamitous ſtorme is already over. Utinam! But for my part I ingenuouſly confeſſe, I incline to their d opinion who fear this ſad Tragedy is yet to come Partly becauſe this fourty two monthes of the Gentiles treading under foot the holy City, and the witneſſes contemporany Prophecy ſeem evidently to be e extended to the period of the Sixth Trumpet, which is yet expected. Partly becauſe the f killing of the witneſſes ſhall immediately precede the ruine of Rome the great City, which is thought will be accompliſhed under the fifth Vial, ultimately under the ſeventh Vial; whereas it is conceived we are not yet paſſed the fourth Vial. 3. Their lying un-buried for three prophetical dayes and an half, i.e. three years and an half within the Roman territories, and Dominion, where Chriſt was crucified; And their dead bodies ſhall lie in the ſtreet of the great City, (viz. the Dominion of Rome) which ſpiritually is called Sodom (for its ſpiritual uncleanneſs) and Egypt (for its tyrannicalneſſe) where alſo our Lord was crucified, ver. 8. This their unburied ſtate is amplified,

(1) Partly, by the conſpicuouſneſs of it; And they of the people, and kindreds, and tongues, ſhall ſee their dead bodies three days and an half.

(2) Partly, by the cauſe of it; And ſhall not ſuffer their dead bodies to be put in graves, ver. 9.

(3) Partly, by their enemies great joy and triumph at this dead ſtate of their Tormentors; And they that dwell upon the earth ſhall rejoyce over them, and make merry, and ſhall ſend gifts one to another, becauſe theſe two Prophets tormented them that dwelt upon the earth, ver. 10. 4. Their reviving and Reſurrection (i.e. Reſtitution to their Office and Function) after three days and an half, to the terror of Beholders; And after three days and an half, the Spirit of life from God entred into them; and they ſtood upon their feet, and great fear fell upon them which ſaw them, ver. 11. 5. Their Aſcention, or advancement to an higher degree of Honor and Power then formerly they enjoyed, and that in the ſight, and above the reach of of their enemies; And they heard a great voice from heaven, ſaying unto them; Come up hither. And they ascended up to heaven in a Cloud, and their enemies beheld them, ver. 12. This their Resurrection and Ascension is explained, [1] Partly, by the occasion hereof, the great Earth-quake the same hour, &c. The great Commotion of the Nations, and strange turn of things, making way for their Reflection. And the same hour there was a great Earthquake. The effects of this Earth-quake are, 1. The fall and destruction of whole Rome, the City that now is, which is but the g tenth part of the City which once was; And the tenth part of the City fell. 2. The slaughter of many in the Earth-quake; And in the Earth-quake were slain of men, (Gr. names of men) seven thousand. By names of men, whether all the individual persons that shall be slain, or the number of men of Name, eminent and renowned; or Companies and Societies of them, coming under the same common Name; or whether some other mystery is to be understood, is hard to determine, the event will declare it. 3. This third Wo is continued in the seventh Trumpet, which sounds to the last and general Judgement, verse 15. to the end of this Chapter. But of that formerly in the close of the I. Prophecy.

"Hitherto of the First general Branch of this "II. Prophecy, viz. The various conditions of "the Church in several intervals of time in re"spect of Religion, the Purity and Impurity "thereof. All inserted in the I. Prophecy, for "the Reasons formerly given, yet belonging "to this Second Prophecy. Next in order is "the Second general Branch, touching the "Churches Tribulations in these several condi"tions.

IV. Vision.

2. The manifold Tribulations and Persecutions wherewith the Church shall be exercised and distressed by reason of sundry enemies, and that in both the forementioned conditions of Purity and Impurity of Religion, comes next to be considered. The Churches troubles and persecutions are described, what they were, 1. In her Primitive and more pure Regular state. 2. In her successive and more impure Irregular state.

1. In her primitive and more pure condition, for the first three hundred years at least after Christ. The Church is exercised with the Persecution of the great Red Dragon, having seven heads and ten horns, and seven Crowns upon his heads, i. e. The Heathenish Roman Empire, the Worshipper of the Dragon the Devil, in whose power that Pagan-Empire then was, This Dragon by many persecutions raged against the Woman the Church, being big-with-childe, and travelling to bring forth Christ mystical, (viz. Christ formed in his mystical body and members, 2 Cor. 12. 12. Gal. 4. 19.) into the Roman world: The Dragon being ready to devour him as soon as born. But after many pangs and persecutions, she brought forth Christ, a King, to rule the Gentiles with a rod of iron: And the great Dragon being cast out of his Roman Throne and Power, by Michael and his Angels: There was in that Roman world, Salvation and strength, and the Kingdom of our God, and the Power of his Christ. This is the sum of this sharp conflict, and is contemporary with the [illegible] of the Inner Court of the Temple not measured.

Now in this persecuted state of the Primitive Church, consider, 1. The description of the church persecuted, under the notion of a woman with child travelling. And she is described gloriously. 1. By her brightest cloathing; And there appeared a great wonder in heaven, a woman cloathed with the Sun, viz. with Christ the Sun of Righteousness, whom she had put on by faith, and in whom she stood acquitted. 2. By her ornaments; And the Moon under her feet. That is, the world and worldly vanities, delights, &c. which have various incessant aspects like the Moon; sic h some think. i Or, the Doctrine of Manners is implyed by the Moon, as the Doctrine of Faith by the Sun; which k Brightman likes better. But some conceive a better interpretation may be pitched upon then both these; viz. If by the Moon the Ruler of the night and darkness be understood. Either the w legal shadows, and elements of the world, now vanishing, and to be quite put under the Churches foot, Christ with his full Evangelical brightness shining upon her. Thus the n Ancients interpret it, of the Jewish Synagogue under her feet. Or, the darkness of Gentile superstition, now dispelled, and brought under by Christ and his Gospel. Mede o is in suspence which of these interpretations is best, or whether both may not be joyned together. Let the Reader deliberate and judge. 3. By her Crown; And upon her head a Crown of twelve Stars, viz. She was illustrious for the Doctrine and faith of the twelve Apostles, purely maintained. Chap. XII. ver. 1. 4. By her painful Travel in bringing forth, being [illegible] with childe; And she being with child, cryed, travelling in birth, and pained to be delivered, ver. 2. The Church is as a p Mother. Her travel was to bring forth Christ mystical into the world. Her pangs denote her persecutions which mean-while she indured, for so Scripture useth to expresse grievous tribulations or persecutions, by the q pangs of a travelling woman. In this Travel of the Primitive Church, and in the particulars following about the Birth of Christ mystical; Here seems to be a norable allusion to the Virgin Mary's bringing forth of Christ Personal; as r Parens hath well observed in many particulars.

[2] The Description of the Dragon persecuting. He is described, 1. By his Effigies, form or shape, which is cruel and monstrous: And there appeared another wonder in Heaven, and behold a great Red Dragon having seven heads, and ten horns, and seven Crowns upon his heads. He is, 1. A Great Dragon; For a s Dragon is an old Serpent, that by eating up, and devouring many Serpents, becomes an huge vast Dragon at last. This great Dragon is the t Devil and Satan: Metonymically, the Pagan Roman Empire the worshipper of this Dragon, under the power of Satan; as from this present description, u Mede hath well observed. 2. A Red Dragon; viz. most Cruel, red with the blood of Saints and Martyrs. 3. Having seven heads, and seven Crowns on his head, viz. Partly in respect of the seven Hills, whereon Rome the Metropolis and Royal Seat of that Empire was built. Partly in regard of the seven Orders or kinds of Governours, wherewith it should be successively ruled, Rev. 17. 9, 10. 4. Having ten horns, viz. in respect of the ten Kingdoms, which should rise up and grow in the course of the seventh or last head, v. 3. 11. By his Power or Prevalency of his dominion: And his tail drew the third part of the Starrs of heaven, and did cast them to the earth. That is, this Dragon-worshipper the Romane-Empire, by his rail, viz. The Companions and Followers of his power, brought the third part of the World, (which was known in

By his subtile and inventive watching of the travelling Woman, to devour her child as soon as born: And the Dragon stood before the woman, which was ready to be delivered, for to devour the child, as soon as it was born, ver. 4. (3) The woman bringing forth her childe, Notwithstanding this persecution of the Dragon. Here I. The childe brought forth is described, 1 By its Sex, And she brought forth a man-child. 2. By his Regal Office; Who was to rule all Nations with a Rod of Iron. This Primarily belongs to z Christ personal: Secondarily to Christ mystical, his Church and Members. Christ mystical ruled all Nations by a rod of iron, subjugating the Roman Empire: Partly by a Spiritual Gospel-victory, promoted by Michael and his Angels, against the Devil and his Angels, Rulers in that Empire: Partly by a corporal Conquest afterwards, when Christians prevailed and obtained such power and successe, thinks a Mede, under Constantine the Great and his Successors. Partly this Rule shall be compleated, when with Christ the a Saints shall judge the world. 3. By his Advancement: And her child was caught up unto God, and to his Throne. When? not presently as soon as born, but when come to maturity. As Christ himself was in his ripe age taken up to Gods supreme Throne: so Christ mystical, when maturely grown in his Kingdome, was exalted to the Romane Throne, viz. under Constantine, as was noted. Such Rulers Scripture sometimes calls c Gods, verse. 5.

(4) The battel of Michael with the Dragon, during the Time of the Woman's Travel, viz. of the Primitive Churches Travel to bring forth Christ Mystical into the Roman World. From the successe of this Battel it was, that the child was not Devoured by the Dragon but brought forth safely, and afterwards exalted highly. Touching this Battel, note, I. The place where it was fought: And there was war in heaven, viz. in the Church, (often called heaven in this Book) for the victory was partly by the Confession and Death of Martyrs. II. The Adversaries and their Armies, that fought this Battel e Michael and his Angels fought against the Dragon: And the Dragon fought, and his Angels, ver. 7. viz. Against Satan the Dragon, and his Angels, and the Dragon-worshipper the Romane Empire, persecuting the Primitive Church: The Primitive Church by Christs blood, their faithful Testimony, patient sufferings, and Assistance of the Angels, fought and prevailed. III. The successe of the 300 years Battel at last; It went on Michael's and the Primitive Churches side, The Dragon and his angels being despoyled of their imaginary Deity, and thrown down to the bottome of extreamest contempt and execration; The f Paganish Idols, and Idolatries being made such havock of, and utterly abolished in the Roman Empire; And they prevailed not, neither was their place found any more in Heaven. And the Great Dragon was cast out, that old Serpent, called the Devil and Satan which deceiveth the whole world; he was cast out into the earth, and his Angels were cast out with him, ver. 8, 9. IV. The celestial Triumphant Song in Heaven, upon this successe; And I heard a loud voice, saying in Heaven, &c. In this victorial Song are declared, 1. The happy condition to which the Primitive Church was now brought; Now is come Salvation, and strength, and the Kingdom of our God, and the Power of his Christ. This is the exalting of the woman child, viz. the bringing of them into the Roman Throne. 2. By what advantage Conquest this happy condition was gained, viz. By the Conquest of the Accuser of the Brethren, accusing them as he did Job of old, that he might gain advantage and opportunity of afflicting them; For the Accuser of our Brethren is cast down, which accused them before God day and night, ver. 10. 3. Who they were, in whose cause Michael and his Angels were thus engaged; and whereby they prevailed. They were Holy Confessors and Martyrs: and they prevailed with suitable weapons; And they overcame him. 1 By the Blood of the Lamb, And 2 By the Word of their Testimony, And 3 they loved not their lives unto the death, ver. 11. 4. What different matter of joy and grief this victory ministred to different subjects, viz. (1) Matter of joy and consolation to the Heavens, and them therein; Therefore rejoyce ye Heavens, and ye that dwell in them. By Heavens I understand the Church wherein the battel was fought, Satan not being able to come into the third Heavens to fight; By dwellers therein, The Saints and holy Confessors that overcome, and all the Holy Angels, those Ministring spirits, by whose assistance the victory was obtained. (2) Matter of grief and lamentation to the inhabiters of the Earth and Sea; that is, To the inferiour, and as yet baser inhabitants of the world, especially in the Roman world; such as had not listed themselves as yet in the Church, nor had cast out the idolatrous paganish worship of the Dragon: against whom the Dragon (being full of rage) would make some desperate attempts, fearing and foreseeing he should shortly lose them also. The Antithesis here, betwixt Heaven and Earth, and their respective inhabitants, requires this sence; Woe to the inhabiters of the Earth, and of the Sea: for the devil is come down unto you, having great wrath, because he knoweth that he hath but a short time, v. 12.

e Whether this Michael were Christ, or some chief Angel? Quære. Mede likes best the latter. Pareus, Brightman, Forbes, Junius, Piscator, Diodate, interpret it of Christ. But Napier of the Holy Ghost.

f The Substance of this victory seems to be contained in the Sixth Seal, whereunto this is Contemporany. There see, on Chap. VI. 12 &c.

'Hitherto of the Tribulations and Persecutions of 'the Church whilest in her Primitive, more Pure, and Regular state:

2. In her Successive, more Impure and Irregular state, from the Primitive times after the first 300 years at least, or thereabouts, till the very last, the Seventh Trumpet, closing up the Prophecies of the Revelation The Church (though freed from Heathenish Tyranny, yet) is afresh imbarked in New Troubles and Persecutions, by divers enemies. Now during all this time, the Church is in her Wilderneſſe-Condition: as Israel of old was after their deliverance from Egypt. Thus take the Parallel. 'Israel 1 De'livered from the Egyptian bondage under Pha'raoh. 2. Fled towards the Wilderness, but was 'pursued by Pharaoh? 3. Had liberty of worship'ping God in the Wilderneſſe, where the Taberna'cle was Erected; 4 There Apostatized from God, 'and his pure worship in the Matter of the Calf, Ba'al-peor, Balaam, &c. 5 Was there exercised with 'New troubles and afflictions, of Hunger, Thirst, 'Fiery Serpents, and of divers Enemies; 6 Abode 'in the Wilderness 40 years, during which space 'they made g 42 journeys and stations from Egypt to 'Jordan; 7 And at last all their enemies being sub'dued, they quietly possessed the Promised Rest, the 'Land of Canaan. So The Church, 1 Being freed from Heathenish Tyranny under the Red Dragon; 2 Fled into the Wilderness, but was pursued and persecuted by the Dragon; 3 Had liberty of Worshipping God in the Wilderness, granted by the Edicts of Christian Emperours and Kings, who erected for them Temples or publick places for Christian worship. Yea in that her wilderness-state, she makes many defections, Apostatizing from God & his pure Worship, especially to Anti-christianism; 3. Is there Exercised with new Troubles and Persecutions, by the Dragon, Beast, and false Prophet; & Abides in this Wilderness-state 42. months; 4. And at last the Dragon, the Beast, and False Prophet, with all her Enemies, being vanquished, the Church obtains the New Heavens & New Earth, and reigns with Jesus Christ a thousand years, yea, for ever and ever. The former and following Stories of this Prophecy clear this Parallel.

In this Succesive and more impure state of the Church are laid down, 1. The Distresses, Tribulations and Persecutions of the Church, brought upon her by the Dragon and his Instruments, to force her to Idolatrous defection both Paganish and Popish, Ch. 12. 13. to the end, and Ch. 13. 2. The Eventual state of the true Church of Christ, during these distresses, and notwithstanding all these Tribulations, constantly adhering to the Lamb Christ in Faith and purity of Worship, diligently warning the Worshippers of the Beast, and premonishing of the future Vengeance of the Lamb upon his Enemies on the Earth, Ch. 14. throughout.

[1] The Tribulations and Persecutions of the Church in this her Successive, more impure, and Wilderness-condition, are fore-told as to arise from divers Adversaries, viz. 1. From the Dragon. 2. From the seven-headed, and ten-horn'd Beast. 3. From the two-horn'd Beast.

[1] The Churches Trouble and Persecution from the Dragon. As Israel delivered from Egyptian bondage, and marching towards the Wilderness was pursued by Pharaoh. So the Primitive Church rescued from Heathenish bondage, and flying into the Wilderness (i. e. into a middle state, not wholly hid and invisible, nor yet gloriously visible, but as it were in a middle condition betwixt both) is persecuted by the Dragon. Here the Dragons Persecution is described, as 1. Against the Woman her self, 2. Against her seed. 1. Against the Woman her self. When the Dragon could not devour her Child, it being caught up to God and to his Throne, he assaults the Woman her self; And when the Dragon saw that he was cast unto the Earth, he Persecuted the Woman that brought forth the Man-child, ver. 13. Wherein note, 1. The Womans flight from the Dragon; And to the Woman were given two wings of a great Eagle, that she might fly into the Wilderness, into her place: where she is nourished for a time, and times, and half a time, from the face of the Serpent, ver. 14. In this her flight are declared, (1) Why she fled, viz. from the face of the Serpent: to escape his mischief. (2) Whereby, or by what means she fled; viz. by two wings of a Great Eagle. This relates to that of [h] Gods providence, bringing Israel out of Egypt into the Wilderness, as on Eagles Wings; or it may refer to the Roman Empire, whose Ensign is an Eagle, and the two Cæsars of the Eastern and Western Empire, divided as two wings, by whose aid and protection the Church fled into her Wilderness-state. (3) Whither she fled; into the Wilderness, formerly explained. (4) For what time she was to continue in that wilderness-condition; for a time, and times, and half a time, viz. For the same time and duration which [i] Daniel fore-prophecied touching this state of the Church, and in these words. This time is formerly expressed, by [k] 1260. days, which exactly make up a time, i. e. one year: Times, i. e. two years: and half a time, i. e. half a year; understand Prophetical days, a day for a year. This state of the Church seems to last till the seventh Trumpet, being contemporany to the 1260. days Prophecy of the two Witnesses, which determine not till the period of the Sixth Trumpet. So that to this day, the Church is still in this wilderness-condition, but drawing towards the Borders of a far happier estate. 2. The Dragons Flood spewed out after the Woman fleeing from him; And the Serpent cast out of his mouth water as a Flood, after the woman, that he might cause her to be carried away of the flood, ver. 15. This flood in some [l] general sense may be interpreted of the Persecuting Armies of the Dragon, but more particularly it seems to signify the overflowing Errours, Heresies, and Blasphemies of the Arch-Heretick Arrius, and all those who in the Primitive times of Christianity, did most violently oppose the Church, as Ebion, Cerinthus, Valentinus, Marcion, Manes, Sabellius, Paulus Samosatenus, Photinus, Macedonius, Eunomius, Aetius, Apollinarius, Nestorius, Eutyches, Dioscorus, and all those who denied the Godhead of Christ, or the Holy Ghost, or the Humane Nature of Christ, or the Unity of his Person, or the Mystery of the Trinity, or the Resurrection of the Dead, or the Eternity of Hell-torments, or the Immortality of the Soul, or the Sacraments, or the Scriptures, or the Ministry, or the Worship of God, or the Government of the Church, or the Christian Religion, or the Christian Life, or the Christian Hope, or the Christian Faith, or the Christian Charity, or the Christian Peace, or the Christian Joy, or the Christian Glory, or the Christian Crown, or the Christian Kingdom, or the Christian Inheritance, or the Christian Salvation, or the Christian Redemption, or the Christian Sanctification, or the Christian Justification, or the Christian Adoption, or the Christian Vocation, or the Christian Election, or the Christian Predestination, or the Christian Foreknowledge, or the Christian Grace, or the Christian Mercy, or the Christian Love

This First Beast is here described by his 1. Rise. 2. Shape. 3. Seat. And 4. Acts ascribed to him.

I. By his Rise, viz. Out of the Sea, and I stood upon the sand of the Sea, and I saw a Beast rise up out of the Sea. Some think this phrase should be thus read, And he stood, i.e. the Dragon, of whom in Ch. 12. 17. he had spoken. But I saw the Beast stood there to bring up this Beast out of the Sea, to persecute the Woman. But we read no command to John to stand upon the sand: but rather he seems still to continue in the posture in heaven, beholding these Visions. But if we take it as John, it alters not the Substance of the Vision. By Sea, here I understand that multitude of ten Kingdoms, into which the Barbarians had forcibly divided the whole compasse of the Roman Territories, out of all which the Dragon now invades yours to snatch and of which to compose one Roman Dominion. Or, that Confusion of Armies and People striving in war, like a tempestuous Sea. He. By his shape, or figure, which is monstrous and horrid. This is set forth in divers particulars. 1. Having seven heads ..... and upon his heads the names of blasphemy. The seven-headed Beast is the same a Beast as which the Woman sitteth having seven heads and ten horns. Whose seven heads are interpreted by the Holy Ghost himself to be Seven Mountains, whereon the Royal Seat of the Empire Rome was built: And seven Kings, or kinds of Government, by which the Empire should be governed. The Names of blasphemy denote his blasphemous idolatries, tending to the extream reproach of God, his Religion, and Saints. 2. And ten horns, and upon his horns ten Crowns, Chap. XIII. ver. 1. These ten horns crowned, denote ten Kings, or ten Kingdoms, into which the Roman Empire of the sixth head was divided, all which were to be conjoyned into one for carrying of the whore.

These Ten Horns, thinks e Mede, belong not to all the seven heads, but only to the Seventh. Because the Heads flourishing, the Horns flourish: the Heads falling, the Horns must necessarily fall therewith. Now these horns cannot belong to the first five heads, because in John's time these f five were fallen already, and consequently their horns with them. Nor can these horns belong to the Sixth Head, which then was in g John's time reigning; for the Angel tells John plainly, The ten Horns are ten Kings, which have received no Kingdom as yet. Therefore it remains that these ten Horns belong only to the seventh or last head. 3. And the Beast which I saw was like unto a Leopard, viz. Like unto the Grecian Monarchy, resembled to a h Leopard, and divided into four heads, as this Roman into ten. The i Leopard is a beast all spotted, very swift, extream subtile and cruel: A notable Emblem of this present Beast. 4. And his feet were as the feet of a Bear, viz. big and strong to crush the prey. The k Bear is the Emblem of the Persian Monarchy; Strong, Cruel, and of a devouring nature. It had three ribs in the mouth of it, between the teeth of it: And they said thus unto it; Arise, devour much flesh. 5. And his mouth as the mouth of a Lion, ver. 2. The l Lion was the Emblem of the first Monarchy, viz. The Babylonian. The Lyons mouth, denotes strength and cruelty, in tearing, crushing, and swallowing up his prey. How notably sets this out the character of this Beast, which is as a confection or compound made up of the terribleneſſe, strength and cruelty of all the three foregoing Monarchies! Hence Daniel m admirably describes this Fourth Beast, as dreadful, and terrible, and strong exceedingly, and it had great iron teeth. This his shape. III. By his state and constitution. He was vested with great Power and Regal Dominion, Here consider, The efficient cause, The manner of acquiring it, And the event of it. 1. The efficient cause of it, viz. The Dragon; And the Dragon gave him his Power, and Seat, and great Authority, ver. 2. By Power Scripture notes not only Strength, Herald, Bands or Multitudes of Persons. The Dragons Bands or Army, are his Angels or Devils with Idols their Receptacles, saith o Mede. These he gives to this Beast together with his Seat and great Authority, viz. All that authority which he had in the Heathenish Roman Empire, from which Michael and the Martyrs cast him down; answerably hereunto he gives to the Beast, his fulfilling to deceive in her stead. How cunningly Satan acts, see more at 2. Red Dragon, how he wrought in a like Many-formed Beast, to draw the Church to Idolatry, under the Christian Empire: 2. The manner of his acquiring that dominion, by the healing of his mortal wound, received in his seventh Head, by the Barbarous Nations, but now cured by this subdivided power of the Beast, in the course of his Seventh and last Head; And I saw one of his Heads as it were wounded to death, and his deadly wound was healed. 3. The event of this his great Dominion upon the world, Generally admiring and adoring this Beast, thus healed and new-formed as the Dragons Deputy: viz. Highly approving of him, and subjecting themselves unto him and his power, as incomparable and irresistible, p Adoring, in Scripture, being put for Subjection: And all the world wondred at the Beast, and they worshipped the Dragon which gave power unto the Beast: (i.e. They subjected themselves to the Dragon in the Beast,) and they worshipped the Beast, saying, who is like unto the Beast, who is able to make war with him? ver. 3, 4.

IV. By his acts ascribed to him, viz. his acts of Idolatrous blasphemy, and of cruel tyranny. 1. His acts of Idolatrous blasphemy, viz. Idolatry: for Scripture is wont to set forth Idolatry, as q blasphemous, opprobrious, and contumelious to God. Touching this his blasphemy 3. (1) This is generally mentioned; And there was given unto him a mouth speaking great things and blasphemies. (2) The continuance of this blasphemous Beast, is computed: And power was given unto him, to continue forty and two months, ver. 5. (3) The of his blasphemies or Idolatries, are particularized: And he opened his mouth in blasphemy against God. To blaspheme, 1. His Name, And 2. His Tabernacle, And 3. Them that dwell in Heaven, ver. 6. Thinks r Mede, Gods Name, by Image-worship: His Tabernacle, viz. Christs body, (wherein the God-head dwelt personally,) by Transubstantiation, Masses, &c. Them that dwell in Heaven, viz. Saints and Angels, by Angel-worship, Saint-worship, or rather Devil-worship under their Names. 2. His acts of cruel tyranny; Partly persecuting the Saints; And it was given unto him to make war with the Saints, and to overcome them. That is, with the remnant of the Womans Seed in the Wilderness. This is conceived to be executed, when such numerous multitudes of the t Waldenses, and Albigenses, and other true Christians were destroyed in those bloody wars, for seventy years together: first intended against the Saracens, afterwards turned against the Christians, that would not worship and submit unto the Beast. Partly subduing all to his Power, except the Elect; And Power was given him over all Kindreds, and Tongues, and Nations. And all that dwell upon the Earth shall worship him, whose Names are not written in the book of Life of the Lamb, slain from the foundation of the World, ver. 7, 8. This is amplified by a Conclusion inferred hence, which is Monitory and Consolatory. Monitory, to attend and consider well, who adore the Beast; If any man have an ear let him hear, ver. 9. Consolatory, to the faithful, not worshipping the Idolatrous Beast, notwithstanding all his cruelties inflicted to that end. They are comforted, 1. From Gods just revenge and retaliation of their Imprisonments and Butcheries upon the Beast; He that leadeth into Captivity, shall go into Captivity: He that killeth with the sword, must be killed with the sword. 2. From the eminency which will appear in their Faith and Patience, waiting on God, till he be thus avenged them of the beast. Here is the Patience & Faith of the Saints, v. 10.

[8] The Churches Enemies and persecutor by the Second beast, &c. The two-horned beast, or false Prophet, the Reviver and Asserter of the first beast. Which terms evidently to be z The Roman Anti-christ, viz. The Papacy, or the Pope in his Clergy. In the Vision of this beast, note, I. His Life. 2. His Character. 3. His Power and Acts. I. His Life, not so notable as the former beast out of the Sea of worldly Dominions; but more base, out of the earth, a low and mean condition of things. Or, not out of the sea of Armies and People stirring in wars as the former: but out of the earth, silently, without all noyse, as the Graft or Plant silently rise, and grow out of the ground: And I saw another beast coming up out of the earth. II. His Character. The Character of this beast, is laid down in his threefold Resemblance, viz. 1. He resembles the Lamb in his Horns, i. e. in his Power; And he had two Horns, like the Lamb. The Lamb had a seven Horns, denoting his perfect power: This beast had two Horns like him, though not equal to him. Some think thereby the beast Hypocritically imitates Christ, in his meek Lamb-like power. Some by these two Horns understand, the double power of binding and loosing. Or the Secular and Ecclesiastical Sword, Usurped by the Pope, &c. 2. He resembles the Dragon in his voice; And he spake as the Dragon, ver. 11. That is, by his Doctrine and Decrees, he patronizeth Idolatry, and persecuteth the Saints as the Dragon did, in the former beast. 3. He resembles the First beast in the exercise of his Power; And he exerciseth all the Power of the first beast before him. III. His Power and Acts. 1. He causeth the Inhabitants of the earth to worship and submit to the first beast; And causeth the earth, and them that dwell therein, to worship the first beast, whose deadly wound was healed, ver. 12. 2. He seduceth and causeth men to make an Image to the first beast, who was wounded. The first beast being the sixth Head, (as was formerly shewed,) of the Roman Empire, which was Heathenish, when wounded: The Roman beast of the Seventh Head is his Image, becoming like him in a new Idolatry or Idol-worship, not of Pagan-Idols, but of Saints, Angels, &c. like thereunto. This is the Image of the beast, which he causeth men to make; and this he effecteth two ways. [1] By deceiving them with b lying wonders and counterfeit miracles; And he doth great wonders, so that he maketh fire come down from Heaven, on the earth, in the sight of men. And deceiveth them that dwell on the earth, by those miracles which he had power to do in the sight of the beast: saying to them that dwell on the earth, that they should make an Image to the beast, which had the wound by a sword, and did live, ver. 13, 14. [2] By frighting and terrifying men with formidable Edicts, Anathema's, Thunderbolts of Excommunication, debarring them even of Civil Commerce whilst Excommunicated, &c. And he had power to give Life to the Image of the beast, that the Image of the beast should both speak, and cause that as many as would not worship the Image of the beast should be killed. And he causeth all, both small and great, rich and poor, free and bond, to receive a Mark in their right hand, or in their fore-heads. And that no man might buy or sell, save he that had the c Mark, or the Name of the beast, or the Number of his Name, ver. 15, 16, 17. Now this number of the beast, is amplified by an hortatory Conclusion, inciting to that singular point of wisdom in counting the number of the Beast; urged 1. As possible, it being a number which a man may count. 2. As facile, the number here being given; Here is wisdom, Let him that hath understanding count the number of the beast: for it is the number of a man, and his number is six hundred, threescore and six, ver. 18.

z Are his understanding here by this Beast, the cousin of Anti-Christ to be described. Arth. ad Apoc. 13. 11. apud Oecumen. So Pareus, Mede, Piscator, Diodate, Forbes, and most, unanimously interpret this Beast.

b 2 Thes. 2.

c The Mark, The Name of the beast, The number of his name.] It is thought in these, there is an allusion to an ancient custom of Masters, who caused their Names to be set on their Servants fore-heads, that they might be known whose Servants they were (as Slaves Marked, Jo. 8. 34. and of Soldiers on chief Commanders, who caused their Names to be inscribed in their Souldiers Hands (as Procopius reports, Lib. 1.) that they might be discerned whose Souldiers they were: so here the Beast and his Vassals have his Mark, Name, or Number, and oppose homage unto the Lamb, Confessing him to be their Lord, and in their fore-heads, and the Lambs Number, Rev. 14. 1. That so by these discriminating Characters, the Lambs Company, the Heads and Servants of the Lamb, may be distinguished and known from one another. Joseph. Ant. in Exod. Num. Paris. ad Leg. 13, 16, 17.

Some confound the Mark with the Name of the Beast, counting them the same; as Arbeth. Others (and perhaps upon better ground,) conceive the Mark, Name, and Number of the Name of the Beast, to be three distinct Readers, or Characteristical notes of the Beasts Vassals and Worshippers; Thus Brightman, Pareus, Forbes, in Rev. 13. 16, 17, 18. Among these three Marks, the Character belongs to the Peers and Clergy, as being his Seed: The Name to the People and common sort, as to his Villains: And the Number of the Name to the Grecians, that were strangers of another Country. Brightman in Rev. 13. 11. I like well Forbes his expression of himself in this point. Saith he; All that follow Anti-christ have his name, but in divers manner. Some have The Character thereof; that is, the name imprinted, and are his proper Goods, as having his Burn-Iron and Mark; A familiar phrase from the manner of men. Some have his Name, yet so as they have not his Mark; who have not learned the deepness of Satan, neither are Anti-christs sworn Bondmen. And yet some have but the Number of his Name; that is, are so far from being his sworn and marked Slaves, as they are no otherwise his, but in so far as they are counted to be so, and numbered amongst his. For he is such a Tyrant as will have all men in one of these sorts. And because within these, who have the Number of his name, both the former sorts are comprehended; The number of his name, sheweth the whole body and frame of his Kingdom. For albeit, many have his Name, and more have his Number, which have not his Character, yet all that have either Character, or Name, are of his Number; Forbes Com. on Rev. 13. 16, 17, 18. By these three seems to be signified one and the same thing, viz. The Profession of the Papal Religion, or subjection to the Pope. Piscat. Scol.

Touching The Number of the Beasts Name, 666. How hath it puzled and tortured all Writers to satisfie themselves about the true Mystery in Particular intended thereby? I find chiefly two Opinions more considerable herein; 1. Of those that labour to find out such names, especially in Greek or Hebrew, (in which Tongues all the Letters are Numerals, and signifie some Number or other,) as may agree to this Roman Beast; the Numeral Letters of which Name, or Names, may exactly amount to 666. And they especially pitch upon the Name Λατεινος, the Letters whereof considered as Numerals, come to just 666. And multitudes of other Names are found out to like purpose, not onely by Modern, but also by Ancient Writers. To whom here I refer such Readers as desire to satisfie themselves further herein. Irenæus, Adverss. Hæres. l. 5. c. 30. Arethus in Comment. Apoc. cap. 38. Apud Oecumen. Brightman. Comment. on Rev. 13. 18. D. Pareus in Comment. Apoc. ad cap. 13. 18. Napier on Rev. 13. 18. and in Proposition XXXI. especially, &c. But this Opinion about Λατεινος, Forbes saith is so childish an Egyptical toy, that he marvels much how ever any solid mind could propound it for a rare point of Divine wisdom. Forbes on Rev. 13. 18. 2. Of those that Parallel and Compare the Number of the Beast, viz. 666. with the Number of the Lambs Company and of the New Jerusalem, viz. 144. which are set as Opposites one against another, and as Opposites may serve to explain each other. To this end by Computation they find that the Lambs Number of 144. is only builded by Multiplication of 12. upon 12, and can no other ways be multiplyed, shewing, that the the true Church of Christ is builded only on the Foundation of the twelve Apostles Doctrine, and still holds the Foundation in all that's builte thereon: but on the contrary, the Beasts number 666. though it seem more compact, accurate, and uniform, yet cannot be raised nor builded upon twelve, take what Multiplyer you will, nor can it be divided or quartered by twelve, shewing that Anti-christs Apostolical Church, riseth not on the Foundation, much less keepeth the Foundation of the twelve Apostles Doctrine, nor can endure to be tryed thereby. Thus Forbes in his Comment. on Rev. 13. 18. See him more at large. After him Mr. Potter hath further improved this Opinion, by Extracting the Roots of these two Numbers; The Root upon which the Lambs Number 144. and true Church is raised, being 12. the Apostolical basis; The Root upon which the Beasts Number 666. the character of the Antichristian Apostatical Church is raised, being the fatal number of 25. Both which he describes and magnifies at large. Which tract of his wrought in me a consideration upon the reading of it, as himself before the Book testifieth. But I referre the Reader to it for further satisfaction, viz. An Interpretation of the number 666. By Francis Potter, B. D.

Now, in a matter of such intricacy and difficulty, though it be hard to determine which way to take, yet (without prejudice to any mans judgement,) I confesse I rather incline to this later opinion and way of interpretation; as being to my judgment, 1. More grave and ponderous. 2. More certain and determinate. 3. More conforme and suitable to the other mysteries revealed in this Book. (4) More accurately discriminating betwixt Antichrists false Apostatical Synagogue, and Christs true Apostolical Church, 5 And in the right comparing whereof, more True, Theological, Spiritual and Heavenly wisdome will be found.

Hitherto of the Churches distresses, and persecutions in her Successive and more impure state, tending to draw her to Idolatrous defection, both Paganish and Papistic. Next let us view the event of this Persecution upon the true Church in her condition and carriage, meanwhile, during these Persecutions.

[II.] The Spiritual state and condition of Christs true Church and Virgin company, during these distresses, and notwithstanding all these persecutions; 1 Constantly and purely adhering to the Lamb Jesus Christ in faith and worship. 2. Diligently by the Lambs Direction, warning the worshippers of the Beast. And 3 Premonished from heaven of the Lambs future vengeance upon his Enemies, (and therefore in these respects victoriously prevailing over the beast,) comes next to be considered.

[1] The true Churches or Virgin-company's constant and pure adhering to Christ, in midst of Antichristian idolatries and persecutions, is described in a vision of the Lamb and his company standing on Mount Sion. This is the d remnant of the womans seed in the wilderness, against which the Dragon warred: and here they are as it were encamping with the Lamb on Mount Sion. In this Vision the true Church is 1 Described, 2 Commended. 1. Described, as adhering to, and attending upon the Lamb, when the world wondered after the Beast, and worshipped him; And I looked, and lo a Lamb stood on the M. Sion, and with him an hundred fourty and four thousand having the name [of him, and the name] of his Father written in their foreheads, Chap. XIV. ver. 1. Here note 1. The place where they attended on Christ. On the M. Sion. M Sion called the city of David; David took it from the Jebusites, built it strongly, erecting a Royal Tower therein, there he dwelt and had his Royal Throne; before it, was the Temple, behind it, the Wilderness. It was so strong a place, that the faithful are compared to e M. Sion, that cannot be removed, but abideth for ever. Hereby then the notable stability of the Church against all Antichristian machinations is intimated. 2. The posture, standing. The Lamb stood, and his company stood with him. The Lamb (thinks f Pareus) stood, as in his g Watch-tower, vigilant over his Church for her protection. They stood as his servants and souldiers attending upon him. 3. Their number 144000. This is the same number h before mentioned in the preparatories to the seventh Seal; the number of the true Church, which is built upon the doctrine of the twelve Apostles: as this number is built only upon twelve. (as was before observed.) This number is here opposed to the number of the Beast 666. in the close of the former Chapter, which can by no means be built upon twelve. 4. Their character, having his Fathers name in their foreheads. Rather according to the i Complutane Copy, Having the name of him, and the name of his Father, &c. which more fully expresseth their character, as opposite to the mark of the Beast, whereby they are distinguished from the Beast-worshippers. This seems to note their true profession of, and subjection to the Father and to the Lamb. II. Commended. This company of the Lamb is commended singularly; 1. For their pure worshipping and praising the Father and the Lamb, with a new evangelical Song, taught them, and them alone, k conform to that of the heavenly company of heavenly Angels, magnifying the Lamb for his ability to open the sealed Book. This their pure Gospel-worship is described, (1) By the numerous l multitude of the heavenly Singers, (whereunto these 144000 conform themselves,) resembled to Waters, Thunder, Harpers; And I heard a voice from heaven, as the voice of many waters, and as the voice of a great thunder; And I heard the voice of Harpers harping with their Harps, ver. 2. (2) By the nature of their Song; And they sung as it were a new Song, viz. either A new Gospel-song since Christs coming, opposite to the old; before Christs coming; m old things now being pulled away, and all things become new. Or new in respect of new conferred benefits under the Gospel, among which this preservation of this 144000. from Antichristian defilements was no small one; Scripture is wont to call for n New Songs, for New Mercies. Here by Song, we may understand all Gospel-worship; by a Synechdoche of the part for the whole. (3) By the place where this new Song was sung; Before the throne, and before the four Beasts, and the Elders. (4) By the hearers of this Evangelicall Song, set forth, Negatively and Affirmatively; And no man could learn that Song, but the hundred and fourty and four thousand, which were redeemed from the earth, viz. during the Beasts dominion, none could worship the Lamb purely without idolatry on earth, as the Angels do in heaven, ver. 3. 2. For their (spirituall chastity; These are they which were not defiled with women for they are Virgins. That is, not defiled with whorish women, viz. with o Cities guilty of spirituall whoredome, idolatry, among whom Rome was most notorious. 3. For their constant attendance upon the Lamb in all states and places; These are they which follow the Lamb withersoever he goeth. 4. For their peculiar relation to God and the Lamb; They being peculiar first-fruits to them, redeemed out of the prophane masse of the idolatrous world, These were redeemed from among men, being the first-fruits unto God and to the Lamb, ver. 4. 5. For their integrity; And in their mouth was found no guile. Some Gr. Copies read. p No lie. q Idols in Scripture are called Lyes: And r Idolaters Lyars. This seems to note their freedome from idolatry, and that they did not hypocritically professe and pretend to be Christians, and yet idolatrously adore the Beast. 6. Finally, For their innocency in Gods account, which is annexed as a reason of the former; For they are without fault before the Throne of God, ver. 5.

(2) The true Church's diligent Warnings of, and testifying against the worshippers of the Beast, (wherein they are as it were actually skirmishing and conflicting with the Beast and his adherents.) is described in the Vision of three Angels, i.e. Evangelicall Ministers, Preaching the everlasting Gospel against the Beast, and Beast-worshippers. 1. The first Angel exhorts all that had given their names to Christ by Profession, to consider how Gods judgments were now inflicted upon the heathenish idols and idolaters, and therefore to worship God the Creator onely, and purely. He is called Another Angel, to distinguish him from the Angels formerly singing the new Song. This Angel some s interpret of the Councell of Constantinople, in the East, consisting of three hundred thirty seven Bishops, about Anno Dom. 720. wherein the worship of the Virgin Mary, and the Saints with Divine

Divine invocation, was opposed; and of the Western Beast in the West, under Charles the great, consisting of about three hundred Bishops, whose Synod, which damned both the worship of Images and also the Second Nicene Council that established it, gave Precedence to all others in Christendom, as Antichrist, especially in Councils, must sit highest and of divers in Rheims, as Paris, and Mentz, &c. Now touching this Angel are laid down 1. His Ensigne; And I saw another Angel fly through the midst of Heaven. That is, through the midst of the Church; Or, confidently, that he might be seen of all, as Pareus: Or, in a middle degree of doctrine, between many Reliques of Darkness yet left, (saith Brightman and Pareus) Or, above the ordinary pitch of Preachers, elevated and countenanced by the greatness of the world, as those former Councils, thinks Mede. 2. His furniture; Having the everlasting Gospel. 3. The Auditory to whom he preached, viz. to all sorts of the Beasts worshippers; To preach unto them that dwell on the earth, and to every Nation, and Kindred, and Tongue, and People, ver. 6. 4. The substance of the Doctrine which he preached, consisted of three Branches, urging them (1) To fear God; Saying with a loud voice, fear God. This is pressed against the prophane security of those times, and their base fear of the Beast. (2) To glorifie God, viz. by abandoning false worship; seeing now his judgments upon the heathenish idolatry of the Roman-Empire was so palpably made manifest; and give glory to him, for the hour of his judgement is come. (3) To yield true worship to God, and to him alone; And worship him that made heaven, and earth, and the Sea, and the Fountains of water, ver. 7. II. The second Angel, (the first Angels Doctrine being despised,) denounceth Babylons irrevocable ruine from that time forwards till it be consummated, for their obstinacy and impenitency in idolatries. This Angel u Mede interprets of the Waldenses and Albigenses, who first of all other renounced Romish idolatries, and many followed them, which falling off from Rome, was the laying a foundation for Babylons fall, till it should be utterly ruined. Pareus x of Luther and his followers, Melancthon, Zuinglius, Oecolampadius, &c. y Brightman, of John Husse and Hierome of Prague. The Substance of this Angels Sermon or Doctrine, was 1. A Commination of Babylons fall; And there followed another Angel, saying, Babylon is fallen, is fallen, that great City, i. e. she is now fallen initially, shall fall totally and finally. 2. The Reason of this Commination: Because she made all Nations drink of the Wine of the wrath of her fornication, v. 8. III. The third Angel going beyond both the former, warneth all the worshippers of the Beast, what horrible vengeance hangs over their heads, and would fall upon them, if they still persist in following and worshipping the Beast, and not renounce him. This Angel, thinks z Brightman, and a Mede, was M. Luther with his Associates and Successours, who so vehemently opposed Papal Doctrine and Superstition: whereupon followed the eminent Reformation of the Germane, and other Churches. Luther (saith Pareus,) left this fatidical verse behind him; (Pestis eram vivus, moriens ero mors tua Papa.) i.e.

O Pope, I was thy Plague, while I had breath,
And though I dye, yet will I be thy death.

b Pareus thinks this Angel is to be interpreted of Luthers Successours, from An. 1546. to the end of the world, because no fourth Angel follows, but Christ sitting on his white Throne of judgment. Touching this Angels preaching, note; 1. His zeal in his Doctrine: And the third Angel followed them, saying with a loud voice. 2. The Substance of his Sermon or Doctrine, denouncing most woful torments to all the followers and worshippers of the Beast. These torments are most terrible, (c) [illegible] (3) [illegible] (4) [illegible] (5) [illegible] (6) [illegible] (7) [illegible] (8) [illegible] (9) [illegible] (10) [illegible] (11) [illegible] (12) [illegible] (13) [illegible] (14) [illegible] (15) [illegible] (16) [illegible] (17) [illegible] (18) [illegible] (19) [illegible] (20) [illegible] (21) [illegible] (22) [illegible] the other of the Vintage, from Joel 3. (h) Brightman interprets the Harvest and Reaping of the Earth, of the Rising up of worthy Princes, who through the incitement of godly Ministers, should gather their Subjects out of Antichristian Superstition into the true Church, driving enemy enemies out of their Coasts; and he understands Divers Princes and Ministers in the dayes of John Wickliffe. The Vintage of the nine of the Pope in England in times of King R. casting off his Supremacy, and ruining Monasteries; and he interprets the two Angels to be Crowned with his sharp Sickle, and Chamber that had power over the fire. But is not this too much boldnesse thus definitively to particularize and limit these Mysterious Visions, which doubtlesse have a larger extent, and seem plainly to intend some higher mystery, and for some future time, yet to come. i Pareus deservedly rejects Brightmans interpretation, and expounds both the Harvest and Vintage of Christs last judgment, affirming that most interpreters thus understand them; wherein (for comfort of his afflicted Church) he foretels, how by the Harvest the wheat shall be gathered into Christs Garner; but Antichrist and all their wicked enemies, as Tares and Chaffe be burnt up with everlasting fire: and by the Vintage, what dreadful vengeance will fall upon the wicked. k Napier to this effect also for substance: though in some particulars he is singular. 1. Here's the Vision of the Harvest. Wherein consider, [1] The chief Reaper of the Harvest so gloriously and Majestically described, By his resemblance, By his Throne, By his Crown, and By his Reaping Instrument: that it can hardly be safe to interpret it of any other than of Jesus Christ himself; And I looked, and behold a white cloud, and upon the cloud one sate, like unto the Son of man, having on his head a golden Crown, and in his hand a sharp Sickle, ver. 14. [2] The earnest request of an Angel coming out of the Temple (sustaining the person, thinks I Mede, of the whole Church presenting Prayers) to him that sate on the Throne to reap; And another Angel came out of Temple, crying with a loud voice to him that sate on the cloud, Thrust in thy Sickle and reap. This request is urged; Partly, from the approach of the time of Christs judgment pre-determined of God; For the time is come for thee to reap. Partly from the maturity of the Harvest it self, ready for the Sickle; For the Harvest of the Earth is ripe, ver. 15. [3] The Actual reaping of the earth by him that sate on the cloud; And he that sate on the cloud thrust in his Sickle on the earth, and the earth was reaped, ver. 16. 2. Here's the Vision of the Vintage, which is wont not long after to follow the Harvest. Wherein, [1] The Vintage-Gatherer is described, By his place whence he came forth, and By his sharp Instrument; And another Angel came out of the Temple, which is in Heaven, he also having a sharp Sickle, ver. 17. By this Angel m Pareus understands, not the Saints, though they as Assessors with Christ, shall judge the world, 1 Cor. 6. 2. Nor the Angels, though they shall be Christs ministring instrumental reapers: but rather Christ himself, represented by an Angel, who shall descend from Heaven to judgement. [2] Another Angel supplicating that the Vintage might be gathered, is mentioned. n Pareus thinks this Angel to be some Primary instrument of Christ the Judge, who had power of inflicting the torments of hell-fire. But o Mede is of opinion, that as the former Angel in the Vision of the Harvest is said in General to come out of the Temple, as sustaining the person of the whole Church praying for Christs coming to reap; so this Angel, which is said in Particular to come from the Altar, having power over the fire, sustains the Person of all the Martyrs and Confessors, as it were sacrificed for Christ, and having power over the fire of Martyrdome, who here cry to Christ for executing his vengeance on their bloody Persecutors, especially the Roman Beast, that Vine of the Earth. This Angel is distinct, 1 Partly, by his Place whence he came; And another Angel came out from the Altar. 2. Partly, by his Power which he had; which had power over fire. 3. Partly, by the earnest request which he made, for execution of judgment upon Christs and the Churches cruel enemies; Thrust in thy sharp Sickle, and gather the Clusters of the Vine of the Earth, for her grapes are fully ripe, v. 18. [3] The Actual Gathering of the Vine of the Earth, upon the Angels Request, is declared; And the Angel thrust in his Sickle into the Earth, and gathered the Vine of the earth. This is amplified by the events hereof, viz. 1. Casting the Vine into the Wine-presse; And cast it into the great Wine-presse of the Wrath of God, v. 19. 2. Treading this Wine-presse; And the Wine-presse was trodden without the City. 3. The great quantity of blood flowing out upon treading the Wine-presse; And blood came out of the Wine-presse, even unto the Horses bridles, by the space of a thousand and six hundred furlongs, ver. 20. That this Vintage-Gatherer, who cast the Vine into the Winepresse, was Christ, accompanied with his Armies on white Horses; Gathering his Enemies into Armageddon, and there crushing and destroying them at his coming, with so great a slaughter as their blood should even reach up to the Horses bridles, seems notably cleared by that in p Rev. 19.

Hitherto of the Second General Branch, of this II. Prophecy; viz. The manifold Tribulations and Persecutions wherewith the Church shall be exercised in her several Conditions by reason of several Enemies. Next comes to be considered the third General Branch, viz. The Churches deliverance in her enemies destruction.

V. Vision.

3. The Deliverance of the Church at last out of all her Distresses and Persecutions, by Gods righteous judgments manifested in the dreadful and utter destruction of all her enemies, comes now in the third place in order to be considered. The Destruction of the Church's enemies, especially of the Beast, is represented in a Vision of Seven Vials full of the wrath of God, the seven last plagues, poured out upon the earth by Seven Angels. Here consider, 1. The Preparatories premised before the pouring out of the seven Vials. 2. The Actual pouring out of the seven Vials themselves.

[1.] PREPARATORIES, Premised before the pouring out of the Seven Vials, are laid down, 1. More Generally. 2. More Particularly.

1. More Generally, in two distinct Visions, viz. I. In the Vision of seven Angels in Heaven, having the seven last Plagues; And I saw another Sign in Heaven, Great and marvellous, Seven Angels, having the seven last Plagues, for in them is filled up the wrath of God, Ch. XV. ver. 1. II. In the Vision of a Sea of Glass mingled with fire, and of them that had got the victory over the beast, his Image, his Mark, and over the Number of his Name; standing on this Sea of Glass, having Harps, and singing. Whereby the state of the Church (thinks q Mede) during the heat of the effusion of the Vials, is represented; viz. That she being washed from Idolatrous pollution and defilements, in that Sacred Sea of the Temple, (not of brass, as Solomon's, but) of Glass or Crystal: and scarce being come out of the Sea wherein she was washed, but as it were standing on the brim, triumphantly sings her Victorial Song over the conquered Anti-christian beast, and this all the time that the Vials are pouring out to his destruction. More particularly, in this Vision John saw three things, viz. A Sea of Glass mingled with fire; And I saw as it a Sea of Glass mingled with fire. This seems to be the r Sea of Glass before the Throne, wherein the Saints were washed, as Priests in the Brazen Sea, viz. the pure and purifying Word, and Gospel-Ministry, clear as Crystal in comparison of the Law, whereby the Church is instrumentally sanctified and cleansed; but mingled with fire, either because accompanied with the t fire of Gods sanctifying Spirit, working like fiery it, because the Word purely professed, occasions the u fire of Persecution: x Pareus interpreters this Sea, of the World, brittle as glass, pellucid as Crystal to Gods eye, mingled with fire of Tribulation to the godly, and that the Church here stands on this Sea, rejoycing at Babylons destruction, as Israel of old by the Red Sea, beholding and Triumphing at the Egyptians drowning. And that here is some allusion to this, seems confirmed by that which follows, the singing of the Song of Moses, viz. Moses Song at the Red Sea.

2. The Company standing on the Sea, which seems to be the same Company of the y 144000. that stood with the Lamb on Mount Sion, viz. the true Church. These are described here, (1) as Conquerours over all Anti-christian Idolatries; And them that had gotten the Victory over the Beast, and over his Image, and over his Mark, and over the number of his name, stand on the Sea of Glass. (2) As more than Conquerours, even Triumphers. Their Triumphs are expressed, Partly, by the Musical Instruments which they had; Having the Harps of God, i. e. Most excellent sweet melodious Harps, ver. 2. Partly, by their Victorial Song of praise which they Sung. This Song is described, 1. By the Nature or Kind of it, Gratulatory to the Lamb, like that of Moses to the Lord; And they sang the z Song of Moses the Servant of God, and the Song of the Lamb. 2. By the Matter of it, magnifying God and the Lamb, for greatness and admirableness of his Works, Justice and Truth of his Ways. Peculiar Holiness, and manifestation of his Judgments upon Antichrist, thereby enforcing all Nations to fear, adore, and glorifie him; Saying, Great and marvellous are thy Works, Lord God Almighty: Just and true are thy Ways, thou King of Saints; who shall not fear thee, O Lord, and glorifie thy name? For thou only art holy: for all Nations shall come and Worship before thee, for thy Judgments are made manifest, ver. 3, 4. 3. The opening of the Temple of the Tabernacle in Heaven, after the Vials were poured out, and this Song thereupon compleated. For then the Ark of the Testimony, viz. Jesus Christ, shall be clearly seen, by the Church with the Beatifical Vision, as it was formerly said, it shall be in the a sounding of the Seventh Trumpet, Parallel and contemporary to the Seventh Vial; And after that, I looked, and behold the Temple of the Tabernacle of the Testimony in Heaven was opened, ver. 5. This verse, thinks b Mede, belongs not to the beginning, but to the event of the Vials. The Temple, while the seven Vials were pouring out, being filled with smoak from the Glory of God, and from his Power that none could enter into the Temple: but so clearing up, the Vials being finished, that even the Ark of the Testimony, Christ himself should be conspicuous.

2. More particularly, the special Preparation of the seven Angels for the pouring forth of their particular Vials, is described. Wherein note, I. Whence the Angels came; that had these seven Plagues, viz. out of the Temple; And the seven Angels came out of the Temple, having the seven last Plagues. Whether their Coming out of the Temple, intimate all Gods judgements against Antichrist, to be holy and righteous, or irrevocable according to his Word, or from Christ there our Great High-Priest, or from God dwelling in his Church and avenging her of her enemies. Consider, II. How they were arrayed and attired, for their service; Clothed in pure and white linnen, and having their breasts girded with golden girdles. This Sacred Complement was the Priestly Habit, as appears by the Priests of the Tabernacle, Exod. 28. 4. and 29. 5. and Aaron was thus adorned. 3. The Consecration of these Angels to the Office of the Vials. And the Temple was filled with smoak from the Glory of God, and from his Power; and no man was able to enter into the Temple, till the seven Plagues of the seven Angels were fulfilled, v. 8. An evident allusion to the manner of the Lords entring into the c Tabernacle and d Temple at their Dedication. Here these two things are declared to accompany these Angels in execution of their Plagues, viz. 1. The Temple filled with smoak, all the while, from Gods glory and power, which seemed to denote Gods Actual manifestation of his glorious and mighty wrath from his Temple against Antichrist, Scripture expressing Gods exceeding wrath sometimes by Smoak. 2. The inability of any to enter into the Temple, viz. That is, thinks e Pareus, none of Antichrists followers could by these Vials be brought to repent of their sins, acknowledge the righteousness of God, Rev. 16. 9, 11, 21. 4. The Actual Command or Commission given from God, or from the Lord out of the Temple to the seven Angels, to go and pour out the Vials of Gods wrath on the earth; And I heard a great voice out of the Temple, saying to the seven Angels, Go your ways, and pour out the Vials of the wrath of God upon the earth, Chap. XVI. ver. 1.

(II.) THE Manner FOLLOWING OF THE SEVEN VIALS in order. For the better understanding whereof, deliberately call to mind these few General premises (which relate also to the Trumpets mentioned in the Chapter before) These General premises premised, may facilitate the understanding of these Vials; which are very mysterious, viz.

I. Gods dreadful judgements, and the actual inflicting of them, are metaphorically represented under Vials, and the pouring forth of these Vials. Vials were certain drinking Vessels, wherein they used to drink Wine, called Phiala, as it were Pinala from Bibo to drink, as Eustathius, and after him Perus hath noted out of Athenæus l. 2. Dipnosophist. one of them containing as much as an ordinary man may drink enough out of it at once. Gods wrath was formerly called The Wine of the wrath of God, poured out without mixture, Rev. 14. 10. Of this wrath these vials are full, Rev. 15. 1, 7. The pouring out of these Vials, seems to allude to Gods Pouring out waters of old, when he drowned the World; or to his pouring or raining down of fire and brimstone from heaven, when he destroyed Sodome or Gomorrah. So that in these Vials, and the pouring of them out, we are to understand nothing but meer Divine wrath, and the inflicting of that wrath. No mercy runs out of the Vials.

II. The several and more remarkable degrees and kinds of Gods wrath, are signified by seven Vials poured out, one immediately after another, and when the last shall be poured out, the Wrath and Plagues shall be fulfilled; Rev. 15. 1, 8.

III. The gradual judgements of God, are the seven last Plagues Rev. 15. 1. Last, not onely because they shall be inflicted in these last times, but because they shall be the last plagues upon the Churches Persecutors in this world, which shall utterly destroy them, whereupon Gods wrath shall be fulfilled and satisfied.

IV. The instruments employed by God, for pouring out of these Seven Vials, and executing these seven Plagues are Seven Angels, for every Vial one Angel. Which seems not to be understood Exclusively, as if all other instruments were excluded from allies in these wars. [illegible] shall eat their flesh, Rev. 17. 16. The ten horns, or so much [illegible] some of these ten kingdoms, shall [illegible] Rev. 17. 16, 17. Or rather, [illegible] intimating the Angel's presidence, superintendency, [illegible] God being wont to employ his Angels, as Ministers of his Providence, in the motions, mutations, turns, and changes of humane affairs, for provoking, assisting, and governing of subordinate Agents therein.

V. All these Vials tend to the gradual ruine and destruction of the Roman Beast. 1. To the ruine and destruction of the Beast. For, the universal Song upon occasion of these Vials, and their pouring out, was sung by those only that had gotten the victory over the beast, and over his image, and over his mark, and over the number of his name, Rev. 15. 2. Besides, several of the Vials explicitely declare as much; The first plague being upon them which had the Mark of the Beast, and worshipped his image, Rev. 16. 2. The third upon them that had shed the blood of Saints and Prophets Rev. 16. 4, 5. drunk with the blood of the Saints, and with the blood of the Martyrs of Jesus, Rev. 17. 6. The fifth, upon the Seat of the beast, Rev. 16. 10. The sixth, provoking unclean spirits, like Frogs, to come out of the mouth of the Dragon, and out of the mouth of the Beast, and out of the mouth of the false Prophet, Rev. 16. 13. The seventh utterly ruining great Babylon, &c. Rev. 16. 19. So that as the Seven Trumpets were sounded to the ruine of the Roman Empire; So the Seven Vials are poured out to the ruine of the Beast. 2. To the gradual ruine of the Beast. For, every Vial is as a degree to the Beasts destruction. The Beast rose by degrees, and he shall fall and be ruined by degrees. So that in all these Vials, no good, but only evil is portended to the Beast: nor may be otherwise interpreted.

VI. Whatsoever consequently is be wherein any of those Vials is poured out: that, some way or other, belongs to the Beast; and therein the Beast is to some sore interested and concerned. Now as the Body of the Roman Empire, under the Seven Seals and seven Trumpets, was tacitly resembled to the Systeme or Frame of the whole Universe, and the parts thereof to the parts of the Universe; So here the whole Antichristian Body of the Beast, or Antichristian world, is secretly and implicitely compared also to the Systeme of the world, wherein are Heaven, Sun, and other Luminaries, Air, Sea, Fountains, Rivers, and Earth. So that the Sun, Air, Sea, Fountains, Rivers, Earth, &c. in the Antichristian world, denote some things proportionable or like to the natural world: Earth, signifying something that resembles the Natural earth: Sea, noting something that resembles the Natural sea, &c. Hence, when any Plagues fall upon any of these, they are to be accommodated to the Beast accordingly in such Analogy and Proportion.

VII. The Punctual times and Periods of these several Vials, seem very hardly determinable. But touching the Beginning and End of them joyntly, Thus consider, 1. The End or Determination of the seventh and last Vial, shall be in the utter destruction of great Babylon, Rev. 16. 17, 18, 19. &c. The marriage of the Lamb, and the Reign of the Lord God Omnipotent, shall immediately follow the destruction of Babylon, Rev. 19. 2, 3, with verse 6, 7, 8. Now this Reign and Kingdome of the Lord is brought in, in the Seventh Trumpet, wherein the mystery of God is finished, Rev. 11. 15. and 10. 7. Consequently the Seventh Vial seems to determine at, or a little after the beginning of the seventh Trumpet. 2. The beginning or Inchoation of the first Vial, which begins the ruine of that Beast, seems to be at the Beginning of the Beasts Declination, and Fall from his Dominion and Tyranny over the Saints. The Beasts Reign and Tyranny over the Saints fourty two moneths, Rev. 13. 5. to begin to be shaken under the sixth Trumpet, that it determines at the end of the sixth Trumpet, in asmuch as the Beasts fourty two months Reign, Rev. 13. 5. are contemporany to the time of the witnesses, viz. 1260. dayes, Rev. 11. 2. At the Period of whose 1260. dayes the great City fell, and the sixth Trumpet, being the second Wo-Trumpet determined, Rev. 11, 12, 13, 14, 15. Now the Beast cannot come to such fatal ruine, till at least the fifth Vial was poured out, whereby his seat was shaken, and his Kingdome was full of darkness, Rev. 16. 10. Therefore at least five if not six Vials, must be poured out before the end of the sixth Trumpet; Now the Beasts Kingdome so beginning to be weakened and shaken with the sixth Trumpet, it's very likely the first Vial began with the beginning of that Trumpet. Sed Quære.

Now the 4 first poured out of these Seven Vials, in order to the more destruction of the Beast, follows, viz.

1. The first Vial's pouring out. Here note, I. Where, or wherein this Vial was poured; to the earth, viz. on the vulgar sort, the People, Antichristian foecticol, and the Rude of his Kingdom; And the first went and poured out his Vial upon the earth. II. What was the effect of this Vial; a grievous sore. Gr. Ulcer; And there fell a noysome and grievous sore upon the men which had the Mark of the Beast, and upon them which worshipped his image, ver. 2. This seems to be an allusion to the m sixth Plague of Egypt. An Ulcer is an inward burning tormenting disease. It seems to intimate, as n Arethas and others interpret, the inward excruciating Ulcer of the heart, the fretting impatiency, malice, envy, fury, indignation and madness of the followers of the Beast, when this Plague was inflicted; Which was, as o Mede thinks, when the Waldenses, Albigenses, Wickliffe, Husse, and others their companions and followers renounced Rome as Babylon, and branded the Pope as Antichrist. O how the vassals and followers of the Beast then raged and vexed throughout all his Antichristian dominions! p Parens thinks this Vial was poured forth in Luther's days, and especially touched Germany. q Brightman thinks, about the beginning of Queen Elizabeths Reign, &c. and about the beginning of the reign of Charles the ninth in France.

2. The second Vial's pouring out. Here note, I. Where, or upon what this Vial was poured out; And the second Angel poured out his Vial upon the Sea. The Sea is the Collection, or gathering together of waters into one heap. By Sea therefore seems to be intended (thinks r Mede) the whole extent and compass of the Papal Power or Jurisdiction, As taking in all persons, Nations and Countries comprehended within his Power. (Parens understands Papal Councels, (especially with Brightman,) the cursed Council of Trent, into which the other Councels emptied themselves, as into the Sea: by whose mortal and bloody decrees, they that swimmed in this Sea were killed. II. What where the events of this Vial's pouring out, viz. These two, 1. The bloodiness of the sea; And it became as the blood of a dead man, viz. like cold clotted blood of those that are dead or slain. This seems to be an allusion to Ægypts first Plague, t the Rivers being turned into blood, so that they could not drink, and the fish in the River died. 2. The death of all that were in the Sea; And every living soul died in the Sea, ver. 3. This, thinks u Mede, was fulfilled, when by the zeal and diligence of Luther, and other Reformers of the Church in those times, not only some few single Persons, but whole Cities, Dioceses, Provinces, Kingdoms and Nations, renounced Rome, and all idolatrous Communion with her: so that the Beasts Dominion was miserably maimed, and the sea of that Jurisdiction was in great part dead, like the blood of a dead man, so that the Popish crew could no longer breath and live therein.

3. The third Vial's pouring out. Wherein consider, I. The Object upon which the Vial is poured; And the third Angel poured out his Vial upon the Rivers and Fountains of waters. This also seems to allude to x Egypts first Plague of turning their Rivers and Waters into blood, if not also to the tenth, y the death of their first-born, for the bloody slaying of Israels first-born. By these Rivers, z Mede understands the Ministers and Propugnators of the Antichristian Dominion, whether Ecclesiasticks, as Jesuites, Priests, and other Emissaries: or Laicks, as the Spanish Champions: These like Rivers and Fountains come from the Antichristian sea, having employments committed to them for promoting the Roman Catholick cause, (as they absurdly stile it:) and they return again like Rivers and Streams to the Papal sea, contributing their wealth and pains to uphold it. a Parens interprets to like purpose. of this Vial pouring out are, Inward and Outward. I. Inward events upon the Rivers and Fountains themselves; And they became blood, ver. 4. viz. those Ministers and Champions of the Beast who had shed the blood of Gods Saints and Prophets, have now their own blood shed. b Mede following Brightman, is of opinion this was fulfilled, when under Queen Elizabeths Reign in England, and afterwards, such Capital Laws were made against Popish Jesuites and Priests, as never were before. And when the blood-thirsty Spaniards, had their own blood given to drink so plentifully, and especially in 88. and some years following, both by sea and land. But c Parens, though he interpreteth the Rivers and Fountains, of the Papal Emissaries, whose blood shall be shed for the blood of Gods Saints, yet the time and manner of this judgement he thinks is Prophetical, not yet come, and therefore onely known to God. II. Outward events upon beholders hereby provoked to extol and magnifie the righteousness of Gods Judgements and Revelations. These beholders are of two sorts. (1) The Angel of the waters, viz. the Angel that poured out his Vial upon the waters, as d Parens thinks, Or the Islanders, Inhabiters in Islands, avenging the blood of theirs formerly shed, as e Mede conceives, And I heard the Angel of the waters say, thou art righteous O Lord, which art, and wast, and shalt be, because thou hast judged thus: For they have shed the blood of Saints and Prophets, and thou hast given them blood to drink, for they are worthy, ver. 5. 6. (2) Another Angel out of the Altar expresseth the like thankful acclamations; And I heard another out of the Altar say, even so Lord God Almighty, true and righteous are thy judgements, ver. 7. According to f Parens, this is the same Angel that's formerly mentioned, g coming out from the Altar, having power over the fire. h Mede interprets it of the French, as then under the Cross and Altar, and as if were groaning under their late, and yet fresh butcheries of Anno Dom. 1572. even they also rejoyced at Gods righteous judgements. And he adds, Thus far the Vials seem to have proceeded, the rest remain yet to be poured forth.

4. The fourth Vials pouring out. Touching which consider, I. The Object upon which it was poured, And the fourth Angel poured out his Vial upon the Sun. II. The Events ensuing upon this Vials pouring out, which are three; viz. 1. Extream burning or scorching heat; And power was given unto him to scorch men with fire, and men were scorched with great heat, ver. 8. 9. 2. Blasphemy of them that were thus scorched; And they blasphemed the Name of God, which hath power over these plagues. 3. Obstinate impenitency of the scorched ones; And they repented not to give him glory, ver. 9.

This Vial is conceived in whole or in part yet to remain unpoured out, and consequently all that follow. And therefore the interpretation of them is more intricate and difficult. i Some conceive, as Parens notes, that Sun here is to be understood properly: and by pouring out of the Vial on the Sun, the extream intending and aggravating of his heat and influence, so as to cause drought, barrenness, famine, pestilence, and other consequential miseries. But this opinion Parens upon divers grounds rejects. k Others by Sun, understand Antichrist who shall scorch men with cruel persecutions: But Antichrist is not likely to scorch his own slaves with persecution; as Parens well objects against this opinion, and the effect of every Vial is to be on Antichrist or his Adherents, one way or other. l Brightman, by Sun, understands the Scriptures, whose light, especially in the Prophetical parts thereof, and particularly those touching Antichrist, shall in these latter times be cleared and more fully understood, to the fuller detection of Antichrists corruptions and destruction, which shall fill Antichrist and his followers with burning [illegible] rage, &c. against [illegible] understand the [illegible] Heaven, &c. [illegible] woe for about [illegible] Babylon, the [illegible] tinction between [illegible] Heaven, and [illegible] his Divine dispensations.

5. The fifth Vial pouring out. Touching which observe. I. The Object whereupon this Vial shall be poured; And the fifth Angel poured out his Vial upon the Seat of the Beast. II. The Events ensuing shall be either, 1. Upon the Kingdome of the Beast it self; And his Kingdom was full of darkness; An evident allusion to a Egyptian plague. The judgement of three dayes darkness. 2. Upon the members of the Beasts Kingdom, his Vassals and confederates, viz. Their [1] Extream vexation and indignation because of the judgements; And they gnawed their Tongues for pain, ver. 10. [2] Blasphemy against God the inflicter thereof; And blasphemed the God of Heaven, because of their pains and their sores. [3] Obstinate impenitency notwithstanding this heavy Plague; And repented not of their deeds, v. 11.

m Among those which seem to come nearest to the sence and mystery of this Vial, it is doubted whether The Seat of the Beast be to be interpreted of Rome in particular, or of the Beasts whole Kingdom in General. n Brightman understands it of the final and utter destruction of Rome. o Mede thinks here is intended the same ruine of the City Rome, which was formerly prophecied to be by the Jews bearing with the Resurrection and Ascension of the two Witnesses: when the Papal name shall not be wholly extinct, but shall from thence be restored to its wonted splendour, so that they shall gnaw their Tongues for pain, and blaspheme being obstinate in impenitency. And he thinks this Vial is expressed so plainly, without figures or allegories, because when this shall come to pass, all shall understand this prophecy more clearly and certainly, and how far these Vials are fulfilled. It is doubted by some to be meant of The whole Kingdom of [illegible] as Parens notes, This darkness of the Kingdom seems to imply, not any New darkness introduced into his Kingdom, but rather a new and more clear manifestation of the extream darkness of his Kingdom, by the opposite light of the Gospel then spread, and shining out more clearly through the World, far and near. Then Antichrists abominations shall so be detected that many shall desert him, and his glory shall be obscured.

6. The sixth Vials Pouring out. Touching which, consider,

I. The Object upon which this Vial shall be poured out; And the sixth Angel poured out his Vial upon the great River Euphrates.

II. The Events ensuing upon this Vials pouring out. These Events are Inward and Outward.

1. Inward, viz. The drying up of the River; which is amplified by the special end of its being dried up; And the water thereof was dried up, that the way of the Kings of the East might be prepared, ver. 12.

2. Outward, as to the River on which the Vial was poured, viz. Three unclean spirits coming abroad into the World; That is, Antichrists instruments, to gather all possible aid for his support, fore-seeing himself in great danger by the drying up of Euphrates. These three impure Spirits are described pathetically, (1) By their similitude and resemblance, And I saw three unclean spirits like Frogs. Interpreters comonly understand those Frogs, to intend Romish Jesuits, Priests, and such like Emissaries, likened to Frogs, not in respect of their Shape, but in respect of their Qualities or Properties: Delighting to live and and brawle in the midst of Babylon, and successively crushing out their Romish sores, especially in the eyes of Kings and Princes. (3.) By their Original whence they came; Come out of the mouth of the Dragon, and out of the mouth of the Beast, and out of the mouth of the false Prophet, verse 13. Here first, Antichrist the two-horned Beast is called the False Prophet, as being most sensibly detected by the Fifth Vial. The Dragon, Beast and false-Prophet are the Prime Agents in this cursing warre, brought on under this Vial: The three Frogs, are but their inferiour instruments. (2.) By their Diabolical disposition; And they are the spirits of Devils, (4.) By their fabrike Art of deceiving; Working Miracles. (5.) By their Function, and Service wherein they shall be employed by the Dragon, Beast, and false-Prophet, for the upholding of their tottering and falling Kingdom (though God will turn all to their utter ruine) Which go forth unto the Kings of the Earth, and of the whole world, to gather them to the Battel of the great day of God Almighty, ver. 14. It's called the Great Day, &c. because of the great slaughter and admirable destruction of the Beast and false-Prophet with their adherents, which God, contrary to their expections, shall then effect: this seems to be more fully described after, in Rev. 19. 19, 20, 21. This last is Accomplished and corrected; 1 Partly, by an intimation of God Almighty's sudden surpeizal of these his enemies thus mustering themselves against him; Behold I come as a Thief. 2. Partly, by the pronunciation of their happy state, that in those dangerous dayes shall persevere in their spiritual vigilancy and purity; Blessed is he that watcheth, and keepeth his Garments, lest he walk naked, and they see his shame, ver. 15. 3. Partly, By the over-ruling Providence of God, or Christ, gathering these his enemies into a fatal place for their inevitable destruction, whilst they are wickedly gathering themselves against him; And he gathered them together into a place called in the Hebrew Tongue, Armageddon, ver. 16. The Greek here, (συνήγαγεν) may either referre to the three Spirits, (πνεύματα συνήγαγεν, per Atticism.) they gathered them together. So it denotes their end and endeavours: Or it may relate to God, he gathered them, &c. so it intimates Gods over-ruling their intentions and indeavours herein.

This Sixth Vial seems very intricate and mysterious. For clearing whereof, Consider chiefly what may be intended, 1. By Euphrates, and the drying of it up; 2. By the Kings of the East, and the Preparing of their way; 3. By Armageddon, and the gathering together thither.

1. Euphrates was, as t Writers report, A great River whereon the old Babylon in Chaldea was built, and whereby (as well as by walls fifty Cubits thick, and 200 Cubits high,) it was fortified: It running through the midst of the City, about two mens length deep. The Kings coming from the East according to u Jeremies Prophecy (viz. Darius the Mede, and Cyrus the Persian, Media and Persia being Eastward to Babylon) to take and subdue Babylon, and despairing of scaling or battering the walls, consulted how to divert the River. To that end Cyrus caused many and exceeding deep sluces to be digged one night, when the Babylonians (having kept a Festival) were buried in sleep and wine, and so he drained the river, turning it unto those sluces, marched his Army into the City, and took it, slaying Belshazzer the King, according to x Daniel's History, and y Jeremy's Prophecy. Now here in this Vial seems to be an Evident Allusion to this History. And Interpreters for most part agree, that by Euphrates here is meant some protection, defence or fortification of the Mystical Babylon; which, till removed, is an impediment to her destruction: And that the destroying of this defence, the removal of this impediment, is the drying up of Euphrates. But in the particular Interpretation and accommodation hereof they somewhat disagree.

u Jer. 51. 28.

y Jer. 51. 28, 31, 32.

2. Kings of the East are generally interpreted to be the Jews, who principally reside in the Eastern Countries: and the preparing of their way, to be the removing of that which is their impediment. As Euphrates was to the Eastern Kings, Darius and Cyrus in respect of old Babylon. Now, a Brightman conceives here by Euphrates is meant that River in Mesopotamia that hinders the Eastern people (among whom the Jews chiefly dwell) from coming into the Holy land, and that after Rome's ruine this River shall miraculously be dried up, (as of old the Red Sea, and Jordan was) that the Jews may return into their own Country to Jerusalem, not to erect Jewish worship, but to embrace the Christian Faith and Worship according to the Gospel. But a Pareus saith of this Interpretation, though this thing be desirable, and probable, yet his Arguments are not very Cogent: but especially dislikes this Opinion, because it brings no plague upon the Beast, whereas this and every Vial brings a plague upon him. b Mede thinks these Kings of the East to be the Jews, that under this Vial shall be converted, and shall be come in some notable expedition against the Beast, tending to his utter ruine, and putting Antichrist in such extream fear, that he shall labour to ingage all the world against them. And that this Euphrates is the Ottoman Empire, and the Turkish power which had long time been bound and detained by Providence at Euphrates, and c loosed under the sixth Trumpet to over-run the Roman Empire. This he thinks to have been the impediment to the Jews, which shall be removed, whether by the Jews (as Ezek. perhaps intimates, Chap. 38. and 39.) or by discord among themselves, or by both, or by any other means, he is doubtful: and then the Jews shall come against the Beast. d Pareus, with many others named by him, Thinks this Euphrates to be meant of the Mystical Babylon's chief support by her vast Revenues, and supplies from almost all parts of the world, which shall be cut off, and so an easie way made for faithful Kings and Teachers to destroy her. e Forbes thinks the making way for the Kings of the East, the Jews, is not that they may destroy the Whore; for the ten Hornes (the Western Kings) must do that: but that they may embrace the Christian Faith, against which, they and the Easterne Countries have been hardned by Antichristian Idolatries, which when they shall be dryed up by the Sun of righteousnes, the Jews shall be prepared to receive the Gospel.

3. Armageddon. This the place of the Battel, or the Field, so called in Hebrew. This word (to omit others curiosities) seems to be derived from two Hebrew words, as f divers conceive, viz. הר Har, A Mountain: and מגדון Mageddon, of Mageddon. A plot of Ground in the lot of Manasse, famous (saith Forbes) for two notable Events; The one of great joy, viz. The Israelites victory over Jabin and Sisera g at the waters of Megiddo: The other of great sorrow, viz. the slaying of that excellent King Josiah in the Valley of Megiddo. To both these here seems to be an Allusion; But with this difference; One of those was by the waters, the other in the valley of Megiddo, but this in the Mountain of Megiddo, denoting some exceeding High-design of Antichrist and his Confederates against the Church at that Battel. But the Jews shall subdue them as Israel did Sisera and Jabin of old, and shall both Rejoyce and Mourn: Rejoyce in their conversion to Christ and Antichrists ruine, but Mourn for Christ whom they have pierced, and against whom they have so long hardned their hearts in impenitency and unbelief. To this effect he. But these things will be better understood, when they shall come to be fulfilled.

b To this effect Mede, Pareus, Brightm: Piscater, Forbes, &c. Expound this Vial.

7. The Seventh Vial's Pouring out. The Plague, or Judgement intended in this Seventh Vial, is not so Particular as the former, but more General, as h Interpreters are of Opinion. In the Sixth Vial, the drying drying up of the Great River Euphrates put both the Dragon and the Beast, and the False-Prophet into such a terrour and trembling apprehension of their approaching Ruine, that they all with joyne consent employ and send forth their wicked instruments, their three unclean Spirits like Frogs, those Spirits of Devils, to engage unto their party, the Kings of the Earth and the whole world to succour them now or never: And for this purpose they all gathered together to fight against God and the Lamb in Armageddon. Now all these Enemies being thus gathered together as into the Place of Fight, God surprizeth them together, and deals with them all at once in this Vial; not so much by humane hand, as by his own more immediate Thundring wrath from heaven, casting down Hailstones and Thunder-bolts of vengeance upon them, to the total and utter ruine not only of the Beast and False-Prophet, with all the Kings, Cities and Persons that in any place commit fornication with the Whore in Antichristian idolatries, &c. or assist them in their cruel Tyrannies against the Church: but also to the utter destruction of the Dragon himself. So that none of the Enemies of the Church shall ever lift up their heads more. Now this Vial is 1. More Summarily and Compendiously Propounded. 2. More Plenarily and Copiously Expounded.

More Summarily and Compendiously this Seventh Vial is Propounded. Here consider I. The Object upon which this Vial shall be poured out; And the Seventh Angel poured out his Vial into the Aire. That is, upon the Power of the Aire, or of Satan; called i The Prince of the Power of the Aire, whose Kingdom not only comprehends the Dominions of the Beast, but of all Christs enemies whatsoever. II. The woefull Events ensuing hereupon, to the utter ruine of the Devils whole Kingdom, viz. 1. A great voice from Heaven, declaring the final Accomplishment of all things foretold by the Prophets touching the Churches Enemies; And there came a great voice out of the Temple of Heaven, and from the Throne, saying, IT IS DONE, ver. 17. Here the end of the world seems not to be intended; but only the utter ruine of all the enemies of the Lamb, and of his Spouse. For, the Churches happy state, and that here in this world, is to follow this destruction of her enemies, and to continue a considerable time; as after will appear. 2. A most terrible execution of vengeance upon all sorts of Gods enemies, and that chiefly by an extraordinary hand even of God himself. Herein more Particularly are declared. [1] The Instruments of vengeance, viz. Heaven and Earth, as it were, and all in them shall be moved, and assist herein; And there were voices, and thunders and lightnings: and there was a great Earthquake, such as was not since men were upon the earth, so mighty an Earthquake and so great, ver.11. [2] The Objects of this vengeance are Places and Persons. Partly, Places; And the great City was divided into three Parts, and the Cities of the Nations fell: and Great BABYLON came in remembrance before God, to give unto her the Cup of the Wine of the fierceneſſe of his wrath. And every Iſland fled away, and the Mountains were not found, ver. 19, 20. Partly, Persons; And there fell upon men a great haile out of Heaven, every stone about the weight of a Talent. [3] The effect of this vengeance upon the wicked, not reforming but blaſpheming God; And men blaſpemed God because of the Plague of the Hail, for the Plague thereof was exceeding great, ver,21.

i Eph.2.2.

Hitherto of this Seventh Vial, as more Sumarily and Compendiously Propounded.

VII. Vision.

More Plenarily and Copiously this Seventh Vial is Expounded by one of the Vial-Angels unto John, in chap. 17, 18, 19, 20. As this part is more clear and certain light to many obscure, and otherwise inexplicable mysteries of the Revelation, that relate unto, or depend upon that of Antichrist, especially what of Babylon the Whore, The Antichristian Beast, and false Prophet, whose characters are herein most lively disclosed, and their destructions most pathetically described. So that this part of the II. Propheſy may deservedly be stiled the Divine Key of the Revelation, whereby many mysteries of this book may be unlocked: and the Top-Tower or Turret of the Revelation, whence the secrets of this book may be particularly and certainly discovered on every side. I know that some in ordering the method of these Explanatory Visions following, make them distinct from the Seventh Vial: and rather account them expositions of the fifth and sixth Vial. Yet forasmuch as the Seventh Vial is generally conceived to bring in 'universal and utter 'destruction of great Babylon, the Beast, False Pro-'phet, Dragon, of all the Lambs enemies; and these four Chapters next ensuing, are chiefly spent in the fuller opening of Gods destructive Judgements upon them all, as after will be evident; I do not as yet see any inconvience in referring these Chapters following to the Seventh Vial, as a more full explanation thereof. However the disposing of the Method will not alter the matter. And without prejudice to any judgement, I may pursue that Method, which to me seems most clear and genuine. Now therefore in this more plenary Explanation of the Seventh Vial, is foretold the final ruine and judgement, 1. Of the great Whore of Babylon, 2. Of the Beast and false Prophet, with their Armies and adherents, warring against the Lambe and his Army, 3. Of the Dragon, that old Serpent the Devil and Satan.

I. THE JUDGMENT OF THE GREAT WHORE OF BABYLON, is foretold and explained. Concerning which note, 1. The preparatory to the Exposition. 2. The Exposition it self. 3. The event of the Exposition.

I. The Preparatory to the Exposition of the Whores judgement, tends to fit John for the receiving and understanding of it. Herein are contained. 1. An intimation of the Angel, and his speech to John, which shewed John this mystery. 2. A brief description of the Whore by her ample dominion and spiritual whoredomes, whose judgement was now to be shown; 'And there came one of the seven Angels, which had 'the seven vials and talked with me, saying unto me, 'Come hither, I will shew unto thee the judgement 'of the great whore that sitteth upon many waters; 'with whom the Kings of the earth have committed 'fornication, and the inhabiters of the Earth have 'been made drunk with the wine of her fornication, Chap. XVII. ver. 1, 2. 3. A particular specification of the place where this mystery was shewed to John, being mean-while in the Spirit; So he carried me away by the Spirit into the wilderneſs, v.3. Chap.17.

II. The Exposition it self of the great Whore's judgement, contains in it, 1. A punctual Representation of the Whore to be judged. 2. A Pathetical description of the Whores judgement it self. 3. The victorial Triumphs and Gratulations of them in heaven, upon the judgement of the Whore.

1. A punctual Representation of the great Whore that is to be judged. This Whore is represented. 1. In an obscure Typical Vision. 2. In a more clear Interpretation of this Vision.

(1) In the Typical Vision of this Whore, are represented, I. The monstrous Beast whereon she sits, which Beast is described by his 1. Colour, Regal, yet cruel and bloody. 2. Blasphemies, viz. Antichristian idolatries, most opprobrious and reproachful to God, &c. as was k formerly evidenced. 3. Seven heads. 4. Ten horns: which two last are hereafter interpreted; And I saw a woman sit upon a Scarlet-coloured beast, full of names of blasphemy, having seven Heads and ten Horns, ver. 3. So that this is the very Beast I formerly described in Ch. 13. II. Her luxurious, meretricious Array and Ornaments; And the woman was arayed in Purple and Scarlet colour, (like the Beast she sate upon,) and decked with Gold, and Precious Stones and Pearls. By her whoredomes she had obtained all these costly deckings; and for winning the greater credit and custome to her whoredoms, she was thus gaudily and glitteringly attyred. Popery is a sumptuous, gaudy, glittering, Religion. III. Her intoxicating Cup, whereby she amorously allures & inchantes her Lovers to spiritual lewdnesse with her Having a Golden Cup in her hand full of abominations and filthiness of her fornication, v. 4. An m allusion to the custome of whores, who in golden Cups are wont to give amorous draughts to their Lovers, to provoke and inflame their love and lust. Now what religion in the world hath outwardly more specious, curious n golden pretences: but inwardly more abominable cursed Heresies, blasphemies, superstitious idolatries? shining Gold without, deadly poison within. IV. Her Whor's name. Touching which note. 1. Where it was written, viz. On her forehead, intimating she was an eminent notorious Whore indeed: And upon her forehead was a name written. An allusion to the ancient custome of Stews and Brothel-houses, that on or over the doors of their Cels or Chambers, were wont to write the names of the whores, as o Tertullian, p Seneca and others intimate. But if the whore was famous indeed, her name and praise was written not only on her Cell, but on her forehead. 2. Her name it self describing in great part her nature; MYSTERY, BABYLON THE GREAT, THE MOTHER OF HARLOTS (or, FORNICATIONS) ABOMINATIONS OF THE EARTH, vers. 5. This name shewes, (1) That this Whore is Babylon; not proper, but Mystical Babylon. (2) That this Mystical Babylon is the Mother and most notorious Authour of all the abominable idolatries, those spiritual whoredoms in the whole world. This can intend no other but Rome. V. Her extream cruelty and bloody tyranny against the Saints, emphatically expressed by her being drunk therewith, she had swallowed so much; And I saw the woman q drunken with the blood of the Saints, and with the blood of the Martyrs of Jesus. This whole

See Dr. Jones Remonstrance of the state of the Rebellion in Ireland. And the Declaration of the Commons of England assembled in Parliament, touching the Rise and Progresse of that Rebellion, Ordered to be published, July 25, 1643.

Vision is amplified by the events thereupon ensuing, which gave occasion to the interpretation of this Vision following, viz. 1. Johns extream admiration at the strangeness of the Vision of the Whore; And when I saw her, I wondred with great admiration, v. 6. 2. The Angels proffer and promise to tell John the mystery or mysterious meaning both of the woman, and of the Beast that carryeth her; And the Angel said unto me, wherefore didst thou marvel? I will tell thee the mystery of the woman, and of the beast that carryeth her, which hath the seven Heads and ten Horns, v. 7.

[2] In the more clear Interpretation of this Vision, The Angel explains, 1 The mystery of the beast Carrying the Whore. 2 The Mystery of the Whore her self. 1. The Mystery of the Beast, is interpreted; In the Whole; And in the parts of the beast. 1. The Beast, In whole, is interpreted; (1) Partly according to his many-forme state, or fourfold forme and condition of this one and the same Beast; 1 The Beast that thou sawest, 1 Was, And 2 Is not, And 3 Shall ascend out of the bottomless pit. And 4 Go into Perdition. This very interpretation it self, seems to be a Riddle and a Paradox, that needs a further interpretation. To omit varieties of mens opinions, sundry whereof rather obscure than clear this present description: This seems plainly to be the sence. As the Whore is after interpreted to be the r great City which reigneth over the Kings of the Earth, viz. ROME, for what other City did in Johns time so reign? So the Beast that carries this whore, what can it be but the Roman Empire? which though for substance it was one, One Beast, yet for States, conditions and manner of Governments was multifarious or many-form, as here described, viz. This Beast the Roman-Empire, was; that is, before John's time when this Revelation was given, it was, but in another form and state than in John's time. i. e. s governed by Kings, Consuls, Dictators, Decemvir's and Tribunes. All which were past in Johns time. And is not; That is, This Beast the Roman-Empire is not in Johns time, under those or any of those five manners of Governments; but under a Sixth, viz. of Cæsars, and those both Heathenish and Christian. This the Sixth head of this Beast that ruled in Johns days, viz. the Heathenish Cæsars: they became not Christians till Constantine. Yet the whore sits not upon this Beast, as under any of these formes or states of Government: But on the Beast under another forme, which should rise up after them Six, as then not in being. And is not; viz. the Beast under the Pontifician, or Papal Government. And shall ascend out of the bottomless Pit, and go into Perdition; That is, saith t Mede, That forme of the Beast, in which she shall carry the Whore, shall be the last forme of the Beast, beyond which he should not prolong his life. Now what form of this Beast shall ascend out of the bottomless pit, (or as the Gr. signifies, out of the Abysse?) This word Abysse may be taken, either for the Abysse of the Sea, or for the Abysse of Hell: now take it in whether sence you will, it agrees to that forme of Beast that carries the whore. For that Beast ariseth out of the Abysse of the u sea, having seven heads and ten horns, also out of the Abysse of hell, for the x Dragon Satan, gives him his Power, and Seat, and great Authority. The Cæsars Heathen and Christian were the Beasts sixth Head or forme: The Beast at last under the Christian Cæsars, received by the barbarous nations a y deadly wound, the Empire beginning to be divided about *Anno. of Kingdoms, viz. of 1. Britons, 2. Saxons, 3. Franks, 4. Burgundians, 5. Wisigoths, 6. Suevos and Alanes; 7. Vandals, 8. Alemannes, 9. Ostrogoths, 10. Gracians: As z Mede hath observed out of a Sigonius. This distracted state and form of the Beast under these ten Kingdomes, at least, though really and in substance the same with that under the Cæsars, yet seems to be another distinct power, and as it were the b Seventh King, which was to continue but a short space, but is indeed the same with the Sixth, viz. the Cæsars. The Roman-Empire thus torn into ten, at last (by the subtilty of the Dragon, and the False Prophet, the two-horn'd Beast Antichrist,) is re-collected, and all these ten united as in one Empire under the Pope, as Head and Monarch thereof, and so c his deadly wound was healed; and this is the Pontifician or Papal head, (the onely form of the Beasts State and Government, which bears the whore.) This Pontifician Head, or form of the Empires Government, (in respect of that changed and miserably dilacerated Cæsar-ship, which was as the Seventh,) seems to be as it were the d Eighth head or King, but really and indeed is but the Seventh and last head of the Roman beast, and the Papal head goeth into Perdition, and in him the Roman Empire shall be utterly abolished. (2.) Partly according to the words wonderment after this Beast, (whereby it's evident that this is the self-same Seven-headed and Ten-horn'd Beast, which was formerly described in the e thirteenth chapter) And they that dwell on the Earth shall wonder, (whose names were not written in the Book of life from the foundation of the world) when they behold the Beast that was, and is not, and f yet is: or rather as the complutense Copy reads it, and yet is at hand; for so it notably agrees with the former description in the beginning of this verse; The Beast ——— was, and is not, and shall ascend out of the bottomless pit. Or it may be thus explained, retaining the ordinary reading, The Beast that was, (i. e. The Roman Empire that was under Five former sorts of Governours.) And is not, (i. e. is not as yet under the seventh or last forme, or sort of Government, viz. the Pontifician or Papal.) And yet is. (i. e. under the sixth forme of Cæsars, at present in Johns time.) ver. 8. Thus the Beast in whole is interpreted.

2. The Beast is interpreted In his parts, viz. His seven Heads, and His ten Horns, what they are; an emphatical intimation of the singular wisdom required to the true discerning of these mysteries, being first premised; And here is the mind that hath wisdom.

(1.) The seven heads of the Beast are interpreted to be seven Mountains and seven Kings, that by this double accommodation the interpretation might be more sure. Partly, to seven Mountains; The seven heads are seven Mountains, on which the woman sitteth, ver. 9. That is, these seven Heads are seven Hills upon which Rome is builded, viz. g. the Capitoline, Palatine, Celian, Aventine, Æsquine, Viminal and Quirinal Mount. For the honour of which seven Mountains, saith h Pareus, an Annual Feastival was observed on the third of the Ides of December, either in memory of Romulus, builder of the Seven-mountain'd-City, or of Servius Tullius, who to Romulus's 4. Mountains added three more, seven in all. Partly to be seven Kings, that is, seven Orders, Kinds, or Forms of Governors or Governments of this Roman Kingdom or Empire, whereof Rome was the Imperial Seat; And there are seven Kings, (viz. seven orders or sorts of Rulers, 1 Kings, 2 Consuls, 3 Tribunes, 4 Decemvirs, 5 Dictators, 6 Cæsars, 7 Pontificians or Popes.) five are fallen, That is, in Johns dayes the first five, viz. Kings, Consuls, Tribunes, Decemvirs and Dictators;) And one is (That is Cæsars, then in being in John's time,) And the other is not yet come, (that is the dilacerated state of the Cæsar-ship or Cæsarean Empire into ten Kingdoms at the least by the Barbarians, as was before intimated: This was as it were a seventh head, but was indeed but of the sixt, being the same in substance with the Cæsars, but was not come in Johns time and was but to continue a short space, till the Dragon and False Prophet had reunited and so healed this wounded and dilacerated state of the Empire: therefore it is added,) and when he cometh, he must continue a short space, v. 10. And the beast that was and is not, even he is the eighth, and is of the seven, and goeth into perdition, v. 11. That is, the Roman Empire, that was under five Heads or Formes of Government before John's time, and under the sixth Head of Cæsars in John's time, (which Cæsars were changed as it were into another and seventh Forme, in it's dilacerated state of the Ten Kingdoms,) yet is not, that is, in Johns time is not yet brought under the last Head or Form, viz. the Papal which is the eighth; (that is in respect of the change of the Cæsar-ship into ten Kingdoms, which seemed to bear a seventh, but was indeed only part of the sixth Head) and this Papal Head is of the seven; that is, he is indeed the last and seventh Head or Form of this Beast, (in the course of which seventh Head he carrieth the Whore, and in this state of Form the Beast shall be utterly destroyed. Thus of the seven Heads and their Interpretations.

(2.) The Ten Horns of the Beast are interpreted to the Ten Kings, or ten Kingdoms, viz. Those ten forementioned Kingdomes, into which the Empire of the Cæsars was divided by that deadly wound of the Barbarian-Nations, which Ten Kings, or Kingdomes were not yet sprung up in John's time, but into which afterwards the Body of the Roman Beast in the Course of his last head, should be dilacerated, by the deadly wound of the Cæsarean Head: and which ten Kings should unanimously give all their power to the Beast, for his restitution and reparation, under the Government of his seventh and last Head, (for unto this seventh Head only, and not to any of the six fore-going, these ten Horns belong.) Now these ten Horns are interpreted and described: 1 Partly by their Constitution, as hath been now explained, And the ten Horns which thou sawest, are ten Kings, which have received no Kingdoms as yet: but receive power as Kings one hour with the Beast. k These have one mind, and shall give their power and strength unto the Beast, ver. 12. 13. 2. Partly by their Hostile persecution against the Lamb in his Members, These shall make war with the Lamb, viz. by making War with the Saints, and overcoming them 42 moneths, as was k before declared. 3. Partly, by their overthrow by the Lamb Christ and his Saints at last, which overthrow is confirmed, both by the Lamb's Regal power, and by the Saints three victorial properties; And the Lamb shall overcome them: For, he is Lord of Lords, and King of Kings; And they that are with him, are Called, and Chosen, and Faithful, v. 14.

Hitherto of the interpretation of the mystery of the Beast carrying the Whore.

II. The Mystery of the Whore her self carried by this Beast, is interpreted. Herein note, Her Ample Dominion, Her utter Destruction, and Her notable Designation. 1. Her Ample Dominion over people of many Nations and Languages, signified by the Waters where the Whore sitteth; And he saith unto me, The waters which thou sawest, where the Whore sitteth, are peoples, and multitudes, and Nations and tongues, v. 15. 2. Her utter Destruction and judgment (which the Angel promised to tell John) is described, (1) By the Instrumental means of her destruction, viz. The ten Hornes upon the Beast (2) By the degrees of her Destruction from these ten horns; And the ten horns which thou sawest upon the Beast, these shall hate the Whore, and shall make her desolate, and naked, and shall eat her flesh, and burn her with fire, ver. 16. These degrees of their destroying her, shall be their 1 Hatred of the Whore, with whom they committed Fornication; 2 Deserting of her, betaking themselves to Christs pure worship; 3 Denuding her, or making her naked, both by Words laying open her filthy ones

and abominable whoredoms, Idolatries, &c. and also by Deeds withdrawing their respective Revenues from her which were wont to be given her; 4 Eating of the flesh, not only by retaining to their own use her rich incomes, but also by opposing and persecuting her, which in Scripture language, is as l Eating of ones flesh. 5 Burning of her with fire. When? The punctual time cannot particularly be determined, but it hastens apace, and cannot be far off, if the Fourth Vial be now running, and the fifth as hath been showed shall be poured m upon the Throne and Seat of the Beast. Let the Saints strive mightily with God, and pray the Whore into flames, for her ruine approacheth: and some of those Kingdoms helped to raise up the Whore, shall be as ready to pull her down in Christs due time. [3] By the Principal Cause of her destruction, Gods Providential dispensation according to his word; who can as easily make these ten Horns unanimous to her Ruine as they were to her Rise and Reign; For God hath put in their hearts to fulfil his will, and to agree and give their Kingdome unto the Beast, until the words of God shall be fulfilled, ver. 17. 3. Her notable Designation. The Holy Ghost so clearly indigitates, and as it were names her, that he that runs may read, and not mistake, that this Whore is ROME, the known Metropolis and Royal Seat of the Roman Empire, and n Papists themselves confesse it; And the woman which thou sawest is that GREAT CITY which reigneth over the Kings of the Earth, ver. 18.

"Thus of the punctual Representation of the "Great Whore and of the Beast that carryeth "her, and this both by Vision and by Interpre-"tation of that Vision. Next consider the Pa-"thetical Description of the Whores judge-"ment at large, which was but afore briefly "touched.

2. A Pathetical Description of the Whores judgment it self. Now, the Woman or Whore being interpreted to be that great City, &c. in the close of the former chapt. her judgment is here set forth, not under the notion of a Whore as she hath been described, but of that great City Babylon, though afterwards in Rev. 19. 2. The heavenly ones praise God for judging the great Whore. This judgment of Babylon is published by three voices from heaven of three Angels, viz. "1. The first declaring the inevitable certainty "of her Ruine. 2. The second delineating the Grie-"vousnesse and extremity of her destruction. 3. The "third, under the Type of a stone like a great mil-"stone cast into the Sea, representing the violence, "finalnesse, and irrecoverablenesse of her Over-"throw.

[1] The first voice from Heaven declares the certainty of Babylon's Ruine. Here consider, I. The Angel that uttered this voice, who is described 1. By the Place whence he came; And after these things I saw another Angel come down from Heaven. 2. By the Power wherewith he was furnished; Having great Power. 3. By his singular glory wherewith he was adorned; And the earth was lightned with his glory. This is for the refreshing of the Saints, but terrifying of Christ's and their enemies, Chap. XVIII. ver. 1. II. The voice it self that he uttered, is set forth; 1. According to the manner of it, with great fervency, that all, yea even secure Babylon her self might hear; And he cryed mightily with a strong voice, saying. 2. According to the Matter of it, which containeth a declaration (1) Of Babylons certain ruine, and the threefold woful events thereof; Babylon the Great is fallen, is fallen: And is become the Habitation of Devils, And the hold of every foul Spirit, And a Cage of every unclean and hateful bird. By these expressions is intimated Babylons as certain ruine, as if she were fallen already; and the phrase doubled to augment the certainty. Yea, her horrible ruine even to desolation; for Devils, evil spirits and doleful birds haunt those desolate places, ver. 2. (2) Of the Causes of this her certain and dismal ruine, viz. 1. Partly, her idolatrous fornications with the Kings and Nations of the earth; For all Nations have drunk of the Wine of the wrath of her fornication, and the Kings of the earth have committed fornication with her. 2. Partly, her luxurious and wicked Merchandize, of Pardons, Indulgences, &c. touching the Consciences and Soules of men, as after is expressed; And the Merchants of the Earth (i. e. her Prelates, Abbates, Priests, &c.) are waxed rich through the abundance of her delicacies, v. 3.

[2] The second voice from Heaven, (probably of an Angel also, though not mentioned: or of God or Christ, because he saith, Come out of her my people) delineates the grievousness and wofulness of Babylon's Ruine Herein are contained, 1 An Exhortation to Gods people in Babylon 2 A Lamentation of Kings, Merchants and Mariners for Babylon. 3. An invitation of Heaven and heavenly ones to exult over Babylon. I. The Exhortation to Gods people in Babylon is twofold, viz. To depart from her: To Retaliate double unto her. 1. To depart from her; And I heard another voice from heaven, saying, Come out of her my people. This Exhortation is urged by divers Arguments, [1] From the peril of their fellowship with her sins; That ye be not partakers of her sins. [2] From the danger consequently of being involved in her judgments; And that ye receive not of her Plagues, ver. 4. [3] From the justice of God now approaching to take speedy vengeance upon her great and crying abominations; For her sins have reached unto Heaven, and God hath remembred her iniquities, ver. 5. 2. To retaliate unto her as Gods instruments, not unjust private revenge, but just publick punishments. These punishments are, (1) Emphatically exaggerated by various vehement expressions: All intimating that her sins were grown to such an height, that no punishments could be sufficient for her; Reward her even as she rewarded you, and double unto her double, according to her works: In the Cup which she hath filled fill to her double, ver. 6. How much she hath glorified her self, and lived deliciously, so much torment and sorrow give her. (2) Notably urged Partly, from her extream pride and security; For she saith in her heart, I sit a Queen, and am no Widow, and shall see no sorrow, ver. 7. Partly, from the Sudden, Manifold, and Destructive judgments, which the strong God shall bring upon her for this her pride and security; Therefore shall her plagues come in one day, Death, and Mourning, and Famine; and she shall be utterly burnt with fire: for strong is the Lord God who judgeth her, v. 8. II. The Lamentation for Babylons fall, is principally of three sorts of People, viz. of Kings, of Merchants, of Mariners.

1. In Kings Lamentations for Babylons fall, Consider, (1) The Impulsive Cause thereof, viz. deprivation of their Idolatrous and Luxurious communion with her; And the Kings of the Earth who have committed fornication, and lived deliciously with her, shall bewaile her, and lament for her. (2) The Occasion of their sad Laments; when they shall see the smoak of her burning, ver. 9. (3) The Manner of their Laments, with frightful fears, and doleful cries; Standing a farre off for the fear of her Torment, saying, Alas, alas That great City Babylon, that mighty City: for in one hour is thy judgment come, ver. 10.

2. In the Merchants (viz. Indulgentiaries, Penitentiaries, and such like Pontifician Merchants) Lamentations mentations for Babylon's fall, Conſider, (1) The Impulſive or Moving Cauſe of their Lamentation, viz. The Decay of Babylons Trade, and ceaſing of her Pontifician Gaines; And the Merchants of the Earth ſhall weep and mourne over her, for no man buyeth her Merchandize any more, ver. 11. This decay and loſſe of Babylons gainful Trade is aggravated; Partly by a large Bill or Catalogue of her Commodities and Merchandize wherewith both ſhe and her Merchants were enriched from all Countries round about. In all which there ſeems to be an Alluſion to the Deſcription of d Tyre's rich Merchandize from all Countries, which merchandize was ruined in her deſtruction: So here (as e Brightman conjectures) are expreſſed the Commodities brought to Rome from Spain, Italy, Sicily, Germany, England, France, &c. for her ſophiſticate wares of Merits, Supererogation Buls, Indulgences, Pardons, Maſſes, and ſuch like baſe counterfeit Papal Toyes; The Merchandize of Gold and Silver, and precious Stones, and of Pearles, and fine Linnen, and Purple, and Silk, and Scarlet, and all Thyne (or ſweet) Wood, and all manner of Veſſels of Ivory, and all manner of Veſſels of moſt pretious Wood, and of Braſſe, and Iron, and Marble, and Cynamon, and Odours, and Ointments, and Frankincenſe, and Wine, and Oyle, and fine flower, and Wheat, and Beaſts, and Sheep, and Horſes, and Chariots, and Slaves (or Bodies,) and f Soules of men, ver. 12, 13. Partly, by Romes utter Deprivation of all her delicacies wherewith ſhe and her creatures luxuriouſly glutted themſelves, ſet forth in an Apoſtrophe, or Turne of Speech unto Babylon, or Rome; And the fruits that thy ſoule luſted after, are departed from thee: and all things which were dainty and goodly are departed from thee, and thou ſhalt find them no more at all, ver. 14. Thus of the Moving Cauſe of her Merchants Lamentation. (2) The Doleful Manner of their Lamentations for Babylon's fall, with frightful fears, and condoling cryes, becauſe of her Deſtruction moſt lively aggravated by paralleling all her former glory with the ſudden annihilation of that glory; The Merchants of theſe things, which were made rich by her, ſhall ſtand afarre off, for the fear of her torment, weeping and wailing, and ſaying; Alas, alas, that great City, that was clothed in fine linnen and purple, and Scarlet, and decked with Gold, and precious Stones, and Pearles: For in one hour ſo great riches is come to nought, ver. 15, 16, 17.

3. In the Pontifician Mariners Lamentations for Babylon's fall, Conſider; [1] The Enumeration of theſe Mourners, four ſorts being reckoned up; And every ſhip-maſter, (viz. g Cardinals Patriarchs, Archbiſhops:) And all the Company in ſhips, (viz. Partners in gaines, as Cardinals-familiars and Domeſticks And Saylers, (viz. Biſhops, Abbots, Guardians, Priors, that ply in the Romiſh Veſſels:) And as many as Trade by Sea, (viz. the whole rabble of the Popiſh Clergy, Canonicals, Regulars, Moncks, Jeſuites, Capuchins, &c. who promote and devour the Romiſh gaines.) [2] The Pathetical Repreſentation of their Lamentations for her ſudden deſolation, both by the occaſion and manner thereof, with fears, cryes, exclamations, caſting duſt on their heads, weeping and wailing: Theſe are more perplexed than Kings or Merchants, their profits, paunches, kitchens, &c. being more neerly touched; They ſtood a farre off, and cryed when they ſaw the ſmoak of her burning, ſaying, What City is like unto this great City And they h caſt duſt on their heads, and cryed, weeping and wailing, ſaying; Alas, alas, that great City, wherein were made rich all that had ſhips in the Sea, by reaſon of her coſtlineſſe: for in one hour is ſhe made deſolate, ver. 17, 18, 19. Tous of the Lamentations of Babylons friends at her fall. III. The Invitation of Heaven and heavenly ones to exult and triumph at Gods vengeance upon her in their behalfe: This is laid down in an Elegant Apoſtrophe, or Turning of his Speech unto them; Rejoyce over her thou Heaven, and yee Holy Apoſtles and Prophets, for God hath avenged you on her, ver. 20. By Heaven here ſome understand the Church; Some think it ſignifies the Angelus and extraordinary ſtarres of it. By Prophets and Apoſtles, ſome conceive are intended the true profeſſors and followers of the Prophetical & Apoſtolicall Doctrine and Faith, eſpecially ſuch as for the Cauſe have been perſecuted and ſlain under the Alms by the Beaſt and the falſe Prophet of Rome.

[3] The third voice from heaven, at is more fully ſets up Babylon's violent, final, and irreparable overthrow. Here, I. The Angel, to the greater terrour of Babylon, is deſcribed to be, A mighty Angel. II. The Ruine of Babylon, is by this Angel, Figured out, Explained, Aggravated and Confirmed. 1. Figured out under the Type of a ſtone like a great millſtone caſt by him into the Sea, where there's no finding it, whence no ſerching it; And a mighty Angel took up a ſtone like a great Mill-ſtone, and caſt it into the Sea. 2. Explained, in the application of this Type to Babylon; ſaying, Thus with violence ſhall that great City Babylon be thrown down, and ſhall be found no more at all, ver. 21. 3. Aggravated by the miſerable Events enſuing upon her deſtruction, viz. Here utter loſſe and total deprivation of all the comforts of a flouriſhing and inhabited City. As [1] Of Joy and Melody; And the voice of Harps, and Muſicians, and of Pipers, and of Trumpeters, ſhall be heard no more at all in thee. [2] Of all ſorts of Tradeſmen; And no Crafts-man, of whatſoever craft he be, ſhall be found any more in thee. [3] Of food and proviſion for ſuſtenance; And the ſound of a Mill-ſtone ſhall be heard no more at all in thee, ver. 22. [4] Of lights to diſpel the diſconſolate darkneſſe of the night which takes up one half of the time of our lives; And the light of a Candle ſhall ſhine no more at all in thee. [5] Of marriage for propagating of iſſue, and perpetuating of poſterity; And the voice of the Bridegroom and of the Bride ſhall be heard no more at all in thee. 4. Confirmed by divers Reaſons of this her miſerable deſtruction, viz. (1) Her ſordid gaines and Popiſh merchandize; For thy Merchants were the great men of the Earth. (2) Her ſpiritual Witcheraft deceiving all Nations; For by thy Sorceries were all Nations deceived, ver. 23. [3] Her bloody cruelties againſt the Saints; And in her was found the blood of Prophets, and of Saints, and of all that were ſlain upon the earth, ver. 24.

"Hitherto of the Punctual Repreſentation of the "Great Whore to be judged: And of the Pathe"tical Deſcription of her final and dreadful judg"ment. Next follow the Victorial Triumphs of "the Heavenly ones at this judgment of the "Whore.

3. The Victorial Triumphs and Gratulations of them in Heaven, upon the judgment of the Great whore. Theſe Triumphant Gratulations are, 1. For the judgment of the Great Whore. 2. For the Dominion of God, and the Marriage of the Lamb.

[1] In the Gratulation for the Judgment of the Great Whore, Conſider, I. The Place where it was, viz. In Heaven, ſhall we think it was in the Empyrean Heaven, the Heaven of Glory? There's no need ſo to interpret it; and both the Gratulation it ſelf, and the Series of things following ſeem rather to intend it of the Church, often in this Book called Heaven, and eſpecially in the Viſion deſcribed; Rev. 4. to which this Gratulation hath ſpecial reference.

II. The victorial Gratulation it ſelf, which is, Partly of much People: Partly of the four Beaſts and twenty four Elders. 1. Of much People, that is i of a confuſed multitude of all ſorts of People, that ſhall then be converting in the Church upon earth; And after theſe things, I heard a great voice of much People in Heaven, ſaying. In the Peoples Gratulatory Song are contained, (1) The Propoſition of the Praiſe aſcribed to God; Hallelu-jah. Salvation, and Glory, and Honour, and Power unto the Lord our God.

Chap 19. God. Ch. XIX. ver. 1. The first word Hallelujah is an Hebrew word (הללויה) which signifies, Praise ye the Lord. But why is the song partly in Hebrew, and not all in Greek? k Brightman thinks it is because the Church of the Gentiles shall provoke the Jews to embrace the faith of Christ, when once Antichrist is destroyed, whose Idolatry was an impediment to their Conversion. But forasmuch as this word, (wherewith many Psalmes are begun and ended,) is commonly used both among Hebrews, Grecians, Latines, &c. as an incitement to praise God, l Pareus thinks there's no mystery in it. (2) The Confirmation or Reason of this Praise given to God, from the righteousnesse of Gods judgements, in judging the great Whore, both for her wicked idolatries and persecuting cruelties against the Saints; For true and righteous are his judgments, for he hath judged the great Whore, which did corrupt the earth with her fornications, and hath avenged the blood of his servants at her hand, ver. 2. (3) The Conclusion of the Peoples Song of Praise, with repetition, because of the Perpetuity of the Whores torment: And again they said Hallelujah, and her smoak rose up for ever and ever. Or we may read it adversatively, thus; Praise ye the Lord: but let the Whore burn for ever, ver. 3. 2. Of the four Beasts and twenty four Elders, (whose mystery was m formerly explained,) who by Prostration, Adoration, and Harmonious Congratulation, do seal up the Former Praises of much People; And the four and twenty Elders, and the four Beasts fell down and worshipped God that sate on the Throne, saying, AMEN, Hallelujah, ver. 4.

(2) In the Gratulation for the dominion of God and the Lambs marriage now come; Consider, I. The Divine Invitation or Command, requiring this Gratulation from all his Servants and fearers; And a voice came out of the Throne, saying, Praise our God, all ye his servants, and ye that fear him both small and great ver. 5. II. The multitude of triumphant rejoycers upon this Command, whose voices were like the sound of many waters, and mighty thunders; And I heard as it were the voice of a great multitude, and as the voice of many waters, and as the voice of mighty thundrings, saying. III. The Triumphant Song of Praise which they sung to God. 1. In respect of his Dominion now manifested and appearing; Hallelujah, for the Lord God OMNIPOTENT REIGNETH, ver. 6. This seems Parallel to that in the I. Prophecy, wherein n as soon as the City (viz. Rome) fell, in the close of the sixth Trumpet: presently the seventh Angel sounds, and the voices in Heaven say; The Kingdomes of this world are become our Lords and his Christs &c. 2. In respect of the Lambs marriage now come which is Amplified, (1) Partly by the Preparednesse of the Church the Lambs wife for the marriage; Let us be glad and give honour to him, for the marriage of the Lamb is come, and his wife hath made her self ready, ver. 7. (2) Partly of her marriage Garments freely given her by Christ; And to her was granted, that she should be arayed in fine Linen, clean and white: For the fine linnen is the righteousnesse (or o Justifications) of Saints, ver. 8. (3) Partly by the blessednesse of the Marriage-guests. The certainty whereof, is intimated, both by the Angels commanding John to write the same: And also by the Angels Testimony touching the Divine verity of them; And he saith unto me, write, blessed are they which are called unto the Marriage-supper of the Lamb. And he saith unto me, these are the true sayings of God, ver. 9.

" on John.

III. The event which the Exposition of the Whores judgment had upon John, concludes this mystery of the final judgment of the Whore. Here note, 1. Johns Preparation to worship the Angel, being so wonderfully taken with what he had revealed to him. 2. The Angels Prohibition of John, and refusal of his worship, Partly because Divine Worship was not due to him, being but Johns fellow-servant in testifying the Prophecy of this Revelation; Partly because Divine Worship is Gods peculiar due; And I fell at his feet to worship him: And he said unto me, See thou do it not: I am thy fellow-servant, and of thy brethren that have the Testimony of Jesus; Worship God: for the Testimony of Jesus is the spirit of Prophecy, ver. 10.

Hitherto of The Judgement of the Whore: Next of the Judgement of the Beast and false Prophet.

II. THE JUDGEMENT OF THE BEAST AND FALSE PROPHET, together with their Armies and adherents, warring against the Lamb and his Army, is foretold and more fully declared. These Adversaries were all mustered together under the Sixth Vial, in t Armageddon: Now this Seventh Vial, (the exposition whereof is yet continued) describes the events of the battel in Armageddon. u Some interpret this Vision of the last judgement: x Some of the Conversion and glorious Calling of the Jews: y Some of the spiritual victory which Christ shall obtain by his Word, z Some understand it of Christs final victory, not only spiritually but corporally, over the Beast and False Prophet, (now chafed and enraged at the destruction of the whore,) and this by some remarkable and dreadful dispensation of his Providence, and that before the General Judgement come. And this seems most agreeable to the Series of the Text ensuing. Now here are set forth, 1. The preparation to the Battel. 2. The events of the Battel.

1. In the preparation to the battel, are described Christ's, and the Beast's Preparations against each other, as the the two grand Adversaries and Generals of the Field. I. In Christs Preparation, are declared,

1. His Majestical and victorious coming forth to Battel, even out of Heaven open, sitting on a White horse an Emblem of Victory, Triumph and Joy, which seems here to intimate Christs victoriousnes over his enemies, to the increase of new joyes to his people; And I saw Heaven opened, and behold a white Horse, and he that sate upon him, &c.

2. His admirable perfections wel-becoming so glorious a Captain. viz. (1) Truth and faithfulnesse in all his Promises and threats, though he seem to delay long; And he that sate upon him was called faithful and true. (2) Justice in judging and warring; And in righteousnesse he doth judge and make war, ver. 11. (3) Piercing quickneſse to find out, and take revenge upon his enemies; His eyes were as a flame of fire. (4) Victoriousnesse; And on his head were many Crowns, denoting his many and singular victories: yea the Crowns of these a Kings, against whom he now goes forth to fight, were in effect hit already. (5) Unsearchableness of his Name, Nature and wayes; And he had a Name written which no man knew but himself, ver. 12. Written for Permanency: but known only to himself, for the secrecy and mysteriousnes of his state, councels and wayes; as b Forbes noteth. (6) Severity of revenge upon his enemies, having his c garments even soaked and steeped in their blood, and particularly in the blood of the Whore lately by him judged and executed; And he was cloathed in a Vesture dipt in blood. As coming from a bloody slaughter. (7) Infinite wisdom, knowing all the secrets of God, and making known his pleasure to us, as man makes known his will to man by a word; And his name is called THE WORD OF GOD, ver. 13. This denomination of Christ, d The Word, is peculiarly found in Johns writings; and affords a notable Argument that John the beloved Disciple penned this Book. Thus of Christs Perfections and glorious Properties.

3. His Armies, heavenly, pure, and victoriously triumphant in and with Christ; And the Armies which were in heaven, followed him upon white Horses, clothed in fine linnen, white and clean, ver. 14.

4. His weapons of War, or Manner of fighting; gradually described; viz. e Smiting with the Sword of his Mouth, Ruling with his Rod of Iron, and treading his foes under his feet, that they shall not be able to rise up against him; And out of his mouth goeth a sharp sword, that with it he should smite the Nations: viz. (His word, either punishing them according to the tenour of it: or subduing them unto the obedience of it.) And he shall f rule them with a rod of iron: and he treadeth the Winepress of the fierceness and wrath of Almighty God, ver. 15.

5. His puissant Name, acquired by his Martial Atchievements, publishing him to be Lord and King Paramount; And he hath on his Vesture, and on his thigh a name written, KING OF KINGS, AND LORD OF LORDS, ver. 16. g Some think this name is written, On his Vesture, for Perspicuity, that all may clearly discern it: On his thigh, for the Perpetuity and Eternity of his Dominion, none being able to deprive him of it. h Some on his Vesture, for manifestation to all: On his Thigh or feet, not only to note that Christs meanest, surpasseth mans highest power; but especially to intimate that this is the time when his Church shall have dominion with him. i Some thus; On his Vesture, manifesting now his victories to all; On his thigh, because now all the world shall testifie their subjection to Christ, and swear him Homage, For men do not only k wear their Sword on their thigh: but especially their strength is by Scripture placed in their loins and thighs; and hence it was a token of subjection and servitude to l put the hand under the thigh, which Custome Aben-Ezra witnesseth to have continued still among the Indians and Aethiopians till his time.

6. His Herauld, or Trumpet, not so much proclaiming open war with the Beast, as inviting all that delight in prey, to come and take the spoile: the Conquest of the Beast being certain. This Herauld is described, (1) By his Person, being an Angel. (2) By his station, which was strange, In the Sun; And I saw an Angel standing in the Sun. Intimating the bright, clear and Sun-like light which then shall be evident to all, touching Antichrists destruction. (3) By the loudness of his Proclamation, able to make the deafest hear; And he cryed with a loud voice. (4) By the tenour of his cry, which (under the allegory of all Fowls or Birds of prey invited to feed and fill themselves with the flesh and carkasses of the slain.) intimates the great and extream slaughter of the Beast and his Armies by Jesus Christ; insomuch that all that were addicted to take the spoyle should prey upon them, being now certainly and speedily to be destroyed, Saying to all the Fowls that fly in the midst of heaven, Come and gather your selves together unto the Supper of the Great God: That ye may eat the flesh of Kings, and the flesh of Captaines, and the flesh of mighty men, and the flesh of Horses and of them that sit on them, and the flesh of all men, both free and bond, both small and great, ver. 17, 18. Thus of Christs preparation to the battel.

II. In the Beasts Preparation are laid down, 1. His adherents and Armies. 2. Their mustering and gathering together for Warre. 3. The adversaries against whom they prepare to fight; And I saw the Beast, and the Kings of the Earth, and their Armies gathered together, to make Warre against him that sate on the Horse, and against his Army, ver. 19. This their gathering together was in Armageddon, and that by the diligence of the Frogs, as was formerly declared in the sixth Vial, The beast being enraged after Romes Destruction.

2. In the Events of the Battel (The Battel it self not being at all mentioned, but only the Beasts intentions and preparations to fight against Christ and his Army, for the Beast and his Adherents are entrapped and captured, easily and suddenly foyled by Christ.) Consider,

1. The dreadful Calamity that layetly befell the Beast that carryed the Whore and the False Prophet, the Restorer of the Beast for carrying of her. (Which False Prophet is described here, both by his Miracles wrought before the beast, and by his deceiving of the Beasts vassals and worshippers thereby, so that this is the m Two horned Beast.) This their calamity consists, 1. In their joynt apprehension; And the Beast was taken, (Gr. taken in snares, entrapped, ensnared,) and with him the False Prophet that wrought miracles before him, with which he deceived them that had re-

The beast is taken; being as it were catched in snares, and entangled before he be aware of it, as wild beasts are taken, which run into the Nets or Gins, e're they know where they be. So much doth the word Epiastae intimate, that signifieth to take. And indeed we know that the Lord raineth down snares upon the wicked, as it is, Psal. 11. 6. whereby their feet are taken in such places, where they least of all feared any such matter. *Thom. In their joynt Execution, and that in most dreadful manner, like Corah, Dathan, and Abiram swallowed up alive of the pit, or like Sodom and her Cities burnt up alive; These both were cast alive into a lake of fire burning with Brimstone. As they were joynt-partners in wickedness, so they are joynt-partakers in the woful reward of their wickedness, v. 20.

II. The General Slaughter of all their whole Army, all are put to the sword, and the fowls invited, filled with their flesh, enriched with their prey; And the remnant were slain with the sword of him that sate upon the Horse, which sword proceeded out of his mouth. And all the Fowls were filled with their flesh, ver. 21.

Hitherto of the Judgement of the Whore, Beast, and False Prophet, and their Adherents. Last of all comes to be considered the Doom and Judgement of the Dragon himself that set them all on work against Christ and his Church.

VII. Vision.

III. THE JUDGEMENT OF THE DRAGON, that old Serpent, the Devil and Satan, that hath incited and used as his instruments, the Whore, Beast, False-Prophet, and their followers, to oppose and persecute the Lamb and his Saints: comes now in the last place to be considered of. Touching this judgment of the Dragon, Consider 1. The Inchoation of it, in his Binding. 2. The Relaxation of it, in his Loosing. 3. The Consummation of it, in his final Damning. The particulars contained herein are o most Abstruse and mysterious; to be too positive and definitive about them and the mysteries intended in them, would argue too much boldness and Temerity. And learned Expositors are much unsatisfied about the interpretation of them. p Some conceive, all that is here spoken till the Dragon's destruction in ver. 10. to be only A Summary Repetition or Recapitulation of the affairs and whole state of the Church, from the primitive times almost to these times: How the Dragon o A man may see how the learned Commentaries of the Interpreters, how greatly they are puzled and toyled in the interpretation of this Chapter: but above all the rest the Popish Commenters do most pitifully vex themselves therein, as to whom it is like an intricate Maze and Labyrinth, whence there is no winding of a mans self out. *Thom. gon was chained up after the tenth persecution for a 1000. years. The Church mean-while obtaining a Spiritual Resurrection and Kingdome with Christ, till after the 1000. years Satan was let loose and brought in new enemies, Gog and Magog, against the Church, to his and their destruction. q Some contrariwise are of opinion that this Chapter is not a Repetition, but a Continuation of the Revelation touching future events to the Church till the Judgement-day. And that the Series and Current of the Context duly considered seems so to carry it. After times probably will better understand these Mysteries. But to the Text, touching the Dragons Judgement.

q So Mede expounds it.

1. The Inchoation of the Dragons Judgement, is laid down in his binding for a thousand years. Here consider, 1. The Dragons inchoate destruction. 2. The Churches Contemporany State and Condition mean while.

I. Touching The Dragons inchoate Destruction, or Binding, are considerable. 1. The Agent by whom the Dragon was bound, An Angel, r supposed to be Christ, because his Heavenly Authority and Mighty Power under the Emblems of a Key and Chain are so notably described, And I saw an Angel come down from Heaven, having the Key of the bottomless pit, and a great Chain in his hand, Chap. XX. ver. 1. 2. The Actions of the Angel about the Dragon, are divers viz. (1) Apprehending of him; And he laid hold on the Dragon, that old Serpent, which is the Devil and Satan. (2) Binding of him, the term of his bondage being expressed; And bound him a thousand years, ver. 2. (3) Imprisoning of him, which is set forth, Partly, By the place wherein he imprisoned him; And cast him into the bottomless pit. Partly, By his secure manner of proceeding with him, And shut him up, and set a Seal upon him. As sometimes it was with Daniel in the Lions Den, or with Christs Body in the Sepulcher. 3. The End or Intention of this Judicial process with the Dragon, viz. That he should deceive the Nations no more till the thousand years should be fulfilled. Which is amplified by a Prediction of the Dragons release for a little season afterwards; And after that he must be loosed for a little season, ver. 3.

r So Pareus in Apoc. 20. 1. Forbes on Rev. 20. 1. Chap. 20.

II. Touching the Churches state and condition during this thousand years restraint of the Dragon, are observable. 1. The Reviving. 2. The Enthroning. 3. The Reigning of two sorts with Jesus a thousand years, viz. Partly, Martyrs who suffered for Christ. Partly, Others who kept themselves pure from Antichristian defilements and idolatries; And I saw Thrones, and they sate upon them, and Judgement was given unto them: and I saw the souls of them that were beheaded for the witness of Jesus, and for the Word of God, and which had not worshipped the Beast, neither his image, neither had received his mark upon their foreheads, or in their hands: and they lived and reigned with Christ a s thousand years, v. 4. This state of the Martyrs and pure Worshippers is amplified three ways, viz. (1) By the opposite condition of the rest of the dead; But the rest of the dead lived not again until the thousand years were finished. (2) By the Denomination given to the condition of the Revived Martyrs, &c. This is the FIRST RESURRECTION, ver. 5. (3) By the happiness and holiness of all that have part in this first Resurrection, Partly, in respect of their Exemption from the second death: Partly, in respect of their Inauguration to be Priests and Kings with Christ; Blessed and Holy is he that hath part in the first resurrection: On such the second Death hath no power, but they shall be Priests of God and of Christ, and shall reign with him a thousand years, ver. 6. These thousand years seem Contemporany to the thousand years of the Dragons Restraint. And the state of the New Jerusalem's coming down from God out of Heaven, is thought by some to be an happy condition of the Church in this life contemporany to them Both.

s Touching this thousand years Reigne of the Martyrs and Confessors with Christ. See D. Pareus in Apoc. 20. 4. and Jos. Mede Com. in loc. Forbes, Brightman, and D. Joan. Prideaux. Lect. XIII.

2. The Relaxation of the Dragons Judgement, is set forth in his loosing again out of Prison for a little time. Touching which, note,

I. The time or term when this Dragon shall be thus loosed, But when the thousand years are expired, Satan shall be loosed out of his prison, ver. 7.

II. The subtile practices of the Dragon thus released, seducing and instigating new enemies against the Church. Here 1. The Enemies seduced, are described. (1) By the extent of places whence they shall be gathered, from all the four Quarters of the Earth. (2) By their Denomination, Gog and Magog. (3) By their Number, as the sand of the Sea. 2. The intent of this seducement is specified, for battel against the Saints; And he shall go out to deceive the Nations, which are in the four Quarters of the Earth, t Gog and Magog, to gather them together to battel: the number of whom is as the sand of the Sea, ver. 8. This seems to allude to that in Judg. 7. where the Midianites like Grashoppers for multitude, and whose Camels were as the sand of the Sea for number, pitched against Israel in the Plain, and were destroyed by Gideon and his three hundred, holding forth burning Lamps, breaking Pitchers, and sounding Trumpets.

t Touching this Gog and Magog, see the various opinion of Writers, in D. Prideaux. Orat. III. D. Pareus in Apoc. 20. 8. Brightman, Forbes, Napier, also on the place. g Psal. 2. 8. h Jos. Med. in Com. Apoc. Part. 2. de Gogo & Magogo.

III. The Events ensuing upon these practices of the Dragon, are of two sorts: 1. The Hostile acts of these seduced enemies against the Church, viz. (1.) Partly, Going up every way against them; And they went up on the breadth of the Earth. g The utmost parts of the Earth are promised Christ for his possession at last. (2.) Partly, Surrounding them on every side; And encompassed the camp of the Saints about, and the Beloved City. By Beloved City h some understand The New Jerusalem, the Metropolis of this New Kingdom of Christ and the Saints, which, like the Tabernacle in the Wilderness, is pitched in midst of the Saints Camp. By camp of the Saints, the Nations of the saved ones that shall walk in the light of the New Jerusalem. This seems to allude to the practices of them in Sodom, wherein all, young and old, from all Quarters compassed Lots house, Gen. 19. who were devoured by fire and brimstone rained upon them from God out of Heaven. 2. The righteous Acts of God as it were by his own immediate hand, against these enemies, for the Rescue, and in the Quarrel of his Church; And fire came down from God out of Heaven, and devoured them, ver. 9.

3. The Consummation of the Dragons Judgements, is declared in his final damning. Here the Dragons final doom is, 1. Described. 2. Confirmed. 1. Described and aggravated. 1. By the cause of his damnation, his deceiving the Nations, especially after his letting loose. 2. By the place of his execution.

3. By the company damned with him, The Beast and False Prophet. They sinned together, and shall burn together. 4. By the extremity, easelesness and endlesness of all their torments; And the Devil that deceived them, was cast into the lake of fire and brimstone, where the Beast and False prophet are, and shall be tormented day and night, for ever and ever, ver. 10. II. Confirmed by the lively representation of the General and last judgement, annexed immediately to the Damning of the Dragon. i Not as if the Day of judgement should then immediately follow, or as if the particular time thereof were here determined: but to intimate the full destruction of the Dragon and other Enemies of the Church which should hold on till Christs final coming to judgement: As in Daniel 7. A Throne is erected, and one sitteth thereon for judging the Beasts there mentioned, Enemies of the Church; And the faithful that they might apprehend their adversaries full overthrow, but their own perfect deliverance, are called in Dan. 12. to the meditation of the last, and full degree thereof in the general Resurrection. To that here seems to be an allusion. Now in this Hypotyposis or lively Adumbration of the Last and General Judgment compendiously declared, con-consider. 1. The Majestical enthronement of the Judge upon his Tribunal or Judgement Seat, emphatically Amplified; Partly, By the glory and greatness of his Throne: Partly, by the power of his presence, Heaven and Earth fleeing away. How then shall the wicked stand before him, or look up at that day? And I saw a great white Throne, and him that sate on it, from whose face the Earth, and the Heaven fled away, and there was found no place for them, v. 11. 2. The Order and Manner of his Judicial Proceedings, (1) By his Convencing of all before his Tribunal that were to be judged; And I saw the Dead small and great, stand before God. (2) By his final Dooming or Sentencing of all that were thus convanced before him. In passing of which judicial Sentence, note, 1. The matters of Fact according to which they shall be judged, Their works. 2. The Evidence produced for Conviction and proof of these Matters of Fact against them, viz. Partly, the Books opened, i. e. Gods Book of Remembrance: And the Records or Books of their own Consciences. Partly, the Book of life, i. e. The Record of Gods Everlasting Decree of Election. In all this seems to be a notable allusion to that of Daniel, k The Judgement did sit, and the Books were opened. And both that and this to the usual process of Humane Courts of Judicature, wherein Judges Proceed upon persons according to Matters of Fact alledged and Proof, which Allegations and Proofs are Booked down and Recorded; And I saw the dead, small and great, stand before God: And the Books were opened: and another Book was opened, which is the Book of life: and the dead were judged out of those things which were written in the Books, according to their works, ver. 12. This Judicial process is Amplified by a Prolepsis, or Prevention of an Objection.

k Dan. 7. 10. Of these Books and especially the Lambs Book of Life. See D. Pridaux. Orat. IV.

Object. But how shall all the Dead, that are in the Sea, Grave, or under any other sorts of death be thus convented before God?

Answ. Sea, Death, and Grave, shall all of them unanimously surrender and deliver up their dead at Gods command and coming to judge; And the Sea gave up the dead which were in it: and death and hell (or, the Grave) delivered up the dead which were in them: and they were judged every man according to their works, i. e. The Judicial Sentence was pronounced according to their works, ver. 13. 3. The Execution of the Judicial Sentence, by inflicting the fiery Torments of the Second Death, that is, Eternal Death. The Objects upon which the Judgement shall be inflicted, are Things, or Persons.

(1) Things, viz. Death and Hell, or the Grave; And Death and Hell (or Grave) were cast into the Lake of fire. This is the Second Death. As if it were said; There shall be no Torment any longer that shall vex men, either in Death or in the Grave, but only in the Lake of fire, where the Reprobates die for ever, ver. 14.

l So Bright man on Rev. 20. 14.

(2.) Persons, viz. All Reprobates; And whosoever was not found written in the Book of life, was cast into the Lake of fire, ver. 15.

Thus of the Third General Branch of this II. Prophecy, viz. The deliverance of the Church at last out of all her distresses and persecutions, by Gods righteous Judgements in the Destruction of her distressing and persecuting enemies, The Beast, False Prophet, Dragon and their adherents, with Death, Grave, and all Reprobates. Next in order is the Fourth and last General Branch, touching the happy state and condition which the Church shall enjoy upon this her deliverance.

4. Finally, The happy state and condition of the Church upon her Deliverance from her Enemies, by her just Ruine and Destruction, is most magnificently and gloriously represented to us in the last Branch of the II. PROPHECY, touching the New Heaven, and the NEW Earth, and NEW JERUSALEM descending from God out of Heaven, and this comes now to be considered. Now though this Vision be here reported after the Description of the Last and General Judgement, and Consummation concerning it to be of the Condition of the Church and Elected Saints in Heaven and Glory; yet in that general account is of the Churches happy state in the general, when her Deliverance from and the Destruction of her grand Enemies, viz. of the great Whore, The Beast, The False Prophet whose Destruction was Consummate, and of the Dragon also whose Destruction was Intimate, do conceive this New Jerusalem is here to Synchronize or be contemporany with the 1000 years of the Dragons being bound, and of the Martyrs and Pure worshippers Dominion with Jesus Christ. Vid. Jos. Med. Calv. Apoc. Part. 2. Synch. IV. V. VI.

m Jos. Mede in Com. Ap. Part. 2. & Mr. Alsted Tab. 7. p. 781. edit. Cantabrig. 1649.

This happy state of the Church is described from Chap. 21. 1. to Chap. 22. 6. As all interpreters that I have seen, do with unanimous consent acknowledge. But touching the Kind or sort of Happiness here described, they do not so harmoniously accord. They chiefly are of three Opinions herein. 1. Some interpret all this Vision, meerly of the Eternal and Glorious happiness which the Church shall enjoy in Heaven with God and Jesus Christ in immediate Vision and fruition. And r most Expositors go this way.

r Thus this Vision is interpreted by D. Pareus, Junius, Piscator, Diodate, Napier.

2. Some s expound it of the Churches happy condition in respect of the Conversion of the Jews. The Church of the Gentiles was t an Heavenly Jerusalem before, but many corruptions were intermixed in her condition: but when the Jews shall be converted, there shall be such a New face of all things in the Church, and they shall be so pure and holy, that in respect of the heavenly Jerusalem of the Gentilish Church, this shall be as it were A new Jerusalem.

s Thus Tho. Brightman expounds it.

t Heb. 12. 22.

3. Some, without restriction or reference to the Jews Conversion, understand it indefinitely of that u happy Spiritual state which the Church, upon her enemies destruction, shall enjoy here in this world, before she be translated from Earth to heaven. And divers considerable x Reasons, drawn especially from the Nature of this Vision, are propounded for strengthening of this Interpretation, a brief taste whereof is here presented to the Margin, and may more fully be discovered in the Authors themselves. In this difference of learned mens judgements, it is not easie determinately to fix a mans thoughts. For mine own part, I ingenuously acknowledge I have long been somewhat dubious and divided in my thoughts, which of these Expositions to pitch upon, nor am I at present so fully resolved as to have no hesitancy at all thereabout: yet all things deliberately considered, and the foresaid and like Reasons ponedered, I rather incline to their Opinion (recited in the third place) who interpret this of the Churches Happiness Spiritual, rather than Eternal: Of Grace in this world, rather than of Glory in the world to come. Now if so happy a Condition may befall the Church in Earth: What, and how surpassing shall her happiness be in Heaven it self!

u Jos. Med. quo supr. Forbes on Rev. 21. & 22. Aretius apud Oecumen. expounds this whole Vision in such sort, as he seems to incline to this way.

x Divers Reasons are summarily couched together by Forbes. Take them in his own words.

Now, albeit the Church her Condition be here set down Hyperbolically (as would appear) for any state that ever she shall here attain to: yet, if we consider, I. How not only the most precious things in Nature, are too abject to express the Dispensation of Grace, (especially now in the highest degree) But also, II. That here is painted out unto us, 1. A Jerusalem coming down from Heaven: 2. The Tabernacle of God, wherein God will sojourn with men, (1) Having a wall against invasion, (2) Founded on the Doctrine of the Apostles. (3) Gates for Receiving in Nations and Kings, coming to walk in her light, and bringing thither their Glory: (4) Having to this end the Ministry of Angels, even Pastors of Churches; 3. And that all the Measuring of this City, is by the Ministery of man, called to be an Angel, and instructed for that with a Golden Reed; 4. As also so that all the Dispensation of God towards the City, is by the Lamb, the Mediator, who in the world to come governeth up the Kingdom to God, that he may be all in all, 1 Cor. 15. 28. III. And finally, That here nothing is so magnifickly spoken, which the Prophets before have not almost in the same terms uttered, of the Estate of the Church here in Grace; We will easily perceive that no such thing is here meaned, as whereto most part of Interpreters have drawn it: By even by this amassing together of all the Goodly Promises in the Prophets, of the Church her Graceful and Peaceable state, To let us see that at this time shall be the full performance, never any more to be disturbed, and so therein The Mystery of God to be finished, Nothing now Resting to be either expected or wished, but that The Lord Jesus come quickly, Forbes on Revel. 22. Sect. 4.

Now this happy state of the Church is 1. More Summarily and Generally Propounded. 2. More Plenarily and Particularly Expounded.

I. More Summarily and Generally The Churches future Happinesse is Propounded, 1. Partly by Vision. 2. Partly by Voice, tending to explain and confirm the Vision.

1. By Vision The Churches happiness is represented, 1 In respect of the New World. 2 In respect of the New Jerusalem in the world. I. In respect of the New World, or New face of the whole Universe. The World is altered at the Churches alteration, whose Receptacle and Habitation it is, and it becomes New, 1. By alteration of things that Remain; And I saw a New Heaven, and a New Earth: for the first Heaven and the first Earth were passed away. Scripture by y New Heavens and New Earth, being wont to express Great Changes in the world. There shall be after the Destruction of the Whore, Beast and False-Prophet, such a wonderful shaking and change of all things in the world, that it shall be as a New World, New Heaven and Earth. 2. By Abolition of that which shall be taken away; And there was no more Sea, Ch. XXI. ver. 1. By Sea, which is wont to rage and swell tempestuously, z Scripture is wont to signifie the raging stirrs, tumults, commotions, &c. of enemies, people or Nations: Now by there being no more Sea, the Holy Ghost sheweth the quiet state of things no more subject to trouble or inquietation as formerly. Not, saith a Forbes, as if henceforth the Church should be altogether free of all evils, (which cannot fully fall here) but never again shall either Deceit of Darknesse, or Hostile invasion, trouble her. But her last evil, amidst both plenty and peace, shall be Security. II. In respect of the New Jerusalem, the Renewed Church in this New World, and for whose sake the world is renewed. She is here Described, 1. By her Holiness; And I John saw the Holy City. 2. By her Newness; New Jerusalem. Not only New in respect of that Old Jerusalem under the Law gendring to bondage, in which sence the Christian Church was always New: but New in comparison of her former sad afflicted state, her enemies being destroyed. The name of Newnesse is a Note of her transformation into a more joyful state saith Andreas. 3. By her Heavenliness, or Divine descent; Coming down from God out of Heaven, viz. of Gods Building and Beautifying. 4. By her Bride-like Preparedness for Christ; Prepared as a Bride adorned for her Husband, ver. 3.

2. By Voice, tending to Explain and Confirm the former Vision. This voice is two-fold, viz. More Generally, from Heaven: More Specially from the Throne.

I. The Voice from Heaven, declares the Churches Felicity, 1. In respect of the presence or enjoyment of all Good, viz. in the Cause and Fountain of Good. That is, (1) Gods Covenant-relation to them, (2) Gods Co-habitation by his Gracious presence with them; And I heard a Great Voice out of Heaven, saying: Behold: the b Tabernacle of God is with men, and he will dwell with them, and they shall be his people, and God himself shall be with them, and be their God, ver. 3. 2. In respect of the Absence, or removal of evil, which is Confirmed from the passing away of former things, viz. the Churches Distresses and Persecutions under the Dragon, &c. then c she cryed, was in pain, her members d slain for the testimony of Jesus: but now these, or like miseries are past, and shall trouble her no more; And God shall wipe away all tears from their eyes; And there shall be no more Death, neither sorrow nor crying, neither shall there be any more pain: for the former things are passed away, ver. 4.

b The Manner of Gods presence is expressed in the words σκηνὴ & σκηνώσει, c Rev. 12. 2. d Rev. 13. 7, 15. and 14. 13. and 6. 9, 10.

II. The voice of him that sits upon the Throne, viz. God himself, further confirms and explains this happy state of the Church, which to carnal men may seem incredible: But Gods Testimony is infallible. Gods voice to this purpose is threefold, and all Emphatical.

1. His First Voice is pronounced indefinitely without Particular Directing it to any one. Herein he proclaims himself to be the Author of this New world; And he that sate upon the Throne, said, Behold I make all things new. And can any thing then be too hard for this God? He that made all things of nothing, can he not easily make all things New?

2. His Second Voice, is particularly directed to John. And commands him to write and record these words as true and faithfull; And he said unto me, write: for these words are true and faithful, v. 5.

3. His Third Voice, particularly also directed to John, Declares, the Consummation or Accomplishment of the Churches Deliverance and Happy state upon her Enemies Destruction, according to the Prophets Predictions. The Mystery of God herein being now finished; And he said unto me, IT IS DONE. This her Happiness is, Confirmed, Described, Illustrated. (1) Confirmed, from the Eternal Nature of God, who foretelleth all things, performes them in due time, orders them to their proper ends, and will at last endlesly blesse his people; I am Alpha and Omega, the Beginning and the End. (2) Described, Partly by the Nature of this Happinesse, consisting in, 1 Having the Fountain of the Water of Life: 2 Inheriting all things: 3 Enjoying the Covenant-Relation to God. Partly, By the manner of Conveyance, viz. Free-gift. Partly, By the Subjects on whom it is Conferred, viz. On the thirsty earnest Desirers, and on Conquerours; I will give unto him e that is athirst, of the Fountain of the Water of Life freely. He that overcometh shall inherit f all things: And g I will be his God, and he shall be my son, ver. 6, 7. 3. Illustrated by the contrary, miserable condition and damned state which shall befall all Reprobates, especially the worshippers of the Beast and vassals of Antichrist, who are here chiefly intended, and ranked in eight several sorts, all of them describing in a special manner their corruptions; But the Fearful, and unbelieving, and the abominable, and Murderers, and Whore-mongers, and Sorcerers, and Idolaters, and all Lyars, shall have their part in the Lake which burneth with fire and brimstone: which is the second death, ver. 8.

II. More plenarily and particularly the Churches future happiness, or happy state is Expounded, and this in a Vision to John. Here Consider, 1. The Preparation of John for the Vision. 2. The Description of the Church, and her happy state as presented in the Vision.

1. The Preparation of John for perceiving and beholding holding of the Vision. In this Preparation note, 1. Who prepared John thereto, viz. one of the Seven Vial-Angels probably the same h Angel who shewed him formerly the judgement of the great Whore. 2. How he prepared him, viz. (1) Verbally, By Word, calling him to him, and promising him to shew him the Bride, the Lambs wife; And there came unto me one of the Seven Angels, which had the seven Vials full of the last Plagues, and talked with me, saying, Come hither, I will shew thee the Bride, the Lambs wife, ver. 9. Elegantly saith i Andreas, he calls the Bride, the Lambs wife. For when Christ was slain as a Lamb: then he espoused her to himself by his own Blood. For as a Rib was taken from Adam sleeping, of which the Woman was formed: So Christ sleeping on the Cross by voluntary Death, by the blood that was poured out of his side, the Church was constituted, and joyned to him who suffered for us. (2) Partly, By Action, carrying him in the spirit to an high Mountain; And he carried me away in the Spirit to a great and high Mountain. He carryed John to behold the judgement of the great Whore k into the Wilderness, perhaps because she lay in covert from vulgar view, or rather because now her judgement would bring her into a Wilderness-state of howling woe: But he carries him into a great high Mountain to view the Bride, the Lambs wife; either because they that obtain a true sight of the Bride, must ascend high, or because her state now to be represented was great and highly exalted, she being no longer in her Wildness-troubles, but in her Mountain-triumphs.

II. The Description of the Church and her happy state, as represented to John in Vision. And she is shewed here in the height of Magnificence and stateliness, far transcending the utmost glory of all the Kingdoms of this world; Spirituals surpass all Temporals. Oh what glorious things are here spoken of thee thou City of God, thou joy of the whole earth! Now the New Jerusalem is displayed, 1. In her self. 2. In her Accessories. In both Sumptuously, gloriously.

1. In her self, the New Jerusalem is displayed, According to 1. Her Glorious Beauty. 2. Excellent Fortification. 3. Accurate Symmetry or Proportion, 4. And precious Materials.

I. Her Glorious Beauty throughout, Consists, 1. In her Goodly Greatness. 2. In her amiable Holiness. 3. In her heavenly Descent or Original. 4. In her Divine Glory. 5. Her orient light, which is 1. Of a Divine pleasantness, therefore compared to a Jasper whereby formerly l God was resembled: and 2. Of a Christalline clearness, having no secret, hidden, covert defilements and abominations in her as the Whore, but being throughout beauteous and sincere, as it were with transparent purity; And he shewed me that great City, The Holy Jerusalem, Descending out of Heaven from God, Having the Glory of God, and her light was like unto a stone most precious, even like a Jasper stone, clear as Crystal, v. 10, 11.

l Rev. 4. 3.

II. Her Excellent and Strong Fortification consists in a Wall about the City. This Wall is described by the Constitution, Gates, and Foundation thereof: 1. By the Constitution and fabrick of it; And had a Wall great and high. Therefore now no more to be trod under foot by the Gentiles, but secure from enemies, and above all dangers. 2. By the Gates of it, for admission and entertainment of all true Israelites indeed. Which Gates excell (1) For their number, which is Patriarchal and Apostolical; And had twelve Gates. (2) For their Keepers, which are vigilant Angels; And at the Gates twelve Angels. viz. Evangelical Ministers directing and conducting the commers into the Holy City, and to the Tree of Life Jesus Christ. (3) For their Inscriptions or Emblems written or graven upon them; And names written thereon, which are the names of the twelve Tribes of the children of Israel. Intimating, both assurance of admittance, and direction for entrance, to all the spiritual Israel of God. ver. 12. (4) Vitally, for their uniform Order, viz. On the East three Gates; on the North three Gates; on the South three Gates; and on the West three Gates. This seems to allude to the figure of the City in Ezekiel, and to the form of the [illegible] about the Tabernacle [illegible] Eastward etc. as here [illegible] And this seems to [illegible] Jerusalem shall be a receptacle for all sorts [illegible] from all the four corners of the world. Andreas saith, m The Apostolical Twelve of the Lamb, and their threefold explication signifie the Unity of the most holy and adored Trinity diffused through the Quadripartite world. 3. By the foundations of the Wall, which both in their Number and Names inscribed upon them relate to Christs twelve Apostles, as upon whose Doctrine alone the New Jerusalem is builded, and wherein her chief strength lies, viz. In being bottomed by their Doctrine on the Rock Christ the n only foundation; And the Wall of the City had twelve foundations, and in them the names of the twelve Apostles, of the Lamb, ver. 14.

m Ezek. 48. 30. n See the Type of this Prophecy in Tabernacle on Numb. Sect V. o Andreas. in Apoc. c. 67. apud. Jo. Chrysost. Tom. 2. in N. T. p Mat. 16. 18. 1 Cor. 3. 11. q Rev. 21. 9. r Forbes on Rev. 21. 15.

III. Her Symmetry, or Proportion is most exact and accurate. Here consider, 1. The Measurer, viz. q The Angel that talked with God. Who, thinks r Forbes, is a Type of those Ministers which then God shall stir up and furnish with excellent graces, to measure and Minister in his Church. 2. The measuring Instrument, viz. A Golden Reed. A Geometrical measure, golden, both for the honour of the Angel measuring, and City measured, saith s Arethas. 3. The things measured, viz. City, Gates, and Wall, formerly only the inner Court was measured, the outward left unmeasured, as to be trodden under foot by Gentiles: but now no more such treading down, all must be measured, nothing is cast out, every thing in the Church must be according to rule and measure; And he that talked with me had a golden Reed to measure the City, and the Gates thereof, and the Wall thereof, ver. 15. This is an Allusion to Architecture, wherein the truth and exactness of the whole Fabrick is tryed by Rule and Measure. And it seems to have respect to that in t Ezekiel, 4. The Figure of the City; And the City lieth four-square, and the length is as large as the breadth, Equi-lateral, or having all sides equal, keeping exact proportion, firm, solid, stable against all Essays. As x Writers jointly observe, this cubical solid Figure denotes the Churches firmness and immovable stability in all points. 5. The measure of the City and Wall (1) Of the City; And he measured the City with the Reed twelve thousand furlongs, (or, as some Copies read,) 144000 furlongs) the length, and the breadth, and the height of it are equal, vers. 16. furlongs in all dimensions. For this is the undoubted true reading (διδυς χιλιαδες διδυς) according to the Complutensian, Montanus and the Plantinian Copies. Ignorance of the mystery hath made men think the last (διδυς) to redound. Forbes on Rev. 21. 16.

y Her measure is 144:00.

(2) Of the Wall; And he measured the Wall thereof, an hundred forty and four Cubits, according to the measure of a man, that is, of the Angel, ver. 17. The measure of this New Jerusalem, and the Wall thereof, is most exact and mysterious. It seems to have special Relation to, an Harmony with the z Number of the Lambs Virgin-company, viz. 144000, which number is only built and raised upon twelve by Multiplication: so this New Jerusalem is only built upon the twelve Apostles Doctrine, and in all parts and proportions measured thereby, and conform thereto. This Mystery of the Measure of the New Jerusalem, as also in what sence it is said to be, According to the measure of a man, that is the Angel; See more fully discussed and cleared by a Mr. Forbes, and b Mr. Potter, both their Treatises being in

IV. Her Coſtly and Precious Matter or Materials, concerning The Wall, City. Foundations of the Wall, Gates and Street of the City. 1. The Matter of the Wall; And the building of the Wall of it was of Jaſper. By c Jaſper, God was formerly repreſented: This Wall was all of this one Matter and luſtre, God alone being the Defence and ſtrength of his Church. d Andreas thinks this Jaſper denotes the Bleſſed and un-fading life of the Saints. 2. The matter of the whole City, And the City was pure Gold, like unto clear glaſs, ver. 18. The e Whore was curiouſly trimmed, and her Cup guilded, but within full of abominations: But this City not guilded, but pure Gold, tranſparent as Cryſtal. Denoting her ſingular preciouſneſs and purity, no impurity or corruption being hid or concealed in her. 3. The matter and garniſhment of the Walls foundations, all manner of precious ſtones. Twelve precious ſtones according to the number of the XII. Apoſtles being enumerated; And the foundations of the City were garniſhed with all manner of precious ſtones. The firſt foundation was Jaſper, The ſecond Saphir, The third a Chalcedony, The fourth an Emerald, The fifth Sardonix, The ſixth Sardius, The ſeventh Chryſolite, The eighth Beryl, The ninth a Topaz, The tenth a Chryſopraſus, The eleventh an Hyacinth, The twelfth an Amethyſt, ver. 19, 20. Some ſingular Myſtery ſeems hereby to be intended, which as yet Interpreters do not ſo fully underſtand. f Some think, theſe twelve precious ſtones are applyable to the twelve Apoſtles, and deſcribing the Nature and Properties of theſe rich ſtones do accordingly accommodate them ſeverally. g Some conceive, hereby are intimated the variety of precious gifts and graces in the Apoſtles and Evangelical Miniſtry, building one and the ſame Jaſper-wall, and preaching not themſelves, but God. h Some interpret theſe twelve ſtones of the Properties of thoſe eminent perſons that ſhall be inſtrumental in the Jews Converſion. 4. The matter of the twelve Gates; And the twelve Gates were twelve Pearls, every ſeveral Gate was of one Pearl. i Though theſe Gates be twelve in number, for receiving all the twelve Tribes of the true Spiritual Iſrael, and open to all the four corners of the world, yet they are every of them of one Pearl, JESUS CHRIST the only door of the ſheep, and way to the Father. 5. The matt of the ſtreet; And the ſtreet of the City was pure gold, as it were tranſparent glaſs, implying the preciouſneſs, integrity and purity, not only of the Body of the City, but even of the Courſe, Commerce and whole way of the Saints therein, ver. 21.

2. In her Acceſſories. viz. In thoſe ſupplyes from without her ſelf, making up her beauty and glory both full and durable, this new Jeruſalem is further diſplayed. Theſe acceſſory felicities, are;

I. The ſingular Spiritual Preſence of God in Chriſt in the Purity, Truth and Spiritualneſs of Goſpel-worſhip. This Preſence of God in Chriſt affords two grand Priviledges. 1. That God and the Lamb are the Temple, ſo that no external Pædagogy, like that of the Law in a typicall Temple, or Ritual worſhip ſhall be needful: and therefore conſequently the Convert Jews ſhould not expect any ſuch thing; And I ſaw no Temple therein: for the Lord God Almighty and the Lamb are the Temple of it, ver. 22. If the City, Walls, Foundations, Gates, and Street be ſo exceeding precious, as hath been ſhewed: what can proportionably be imagined to be the Temple of that bliſsful City, but God and the Lamb? And that City that's ſo ſpecially crowned with the Preſence of God and the Lamb, may deſervedly be called k Jehovah Shammah, that is, THE LORD IS THERE. 2. That God and the Lamb are the light of it. So that great plenty of ſpiritual light, influence and grace, flow from this bleſſed Preſence of God in Chriſt; And the City had no need of the Sun, neither of the Moon to ſhine in it: for the Glory of God did lighten it, and the Lamb is the light thereof, ver. 23. There's no need of external Luminaries, where the myſtical Sun of Righteouſneſſe ſhines, ſaith l Andreas: Not that there ſhall be then no need of Scriptures, Ordinances, or Church-officers to preach and inſtruct the Church. For theſe things muſt m continue till the end of the world, and therefore till then the Church will need them. But there ſhall be ſuch an increaſe and confluence of n knowledge and grace in compariſon of former times, that the Saints ſhall ſeem as it were, not to have ſuch need of them.

II. The Conflux and great Reſort of the Nations and Kings of the earth to this Jeruſalem, ſhining forth with ſuch divine ſplendour. This Conflux and Reſort of the Nations is Partly Deſcribed; Partly Amplified. 1. Deſcribed by the effects or events of their coming thither. viz. [1] The Nations of them that ſhall be ſaved, ſhall walk in its light; And the Nations of them which are ſaved, ſhall walk in the light of it. viz. They ſhall not only walk to the light, but walk in the direction of the light thereof. [2] The Kings of the earth ſhall contribute to the happineſs of this City, becoming Citizens therein; And the Kings of the earth ſhall bring their glory, and honour into it, ver. 24. The like alſo ſhall the Nations themſelves do; And they ſhall bring the glory and honour of the Nations into it, ver. 26. 2. Amplified by the ſecurity of all that come to be Citizens here. And by the Purity of the Commers and Citizens. Partly by the Purity of all Commers. They ſhall have continual Peace and Tranquility in it, and be abſolutely ſafe and free. [1] From all open force by day. And the gates of it ſhall not at all be ſhut by day. [2] From all ſecret fraud by night; For there ſhall be no night there, ver. 25. So that the gates ſhall never need to be ſhut for fear of enemies. The Beaſt and Falſe Prophet, &c. being deſtroyed: but ſhall ſtill lye wide open to receive all upright Commers. Partly by the Purity and integrity of all that come to be Citizens here. They ſhall not defile it with Paganiſh or Antichriſtian lies, idolatries or abominations. Theſe ſhall never any more prevail; And there ſhall in no wiſe enter into it any thing that defileth, neither whatſoever worketh abomination, or maketh a Lye: but they which are written in the Lambs Book of Life, ver. 27.

III. The abundant plenty of all things for neceſſity and delight. This abundance is Synechdochically comprized under the Water of Life, againſt Thirſt; And the Tree of Life, againſt Hunger; both, for ſuſtaining the life and comforts of the Citizens.

1. This Water of Life is deſcribed, [1] By the plenty of it, A River. [2] By the purity of it, A pure River clear as Cryſtal. [3] By the virtue of it, Water of Life. Not only becauſe it ſtill lives or flows; but becauſe it enlivens them that drink it: [4] By the fountain, or Original whence it flows; from God and the Lamb; And he ſhewed me a pure River of Water of Life, clear as Cryſtal, proceeding out of the Throne of God and of the Lamb, Chap. XXII. ver. 1. This ſeems to allude, either to the pleaſant o Rivers that came through Paradiſe or to the p waters in Ezekiel, flowing out of the Temple. But this River of water is here ſo ſet forth as it far ſurpaſſed them both. Some by this River, underſtand q the moſt plentiful doctrine of Chriſt, which ſhall make them live to whom it flows. But r Others ſeem better to interpret it of the plentiful Communication of the Spirit, with all his enlightning, enlivening, ſanctifying and comforting operations. And Scripture is wont to ſignifie the Spirit & his endowments by Waters, s Well of Waters, t Rivers of living Waters. And this interpretation is the rather confirm'd, in that this River

River is said to proceed out of the Throne of God and of the Lamb: for u the Spirit proceedeth from both the Father and the Son.

u Joh. 15. 26.

2. This Tree of Life, is described, (1) By its Situation, much like the y Tree of life in the midst of the Garden of Eden. In the midst of the street of it, and of either side of the River was there the Tree of Life. So called, because as it ever lives, so it ever enlivens them that eat it. But how can this one Tree be on either side of the River? Answ. The Greek may thus be rendred, In midst of the street of it, and of the River flowing here and there, the Tree of Life. As if the Tree were placed in the midst, so as the River divided into two Armes, should embrace it on both sides; as z Brightman observeth. Or, it extendeth its Roots and Branches to both sides of the River, for supply on every hand, as a Pareus noteth. Jesus Christ is the Tree of Life, who is the spiritual meat and medicine of his Elect. (2) By its fruitfulnesse. The fruit is for food commended here, Partly for the great variety of it: In Christ is wonderful variety against all nauseousnesse; which bare twelve manner of fruites. Partly for the constancy and frequency of it; And yielded her fruit every moneth, viz. Twelve times in a year. So that the fruit of this Tree seems to have a constant Spring, a continued Harvest. Christ shall then be still renewing his fruits of life on his Church.

(3) By its Medicinablenesse: And the leaves of the Tree were for the healing of the Nations, ver. 2. viz. Christ shall cure all spiritual sores and maladies of the Nations that shall come into this City. He is Physick, as well as food.

IV. Finally, the Perpetuity of this City, and its happinesse serves to compleat all its beauty and glory. This is demonstrated in that, 1. The evil that might oppose or corrupt the happinesse, of it shall be quite removed, And there shall be no more curse. 2. The good that causeth and continueth its happinesse, shall be there continually enjoyed. The Throne of God and Christ shall not be translated thence, as it hath been from Jerusalem, and other places; But the Throne of God and of the Lamb shall be in it. 3. Hence the manifold felicity of the Citizens in it, shall by this Presence of Gods and the Lambs Kingdom be perpetuated, viz.

(1) Their habitual service of Christ; And his servants shall serve him, ver. 3.

(2) Their more clear vision of God in Christ, than ever before; And they shall see his face. They shall converse familiarly with God, as it were face to face.

(3) Their open and evident character, evidenceing that they are perpetually devoted to God and to the Lamb; And his name shall be in their foreheads, ver. 4.

(4) Their divine light of joy and consolation from God, so that they shall neither have any more night of darknesse and sorrow, nor need any more supplies of Candle-light, or Sun-light of inferiour refreshments, And there shall be no night there, and they need no Candle, neither light of the Sun, for the Lord God giveth them light.

(5) Their perpetual Reign; And they shall Reign for ever and ever; viz. Their Reign shall be begun on earth, and be continued without interruption, till it be consummated in heaven it self, ver. 15.

Hitherto of the Churches happy state upon her enemies destruction, and of the glory of the new Jerusalem. And here endeth THE BODY or SUBSTANCE of this Book of the Revelation. Next, of the CONCLUSION of the whole Book.

III. THE GENERAL CONCLUSION of this whole Book of the REVELATION tends singularly to Commend this Book and to Confirm the Authority of it. This Conclusion is propounded Diuers-wise, divers Persons being brought in as Speakers, each of them speaking twice: viz. Jesus Christ. The Angel and John. It is full of Majesty and Emphaticalnesse. Now, the Authority of this Book is confirmed, and the excellency of it is commended most notably, viz.

1. By the Angel that revealed it to John. The Angel confirmes and commends this Book. 1. From the truth and faithfulnesse of the things therein revealed; And he said unto me these sayings are faithful and true. 2. From the Author of this Revelation. 3. From the approach of the time for the accomplishment of things revealed; And the Lord God of the Holy Prophets sent his Angel, to shew unto his servants the things which must shortly be done, ver. 6.

2. By Jesus Christ, Christ confirms and commends this Book. 1. From his speedy coming, when every thing in it shall be fully compleated; Behold, I come quickly. 2. From the happy effect of this Book, upon them that keep the sayings thereof; Blessed is he that keepeth the sayings of the Prophecy of this Book, ver. 7.

3. By John himself. John confirms and commends this book. 1. From the certain manifestation of the Matter of this Book to him; And I John saw these things and heard them. 2. From the wonderful operation and impression they had upon John. He was so exceedingly taken and affected with them, that he was ready to have worshipped the Angel that revealed these things to him, had not the Angel forbidden such worship as undue to himself, and only due to God; And when I had heard and seen, I fell down to worship before the feet of the Angel, which shewed me these things. Then saith he unto me, see thou do it not: For, I am thy fellow servant, and of thy brethren the Prophets, and of them which keep the sayings of this Book: Worship God, ver. 8, 9.

4. By the Angel the second time. Now the Angel confirmes and commends this Book. By commanding John not to seal it up in secrecy, that being left open it might be known; And he saith unto me, seal not the sayings of the Prophecy of this Book. This Command he urgeth. 1. From the approach of the accomplishment of these sayings; For the time is at hand, ver. 10. 2. From the double effect that this Book left open and un-sealed, will have, [1] On the Bad, the enemies of Christ, they shall thereby be accidentally irritated to, and hardened in evil; He that is unjust, let him be unjust still: and he that is filthy, let him be filthy still. (2) On the Good, the Members and Elect of Christ, they shall thereby be confirmed and encouraged in their goodnesse; And he that is righteous, let him be righteous still: and he that is holy, let him be holy still, ver. 11.

5. By Jesus Christ the second time. Here Jesus Christ confirms and commends this Book, 1. From the instant approach of his coming, to render reward to both good and bad, according to their works, as is testified in this Book; And behold I come quickly, and my reward is with me, to give every man as his work shall be, ver. 12. 2. From his Eternity, described in three several expressions; I am Alpha and Omega, the beginning and the end, the first and the last ver. 13. Alpha is the first, and Omega the last letter in the Greek Alphabet: here metaphorically applyed to Christ, and exegetically explained by the expressions annexed to it. Now if Christ be the beginning and end; As he gives beginning to the Prophecy of this Book by Revealing it: so he is able to bring this Prophecy to an end, by accomplishing all things revealed in it. 3. From the blessed Reward of them that truly perform the Commandments of Christ in this Book, viz. (1) A Right to the Tree of Life (2) An Admittance thereupon through the Gates into this City, the New Jerusalem; Blessed are they that do his Commands, that they may have right to the Tree of Life, and may enter in through the Gates into the City, ver. 14. Thus their admittance into the City is illustrated by the opposite exclusion, or shutting out of all the wicked, especially those that were guilty of the Abominations reigning in and under Antichrist; whereof six sorts are Enumerated; For without are Dogs, (viz. those that bark and snarle at the Truth of Christ) and Sorcerers, and Whoremongers, and Murderers, and Idolaters; and whosoever loveth and maketh a lie, ver. 15. How notoriously do all these sorts of Miscreants, especially abound and swarm under the Antichristian Papacy? 4. From the Benevolent affection of Christ to the Churches, testified in Revealing the Mysteries of this Book to them by his Angel; I Jesus have sent mine Angel to testifie unto you these things in the Churches: Therefore they should delight to read, understand and observe them. The Person of Christ revealing the Mysteries of this Book is described,

(1) According to the Truth of his humanity, as descending lineally according to the flesh from Davids Royal family; I am the root and Off-spring of David. Therefore the true Promised Messiah, in whom all the Promises are Amen.

(2) According to the splendor and Majesty of his Deity, (as c Pareus thinks) that, (like the Morning Starre brighter then the rest of the Stars, and fore-going the Sun-rising, d out-shines all other lights illuminating us in this world, and manifests himself to us here in this world before the Sun-rising of Eternal Glory; And the bright and morning Star, ver. 16. 5. From the earnest desires and longings of the Bride the Church after Christs coming to accomplish the Prophecies and Promises of this Book for her and to her. These are laid down abruptly, but pathetically; And the Spirit, and the Bride say, Come. That is, either the Spiritual Bride, expressing one thing by two, figuratively. Or, The Spirit saith Come, by enabling the Bride to say Come. As d the Spirit intercedes for us, by enabling us to pray for our selves. This desire of the Bride after Christs coming is Amplified,

(1) By an invitation thereupon to all that shall hear this Prophecy to insinuate the Bride in like longings for Christs coming to fulfill this Prophecy in destroying all his enemies, and advancing his Churches happinesse; And let him that heareth, say, Come.

(2) By a Direction to all thirsty souls, what they shall do till Christ come, viz. Whosoever thirsts, whosoever truly will, should come to Christ by faith and take a sure draught of the water of life freely: till Christ come and fulfil all compleatly; And let him that is athirst come: And whosoever will, let him take the water of life freely: viz. Christ and his Spirit, ver. 17. 6. From the perfection and inviolable compleatnesse of this Book, to which no Addition, from which no Substraction or Diminution is to be made, but under severest penalties of feeling the Plagues or loseing the Privileges mentioned in this Book; For I testifie unto every man that heareth the words of the Prophecy of this Book, If any man shall add unto these things, God shall add unto him the Plagues that are written in this Book: And if any man shall take away from the words of the Book of this Prophecy, God shall take away his part out of the Book of life, and out of the Holy City, And from the things which are written in this Book, ver. 18, 19. Hence, By this Book, the whole Canon of the New Testament is conceived to be closed up and compleated: And that after these Books the Church is no more to expect any New Scriptures. 7. Finally from the instant approach of Christs coming promised according to the Brides desire; This Christ testifies, and ratifies in his own words, as if he were coming already; He which testifieth these things, saith, Surely I come quickly Amen, ver. 20.

6. Finally, By John this book seems to be commended the second time, and that two wayes, viz. 1. By his fervent Prayer and desire, as in the name of the whole Church, Answering, and as it were Ecchoing again to Christs Promise of his speedy coming to fulfil the things revealed in this Book; Even so come Lord Jesus, ver. 20. O blessed coming and desirable to the Bride and to all the Elect! Then all curse, teares and sorrow shall be removed: Then all enemies to the Lamb and his Bride shall be trodden under-foot and subdued: Then the Marriage and compleat enjoyment of the Lamb shall be consummated and e God in Christ fully enjoyed for ever, which is far best of all. To that end let every true Israelite indeed pant and breath out with John after the Lords appearing, and cry with him, Even so Come Lord Jesus; and with the Church, elsewhere, I Make haste, O my beloved, and be thou like to a Roe, or to a young Hart upon the Mountains of Spices. 2. By his Apostolical valediction (A tacit character of an Authentique Apostolical Epistle) to all the seven Churches of Asia, to whom immediately this Book was written and directed in manner of an Epistle. In this Valediction note, (1) The Blessing wished and prayed for, Grace. (2) The Fountain, or Mediatory Mean, of this Grace, Jesus Christ. (3) The Parties from whom this blessing is desired. All of the Asian Churches; The Grace of our Lord Jesus Christ be with you all, AMEN. ver. 21.

a Relativum ἅγιοι refertur non ad personam loquentis Christi: dixisse enim in prima vide ut-supra ad mandata mea: sed ad 3ti Scholion de quo ver. 9. Beatus qui servat verba Prophetiæ hujus libri: Hic repetit: Beati qui servant mandata ejus nempe libri. D. Pareus in Apoc. 22. 14.

e This full enjoyment of God is the Height of all happinesse. As Bernard excellently sets it out, Saying Præmium est videre Deum, vivere cum Deo, vivere de Deo; esse cum Deo, esse in Deo, qui erit omnia in omnibus: habere Deum, qui est Summum Bonum. Et ubi est summum bonum, ibi est summum felicitas summa jucunditas, vera libertas, perfecta charitas, æterna securitas, & secura æternitas: ibe est vera lætitia, plena scientia, omnis plenitudo & omnis Beatitudo.

Sic cum Deo Homo Beatus erit, in cujus conscientia peccatum inventum non fuerit. Videbit Deum ad voluntatem, habebit ad voluptatem, fruetur ad jucunditatem. In æternitate vigebit, in veritate fulgebit, in bonitate gaudebit. Bernard. in Meditat. Devot cap. 4.

POST-

POSTSCRIPT.

THus (through the gracious Assistance of the blessed and only wise God,) I have endeavoured to magnifie him and edifie his Church, in opening and unlocking in some measure, according to the Poverty of my Talent, the rich and heavenly Cabinets of these sacred Books. The Lord make these endeavours truly and continually useful to his people. And g whatsoever I have herein spoken of his, let him acknowledge: what of mine own, let him and his passe by and pardon. Amen.

As Hierome hath well observed, h When we shall be made like Angels and be with Christ, Our learning by Books shall then cease. But whilst we are here below, and i know but in part, see but as through a Glass darkly, Book-learning is necessary. Timothy himself is commanded k to give attendance to reading. For furnishing with solid saving knowledge indeed, no Books in the world are comparable to these of the sacred Bible. l Its far better to read the Scriptures, then to gape after the increase and heaping up of Riches. All wisdome is but folly: all knowledge is but ignorance, that is besides the Scriptures. True Bible-knowledge that's pure knowledge, learning and wisdom indeed. As Hierome commending highly the Holy Scriptures, said to Paulinus: So say I to thee, Christian Reader, touching these Scriptures; m I beseech thee Dear Brother, to live amongst these things, to meditate on these, to know nothing else, to seek nothing; think'st thou not thy self dwelling in an heaven on earth in regard of them?------Oh let us learn these things on Earth: the knowledge of which will persevere with us in Heaven.

g Domine Deus meus, Deus Trinitas; Quæ exegesi dixi ex his libris de me, agnoscant & ami: Si qua de meo, & in ignorãtiâ, & tui. Amen. D. Augustin. de Trinit. l. 15. c. 28. Tom. 3.

h Quamvis nunc scimus universa quæ Scripta sunt, tamen ex parte cognoscimus, & ex parte Prophetamus, & nunc per speculum videmus in ænigmate: cum autem merverimus esse cum Christo, & similes Angelis fuerimus. Tunc librorum Doctrina cessabit. Hier. Com. in Lam. Proem. ad Eustoch. Tom. 5. i 1 Cor. 13. 9, 12. k 1 Tim. 4. 13. l Multo esse Melius Scripturas legere, quam auguendis & cumulandis opibus inhiare. Hier. in Ep. ad Eph. Proem. Tom. 9. m Oro te frater charissime, inter hæc vivere, ita meditari, nihil aliud nosse, nihil quærere; nonne tibi videtur jam hic in terris regni cælestis Habitaculum?——Discamus in terris, quorum nobis scientia perseveret in cælo. Hier. Paulino Tom. 3.

Now unto him that sitteth upon the Throne, the Father of mercies, and God of all Consolation: And unto the Lamb JESUS CHRIST, the Faithful witness; The first begotten of the dead; The Prince of the Kings of the Earth; The bright and morning-starre; the Root and Off-spring of David, that hath the Key of David, that openeth and no man shutteth, that shutteth and no man openeth, that hath also the Keyes of Hell and Death; The Lord of Lords, and King of Kings: The Temple and Light of the New Jerusalem; And the Brightnesse of his Fathers Glory; And unto the Holy Spirit of Truth, the Comforter: Be ascribed all Wisdom, Blessing, Honour, Glory, and Power for ever and ever, Amen.
